It would seem to me that, so far as is possible, directors of projection for theatre chains ought to have authority to deal with managers who refuse to give proper co-operation to the projectionist. I well know that directors of projection have troubles of their own, and plenty of them. It is only relatively recently that the heads of theatre chains have been willing to invest their director of projection with any real authority. Gradually, I believe, the tendency will be to add to that authority, which still is much too limited. However, remembering that the entertainment value of every production will, in the very nature of things, be less than it might be if projection be done in anything less than a perfect manner, in both picture and sound, it would seem that heads of theatre chains might well consider the matter of enabling their directors of projection, if necessary, to force theatre managers to give proper co-operation to the projection staff.

It is fully realized that this is a very difficult matter to handle. It will not do to oppose the views and methods of theatre managers too much, but after all it is not unreasonable to expect a manager to co-operate with the projection staff.

UNWISE PROCEDURE

I HOLD it to be no privilege of mine to tell Europe what it ought to do with reference to projection affairs. I do, however, hold it to be my right to offer respectful criticism of projection procedure.

Many of our citizens, some of them highly efficient, practical motion picture-sound projectionists, and others well versed in projection affairs, have visited Europe during the past decade. Invariably, insofar as concerned France, Germany and some other countries, their criticism of projection has been very sharp. In fact, projection in France has been criticised about as sharply as is possible, with Germany a close second. England has got off better, but the general opinion has been that results even there are decidedly below the level of the United States and Canada.

This brings me to the point of discussing the reasons for this state of affairs. Taking England, for example: That country has available, and in most instances is using, equipment in every way equal to our own, though in most cases not so elaborate. However, there is one highly important feature in projection affairs which English exhibitors and her trade papers do not take into consideration. In fact, they entirely ignore it. I refer in this case to the almost entire failure to turn the spotlight to any degree toward projection.

For more than a a year I wrote on projection affairs for one of the leading British trade papers. I found the management of the paper quite averse to the publication of anything except technical matter intended to be purely educational to projectionists. I am not intending in this to criticize the paper in any way. I am merely setting forth a fact.

Now, the publication of a certain amount of technical matter is most excellent, provided it is in a form that can be assimilated and understood by the average projectionist. However, it is, in my opinion, equally important that matter be published designed to raise the morale of the men—matter designed to instill in them a pride in their work, and thus create in their minds a desire to do the very best work that is possible with the equipment provided.

That has been my general line of procedure for the past 22 years in this work. That it has been very successful has been admitted by even those who hate the very ground upon which I walk because I have stepped too heavily upon their pet projection corns.

In England the men are not protected by an effective organization, with the result (not a criticism, but just fact) that the employer, taking advantage of the fact, pays the least possible wage that men can be secured for.

Gentlemen, that is not a procedure calculated to attract to the business of projection men of high ability, which is required to get the best result before the audience with the finely adjusted, highly delicate equipment now provided. That is one very serious mistake the European exhibitors make, and one reason why projection in those countries is criticised. I venture the assertion that by the reason of the poor results low wages indirectly bring about, the exhibitors of Europe lose a great many times more at the box office than would be sufficient to raise wages to the point where better results would be had. Brains are required to place motion pictures and sound before audiences at their best, and if you want brains, gentlemen, you have got to pay for them.

Another element of equal importance is found in the fact that in Europe the projectionist still is looked and treated merely as a mechanic. According to all accounts, he is regarded nothing more than a hired man placed upon about the same level with the usher. Such treatment operates to retard high-grade work. Men treated thus seldom have any pride in their work. They enter the projection room imbued with the idea of doing as little as they can and still get by.

I think the idea back of this kind of treatment is largely the fear that if treated differently, the men will demand more money, forgetting that more money means better men—men who will give more efficient work and better results, all of which means better box office results.

We have in New York City one theatre that pays its projection staff $686.50 per week, not including overtime. This theatre of course has vaudeville, but the far greater part of its program is motion pictures. It uses the same pictures that are used in Europe, or at least they are largely the same. It is seldom you can enter this theatre from 2 o'clock in the afternoon till 10 at night and get a seat without waiting. Its prices are 50 cents in the afternoon, and 85 cents in the evening.

What is the answer?

It is with pride that we list below a few of our recent installations, on which we furnished all of the Stage Equipment:

Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, New York City
Severance Hall, Cleveland, Ohio
Convention Hall, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania
Westchester County Center Building, White Plains, N. Y.
Earl Carrol Theatre, New York City
Warner Brothers Theatre, Milwaukee, Wisconsin
Warner Brothers Theatre, Erie, Pennsylvania
Fox Theatre, Hackensack, New Jersey
Paramount Theatre, Steubenville, Ohio
Paramount Theatre, Cincinnati, Ohio
Paramount Theatre, Hamilton, Ohio
Paramount Theatre, Middletown, Ohio
Paramount Theatre, Mansfield, Ohio
R.K.O. Theatre, Albany, New York
R.K.O. Theatre, Schenectady, New York
R.K.O. Theatre, Davenport, Iowa

PETER CLARK, INC.
"Stage Equipment with a Reputation"
544 West 30th Street New York City

ALWAYS ENGAGE!
FOR SURPRISINGLY BEAUTIFUL DRAPERIES
FOR PERFECTLY INSTALLED RIGGING
FOR DISTINGUISHED—DECORATIVE INTERIORS FOR INTELLIGENT — ARTISTIC LAY-OUTS

A FEW RECENT INSTALLATIONS

Guild Hall, East Hampton, L. I., Civic Auditorium, Kalamazoo, Mich., Pelham Theatre, N. Y., Embassy Theatre, Reading, Pa., and an impressive number of other glorious installations have recently been completed by us.

Ideas of advanced and superior character submitted without obligation.

NOVELTY SCENIC STUDIOS
BUILT ON MERIT

340 WEST 41ST STREET
NEW YORK CITY

An Enviable Record of Notable Installations

HERE'S A Permanent STAR

Popularity makes stars, and keeps them starring, so the Dayton's a star forever. Since it first started making ladder jobs safe, years ago, the Dayton Safety Ladder has always been a big hit around the theatres. It keeps the workers safe, while doing your tricky ladder work back stage, in the house, out front. Your repair men and maintenance men are always safe on Daytons. They do more work, do it faster and better—that cuts your costs! Daytons are strong, steel-braced, light. In sizes 3 to 16 feet. Moderately priced.

Full information from Dept. BT-10
THE DAYTON SAFETY LADDER CO.
121-123 West Third St., Cincinnati, Ohio

DAYTON
Safety Ladder
(Patented)

Stock carried on Pacific Coast by E. D. Bullard Co., Los Angeles and San Francisco, and by 160 other distributors from coast to coast. Made and distributed in Canada by Percy Hermant, Ltd., Toronto.

BILLY REED: FOR 35 YEARS A PROJECTIONIST

IN GOING over some old papers the other day, I found the accompanying picture of William Reed, the man whom William T. Rock and Walter J. Wainright, 'way back in 1896, engaged as projectionist for their motion picture theatre in New Orleans, one of the first to be established. And "Billy" Reed is projecting motion pictures today!

Rock and Wainright purchased from Raff & Gammon in New York the rights for the state of Louisiana for the exhibition of motion pictures with the Vitascope, invented by Thomas Armat of Washington, and manufactured by Thomas A. Edison. This Vitascope was the first projection machine in the world with which commercial results were achieved, and it became the parent mechanism of the whole art of projection. This machine was the ninth of those manufactured.

At that time Reed was a sort of inspector for Edison, looking after the latter's Kinetoscope, of which there were a considerable number scattered throughout New York, Boston, Providence and other cities. When Rock and Wainright purchased their Vitascope with which to exhibit the embryonic moving pictures, they took Reed with them to New Orleans to run the machine for them. At first the show was put on in an amusement park there, but in the fall of 1896, the two pioneer exhibitors opened up a theatre in Canal Street, with "Billy" Reed as chief projectionist and sole member of his own staff. The accompanying picture was taken at about that time.

Today Reed is a projectionist in Atlantic City, N. J., where he is a member of Local No. 310, I A T S E & M P M O. Thus he must be the dean of American motion picture projectionists.

Because of this, I have often thought that the projectionists of this country might want to present him with some token in commemoration of his venerable position in American projection. For example, an engraved gold case for his I A card. A small sum apiece would do it.

What do you boys think about it?

ACOUSTIC TREATMENT FOR THE HORN AREA

BELIEVING that a man who has for years successfully held the position of Director of Projection for a huge theatre chain like Publix, ought to have most excellent first-hand knowledge of such matters, and having had many requests from small town projectionists and managers for advice concerning sound treatment for screen surroundings, I invited Harry Rubin, director of projection for Publix, to express his views, which he has done, as follows:

"Insofar as concerns light absorbing material for masking in the screen, in my opinion, based upon much practical experience, black velour is quite satisfactory for that purpose. Sound treatment for the screen surroundings is, however, something else again. It is a much more complicated matter.

"The kind of treatment demanded depends largely upon the amount and nature of the space behind the horns. If there is but little space behind or above the horns, we usually wrap or box the horns in Ozite, Elrap or some similar sound absorbing material and let it go at that. On the other hand, if there is considerable space behind the horns, backed by a hard surface wall which will reflect sound well, or if there is a high grid above them, we find much more careful treatment is necessary.

"Taking one of our own theatres, for example, the rear wall is some 20 feet behind the horns, and presents a surface which reflects sound well, so that sound striking this wall and being reflected back from it reaches the ears of the audience something like one-twentieth of a second later than the sound coming directly from the horns. The result, of course, is a sort of 'fuzziness' in the sound as heard by the audience.

"Formerly in this theatre we used a velour drop behind the horns. In addition, we now use a sound-proofing box around the horns. (By sound-proofing is meant that the box is covered with material which absorbs sound) to prevent any considerable amount of it reaching the rear wall. The 'fuzziness' is thus reduced so that it is not objectionably noticeable.

"If a more elaborate treatment had been needed, the sound-proofing box might have been made to extend around the horns to the edges of the screen. This would have acted still further to prevent sound from reaching the back wall. In addition, it would have served to prevent any echo there might have been from passing back through the screen to the auditorium of the theatre.

"Even where the wall is close behind the screen, high grids give some trouble. Sound echoes from the fly loft ooze back, to some extent, into the theatre, arriving as much as a second later than the direct sound. To meet such a condition—we cover the horns with sound-proof boxing, and if further treatment is needed, we close in both horns and the rear of the screen, to prevent so far as possible the sound from passing out into the auditorium."

We thank Director Rubin for his cooperation in this matter. A study of what he has said will, I think, reveal the fact that problems of this kind are largely arrived at through the application of common sense.

PAPER, FILM AND FIRE

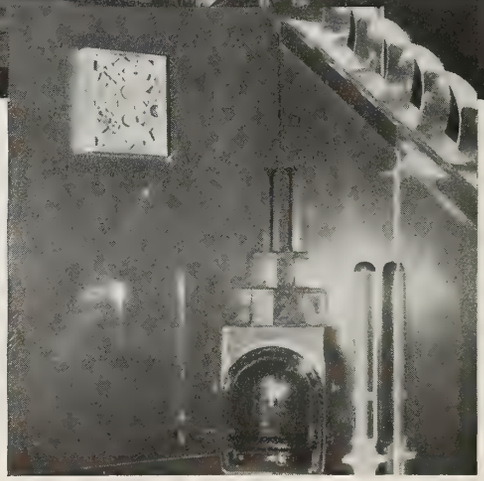
J. R. SEBASCON of Minneapolis, Minn., says, "We always call on you when we want something, don't we? Well, this time I want to know what the temperatures are at which ordinary paper and nitro-cellulose film is set on fire, and just why burning film makes such a fiercely hot fire. In my theatre, in a small town 50 miles from this city, a lot of loose film caught fire a week ago. It was amazing what a hot blaze it made. I thought blaze was blaze, but this seemed hotter than any fire I ever before knew of."

Blaze is blaze, Friend Sebascon, but loose film makes far more blaze in any given space of time than some less inflammable substance, such as coal, for example, would. The reason the fire is so hot is because there is so much of it. If coal would burn as fast as film, I think an equal quantity of it would make exactly as hot a fire, or practically so. But it burns slowly, by comparison, hence does not produce so much heat per unit as does the celluloid.

As to blazing temperatures, according to the best authority I am able to dig up, paper ignites only at a temperature of about 600 degrees, Fahrenheit. The temperature necessary to set it ablaze varies between about 600 and 700, according, I believe, to the structure or composition (or both) of the paper.

Nitrate film will decompose at temperatures approximating 300 degrees Fahrenheit or, if the exposure be prolonged, at a considerably lower temperature. The actual heat produced by film combustion is approximately the same as that produced by burning wood, but its rate of combustion, when in a loose pile, is close to 20 times as fast, bulk for bulk. I have made several inquiries but have been unable to secure any reliable data as to the exact temperature at which film will ignite when thoroughly dry. It is presumed to be not very far from its decomposition temperature, however.

TECHNICAL ASPECTS OF MODERN DESIGN



Picturing in a new way the "architecture" of a theatre—the ultra-modernized Earl Carroll in New York City

IN this and the following two pages we see the dynamic feeling for the materials of architecture reflected in Earl Carroll's new home for his revues —but with the camera focussed upon those features of the design that represent the modern theatre's true organic structure. Here are the aesthetic values propounded by the interesting Austrian, George Keister, and the architectural efficiency contrived by Thomas W. Lamb—but the lens has pointed out those fundamental contributions of the modern theatre engineer. For example, the top view: The console of the "light organ," a pre-set dimmer control system based on today's science of electronics and permitting lighting control from in front of the stage (as Earl Carroll himself demonstrates with some pulchritudinous assistance). The center view shows the immense auditorium seating 3,000, and it is possible to see at the stage apron the trap out of which rises the microphone shown at right—part of the Western Electric address and amplification system distributed throughout the house, this "mike" being used for specialty numbers and combined effects that may be reproduced on and off the stage.

Top view: The mezzanine foyer of the Carroll, showing the stairs leading to the balcony—and the ornamental grille at the stair wall that conceals one of the loudspeakers in address system.

Middle view: Here another grille used ornamentally as a part of the very design, but really concealing, in the main lobby, another loudspeaker—used especially for announcements.

Left: A view of the auditorium from the balcony at show time that indicates the part illumination plays in the whole decorative scheme. Note also the four loudspeakers across the proscenium arch.

technical aspects of modern design

Top view: The lounge located underneath the balcony, with its illumination sources largely incorporated in the very design with mirrors, between metallic-draped pilasters, "amplifying" light.

Middle view: An entirely discreet glimpse of the dressing room where no dressing to speak of is done by the chorus—with special emphasis on the speaker which has done away with a call-boy.

Right: The "heart" of the illumination system, as the console is the "brain." This is the lighting control panel, the electronic tubes of which are at front; and the reactors on the shelves.

technical aspects of modern design

STAGE EQUIPMENT

ASBESTOS CURTAINS
BELAYING PINS
BLOCKS—RIGGING CHANDELIER WINCHES
CLEATS—SCENERY
COUNTERWEIGHT SYSTEMS
CYCLORAMA FITTINGS
DRAW CURTAIN TRACKS
DRAW CURTAIN OPERATORS
GRAND PIANO TRUCKS
KEYSTONES AND CORNERS
LOCKING RAILS PIN RAILS
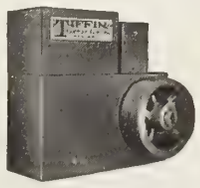
PIPE BATTENS
RIGGING—ALL TYPES
ROLLER CURTAINS
ROPE AND CABLE
STAGE BRACES
STAGE SCREWS
STEEL CURTAINS
TRIM CHAINS
WINCHES



J. H. HANNON CORPORATION
223-233 West Erie Street
CHICAGO

MAIL YOUR TRIAL ORDER TODAY for

HAND PAINTED Rainproof SIGNS 50¢

Each on heavy poster paper in 5 or more attractive colors and artistically airbrushed any size up to 36 in. x 10 ft. Write for prices on other sizes on paper-muslin and cards.
One Day Service — Prices Do Not Include Postage
Get the Best — They Cost Less

H. DRYFHOUT
736 SO. WABASH AVE. CHICAGO, ILL.

THE NEW TIFFIN CURTAIN CONTROL

TIFFIN Scenic Studios TIFFIN, OHIO

COMPLETE STAGE EQUIPMENT

THOROUGHLY QUALIFIED
CAMERA MEN and PROJECTIONISTS
Furnished by our PLACEMENT BUREAU
Address stating your requirements.
"PERSONNEL DIRECTOR"
NEW YORK INSTITUTE of PHOTOGRAPHY
10 West 33rd Street New York
Established In 1910

Insurance: Decisions of Higher Courts

(Continued from page 21)

(176 N. E. 32), a lease contract was held void because after the contract was signed a city ordinance was enacted which prohibited rebuilding of the building, which was damaged more than 60 per cent by fire. This court said:

"The ordinance and the refusal of the building commissioner to grant the permit prevented his compliance with the terms of his contract; therefore we were justified in holding that the lease was at an end. . . . If one covenants to do a thing which is lawful and a statute comes in and hinders him from doing it, the covenant is repealed."

Also, in Metzgar V Conley (82 Ind. App. 520), where a theatre building was almost completely destroyed by fire a short time before a lease therefor was to take effect, the court held that the owner was not bound to rebuild and repair the same and put it in condition for use as a theatre for the reason that the lease was discharged by the destruction of the building.

In still another case (126 N. Y. S. 135), it was shown that a building was leased "to be used and occupied for the purpose of a place of amusement for the exhibition of moving pictures and for no other purposes whatsoever." The licensing of such shows in buildings of this nature was subsequently prohibited by an ordinance. The theatre owner or lessee was discharged from his obligation to pay rent accruing after the passage of such law.

Law of Mechanic's Liens

VARIOUS STATES have enacted laws which require property owners to receive statements under oath from all laborers, subcontractors and materialmen. Failure to do so renders the property owner liable for any unpaid accounts although the principal contractor is paid in full.

For example, in Chapel State Theatre Company V Hooper, (175 N. E. 450), it was disclosed that the Chapel State Theatre Company signed a contract with a principal contractor whereby the latter agreed to build a theatre for the company for $876,756.95. The principal contractor sublet a portion of the work to a subcontractor at the price of $86,965.68. The subcontractor purchased from a materialman material of the value of $15,870.69, which material was used in the construction of the building, and no part of which was ever paid for. The principal contractor paid to the subcontractor money from time to time aggregating $40,000, all of which was expended for labor on the subcontractor's contract. The subcontractor failed to complete the contract and the materialman filed a mechanic's lien on the building to recover $15,000 from the theatre company. The latter attempted to avoid liability by proving that it had paid the principal contractor in full.

However, since the theatre company had failed to obtain sworn statements, in accordance with the state law, showing that all materialmen had been paid in full, the higher court held the theatre company liable for payment to the materialman, and said:

"It is not the design of the mechanic's lien laws to protect the wise and the diligent from the mistakes of the improvident. It might easily occur that a low bid of a subcontractor, made through mistake or inadvertence, would enable the principal contractor to make a large profit, while the laborers and materialmen, or the subcontractor, might suffer loss. Losses to subcontractors are not always due to a low bid, or to improvident or wasteful execution. They are frequently caused by unforeseen obstacles. . . . In the event of the failure to require such certificates to be furnished before making payment to the contractor, the owner bears the risk of the distribution of all payments made to the contractor ratably among all unpaid subcontractors, materialmen, and laborers."

Liability of Contractor for defects

AS A GENERAL rule where a building contractor has honestly endeavored and substantially but not fully performed a building contract, he may recover the contract price, less a deduction to compensate the owner for failure to fully complete the contract. In other words, where defects or omissions in a theatre building are of such a character that they may be remedied, the proper rule for measuring the amount of payment recoverable by the contractor for his work is the contract price less the reasonable cost of remedying the defects or omissions, so as to make the building conform to the contract.

On the other hand, it is important to know that various courts have held that if the defects are so serious that they cannot be remedied, the contractor's measure of recovery is the original contract price less a sum equal to the difference between the value of the building as completed and the building as it should have been completed.

Frequently it happens that a theatre building contains a latent defect that the owner cannot reasonably discover at the time he takes possession. For instance, the material of which it is constructed may be of an inferior quality, or the work may have been so imperfectly done as to render the building or structure of little use or slight value. In such case the owner, although having paid for the building, is entitled to recover damages for the contractor's breach of the contract at the time he discovers the defects or after he has had reasonable time and opportunity, by due diligence, to have discovered the defects.

The latest case involving these important points of the law is Eckhardt V Harder, (294 Pac. 981).

The facts of this case are that a contractor and an owner entered into a contract by the terms of which the former agreed to construct a building. Immediately after the building was completed the owner took possession of it. About six months later one side of the structure began to settle, cracks appeared in the floor and the roof sagged due to insufficient bracing.

The owner sued for damages, and the higher court held the contractor liable, saying:

"If the building was to be constructed in a first class workmanlike manner, and it had the defects above mentioned, and we think the evidence unquestionably shows that it had such defects, then it was not completed in substantially the manner required by the contract. If it was not completed in substantially the manner required by the contract, the respondent (owner) was entitled to damages in a sum equal to the difference between the value of the building as completed and its value, had it been completed in the manner provided by the contract. . . . It is manifest that to measure the owner's damage by the cost necessary to make the building conform to the contract would often be an injustice, because in many instances such cost would amount to almost as much as the original contract price."

Ambiguous Clauses

VARIOUS TERMS are utilized in plans and specifications to define to the contractor the particular kind and grade of work and materials required to be used in specified locations.

Generally speaking, when interpreting the legal meaning of a term used in plans and specifications the court accepts the customary meaning usually recognized by contractors in the locality in which the contract is made. If the custom does not clearly indicate the kind of material intended to be used, the court will refer to a standard dictionary to determine the rights and liabilities of the parties.

For illustration, in the recent case of Gattegno V The Parisian (35 S. W. [2d] 483), it was shown that a property owner entered into a lease contract by the terms of which he agreed to alter certain parts of the premises. One clause of the lease contract provided:

"The space and openings overlooking the corner room from the mezzanine floor shall be enclosed with 'invisible glass.'"

When construing the legal meaning of this term "invisible glass," the court said:

"It is clear that the parties by the use of the expression 'invisible glass' meant opaque and translucent glass, thus giving plaintiff the right to light as it then existed through the space and openings overlooking the adjoining corner room from the mezzanine floor, and that the court properly so interpreted the lease."

Tenant Who Breaches Lease

THE RULE is well settled that upon breach of a lease contract the

HUB

Hub—A Mark of Electrical Superiority

Wherever a Hub electrical installation is made it means that the entire plan has been carefully thought out and efficiently designed.

The entire facilities of our organization are unreservedly placed at the disposal of any one interested in installing the latest in electrical systems or in improving present installations.

Write for a free copy of our comprehensive Handbook of Theatre Lighting. A copy is yours for the asking.

HUB ELECTRIC COMPANY

Sound Reproduction Equipment
Stage Switchboards
Footlights
Borderlights
Stage Pockets
Emergency and Exit Lighting Units

Complete Theatre Lighting Equipment

Factory and General Offices
2219-2225 West Grand Avenue
Chicago
Telephone Seeley 6440-1-2-3
Branch Offices in New York Toledo, Milwaukee, Minneapolis

Cove Lighting
Exit Signs
Spotlights
Service Boards
Panelboards
Usher Signals
Directional Signs
Flood Lights
Mobile Flood Lighting Equipment

SOMETHING NEW For Holiday Lighting

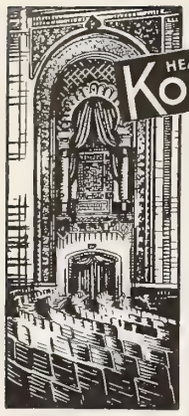
Reco FLOWER-LITE

Make displays more unusual and attractive than ever before with this distinctive decorative lighting unit. For 25 to 100 W. lamps. Single or multi-color combinations.

SEND TODAY FOR BULLETIN 90

REYNOLDS ELECTRIC COMPANY

2651 W. Congress St. Chicago, Ill.



DA-LITE

T. M. Reg.

Super SCREENS

They can demonstrate their own superiority to your satisfaction. Yet they cost no more than ordinary screens. There's a type that will exactly suit your particular needs. Place your screen problems before us.

The DA-LITE SCREEN CO., Inc.
2721 N. Crawford Ave. Chicago

HEALTHFUL Kooler-Aire keeps theatres First Class with pure air!

Foul air is fatal! Keep your theatre fresh and pure this winter—and cool all summer with KOOLER-AIRE, the COMPLETE, proved Air Conditioning System. Custom-built installations. Low prices. Terms. Write!

Kooler-Aire Engineering Corporation,
2110 Kennedy St., N. E. Minneapolis, Minn.

R

METPRO PRODUCTS

Lu-Mi-Nus, Non-Shadow Cast Aluminum Changeable

Letters—

are the original and only letters that lie flat on the glass and cast no disturbing shadows. Recognized as superior to all other changeable letters and fully protected by patent, they are approved by the National Theatre Supply Co.

METAL PRODUCTS, INC., Milwaukee, Wis.
Please send free sample letter (10c enclosed to cover postage) to
M .....
Street .....
City ..... State .....

8 HOUR SERVICE

CIRCUS HERALDS PROGRAMS DATES-POSTERS

EXHIBITORS Printing Service

711 South Dearborn Street
CHICAGO, ILL.

NO MORE LOOSE CHAIRS

Firmastone fastens loose theatre chairs to concrete floors permanently. Simple to use. Chemical cement—Sets in ten minutes. For further information, write us.

FIRMASTONE

GENERAL SEATING COMPANY
2234-36 Fullerton Avenue Chicago, Ill.

LEARN
MODERN THEATRE MANAGEMENT and ADVERTISING

Through approved home-study methods, the Institute has successfully trained hundreds of theatre men. Free particulars.

THEATRE MANAGERS INSTITUTE
325 Washington St. Elmira, New York

owner of the property has three remedies: First, he may sue the tenant as each installment of rent becomes due, or for the whole thereof when it becomes due; second, he may treat the lease as terminated and retake possession of the premises and use the same for his own purposes; or, third, he may retake possession of the premises for the tenant's account and hold the tenant liable in damages for the difference between the rentals provided for in the lease and what in good faith he was able to procure from a reletting.

On the other hand, it is well established that a landlord who elects to take possession and re-rent the property cannot sue and recover damages until the lease has expired.

For instance, in the late case of Treff V Gulke, (297 Pac. 978), it was disclosed that a tenant rented a building under a lease contract. Before expiration of the contract the tenant abandoned the premises. The owner took possession of the property and after several months re-rented it to another tenant. Then the landlord sued the original tenant for damages. However, since the landlord did not wait until the expiration of the lease term before filing the suit, although the lower court held the landlord entitled to a recovery, the higher court reversed this verdict, and said:

"The rule is well settled that where a lease has been repudiated by a tenant, and the premises abandoned . . . the landlord has a choice of but two remedies: He may rest upon his contract and sue for each installment of rent as it falls due. If this alternative be selected, obviously the action must be limited to accrued installments, and no recovery can be had for future installments, because, the lease being still in existence, no obligation to pay the rent arises until each installment falls due. He may take possession of the premises, relet the same, and recover from the tenant any damages suffered thereby. Such damages will be the difference between the amount secured on the reletting and the amount provided for in the original lease. . . . In the present case, the respondent (landlord) having elected to take possession of the premises and relet the same, and to rest upon his action for damages, we must conclude, upon the authority, that his action was prematurely begun, and that the judgment awarding damages to him must be reversed."

Liability for Injury

GENERALLY SPEAKING, a theatre owner will not be held liable in damages for an injury sustained by a patron, unless the evidence clearly indicates that the injury resulted from negligence on the part of the theatre owner or his employes. Moreover, assertions made by the patron that the theatre owner was negligent must be proved conclusively, or the patron will not be held entitled to a favorable verdict.

For example, in the late case of Minton V Creer, (154 Atl. 712), it was shown that a patron sued a proprietor to recover damages for an injury alleged to have been sustained when he slipped on oil which he testified dripped from the door hinges. However, since this contention was not conclusively proved, the higher court held the proprietor not liable, and said:

"No proof was offered as to the exact nature of the grease or oil, or that it actually came from the mechanism of the door, or that the door either had been lubricated or required such treatment."

Use of Premises Not for Public Use

IT IS WELL established that a theatre owner, or other operator of an amusement place, is bound to use care to maintain that portion of his premises safe which is intended to be used by patrons. However, this rule does not apply to parts of the premises not intended for public use.

For illustration, in Karlowski V Kissock (175 N. E. 500), it was disclosed that a property owner permitted an organization to use his ground for the purpose of staging an amusement for charitable purposes. A child was injured as a result of a defective condition on a portion of the premises not intended by the property owner to be used by the patrons. He sued the property owner for damages. In holding the latter not liable, the court said:

"Negligence is the doing or the omission to do some act in violation of a legal duty. There can be no negligence where there is no duty. . . . He (property owner) simply responded to a request that unused land might be temporarily devoted to some charitable end. His permission was wholly gratuitous. . . . His duty was to abstain from reckless, willful or wanton misconduct. He is exonerated from liability to the plaintiff in these circumstances."

Jury's Decisions

GENERALLY SPEAKING, a higher court will not reverse a jury's decision unless the evidence indicates conclusively that such decision is improper in consideration of the testimony submitted.

For instance, in Kress V Stewart (38 S. W. [2d] 189), it was disclosed that a patron made inquiry for the location of the restroom. She was directed upstairs where it was situated. The floor of the restroom was approximately eight inches above the hall floor through which she had proceeded to the restroom. The patron stumbled on the step and was seriously injured. She sued the proprietor for damages and proved that no light was provided at the entrance of the restroom. The counsel for the proprietor argued that the patron was negligent and therefore not entitled to damages. In upholding the jury's decision which held the proprietor liable in damages, the court said:

"As the jury determined the fact issues in favor of appellee (patron) and we have no authority to disturb the findings based on the evidence.

Duty to Remove Snow

IT IS WELL settled that a theatre owner may be liable for injuries sustained by pedestrians as a result of failure of the former to clear the sidewalk of any obstruction, such as snow or ice. Ordinarily, removal of such obstructions relieves the theatre owner from further obligations.

For example, in Mahoney V Perreault (175 N. E. 467), a pedestrian sued to recover damages for an injury sustained as a result of slipping on an icy sidewalk.

There was evidence tending to show that on the Saturday before the accident there had been a heavy fall of snow, which ended the next day, and that on the following Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday the snow had been shovelled off the concrete sidewalk in front of the premises and placed upon the grass plot or tree belt. It is the contention of the pedestrian that her injuries were the result of negligence of the property owner in shovelling snow from the sidewalk upon the grass plot where it melted and ran upon the sidewalk forming ice. It was also contended that the property owner was negligent in failing to spread upon the sidewalk sand or ashes. In holding the property owner not liable, the court said:

"The undisputed evidence shows that after snow fell upon the concrete sidewalk it was removed by the defendant (property owner) by throwing it upon the grass plot. So far as appears there was no other place where he could have deposited it unless he threw it into the street thereby impeding travel, or caused it to be carried away. . . . The defendant (property owner) violated no duty he owed the plaintiff by clearing snow from the sidewalk in front of his premises. He acted within his rights in shovelling it upon the grass plot. . . . A landowner cannot be held liable if he shovels snow from the sidewalk in front of the walk and the curb and it melts and runs over the walk and thereafter ice is formed. . . . This court has repeatedly held that the owner of premises abutting upon a public way has no duty to keep the way clear from snow, ice or water which is upon it from natural causes, or to guard against accident by placing sawdust or other substances upon the sidewalk."

Contributory Negligence

THE LAW IS well established that a pedestrian who is contributory negligent and fails to use care to prevent an injury cannot recover damages from either a theatre owner or a city for an injury caused by a defective sidewalk.

For illustration, in Sloan V American (37 S. W. [2d] 884), it was disclosed that a pedestrian fell into an open elevator shaft which was in the center of the sidewalk. He sued the city and the property owner for damages. During the trial it was proved that a wire screening three and one-half feet high surrounded the hole and that the pedestrian walked against this screening while watching a man across the street. In view of this testimony the higher court held the pedestrian not entitled to recover damages, and said:

"The appellant (pedestrian) was proceeding along the sidewalk in broad daylight. The elevator opening, or at least the barriers 3½ feet high, were plain to be seen. He was not frightened or acting in an emergency. He could have glanced forward from time to time observing his course, but he did not. He could have seen the obstruction a long way ahead. His excuse for not doing so is that he lit a cigarette, and thereafter kept his eyes on a man on the other side of the street. . . . A footman must use ordinary, that is, due care to avoid injuring himself. Such care is the care of an ordinary person under like circumstances. Such care is broad enough to create the duty to look and see where one is going, as well as the duty to avoid danger when actually discovered. . . . He need not be watching at every footfall for defects, but he should act like a prudent person, who makes reasonable use of his eyes while walking. He cannot shut his eyes, or blindfold himself, or walk backward, or not look about him at all, or, under the assumption that no defects exist walk heedlessly into obvious ones."

Compressor Motors in Cooling Plants

(Continued from page 11)

to speed and be synchronized before the clutch is thrown in and allowed to gradually pick up the compressor load. This is also costly and increases the space required for the equipment.

Various unloading devices are now being experimented with by different manufacturers, and it is possible that before long they will remove the obstacle of automatic operation of synchronous-motor driven plants. Unloading devices have been used successfully on air compressors and although the conditions are somewhat different for refrigerating machines, it should be possible to work out this system. The torques given in the above table are, of course, standard and it is possible for engineers to design motors with considerably more starting and pull-in torque. In doing so, however, it is necessary to increase greatly the size of the machine and usually operate at leading power factor. The inrush is also greatly increased, so often the advantages are not worth the increased cost.

WHILE MOST CO_2 compressors can be started by the standard synchronous motors, provided they are bypassed, the single-cylinder horizontal compressor requires in the neighborhood of 70% starting torque, and manufacturers of motors supply special designs for this application.

An important characteristic of a compressor load is the fact that it is pulsating,

CASH CONTROL GRC SYSTEMS TRADE MARK

PROTECT YOUR CASH RECEIPTS with these Latest Model 1931
General Register Salesmen

AUTOMATIC
GOLD SEAL REGISTERS

SIMPLEX TICKET
REGISTERS

Speed—Accuracy—
AND Efficiency
IN DISPENSING TICKETS

Liberal Allowance on Your Old Register

LOS ANGELES OFFICE
420 So. San Pedro Street
Our only Chicago Office is our affiliated Company, the Automatic Simplex Register Corporation
1018 So. Wabash Avenue

GENERAL REGISTER CORPORATION
Paramount Bldg., Times Sq.
NEW YORK
J. C. Enslen, Gen. Sales Mgr.
"Service After Sales"

DEPENDABLE
GARVER
KURRENT
CHANGER

Quiet in operation. Does not interfere with sound system or radio. Recommended by three leading lamp manufacturers as the ideal rectifier for low intensity projection. Write for complete information today.

GARVER ELECTRIC CO.
UNION CITY, INDIANA

ASK YOUR DEALER

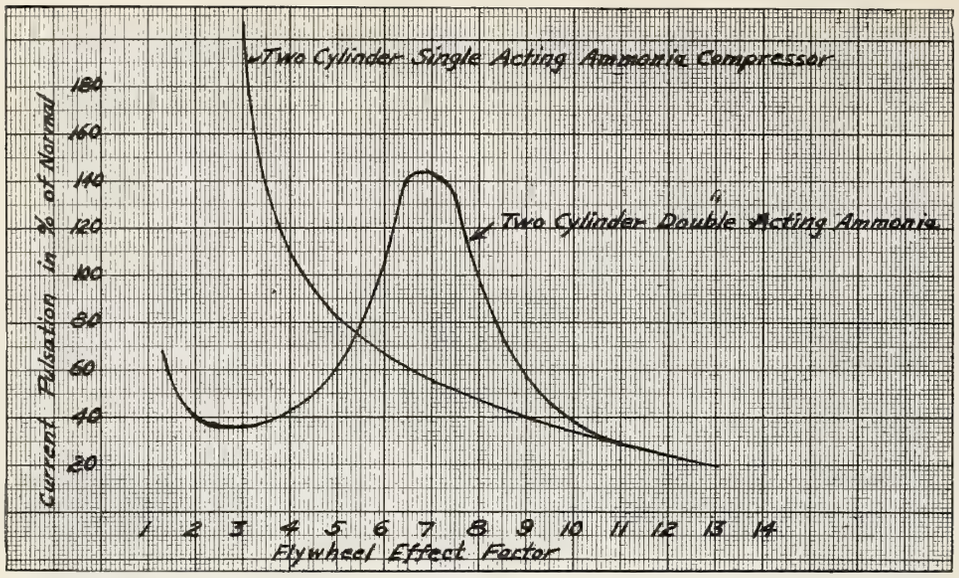

Chart showing flywheel effect on current pulsation.

and this in turn draws a pulsating current from the power company's lines. Motor and compressor manufacturers have experimented for years on the correct application of flywheels to limit this current pulsation to values which the power companies feel will not affect their service to other consumers. A standard current pulsation of 66% or less has been found suitable for most power company requirements, although certain territories require 40% or less for most installations. Since these values have been fixed, and particularly since the speeds are increasing, it is usually economical, both from the cost and space saving standpoint, to incorporate the flywheel effect required in the rotor of the motor. As the flywheel effect required, assuming everything else the same, varies inversely as the square of the speed, low speed machines may occasionally be supplied with an auxiliary flywheel, or economies can be effected by placing the rotor on the outside, since the flywheel effect of any rotor varies as the square of the distance from the center of the wheel to the effective center of its weight. For most compressors the greater the flywheel effect, the lower will be the current pulsation.

However, it is interesting to note that in the case of two-cylinder, horizontal, double-acting machines, this is true to a certain point, beyond which increased flywheel effect tends to increase the current pulsation. Still further increase of flywheel effect will again bring the current pulsation down, but as the cost for this extra-large effect is usually very heavy, it is always desirable to try to design the equipment for the lower values. A curve showing this condition, with a typical curve for the two-cylinder, single-acting machines, is shown in the accompanying chart.

From the foregoing, it is evident that the slow-speed synchronous motor does not lend itself to starting against full load. This is a characteristic of its design and it should not be expected to perform the impossible. When an attempt is made to start the motor against an excessive load, the rotor may not turn. Should the motor be left on the line in this condition, it is very liable to become damaged. It is evident by again referring to the table that the locked rotor inrush is about 300%, and this excessive current is more than the windings can continually stand. When the rotor is free to turn, the inrush falls as the speed increases, and thus for normal operation, the inrush is usually figured at 75% of the locked rotor value, which would be approximately 225% of full load current. The writer has been on jobs where the operator was trying to start the unit by throwing the motor continually on the line, although the rotor remained at a standstill. Upon investigation, it was found that the compressor was not unloaded, and the rotor couldn't be turned over with a crowbar. As soon as the condition was remedied, the unit operated satisfactorily.

OFTEN THE LOAD on a compressor is such that the motor can start to turn over and come up to probably 50% or 75% of its speed, but cannot come up to a point close enough for synchronizing. If the motor is permitted to operate in this condition, which is as a squirrel-cage induction motor at reduced speed, it will be damaged in a short time. Fortunately the cost of pushbutton starters for synchronous motors is not much greater than that of hand-operated starters, and instead of the operator being in full control and able to keep the motor on the line and in synchronizing, this can be taken care of by the starter. By obtaining starters with the proper features, it is possible to protect almost completely the motor against poor handling. This brings us to the subject of the synchronous motor control.

The function of the starting control is not only to throw the motor on the line and then to switch the direct current to the field circuit when the proper speed for synchronizing is obtained, but also it should protect the motor against excessive loads, single phasing, voltage failure, etc. Protection against loads should not only be on running loads, but on starting loads as well, for any continuous excessive load will damage the motor. Any control will usually have overload protection, but when these overloads are set to stop the motor when the load reaches from 110% to 125% of normal, they cannot be used in the same circuit for starting protection and are either cut out of the starting circuit altogether, or on the better equipments, are used to protect the motor during starting by some means which will proportion the starting current to a value on which the overloads will operate. If this latter feature is installed on the control, and the operator holds the starting button trying to start against a dead load too excessive, or one which cannot be brought up to speed, the main switch will not stay in.

It was previously explained that the discharge resistance was used also in starting so the control will then be arranged to insert this resistance in a closed circuit with the field during starting, and remove it from the circuit during running conditions. This is accomplished by the field switch with an auxiliary contact, but before discussing this, it might be well to understand the method of synchronizing.

The tabulation indicates a pull in torque of 40%, which is at about 95% speed. Therefore, the motor must be synchronized at this speed. There are various methods of doing this, but whatever method is used, it must be relied on to act shortly after the motor reaches this speed and never before. As the motor speeds up, the current —induced in the field—falls, and this can then be employed as a means of synchronizing. Also, under normal conditions, the motor will come to speed in a definite period of time, which may also be used, provided precaution is taken that it will not synchronize after the elapsed time if conditions are not correct. Depending on the method used, the relays will serve to actuate an automatic contactor called the field switch, which places the direct current on the rotating field. This switch has an auxiliary contact that cuts in and out the field discharge resistance. The exciter motor-generator set is either started by a separate pushbutton before the main motor is started, or it can be arranged to start on the same pushbutton as the motor. If a belted generator is used, excitation will be available when the motor comes up to speed.

THE WRITER believes the operator can better care for a plant if he understands the functions of the equipment, as here explained. In addition it may be of value to mention a few other factors.

The exciter brushes should be inspected and cleaned at stated intervals. Often the top brush sparks excessively, and the operator cannot seem to determine the cause. The reason is usually because it is carrying twice the load it was designed for, due to the lower brush sticking in the holder and not touching the commutator. Exciters are very often mounted on the floor. The lower brush is hard to get at and is never cleaned. Often oil dripping from an overflowing bearing binds the carbon dust in this holder, when all other brushes are apparently clean.

EQUIPMENT AFFAIRS

General Equipment News and Comment

NEW S. M. P. E. HEAD

● An event of importance to the theatre equipment field in general was the election of Dr. Alfred N. Goldsmith, vice president and general engineer of the Radio Corporation of America, as president of the Society of Motion Picture Engineers. The vote, taking place at the fall meeting of the society at Swampscott, Mass., places at the head of the industry's principal clearing house for ideas in all kinds of motion picture engineering, a man who carries not only the prestige of one of the world's great industrial organizations, but a man who is also intimately identified with many activities of scientific importance.

In succeeding John I. Crabtree as president of the S. M. P. E., Doctor Goldsmith assumes responsibility for carrying on the work of an enterprise which, during Mr. Crabtree's incumbence, developed greatly as an agent of advancement in this industry, with its significance to the equipment manufacturer becoming more and more apparent.

Doctor Goldsmith has always been active in activities beyond his immediate field of endeavor. He is a former president of the Institute of Radio Engineers, and was only recently appointed to the board of the American Standards Association. He conducted the radio research laboratory and taught electrical engineering at the College of the City of New York from 1907 to 1917.

Besides the affiliations mentioned, he is a fellow of the Institute of Radio Engineers, fellow of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, a member of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, of the Acoustical Society of America, and of the American Physical Society. He is also an honorary member of the Radio Club of America.

Doctor Goldsmith assumes the presidency of S. M. P. E., not without a record of official service to this organization of motion picture scientists, having served at one time as chairman of the ways and means committee of the society—when, we take it, ways and means were an all-important matter. His direct connection with motion picture affairs began with his appointment as vice president in charge of engineering of RCA Photophone.

VENTILATING EXHIBIT

● In January, from the 25th to the 29th, the American Society of Heating & Ventilating Engineers will hold its second exposition. Much of the work of this organization is, of course, not of direct interest to the motion picture theatre owner or architect. But since many phases of air conditioning are extremely important to the theatre, some of the developments that will undoubtedly be brought out at this exposition, should have definite interest to the film world.

It should have, perhaps, unusual interest —at least if air conditioning engineers are alert to the possibilities in this field. Most theatres, for instance, are not equipped with air conditioning facilities in keeping with the demands of the public or commensurate with the advancements of this science. This is not only true of small cities, but it is the common condition among neighborhood houses in large cities.

One reason for this deficiency is the high cost of proper air conditioning equipment. The average theatre cannot afford it. In other words, the average theatre cannot afford to be comfortable unless the weather permits it to be. Unquestionably, the time is coming when we shall not have to be dependent upon weather or climatic conditions in any public building—perhaps not even in the home. The theatre, however, has to adjust itself very nicely to the reactions of the public to any sort of stimulus, because it is a place where a great variety of people gather in large, compactly allocated numbers, for the purpose of enjoying themselves. It therefore cannot afford to wait while air conditioning technics takes its own good time in evolving reasonably economical means of modern ventilating and cooling. The theatre therefore represents a field in which the American Society of Heating & Ventilating Engineers might well show its most immediate interest. If it can provide for the average theatre, it can provide for any other type of building.

A feature of the 1932 exposition, which will be held in Cleveland, will be the oil burner, gas heating and domestic stoker displays, which probably represent the modern methods of fueling.

RUG REHABILITATION

● A process of renewing rugs has been evolved by the Nu-Process Rug & Carpet Dyers of Chicago, the general manager of which is Jack Kaplan, formerly of Radio-Keith-Orpheum, Loew and B & K.

The company declares that the process permits renewal of rugs in eight hours with the result being sun-proof, color-fast and impervious to stains.

FUTURE OF LIGHTING

● Even though the light-producing efficiency of the incandescent lamp is less than 10%, few, if any, radical improvements can be expected in it. That rather

(Continued on page 66)

A New Type Of Theatre?

The industry has been wondering about certain small theatres that have made their appearance during the last six or eight months, with others promised.

Some call them automatic theatres. Some call them by names less publishable. Are they only for newsreels? Or do they represent a deflation of the deluxe house?

What are they, then, as a business venture—and how best to plan them, in both architecture and operation?

Because these are all very interesting questions, a serious, energetic attempt will be made to answer them in the Fall Buyers Number—next Better Theatres. There will be articles—sketches—plans.

In the Fall Buyers Number —the November 21st issue

RADIO-MAT PATENTED

RADIO-MAT SLIDE CO. MAKERS

MR. SUPPLY DEALER

Visual Educators Who Have Used RADIO — MAT — SLIDES Become Radio Mat Enthusiasts

The educational field in your territory offers you a large sale for RADIO-MAT SLIDES.

Do You Sell Your Local Schools?

If Not—Why Not?

NEW YORK

IS THE STATIONERY OF THE SCREEN

Motion Picture Patents My Specialty

PATENTS

William N. Moore

Patent Attorney

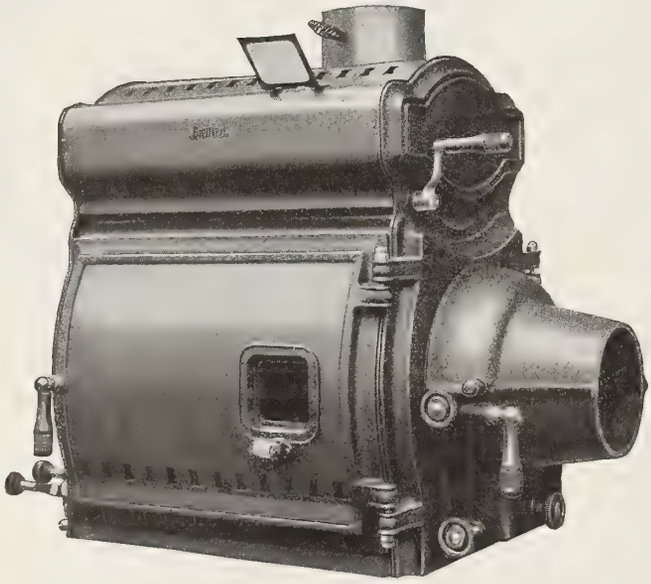
Loan and Trust Building
Washington, D. C.

The first important step is to learn whether you can obtain a patent. Please send sketch of your invention with $10, and I will examine the pertinent U. S. patents and inform you whether you are entitled to a patent, the cost and manner of procedure. Personal attention. Established 35 years.

Copyright your play $5.00
Trade-Mark your goods or titles $30.00

Theatre Equipment
NEW AND USED

Sound Equipment, Moving Picture Machines, Screens, Opera Chairs, Spotlights, Stereopticons, Generator Sets, Reflecting Arc Lamps, Carbons, Tickets and Supplies, Projection Machines repaired and overhauled. Everything for the Theatre. Write for Catalog "H"



MOVIE SUPPLY CO.
844 So. Wabash Ave., Chicago

Brenkert

SUPER HIGH INTENSITY PROJECTION LAMP

is consistently producing superior screen results in many of the finest theatres from coast to coast.

Arrange with your nearest independent supply dealer for a demonstration in your theatre.

Ask Any User

Brenkert PRODUCT

Write for Literature

CORRECT DESIGN—PRECISION CONSTRUCTION

BRENKERT LIGHT PROJECTION CO.

Engineers and Manufacturers

ST. AUBIN AT EAST GRAND BLVD. DETROIT

For Years the Projection Room Manuals—

RICHARDSON'S MOTION PICTURE HANDBOOKS

Vols. 1 and 2 - - - - - - - -	$ 6.20
Vol. 3 (on sound only) - - -	$ 5.10
Combination price (the 3 volumes)	$10.20

Also

Building Theatre Patronage - -	$ 5.10

By BARRY & SARGENT

All Written in Response to Practical Theatre Needs

We Are Handling Them for the Convenience of the Trade

MOTION PICTURE HERALD BOOKSHOP

1790 BROADWAY

NEW YORK, N. Y.

NEW THEATRE PROJECTS

FOLLOWING is a list of new projects in motion picture theatre construction compiled from reports available on October 20. The list also includes remodeling projects and contracts awarded. An asterisk before an item indicates that additional information has been received since a previous report.

Theatres Planned

Arizona

HOT SPRINGS—C. M. Jenkins plans the erection of a one-story brick and stone-trim picture theatre.

California

LOS ANGELES — M. M. Hansen, 6025 Hollywood Boulevard has plans in preparation for proposed new theatre to be located on Wilshire Boulevard.

District of Columbia

WASHINGTON — Bids have been asked by J. J. Zink, architect, 2826 Overland avenue, Baltimore, Md., for a one-story brick, steel and concrete theatre to be located on Connecticut avenue, near Newark street, for H. M. Crandall, 4530 Sixteenth street. Cost estimated, $250,000.

Georgia

STATESBORO—Ernest Collins, this city and Vidalia, Ga., who recently acquired two store properties, plans converting into modern theatre. P. G. Walker will be in charge of the work.

Louisiana

ABBEYVILLE—R. J. Montagne has plans by Charles Davis, 1204 Jackson avenue, New Orleans, for a modern brick theatre, 50 by 121 feet.

Maryland

CUMBERLAND — Capitol Theatre Company, Mrs. Grace Fisher has plans by Hodgens & Hill, 130 South Fifteenth street, Philadelphia, for a one-story modern brick theatre.

Massachusetts

NEWTON—Garden City Auditorium, Inc., 75 Deerfield street, Boston, Mass., has plans by Henry & Richmond, 12 West street, Boston, Mass., for a two-story brick and stone-trim theatre to be located at 1300 Washington street, West Newton. Cost estimated, $150,000.

New Jersey

ENGLEWOOD—M. & R. Realty Company, S. Lippman and L. Gottlieb, 401 East Twenty-seventh street, Paterson, N. J., has plans by Eugene DeRosa, 18 East Forty-first street, New York, for a two-story brick theatre, store and office building to be located at 16 West Palisade avenue. Cost estimated, $150,000.

RED BANK—Boylan & Levine, architects, 143 Albany street, New Brunswick, N. J., are taking bids on general contract for a two-story brick theatre for the Red Bank Amusement Company.

*WESTFIELD — Realty Investment Company, R. L. De Camp, secretary, 566 Colonial avenue, will not rebuild Rialto Theatre. Plans call for a two-story brick and steel building. Project in abeyance. Architect not selected. Cost estimated, $150,000.

New York

LARCHMONT—Palley & Rosenthal, care Bronxville Theatre, 80 Kraft street, Bronxville, N. Y., plans erection of a new theatre, store and office building at Palmer avenue and Chatsworth street. Cost estimated, $150,000.

*NEW YORK — Melrose Bond & Mortgage Corporation, P. Murphy, president, 560 Melrose avenue, has plans by Eugene DeRosa, 18 East Forty-first street, for a two-story brick theatre to be located at Grand Concourse and Mt. Eden avenue. Project in abeyance. Cost estimated, $175,000.

North Carolina

CANTON—Strand Theatre, W. H. Odum, manager, plans the erection of a balcony theatre on State Highway No. 1P at Park avenue and Adams street, 50 by 115 feet, with seating capacity of 1250. To be equipped with upholstered opera chairs, Simplex machines, Western Electric devices. To be operated by Mr. Odum and M. C. Sprinkle, proprietor of the Canton Ice & Coal Company.

Texas

HOUSTON—William Horwitz plans about four community center picture houses. Construction to be under the supervision of Eddie Bremer. Plans in preparation.

Remodeling

Massachusetts

NEW BEDFORD—Zeiterion Realty Company, 674 Purchase street, has plans by F. A. Walker, First National Bank Building, for the remodeling of a one-story brick theatre on Union street. Cost estimated, $150,000.

New York

NEW YORK — Alurion Realty Corporation, W. T. Knight, president, 60 Wall street, will take bids early in November on general contract for alterations to theatre at 254 West Forty-second street. Thomas W. Lamb, architect, 707 Seventh avenue. Cost estimated, $500,000.

Contracts Awarded

California

LOS ANGELES—Walter H. Leimert Company, 8107 Vermont avenue, has awarded the contract to Lindgren & Swinerton, Inc., 225 Bush street, San Francisco, for the erection of a reinforced concrete theatre. Cost estimated, $200,000.

LOS ANGELES—West Side Land Company, 4322 Crenshaw Boulevard, has awarded the general contract to Lindgren & Swinerton, 523 West Sixth street, for the erection of a new theatre. Cost estimated, $140,000.

LONG BEACH — United Artists Theatres of California has awarded the contract to Henry Beller Construction Company, 6513 Hollywood Boulevard, Los Angeles, for the erection of a one-story reinforced concrete theatre, 100 by 144 feet, to be located at 209-23 E-Ocean Boulevard. Cost estimated, $118,000.

Connecticut

OLD LYME—R. G. Bloomer, Ridgewood, N. J., has awarded contract to Pieretti Brothers, Centerbrook, N. J., for the erection of the one-story brick Colonial Theatre, 60 by 145 feet. Cost estimated, $150,000.

Maryland

FEDERALSBURG — Federalsburg Amusement Company has awarded the contract to H. T. Seymour, Easton, Md., for the erection of a one-story brick theatre, 105 by 50 feet.

Massachusetts

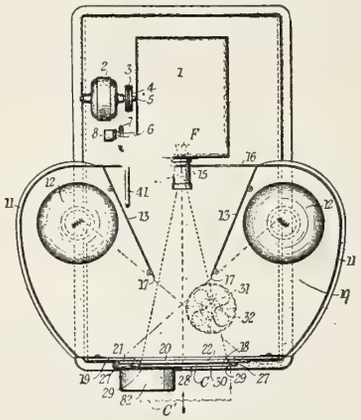
BROOKLINE — Paramount - Publix Theatres, Paramount Building, New York, has awarded the contract to F. J. Van Etten, 250 Stuart street, Boston, for the erection of a new theatre.

Missouri

MONETTE—M. E. Gillioz, contractor, has started work on brick, terra-cotta and stone-trim Georgian-Colonial type theatre at Sixth street and Broadway, 54 by 140 feet, with seating capacity of 712. Estimated cost, $75,000.

Pennsylvania

BRADFORD—Imperial Chain Theatres, Inc., Clark Building, Pittsburgh, Pa., has awarded the contract to Miller Construction Company, Empire Building, Pittsburgh, Pa., for the erection of a one-story brick theatre, 80 by 145 feet, including wing 24 by 80 feet, with seating capacity of 1,600. Cost estimated, $200,000.

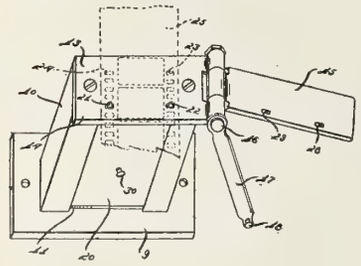


Virginia

ROANOKE — Community Theatre Corporation, C. G. Lindsey, president, has awarded the contract to Eubank & Caldwell, Boxley Building, for the erection of theatre on Granda road, Virginia Heights, with seating capacity of 1000. Cost estimated, $150,000.

VIRGINIA BEACH—C. M. Bayne and R. B. Walls, 734 Shirley avenue, Norfolk, Va., have awarded the contract to R. P. Richardson & Company, National Bank of Commerce Building, Norfolk, for the erection of a two-story brick fireproof theatre at Sixth street and Atlantic Boulevard. Lessee Roland Amusement Corporation, W. F. Crockett, president. Rudolph, Cocke & Van Leeuwen, architects, Arcade Building, Norfolk. Estimated cost, $40,000.

New Inventions . . . illustrated descriptions of devices related to motion pictures and allied crafts, recently published by the U. S. government and selected for Better Theatres by William N. Moore, patent specialist of Washington, D. C.

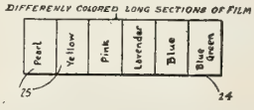


1,763,231. MOTION-PICTURE TITLE-MAKING MACHINE. Edwin C. Fritts, Rochester, N. Y., assignor to Eastman Kodak Company, Rochester, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Aug. 26, 1927. Serial No. 215,609. 17 Claims. (Cl. 88—16.)

1. In a photographing machine, the combination with an enclosed chamber having an exposure opening therein, of means for evacuating air from the chamber, whereby a card to be photographed may be held against the exterior edges of the exposure opening, and a camera on that side of the opening toward which the card is held and focused on the plane of the opening for photographing that side of the card so held that faces the chamber.

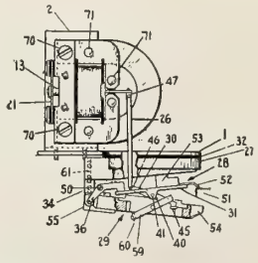
6. In combination, a support for an object to be photographed, a motion picture camera positioned to photograph a card at the support, a film footage indicator, a measuring device mounted on the support and controllable by a card positioned thereon for controlling the operation of the film footage indicator.

1,771,394. FILM SPLICER. Jacob Antonuk, Hamtramck, Mich. Filed Feb. 20, 1928. Serial No. 255,569. 1 Claim. (Cl. 154—42.)



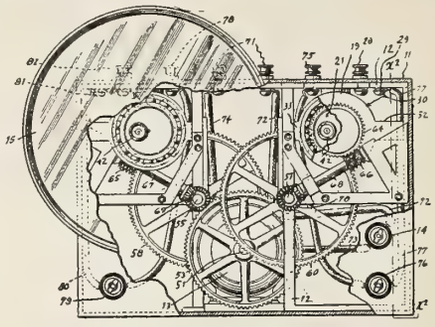
A device of the class described, comprising: a block having a groove formed in one face; a plate slidably mounted in said groove; a pair of spaced prongs projecting upwardly from the upper edge of said plate; a supporting plate mounted on said block and provided with openings for the reception of said prongs; a presser member swingably mounted on one end of said supporting plate and positioned with one of its edges set inwardly of one of the edges of said supporting plate and provided with openings for the reception of said prongs; and a cutting member swingably mounted and adapted upon swinging movement in one direction for pressing closely against said edge of said supporting member.

1,808,046. FILM OF MAGNETIZABLE MATERIAL FOR EPISCOPIC PROJECTION. Heinrich Küchenmeister, Berlin, Germany. Filed Jan. 30, 1928. Serial No. 250,734, and in Germany Feb. 7, 1927. 11 Claims. (Cl. 88—16.2.)



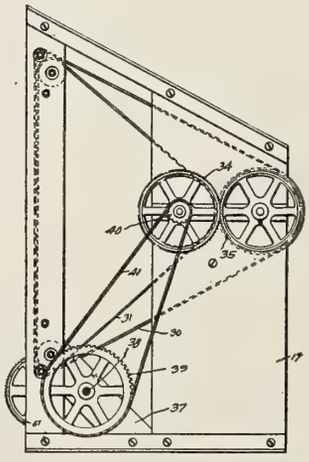
1. A moving picture and sound record band consisting of a metal band having a magnetic sound record, and of a coating extending over the surface of said band, said coating being provided with photographic sound and picture records for episcopic projection, at least one of said last two records overlying said magnetic record.

1,769,518. FILM FOR PICTURE AND SOUND REPRODUCTION. Loyd A. Jones, Rochester, N. Y., assigner to Eastman Kodak Company, Rochester, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Apr. 12, 1929. Serial No. 354,650. 12 Claims. (Cl. 88—162.)



8. A series of strips of motion picture film each having a photographic layer over its entire area and a uniform dye layer over its entire area, the dye layers of the several strips being visibly differently colored but having to approximately the same limited degree the characteristic of transmitting radiations in the same definite portion of the spectrum, whereby said film strips are adapted to have sound and picture records formed thereon and to be assembled together sequentially for the projection of series of differently tinted motion pictures and for the uniform reproduction of sound by means of a cell predominantly sensitive to radiations in said definite portion of the spectrum.

1,762,175. ELECTRIC SOUND RECORDING AND REPRODUCING APPARATUS. Charles Huenlich, Bloomfield, N. J., assignor to Thomas A. Edison, Incorporated, West Orange, N. J., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Oct. 13, 1928. Serial No. 312,228. 11 Claims. (Cl. 179—100.41.)



11. An electrical sound recorder and reproducer, comprising, in combination, a frame, a pair of floating supports, carried by said frame, recording and reproducing levers carried by said supports respectively, a magnet, an armature mounted for vibration in the field of said magnet, and with which each of said levers is arranged to have vibration-transmitting connection, and means for establishing and for rendering inoperate at will vibration-transmitting connection between said armature and one of said levers.

1,769,608. TELEVISION DEVICE. Frank Ryuzo Tanimoto, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed Sept. 1, 1928. Serial No. 303,587. 4 Claims. (Cl. 178—6.)

1. In a television device, the combination with a frame, of an impressing cylinder operatively mounted therein, means for actuating the impressing cylinder with a high speed of rotary movement, a reflector at one end of the impressing cylinder and arranged to project light fluctuations into the cylinder, means within the reflector for translating electric energy into light and light into electric energy, a projecting and rotatable lens analyzer at the opposite end of the impressing cylinder, means for actuating the rotatable lens analyzer with a relatively slower speed of rotary movement, projecting lens mounted in the rotatable lens analyzer, said projecting lens having inclined and eccentric axis, and a projecting screen mounted in the wall of the housing and in axial alignment with the projecting and rotatable lens analyzer and impressing cylinders.

1,768,893. TELEVISION APPARATUS. Ernest Deutsch, Chicago, Ill. Filed May 9, 1929. Serial No. 361,824. 7 Claims. (Cl. 178—6.)

1. In a device of the character stated, cooperating means having angularly disposed openings therein, means for operating said first named means to successively move portions of said openings into alignment whereby the portions of said openings will align in a plane extending transversely of said first named means, and means for moving said first named means whereby said portion of corresponding openings will successively move into alignment in planes parallel to said first named plane but disposed from alignment therewith.

ALPHABETICAL LIST OF ADVERTISERS

A

American Seating Company.....Fulton Insert
Automatic Devices Company..... 33

B

Basson & Stern.....Fulton Insert
Best Devices Company..... 30
Bigelow-Sanford Carpet Company, Inc..... 8
Blizzard Sales Company.....Fulton Insert
Brenkert Light Projection Co..... 60

C

Century Electric Company..... 3
Channon, J. H., Corporation..... 54
Chicago Expansion Bolt Company..... 31
Clark, Peter, Inc..... 49

D

Da-Lite Screen Company..... 55
Dayton Safety Ladder Company..... 49
Dryfhout, H., Company..... 54

E

Enterprise Optical Mfg. Co.....Fourth Cover
Exhibitors Printing Service..... 56

F

Film Fire Prevention Company..... 23
Fulton, E. E., Company.....Fulton Insert

G

G-M Laboratories, Inc..... 30
Garver Electric Company..... 57
General Electric Company.....Fulton Insert
General Register Corporation..... 57
General Seating Company..... 56

H

Hall & Connolly..... 46
Hertner Electric Company, The..... 27
Heywood-Wakefield Company..... 6
Hoffman-Soons 44
Horton Manufacturing Company..... 30
Hub Electric Company..... 55

I

International Projector Corporation...Third Cover

K

Keasbey & Mattison Company..... 28
Kooler-Aire Engineering Corporation..... 56

Mc

McAuley, J. E., Mfg. Company..... 26
McGraw-Hill Book Company, Inc..... 24

M

Mellaphone Corporation 23
Metal Products, Inc..... 56
Minusa Cine Screen Company.....Fulton Insert
Moore, William N..... 59
Movie Supply Company..... 59

N

National Carbon Company.....Second Cover
National Theatre Supply Company..... 25
New York Institute of Photography..... 54
Novelty Scenic Studios..... 49

P

Projection Optics Company, Inc..... 46

R

Racon Electric Company, Inc..... 44
Radio-Mat Slide Company..... 59
Raven Screen Corporation..... 23
Reynolds Electric Company..... 55
Roth Brothers & Company (Division of Century Electric Company)..... 3

S

S.O.S. Corporation 24
Sloane, W. & J..... 5
Sosman and Landis Company.....Fulton Insert
Steel Furniture Company..... 29
Strong Electric Corporation, The....Fulton Insert
S. S. Sugar..... 47

T

Theatre Managers Institute..... 56
Tiffin Scenic Studios..... 54

W

Walker-American Corporation..... 31
Weber Machine Corporation..... 47
Wright, DeCoster, Inc..... 45

Y

York Safe and Lock Company..... 32

WHERE TO BUY IT

ACCESSORIES FOR SOUND DEVICES
Basson & Stern
Dworsky Film Machine Corporation
Elec-Tro-Fone Corporation
Essannay Electric Manufacturing Company
G-M Laboratories, Inc.
Operadio Manufacturing Company
Simplimus, Inc.
S. O. S. Corporation

ACOUSTICAL PRODUCTS
The Celotex Company
Densten Felt & Hair Company
The Insulite Company
Johns-Manville Corporation
King Studios Inc.
National Rug Mills, Inc.
Union Fibre Sales Company
United States Gypsum Company
Western Felt Works
Wood Conversion Company

ADVERTISING NOVELTIES
Brazel Novelty Manufacturing Co.
Pyroloid Sales Company
The Vitaprint Company

AIR CONDITIONING EQUIPMENT
Carrier Engineering Corporation
Kooler-Aire Engineering Corporation
Supreme Heater & Ventilating Company
Tiltz Air Conditioning Corporation, Ltd.
Wittenmeier Machinery Company

AISLE LIGHTS
Kausalite Manufacturing Company

AMPLIFIERS
Operadio Manufacturing Company
Silver-Marshall, Inc.
Webster Company

ARTIFICIAL FLOWERS AND PLANTS
Frank Netschert, Inc.

AUTOMATIC CURTAIN CONTROL
Automatic Devices Company
Bruckner-Mitchell, Inc.
Econoquipment Manufacturing Company
Tiffin Scenic Studios
Vallen Electrical Company, Inc.

BANNERS, SIGNS
H. Dryfhout Company

CAMERAS AND PROJECTORS
Bell and Howell Company

CARBONS
National Carbon Company

CARBON ADAPTERS
Best Devices Company
Hewes-Gotham Company

CARPETS
Bigelow-Sanford Carpet Company, Inc.
Mohawk Carpet Mills
B. F. Shearer Company
Wm. Slater, Jr.
W. & J. Sloane

CARPET CUSHIONING
The Celotex Company
Clinton Carpet Company
National Rug Mills, Inc.
Western Felt Works

CARPET AND RUG DYERS
Nu-Process Carpet & Rug Dyers

CEMENT FOR FASTENING CHAIRS
General Seating Company

CHAIR ANCHOR BOLTS
Chicago Expansion Bolt Company

CHANGEABLE LETTERS
Crystalite Products Corporation
Friedley-Voshardt Company
Metal Products, Inc.

CHANGEOVERS
Basson & Stern
Essanay Electric Manufacturing Co.
GoldE Manufacturing Company
Guercio and Barthel

CLEANING COMPOUND
J. B. Ford Company

COLOR LIGHTING EQUIPMENT
Reynolds Electric Company

CUTOUT MACHINES
International Register Corporation

DIMMERS
Cutler-Hammer, Inc.
Reynolds Electric Company

DOUBLE BEARING ASSEMBLY
Lavezzie Machine Works

DOUBLE BEARING MOVEMENTS
Guercio and Barthel

DRAPERIES
B. F. Shearer Company

EARPHONES
Hearing Devices Corporation
Western Electric Company

EFFECT MACHINES
Brenkert Light Projection Company
Chicago Cinema Equipment Company

ELECTRIC FLASHERS, COLOR HOODS
Eagle Sign Company
Reynolds Electric Company
Time-O-Stat Controls Company

ELECTRIC PICKUPS
The Audak Company
Best Manufacturing Company
The Oro-Tone Company
Webster Electric Company

EMERGENCY LIGHTING SYSTEMS
Electric Storage Battery Co.
Roth Brothers & Company

ENGINEERING SERVICE
Bilmarjac Corporation
Humphrey Davy & Associates
Kendell & Dasseville, Inc.
S. S. Sugar

EQUIPMENT SUPPLIES
Continental Theatre Accessories, Inc.
E. E. Fulton Company
Guercio and Barthel
Illinois Theatre Seat Exchange Company
Monarch Theatre Supply Company
Movie Supply Company
National Theatre Supply Company
B. F. Shearer Company
S. O. S. Corporation
J. A. Tannenbaum, Inc.

FANS, VENTILATING
Century Electric Company
Typhoon Fan Company

FILM CEMENT
F. B. Griffin
Hewes-Gotham Company

FILM PROCESSING MACHINES
The Rex Film Renovator Mfg. Company
Yankee Lubric Company

FILM STOCK
Eastman Kodak Company

FIRE PREVENTION
Film Fire Prevention Company
Sentry Safety Control Corporation
White Engineering Corporation

FRAMING LIGHT SHIELDS
GoldE Manufacturing Company
Guercio and Barthel

FUSIBLE LINKS
J. W. Yates

GENERATORS
Automatic Devices Company
General Electric Company
Hertner Electric Company
Roth Brothers & Company

HORNS AND SPEAKERS
Miles Reproducer Company
Macy Manufacturing Company
Operadio Manufacturing Company
Racon Electric Company, Inc.
Silver-Marshall, Incorporated
Wright-DeCoster, Inc.

INTERIOR DECORATIONS
Armstrong Studios, Inc.
J. A. Torstenson & Company
Novelty Scenic Studios
B. F. Shearer Company

LAMPS, HIGH INTENSITY
Brenkert Light Projection Company
Hall & Connolly Inc.

LAMPS, REFLECTING ARC
Brenkert Light Projection Company
The J. E. McAuley Manufacturing Company
Strong Electric Corporation

LENS MOUNTS
GoldE Manufacturing Company

LENSES
Bausch & Lomb Optical Company
Ilex Optical Company
Projection Optics Corporation

MATS AND RUNNERS
Boston Rubber Mat Company
Rub-Tex Products Company

MAZDA REGULATORS
Garver Electric Company

NEEDLES, PHONOGRAPH
Sound Service Systems, Inc.
Wall-Kane Needle Manufacturing Co.

ORGANS
George Kilgen & Sons, Inc.
The Page Organ Company
Rudolph Wurlitzer Company

ORGAN HEATERS
Kausalite Manufacturing Company
Time-O-Stat Controls Corporation

PATENT ATTORNEYS
William N. Moore

PHOTO ELECTRIC CELLS
Duovac Radio Tube Company
G-M Laboratories, Inc.
Q.R.S.-Neon, Inc.

PROJECTORS
Coxsackie Holding Corporation
Enterprise Optical Mfg. Co.
E. E. Fulton Company
Holmes Projector Company
International Projector Corporation

PUBLIC ADDRESS SYSTEMS
Miles Reproducer Company
Operadio Manufacturing Company
Silver-Marshall, Inc.

RAILINGS, GRILLES
Zero Valve and Brass Corporation

RECTIFIERS
Forest Electric Company
Garver Electric Company

REELS
E. E. Fulton Company
Hewes-Gotham Company
Universal Electric Welding Co.

REEL END SIGNALS
E. W. Hulett Manufacturing Company

REWINDERS
Dworsky Film Machine Corporation
E. E. Fulton Company
GoldE Manufacturing Company

RHEOSTATS
Hoffmann & Soons

SAFES, THEATRE
York Safe & Lock Company

SAFETY LADDERS
Dayton Safety Ladder Company
Patent Scaffolding Company

SCHOOLS
New York Institute of Photography
Theatre Managers Institute

SCREENS
Da-Lite Screen Company
Keasbey & Mattison Company
Minusa Cine Screen Company
Raven Screen Company
Schoonmaker Equipment Company
Walker-American Corporation
Whiting & Davis Company

SEATS
American Seating Company
The A. H. Andrews Company
General Seating Company
Heywood-Wakefield Company
Illinois Theatre Seat Exchange Company
Standard Manufacturing Company
Steel Furniture Company
Wisconsin Chair Company

SEAT INDICATORS
Bilmarjac Corporation

SIGNS—ELECTRIC
Flexlume Corporation
Metal Products, Inc.
Milne Electric Company

SLIDES
National Studios, Inc.
Quality Slide Company
RadiO-Mat Slide Company
Ransley Studios
Worstel Studios

SPEED INDICATORS
Essannay Electric Manufacturing Co.
Mellaphone Corporation

SOUND EQUIPMENT, Complete
Bell Equipment Corporation
Bestone, Incorporated
Elec-Tro-Fone Corporation
The Foto-Voice Company, Inc.
General Talking Pictures Corporation
Gates Radio & Supply Company
Mellaphone Corporation
National Motion-Ad Company
Ohio Music Company
Pacent Reproducer Corporation
The Phototone Equipment Corporation of America
Pictur-Fone Corporation
R C A Photophone, Inc.
Sound Service Company
Powers Cinephone Equipment Co.
True Talkie Tone Company
Universal Sound System, Inc.
Vitadisc Company
Weber Machine Corporation
Western Electric Company

STAGE AND ORCHESTRA LIFTS
Brenkert Light Projection Company
Bruckner-Mitchell, Inc.
Peter Clark, Inc.

STAGE LIGHTING EQUIPMENT
Frank Adam Electric Company
Belson Mfg. Company
Chicago Cinema Equipment Company
Hub Electric Company
Kliegl Brothers
Major Equipment Company
Reynolds Electric Company

STAGE RIGGING HARDWARE
Bruckner-Mitchell, Inc.
J. H. Channon Corporation
Peter Clark Inc.
Novelty Scenic Studios
Sosman and Landis

STAGE SCENERY
Armstrong Studios, Inc.
Novelty Scenic Studios
B. F. Shearer Company
Sosman and Landis
Tiffin Scenic Studios

THEATRE PRINTING, PROGRAMS
Exhibitors Printing Service
National Program & Printing Company
The Vitaprint Company

THEATRE SEAT REPLACEMENTS
Frost's Veneer Seating Company, Ltd.
Illinois Theatre Seat Exchange Company

TICKETS
Arcus Ticket Company

TICKET MACHINES
General Register Corporation

UNIFORMS
Chicago Uniform and Cap Company
Maier-Lavaty Company

UPHOLSTERY PRODUCTS
L. C. Chase & Company

VARIABLE SPEED PULLEYS
Horton Manufacturing Company

VENDING MACHINES AND SCALES
Watling Scale Manufacturing Co.

VENTILATING EQUIPMENT
Arctic Nu-Air Corporation
Blizzard Sales Company
Kooler-Aire Engineering Corporation
Lakeside Company
Supreme Heater & Ventilator Company
Tiltz Air Conditioning Corporation, Ltd.
Typhoon Fan Company
Wittenmeier Machinery Company

BETTER THEATRES CATALOG BUREAU

"Better Theatres" offers on this page an individual service to its readers. Detailed information and catalogs concerning any product listed herewith will be sent to any theatre owner, manager, architect or projectionist. Just fill in the coupon below and mail to "Better Theatres" Division of Motion Picture Herald. Readers will find that many of the products listed by this Bureau are advertised in this issue.

A

1 Accounting systems.
2 Acoustical installations.
3 Adapters, mazda.
4 Adding, calculating machines.
5 Admission signs.
6 Addressing machines.
7 Advertising novelties.
8 Advertising projectors.
9 Air conditioning equipment.
10 Air dome tents.
11 Aisle lights.
12 Aisle rope.
13 Amplifiers.
14 Arc lamps, reflecting.
15 Architectural service.
16 Arc regulators.
17 Artificial plants, flowers.
18 Automatic curtain control.
19 Automatic projection cutouts.
20 Automatic sprinklers.

B

21 Balloons, advertising.
22 Banners.
23 Baskets, decorative.
24 Batteries.
25 Bell-buzzer signal systems.
26 Blocks, pulleys, stage-rigging.
27 Blowers, hand.
28 Booking agencies.
29 Boilers.
30 Bolts, chair anchor.
31 Booths, projection.
32 Booths, ticket.
33 Box office safes.
34 Brass grills.
35 Brass rails.
36 Brokers-Theatre promotion.
37 Bulletin boards, changeable.

C

38 Cable.
39 Cabinets.
40 Cameras.
41 Canopies for fronts.
42 Carbons.
43 Carbon sharpeners.
44 Carbon wrenches.
45 Carpets.
46 Carpet cushion.
47 Carpet cleaning compound.
48 Carpet covering.
49 Cases, film shipping.
50 Cement, film.
51 Cement for fastening chairs.
52 Chair covers.
53 Chairs, wicker.
54 Chairs, theatre.
55 Change makers.
56 Changeable letters.
57 Change overs.
58 Cleaning compounds.
59 Color hoods.
60 Color wheels.
61 Condensers.
62 Controls, volume.
63 Cutout machines, display.

D

64 Date strips.
65 Decorations.
66 Dimmers.
67 Disinfectants—perfumed.
68 Display cutout machines.
69 Doors, fireproof.
70 Draperies.
71 Drinking fountains.
72 Duplicating machines.
73 Dynamic speakers.

E

74 Earphones.
75 Effect machines.
76 Electric measuring instruments.
77 Electric fans.
78 Electrical flowers.
79 Electric pickups.
80 Electric power generating plants.
81 Electrical recording.
82 Electric signs.
83 Electric signal and control systems.
84 Emergency lighting plants.
85 Engineering service.
86 Exit light signs.

F

87 Film cleaning machines.
88 Film processing machines.
89 Film rewinders.
90 Film splicing machines.
91 Film tools.
92 Fire extinguishers.
93 Fireproof curtains.
94 Fireproof doors.
95 Fireproofing materials.
96 Fixtures, lighting.
97 Flashers, electric sign.
98 Flood lighting.
99 Floorlights.
100 Floor covering.
101 Floor runners.
102 Flowers, artificial.
103 Footlights.
104 Fountains, decorative.
105 Fountains, drinking.
106 Frames-poster, lobby display.
107 Furnaces.
108 Furniture, theatre.
109 Fuses.

G

110 Gelatine sheets.
111 Generators.
112 Golf courses, miniature.
113 Grilles, brass.
114 Gummed labels.
115 Gypsum products.

H

116 Hand driers.
117 Hardware, stage.
118 Hearing devices.
119 Heating systems.
120 Horns.
121 Horn lifts and towers.

I

122 Ink, pencils for slides.
123 Insurance.
124 Interior decorating service.
125 Interior illuminated signs.

J

126 Janitors' supplies.

L

127 Ladders, safety.
128 Lamps, decorative.
129 Lamp dip coloring.
130 Lamps, general lighting.
131 Lamps, incandescent projection.
132 Lamps, high intensity.
133 Lamps, reflecting arc.
134 Lavatory equipment, furnishings.
135 Ledgers, theatre.
136 Lenses.
137 Letters, changeable.
138 Lights, exit.
139 Lights, spot.
140 Lighting fixtures.
141 Lighting systems, complete.
142 Linoleum.
143 Liquid soap.
144 Liquid soap containers.
145 Lithographers.
146 Lobby display frames.
147 Lobby gazing balls.
148 Lobby furniture and decorations.
149 Lobby merchandising.
150 Lockers.
151 Lubricants.
152 Luminous numbers.
153 Luminous signs, interior, exterior.

M

154 Machines, display cutout.
155 Machines, ticket.
156 Machines, pop corn.
157 Machines, vending.
158 Marble.
159 Marquise.
160 Mats and runners.
161 Mazda projection adapters.
162 Mazda regulators.
163 Metal lath.
164 Metal polish.
165 Miniature golf courses.
166 Motors, electric.
167 Motor generators.
168 Motors, phonograph.
169 Motion picture cable.
170 Musical instruments.
171 Music publishers.
172 Music stands.

N

173 Needles, phonograph.
174 Novelties, advertising.
175 Nursery furnishings and equipment.

O

176 Oil burners.
177 Orchestra pit fittings, furnishings.
178 Organs.
179 Organ novelty slides.
180 Organ lifts.
181 Organ heaters.
182 Ornamental fountains.
183 Ornamental metal work.

P

184 Paint, screen.
185 Paper drinking cups.
186 Paper towels.
187 Perfumers.
188 Phonograph motors.
189 Phonograph needles.
190 Phonograph turntables.
191 Photo-electric cells.
192 Photo frames.
193 Pianos.
194 Plastic fixtures and decorations.
195 Plumbing fixtures.
196 Pop-corn machines.
197 Positive film.
198 Posters.
199 Poster frames.
200 Poster lights.
201 Poster paste.
202 Portable projectors.
203 Pottery decorative.
204 Portable sound equipment.
205 Power generating plants.
206 Printing, theatre.
207 Programs.
208 Program covers.
209 Projection lamps.
210 Projection machines.
211 Projection machine parts.
212 Projection room equipment.
213 Public address systems.

R

214 Radiator covers.
215 Rails, brass.
216 Rails, rope.
217 Rectifiers.
218 Reconstruction service.
219 Records.
220 Record cabinets.
221 Recording, electrical.
222 Redecorating service.
223 Reflectors.
224 Refurnishing service.
225 Regulators, Mazda.
226 Reels.
227 Reel end signals.
228 Reel packing, carrying cases.
229 Resonant orchestra platform.
230 Reseating service.
231 Rewinders, film.
232 Rheostats.
233 Rigging, stage.

S

234 Safes, box office.
235 Safes, film.
236 Safety ladders.
237 Scales.
238 Scenery, stage.
239 Scenic artists' service.
240 Schools.
241 Screen masks and modifiers.
242 Screen paint.
243 Seat covers.
244 Seat indicators, vacant.
245 Signs, directional.
246 Signs, marquise.
247 Screens.
248 Seats, theatre.
249 Signs, parking.
250 Signals, reel end.
251 Sign flashers.
252 Sign lettering service.
253 Slides.
254 Slide ink, pencils.
255 Slide lanterns.
256 Slide making outfits.
257 Slide mats.
258 Shutters, metal fire.
259 Soap containers, liquid.
260 Sound equipment.
261 Sound-proof installations.
262 Speakers, dynamic.
263 Speed indicators.
264 Spotlights.
265 Spring seats, interchangeable.
266 Stage doors-valances, etc.
267 Stage lighting equipment.
268 Stage lighting systems.
269 Stage rigging-blocks, pulleys.
270 Stage scenery.
271 Stair treads.
272 Statuary.
273 Stereopticons.
274 Sweeping compounds.
275 Switchboards.
276 Switches, automatic.

T

277 Tapestries.
278 Tax free music.
279 Telephones, inter-communicating
280 Temperature control apparatus.
281 Terra cotta.
282 Terminals.
283 Theatre accounting systems.
284 Theatre dimmers.
285 Theatre seats.
286 Tickets.
287 Ticket booths.
288 Ticket choppers.
289 Ticket holders.
290 Ticket selling machines.
291 Tile.
292 Tone arms.
293 Tool cases, operators'.
294 Towels, paper.
295 Trailers.
296 Transformers.
297 Transparencies.
298 Turnstiles.
299 Turntables, phonograph.

U

300 Uniforms.
301 Upholstery material.

V

302 Vacuum cleaning equipment.
303 Valances.
304 Vases, stone.
305 Ventilating fans.
306 Ventilating systems.
307 Vending machines.
308 Vitrolite.
309 Volume controls.

W

310 Wall coverings.
311 Watchman's clocks.
312 Water coolers.
313 Wheels, color.

"BETTER THEATRES" DIVISION, Motion Picture Herald, 1790 Broadway, New York

[9-26-31]

GENTLEMEN: I should like to receive reliable information on the following items:

(Refer to Items by Number)

....

....

....

Remarks: .....

.....

Name..... Theatre..... City.....

State ..... Seating Capacity .....

The Screen: A Problem in Exhibition

(Continued from page 14)

a disconcerting factor in achieving the much desired illusion.

THE size of the screen is subject to the physical dimensions of the theatre structure, the distance sacrificed between the screen and the first row of seats, the shape of the screen, the location of the balcony, and the width of motion picture film. Present screen sizes are not determined by the physical dimensions of the structure. They are determined by the sight line characteristics of the seating arrangement of the particular theatre, which in most cases limit the size to a much greater extent than do the dimensions of the structure.

A maximum screen size is desirable, among other reasons, to eliminate the feeling of viewing a small picture, obviously framed on a wall, and to convey instead the impression of the very large proscenium opening of the legitimate theatre, and also to allow for new photographic effects. Therefore it will be necessary to adjust the sight line characteristics of motion picture theatres to allow for larger screens. The shape of the screen governs the size of the screen in the following way. The height of a theatre structure at the screen is usually an optional dimension, while the width is always fixed by the limits of the theatre property. Therefore, if the screen is to be much wider than it is to be high, the height of the screen in theatres which are not very wide would be noticeably limited.

Smaller theatres are becoming more popular since the advent of the "talkie," and it is very important to get as large a screen as possible into them. Another important reason for a maximum-sized screen is that of obtaining a more flexible play of the scale of images, objects and backgrounds in relation to the size of the spectator. Given this play, the producer has a new means for heightening the ultimate effect of his product.

Determination of the shape of the screen is also dependent on the selection of the rectangle that has the most pleasing proportion. The viewer should be allowed to concentrate his eye on the focal point of the composition of the picture, without being conscious of the frame of the picture. The shape of the screen should be such as not to force the head of the viewer to move in a horizontal or vertical direction in following the action or details displayed on the screen. An extremely wide screen causes a disturbing horizontal movement, and the present shape of the screen causes a likewise vertical movement. The screen having the proportions of three parts in height, to five parts in width, proves to be the most desirable shape for eye and bodily comfort. It has, in addition, the best possibilities for good picture composition, and has not the square effect of the present screen.

These proportions also make possible the maximum enlargement of a screen within a particular theatre structure. The 3-to-5 screen has been found to lend itself better to seating arrangements than the still wider screen, causing less waste areas between the screen and the first row of seats. A screen that is too wide also causes a too-distorted view from the extreme side seats. All of these considerations should be given careful study before a standard shape is determined for the screen.

At present two proportions are being considered by the industry: The 1-to-1.8, and the 1-to-1.67, the latter being the 3-to-5 proportion mentioned before. The latter proportion seems to answer more readily the needs of exhibition.

Now all these considerations should form the nucleus for a new form of motion picture theatre. Truly, the motion picture awaits a home of its own. In spite of the addition of sound, the film has not yet made its greatest appeal. To realize this maximum appeal, the science and art of exhibition must equal the importance of the art of production.

Equipment Affairs . . . . . Equipment News and Comment

(Continued from page 59)

astounding view (in the light of modern scientific accomplishments) is taken by L. A. Hawkins, engineer of the General Electric research laboratory, as he expressed it at the silver anniversary meeting of the Illuminating Engineering Society in Pittsburgh the other day.

The observation proves to be coincident with the passing of the Maker of Electric Light—as we know it—Thomas Edison. Edison, it may be noted, believed 30 years ago that the carbon filament lamp was not capable of radical improvement. Similarly, perhaps Mr. Hawkins is wrong—and doubtless he hopes so. However, he stated that we have a firmer basis for our beliefs.

"All known elements in the periodic table which could possibly make good lamp filaments have been tried. No other element can compete with tungsten. Of that we are reasonably sure. Some alloy of tungsten, or some other compound, might conceivably have advantages over the pure metal, but all likely alloys and compounds have been tried out, and although a few were found which gave slightly higher efficiencies than tungsten, they possessed inherent disadvantages which outweighed their merits. Krypton gas would be better than argon in our lamps, and xenon would be better yet, but both occur in the atmosphere in such minute quantities compared with argon that their extraction would be relatively very expensive, and their use would make our lamps very costly, too costly for the relatively small increase in efficiency which they would give.

"Surely, however, we should not be forever content with the low efficiency, less than ten per cent of the theoretical possible efficiency of a light source, which is the best we can obtain from our best incandescent lamps today. Of course we shall not remain satisfied, but for materially higher efficiencies we must look to other light sources than an incandescent body.

"The sodium-vapor lamp is the most efficient artificial light source, approaching a practical device, which has yet been produced, but much work remains to be done before an adequate commercial life is to be had, for sodium has the mean habit of attacking ordinary glass. Good progress has been made in the production of sodium-resisting glass, and some day the sodium lamp, because of its high efficiency, several times that of the Mazda lamp, and in spite of its rather unpleasant characteristic color (yellow), is likely to be used, alone or in combination with other lamps, for color correction, where high luminous efficiency is the main desideratum."

Explaining

. . . the absence from this issue of the department, Planning the Theatre, which is due to an unusual press of architectural responsibilities upon its editor, Peter M. Hulsken, requiring extensive traveling. It will be resumed in the next issue.

BY WAY OF NEWS

- Carpet orders from theatres recently filled by Bigelow-Sanford, include William A. Brady's Playhouse and the Majestic, both in New York. The former took 600 yards of Bigelow Oxley in a golden color, while the latter was supplied 800 yards of Bigelow Lansdale velvet in a Roman scroll design.

Westinghouse has just consummated an extensive reorganization of its sales department under the direction of O. F. Stroman, industrial sales manager. Two assistant sales managers, and 14 divisional managers have been appointed, and there is also provision for the grouping of specialized engineers with every sales division. Bernard Lester and C. B. Stainback are the new assistant sales managers.

REPAIR—REPLACE NEWS

VOL. 1, NO. 1 OCTOBER, 1931

REPLACE WITH SIMPLEX PROJECTORS

Neglect Is Poor Economy

"It is an excellent thing that theatre owners are coming to the greater realization of the importance of good projection. In the past there has been too great a tendency to believe that all expenditures for the proper maintenance of equipment and the betterment of projection were a waste of time and money. Good projection can only be secured by having good men, good working conditions and standard equipment kept in first class condition at all times. Projection rooms are under weekly supervision by inspectors of the Department, but will not compel repairs and replacements unless it is necessary to do so. NEGLECT, HOWEVER, IS VERY POOR ECONOMY AND THEATRE OWNERS AND MANAGERS SHOULD NOT WAIT UNTIL THEY ARE COMPELLED TO MAKE REPAIRS. Equipment kept in the right condition insures the safety of audiences, adds to their pleasure, reduces damages to film and I sincerely believe increases box office receipts."

BART F. GREENE
Chief Inspector of the Bureau of Gas & Electricity, City of New York

The Effect of Motion Pictures on the Eyes

(Presented before the Society of Motion Picture Engineers.)

Under favorable conditions moving pictures do not cause serious eye fatigue, but it must be borne in mind that several very important elements are necessary to make these "favorable conditions."

If the eyes of the observer are normal for distance vision or corrected for refractive defects the owner should not experience discomfort in viewing motion pictures provided certain other conditions prevail.

PROPER PROJECTION IS AN IMPORTANT FACTOR IN THE ELIMINATION OF EYESTRAIN AND EYE DISCOMFORTS and here again great improvements have been made in the mechanical field.

Any unsteadiness or jerkiness will produce eyestrain as a result of the abnormal burden placed upon the extrinsic muscles of the eye in their effort to keep the eyes in alignment with uncertain and erratic movements of the pictures on the screen.

GUY A. HENRY
General-Director of the Eyesight Conservation Council of America

The Economy of Good Equipment

We wonder how many readers of our department took note of Harold B. Franklin's article in the Showman, published in the Motion Picture News of May 5. I have always been a great admirer of Mr. Franklin's methods, and in looking over his article find many valuable pointers that intelligent managers everywhere ought to take note of.

Let me quote one sentence, in which he says, "It is not necessary for a manager to be able to understand the details of projection, but the successful manager should be able to distinguish good from bad projection, and THE PROGRESSIVE MANAGER KEEPS ABREAST WITH THE IMPROVEMENTS THAT ARE BROUGHT FORTH IN THE FIELD."

Which leads us up to the subject of projection. We were very much surprised to find in our travels that this very important item in theatre operation has been sadly neglected in many of the smaller towns. We happened upon a theatre in a town about twenty thousand population, and the theatre appeared to be quite modern and up-to-date, with the exception of the picture on the screen. And when we reached the booth, we found equipment so ancient, as booth equipment is judged today, that it would look far better reposing in a museum. The projectors were of a very old model, the lamps were the old type arc, and the generator was a big affair that belonged in the same museum with the rest of the equipment.

Without treading on the manager's toes (and he, by the way, was one of the owners of the theatre), we tried to show him what a mistake he was making, both from the standpoint of good projection and economy in operation.

At this time it is not our intention to take upon ourselves the recommendation of any particular type of equipment for the booth as we are selling nothing but ideas, but we do know that NEW EQUIPMENT WOULD HAVE PAID FOR ITSELF IN THIS THEATRE IN JUST ABOUT A YEAR, NOT TAKING INTO CONSIDERATION THE MARVELOUS IMPROVEMENT IN THE PROJECTION.

Managers Round Table Club
CHARLES E. LEWIS

REPAIR WITH GENUINE SIMPLEX PARTS

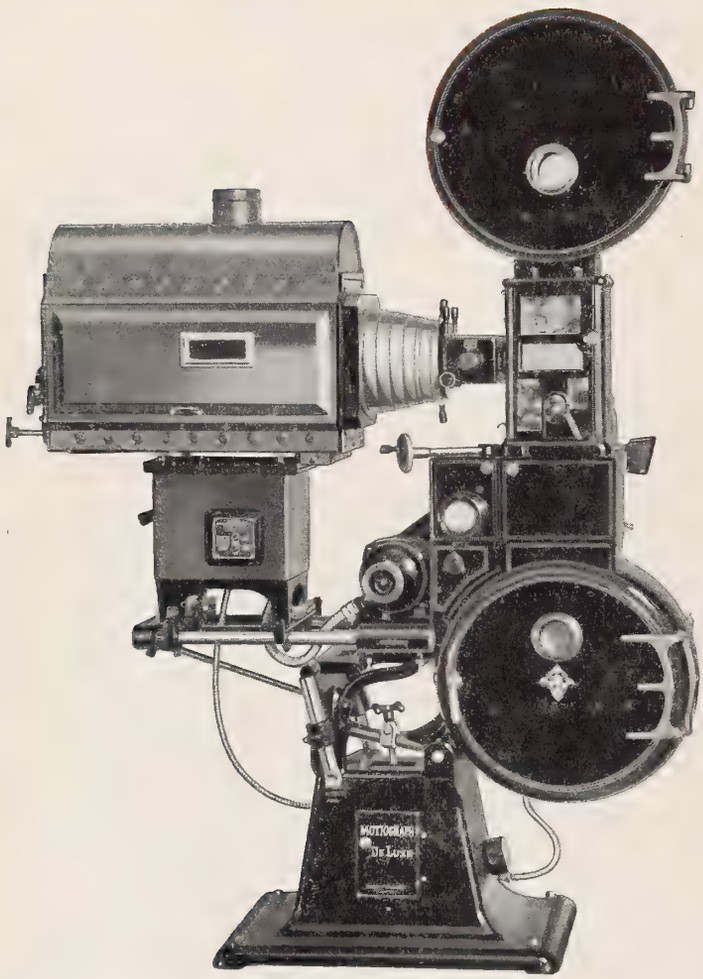
Poor Projection Means Poor Business

GOOD PROJECTION REQUIRES GOOD PROJECTORS. Poor screen results will do more to injure a theatre's reputation and patronage than any other single factor. Bad projection and good business are never companions. Show me a theatre where proper projection standards are not maintained, and I shall show you a theatre where business is in the same category as its projection.

WILLIAM F. CANAVAN
International President, I.A.T.S.E. & M.P.M.O.

Fire Prevention

In the afternoon session, after reports of officers, Fire Marshall of Canada, Grove Smith, gave a fine address which was warmly applauded. He pointed out the excellent record of fire prevention in Canada and stated that a majority of the modern theatres were fire proof. HE LIKEWISE ADVISED THAT NO OLD PROJECTION MACHINES SHOULD BE USED.



"Exhibitors Daily Review," Thursday, Oct. 18, 1928

Simplex
The International Projector

INTERNATIONAL PROJECTOR CORPORATION

90 GOLD STREET NEW YORK

MOTIOGRAPH DE LUXE SOUND PROJECTOR EQUIPMENT IS ACKNOWLEDGED THE FINEST *UNIT THAT MONEY CAN BUY

MOTIOGRAPH DE LUXE SOUND PROJECTOR EQUIPMENT IS ALL NEW EQUIPMENT FROM PROJECTION ROOM TO STAGE. IT INCLUDES THE MOTIOGRAPH DE LUXE SOUND PROJECTOR—THE ONLY PROJECTOR DESIGNED EXCLUSIVELY FOR THE PROJECTION OF SOUND MOTION PICTURES.

THE EXPRESSIONS OF SATISFACTION ON THE PERFORMANCE, ECONOMY OF OPERATION, AND EXCELLENCE OF TONE AND REPRODUCTION ARE OUR BEST RECOMMENDATIONS.

*Unit means: two projectors, two film sound pickups, main and head amplifiers, stage and monitor speakers, power packs, tubes—in fact, a complete unit.

COMPLETE SOUND UNIT EQUIPMENT FOR THE SMALLEST AND LARGEST THEATRES, AND PRICED ACCORDINGLY.

You are invited to our studio to see and hear this exceptionally big buy;— Or, we will send you literature and testimonials on request.

THE ENTERPRISE OPTICAL MFG. COMPANY

564 W. RANDOLPH ST., CHICAGO, ILL.

MOTION PICTURE HERALD

A CONSOLIDATION OF EXHIBITORS HERALD-WORLD AND MOTION PICTURE NEWS

H. G. WELLS

says there's too much "talk" but sound picture has future

NEXT WEEK—The Box Office Champions of 1930-31

NEXT WEEK—How to Run that Helping Hand Show

Vol. 105, No. 5 Entered as second-class matter, January 12, 1931, at the Post Office at New York, N. Y., under the act of March 3, 1879. Published Weekly by Quigley Publishing Co., Inc., at 1790 Broadway, New York. Subscription, $3.00 a year. Single copies, 25 cents. October 31, 1931

IT IS YOUR DUTY

TO SEE THIS PICTURE AT ONCE!

Until you have seen with your own eyes "THE SIN OF MADELON CLAUDET" you cannot realize what a picture Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer has produced—

When you have seen it you will return to your theatre and advertise it under your signature as one of the greatest motion pictures you have ever seen!

We will gladly supply mats of these ads at nominal cost—write for them to M-G-M Ad. Dept., 1540 B'way, N. Y. C.

IN HITS AS IN HATS...

Styles are always changing

Today's Styles in HITS

Styles change according to public tastes. Pictures in tune with the entertainment demands of today's smart public are doing the big-money business. Wise showmen know this. And they're guaranteeing box-office profits by buying pictures which spell e-n-t-e-r-t-a-i-n-m-e-n-t! Pictures packed with showmanship! For example: In the next two weeks from PARAMOUNT you get . . .

"GIRLS ABOUT TOWN"

with KAY FRANCIS
JOEL McCREA LILYAN TASHMAN
EUGENE PALLETTE ALLAN DINEHART

Excellent entertainment! Box-office in a big way! Everything the fans want . . . Romance . . . good, old-fashioned Laughs . . . Striking Gowns . . . Gorgeous Girls . . . Sparkling Wisecracks. Expert showmen who've seen it say it's in the big-money class. Directed by George Cukor.

are by PARAMOUNT!

Ruth CHATTERTON

in

"ONCE A LADY"

The screen's outstanding emotional actress in the kind of a role her admirers demand. A woman of high social standing forced into a lifetime of disgrace because of one moment of indiscretion. With IVOR NOVELLO, JILL ESMOND and GEOFFREY KERR. Directed by Guthrie McClintic.

Something New In Football!

"TOUCHDOWN"

The football picture that dares to be different. No last minute touchdown here. It depicts in dramatic fashion the adventures of college stars who develop into coaches. Audiences actually cheered it at previews. With RICHARD ARLEN, PEGGY SHANNON, JACK OAKIE, REGIS TOOMEY and CHARLES STARRETT. Directed by Norman McLeod. Adapted from "Stadium" by Francis Wallace.

Entertainment Headquarters

PARAMOUNT

WHAT THE SHOW BIZ NEEDS IS MORE . . .

pSOCKOLOGY

—and what a SOCK is packed by . . .

The YELLOW TICKET*

with

ELISSA LANDI
LIONEL BARRYMORE
LAURENCE OLIVIER

Directed by RAOUL WALSH.

*Smash business at day-and-date booking in L. A.'s ace houses — Criterion and Chinese.

MORE HITS FROM FOX

BAXTER—LOWE
in
The CISCO KID
"Beats Frisco par by $8,000," says M. P. Daily

DUNN—EILERS
in
OVER the HILL
"Bad Girl" team lend youth to heart story

WILL ROGERS
in
Ambassador Bill
His funniest by a long shout!

GAYNOR—FARRELL
in
DELICIOUS
Still world's champion box office lovers

YOU'VE GOT TO RECKON WITH FOX FOR PROFIT THIS YEAR

OCT 31 1931 ©C1B 133096

MOTION PICTURE HERALD

Vol. 105, No. 5 October 31, 1931

A Hollywood Discovery

A CERTAIN curious quality of amazement is aroused as one reads in The Hollywood Herald of a speech made by a high production executive, before a session of the Wampas, admitting that the discovery had been made that the public wants simple heart-interest pictures, as opposed to the sophisticated fabrications which have predominated in the industry's output since the coming of sound. Just how and why Hollywood should have waited until this late date in the troubled year of 1931 to make this discovery is one of the mysteries of our vast and complex industry.

The speech in question was made by the distinctly able Mr. Ben P. Schulberg, whose words in this instance are not to be taken as a confession of a personal point of view or sense of limitation but rather as a voice of the whole Hollywood.

Most thinking students of the motion picture and its problems will agree readily enough with Mr. Schulberg's clear words, when he says: "The industry has made a mistake and that is that it has listened all too often to the articulate minority, and all too often has overlooked the inarticulate majority. The result has been many pictures brilliantly done and praised by the articulate few, but without mass appeal. The industry now knows that it must furnish entertainment with mass appeal and that it cannot be deceived by the voice of the few. The public wants simple, homely heart-interest in pictures it can believe and understand. The tremendous success of pictures of this type proves my point. . . . The industry must think only of mass appeal."

The motion picture business has a simple but uncharming quality of naivete in its headlong following of frantic whims of production. It is continually being obfuscated and led into costly experiment by some really minor phenomenon of the printed word or of the stage.

When the motion picture of Hollywood gets conscious that it is an art it immediately gets unconscious that it is a folk art, an art of the great plain-minded commonality, a people which does not read the columnists of New York, or follow the wisecrackers of Broadway, and knows not the sensory reactions of sex-worn impresarios.

It has been obvious enough to careful observers that it was the motion picture in its rise as mass entertainment and destruction of the stage road show which narrowed the stage public to the more sophisticated audiences of a few major centers. The silent drama did that. The stage turned from its "Shore Acres," its "East Lynne" and the "Old Homestead" to productions from the pens of such sophisticates as the smart Mr. Somerset Maugham and Cosmo Hamilton. So then, when the screen turned again to borrow from the stage, it was a different stage and a stage serving the few. The motion picture, with its many to serve, blindly went out offering the wares designed for the few.

Further, too, one may suspect, vanities had something to do with it. The motion picture producer has often tended to endow his labors with importance by imitation of his Broadway neighbors of the stage, playing to the tastes of hardened first nighters and saucy metropolitan critics, more concerned with smart writing about drama than with drama.

The motion picture has its own business to attend to and it shall have ultimately to learn to do it in its own way. This is what Hollywood, the production capital of an industry prideful of its enterprise, is just now finding out.

▲ ▲ ▲

The Clocker's Decision

ONE of the most alert and effective publicity men in the industry was abruptly dismissed the other day for not arriving at his desk at 9 o'clock in the morning, by the ruling of an efficiency person.

Minutes are measurable by the clock and stop watch. They can be weighed and checked like coal, sand, lime and cement. Anybody who can read a clock or a scale can do it expertly. He cannot, however, necessarily measure the worth of an idea, the value of a well placed word, or a showman's hunch, or, in fact, any of the intangibles which make the value of the shadows this industry ships in cans.

▲ ▲ ▲

The Television Spectre

THE week has seen a Broadway demonstration of the best that television has been able to do for the public, to date. The result is more interesting than important. It appears that it is possible to put a television picture on the screen which compares with a coarse screen newspaper halftone many times enlarged and viewed through a window on a rainy day.

It is the opinion of every important technician in the field, who is free of promotional connections, that television now encompasses nothing that can be viewed sensibly as a menace to the motion picture theatre. Radio was once such a bugaboo as television now tends to be. Also for a good many years there has been a deal of unnecessary worry among exhibitors concerning motion pictures in the home and the non-theatrical use of the screen. Both developments have been under way now long enough to show by performance that they have no bearing on the theatre and its audience.

The motion picture industry truly enough has problems aplenty on its hands, and a number of things to worry about, but television is not one of them. Its headaches will continue to stay within the walls of the laboratories for a long time to come.

MOTION PICTURE HERALD MARTIN QUIGLEY, Editor-in-Chief and Publisher

Incorporating Exhibitor's Herald, founded 1915; Motion Picture News, founded 1913; Moving Picture World, founded 1907; Motography, founded 1909; The Film Index, founded 1906. Published every Friday by Quigley Publishing Company, 1790 Broadway, New York City. Telephone: CIrcle 7-3100. Martin Quigley, Editor-in-Chief and Publisher; Colvin Brown, Vice-President and General Manager; Terry Ramsaye, Editor; Ernest A. Rovelstad, Managing Editor; Chicago office, 407 South Dearborn street, Edwin S. Clifford, manager; Hollywood office, Pacific States Life Building, Leo Meehan, manager; London office, Faraday House, 8-10 Charing Cross Road, London, W.C. 2, W. H. Mooring, representative. Member Audit Bureau of Circulations. All contents copyrighted 1931 by Quigley Publishing Company. All editorial and business correspondence should be addressed to the New York office. Better Theatres (with which The Showman is incorporated), devoted to the construction, equipment and operation of theatres, is published every fourth week as section 2 of Motion Picture Herald. Other Quigley Publications: Motion Picture Daily, The Hollywood Herald, The Motion Picture Almanac, published annually, and The Chicagoan.

WHAT THE PRESS SAYS

The CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR, official organ of The Church of Christ, Scientist, sees a twofold objection, commercial and artistic, to talk on the screen, and suggests that "the day may come when people will go, not to the 'talkies,' but to the 'noisies'." The comment, under the heading, "Should the Talkies Stop Talking?" follows:

Two of the most accomplished cinema producers in Europe, one English and the other French, have decided that the talkies talk too much. The Englishman, Mr. Alfred Hitchcock, has therefore partially returned to the technique of the days before the Warner Brothers made cinema history by causing Mr. Jolson to wail out from a thousand screens the lugubrious melodies of "Sonny Boy." With a view to "cutting the cackle," Mr. Hitchcock's latest picture, "Rich and Strange," actually contains thirty subtitles. M. Rene Clair, the producer of "Sous les Toits de Paris," is tackling the problem from another angle. Dispensing with words altogether, he is said to be experimenting with a film farce in which the sound commentary will be music, not speech.

The objection to talk on the screen is at once commercial and artistic. By setting up the barrier of language the takies destroy the old international appeal of the screen. Speech also tends to arrest action, for when people talk they do not usually move about very freely. This deprives the moving picture of what many consider to be its crowning asset, its ability, that is, to show vigorous and exhilarating action. And with the opinion of Messrs. Hitchcock and Clair cinema goers appear to agree. At any rate, during the last twelve months the attendance at British picture houses is said to have diminished by 30 per cent.

Perhaps M. Clair has found the true solution to the cinema's difficulties. Sound, if not talk, does enrich the film's meaning. The pleasing noises accompanying the Mickey Mouse cartoons, the whistling episode in Chaplin's "City Lights," sharpen the comic point of these entertainments without in the least detracting from their universal intelligibility. The patter of raindrops or the hoot of a motor horn is the same in all languages; the bark of a dog conveys its meaning in all lands from China to Peru. The day may come when people will go, not to the "talkies," but to the "noisies."

▲

The EVENING RECORD of HACKENSACK in NEW JERSEY, which does not have such a big public to deal with, infers that maybe the public ordered something and got it, thus:

What the public wants is what the movie makers give it. That bromide is as true today as when it was first uttered a long time ago, and is still something of a reflection on the public, considering what they get.

The COURIER-NEWS, of ELGIN, in ILLINOIS, sees in lists of selected pictures, such as the "selections" by Rita C. McGoldrick, an antidote for any poisoning of the industry by political censoring. Under the heading "Sensible Censorship" the editorial writer voices his opinions in this fashion:

An excellent way of avoiding the evils of censorship of moving pictures has been developing lately in various parts of the country. It is the system by which women's clubs, religious organizations, civic societies and similar groups appoint representatives to examine current films and issue lists of "approved" pictures.

This system is especially valuable for the children. Many parents do not have the time to find out for themselves which pictures are proper for their youngsters to see. In the past they have relied—too largely—on official censorship to solve the problem for them.

But censorship is a repellent and stupid solution. This new system is infinitely better. By it, each group can give its members the guidance they want—and can do it without restricting the right of outsiders to see pictures of a different type.

This Week

Exhibitors will get concessions in practically all complaints on sales policies, distributors realizing keen competiiton coming this winter, says Chairman William Vincent of M-G-M Protest Meeting Page 9

Realignments of relations between RKO Radio and Pathe appear imminent with considerable probability that the outcome will be unification of distribution machinery; Hiram Brown declines to discuss reports that David Selznick is on the verge of a deal for a position of importance in RKO production Page 10

Hope of industry lies in sound pictures and not talking productions, says H. G. Wells Page 11

400 New York exhibitors lead way for others over country in pledging theatres for benefit performances for relief of unemployed during National Motion Picture Week, November 18-25 Page 21

FEATURES

Editorial Page 7
What the Press Says Page 8
The Camera Reports Page 18
J. C. Jenkins—His Colyum Page 65
Your Public, by Rita C. McGoldrick Page 40

DEPARTMENTS

Box Office Receipts Page 25
Passing in Review Page 34
Managers Round Table Page 41
Short Features Page 39
Music and Talent Page 56
Sound Reproduction Page 55
The Release Chart Page 59
Classified Advertising Page 66

The JOURNAL, at MILWAUKEE in WISCONSIN, a comparatively conservative publication, makes a distinction between "good movies" and "goody-goody movies" in commenting favorably upon two current productions. Good pictures, the writer says, exert a tremendous influence, thus:

When one sees a good motion picture, he is conscious of the power the movies have of playing the part of both fiction and the stage to give us entertainment, art that appeals to the emotions and interpretations of life. Somebody has said that if this country goes bad, it will be because of bad movies. True, in a sense. And the reverse also must be true. Good movies, not "goody-goody" movies but good motion pictures, exert a tremendous influence.

One such picture is "Huckleberry Finn." Through this picture, millions in this country who never read the book will enjoy the immortal story by Mark Twain. . . .

Another such picture is "The Spirit of Notre Dame." Football at Notre Dame has become something of a legend. Its teams are accepted as embodying the spirit of young manhood triumphant, but young manhood that plays not for glory for itself but for the group. How easy in producing a film it would be to make a false step, to spoil all that. This film makes it all the clearer, all the greater. As in the case of "Huckleberry Finn," millions who were never fortunate enough to see the "Four Horsemen" or a Rockne coached team will see Notre Dame on the silver screen.

Looked at in this light, the responsibility of the movies becomes tremendous. Since we have accepted them as our most popular medium of art, they have also become a sort of national barometer.

▲

In the PRESS of PITTSBURGH in PENNSYLVANIA, Florence Fisher Parry writes about her annoyance at some of the delimiting effects of the work of the famous censors of that state. She says:

I am getting sick of being treated like a state ward. I'm not a moron, a delinquent or a child. I'm an average grown-up movie-goer, and I object to having my talkies tattered to bits to suit the mental and moral digestion of that small percentage of movie-goers for whom censorship is designed. I object to being subjected to the same precautionary discipline that is afforded my young children of school age. . . . Go into any moving picture house, look around you and count the children. Then count, if you can, the morons and the adolescents. I venture to say that 75 per cent of any audience in any picture house on any evening is made up of grown-ups. People who know the fundamentals about life and love and crime and humor. People whose morals would take more than pictured gunplay, mild profanity and sappy love scenes to overthrow them. . . .

EXHIBITORS WILL GET CONCESSIONS IN COMPLAINTS ON SALES POLICIES

Cleveland Spurns Protection Pact; Engages Counsel

Cleveland exhibitors refuse to accept the "settlement" of their local protection problem as worked out in Loew's home office last week and have delegated Sam Horwitz, of the law firm of Stanley & Horwitz, of Cleveland, to represent them in any further discussions which may be held on Cleveland protection.

Col. E. A. Schiller of Loew's, with whom the zoning and protection committee of the Cleveland Motion Picture Exhibitors Association met in the New York conferences, expressed surprise this week that the arrangements agreed upon were not acceptable to the Cleveland exhibitors. Col Schiller stated that agreements were reached with each exhibitor and signed prior to the committee's return to Cleveland.

In Cleveland, Myer Fine, chairman of the exhibitors' committee, intimated that unless the situation was straightened out soon, legal action would be taken. By the terms of the New York "settlement," Loew's agreed to remove three of its subsequent-run houses from the 42-day protection period accorded Loew's Cleveland first-runs. Cleveland exhibitors charge that this concession immediately was offset by Loew's reopening the darkened Stillman theatre, a first-run house, at 25 cents top.

John H. Amen, special assistant attorney general in charge of film cases, stated this week that the Government is continuing its investigation of protection in response to complaints from exhibitors.

Griswold Realigns Fox Departments

Glenn Griswold, vice president in charge of all public relations of the Fox companies, this week completed reorganization of the theatre and film advertising-publicity units, which are now headed as follows: Gabe Yorke, in charge of all publicity and advertising of Fox Film; Joel Swenson, Fox Theatres advertising and press books; Carl Mos, trade paper advertising; Abe Goodman, production and art departments; Mike Vogel, exploitation. The Fox house organ was discontinued and seven staff members were let out. Swenson had operated the publication.

Glendon Allvine continues under contract.

Roxy Denies New Post

"My job is in Radio City," S. L. (Roxy) Rothafel stated on his return to New York from Europe this week. Expressing enthusiasm over the new project, Roxy denied reports that he is to assume any other post with Radio-Keith-Orpheum.

Distributors Realize Keen Competition: Vincent

Making Rentals Flexible, Says Continuing Committee Chairman Of MGM Protest Meeting

Exhibitor complaints against sales policies of national distributors will be met with concessions in practically every instance, according to Walter Vincent, chairman of the continuing committee appointed by the "Metro National Protest Meeting," held in New York early in September.

Revealing the tenor of the continuing committee's report, which will be made public shortly, Vincent said that the difficulty of sustaining sales policies which might be resented by exhibitors would force the concessions, making all sales policies flexible and agreeable to exhibitors, in application. Vincent indicated that prevailing economic conditions, together with prospects of reduced grosses this winter, are realized by national distributors and will prove the deciding factor in the application of the sales policies of distributors.

See Keen Competition

Vincent's summaries of the sales policies of all national distributors were made following meetings of the committee of which he is chairman, with sales managers of all principal distributors. The meetings were held immediately following the MGM protest meeting, but the committee's report has been delayed pending the ascertaining of Paramount's sales attitude. This delay was occasioned by the departure of Sidney R. Kent, Paramount sales manager, for Europe. Kent returned to New York recently and the continuing committee met with him this week, completing its conferences with all major distributors.

Indicating the nature of the committee's report, Vincent said that the industry "faces a keen competitive situation this winter, and that distributors are recognizing the fact."

No Commitments Now

"It takes good pictures to sustain any sales policy," Vincent declared. "If they are not forthcoming even moderate sales demands cannot be enforced. Pictures are not as weak as present theatre grosses indicate, and the conclusion is that sales policies which would be applicable to today's pictures will not conform to prevailing economic conditions. While the continuing committee can make no commitments now, we are able to say that distributors recognize the uncertainty of prevailing unusual conditions, and the probability of their continuance throughout the coming winter, and will be guided accordingly in their application of sales policies."

Walter Vincent, the continuing committee's chairman, is associated with Sidney Wilmer in the operation of 28 Pennsylvania and Virginia theatres, several of which are operated in a partnership-management deal with Loew's, Inc.

U.S. Suit vs. RCA Over Monopoly Charge on Again

The Government's antitrust action against Radio Corporation of America and affiliates will be resumed within one week, it is expected. Prosecution has been held up by the Department of Justice pending results of negotiations to end an alleged radio patents monopoly said to be held by the corporation. Negotiations have reached an impasse on the creation of an open patents pool in which independent companies would participate.

An amended bill of complaint has been prepared by the Department which will include two additional defendants, and it is expected that this will be filed soon.

Corporations included in the original complaint were Radio Corporation, General Electric, Westinghouse, American Telephone and Telegraph, and General Motors. This bill accused the corporations of being a combination in restraint of trade in the manufacture and sale of radio apparatus and radio communication.

Soon after the original bill was filed, Judge Warren Olney, Jr., of California, was appointed a special assistant to the Attorney General to handle the case. He rewrote the original bill and notified the defendants.

At that time the Supreme Court ruled against Radio in the Langmuir vacuum tube patent case and the corporation asked the Department for a conference to negotiate a settlement of the anti-trust case.

Conferences were held last Spring with officials of the Department by Owen D. Young, of General Electric; David Sarnoff, of Radio, and others. On July 1 Attorney General Mitchell announced that the conferences would be recessed during the Summer and intimated that there was a possibility that an agreement could be reached.

On September 28 the conferences were reopened in New York, but it was reported that the situation had changed. Since that time several informal communications have been exchanged and it is understood that the conferees now have no common ground on which to work.

Andy Smith Takes Ezell's Sales Post

E. L. Alperson, Warners' sales chief, on Wednesday promoted Andy Smith as eastern and Canadian sales manager, filling the post vacated by resignation of Claude Ezell.

Gradwell Sears remains as western and southern manager.

UNIFIED DISTRIBUTION FOR RADIO AND PATHE IS BELIEVED PROBABLE

Combined Production Is Held Less Likely

Brown Refuses to Discuss Reports David Selznick Is Near Deal For Big RKO Studio Post

Some realignments of relations between RKO Radio and RKO Pathe appeared imminent this week, with a considerable probability that the chief outcome of the consideration being given to the problems involved would be a unification of distribution machinery.

Broadway indulged in the usual array of all possible arrangements of the pattern in rumors, and inferences of sweeping changes in personnel.

Reports of consideration of plans for a unification of production activities appeared considerably less probable, and decidedly contrary to the trend of the period.

Rogers, Schnitzer, Selznick in N. Y.

Officials and other persons qualified to discuss the matters now pending and impending were reluctant of utterance to a remarkable degree. Inquiries started at the normal points of contact and bounced from office to office until they reached the office of David Sarnoff, head of Radio Corporation of America.

"Those are operating matters entirely within Mr. Hiram Brown's jurisdiction," was Mr. Sarnoff's answer as he referred questions back to Brown. Brown in turn avowed, "I am not discussing rumors."

Meanwhile, Charles Rogers, in charge of production at RKO Pathe studios in Culver City, and Joseph Schnitzer, president of RKO Radio, who has been active at the west coast studios, both arrived in New York within the week, making it apparent that there are to be conversations on the subject of production.

Mr. Brown also, while declining, declined to discuss or confirm reports that David Selznick, who is also in New York, is on the verge of a deal to assume a position of importance in the production machine of RKO. These reports originated within the RKO organization, and from points close to executive desks, but they, too, were classified as mere rumors.

No U. S. Intervention Contemplated

The reports concerning Selznick's appointment indicated that Selznick first sought an assignment to head a production unit for the company. This was said to have been enlarged, later, by Brown, with a plan to place Selznick in charge of all Radio production activities.

Asked this week about the legality of a combination of the production or distribution activities of RKO and Pathe, Department of Justice officials declared that no intervention was contemplated by the Government should such a move be made. The Department reported that numerous complaints against the proposed consolidation had been received since RKO first purchased Pathe, but the Department regards the move more in the light of an economy effort than one which would lessen competition within the industry.

A Bas the Damns, Say British Exhibitors In Protest against Profanity in Films

British exhibitors are protesting against profanity in films, and though at the moment their strictures are aimed at certain British productions, they go for America, too.

It might be as well for Hollywood to consider economy in highly seasoned expletives, as well as the final abandonment of the accursed "raspberry." The northern section of the Cinematograph Exhibitors Association has sent a strong resolution to its general council calling for immediate action towards the suppression of "damns," "bloodies," and similar expletives which have been rather plentiful in recent pictures.

It is not merely an extremist move—a large number of theatre owners, notably among the family audience men, have long been complaining of loss of patronage where smut and ultra smart talk is offered as entertainment. The C. E. A. general council has not yet considered the matter but doubtless will now be forced to do so by growing agitation.—WM. H. MOORING.

Cite Million Loss From Dirty Screen

Over $1,000,000 a year is wasted by exhibitors due to their continued use of deteriorated or dirty screens, according to calculations based on investigations of the Society of Motion Picture Engineers, on material published in BETTER THEATRES, and on examinations made by Beaded Screen Corp., of screens actually in use in theatres.

According to that company, the effects of age and dirt cannot be entirely obviated, but it is pointed out that frequent brushing of the surface will prolong the efficient life of a screen by keeping dirt at a minimum. A sound screen being perforated or porous, the air going through, usually with the "help" of drafts or a ventilating system, leaves the dust collected on the screen.

"Resurfacing has been tried," the screen company report declares, "but it has not proved successful. Cleaning is also a disappointment, because it leaves streaks and is about as expensive as a new screen."

The company figures the loss in dollars to exhibitors as the result of an increase in electric power consumption made necessary by lowered reflection capacity.

Ruling in Consolidated-Craft Laboratory Suit Due Soon

Federal Court at Wilmington is momentarily expected to make known its decision in the suit brought by Consolidated Film Industries against Craft Film Laboratories, charging patent infringements in the use of laboratory machinery by Craft.

Derr and Sullivan Quit Caddo Nov. 20

From Hollywood comes the announcement that E. B. Derr and Charles B. Sullivan will leave the Caddo organization November 20, with a statement saying that Howard Hughes says the resignations come by mutual consent in view of the fact that the program outlined for them has been completed.

Both Mr. Derr and Mr. Sullivan were for some years variously in the commercial retinue of Joseph P. Kennedy of Boston beginning with the Fore River plant of the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation of World War days. They went thence to the motion picture business with the Kennedy acquisition of FBO and along with his brief impact upon First National and somewhat more enduring connection with Pathe Exchange, Inc.

Derr's last post in the Kennedy organization was in charge of production at the Pathe Culver City studios. There in the later days of the activity of Pathe Exchange, Inc., differences between Derr and Kennedy arose and Clinton J. Scollard, a close confidant in the Kennedy cabinet, was sent to Culver City. Presently Derr and Sullivan departed and announced their Hughes connection.

"U" Earns $1,198,363 Net In Nine Months Period

Net profit of $1,198,363 was earned by Universal in nine months ended August 1. Net loss of $102,747 is reported for the third quarter, comparing with net profit of $255,784 in the preceding quarter and net loss of $146,340 in the corresponding 1930 quarter.

Liabilities are listed at $1,908,702, against current and working assets of $8,727,653.

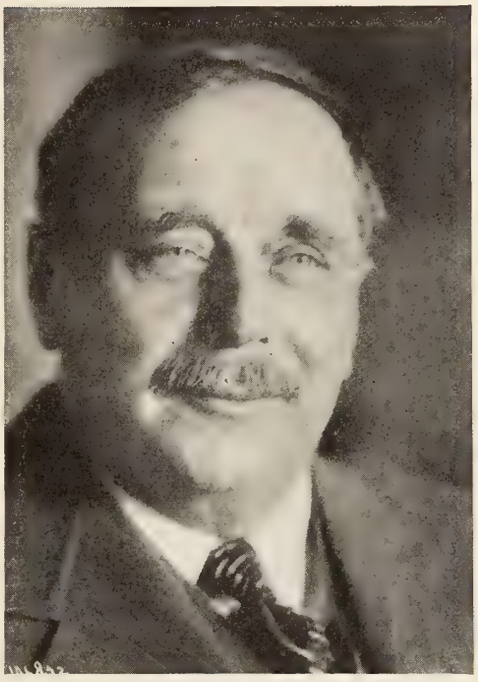
HOPE IN SOUND, NOT TALK: WELLS

As for Producers, "What Dreadfully Illiterate Persons These Showmen Are," Novelist Observes

By TERRY RAMSAYE

Mr. H. G. Wells, who is a seer and a philosopher if you agree with him, and just a novelist if you do not, arrived this week from England for an American sojourn and tour of several weeks. He may or may not have some motion picture transactions on his hands before he sails for home. He does not appear to care very much, either.

Chatting most informally and unofficially, Mr. Wells was able to make a number of pungent observations about the motion picture industry. Showmen are, he finds, "dreadfully illiterate and unintelligent" about their wares. He notes that the motion picture has outgrown itself and become too imposing. He thinks the silent picture had begun to be an art and that many of the present talkies are abominations, destroying motion picture followings and tending to "educate a demand for the stage."



Mr. Wells was winding up a busy morning of dictation to his secretary in the sunny corner of Nelson Doubleday's office down in Madison avenue, when I entered the picture. He is a smallish chunky bit of a man, not at all the dominant physical type that the book jacket photographs and the book counter cut-outs would make you believe. It is well over three decades since he left the instructor's rostrum in the classroom to begin the literary career which has made him a world figure, but there is something in his manner that suggests the stamp of the school master has never been entirely obliterated. There is no pretense about him, or personal stagecraft, and unlike the many visiting Englishmen he is neither so casually nor so carefully dressed that one notices what he wears. The lines in his face suggests that he has spent a lot of his lifetime smiling quietly to himself about things. He speaks rapidly and lets punctuation take care of itself.

▲

The conversation began with a bit of badinage between us, in which Mr. Wells so highly appreciated what I had written about him and I so warmly appreciated what he had written about me. This went over unanimously without even a hint of disagreement.

The fact is that a few years ago, mulling through some rather old British patent papers, I came upon the discovery that Mr. Wells and Mr. Robert W. Paul, an instrument maker, of London, came dangerously near to inventing and launching the photo-drama full born as an art form in the far year of 1895, as a consequence of Mr. Wells' then new story, "The Time Machine."

Mr. Wells now with mock solemnity avers that I have made him the "inventor of the cinema." Despite the fact that the Paul-Wells project never got beyond the papers in a patent application, Mr. Wells, down all the intervening years, has been decidedly screen conscious, and one of his more recent works, a novel, "The King Who Was a King," was written in a quasi scenario form.

H. G. WELLS

"You have done everything about the motion picture except to make one," I remarked across Mr. Doubleday's imposing antique walnut. "I imagine that the producers have been after your material often enough, too, —just what seems to be the matter?"

"My dear fellow," exclaimed Mr. Wells, "they have, they have—but what dreadfully illiterate persons these showmen are!

"Why, do you know they come to me every now and then for a picture on Peace and I refer them to 'The King Who Was a King.' Then they ask me what it is about." Mr. Wells tossed up his hands in a gesture of surrender. "It is available in English, German and French, and they want me to tell them what it is about."

The preposterousness of it gave him another merry chuckle. He is full of chuckles, because from where he sits this is not so bad an old world, after all.

"Why, do you know," he confided, "one American producer, ——, asked me to submit a two-thousand word synopsis of it. If they cannot find out what it is about by reading it, I shall never be able to tell them."

Mr. Wells' attention was drawn to a number of recent assertions in various quarters that some signs in the sky portend that the stage may yet turn the tide of dominance against the screen.

"Yes—possibly—" he responded. "I sometimes suspect that the talking picture is just educating an audience and giving it an appetite for the stage.

"The silent picture was another art, a swift plausible medium, but the talking picture—how often so absurd. We see a man a half a mile away and we hear him talking! The silent picture had breadth and scope. Now they drag the infernal microphone around, and there is such an infinity of difficulty and labor that the entertainment is squeezed out. It is all too much bother."

▲

It seems, however, that Mr. Wells is not in despair about the future of the art. He feels that in time the "sound picture," as opposed to the "talking picture" so highly dependent on dialogue, will become great.

"The cinema has become so pretentious that the cinema habit of its patrons is being broken," remarked Mr. Wells. "Going to the cinema now tends to be an event instead of a casual thing. In my own case, for instance, I can remember, back during the war, when I was much under stresses and strains, I used to drop into the cinema every day, for an hour, perhaps two hours. But now it is a very different thing. If one is to go to the cinema now, he must wash his face and put on a white collar and be a good boy and get there on time at 8:30 o'clock, sharp. And I'm damned if I will stand for it."

The talk drifted to product and immediately hit again on the theme of over-reaching pretentiousness. Mr. Wells commented on Charles Chaplin's having spent something like three years on one picture.

"I wish," he said, "that he would make a great many more and less perfect and imposing pictures—do the lightly done spontaneous laughable things that we used to enjoy so week after week."

Mr. Wells agrees that the motion picture could be much greater if it were not so "important."

Hence the Tea Order

A requisition went through the Accounting Department of Universal Pictures Corporation the other day calling for a quarter of a pound of tea, and a pot of marmalade. Carl Laemmle was entertaining H. G. Wells in his office at 730 Fifth Avenue. It was in this wise that Mr. Wells replied to his invitation:

"I could look in at 730 on Tuesday at 4:30 if you will pander to my English vice of tea drinking at that time.

"Sincerely,

"H. G. WELLS."

BRITISH-AMERICAN FILM PACT NOW MIGHT AVERT IMPORT TAX THREAT

Assessment Would Hurt Smaller Theatres

English Government Aids Central Clearing House for Marketing Films in Small Dominions

By WM. H. MOORING, London

The industry in Great Britain, it is expected, will suffer at the hands of the Conservatives, who this week registered an overwhelming victory at the polls. Imports, generally, will be tilted, which will inevitably affect films.

Thomas Ormiston, Scottish exhibitor who is largely responsible for drafting of the Quota law in 1927, is among the new members of Parliament.

Not only is there serious and weighty agitation in favor of import tariffs; there is quite obviously a sheer necessity for some kind of drastic departure from established policy, if England is to increase her income from foreign markets.

How Correct Adverse Balance?

In Motion Picture Herald of October 10 I was able to tell of secret conversations which have been going on between influential members of various—and widely diverse—political organizations and which have resulted in an "understanding" that, irrespective of election issues, the next Government will turn an eye upon the Anglo-American film situation.

In short, it is felt that U. S. A. is taking far too much money out of Britain and the British Empire.

By what means can the adverse balance of British trade be corrected? Must Britain secure a wider market within her own territories by building up import tariffs, or can she, under threats to do so, insist upon some concrete scheme of reciprocity between her own nationals and those of U. S. A.?

Danger in Imports Tax

As far as films are concerned, New York and Hollywood may as well become reconciled to the fact that—if prevailing political temper counts for anything—it must be either one thing or the other.

An imports tax—favored by the die-hard section of the Conservative party, and by an influential number of the National Labor Party adherents, combined with the devastating effects of gold standard abandonment, probably would render unprofitable any film trading between American producers and British theatres.

There is already a danger that the fall in the pound sterling will place American distributors on this side well "in the red."

But an import duty on American films would do more; it would so restrict the importation of foreign films as to injure most directly and definitely all the smaller theatre organizations in Britain, because they rely, and must for some considerable time at any

(Continued on page 22)

Asks Unions to Help

The IATSE & MPMO has, through International President William Canavan, issued a request to all unions that the services of members be donated for special performances given in theatres, the proceeds of which are to be donated to local relief agencies for local use.

May we express sincere appreciation of this action on the part of President Canavan and the IATSE & MPMO. It is to be hoped that all locals will accept the recommendation, and do every possible reasonable thing to make the movement a success.—H.F.R.

Garber, RKO Pathe, Develops New Studio Set Spotlights

David S. Garber, head of the RKO Pathe studio construction department, has perfected two new devices which are in use at the studio and are claimed to have solved a problem long a troublesome one to production studios.

The devices are portable spotlight platforms, one on rollers, which never leaves the floor, and the other suspended from the rafters of a stage. Garber claims increased studio efficiency of 40 per cent and actual saving of $60,000 per year on expenses.

National Groups Agitating For Australian Quota Law

Numerous civic organizations of Australia have been active in trying to induce the commonwealth government at Sydney to introduce a film quota law similar to that in force in England.

The organizations engaged in the propaganda are for the most part national in scope and are at the moment stressing the agitation which has been quietly carried on for some time.

Paramount Players En Route

Peggy Shannon left New York for Hollywood to begin work on "Second Chances" for Paramount. Jeanette MacDonald and Miriam Hopkins also left for the Coast. Gary Cooper has left for Italy for a vacation and Lilyan Tashman is returning to New York to work with Claudette Colbert in "Her Confession."

Obtain Theatre Injunction

The Dickinson Theatres circuit has secured a temporary injunction restraining William Schenkekberger from operating the memorial auditorium at Hiawatha, Kans., as a motion picture theatre. The Dickinson theatres operate in the town.

Fuller-Hayward In Tough Spot

Theatres in New Zealand controlled by Fuller-Hayward have fallen into the hands of trustees for debenture holders, and extreme difficulty is expected in resisting liquidation. As a result of the corporation's position, thousands of dollars of film contracts, thousands in debts and rent are in the melting pot. Owing to the vast number of claims and concerns involved, it appears practically impossible to iron out the respective positions of mortgagees, debenture holders, creditors and shareholders, failing liquidation, without considerable and complicated litigation involving the Mortgagors' Relief Act, and this litigation is thought to be absolutely necessary. Approximately 40 theatres are affected. Liabilities are enormous, claims of unsecured creditors alone totaling $1,000,000.

Names of American distributors on the creditor's list are unknown, nor is it possible at this time to ascertain the amounts owing to them.

Hardings Are Returning To Kansas City Theatre Field

Sam and Dave Harding, veteran Kansas City showmen, and leading factors in the formation of the former Associated Exhibitors firm, are understood to be about to return to the film business in Kansas City.

The brothers, who have been out since selling their circuit to Universal, are said to be about to take over 10 Fox Midland suburban houses, closed because of a dispute with projectionists.

Buddy Rogers Will Bring Own Band Together Jan. 1

Charles "Buddy" Rogers has decided to form his own band, having rejected the long-standing offer by Fred Waring that Rogers take over Waring's Pennsylvanians if he would pay salaries and expenses.

Rogers will bring together his band January 1. His contract with Paramount expires December 1 but he will stay with the company until completion of "The Jazz King," musical in which he is starring.

Carolina Showmen To Meet

The Carolina Theatre Owners' Association will hold its mid-winter convention at the Hotel Charlotte in Charlotte, N. C., on December 7. Charles W. Picquet is organization president.

To Honor Herrington

Fred J. Herrington, veteran exhibitor organizer, will be honored by independent theatre owners at a testimonial dinner scheduled for Pittsburgh, November 3, at the Hotel Henry.

FACTORY AND OWN SALES STAFF FOR DEBRIE IN U.S. INVASION

Use Passes With Care, Warns Head Of Publix Group

Harry Katz, division director of the Indiana-Illinois territory for Publix, has advised careful evaluation of all tieups involving special passes, to insure proper box office returns and to guard against cheapening the theatre in the community.

"You can't keep up the value of anything you give away for nothing, and a too liberal policy with passes in merchant and newspaper tieups may react unfavorably," said Katz.

He stresses the point that the success of a free-pass tieup cannot be determined from a study of the returns for that day, when extra business is expected. It is necessary to check against the business for the evening if the tieup is for matinee, or vice versa, and against the gross for the week. Often the pass tieup merely shifts patronage from one part of the week to another, rather than increasing business, Katz points out.

Passes, he believes, should be reserved for "weak sisters" on the presentation schedule, adding that the manager must play fair with the opposition in using such selling tactics. It is also necessary to watch the type of merchant with whom the tieup is effected, in Katz's opinion.

Cinelog Corporation Latest Of Erpi Producer-Licensees

The newly incorporated Cinelog Corporation, New York is the latest producer licensee using Western Electric's sound system. The company will produce a series of travel-explorer films, covering unusual places here and in foreign countries.

Lorenzo Del Riccio, head of Cinelog, plans the recording of sound at the time the films are taken. The equipment used is light in weight and contains the new magnet light valve modulators and moving coil microphone.

Bargman Heads Laboratory Merger

First laboratory in the East exclusively to handle 16 mm. printing and developing will function as Union Film Laboratory, headquarters at 630 Ninth Avenue, New York. Union is an outgrowth of U. S. and Hudson, Jersey plants, and is headed by Sol Bargman, formerly with Craft, and Josh Levin, who is vice-president and treasurer.

New Academy Head Takes Post

M. C. Levee, executive manager of Paramount west coast studios, has assumed his position as president of the board of directors of the Academy of M. P. Arts and Sciences in Hollywood.

To Battle for Laboratory And Studio Business

Wide Film and Standard Size Cameras and Printers to Be Marketed Here by French Company

American manufacturers of studio, camera and laboratory equipment are, for the first time in a decade, faced with serious competition. Invasion of the production equipment field in the United States was actively launched in New York this week by Debrie, pioneer French company, which plans to establish its own sales forces at New York, Chicago and Hollywood to engage in a competitive battle with American makers, principally Bell & Howell and Mitchell Camera. Basil Lermont, treasurer and general manager, is in charge of the American invasion, the first ever attempted by Debrie directly.

Printer to Be Marketed

A film printer will be marketed, which, according to Lermont, is the first $3,000 machine to simultaneously print sound and image. Bell & Howell has been working on a simultaneous printer, and only recently completed its development. The Bell & Howell device will be marketed shortly, and, it is understood, will cost approximately $9,000. However, several individual laboratory organizations, including Craft Film at New York, perfected their own printers to embrace simultaneous film and sound track printing.

An innovation in the studio equipment field is the Debrie "Visographie," listed at $18, which, according to Lermont, eliminates all chance in focusing of cameras, obtains correct photographic values of colors (done through a special blue filter brought to the eye by rotation of a small disc).

The Debrie device, a push-and-pull affair, weighs only 350 pounds, its base and other heavy metallic parts being constructed of a new light aluminum-alloy. It prints each frame separately, unlike American machines which follow the continuous movement process.

Light treatment is controlled directly through rheostats on an automatic principle, rather than through the enlargement or narrowing of the diaphragm, as is done by most American printers. Twenty degrees of light are obtainable, permitting of any number of variations, according to Lermont, who explained that the light system used is basically the same as that used in operation of a player piano by means of perforations in a music roll

Present laboratory methods superimpose titles from a separate title negative. This is eliminated in the Debrie projector which has automatic gadgets to print titles without the use of a full-length title negative. The machine, therefore, simultaneously

(Continued on page 22)

Court Decisions Vary on Legality Of Film Contract

Judge Swenson in the Grand Forks, N. D., district court has ruled illegal the standard form of exhibition contract in which is embodied the arbitration clause outlawed by the Thacher decree, in what is claimed to be the first decision of its kind.

The legality of the contract, with the outlawed arbitration clause eliminated, was upheld, on the other hand, by Federal Judge Stewart in Philadelphia. The court ruled there that the action of Warners against the Seville theatre should be tried on its merits, over-ruling a demurrer. This is in line with several similar decisions rendered recently.

The North Dakota judge held that both distributors and exhibitors were parties to an illegal combination in making the contract in a case brought by United Artists against John Piller, Valley City, N. D., exhibitor. Court aid in recovering alleged damages was refused United Artists with judgment ordered in favor of the exhibitor.

S. H. Halpern, one-time counsel to the Minneapolis Film Board of Trade, handling actions for the Northwest exhibitor unit members, was counsel for Piller. Halpern contended the contract is illegal, in his defense of "conspiracy" in which the exhibitor is set on a par with the distributor.

Momand Fight to Finish, Says Counsel in Film Suit

The conspiracy case against Griffith Amusement Company and various distributors will be fought out to a finish, B. B. Blakeney, counsel for A. B. Momand of Shawnee, Okla., said in New York before leaving for Oklahoma. Blakeney cross-examined witnesses for the taking of depositions.

The next hearing in the state's case at Shawnee will be November 9, and Momand is prepared to take the $2,000,000 fight to the United States supreme court if necessary, his attorney said. Conspiracy of the defendants to shut off film service to Momand is charged.

Taking of testimony was concluded Tuesday. Felix Feist of M-G-M and Phil Reisman of Universal had testified on Monday, Sidney Kent of Paramount had been before Blakeney Friday.

Brandt Seeks 12 Stage Theatres in Key Cities

Brandt Theatrical Enterprises is reported to be seeking twelve "legitimate" theatres of the Shubert and Erlanger interests in key cities. Brandt's Subway Circuit has four houses, one of them, the Lyric, being a combination house. The policy of combination shows will be adopted.

ASIDES AND

By James P.

FIND the downtown New York lawyer-friend of William Fox and you will have the source of many of those rumors crediting Harley L. Clarke, Fox Film chief, with being favorably inclined toward the return of Bill Fox as operating executive of the Fox companies.

Insiders believe that William Fox interests are circulating the reports in line with a plan of his to accumulate blocks of Fox "B" stock, to be used in case the company fails to pay four consecutive quarterly dividends, when control automatically passes from "A" holders (Clarke) to holders of "B."

However, one film executive in New York, who is supposed to be in the know, says he will bet two-to-one that Fox will be in the saddle again before April 1, and that negotiations with this in mind were actually started several weeks ago, with Fox supposed to have rejected the initial proposal.

▼

The depth of disillusionment was reached the other day by ye ed. when he cast his bleary eyes on a piece of Universal publicity matter which blazoned forth with the startling revelation that "Contrary to previous announcement, it became known yesterday that Carmel Myers, who was added to the cast of 'Nice Women' at the last moment is not supposed to be a nice woman at all!"

▼

The Astor in New York, one of America's most reputable hostelries, pulled a fast one last week when it rented one of its ballrooms for a preview showing of the initial Mendelssohn-Young production, charging $100 for the screening and $300 for luncheon to the trade and news press, with the understanding that its regular Western Electric sound installation would be used for the showing.

Lights were dimmed and for one hour news writers and editors suffered during one of the poorest renditions of sound that any one might even believe possible. One of the two projectors broke down completely because of its inability to reproduce, and the second unit was hardly audible.

Alarmed because of the possible reaction of the press, sponsors of the company, which made its debut at the gathering, investigated and discovered that two cheap, bootleg sound devices had been pawned off by the hotel in place of the Erpi machines.

▼

It will be just too bad for industry moguls and stellar lights who lack a sense of humor when "Ballyhoo," laugh magazine, appears soon with a burlesque on motion pictures which will flush more than one face well known to the public when the gang in both Hollywood and New York are taken over the hurdles.

▼

Published statements crediting the Hays organization with saying "more than 20,000 theatres" will participate in the industry's unemployment campaign are untrue. Twenty thousand theatres will not participate for the simple reason that there are not that many. And the Hays unit never said that they would.

Certain members of the general committee in charge of unemployment relief, who evidently lack statistical knowledge of their own industry, promiscuously banter about in true press agent style, these figures which even an elementary film student would immediately recognize as being ridiculous.

The distinguished and pithy Peter Arno, who has insight and philosophy in his pencil hand, sat across the table from the distinguished and pithy Edward M. Fay, cinema impresario and exhibitor of Providence in Rhode Island, the other day, and this sincere bit of portraiture resulted.

MOTION picture theatres in towns situated along the U. S.-Canadian border are having headaches trying to straighten out the complex situation which has developed since Canadian money (British) took a drop following cessation in England of gold as a money standard.

Local banks and retail stores discount the money from 10 to 15 per cent and many theatres are refusing, for the first time, to accept the Canadian coins, while others take it only on condition that the entire amount presented is used to purchase tickets. A 50-cent Canadian piece, for instance, will purchase two 25-cent ducats, but exhibitors will not sell one ticket and return 25 cents change in American money.

▼

How unfortunate it is that the only people who know how the public business should be handled chose to be mere writers.—Publishers' Syndicate.

▼

Lots of this in the sticks, but isn't it rather unusual on Broadway to see Warners using the two-for-one ticket plan for all of their stands along New York's Main Stem? The circuit has planted the idea in Brooklyn, too. Cards in Flatbush grocery stores invite the purchaser of Astor brand coffee to present a label and one admission price at leading houses and receive two tickets.

▼

There is a Broadway renegade, notorious for passing rubber checks in New York's film row, who has told so many that his father is one of President Hoover's cabinet, that he really believes so himself.

▼

Rumors linking United Artists-Fox and MGM persist.

SOME ONE, IT SEEMS asked John Barrymore when he intends to retire from the stage to live in ease and pursue his hobbies, and Mr. Barrymore's reply was, in effect: "A man would need about $40,000,000 to do that." Of course, that may be just Mr. Barrymore's whim. We have no doubt that men have retired and had a helluva good time on less than $40,000,000. In fact, we have figured out a way to do it for $40,000, but our prospectus does not include yachts. To be sure, our hobbies are not expensive. In fact, they are revenue producing. The Barrymore estimate of a modest competence did not leave us either discontented or reconciled to our lot. It did not even start us off on a long daydream of what we would do with $40,000,000. Our daydreams are much more modest than that. The other day we spent a good hour and a half blissfully meditating upon the disposal of a hypothetical $1,200.

▼

Howard (Prospect Press) Reichenbach calls it "Heeb-room-malaria." Ask him to show it to you.

▼

The only manner in which a certain department head of a major distributor can save his job is by quickly disposing of that speakeasy which he operates as a sideline in New York's Greenwich Village. The home office knows about it and is more than slightly peeved.

▼

Heap big money is backing a new company, now in process of incorporation, and which will soon make its debut with the message: "An Opportunity for You to Go in Business for Yourself—As a Motion Picture Exhibitor!"

▼

Well, W.W., who are the "two chin-ema executives (not Fox) who have been millionaires and are now within hailing distance of the breadline?"

▼

If "spies" of the raw stock companies get busy they may stumble across a device which will cut costs of film at least 20 per cent and which now reposes in the humble New York office of a small equipment company, where officials are frank to state that the new attachment, following precedent, will probably be purchased and stored away in the dark vaults of one of the raw stock firms, never more to threaten a reduction in income of either Eastman Kodak, Du-Pont, Agfa, et al.

▼

Poor Scarface!

"I felt so sorry for Capone," remarked Edward Robinson (screen gangster) as he emerged from the Chicago courtroom just before Uncle Sam sentenced Alfonse to jail on income tax evasion. "I kind of hope he gets off. He seemed so CALM and UNRUFFLED sitting there."

▼

We bet there are some exhibitors who will ballyhoo "The Spirit of Notre Dame" as a sequel to "The Hunchback."

▼

Old Man Depression came in for a severe tongue-lashing this week from a top notch film executive in New York who was forced to move from his $15,000 a year apartment to a cheap and squalid $8,000 jernt.

INTERLUDES

Cunningham

PARAMOUNT was reported recently in these columns as standing to lose more than $100,000 this season in the operation of its poster department as a result of inroads made on poster sales by independent poster exchanges who buy back paper from exhibitors to resell to other theatre owners at prices lower than those quoted by the distributor.

Steve Farrar, of Colonial Amusements, Illinois, immediately took up the cudgels on behalf of exhibitors, blaming distributors themselves for the poster situation. Says Farrar:

"How easy it would be for Paramount and all other producers to run the poster exchanges out of business. The only reason that exhibitors buy posters from these exchanges is that they know that they are being robbed by the producers on all advertising accessories!

"If the exchanges will cut the price on one sheets to seven cents, three sheets to 25 cents, six sheets to 50 cents, 11 x 14 photos to 45 cents, and all other advertising in like manner, see how much more advertising the exhibitor will use, and how quick he will order from the distributor in preference to the second-hand poster exchange.

"There is no reason for advertising to be selling to-day at the prices the exchanges are charging, and they have no one but themselves to blame for the losses they are showing on advertising."

▼

Will Erpi executives reveal, please, the lowdown on J. Kaufman's exit from Audio Cinema Studio, in the East?

▼

Herb (United Artists) Berg, a new benedict, mistook asthma for passion the other night—which explains those "hickeys."

▼

Does Louis B. (Metro studio chief) Mayer know that his brother, Rudolf, in New York, is trying to cash in on "L. B.'s" well known film name in promoting a new 16 mm. picture company?

Mentioned prominently in all publicity and press matter of the new non-theatrical enterprise is the line: "President Rudolf Mayer, brother of Louis B. Mayer of M-G-M!"

▼

On the day that an RKO home office efficiency expert fired Sam Worshawsky just to show Hy Daab that his title also carried home office authority, the bank in which Sam and his little family had stored their savings closed its doors following a run.

▼

Newspaper editors may be interested in the fact that next month Italy will dispatch to America a squadron of 24 airplanes as a goodwill gesture. They will arrive here simultaneously with the release of a feature film depicting the recent flight of Italian flyers to South America.

▼

A London editor describes the newspaper reviewer in this manner:

"A critic's job is to hold his job by writing more readable stuff than that written by the critic on the competitive newspaper."

▼

That Clara Bow "comeback" may happen any day now.

HOWARD HUGHES, during the making of "Hell's Angels," received more unfavorable and kidding pokes at his production efforts and penchant for spending than have ever been known in the picture business. They called him "the great white-haired boy of Hollywood," "an answer to the extra's prayer," and when his production bill on the air film mounted to the staggering sum of $3,000,000, scores within and outside of the industry passed off the event as "an oil man's plaything," etc.

Hughes, however, did not worry about eventualities and proof of the fact that his judgment is more intelligent than many veterans of Hollywood rests in the interesting grosses already rolled up by "Angels," which still has 55 per cent of untouched territory to play and already is in the black!

And the irony of it all is that the columns of criticism in trade and news press did more to make exhibitors and the public "Hell's Angels" consciousness than a million dollar's worth of space bought and paid for.

▼

Life*'s little joke: Gertrude Symanski, Detroit girl, declined an offer of a movie career because she thought too many girls "go wrong" in Hollywood.

▼

Several theatre managers of the Frisch and Rinzler circuit in Brooklyn are much disturbed over the item appearing on this page recently in which mention was made of a salary-slashing campaign having been instituted by Sam Rinzler.

They denied that a general reduction was ordered in salaries of managers receiving more than $50 weekly. But, strangely, they appear to know nothing of company managers who were recently fired and then rehired at a lower salary scale.

Quick, a Bromo!

Motion picture theatre owners of America who insist upon laboring under self-inflicted pain whenever the thought of economics and the box office grind the gears of their mentality might divert some of that lost energy from worrying to work if they but knew the handicaps under which their colleagues abroad are forced to operate.

A typically successful (?) theatre in London, for instance, tells its story in these few figures:

Seats		2,000
Year's gross		$207,030
Paid:
Government tax	$29,550
Sun. Charity tax	2,000
Spc'l taxes, etc.	5,000
Rent, rental, overhead, expense, general	220,240	256,795
NET LOSS		$ 49,765

NOT more than three weeks ago, while Lee Ochs was fighting a battle with union projectionists at his half-dozen New York theatres, he was publicly defamed by union officials as a big so-and-so, chock full of this-and-that, a traitor, narrow minded, stupid, a tyrant, lacking business judgment—and what have you.

One week later Lee and the union adjusted their differences and now everything is serene along upper Manhattan's theatre front. But with the settlement there came a humorous aftermath. The same union chiefs who so vigorously condemned Ochs made a complete about-face when a settlement was effected and cluttered the columns of their union journal with loud words of praise for Lee, hailing him as a "remarkably courageous and resourceful man," who is "generous and fair" above all else, a "brainy, clever individual," who "proved most of the time that he knew what he was doing!"

▼

The mail bag this week brought forth the following classic:

"October, 1931.

"Dear friend Martin

"Quigley Pu. Co. moving Picture Herald

I can spick 10 diference languge. I bin travel all over Europe South America and U. S. A. I can tell you more store or any thos person what play thos moving picture in rily. What was true how people wear close and how act is funy. If I hev sombody produs my story what I see rily on my eyes ell bi vorth bilion dollars. What is bin hapin an what be come out on this world jet I am garanty on my word I am tell you true. I am widower.

"I hev 4 children. I am poor men but if you piople vant help me out pay me something ich vik I will giv you planty rill story what is true and you can make moving picture that make avri body sadisfaid.

"What is bin happen and true the World War is planty Estory to show to the piopell what is bin working."

▼

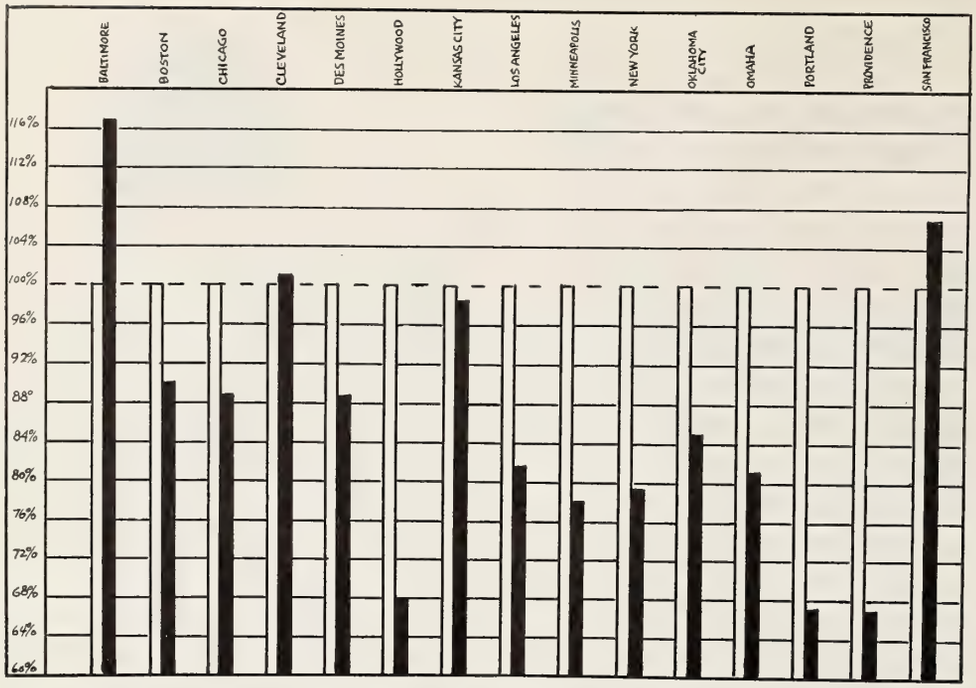
Teddy Smith, the veteran assignment editor and fixer for Pathe News, is now on detached service making a secret and confidential investigation for Jack Connolly, general manager of the News. No one knows about it.

▼

Eddie McAvoy of RKO Pathe still has golf tan, but his alibi is he gets it before office hours in the A. M. Eddie also has saved several hundred dollars on hats in the last few years.

▼

In days gone by, F. Herrick-Herrick was in front line directorial ranks. This week he is making a community short for the Fox house at St. Louis.



▼

Bill LeBaron at Radio's Hollywood lot knows his picture business. He picked Erich von Stroheim to portray the role of a hard-boiled director.

Lou Brock, on the same lot, is searching for a horse with the heaves (not hives) that can act for one of his shorts.

▼

Thanks to Paul Benjamin for that highly interesting tour of National Screen's plant in New York and to Rutgers Neilson for an entertaining half hour with Ginger Rogers and the RKO "Theatre of the Air" at NBC studios.

This chart, based upon the MOTION PICTURE HERALD compilations of weekly theatre grosses, shows a comparison of box office receipts in fifteen cities for a period of eight weeks, August 16 to October 10, in 1930 and 1931. The black vertical bars represent the receipts for the given period this year. The receipts for the period last year are given as 100 per cent in each case for the purposes of the comparison, and cover the eight weeks' receipts in the same fifteen cities.

Divorcing Screen, Stage, Novel To Aid All Three, Says Selwyn

New Pictures Already Are Showing Realization That Much Dialogue Is Too Much, Says Selwyn

A three-cornered divorcement of screen, stage and novel is under way as each member of the artificial triad is learning that in such a union there is only weakness. So says Edgar Selwyn, back in New York from the Coast to direct "Fast Service," his first theatrical production of the season.

The breakup of this unreasonable wedlock of the arts is for the good of all concerned, and each should advance in its own sphere of activity by the separation, Selwyn believes, because playwrights were attempting to dissect their plays into too many scenes, novelists were taking their eyes off technique in their eagerness to slant their product toward the Hollywood market, and the motion picture itself was becoming too much talk and too little picture.

Growing Further Apart

"I think the three forms of dramatic expression are growing further apart each year," Selwyn said. "If this is true it ought to be encouraging for everybody working in any one of these fields. In the past there has been too much borrowing of ideas and transplanting of technique to a medium for which it wasn't fitted. Now playwrights and novelists and scenarists are coming to realize that their best interests are safeguarded by differences of technique, rather than by attempts to copy each other's style.

"When I first went out to the Coast about two years ago I found motion picture directors following rather closely the stage form of handling both action and dialogue. After I made my first talking picture I returned to the stage and produced some more plays. I found out that playwrights who had spent years learning the technique of dramatic construction for the theatre, with its definite restriction of fours walls, were getting panicky because of the socalled 'talkie competition.' They were trying to break up their plays into too many scenes in order to approximate the flow of motion and the pictorial quality of the screen.

Novelists Spoil Own Books

"In reading novels during this same period I found a lot of good books being spoiled because the authors were watching too closely the screen and stage forms, and not taking enough care of their own technique. I'd hate to tell you how many novels I laid down, half-read, last year, because the author was making too obvious an effort to build something that would look good for talking pictures."

Pantomime and action is getting more attention in the coming season's talking pictures, Selwyn said. He sees a period of stability in store after the earlier tendency of producers to copy stage plays and overpad screen originals.

"When I returned to the picture studios last time from New York," he observed, "I found the producers were profiting decidedly by their earlier mistakes. The new photoplays, it seems to me, have less talk and more action. Talk is inserted only when it is logically necessary. For example, in the screen version of the stage play, 'The Lullaby,' there is about 20 per cent less talk than the average dialogue picture of two years ago. The reason is that the pictorial possibilities of the screen permit far more drama to be put over in 'business' and pantomime than would be possible on the stage.

Sees All Three Benefiting

"I don't think it will be so long before novelists, scenarists and playwrights will work so definitely within their own fields that it will be possible to enjoy equally well, and for different reasons, the same story told as a novel, a stage play and a photoplay. The stories as told in the different mediums will have so many differences that the novel-reader will not turn away from the theatre and say, 'Oh, I know that story,' but will go without hesitation to see the same narrative in its two other reincarnations as a stage drama and as a talking picture."

Selwyn first went out to Hollywood for M-G-M to direct "The Girl in the Show" and he followed this with "War Nurse" and "Men Call It Love," from Vincent Lawrence's stage play, "Among the Married." His new production is Helen Hayes' first motion picture, "The Sin of Madelon Claudet."

Publix Chiefs in Round Table Meet

Sam Katz, Publix chief, has inaugurated a series of Thursday evening "round table" meetings of division directors and heads of departments directly connected with management, as a means of bringing to bear the best minds of the organization on various local and general problems.

Present at the first meeting were Katz, Sam Dembow, Jr., Arthur Mayer, Eugene Zukor, John Balaban, Milton Feld, Bob O'Donnell, Harry Katz, David Chatkin and Leon Netter. Following the first five-hour session it was announced the meetings will be continued indefinitely. Several of the executives present voiced their approval of the idea, and termed it a valuable constructive force in handling their departments.

Three Companies Bring Suit Charging License Violation

Paramount, Universal and Educational have brought suit in the United States district court, Cincinnati, against Moses Wilchens, Raymond G., Julius and Isaac Frankel, operating a group of houses there, charging violation of copyright and license agreement.

The producers charge the exhibitors played a number of pictures beyond the time limit of booking, and seek recovery of $250 damages for each additional showing, as provided under the penalty division of the copyright law.

Supreme Court Upholds Chain Store Tax; Will Hit Circuits

The United States Supreme Court has held constitutional the North Carolina anti-chain store tax under which every firm operating two or more stores under one management must pay a $50 annual privilege tax for each store.

Motion picture theatre circuits are included in the law whose legality has now been established. The Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company instituted the appeal.

EXCHANGES FACE COURT ATTACKS FOR FIGHT ON 10 CENT ADMISSION

Barrist Demands Lower Film Costs

Dave Barrist, newly elected chairman of the board of directors of the MPTO of Eastern Pennsylvania, southern New Jersey and Delaware, will stress the reduction of negative costs in his effort to bring together the independent exhibitor units of the country, in his attempt at reduced film rentals.

Barrist was elected to the post after Jay Emanuel had declined the position on the plea of pressing personal business. The unit sponsored the recent New York M-G-M protest meeting and is now launching a drive to unite all exhibitor organizations under one banner, that of reduced rentals.

A meeting was to have been held in Philadelphia this week to consider proposals for a national exhibitor convention.

Citizens Volunteer To Guard Kansas City Suburban Houses

Citizens' volunteer guards have been organized to protect Kansas City suburban theatres while shows are in progress, following several disturbances and the explosion of a sulphur bomb in a theatre involved in the operator-owner dispute.

Picketing continues at 18 suburban houses that want open shop and at several others operating non-union. Police are co-operating with the Independent Theatre Owners Association and the prosecutors' office, though promising aid, has as yet indicated no disposition to issue warrants against pickets accused of disturbances.

Empire State Union Victor Over Rival Union In Court

The court of appeals of New York state permanently enjoined local 306 of the Projectionists' union from picketing in front of the New United theatre and the New Broadway of Brooklyn. The decision is a victory for the Empire State Operators' Union, which signed a contract with these houses in September, 1928. Local 306 members had been previously employed and have picketed the houses since.

The decision also prohibits the carrying of signs or distribution of notices by Local 306 in front or in the vicinity of these theatres.

Equipment Photophone

RCA Photophone is the sound system installed in the new Westwood theatre, Fox house recently opened in Westwood Village, Cal. It was erroneously stated in the October 24th issue of BETTER THEATRES that the Westwood sound equipment was Western Electric.

Carl Laemmle Names Assistant

Carl Laemmle has named Frank Mastroly assistant to the Universal president. Mastroly has been assistant export manager of Universal for four years.

Kansas City and Atlanta Exhibitors Protest

Double Featuring Also Involved in Contract Disputes—See Return to Arbitration as Solution

Possibility of legal action against national distributors is seen in developments at Kansas City and Atlanta, where efforts of exchanges to curb local trends toward 10-cent admissions have resulted, it is alleged, in refusals to sell film to theatres operating at a dime top.

In Kansas City, Emanuel Rolsky, owner of two theatres charging 10-cent admissions, has requested the Independent Theatre Owners' Association of that city to investigate the alleged refusal of Fox and M-G-M to sell him film. C. H. Burkey, president of the Exhibitors' Association, intimated that the organization would take action. At least one other Kansas City exhibitor has refrained from reducing admissions at his theatre to 10 cents, it is reported, due to the uncertainty of obtaining product from major distributors while operating at that admission scale.

Double Featuring Involved

Other Kansas City exhibitors are watching Rolsky's case with interest, as various angles of protection and competition are said to be involved. Exchanges are reported to have attempted to check the trend to 10-cent admissions by inserting clauses in contracts banning the dime exhibitions.

In all, seven Kansas City theatres are now running at 10-cents admission. Three of these, including Rolsky's two, are also double featuring at this price. Paramount, although not making a stand against 10-cent admissions now, has attempted to prohibit playing of its product on a double feature bill, by inserting clauses to that effect in its contracts. In other cities, notably Chicago, Publix theatres are themselves double featuring Paramount product on an extensive scale.

See Arbitration Need

One Kansas City exhibitor operating two 10-cent admission houses has offered, as a result of the controversy with exchanges, to advance his admission scales on condition his competition makes similar increases. This exhibitor is already increasing his admissions to 15 cents several days each week. Kansas City exhibitors and distributors are agreed that the current admission controversy is one which could be settled without litigation or argument if arbitration were in effect.

"This situation," said one, "demonstrates perfectly that reinstatement of arbitration would be a good thing for both exhibitors and distributors."

With four subsequent-run houses in At-

(Continued on page 24)

Taylor-Woodin Seek Fox Houses: Report

Marshall Taylor, Fox division manager who was in charge of the 28 upstate Fox theatres now in the market for a buyer, and Harry Woodin, Skouras Brothers' division manager, are reported to be bidding for the theatres now that M. S. Comerford no longer is seeking the houses. Others reported bidding are Abe Sablosky and John McGuirk, J. Meyer Schine and Skouras Brothers.

A stipulation that the purchaser give assurance that he will pay Fox the notes as they mature is reported to be a stickler in the negotiations. It is understood that a reliable financing institution must underwrite the notes before Fox will relinquish the theatres.

Woodin, to the reports that he and Taylor sought the houses as a private venture, said: "Don't know anything about the deal."

Columbia Adopts Unit Production

Columbia has put into effect a four-unit system of production on the Coast. The associate producers are Sam Briskin, Jack Bachman, Ralph Block and J. K. McGuiness. Harry Cohn, vice president in charge of production, will confer with each producer on details for each film.

The individual producers will follow their films through to completion, and submit them to Cohn for final consultation. The new system is expected to allow greater freedom of action, singleness of purpose and consequent better results in production.

Canada Film Case Delayed On Plea of Nine Attorneys

Postponement of the film case which grew out of Commissioner White's findings against distributors and producers in Canada was granted at Toronto when nine attorneys presented a plea for the delay before Justice Kelly. N. L. Nathanson, one of those indicted, spent a day in court.

Paramount Centralizes Story Work Under Doran

Paramount has centralized its story department under D. A. Doran, Jr., now that Merritt Hulburd, formerly an editor of The Saturday Evening Post, has been named Doran's assistant. Doran and his staff will handle stories, authors, directors, actors and creative talent. Hulburd will assist in choosing new stories and under the arrangement Maurice Hanline will handle publisher contact. Doran, as general contact, reports to the editorial board twice a week.

THE CAMERA REPORTS

A SIGN OF THE TIMES. Pictures like Universal's "The Spirit of Notre Dame," said the Hollywood Herald, "makes you glad you are connected with the picture business." And Universal's chief, Carl Laemmle, had the editorial enlarged and incorporated in this sign here shown behind him—as praise for his studio "to shoot at."

WAITING. Maybe for a lake to appear on the scene. Maybe for Friday! Reminds us of that subnormal youngster who went to catch a whale, "but all the water he had got was in his mother's pail"—although one need not be all wet to play fish to this maid of the reel—Warner Brothers' fetching Mae Madison.

HAIL! HAIL! A lot of the gang, anyhow. And all of them players in Paramount pictures at the Hollywood studio. If you can't recognize 'em, here you are: Front row—Dorothy Tree, Sylvia Sidney, Vivienne Osborne, Claire Dodd, Marjorie Gateson, Carole Lombard, Wynne Gibson, Jerry Tucker, Eleanor Boardman, Juliette Compton and Frances Moffett. Back row—Russ Clark, Joel McCrea, Maurice Chevalier, Richard Arlen, Frederic March, Jack Oakie, Charlie Ruggles, Eugene Pallette, Gene Raymond, Charles Starrett, John Breeden, Kent Taylor, Charles D. Brown, Allen Vincent, Stuart Erwin and Arthur Pierson. Rounded up on the Paramount lot as the cameras paused for lunch.

OLD FAVORITE. (Above). And still carrying on, is Carmel Myers, who now has a prominent role in Action Pictures' "Chinatown After Dark," the cast of which includes Barbara Kent and Rex Lease.

PROFILE. (Left). An outline of beauty, as deftly modeled in the fine, yet positive, features of Natalie Moorhead, Universal player. Miss Moorhead's current role is as Lily in "Sstrictly Dishonorable."

DOLLED UP FOR THRILLS. The Old Mill theatre, independent first-run house in Dallas, Tex., and unique for its architecture befitting its name, as it exploited Richard Talmadge's new independent film, "Dancing Dynamite," with marquee sign and three-sheets.

PAGE OLD MAN DEPRESSION! And these cans of film were just a part of those shipped by the Educational exchange in Portland, Ore., on one day. William Green, manager of the branch, is he with glasses above a broad and well-earned smile.

EXPLOITATION TIES UP WITH ART. The lobby of Warners' Strand theatre in Brooklyn, as George Arliss and judges passed on pictures of Arliss as "Alexander Hamilton" in a contest promoting the Warner picture. The contest was engineered by Hal Salzman, Strand publicist. Sixty-five students of the Pratt Institute competed, and Brooklyn art critics and civic leaders were judges. First prize went to Beatric Mead.

NEW JERSEY EXHIBITORS ADVISED TO CUT SHOWS

Bulletin Urges Adoption of Factory Method of Part Time Operation to Lower Expenses

The Allied Theatre Owners of New Jersey, of which Sidney E. Samuelson is president, has advised its members in a bulletin to analyze their business, and after definitely determining which days are losing money for them, to close their theatres on those days as the only concrete means of relieving the economic stress of the moment. It is pointed out that this method is that of big business, and is strikingly similar to the system by which factories operate on part time when it is not profitable to operate full time.

The beneficial results of this system stressed in the bulletin are lowering of film costs, adjustment of labor prices, lowering of advertising expense, possible adjustment in theatre rental. "Shortened exhibitions would bring lowered expenses in virtually everything except the absolute fixed overhead," states the message to independent theatre owner members.

See Greater Support

A further result seen is the probable greater support by patrons on the open days. The bulletin advises the exhibitor to explain why the action is necessary and adds, "Don't be sparing of the distributors' feelings. This is the only business in the entire country that is insisting and compelling the retailer to carry the entire burden." The message goes on, "There is no if, but, and or because; we must cut expenses and eliminate hopeless losses if we are to survive. And also consider the advisability of eliminating features, forced upon you by block selling, that you cannot possibly exhibit successfully."

The organization will hold regular meetings at the Hotel Lincoln, New York on October 27, November 10, November 17 and November 24.

Cites Film Cost Drop

The bulletin cites a Dow Jones and Company report that the average cost of films released in September, October and November, 1931 is 20 per cent less than in the three similar months, 1930, and queries, "How many independent exhibitors have received a 20 per cent cut in film rental to help them keep open?" The bulletin continues: "There can be no question that if the independent exhibitor is to struggle through and be among those present when business revives, something drastic has to be done. We can look for no help from the distributor. It seems that the home offices are intent on forcing their rule or ruin policy, and that they are going to use this depression to consummate the complete destruction of the independents—the destruction that they were unable to accomplish through illegal methods.

"And remember this. Any exhibitor today who pays the same prices that he paid during the boom is going to be in Hell when business revives. He will have to face staggering increases because the exchange manager will say, 'if you paid those prices when business was bad, you can't steal our film when business is good.'

"Support Educational and if possible buy the company's short subjects. If you permit yourself to be coerced into buying shorts and features and if the result is the passing out of the only company whose backbone product is shorts, you are only tightening the rope around your neck."

Exhibitors are warned not to violate contracts in any respect, in order to avoid the possibility of a copyright complaint. "The big stick of copyright is being wielded overtime and many theatre owners are nursing cracked skulls and broken shins," as a result of violating contracts, the bulletin states, and urges that everything be "put in writing."

Exhibitors are also advised to watch carefully all ordinances introduced in their communities, with particular attention to the present legislative agitation for one man to each projection machine.

Herald Issue Distributed At Tri-State Convention

Exhibitors of Arkansas, Mississippi and Tennessee, members of the Tri-States MPTO, open their annual convention at Memphis Sunday, November 1. A special shipment of copies of the current issue of Motion Picture Herald is going forward to Memphis to greet the theatre men at their first business session.

M. A. Lightman, president of the M. P. T. O. A., will address the convention. The Tri-State organization is home territory to Lightman. His circuit headquarters are at Memphis and it was from the Tri-State MPTO that he was chosen for his national organization duties.

M-G-M is distributing souvenir material on its product at the Memphis meeting.

16mm Company Opening 3 Offices; Plans Total of 150

Distributing exchanges, under the auspices of the International 16mm. Pictures, Inc., were opened on Monday, October 26, simultaneously in New York, Boston and Philadelphia. Rudolf Mayer, brother of Louis B. Mayer of M-G-M, is president of the company.

According to Mayer, it is expected that within a short time, 150 similar distribution centers in as many cities will be operated for the handling of film for the 16mm. projectors of the company, made by Sparks-Withington Co., International Projector Co., and the Sprague Specialties Co.

105 Chicago Exhibitors Sign New Projectionist Agreement

Members of the Chicago Exhibitors Association, headed by Jack Miller, to the number of 105, have signed new contracts with the projectionists' union embodying the same terms as that signed by members of the Allied unit.

It is understood 15 of these houses are definitely set for one operator in the projection booth.

Time to Dress Up!

"There is little wonder that hundreds of small theatre owners find it tough sledding, what with their theatre fronts and lobbies being so repulsive because of their battered-down condition," John R. Freuler, independent producer-distributor and president of Big Four, says.

"A little paint, some elbow grease and a few attractive decorations," said Freuler, "will go a long way to eliminate that so-called "aneamic box-office."

Sunday Shows Win Clear Field for Year By British Measure

In order to regularize the situation affecting Sunday opening in England, the Government almost at its last gasp rushed through Parliament, a bill called the Sunday Performances (Temporary Regulation) Bill under which local licensing authorities may permit Sunday shows, provided they had established the practice of allowing these before the high courts declared them illegal under an ancient law of 1780.

The idea of the bill is to protect theatre owners against actions which could have been brought—some were—by common informers under the old Sunday Observances Act.

It will depend upon the constitution of the House as to whether Sunday freedom will be upheld or not; meantime the industry has no central fighting force, no publicity campaigners, and no set idea as to whether as an industry it is for or against Sunday shows.—W. H. M.

60 Houses Qualify for One-Man in Chicago Decision

Fully sixty of the theatres involved in the settlement made in Chicago with the operators' union will be able to qualify under the one-operator clause "and the saving in wages will be a lifesaver to the remaining houses," says Washington headquarters of Allied States, at the same time paying a tribute to W. A. (Al) Steffes, who was delegated by President Abram F. Myers to lead the fight in Chicago for the independents. The Chicago unit of Allied was quoted as crediting victory to national headquarters and Steffes.

At the same time, the announcement from Washington offices warned that the double feature problem in Chicago threatens to provoke a price war there.

What effect the operator settlement will have upon the conspiracy charges, on which Tom Maloy and other union officials in Chicago stand indicted, is a question now before exhibitors. The question raised is whether the action should be pushed, or dropped, now that peace reigns.

400 NEW YORK EXHIBITORS ARE PLEDGED TO BACK RELIEF DRIVE

The Fiction Buyers Guide

The Best Sellers and Best Renters of the month, based upon the actual count of sales of The Baker & Taylor Company, one of the country's largest retailers of fiction and other types of books, is printed below with the courtesy of The Retail Bookseller, published by Baker & Taylor, as a guide for producers and exhibitors. The September to October period is covered in these reports.

Best Sellers

September 21 to October 20

1. Red-Headed Woman, by Katharine Brush.
2. American Beauty, by Edna Ferber.
3. Judith Paris, by Hugh Walpole.
4. Shadows on the Rock, by Willa Cather.
5. The Ten Commandments, by Warwick Deeping.
6. Skyscraper, by Faith Baldwin.
7. The Wild Orchid, by Sigrid Undset.
8. Finch's Fortune, by Mazo de la Roche.
9. Scaramouche, the King-Maker, by Rafael Sabatini.
10. Two People, by Alan A. Milne.

▲

Best Renters

September 10 to October 10

1. The Ten Commandments, by Warwick Deeping.
2. Shadows on the Rock, by Willa Cather.
3. The Good Earth, by Pearl S. Buck.
4. Belle-Mere, by Kathleen Norris.
5. Finch's Fortune, by Mazo de la Roche.
6. A White Bird Flying, by Bess Streeter Aldrich.
7. Young and Healthy, by Donald Henderson Clarke.
8. Susan Spray, by Sheila Kaye-Smith.
9. Man Made the Town, by Ruby M. Ayres.
10. Brothers in the West, by Robert Reynolds.

Schenck Awaiting Goldwyn

Joseph M. Schenck, in New York, will not sail for Europe, at present, at any rate. He is awaiting the arrival in New York of Samuel Goldwyn about November 15 from the Coast for conferences, after which he will decide whether Hollywood or Europe is his next destination.

Bell & Howell Building Opens

Bell & Howell has opened its new branch office building in Hollywood, housing the Los Angeles Cine Club.

Passless Bread!

Wisconsin theatre owners must keep their passes out of the same package in which a loaf of bread is wrapped in the future, according to an opinion expressed by the assistant attorney general at Madison. Several Wisconsin theatres have recently used the tieup stunt with bakers to promote attendance at the box office. The attorney general's assistant claimed the inclusion of a pass in approximately every tenth package of wrapped bread is a violation of both the trading stamp law and the anti-lottery law. No more passes with your bread, says he.

Governor Asking Picture Control

Governor Flem D. Sampson of Kentucky, who has proved rather unpopular even with his own party, it is understood, last week advocated a federal or state control of motion pictures and radio, in a speech at the Murray State College for Teachers, at Murray, Ky.

The governor, whose term comes to an end on November 3, said in part: "The radio and moving pictures are the two most important agencies at our command. I would not have them removed at any price, but I would have the government of the United States or governments of the several states take charge of these." He advocated placing them under control of educators and churches, "operating them for the public good."

Both the Louisville Times and the Courier Journal sharply denounced the governor for his statements at Murray.

Warner Stars in $6,000,000 Ad Campaign of Lucky Strike

Warner-First National stars are included in a nationwide newspaper advertising campaign with Lucky Strike cigarettes, in which 1800 daily newspapers are included, having an aggregate circulation of some 37,000,000. The cigarette company is appropriating $6,000,000 for the campaign.

Lord, Thomas & Logan, handling the campaign for the cigarette manufacturers, are also utilizing the back covers of numerous popular magazines with national circulations. Full-page ads are used with pictures of the stars and comment concerning their latest films.

Fox Producer Returns

Al Rockett, Fox associate producer, has returned to Hollywood after two months in Europe, most of the time in London and Paris.

$12,000,000 Quota Is Set For the Territory

86 Boston Owners and Others Over Country Rapidly Following N. Y.; Young Praises Cooperation

Four hundred exhibitors in the New York and New Jersey territory and 86 in Boston alone have already pledged their support to the industry's national campaign for unemployment relief, leading the way for exhibitors over the entire country, who are rapidly getting behind the campaign under the supervision of the 300 industry city committees in communities of all sizes.

At a meeting on Tuesday at the Hotel Astor, New York, the approximately 400 exhibitors present pledged the use of their theatres for special benefit performances during National Motion Picture Week, November 18-25. It was decided that the performances would be held outside of regular performance hours, either in the morning at a special matinee, or at midnight, dependent upon which time is more suitable in the case of the individual theatre.

$12,000,000 Quota Set

A quota of $12,000,000 has been set for the New York territory. Charles L. O'Reilly, president of the TOCC, acted as chairman. In response to a direct question put to the gathering by Louis Mizer, New York Film Board counsel and committee secretary, the group promised unanimously to put over the drive. Other speakers at the meeting included Harry D. Gifford, committee chairman; Carl Milliken, representating Will H. Hays; Sidney Samuelson, president of the New Jersey Allied unit; Major L. E. Thompson of RKO, and William Vogel of Loew's.

In Boston, Mayor Curley issued this statement relative to the industry's relief drive, which is said to be indicative of the reaction to the movement by the press and important figures nationally:

"If everyone, and particularly those who have refrained from attending a motion picture show and those who have never attended one, will take this opportunity to give the members of their families a treat by taking them to a motion picture show on this particular occasion, they will not only be bringing joy into the hearts of their own families but cheer and gladness into the hearts of those who have, during the last two years, been walking in the shadow of adversity."

Young Praises Cooperation

Owen D. Young, chairman of President Hoover's national unemployment relief committee, upon accepting from Will H. Hays the offer of the film industry to aid the national effort, said, "This is a splendid offer of cooperation that has been made by the motion picture industry. The special performances proposed will come during the last week of the campaign period. The great majority of local campaigns either will have rate continue to rely, upon America for the bulk of their films.

(Continued on page 24)

RECIPROCITY SEEN AS AID TO U. S. IN BRITAIN

(Continued from page 12)

A reciprocal arrangement between U. S. A. and Britain, ratified by legislation, would be in the lasting interests not only of the British film industry, but—if U. S. A. values this market at all—those of American film investors also.

For the fall in the pound opens automatically to the British film producer markets which have been closed for years; small money from the "little percentage" countries, which previously was scarcely worth working for, now takes on higher value in terms of pounds.

Even America may soon find it more profitable to buy British instead of American films, unless purely economic considerations are overridden by the artifices of monopoly.

Indications appear on all sides that Britain is alive to her new opportunities—golden ones which seem to have dropped totally undeservedly from the heavens.

Indirect Government Aid

One of the first results of the new situation is the fructification of plans which had been pigeon-holed as hopeless, but which now mature in the form of a new Government-aided Central Clearing House for the marketing of British films in all the smaller British territories overseas. The larger Dominions may be included later.

A new company has been formed with the following as directors:

John Maxwell (British International), C. M. Woolfe and Simon Rowson (Gaumont-British), H. Bruce Woolfe (British Instructional) and Sam Smith (British Lion and Regal Films). They are to work in collaboration with an advisory committee appointed by the Colonial Office and consisting of Sir Horace Byatt (former Governor of Tangaka), Sir R. F. Johnston (former Governor of Weiheiwei) and Foxen Cooper (Government film advisor).

Capital will be put up by the film group of the F. B. I., whose agitation led to the Quota, and the Colonial Office will guarantee the concern, to the nominal extent of 1,000 pounds against loss on the first year's working.

The sum guaranteed is not spectacular, but the principle, involving, as it does, indirect Government participation in the financial and political affairs of the British film industry, is significant, particularly at this time.

Special Interests Submerged

Also significant is the fact that representative heads of the leading British film producing concerns have been able to reconcile their views, and to submerge their own special interests in order to forward a move of this kind.

To the American business man, given to thinking in terms of communal trading, the spectacle of all the British production chiefs heading a single unified scheme to market their pictures abroad may appear commonplace. In Britain, where suspicion and the intuitive superiority of the showman has seemed hitherto to present an almost insurmountable barrier to cooperative effort, this link-up between the most powerful and competitive concerns in the industry indicates a complete change of policy.

This change is dictated by the common realization that Britain's hour has struck, that British films are not only certain to gain big advantages in the home market, but that there are high chances of wresting from U. S. A. some of the business which for years has been America's without effort or hindrance.

Without doubt America's reply should be (a) the making of more and still more films on British soil, and (b) the immediate consideration of an Anglo-American Film Trading Pact under which America would guarantee to take (subject to certain quality standards) a certain number of British films for U. S. A. distribution, on the understanding that an agreed number of American films are admitted free of import duty to Britain and other units of the British Empire.

A gesture from America at this juncture would work wonders on the British temper, and probably would avert a crisis which appears to threaten the American film industry with serious reactions.

Pathe Wins a Point; To Group Two Suits on the RKO Merger

Pathe Exchange, Inc., won a point in defense of its merger with RKO when the appellate division of the supreme court granted an application to consolidate into one action minority stockholders' actions brought by Sol Karp and Lena M. Vincent.

Pathe pointed out that notice was sent out last December 5 that stockholders would be asked to vote on the merger. Karp filed suit on December 16 to prevent the merger because Pathe's assets were not valued high enough. In January, 99 per cent voted favorably and the Vincent action was begun in February. The trial action is not expected to come up for at least a year.

Exhibitor Leader Dead

John A. Ackerman, former president of the MPTO of Ohio, and until recently president of the Cincinnati Exhibitors' League, died suddenly this week at his home in Cincinnati. Three sons and six daughters survive.

Boyd Returns To New York

William Boyd is returning to New York to play opposite Claudette Colbert in "Her Confession," to be filmed at the Paramount New York studio in November.

Operating Poster Exchange

James A. Pritchard, former salesman, has resigned from Columbia's Memphis office and is now operating the Exhibitors' Poster Exchange in Little Rock, Ark.

Debrie Invading America With Own Factory and Sales

(Continued from page 13)

prints sound, image and title, eliminating at least one complete printing operation of present systems. Three thousand feet per hour is the average capacity of the printer.

Special Camera Offered

Bids will be made for non-theatrical and educational business with a special table-and-stand model bacteriological camera which can make one frame every seven minutes or 240 per second, allowing for study of microbes, metal, motors and other industrial factors of research. It is operated automatically throughout.

Another printer for non-theatrical use is one which will reduce from 35mm to 16mm and at the same time make two 16mm prints. Cost: $3,500.

A trick machine, listed at $10,000, the injects trick shots and effects into the negative.

A new Debrie polisher, selling for $500, also takes out scratches on negatives.

The company, it is said, already has developed camera and laboratory printing machinery for wide film use. Because no definite standard has been adopted as yet, Lermont said that Debrie's equipment has been made for stock of from 65mm to 75mm width.

New Sound Camera

Probably the highlights of the Debrie line, a new sound camera with an electric rolling tripod which operates in three gears much in the same manner as an automobile, will be marketed at $4,500 complete.

Geared to take 24 pictures per second, the camera, known as the "Parvo," has 1,000 feet inside magazines, new rewind take-ups, 72mm diameter spools with automatic fixing, anti-buckling device with electro-magnetic cut out, new type focusing tube with removable eye-piece, a punch-situated gate, marginal punch, provision for lamp for marking margins and completely muffled mechanism.

The camera's aperture plate is 18.2 x 24.5, with a removable mask, reducing to 18.2 x 22. It has simplified automatic dissolve, without lock; automatic cut-out of camera in case of faulty operation; casing of camera interior insulated, direct coupling of motor by vertical shaft, with safety connector and indication of sound track in printing and focussing apertures.

The sound-proof "blimp," as described by Lermont, photographs through an optical glass having a diameter of 240mm. Any lenses from 35 to 150mm focus can be employed and a focusing tube allows the cameraman to constantly follow his subject directly in the gate aperture.

Air to Have 11th Birthday

On Monday, November 2, will be celebrated the 11th anniversary of the inauguration of regular, pre-announced radio programs over the Westinghouse station, KDKA, Pittsburgh. Dr. Frank Conrad, Westinghouse engineer, broadcast for the first time when he announced over the air the results of the Harding election.

AUSTRALIA GOVERNMENT BILL ASKS ECONOMIC RELIEF FOR EXHIBITORS

Fox Case Hangs On Jurisdiction

A decision must be reached as to whether or not the federal court has jurisdiction in the injunction suit brought by Fox against Kansas state and county officials, before Judge John C. Pollack gives his opinion on the application for a permanent injunction.

Fox Midwest and Fox West Coast are attempting to prevent the authorities from interfering with Fox Sunday theatre operations in Kansas. The court has taken the matter under advisement. Fox attorneys claim the federal court has jurisdiction under interstate commerce, while Kansas authorities claim it has not.

General opinion holds, however, that the judge will decide he has jurisdiction and render an opinion in favor of Fox. If he does, the state will go to higher United States courts, basing its action on a precedent set by the Supreme Court in a previous slot machine case.

Free Books Aid Box Office Intake

Initial distribution of the first of a series of 10 books which are known as Popular Classics, shot his Thursday night gross from an average of $220 to $489, stated Joseph R. Singer, of the Peekskill Theatre, Peekskill, N. Y., yesterday.

Singer's house is the first to experiment with the book stunt which is being engineered by E. A. ("Doc") Golden. Paying 12½ cents each for the 379 books bought, Singer says he spent approximately $50 on exploitation, including a special National Screen trailer, newspaper advertising and lobby display. He kept his admission level at 40 cents, handed out copies of "Treasure Island" to the first 379 women to enter his theatre, and reports considerable interest in the plan.

Radio Sales Meeting Is Set for Chicago on November 1

RKO Radio sales executives and branch managers of the central and mid-western territories will hold a regional sales meeting at the Congress Hotel, Chicago, November 1.

Charles Rosenzweig, vice-president in charge of distribution, will preside. In attendance from the home office will be: Jerome Safron, eastern sales manager; Cleve Adams, western sales manager and Harry Michalson.

Cleveland Salesman Dead

Henry Laws, 36, for eight years Cleveland city salesman for Pathe, died suddenly following an attack of acute appendicitis. He is survived by his widow and a sister.

MOTION PICTURE HERALD
1790 Broadway
New York City

Attention Mrs. McGoldrick:

Permit me to congratulate you on your "School and Screen" department of the MOTION PICTURE HERALD. It is a work that I believe will have far-reaching effect, not only in stimulating interest amongst students to take more than mere entertainment from the pictures they see, but particularly in influencing motion picture producers to devote greater care to including authentic and worthwhile interesting facts in their scripts.

One of the major recognized problems of this industry is to bring children back to the theatre, and in your "School and Screen" I see a vast stride toward this end, particularly if it works the corrective influence that I believe it will.

Sincerely,
THE VAN BUREN CORPORATION,

Amedee J. Van Beuren
president

British Film Imports Show a Sharp Drop From 1930 Figure

Imports of film into Great Britain for the first nine months of 1931 decreased 13,733,590 feet in comparison with the first nine months of 1930. The total this year, according to figures made public by the Board of Trade, London, reached 54,221,486, which compares with 67,955,076 last year.

The declared value of these imports was: for blank film, $650,595; positive, $529,830; negative, $541,135. These approximate figures compare respectively with 1930 figures of: $633,000, $965,000 and $1,368,470.

Catholic Actors Elect Griffin

Gerald Griffin was elected president of the Catholic Actors' Guild of America at the annual election held at Knights of Columbus Hotel, New York, last week. Other officers include Eddie Dowling, first vice president; Hugh O'Connell, second vice president; Rev. Edward F. Leonard, treasurer; Major J. O'Donovan, chairman executive committee.

Would Extend Time to Pay For Sound Equipment

Compel Landlords to Reduce Property Rental and Interest Charges; May Cut Film Costs

The Government of Australia will be the first to force, by legislation, economic relief for theatre owners, in ordering equipment concerns to extend the period payment of sound devices, compelling landlords to reduce property rental and interest charges, and, possibly, bring about lowered film rentals from distributors, if a bill now pending at Sydney is passed.

This revolutionary action is declared by its proponents to be the only solution left to save the Australian industry. At Sydney, sound equipment agencies of American and other foreign manufacturers, and distributors' representatives, principally those of American and British companies, are alarmed over the political coup effected by the Australian exhibitors in obtaining Governmental sympathy and assistance to the extent indicated in the proposed measure, and are frank in expressing their belief that its passage would make impossible their further participation in the Australian market.

Would Cut Weekly Payments

The pending legislation considerably extends the payment period on sound equipment of foreign, British or local manufacture. Where most exhibitors made purchases by an agreement extending over 10 years, with a stipulation that its cost be fully paid for after three, the new measure, embodied in a special Motion Picture Sound Equipment Bill, would spread the promissory notes over the full decade. In some cases, weekly payments will be reduced from as high as $100 to as low as $15.

That such legislation will come as a lifesaver to many independents, and to circuits such as Union Theatres and Hoyts, is conceded. With as many as 50 units operating in all of their theatres, the circuits' weekly payments to equipment organizations have been tremendous.

Service Charges Not Affected

Further relief for theatre owners is contained in the Rents Reduction, and the Interest Reduction Bills. By the former, theatre leases would be automatically dropped 22½ per cent provided no decrease has been made since June 30, 1930, in which case that decrease will be taken into consideration. Also, interest would be cut 22½ per cent so that exhibitors involved in mortgages, or who are obligated to meet dividends on preference shares, will be aided by just that amount.

The Equipment Bill does not affect service charges, nor does it permit suspension of payments by showmen.

400 NEW YORK HOUSES PLEDGE RELIEF WORK

(Continued from page 21)

been completed by that time or will be approaching their end. Motion Picture Week will thus round out these endeavors affording an opportunity to make additional contributions to the emergency funds of the communities. I congratulate Mr. Hays and the motion picture industry on their prompt and inspiring cooperation."

Through the efforts of the Hays organization, acting as a central committee for the national effort, the largest of the ticket printing companies of the country have already, or will very shortly, arrange to print without charge all tickets necessary for these benefit performances. The tickets will all be of the reserved seat type, rather than the usual strip tickets, and will be supplied each house in the country taking part in the drive to the number of 50 per cent in excess of the total seating capacity of the theatre.

In addition, all trailers, posters, lobby displays and other accessories for the special performances will be supplied exhibitors free of charge. A special trailer featuring Eddie Cantor is now being prepared, which also will go out to all theatres without charge.

All Branches Represented

It is pointed out that the central committee and special committees are representative of all elements of the industry, producers, distributors and exhibitors, including leading members of the MPTOA, Allied States Association and the executive heads of the affiliated circuits. These committees, after due and careful consideration, unanimously agreed among other things, that for all practical purposes the proceeds of the shows should be turned over to local relief agencies in each community and that all theatres should use the attractions currently on exhibition at the theatre for the special benefit performances.

The elaborate publicity and advertising campaign which has been worked out by the best advertising men in the home offices in New York, has taken the form specifically of a press book, to go out to theatres next week, containing definite suggestions to all exhibitors in the country on the best manner of treating the benefit performances in their own theatres, with the aim of deriving the greatest possible box office return for the support of the relief campaign. All the publicity matter pertaining to the performances will have a definite "national" connotation, it is understood, furthering the idea of National Motion Picture Week.

Hays Address Lauded

Speaking on behalf of the Emergency Unemployment Relief Committee over a national hook-up from New York last Monday, Will H. Hays' remarks were characterized by the New York press as one of the "sanest and most human utterances" since the depression began. The World-Telegram gave prominent space to a reproduction of the Hays address.

The president of the MPPDA said in part:

"If the job-holding rest of us do not tide friends, neighbors and friendliness over the emergency, we must confess to even more frozen hearts than frozen assets in the United States.

"Two persons out of three bleating about depression are wincing at wounds that their incomes have not yet received—adding pessimism to a condition which has not in the slightest encroached upon their standards of comfort, their means or their spending capacity.

"Majority attitude apparently confuses the present with the war period in which we were exhorted to restrain appetites, simplify meals, suppress ostentation and delay wardrobe and household replacements.

"But today common welfare severally requires us to consume as much as we can afford. . . . Common welfare requires unemployed surpluses to hire unemployed people, to fabricate, to transport and to sell."

Hays, in his statement, foresees draft legislation if the public does not offer its assistance to the unemployed of its own accord. He foresees, he said, the slogan "I will share" on the part of the people transformed into "I will take" on the part of legislative enactment.

Big Four Starts New Western Series Starring Buzz Barton

Big 4, independent producer of Westerns, has inaugurated a new series of six, with the youthful Buzz Barton as featured player in the group being produced at the Coast studio. "Cyclone Kid" is the first title.

The series is designed to capture the juvenile attention, since Barton himself is only 16 years old. He is not permitted to handle firearms in his pictures.

Allied May Meet Nationally

Allied leaders are making inquiries among independent exhibitors over the country, with a view to discovering the general sentiment relative to a national convention similar to that held in Chicago last February. Many requests for the meeting have been received.

"Journal" for New York M. P. Club

In conjunction with its February dinner-dance, the New York Motion Picture Club will publish a journal, the purpose of which is to aid in reducing losses sustained in operation during the fiscal year ended last month.

"Over the Hill" Thanksgiving

Fox's "Over the Hill" will be given its world premiere at the Criterion, New York, and Grauman's Chinese in Hollywood, Thanksgiving Week, with national release date set for November 29.

Hakim in Deal With MGM

Eric Hakim has completed a deal in London whereby MGM will distribute "The Outsider" in the United States. Hakim will make three more pictures for MGM British distribution.

Exchanges Facing Court Attacks in 10 Cent Seat Fight

(Continued from page 12)

lanta now operating on a 10-cent admission exhibitors there are charging that the trend to the lower admissions rate in that territory was halted by exchanges refusing to sell or quote prices to houses operating on the 10-cent basis. One theatre, the Paris, at Johnson City, is reported to have been obliged to advance its scale from 10 cents to 20 cents in order to obtain pictures. Atlanta houses maintaining the 10-cent top are obliged to play miscellaneous product, all of which is said to be many months old.

Atlanta exhibitors contend that the action of the exchanges there may be construed as being in restraint of trade.

An unusual admission situation likewise exists at San Antonio, where the Publix State Theatre, playing first-run pictures four days each week, is operating virtually on a 10-cent admission basis by "papering" the city with "passes" calling for payment of a 10-cent service charge. The passes are readily obtainable in stores all over the city, although the patron without one is charged according to the official admission scale of 10, 15 and 25 cents.

First-run product used at the State is ordinarily material rejected for the circuit's other two San Antonio first-runs, the Texas and Aztec.

Competing independent houses also operate at 10-cent admission, essentially by similar widespread use of the 10-cent service charge "pass." These houses, however, have been unable to obtain first-run product, with the exception of the independent Palace, which infrequently gets a mediocre first-run picture.

No complaints against San Antonio's "pass" system have been registered by exhibitors there. The policy is said to have been adopted first about one year ago when prevailing admission scales at the State were held responsible for a falling off in attendance. Inauguration of the 10-cent "pass" is said to have built up patronage at once.

Independent Distributors Benefited, Says Jaynes

Admission reductions, a practice becoming general throughout the country, are reacting to the benefit of independent distributors because of the lower rentals commanded by the independent product, according to R. O. Jaynes, of Big 4 Films, who recently completed a survey of the effects of lowered admissions on sales of independent product.

"Many theatres are finding it necessary to operate with a reduced overhead in order to effect or maintain lower admissions," said Jaynes. "The result has been a big increase in the sale of independent productions in many important cities."

Jaynes' survey included Detroit, Chicago, Denver and Indianapolis.

Alicoate Returning Home

Jack Wilde Alicoate, editor and publisher of Film Daily, returns on Friday to New York from a periodical jaunt to Hollywood.

THEATRE RECEIPTS

Theatre receipts for the current week from theatres in 29 key cities over the country indicate a slight drop from the total figure of the previous seven-day period. The total this week reached $2,318,274, which, compared with last week's figure of $2,391,409, results in a decrease of $73,135. There are recorded in the current compilation six new high figures and 11 new low totals. The unusual number of high and low individual gross figures this week, comes naturally as a result of the fact that the "High" and "Low" figures in the record have been shifted to cover a 10 months period, from January 1, 1931 to date, instead of a 19 months period, from October, 1930 to date, as heretofore. This has necessitated an adjustment of the high and low figures for the week.

(Copyright, 1931: Reproduction of material from this department without credit to Motion Picture Herald expressly forbidden)

Theatres			Current Week		Previous Week		High and Low Gross (Tabulation covers period from January, 1931 to date)
			Picture	Gross	Picture	Gross
Albany
Harm-Bleeker ..	2,300	35c-50c	"Pardon Us" (MGM) (6 days)	8,200	"Palmy Days" (U. A.) (6 days)	14,800	High 1-24 "Reducing"	$ 18,500
					"Guilty Hands" (MGM) (6 days)	5,275	Low 4-4 "Passion Flower"	6,100
Leland	1,350	25c-35c	"Skyline" (Fox) (6 days)	5,175			High 5-2 "Strangers May Kiss"	8,100
							Low 7-11 "Daddy Long Legs"	2,900
Proctor's RKO..	1,500	25c-60c	"Women Men Marry" (Headline) and "The Big Gamble" (Pathe) (3 days)	2,325	"The Woman Between" (Radio) (3 days)	2,800	High 3-14 "Millie"	8,600
					"My Sin" (Para.) (3 days)	3,200	Low 7-11 "Sweepstakes"	2,400
Ritz	1,146	25c-35c	"Monkey Business" (Para.) (6 days)	4,000	"Penrod And Sam" (F. N.) (6 days)	4,075	High 4-11 "The Hot Heiress"	4,700
							Low 6-6 "Party Husband"	3,190
Strand	1,900	35c-50c	"Susan Lenox" (MGM) (6 days)	10,350	"Road To Singapore" (W. B.) (6 days)	8,200	High 10-24 "Susan Lenox"	10,350
							Low 7-11 "Broadminded"	5,500
Baltimore
Auditorium	1,600	25c-50c	"Spirit Of Notre Dame" (U.) (6 days)	4,095	"Road To Singapore" (W. B.) (6 days)	5,148	.....
Europa	267	25c-50c	"Gretel And Liesel" (German) (6 days)	900	"Two Hearts In Waltz Time" (German) (6 days)	2,100	.....
Hippodrome	2,250	25c-50c	"A Dangerous Affair" (Col.) (6 days and Sun. midnite show)	11,000	"The Gay Diplomat" (Radio) (6 days and Sun. midnite show)	10,800	.....
Keith's	2,500	25c-50c	"24 Hours" (Para.) (6 days and Sun. midnite show)	6,240	"The Spirit Of Notre Dame" (U.) (6 days and Sun. midnite show)	7,200	High 4-9 "Bachelor Apartment"	16,080
							Low 1-17 "Abraham Lincoln"	4,800
Loew's Century	3,076	25c-60c	"I Like Your Nerve" (F. N.) (6 days)	18,000	"Sidewalks Of New York" (MGM) (6 days)	22,000	High 4-11 "Tailor Made Man"	30,000
							Low 3-21 "Conquering Horde"	17,000
Loew's Parkway	987	15c-35c	"Palmy Days" (U. A.) (6 days)	4,800	"Five Star Final" (F. N.) (6 days)	3,900	High 1-3 "Follow the Leader"	5,500
							Low 1-10 "Lottery Bride"	3,100
Loew's Stanley..	3,532	25c-60c	"Susan Lenox" (MGM) (6 days and Sun. midnite show)	24,000	"The Unholy Garden" (U. A.) (6 days)	18,000	High 4-11 "Strangers May Kiss"	33,500
							Low 3-14 "Reaching for the Moon"	15,000
Loew's Valencia	1,487	25c-35c	"Palmy Days" (U. A.) (6 days)	3,600	"Five Star Final" (F. N.) (6 days)	3,100	High 1-3 "Going Wild"	4,500
							Low 6-13 "Too Young to Marry"	2,400
New	1,600	25c-50c	"The Cisco Kid" (Fox) (6 days and Sun. midnite show)	8,500	"Sob Sister" (Fox) (6 days)	8,000	High 1-10 "Man Who Came Back"	18,000
							Low 7-11 "Their Mad Moment"	6,000
Rivoli	1,982	25c-50c	"Devotion" (Pathe) (20c-40c—6 days)	6,000	"High Stakes" (Radio) (6 days)	5,600	High 1-10 "Criminal Code"	10,000
							Low 6-20 "Woman Men Marry"	5,200
Boston
Keith's	2,800	25c-65c	"Spirit Of Notre Dame" (U.) (2nd week)	21,500	"The Spirit Of Notre Dame" (U.) (1st week)	23,000	High 2-14 "Cimarron"	26,000
							Low 7-18 "Woman of Experience"	17,500
Keith-Boston ..	2,500	25c-60c	"Fanny Foley Herself" (Radio)	20,000	"Smart Woman" (Radio)	19,000	High 1-10 "Danger Lights"	22,000
							Low 7-18 "Up for Murder"	17,000
Loew's Orpheum	3,100	25c-50c	"Palmy Days" (U. A.)	22,000	"Sidewalks Of New York" (MGM)	21,000	High 1-24 "Hells Angels"	31,500
							Low 7-11 "Indiscreet"	18,000
Loew's State ..	3,700	25c-50c	"Susan Lenox" (MGM)	22,000	"Get Rich Quick Wallingford" (MGM)	22,000	High 4-11 "City Lights"	25,000
							Low 7-18 "Man in Possession"	19,000
Metropolitan ...	4,350	35c-75c	"The Beloved Bachelor" (Para.)	36,000	"The Spider" (Fox)	35,000	High 1-31 "No Limit"	44,500
							Low 7-4 "I Take This Woman"	30,000
Olympia	1,800	25c-50c	"Road To Singapore" (W. B.)	15,000	"Bad Girl" (Fox) (2nd week)	14,000	High 1-3 "Blue Angel"	18,000
							Low 2-21 "Sit Tight"	12,000
Scollay Square.	1,800	25c-50c	"The Spider" (Fox)	16,000	"Bad Company" (Pathe)	15,000	High 1-17 "Right to Love"	25,000
							Low 3-21 "Drums of Jeopardy"	13,000
Uptown	2,000	25c-60c	"Road To Singapore" (W. B.)	12,500	"Bad Girl" (Fox) (2nd week)	12,000	High 9-26 "Monkey Business"	15,000
							Low 7-18 "Night Nurse"	11,000
Buffalo
Buffalo	3,500	30c-65c	"Devotion" (Pathe)	35,200	"24 Hours" (Para.)	24,800	High 3-28 "My Past"	39,500
							Low 7-4 "I Take This Woman"	19,000
Century	3,000	25c-35c	"Penrod And Sam" (F. N.)	7,900	"The Squaw Man" (MGM)	8,600	High 2-14 "Cimarron"	25,600
							Low 4-4 "Mothers Cry"	5,900
Court Street ...	1,200	-25c	"I Like Your Nerve" (F. N.) and "Sharkey-Carnera Fight Films" (State Rights) (4 days)	4,100	.....		.....
Great Lakes ...	3,000	25c-50c	"Monkey Business" (Para.) (2nd week)	10,000	"Monkey Business" (Para.) (1st week)	20,000	High 8-8 "Politics"	35,100
							Low 9-26 "American Tragedy"	16,000
Hippodrome	2,100	25c-50c	"The Road To Reno" (Para.)	16,900	"Wicked" (Fox)	17,000	High 2-14 "Free Love"	26,300
							Low 7-4 "Six Cylinder Love"	14,800
Hollywood	300	25c-40c	"Outward Bound" (W. B.) (9 days)	2,500	.....		.....
Lafayette	3,300	25c-35c	"Women Go On Forever" (Tiff.)	8,200	"Sherlock Holmes' Fatal Hour" (First Division)	8,900	High 4-11 "Ten Cents a Dance"	24,100
							Low 8-15 "Viking"	6,700
Charlotte
Broadway	1,167	25c-50c	"Road To Singapore" (W. B.) (3 days)	4,000	"Five Star Final" (F. N.) (6 days)	6,000	.....
			"Penrod And Sam" (F. N.) (3 days)	3,000
Carolina	1,441	40c-50c	"My Sin" (Para.) (3 days)	6,000	"24 Hours" (Para.) (3 days)	4,000	.....
			"Caught Plastered" (Radio) (3 days)	5,000	"The Unholy Garden" (U. A.) (3 days)	5,000

[THEATRE RECEIPTS--CONT'D]

Chicago

Theatres			Current Week: Picture	Gross	Previous Week: Picture	Gross	High and Low Gross (Tabulation covers period from January, 1931 to date)
Chicago	4,000	35c-85c	"Susan Lenox" (MGM)	55,000	"24 Hours" (Para.)	42,000	High 2-28 "Father's Son"	62,235
McVickers	2,284	35c-85c	"Alexander Hamilton" (W. B.)	21,000	"Monkey Business" (Para.) (35c-95c—3rd week)	19,000	Low 7-18 "Women Love Once"	26,250
Oriental	3,940	35c-85c	"The Beloved Bachelor" (Para.)	27,500	"Honor Of The Family" (F. N.)	42,000	High 2-7 "Doorway to Hell"	38,170
Palace	2,509	35c-85c	"Homicide Squad" (U.)	29,000	"Skyline" (Fox)	23,000	Low 10-24 "Alexander Hamilton"	21,000
Roosevelt	1,591	35c-85c	"Pardon Us" (MGM) (2nd week)	14,000	"Pardon Us" (MGM) (1st week)	22,000	High 3-7 "My Past"	46,750
State Lake	2,776	35c-85c	"The Spirit Of Notre Dame" (U.) (2nd week)	20,200	"The Spirit Of Notre Dame" (U.) (1st week)	21,000	Low 6-27 'Party Husband"	19,450
United Artists	1,700	35c-85c	"Palmy Days" (U. A.) (3rd week)	21,000	"Palmy Days" (U. A.) (2nd week)	22,000	High 5-2 "Laugh and Get Rich"	30,875
							Low 1-3 "Follow the Leader"	18,600
							High 4-11 "Dishonored"	30,350
							Low 6-6 "Tabu"	10,100
							High 2-14 "Cimarron"	43,100
							Low 7-4 "Transgression"	13,200
							High 3-21 "City Lights"	46,562
							Low 4-25 "Kiki"	20,825

Cincinnati

Erlanger	1,600	30c-50c	"Shanghaied Love" (Col.) (5 days)	2,400	"Zwei Menschen" (Tonfilm)	4,200
Keith's	1,600	25c-40c	"Honor Of The Family" (F. N.)	4,625	"The Dreyfus Case" (Col.)	4,850	High 2-7 "Pay Off"	6,300
RKO Albee	3,300	35c-75c	"Traveling Husbands" (Radio)	22,832	"Daughter Of The Dragon" (Para.)	23,800	Low 8-22 "A Holy Terror"	2,900
RKO Capitol	2,000	30c-50c	"Susan Lenox" (MGM)	18,661	"My Sin" (Para.)	11,835	High 1-3 'Remote Control"	38,321
RKO Family	1,140	15c-25c	"I Like Your Nerve" (F. N.) (4 days)	2,292	"Scareheads" (States Rights) (4 days)	2,176	Low 3-7 "Once a Sinner"	20,645
			"Is There Justice?" (Sono-Art) (3 days)	1,234	"Mother And Son" (Monogram) (3 days)	1,171	High 10-24 "Susan Lenox"	18,661
RKO Lyric	1,400	30c-50c	"Spirit Of Notre Dame" (U.) (7 days and Sat. midnite show)	12,926	"Caught Plastered" (Radio) (7 days and Sat. midnite show)	11,345	Low 8-8 "Hush Money"	8,551
RKO Palace	2,700	30c-50c	"Five Star Final" (F. N.) (7 days and Sat. midnite show)	14,087	"Bad Girl" (Fox) (7 days and Sat. midnite show)	16,774	High 2-14 "No Limit" and "Boudoir Diplomat"	4,275
RKO Strand	1,350	25c-40c	"Side Show" (W. B.)	4,293	"Skyline" (Fox) and "The Break Up" (Talking Picture Epics)	4,213	Low 8-22 "Lawless Women" and "Man in Possession"	1,900
Ufa	400	30c-50c	"Karamozov" (Tobis)	2,000	"Liebeswalzer" (Ufa)	1,000	High 2-14 "Reducing"	21,300
							Low 2-7 "Little Caesar"	8,655
							High 8-15 "Politics"	29,500
							Low 7-11 "Chances"	11,517
							High 6-6 "Connecticut Yankee"	5,970
							Low 8-22 'Honeymoon Lane"	2,500

Cleveland

Allen	3,300	25c-50c	"Unholy Garden" (U. A.)	14,000	"Bad Girl" (Fox)	25,000	High 8-8 "Politics"	26,000
Cameo	1,200	25c-40c	"Tabu" (Para.)	5,000	"Graft" (U.)	2,000	Low 4-9 "Ladies Man"	12,000
RKO Hippodrome	3,800	25c-50c	"A Dangerous Affair" (Col.)	15,000	"The Spirit Of Notre Dame" (U.)	16,000
RKO Palace	3,100	25c-75c	"Homicide Squad" (U.)	28,000	"Personal Maid" (Para.)	21,000	High 3-14 "Dracula"	30,000
State	3,400	25c-50c	"Wicked" (Fox)	18,000	"The Spider" (Fox)	19,000	Low 4-18 "Unfaithful"	10,000
Warner's Lake	800	25c-50c	"I Like Your Nerve" (F. N.) (5 days)	3,200	"Road To Singapore" (W. B.) (9 days)	6,000	High 5-2 "Laugh and Get Rich"	40,000
							Low 7-18 "Arizona"	18,000
							High 9-5 "Pardon Us"	26,000
							Low 6-20 "Vice Squad"	14,000
							High 10-3 "Five Star Final"	15,000
							Low 7-4 "Big Business Girl"	2,000

Denver

Denver	2,300	25c-65c	"Susan Lenox" (MGM)	18,500	"24 Hours" (Para.)	18,000	High 8-8 "Politics"	25,000
Huff'n's Aladdin	1,500	35c-75c	"Devotion" (Pathe)	7,500	"The Spider" (Fox)	7,000	Low 6-6 "Laughing Sinners"	13,000
Huffman Tabor	1,900	25c-50c	"Road To Singapore" (W. B.) (25c-75c)	10,000	"Spirit Of Notre Dame" (U.)	12,000	High 4-11 "Connecticut Yankee"	12,000
Paramount	2,000	25c-50c	"The Unholy Garden" (U. A.)	11,500	"Sidewalks Of New York" (MGM) (8 days)	10,500	Low 4-9 "Gods Gift to Woman"	4,500
Rialto	1,040	25c-50c	"The Mad Parade" (Para.) (5 days)	1,000	"Palmy Days" (U. A.)	3,500	High 3-21 "City Lights"	14,000
							Low 7-4 "Annabelle's Affairs"	7,000
							High 1-10 "Hells Angels"	22,000
							Low 6-27 "Just a Gigolo"	7,500
							High 6-13 "Kiki"	5,500
							Low 9-19 "The Bargain" and "Rango"	2,200

Des Moines

Des Moines	1,600	25c-60c	"Susan Lenox" (MGM)	10,000	"Palmy Days" (U. A.)	12,000	High 9-26 "Monkey Business"	12,000
Orpheum	2,000	25c-50c	"The Spirit Of Notre Dame" (U.)	6,700	"East Of Borneo" (U.) (4 days)	4,000	Low 9-12 "American Tragedy"	6,000
					"The Runaround" (Radio) (3 days)	2,000	High 2-14 'Cimarron"	18,000
Paramount	1,700	25c-60c	"Side Show" (W. B.) (4 days)	6,500	"Get Rich Quick Wallingford" (MGM) (4 days)	6,000	Low 10-24 "Spirit of Notre Dame"	6,700
			"Beloved Bachelor" (Para.) (3 days)	5,000	"24 Hours" (Para.) (3 days)	5,000	High 8-29 "Sporting Blood" and "Murder by the Clock"	15,000
Strand	1,100	20c-35c	"Riders Of The Purple Sage" (Fox) (4 days)	2,300	"Mad Parade" (Para.) (4 days)	2,250	Low 9-12 "Secrets of a Secretary" and "Transatlantic"	10,000
			"Shanghaied Love" (Col.) (3 days)	700	"Wicked" (Fox) (3 days)	900	High 3-21 "Trader Horn"	7,000
							Low 3-28 "Gentleman's Fate" and "Boudoir Diplomat"	1,540

Hollywood

Chinese	2,500	25c-75c	"Cisco Kid" (Fox) (2nd week)	6,300	"Cisco Kid" (Fox) (1st week)	10,500	High 1-31 "Trader Horn"	36,000
					"Caught Plastered" (Radio)	10,200	Low 9-26 "Merely Mary Ann"	9,000
Pan. Hollywood	3,000	35c-65c	"My Sin" (Para.)	10,400			High 1-10 "Sin Takes a Holiday"	19,000
W. B. Hollywood	3,000	35c-50c	"The Dreyfus Case" (Col.)	8,200	"Road To Singapore" (W. B.)	11,400	Low 8-15 'Tabu"	9,200
							High 2-7 "Little Caesar"	30,000
							Low 10-10 "I Like Your Nerve"	7,500

"LEFTOVER LADIES"

EYES ON TIFFANY PICTURES

GRIPPING DRAMA of woman's struggle for a place in the sun

featuring

CLAUDIA DELL, WALTER BYRON and MARJORIE RAMBEAU

"This picture is acted with polish and quite remarkable sincerity by every member of the cast. Claudia Dell as Patricia is most appealing—and very pretty. Marjorie Rambeau gives an outstanding performance.

" 'Leftover Ladies' is cleverly dialogued and directed and beautifully staged and costumed. The story has depth as well as snap and will make any woman, gazing upon husband and home with the look of love grown tired, pause and do a little thinking."

MAE TINÉE
in the CHICAGO TRIBUNE

Based on An Article By URSULA PARROTT

"WELL WORTH THE DOUGH
ANY EXHIBITOR IS LIKELY TO BE ASKED FOR IT"
—HOLLYWOOD REPORTER

KEEP YOUR EYES ON TIFFANY PICTURES

TIFFANY PRODUCTIONS INC.

"EXCELLENT ENTERTAINMENT, THE KIND THAT SHOULD PLEASE THE MASSES AS WELL AS THE CLASSES"
—HARRISON'S REPORTS

"FAST, SOPHISTICATED CINEMA."
—L. A. HERALD

"THE FINAL FADEOUT WAS A SIGNAL FOR SINCERE APPLAUSE"—HOLLYWOOD HERALD

"'Leftover Ladies' has plenty of kick—the women in the audience will be thrilled at seeing some of their own problems presented, and the men will probably do a lot of thinking."

—L. A. EXPRESS

Directed by ERLE C. KENTON Produced by SAM BISCHOFF

TIFFANY
PRODUCTIONS, INC.
Distributed by
Sono Art-World Wide

KEEP YOUR EYES ON

"LEFTOVER LADIES"

[THEATRE RECEIPTS--CONT'D]

Theatres			Current Week		Previous Week		High and Low Gross (Tabulation covers period from January, 1931 to date)
			Picture	Gross	Picture	Gross
Houston
Kirby	1,654	25c-50c	"Five Star Final" (F. N.)	5,500	"24 Hours" (Para.)	4,000	High 3-7 "Abraham Lincoln"	9,500
							Low 8-15 "Old English"	3,200
Loew's State	2,700	25c-50c	"Fifty Fathoms Deep" (Col.)	6,000	"Susan Lenox" (MGM)	12,000	High 5-2 "Trader Horn"	19,800
							Low 6-27 "Five and Ten"	5,000
Metropolitan	2,512	25c-50c	"Palmy Days" (U. A.)	14,000	"My Sin" (Para.)	7,600	High 10-24 "Palmy Days"	14,000
							Low 7-25 "Secret Call"	6,500
RKO Majestic	2,250	25c-50c	"Rebound" (Pathe)	4,000	"Spirit Of Notre Dame" (U.)	6,500	High 2-14 "Cimarron"	18,000
							Low 10-24 "Rebound"	4,000
Indianapolis
Apollo	1,100	25c-50c	"Spirit Of Notre Dame" (U.) (2nd week)	6,000	"Spirit Of Notre Dame" (U.) (1st week)	6,500	High 6-13 "Daddy Long Legs"	10,000
							Low 7-4 "Annabelle's Affairs"	3,500
Circle	2,600	25c-50c	"Friends and Lovers" (Radio) (5 days)	4,000	"Woman Of Experience" (Pathe)	4,500	High 2-14 "Cimarron"	13,000
							Low 8-22 "Travelling Husbands"	4,000
Indiana	3,300	25c-50c	"Pagan Lady" (Col.)	19,000	"Five Star Final" (F. N.)	15,000	High 1-17 "Her Man"	25,000
							Low 8-8 "Confessions of Co-Ed"	11,500
Lyric	2,000	25c-50c	"Riders Of The Purple Sage" (Fox)	8,000	"Wicked" (Fox)	7,000	High 1-10 "Under Suspicion"	13,000
							Low 9-12 "East of Borneo"	5,750
Palace	2,800	25c-50c	"Susan Lenox" (MGM)	15,000	"Get Rich Quick Wallingford" (MGM)	8,600	High 5-2 "Trader Horn"	22,000
							Low 2-14 "Passion Flower"	8,000
Kansas City
Liberty	1,200	25c-50c	"The Road To Reno" (Para.)	5,000	"24 Hours" (Para.)	5,000
Mainstreet	3,067	35c-60c	"Spirit of Notre Dame" (U.)	19,500	"Rebound" (Pathe)	15,000	High 2-14 "Cimarron"	24,750
							Low 1-10 "Criminal Code"	14,500
Midland	4,000	25c-50c	"Susan Lenox" (MGM)	28,130	"Get Rich Quick Wallingford" (35c-50c) (MGM)	14,500	High 10-24 "Susan Lenox"	28,130
							Low 5-9 "Quick Millions"	7,500
Newman	2,000	35c-50c	"The Beloved Bachelor" (Para.) (7 days and Sat. midnite show)	12,500	"Road To Singapore" (W. B.)	12,500	High 9-26 "Monkey Business"	19,000
							Low 5-16 "Ladies Man"	8,000
Uptown	2,200	25c-50c	"High Stakes" (Radio)	5,700	"A Holy Terror" (Fox)	7,200	High 1-10 "Girl of Golden West"	8,000
							Low 10-10 "Great Lover"	5,100
Los Angeles
Carthay Circle	1,650	75c-$1.50	"Consolation Marriage" (Radio) ($5.00 premiere)	8,500	"Devotion" (Pathe) (4th week)	6,500	High 3-21 "Strangers May Kiss" (5 days)	28,000
							Low 10-24 "Consolation Marriage" ($5 Premiere)	8,500
Fox Criterion	1,652	35c-65c	"Cisco Kid" (Fox) (2nd week)	10,000	"Cisco Kid" (Fox) (1st week)	18,400	High 5-9 "Secret Six"	27,000
							Low 1-31 "Royal Family Bway"	7,000
International	2,000	25c-50c	"Law Of The Harem" (Fox-Spanish)	6,600	"Cheri Bibi" (MGM)	6,300	High 1-10 "El Hombre Malo"	8,000
							Low 3-28 "La Fruta Amerga"	3,000
Loew's State	2,418	35c-65c	"Susan Lenox" (MGM)	39,000	"Get Rich Quick Wallingford" (MGM)	20,100	High 10-24 "Susan Lenox"	39,000
							Low 8-8 "Hush Money"	15,000
Los Angeles	2,100	25c-65c	"Leftover Ladies" Tiff.)	7,500	"Sidewalks Of New York" (MGM)	14,200	High 2-7 "City Lights"	48,000
							Low 4-8 "Among the Married"	5,000
Orpheum	2,750	35c-65c	"Spirit Of Notre Dame" (U.)	15,100	"Fifty Fathoms Deep" (Col.)	12,200	High 2-14 "Cimarron" (5 days)	32,000
							Low 8-22 "Dirigible"	6,500
Paramount	3,596	35c-65c	"Road To Reno" (Para.)	14,000	"Smiling Lieutenant" (Para.)	26,000	High 1-31 "Blue Angel"	35,000
							Low 7-11 "Girl Habit"	10,000
RKO	2,700	35c-65c	"Smart Woman" (Radio)	16,200	"The Big Gamble" (Pathe)	14,600	High 7-25 "Lawless Woman"	17,500
							Low 8-1 "Arizona"	11,000
United Artists	2,100	35c-65c	"Palmy Days" (U. A.) (2nd week)	14,600	"Palmy Days" (U. A.) (1st week)	23,000	High 9-26 "Monkey Business"	32,000
							Low 8-1 "Honeymoon Lane"	4,500
W. B. Downtown	2,400	35c-50c	"Penrod and Sam" (F. N.)	10,100	"Road To Singapore" (W. B.)	9,600	High 2-7 "Little Caesar"	27,000
							Low 10-10 "Like Your Nerve"	7,000
W. B. Western	2,400	50c-75c	"Alexander Hamilton" (W. B.) (2nd week)	18,500	"Alexander Hamilton" (W. B.) (1st week)	30,000
Milwaukee
Alhambra	2,660	25c-60c	"The Spirit Of Notre Dame" (U.) (2nd week)	8,000	"The Spirit of Notre Dame" (U.) (1st week)	10,500
Garden	1,150	25c-60c	"The Dreyfus Case" (Col.)	9,500	"Palmy Days" (U. A.) (2nd week)	9,600
Palace	2,587	25c-60c	"Bad Girl" (Fox)	11,800	"Huckleberry Finn" (Para.)	9,000
Riverside	2,180	25c-60c	"A Dangerous Affair" (Col.)	13,500	"Smart Woman" (Radio)	13,800
Strand	1,406	25c-60c	"The Spider" (Fox)	6,500	"Caught" (Para.)	6,200
Warner	2,500	25c-60c	"Honor Of The Family" (F. N.)	9,500	"Road To Singapore" (W. B.)	9,800
Wisconsin	3,275	25c-65c	"My Sin" (Para.)	14,200	"24 Hours" (Para.)	13,800
Minneapolis
Aster	812	20c-25c	"Mystery Of Life" (U.)	1,500	"The Viking" (J. D. Williams)	1,700	High 3-21 "Father's Son"	2,000
							Low 4-18 "Men Call It Love"	900
Lyric	1,238	20c-40c	"Riders Of The Purple Sage" (Fox)	2,500	"The Spider" (Fox)	2,500	High 5-30 "Kiki"	4,000
							Low 1-24 "Men on Call"	1,200
Minnesota	4,000	30c-75c	"Susan Lenox" (MGM)	26,000	"My Sin" (Para.)	22,000	High 6-27 "Daddy Long Legs"	32,000
							Low 2-28 "Dance Fools Dance"	18,000
Pantages	1,500	25c-50c	"Palmy Days" (U. A.) (2nd week)	5,000	"Palmy Days" (U. A.) (3 days—1st week)	2,500
RKO Orpheum	2,900	25c-50c	"The Last Flight" (F. N.)	16,500	"Devotion" (Pathe)	13,000	High 2-14 "Cimarron"	30,000
							Low 9-12 "Waterloo Bridge"	12,000
RKO 7th St.	1,300	15c-40c	"Rebound" (Pathe) (3 days)	2,000	"Homicide Squad" (U.) (3 days)	1,000
			"The Woman Between" (Radio) (4 days)	1,000	"High Stakes" (Radio) (4 days)	1,000
State	2,300	25c-50c	"Sidewalks Of New York" (MGM)	7,500	"Secrets Of A Secretary" (Para.)	7,500	High 8-29 "Sporting Blood"	10,000
							Low 14-18 "Body and Soul"	6,000
Montreal
Capitol	2,547	25c-60c	"The Squaw Man" (MGM) and "Parlor, Bedroom and Bath" (MGM)	12,500	"Secrets Of A Secretary" (Para.) and "Huckleberry Finn" (Para.)	13,000	High 1-10 "Just Imagine"	18,000
							Low 7-11 "Always Goodbye" and "Annabelle's Affairs"	9,200
Imperial	1,914	15c-40c	"Mother And Son" (Monogram) and "Penrod And Sam" (F. N.)	4,700	"Goldie" (Fox) and "A Holy Terror" (Fox)	4,900	High 1-17 "Office Wife"	10,000
							Low 6-20 "Single Sin" and "Dawn Trail"	3,000
Loew's	3,115	25c-75c	"Wicked" (Fox)	14,000	"The Public Defender" (Radio)	14,500	High 1-31 "Derelict"	16,000
							Low 7-18 "Stepping Out"	9,000

Largest Motion Picture Fan Publication in the World
More Than 1,000,000 Circulation

MOVIE Romances

INTIMATE

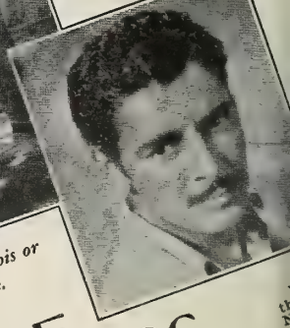
CHICAGO

VOL. 6. No. 11

WIN $1000.00

By merely giving your suggestion as to how you have ended SAMUEL GOLDWYN'S great produ

RONALD CO
in THE UNHOLY



UNITED ARTISTS P

A stirring romance of desert out
Estelle Taylor and W

ANY MAN, WOMAN, BOY

Not necessary to be a "writer." N no obligation. "The Unholy Ga surprising climax, yet it might
The $1,000.00 will be awarded best suggestion for an ending whether or not that ending fr it will be shown. A brief unf below. How would you end i more than fifty words) yo
That's all you will have to you are, your suggestion thought and originality b your suggestion now. W line of the story of this

Not necessary to subscribe to or purchase this or any other magazine to win this prize.

MOVIE Romances

The publishers of "MOVIE ROMANCES," the largest motion picture magazine in the world (over 1,000,000 subscribers!)—through the courtesy of the United Artists—offers any man, woman, boy or girl in the United States of America this great opportunity to win $1,000.00 in cash simply for sending the best, clearest and most original idea for an ending to "The Unholy Garden."

We are prompted to make this unusual offer because of our desire to secure the opinion of the final judges of a motion picture's success—the American public. "MOVIE ROMANCES," introducing a new department in connection with the great magazine, "MOVIE ROMANCES," to make this prize offer for our motion pictures for which your suggestion for an ending is to be sent, one of the greatest and most stirring romances of the current motion picture year—"The Unholy Garden."

The following world-renowned authorities on motion picture production, criticism and dramatic endeavor will be the official judges of the contest: Samuel Goldwyn,, and Ronald Colman, producer and star of "The Unholy Garden,," and William Fleming, producer editor of "MOVIE ROMANCES,," Send your suggestion right now while you think of it. It may mean $1,000.00 for you. Rush it today. Address your suggestion to

E. C. BENEDICT, Prize Dir. "MOVIE ROM

FREE
HERALDS
ONE SHEETS WINDOW CARDS for this tie-up!

SPECIAL

THIS AD IS APPEARING IN MAGAZINES AND NEWSPAPERS

Totaling

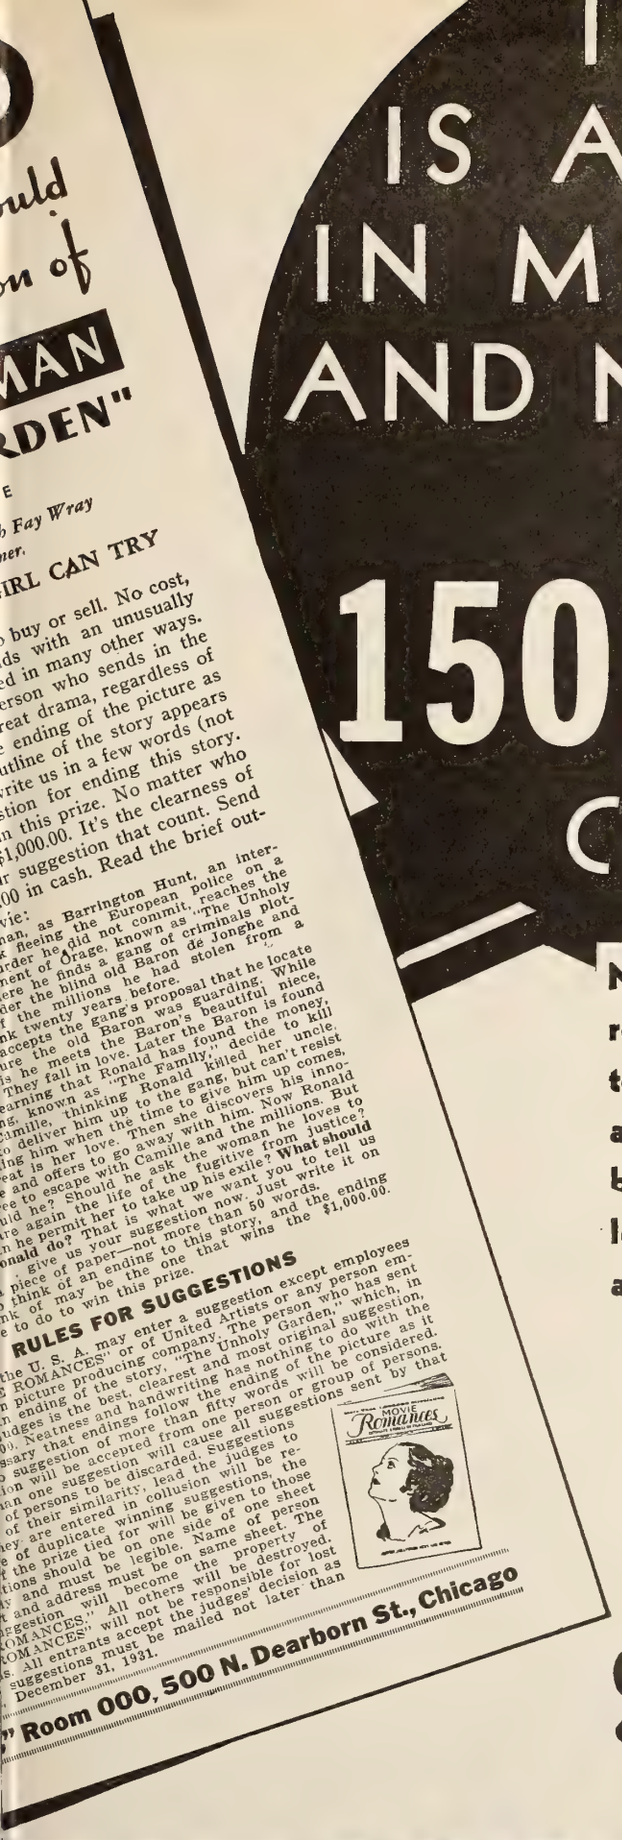
150,000,000

Circulation

Never before has a picture been PRE-SOLD on so far-reaching a scale! This ad is appearing now in big towns, little towns, towns in-between! Millions are reading it. Millions are competing for the THOUSAND DOLLAR PRIZE offered by "MOVIE ROMANCES". And every one of these countless millions is clamoring to see how SAMUEL GOLDWYN actually DID end the story of The UNHOLY GARDEN!

THIS IS BUT ONE OF THE MANY EXPLOITATION TIE-UPS ARRANGED BY

UNITED ARTISTS



to help you cash in on

SAMUEL GOLDWYN'S

production of

RONALD COLMAN

"The UNHOLY GARDEN"

[THEATRE RECEIPTS--CONT'D]

Theatres			Current Week		Previous Week		High and Low Gross (Tabulation covers period from January, 1931 to date)
			Picture	Gross	Picture	Gross
Montreal (Cont'd)
Orpheum	1,119	25c-60c	"The Dreyfus Case" (Col.) (2nd week)	4,800	"The Dreyfus Case" (Col.) (1st week)	6,000
Palace	2,600	25c-99c	"Merely Mary Ann" (Fox)	15,000	"An Amerian Tragedy" (Para.)	15,000	High 2-21 "Man Who Came Back" Low 8-1 "Donovan's Kid"	19,000 10,500
Princess	2,272	25c-65c	"Palmy Days" (U. A.)	13,500	"The Unholy Garden" (U. A.) (2nd week)	10,000	High 4-11 "City Lights" Low 7-18 "Colonel's Lady"	22,500 7,200
Strand	750	15c-50c	"Reckless Hour" and "Secret Call" (Para.)	4,300	"Bought" (W. B.) and "Monsters Of The Deep" (Talking picture Epics)	4,500	High 2-14 "London Calling" and "Monsters" Low 6-27 "East Lynne" and "Can Love Decide"	5,200 3,000
New York
Astor	1,120	50c-$2.00	"The Guardsman" (MGM) (7th week)	15,740	"The Guardsman" (MGM) (6th week)	16,621	High 1-3 "New Moon" Low 6-13 "A Free Soul"	23,684 20,181
Broadway	2,000	35c-$1.00	"Women Go On Forever" (Tiff.)	19,213	"Murder At Midnight" (Tiff.) (2nd week)	22,000
Capitol	4,700	35c-$1.50	"Susan Lenox" (MGM)	99,741	"Get Rich Quick Wallingford" (MGM)	85,315	High 10-24 "Susan Lenox" Low 3-21 "Great Meadow"	99,741 49,789
Embassy	598	25c	All Newsreel	8,136	All Newsreel	8,397	High 1-3 Newsreels Low 7-4 Newsreels	9,727 7,085
Hollywood	1,549	50c-$1.00	"Alexander Hamilton" (W. B.) (6th week)	10,250	"Alexander Hamilton" (W. B.) (5th week)	14,500
Mayfair	2,300	35c-85c	"Spirit Of Notre Dame" (U.)	36,000	"Devotion" (Pathe) (2nd week)	24,680	High 2-14 "Millie" Low 7-4 "Sweepstakes"	44,200 12,500
Paramount	3,700	40c-$1.00	"The Beloved Bachelor" (Para.)	40,100	"Road To Reno" (Para.)	59,200	High 2-7 "Finn and Hattie" Low 10-24 "The Beloved Bachelor"	85,900 40,100
Rialto	1,904	40c-$1.00	"Palmy Days" (U. A.) (5th week)	19,300	"Palmy Days" (U. A.) (4th week)	25,500	High 3-14 "Dishonored" Low 6-27 "Dracula" and "Hell's Angels"	58,000 4,500
Rivoli	2,103	40c-$1.00	"Monkey Business" (Para.) (3rd week)	35,900	"Monkey Business" (Para.) (2nd week)	57,400	High 10-17 "Monkey Business" Low 7-11 "Newly Rich"	57,400 15,800
Roxy	6,200	50c-$1.50	"Heartbreak" (Fox)	50,600	"Smart Woman" (Radio)	61,000	High 1-10 "Man Who Came Back" Low 10-24 "Heartbreak"	130,430 50,600
Strand	3,000	35c-85c	"Honor Of The Family" (W. B.)	14,169	"Road To Singapore" (W. B.) (2nd week)	23,740	High 1-17 "Little Caesar" Low 8-22 "Men Are Like That"	74,821 9,274
Warners	1,490	35c-75c	"The Love Storm" and "The "Flying Fool" (British Int'nat'l)	1,703	"The Gay Diplomat" (Radio)	2,984	High 1-3 "Vienese Nights" Low 8-22 "Disraeli," "General Crack" "Noah's Ark," "Weary River," "Son of the Gods," "On With The Show," "Gold Diggers of Broadway"	16,968 1,646
Winter Garden	1,493	35c-$1.00	"Five Star Final" (F. N.) (6th week)	19,907	"Five Star Final" (F. N.) (5th week)	24,650	High 9-19 "Five Star Final" Low 6-6 "Maltese Falcon"	59,782 16,692
Oklahoma City
Capitol	1,200	10c-50c	"Caught Plastered" (Radio)	4,500	"Susan Lenox" (MGM)	8,000	High 2-7 "Illicit" Low 6-27 "White Shoulders"	11,000 4,000
Criterion	1,700	10c-50c	"The Unholy Garden" (U. A.)	6,000	"Get Rich Quick Wallingford" (MGM)	6,000	High 2-21 "Cimarron" Low 8-1 "Magnicent Lie"	15,500 5,500
Liberty	1,500	10c-35c	"Five Star Final" (F. N.)	3,800	"The Big Gamble" (Pathe)	3,500	High 1-24 "Under Suspicion" Low 6-20 "Big Fight" and "Drums of Jeopardy"	7,200 900
Mid-West	1,500	10c-50c	"Spirit Of Notre Dame" (U.)	5,000	"Five Star Final" (F. N.) (8 days)	8,000	High 9-19 "Young as You Feel" Low 7-4 "Hush Money"	11,000 4,000
Warner	1,800	10c-50c	"The Bargain" (F. N.)	5,800	"Homicide Squad" (U.)	6,200	High 1-3 "Going Wild" Low 10-24 "The Bargain"	10,500 5,800
Omaha
Orpheum	3,000	25c-60c	"Spirit Of Notre Dame" (U.)	14,650	"Bad Company" (Pathe)	13,000	High 2-14 "Cimarron" Low 6-20 "White Shoulders"	25,550 11,500
Paramount	2,900	25c-60c	"Susan Lenox" (MGM)	9,500	"Street Scene" (U. A.)	7,750	High 6-20 "Daddy Long Legs" Low 1-31 "Bachelor Father"	12,000 6,000
State	1,200	35c	"The Last Flight" (F. N.) (4 days)	1,400	"Transatlantic" (Fox) (4 days)	1,250	High 3-14 "Trader Horn" Low 9-26 "Tabu" and "Children of Dreams"	10,000 1,325
			"Wicked" (Fox) (3 days)	700	"Honeymoon Lane" (Para.) (3 days)	850
World	2,500	25c-40c	"Personal Maid" (Para.)	5,250	"The Star Witness" (F. N.)	5,250	High 4-11 "Men Call It Love" Low 8-1 "Women Love Once" and "Secret Call"	16,000 5,000
Ottawa
Avalon	990	15c-35c	"Merely Mary Ann" (Fox) (3 days)	1,500	"Bought" (W. B.) (25c-35c—3 days)	1,650	High 5-30 "Hells Angels" and "Body and Soul"	3,300
			"Young As You Feel" (Fox) (3 days)	1,250	"Son Of India" (MGM) (3 days)	1,300	Low 6-27 "My Past" and "Fifty Million Frenchmen"	1,900
Capitol	2,592	15c-60c	"The Common Law" (Pathe) (6 days)	10,000	"An American Tragedy" (Para.) (6 days)	9,000
Centre	1,142	15c-60c	"Smart Woman" (Radio) (6 days)	5,000	"Five Star Final" (F. N.) (6 days)	5,700	High 5-16 "Devil to Pay' " Low 1-3 "Sunny"	6,300 2,900
Imperial	1,091	10c-40c	"Riders Of The Purple Sage" (Fox) (3 days)	1,550	"The Spider" (Fox) (3 days)	1,600	High 5-9 "Trader Horn" Low 8-1 "Speckled Band"	7,000 2,300
			"Wicked" (Fox) (3 days)	1,650	"Transgression" (Radio) (3 days)	1,600
Regent	1,225	15c-60c	"Caught Plastered" (Radio) and "Tabu" (Para.) (3 days)	2,900	"Fifty Fathoms Deep" (Col.) (3 days)	2,650	High 5-30 "Seed" Low 7-1 "Shipmates"	6,200 4,200
			"Hush Money" (Fox) (3 days)	2,400	"Secrets Of A Secretary" (Para.) (3 days)	2,600
Philadelphia
Arcadia	600	50c	"An American Tragedy" (Para.) (6 days)	2,700	"Street Scene" (U. A.) (6 days)	2,800	High 1-3 "Laughter" Low 7-11 "Kick In"	5,000 2,500
Earle	2,000	25c-65c	"Get Rich Quick Wallingford" (MGM) (6 days—2nd week)	14,500	"Homicide Squad" (U.) (3 days)	6,000	High 1-3 "Divorce Among Friends" Low 10-17 "Homicide Squad" and "Get Rich Quick Wallingford"	26,000 14,000
					"Get Rich Quick Wallingford" (MGM) (3 days—1st week)	8,000
Fox	3,000	35c-75c	"Skyline" (Fox) (6 days)	20,000	"Wicked" (Fox) (6 days)	20,000	High 2-7 "Man Who Came Back" Low 10-24 "Skyline"	40,000 20,000
Karlton	1,000	40c-50c	"Sidewalks Of New York" (MGM) (6 days)	6,000	"Devotion" (Pathe) (6 days)	5,000	High 5-2 "City Lights" Low 3-21 "Resurrection"	8,000 3,000
Keith's	1,800	35c-75c	"Guilty Hands" (MGM) (6 days)	13,000	"Palmy Days" (U. A.) (6 days--1st week)	15,000	High 1-3 "Tom Sawyer" Low 8-8 "Woman Between"	24,000 7,500

THEATRE RECEIPTS--CONT'D

Theatres			Current Week		Previous Week		High and Low Gross (Tabulation covers period from January, 1931 to date)
			Picture	Gross	Picture	Gross
Philadelphia (Cont'd)
Mastbaum	4,800	35c-75c	"24 Hours" Para.) (6 days)	28,000	"The Road To Singapore" (W. B.) (6 days)	30,000	High 8-29 "Caught Plastered"	62,000
							Low 10-24 "24 Hours"	28,000
Stanley	3,700	35c-75c	"Spirit Of Notre Dame" (U.) (6 days)	19,000	"Alexander Hamilton" (W. B.) (6 days)	10,000	High 2-14 "Cimarron"	26,000
							Low 7-25 "Rebound"	8,000
Stanton	1,700	25c-65c	"The Dreyfus Case" (Col.) (6 days—2nd week)	7,000	"The Dreyfus Case" (Col.) (6 days—1st week)	8,000	High 3-21 "Last Parade"	1,650
							Low 10-10 "Fifty Fathoms Deep"	7,000
Portland, Ore.
Fox Broadway.	1,912	25c-50c	"The Cisco Kid" (Fox)	5,700	"Phantom Of Paris" (MGM)	6,000	High 1-10 "Min and Bill"	21,000
							Low 4-4 "The Prodigal"	3,000
Fox Paramount	3,068	25c-60c	"The Road To Reno" (Para.)	12,500	"Sidewalks Of New York" (MGM)	14,600	High 1-3 "Paid"	26,000
							Low 5-23 "Young Sinners"	11,000
Hamrick's Music Box	1,800	35c	"The Road To Singapore" (W. B.)	6,000	"The Viking" (J. D. Williams)	4,500
RKO Orpheum.	1,700	25c-50c	"The Spirit Of Notre Dame" (U.)	14,000	"Bad Company" (Pathe)	9,800	High 2-14 "Cimarron"	20,000
							Low 5-23 "Iron Man"	8,500
United Artists .	945	25c-60c	"Susan Lenox" (MGM) (2nd week)	5,800	"Susan Lenox" (MGM) (25c-50c—1st week)	8,000	High 1-10 "Hells Angels"	12,500
							Low 10-3 "Pagan Lady	3,500
Providence
Loew's State ..	3,800	10c-50c	"The Unholy Garden" (U. A.) (15c-50c)	11,000	"Get Rich Quick Wallnigford" (MGM)	17,800	High 2-7 "Insperation"	25,500
							Low 6-27 "Five and Ten"	9,500
Majestic	2,400	10c-50c	"Five Star Final" (W. B.) (15c-50c)	14,000	"Alexander Hamilton" (W. B.) and "Penrod And Sam" (F. N.)	13,000	High 3-7 "Little Caesar"	18,000
							Low 4-4 "Love of Aloah" and "Costello Case"	8,000
Paramount	2,300	10c-50c	"24 Hours" (Para.)	6,500	"Daughter Of The Dragon" (Para.)	6,500	High 3-14 "Unfaithful"	14,000
							Low 8-8 "Secret Call"	4,500
RKO Albee	2,300	10c-50c	"Friends And Lovers" (Radio)	6,500	"Devotion" (Pathe)	6,200	High 1-10 "Criminal Code"	14,000
							Low 7-4 "Sweepstakes"	3,200
RKO Victory ..	1,600	10c-35c	"The Dreyfus Case" (Col.)	2,000	"Faney Foley Herself" (Radio)	3,000	High 2-14 "Last Parade"	11,000
							Low 10-24 "The Dreyfus Case"	2,000
St. Paul
Paramount	2,300	25c-50c	"Susan Lenox" (MGM)	10,000	"My Sin" (Para.)	9,000	High 8-22 "Smiling Lieutenant"	12,000
							Low 1-17 "Paid"	7,000
Riviera	1,300	25c-50c	"The Star Witness" (W.B.)	4,500	"Secrets Of A Secretary" (Para.)	4,500	High 9-5 "Huckleberry Finn"	9,000
							Low 1-17 "Just Imagine"	1,500
RKO Orpheum.	2,600	25c-50c	"The Last Flight" (F. N.)	14,000	"Devotion" (Pathe)	11,000	High 2-14 "Cimarron"	28,000
							Low 2-21 "Millie"	10,000
RKO President..	1,200	15c-35c	"Rebound" (Pathe) (3 days)	1,100	"Homicide Squad" (U.) (3 days)	900
			"The Woman Between" (Radio) (4 days)	1,100	"High Stakes" (Radio) (4 days)	1,000
Tower	1,000	15c-25c	"Riders Of The Purple Sage" (Fox)	1,500	"Side Show" (W. B.)	2,000	High 10-3 "Penrod and Sam"	4,000
							Low 1-24 "Along Came Youth"	1,000
San Francisco
El Capitan	3,100	25c-60c	"Transatlantic" (Fox)	13,000	"Sporting Blood" (MGM)	13,800	High 8-15 "Daddy Long Legs"	16,750
							Low 3-14 "Part Time Wife"	12,000
Fox	4,600	35c-60c	"Cisco Kid" (Fox)	43,000	"Susan Lenox" (MGM) (8 days)	52,000	High 1-3 "Lightning"	70,000
							Low 5-30 "Six Cylinder Love"	30,000
Golden Gate	2,800	35c-65c	"Woman Between" (Radio)	13,000	"Homicide Squad" (U.)	18,000	High 7-11 "Lawless Woman"	20,000
							Low 7-4 "Lover Come Back"	9,500
Orpheum	3,000	25c-50c	"Spirit Of Notre Dame" (U.)	18,000	"Devotion" (Pathe) (2nd week)	10,000	High 2-14 "Cimarron"	20,000
							Low 7-11 "Sweepstakes"	7,500
Paramount	2,670	25c-50c	"Beloved Bachelor" (Para.)	15,000	"24 Hours" (Para.)	18,000	High 2-7 "Morocco"	35,000
							Low 7-18 "Women Love Once"	10,000
Union Square ..	1,400	25c-50c	"Two Hearts In Waltz Time" (Asso. Cinemas)	6,500
United Artists.	1,200	25c-60c	"Palmy Days" (U. A.)	14,000	"Street Scene" (U. A.) (3rd week)	6,000
Warfield	2,700	25c-60c	"Skyline" (Fox)	19,000	"Riders Of The Purple Sage" (Fox)	29,000	High 3-14 "Parlor, Bedroom and Bath"	28,000
							Low 10-10 "Wicked"	16,000
Warners	1,385	35c-50c	"Alexander Hamilton" (W. B.) (2nd week)	7,700	"Alexander Hamilton" (W. B.) (1st week)	14,910	High 9-12 "Star Witness"	15,100
							Low 8-22 "The Viking"	4,850
Seattle
Blue Mouse	950	25c-75c	"The Road To Singapore" (W. B.)	6,500	"Palmy Days" (U. A.) (3rd week)	6,500
Fifth Avenue...	2,750	25c-75c	"Riders Of The Purple Sage" (Fox)	12,000	"Susan Lenox" (MGM)	14,000	High 4-18 "Trader Horn"	17,000
Fox Coliseum...	2,000	25c-50c	"24 Hours" (Para.)	6,000	"Wicked" (Fox) (4 days)	3,000	Low 3-14 "Inspiration" (10 days)	10,000
					"The Mad Parade" (Para.) (3 days)	2,000
Liberty	2,000	15c-30c	"Alias The Bad Man" (Tiff.)	6,000	"God's Gift To Women" (W. B.)	6,000	High 1-10 "The Lash"	11,500
Music Box	950	25c-75c	"Five Star Final" (F. N.) (5 days—2nd week)	4,000	"Five Star Final" (F. N.) (1st week)	7,500	Low 5-23 "Lightning Flyer"	5,500
							High 2-28 "City Lights"	1,400
			"Unholy Garden" (U. A.) (2 days)	2,000			Low 3-28 "My Past"	5,500
Paramount	3,150	25c-75c	"My Sin" (Para.) (5 days)	8,000	"The Cisco Kid" (Fox)	12,000	High 1-10 "Paid"	18,000
							Low 9-19 "Transatlantic"	10,000
			"Sob Sister" (Fox) (2 days)	3,000
RKO Orpheum..	2,650	25c-75c	"Devotion" (Pahte)	13,500	"Bad Company" (Pathe)	13,000	High 2-14 "Cimarron"	16,500
							Low 3-21 "Kept Husbands"	10,000
Toronto
Imperial	3,444	15c-75c	"My Sin" (Para.) (15c-75c—6 days)	18,500	"Daughter of the Dragon" (Para.) (6 days)	17,000	High 9-19 "Merely Mary Ann"	22,000
							Low 6-20 "Always Goodbye"	13,000
Loew's	2,088	25c-75c	"Sidewalks Of New York" (MGM) (6 days)	12,000	"This Modern Age" (MGM) (6 days)	14,000	High 4-18 "City Lights"	22,000
							Low 8-15 "Son of India"	10,500
Shea's	2,600	30c-75c	"Penrod And Sam" (F. N.) (6 days)	13,000	"Wicked" (Fox) (6 days)	16,000	High 3-7 "Three French Girls"	16,500
							Low 6-27 "Painted Desert"	10,000
Tivoli	1,600	15c-75c	"Monkey Business" (Para.) (6 days—2nd week)	10,200	"Monkey Business" (Para.) (6 days—1st week)	13,000	High 2-28 "Cimarron"	19,500
							Low 8-1 "Uneasy Virtue"	9,800
Uptown	3,000	15c-60c	"Road To Singapore" (W. B.) (6 days)	12,300	"Ten Nights In A Barroom" (Goetz) (6 days)	8,000	High 4-25 "Don't Bet on Women"	14,000
							Low 10-17 "Ten Nights In a Barroom"	8,300

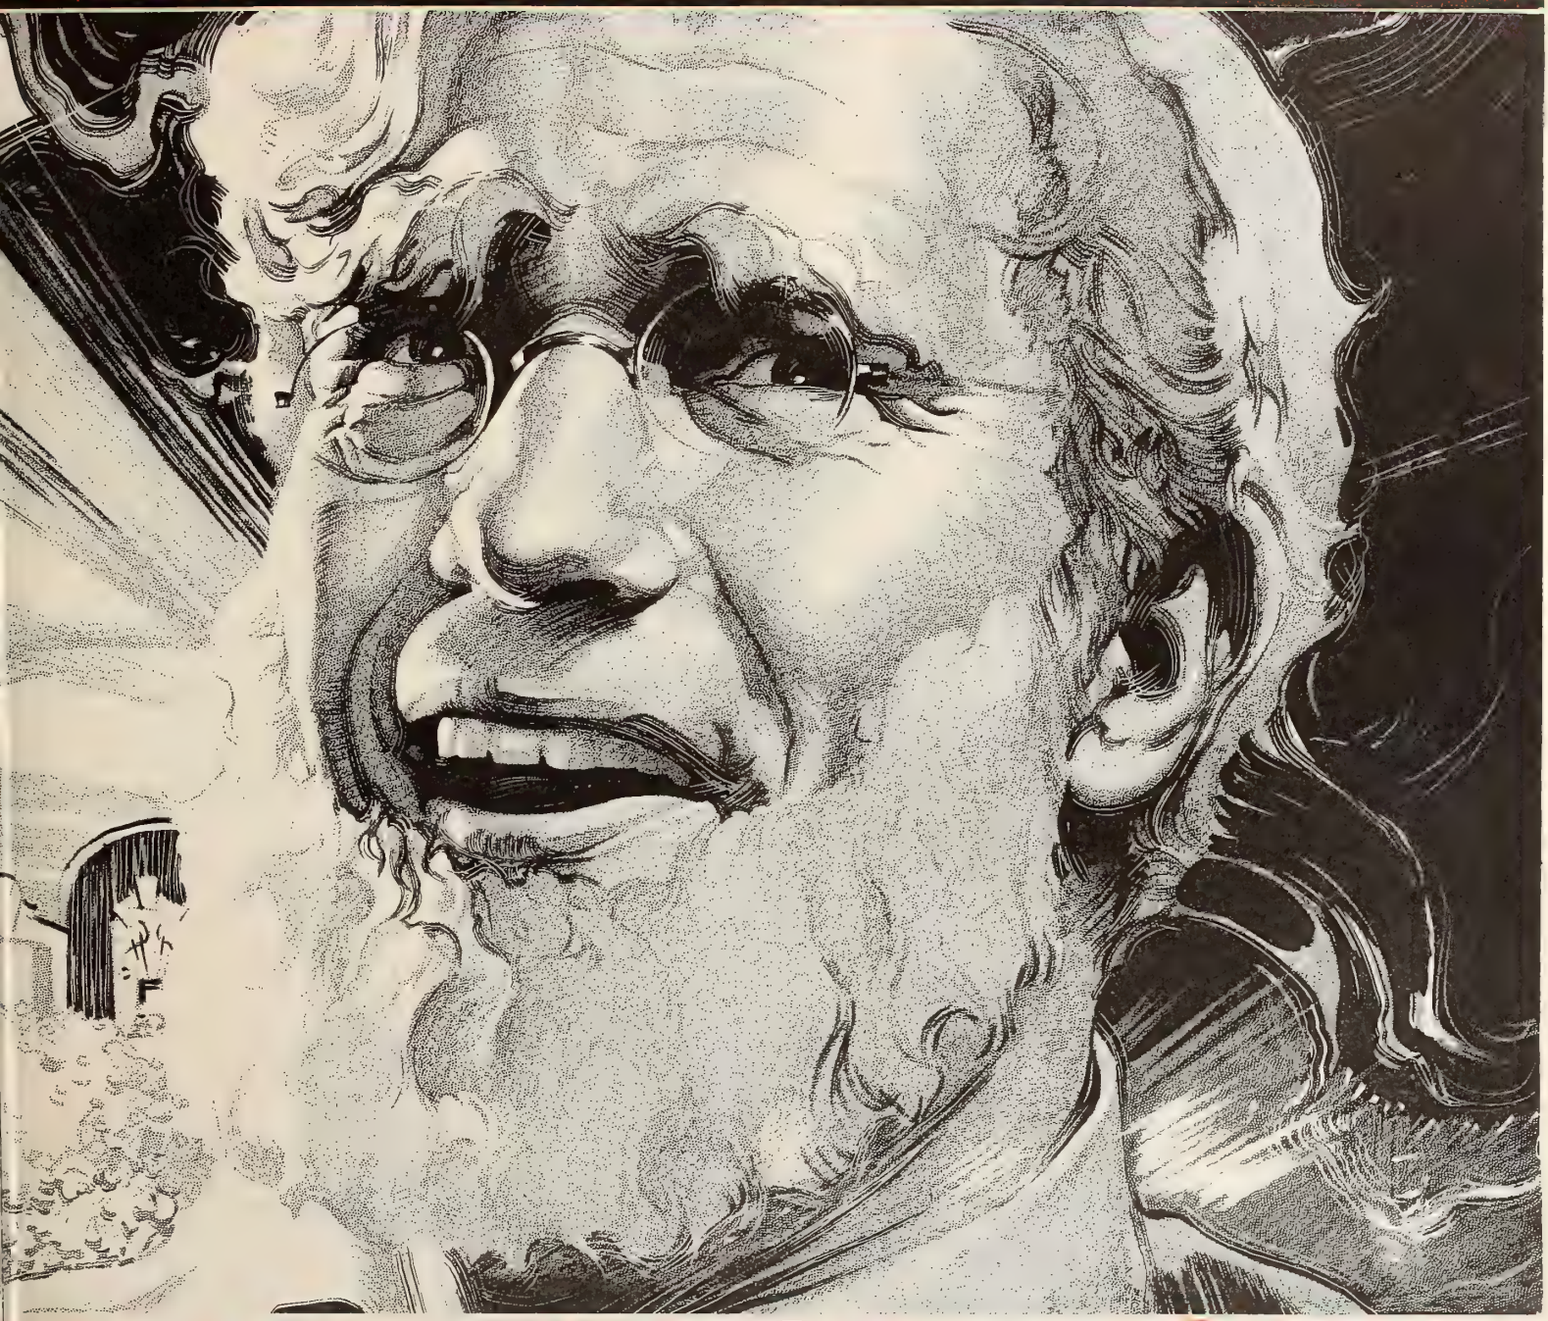
TWENTIETH CENTURY
A WORLD TURNED

MAGIC OF MACHINE AGE AND INVINCIBLE HUMAN SPIRIT MERGED IN SMASH BOX-OFFICE ATTRACTION AT PRECISELY THE RIGHT TIME!

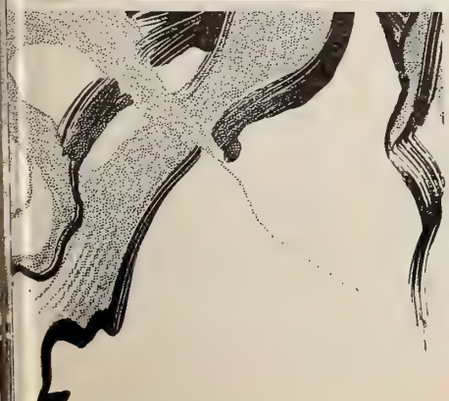
NEW COLOSSUS OF THE RADIO,

Seth Parker has Lived Until Now in the Mists of the World's Imagination . . . Now He Springs into Life Upon the Screen, Emerging From Out the Chaos of the Hour an Inspired Figure in a Grand Big Show!

SETH PARKER



AND HIS JONESPORT NEIGHBORS



RKO Radio PICTURES
Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

TUNE IN! Follow the RKO-Radio Hour Friday Nights for Details of the Seth Parker Nation-wide Festival Thanksgiving Day Week!

MIRACLE MAN IN UPSIDE DOWN.....

"WAY BACK HOME"

MELODRAMA WARM AS THE HEART OF CREATION
Directed by William Seiter . . . . Story by Jane Murfin

Like a God-sent beam of sweetness and light, Seth Parker brings a dynamic new note to show business . . . just when it is sorely needed.

As a radio personality he has shot up like a meteor, millions following his Sunday night broadcasts reverently. These millions certainly are going to see him on the screen while other millions will flock to see the whopping big melodrama in which he makes his screen debut.

RKO Radio tells you NOW to prepare for one of the freak show scoops of the decade . . . Watch for sensational exhibition and promotion plans!

PASSING IN REVIEW

The department endeavors to set forth two lines of material of service to the exhibitor—first a showman's evaluations of the outstanding pictures—second, reviews of information

"THE CISCO KID," having made his romantic and exciting bow in previous releases, gives you an edge in selling this as something a good deal better than a Western or outdoor picture. Which is a darn good break considering the fact that salable pictures are not too plentiful during the course of any one season.

Baxter and Lowe are both fine and can stand all the top billing, with Conchita Montenegro providing the feminine appeal via numerous and sundry (?) ways. So right off the bat, providing these stars are liked in your community, you have them to start selling the picture. The title is just as much "box office" as you want to make it. Left to ride alone on its own, it may not kick up the interest the picture warrants, but backed with intelligent merchandising, especially through your newspaper campaign, it may produce surprising and most satisfying results.

As an "audience" picture you have nothing to worry about. All but a very few will be quite satisfied that their entertainment was not below par and will even recommend it to others. I can readily see where this picture, surrounded with a fine assortment of good shorts, would constitute a grand evening's entertainment everywhere.

Your chief selling problems consist of getting away from the idea that this is just another Western production. O'Henry, the title, the stars and your fertile imagination should produce sufficient selling points to make the box office machine click to an excellent tempo for the run of the picture. Where the previous Baxter-Lowe picture ("Arizona Kid") played, you will have a much easier time selling this one than the spots where it was not used. So if you have their first to fall back on, play it up for all it's worth. Otherwise, get yourself set to do some hard work and to create some slants that will make them feel that they must not miss seeing this rare bit of bandit chasing of the latest style.

Get them in and you will have nothing to fear in the way of kick. It's that kind of a picture all the way through.

▼

"THE GUARDSMAN" is one of those marvelous pictures that arrive in the spots outside of the key cities with the terrific handicap of the small town audience not knowing who the stars are, what the story is all about or what have you. Yet it's a peach of a picture in every sense of the word. But it's going to need the best selling ideas you ever created or used. And (as Chic Sale would say) I'll tell you why:

Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne, while being artists of the finest kind, mean nothing at all to the Main Street box office. Ferenc Molnar, notwithstanding his great reputation, will mean just about as much, and last but not least, the fact that this was a Theatre Guild, Inc., success for over a year on Broadway will mean still less.

It's that kind of a picture that you ought to see before you sell. I mean by that remark that you will only then appreciate what you must go out and sell after you've sat through one of the most enjoyable pictures released this or last season. But after you've glimpsed this picture you will be enthusiastic enough to dope out a campaign that will overcome the handicaps.

The M-G-M people ought to run special screenings in every section of the country for the benefit of the exhibitors and managers from outside the big cities. It would help get the picture over to far greater grosses than if shipped out cold. Just a suggestion, but I'm sure thousands of small-town exhibitors will agree with me.

Here is one of those pictures that bring to light the kind of showmen who can go out and sell only the easy, box office smash pictures, and those who are equally capable when it comes to getting the dough with the tough babies; pictures that are great, but need a lot of help to get the customers in to find out how good they really are.

The fact that the title lacks in "box-office" pull means there should be a strong campaign of the kind that attracts attention and business in your individual community. But the picture itself is over a hundred per cent "audience" and your best break is going to be the patrons who see it first and then go out on the streets and rave about it. They'll get the business for you after the first show. But you can't afford to depend solely on word-of-mouth advertising; you must create sufficient interest to get them to the theatre. Peruse every bit of dope you can lay your hands on about this picture. Note how the first-runs handle their campaigns and select whatever potrions fit your local situation.

In all of this rave about "The Guardsman" I must not lose sight of one fact that others may question my judgment about. What I mean is, for the very small communities, such as the socalled "hick" towns, or those spots where the Western picture gets the most dough, this one won't mean a heck of a lot. In fact it may fall flat. Its dialogue is far too sophisticated for the smaller towns, but most all other communities will go for it in a big way.

▼

"THE TIP-OFF" is one of those stories that always go big with the average theatre audience. Not that it's so great a story, but its characters seem real human and you get to like 'em as the yarn unreels itself before you. That's the impression we sort of got as we sat in the theatre the other day and watched it. Glancing around the audience close by we detected a happy look on most of the faces, the look which you generally find on contented customers. In other words, they were enjoying themselves and there are darn few pictures that can make 'em do that.

Eddie Quillan will crawl right under your skin like a pet habit; Bob Armstrong is a hundred per cent sincere as the boxer and the feminine side is ably upheld by winsome Ginger Rogers and Joan Peers. So, add to the above the fact that the story is interesting and you have most of the necessary ingredients for a real "audience" picture. As to the "box-office" value of the title, that depends a whole lot on the boys who must sell the picture to the patrons.

There are enough angles to this one to warrant your imagination getting in some fine work. Build up on the radio angle if that helps any, play up the cast and create sufficient interest in the story to make them want to spend a pleasant evening at your theatre. Exploitation, naturally, lends itself to this type of story a little more than to most other kinds. The gangster slant can be entirely overlooked in your campaign if the local folk are tired of it, but the love of a boy for his girl gives you plenty to work with. And what this kid has to go through to get his gal will keep the customers quite happy for the entire picture. Those with a love for the "hero to the rescue" will clap as long and as loud as the kids when Armstrong arrives at the roadhouse to help the kid.

I see no reason at all why this one can't stand on its own feet surrounded by a good program of shorts. With a suitable campaign of nothing too expensive in the way of advertising and exploitation, you ought to get by nicely and bring home a goodly share of the shekels.

▼

"TELEVISION." Ever since announcements appeared in the trade press about the exhibition and demonstration of Television at Moss' Broadway theatre in New York, I have received many communications relative to what it was all about. Naturally, in all the propaganda about Television the small towns were supposed to be the ones who would be hurt by reason of the type of entertainment that it would bring to the natives who owned television sets.

If the demonstration I witnessed at the Broadway theatre is any criterion, you can forget Television for a long time to come. Not that it was lacking in mechanics or detail. You actually did see the faces and hear the voices, but you were cock-eyed for the rest of the day because of the poor light and the straining of your eyes to keep them focused on the ten-foot screen.

Television is far from a serious opposition to theatres. Even in a far more perfected form, it would still lack many of the essentials that any real opposition to movies must have. But as a freak stunt for any theatre that can play to customers who want to see what it's all about, it's good "box-office."

For the present I would suggest that you forget about Television as any sort of a bugaboo. It's far from perfection and should cause you to lose no sleep whatsoever.

CHARLES E. LEWIS

▼

Possessed

(M-G-M)

Drama

(Seen at Hollywood)

For those who like their film fare hot and the morals of the screen heroines loose, Joan Crawford's latest M-G-M starring vehicle, now titled "Possessed," should prove a distinct hit.

Clarke Gable essays the role of a young millionaire who likes his women, but is afraid of matrimony because he once was disappointed. Just how he was disappointed is not made quite clear. But in the meantime he and Joan play around for three years before love and conscience catch up with them and they decide perhaps old-fashioned double-hitches are more satisfactory.

Joan is made to declare quite frankly when she abandons the small-town paper box factory in favor of big city penthouses that she knows what she wants and is going to get it. The elaborateness of her surroundings those ensuing years indicate no small success.

From all of which it may be gathered that this is what the trade knows as "adult fare."

As a production it leaves nothing to be desired. The performance of Miss Crawford is one of her best. Gable is seen in the sort of role that has made him a sensation. Clarence Brown's direction is excellent. The mounting is lavish and the supporting cast is at all times adequate with particularly good performances registered by Skeets Gallagher and Wallace Ford.

The production is based upon Edgar Selwyn's stage play, "The Mirage," from the adap-

A WHEEL OF FORTUNE FOR EVERY EXHIBITOR!

PLATINUM BLONDE

a
RANK APRA
oduction
Columbia Picture

wi
LORETT
YOUN
•
ROBERT WILLIAM
•
JEAN
HARLO

Walter Catlett • Louise Closser H.
Edmund Breese

Story by Harry E. Chandlee and Douglas W. Churchill. Continuity
Dorothy Howell. Adaptation by Jo Swerling. Dialogue by Robert Ris

T'S THE TALK OF THE INDUSTRY!

tation, continuity and dialogue of Lenore Coffee.

Produced and distributed by M-G-M. Directed by Clarence Brown, from Edgar Selwyn's stage play, "The Mirage." Adaptation, continuity, dialogue by Lenore Coffee. Film editor, William LeVanway. Photographer, Oliver Marsh. Release date, November 14, 1931.

CAST

Marian ..... Joan Crawford
Mark Whitney ..... Clark Gable
Al Manning ..... Wallace Ford
Wally ..... "Skeets" Gallagher
Travers ..... Frank Conroy
Vernice ..... Marjorie White
John Driscoll ..... John Miljan
Mother ..... Clara Blandick

Leo Meehan

Over The Hill

(Fox)

Drama

(Seen at Hollywood)

An audience at the Fox theatre at San Bernardino, on the Coast, greeted enthusiastically the talking version of "Over the Hill." Mae Marsh returns to the screen as the mother, in what was generally conceded to be a good performance, while the support was called excellent, being featured by James Dunn and Sally Eilers, who appear as a fine combination.

The picture was termed by many as splendid in both story and direction. Fortunately, it was agreed, sufficient humorous situations were included to keep the audience amused and relieve a bit of the heavy pathos with which the film is, of course, infused. However, tears were plentiful throughout the audience, and the thorough enjoyment and appreciation with which the film was viewed by the audience as a whole, was indicated by the generous applause which followed the concluding sequence.

Produced and distributed by Fox. Directed by Henry King. From the poem by Will Carleton. Written for the screen by Tom Barry and Jules Furthman. Cameraman, John Seitz. Sound, Eugene Grossman. Art director, Robert Haas. Release date, November 29, 1931.

CAST

Johnny ..... James Dunn
Isabel ..... Sally Eilers
Ma ..... Mae Marsh
Pa ..... James Kirkwood
Tommy ..... Edward Crandall
Phyllis ..... Claire Maynard
Isaac ..... Olin Howland
Minnie ..... Eula Guy
Susan ..... Joan Peers
Ben ..... William Pawley
Letch ..... George Reed
Stephen ..... Douglas Walton
Bill Collector ..... David Hartford
Johnny (as child) ..... Tommy Conlon
Isabel (as child) ..... Nancy Irish
Tommy (as child ..... Julius Molnar
Isaac (as child) ..... Joe Hachey
Susan (as child) ..... Marilynn Harris

Touchdown

(Paramount)

Drama

(Seen at Hollywood)

A Boulevard theatre audience on the Coast gave Paramount chiefs all they wanted in the way of audience reaction at a showing of "Touchdown." Football fever seemed to have hit the audience and they cheered the picture from start to finish. The story, adapted from "Stadium" by Francis Wallace, is a decided departure from the ordinary run of athletic stories and depicts the adventures of college stars who have graduated to take up coaching.

Dick Arlen was superb as the All-American who, as a coach, couldn't lose. The audience was so enthralled with his performance that they actually hissed him at times. Jack Dakie and Regis Toomey played teammates of Arlen's and gave their usual smooth performances.

The audience got a great kick out of locating football heroes. Coach Howard Jones, Jim Thorpe, and many others were in the picture momentarily. Bob Hall, Trojan ace, played a part that may lead to a career in pictures for the blond giant. He was thought to have screened decidedly well and has a pleasant speaking voice.

J. Farrell MacDonald gave the audience a real thrill in his impersonation of the immortal Rockne. Charles Starrett, Peggy Shannon and George Barbier gave acceptable performances.

Norman McLeod and Arthur Todd got together on a director-cameraman job that kept the picture moving at a fast pace. Stock shots of several important games helped things along rather than detracting from the picture.

Produced and distributed by Paramount. Directed by Norman McLeod. Adapted from "Stadium," by Francis Wallace. Screen play by Grover Jones and William Slavens McNutt. Photographed by Arthur Todd. Release date, November 14, 1931.

CAST

Dan Custis ..... Richard Arlen
Mary Gehring ..... Peggy Shannon
Babe Barton ..... Jack Oakie
Tom Hussey ..... Regis Toomey
Paul Gehring ..... Charles Starrett
Jerome Gehring ..... George Barbier
Pop Stewart ..... J. Farrell MacDonald
President Baker ..... George Irving
Harrigan ..... Charles D. Brown

The One Way Trail

(Columbia)

Western

(Seen at Hollywood)

Tim McCoy, in the role of a cowhand cardsharper, was well received at a showing of this Columbia western on the Coast, at the Santa Monica Wilshire theatre. The supporting cast, including Doris Hill, Carroll Nye and Polly Ann Young, did acceptable work, it was thought, and were reasonably well greeted by the audience.

Comment indicated, however, that the picture as a whole suffered somewhat from excessive dialogue and consequent shortness of fast and true western action. Also, a rather loosely constructed story was held partially responsible for the comparatively cool reception accorded the film at the coast theatre.

The story revolves around a case of mistaken identity and its resultant complications and romantic difficulties, which, of course, are satisactorily taken care of by the time the concluding sequence is reached. The youngsters in the audience hardly seemed as much "on edge" as is usually the case in a fast western.

One rough-and-tumble fight, however, brought the audience to the edges of their seats with excitement bubbling off their lips. The photographic work of John Hickson was termed splendid, particularly in the sequences which picture McCoy racing across the earth on his beautiful white horse.

Produced and distributed by Columbia. Directed by Ray Taylor. Story by Claude Rister. Dialogue and continuity by George Plympton. Edited by Otto Meyer. Photographed by John Hickson. Release date, October 15, 1931. Running time, 58 minutes.

CAST

Tim Allen ..... Tim McCoy
Helen Beck ..... Doris Hill
Terry Allen ..... Carroll Nye
Mollie ..... Polly Ann Young
Coldeye Carnell ..... Al Ferguson

Chinatown After Dark

(Action Pictures)

Drama

The second of Action Pictures' schedule of 24 for the year, picturing the nefarious ways of the Chinese in this country, at least those engaged in shady dealing of one sort and another. Carmel Myers offers the role of the leader of the gang, as a Chinese woman, while Rex Lease and Barbara Kent supply the romantic interest.

The picture pretends to be nothing more than entertainment, and as such succeeds in a fair measure. Dramatic interest is sustained well throughout the film, and occasional suspensive moments do their share in the same direction.

The story revolves about the efforts of Frank Mayo, as Lease's brother, to bring from Shanghai a jeweled dagger containing in its handle a valuable ruby, which is destined for Edmund Breese in the role of the old Chinaman, whose ward is the American girl, played by Miss Kent. A group of Chinamen, knowing the value of the dagger, attempt in various ways to steal the treasure, and the aid of Miss Myers is obtained.

Lease becomes mixed in the affair when his brother seeks his aid, and when, at the moment of delivery, the old Chinaman is mysteriously killed and the brother and dagger disappear, Lease takes up the case in his own way. The fact that Miss Kent is particularly attractive, has something to do with it. After more or less complications and suspense, he succeeds in linking Miss Myers with the attempted robbery and murder. The brother is discovered in her hideaway, the ruby is restored to Miss Kent, for whom it was originally intended, and Lease and the girl are happy over the outcome.

Rather effective comedy is supplied by Billy Gilbert as Horatio Dooley, the fat, cigar-chewing detective who is amusing in his detective efforts, and who is convinced that Lease is the murderer, though Miss Kent heartily disagrees.

The leading players are effective in their roles, Lease, Mayo and Miss Myers doing especially well. Miss Myers is fairly convincing as a Chinese woman, while Miss Kent is attractive in her pretty simplicity.

This is not an unusual picture, but Stuart Paton, who directed, kept his film moving at a steady pace, and with good work by the cast, contrived to fashion a satisfactorily entertaining piece, with the Chinese atmosphere, well conceived, relied upon to do much in the way of supplying different background.

Produced and distributed by Action Pictures. Presented by Ralph M. Lake. Directed by Stuart Paton. Supervised by Cliff Broughton. Story by Betty Burbridge. Edited by Viola Roehl. Photography by Jules Cronjager. Release date, October 31, 1931. Running time, 59 minutes.

CAST

Jim Bonner ..... Rex Lease
Lotus ..... Barbara Kent
Lee Fong ..... Edmund Breese
Madame Ying Su ..... Carmel Myers
Ralph Bonner ..... Frank Mayo
Horatio Dooley ..... Billy Gilbert
Detective Captain ..... Lloyd Whitlock
Ming Fu ..... Laska Winter
Varanoff ..... Michael Viseroff

The Mad Genius

(Warner)

Drama

John Barrymore again, and again in a Svengali type of role, with the exception that this time his Trilby is masculine. The mere words, Barrymore again, indicate much of the resultant film effort. The picture is Barrymore, and the manner in which his masterly histrionic capabilities handle such a role was clearly indicated by the rapt attention accorded him and the screen story at the New York Hollywood theatre.

Here we have the brilliant artist as a ballet director, who being club-footed and unable to himself reap the wild applause of multitudes which his half mad genius for the dance craves, attempts to mold a young man, played by Donald Cook, in his own image, so to speak. He instills into the lad the genius which is his mentally, and through him hopes, and in a measure succeeds, in satisfying his mad desire for the creation of an acclaimed dancing brilliant.

In a short prologue Barrymore is seen handling a country puppet show, with Charles Butterworth his rather stupid but faithful assistant. Frankie Darro appears most appealingly as the peasant boy, who beaten by his father, is kidnaped by Barrymore, who had conceived the idea of molding the boy with his own genius.

Donald Cook portrays the young dancer, who upon falling in love with Marian Marsh, ballet artiste, rebels against his mentor and guardian, returns to him as a result of the machinations of the mad genius, and finally witnesses the tragic end of the ballet director, by means of an axe in the hands of his drug-crazed master of the ballet, played with acknowledged splendid effect by Luis Alberni.

At the performance of the ballet in Berlin, the girl is in a box, and Fedor, believing she loves him still, refuses to go on for the last act. Barrymore in an intensely dramatic scene, overpowers Fedor by the sheer force of his crazed will and the boy goes on. But back-

It's time for STRAIGHT TALK and CLEAR THINKING!

WARNER BROS. smashed every precedent to give you the greatest product in the history of this business... MORE THAN YOUR CONTRACT CALLS FOR!

We've done more than OUR share to put your theatre on a profit basis. If you are still worrying.....

Ask Yourself!

MAN to MAN!

- are you doing everything in YOUR power to get every penny out of every picture?

WARNERS HAVE DELIVERED

Now it's up to you!....

stage, the drug-mad ballet master had taken an overdose of the potion his chief doles out to him, and attempts to hack to pieces a huge set depicting an idol. Barrymore rushes on his club foot to stop him and the two struggle. When the drop curtain is raised, exposing the lifeless idol, the figure of the mad genius, badly hacked, is seen draped on the front of the idol. The body rolls down to the front of the stage, and the audience flees in horror, in a spectacularly presented and highly dramatic concluding sequence.

Fedor and the girl are brought together by the tragedy and the spell of the mad genius is broken. Charles Butterworth as the foolish assistant lends what relieving comedy touches are presented.

The cast as a whole, it was indicated, offered splendid support to Barrymore, particularly in the persons of Cook, Miss Marsh, Butterworth and Alberni.

Produced and distributed by Warner. Directed by Michael Curtiz. Adaptation and dialogue by Harvey Thew and J. Grubb Alexander. Author, Martin Brown. Film editor, Ralph Dawson. Cameraman, Barney McGill. Release date, November 7, 1931. Running time, 81 minutes.

CAST

Tsarakov	John Barrymore
Nana	Marian Marsh
Fedor	Donald Cook
Preskoya	Carmel Myers
Karimsky	Charles Butterworth
Serge Bankieff	Luis Alberni
Renaud	Andre Luget
Fedor's father	Boris Karloff
Fedor (child)	Frankie Darro
Olga	Mae Madison

Freighters of Destiny

(RKO Pathe)

Western

(Seen at Hollywood)

Pictorial beauty, fast action and intelligent direction combine to make "Freighters of Destiny" one of the best westerns produced in a long time, in the opinion of many present at a showing of the RKO-Pathe western on the Coast.

Fred Allen has taken a capable cast with Tom Keene, Barbara Kent, Frank Rice and Billy Franey into some beautiful country at Lone Pine and turned out a picture that was described as the type to give the grown-ups and youngsters a real thrill. Keene has a likeable personality and a clever horse that adds some clever angles. The story is adequate and the introduction of several good cowboy songs enhances the picture. Barbara Kent is pleasing and the comedy furnished by Frank Rice and Billy Franey was called excellent.

Ted McCord has turned out a splendid piece of photography and Dick Tyler's recording is above average. If Allen can keep the rest of the series at the same level as "Freighters of Destiny" he will do a lot toward bringing westerns back into the limelight, was one expressed opinion in the theatre lobby.

Produced and distributed by RKO Pathe. Directed by Fred Allen. Story by Adele Buffington. Photographed by Ted McCord. Recorded by Dick Tyler. Musical director, Arthur Lange. Release date, October 30, 1931. Running time, 51 minutes.

CAST

Steve	Tom Keene
Ruth	Barbara Kent
Rough	Frank Rice
Ready	Billy Franey
Carter	Mitchell Harris
Mercer	William Welsh
Macey	Frederick Burton
Toller	Slim Whittaker
Heavy	Tom Bay
Sheriff	Fred Burns

The Tip Off

(RKO Pathe)

Comedy

Young and sparkling Eddie Quillan and pugilistic Robert Armstrong succeeded in amusing and providing a measure of enjoyment for an audience at Moss's Broadway, New York. With the rather capable aid of Ginger Rogers, vivacious "girl" of Armstrong and Joan Peers as the girl whom Eddie is attracted to and satisfactorily marries at the conclusion, the pair keep the film moving at a lively and often amusing pace throughout.

Eddie is the helper at the radio store and, on a job at the pugilist's home, where Ginger holds forth, succeeds in saving Armstrong through a radio ruse when Ralf Harolde as former manager and gang leader, forces his way in and attempts to compel Armstrong to fight for him. The two become fast friends. When Eddie meets Miss Peers at a dance to which Armstrong had given him a ticket, he makes the mistake of "rushing" her, not knowing she is Harolde's girl, though against her will.

Leaving the dance hall in a hurry, the two escape to Armstrong's apartment, and the girl, fearing Eddie will be hurt if she marries him as they both wish, disappears. Eddie finally succeeds in finding her, only to discover that she is being forced to marry Harolde at a road house. He goes there to get her, and Armstrong follows just in time to save the two. In making their escape Eddie is wounded and Harolde is killed by the police. Of course, Eddie and Joan walk up the aisle together for the closing sequence of what was generally conceded to be a light but entertaining effort. Amusing bits are achieved in dialogue when Ginger supplies the word at the end of imposing sentences which Armstrong attempts and is unable to conclude properly.

Produced and distributed by RKO Pathe. Directed by Albert Rogell. Original story by George Kibbe Turner. Screen story by Earl Baldwin. Dialogue director, Ralph Murphy. Film editor, Charles Craft. Photographer, Edward Snyder. Release date, October 16, 1931. Running time, 73 minutes.

CAST

Tommy	Eddie Quillan
Kayo McClure	Robert Armstrong
Baby Face	Ginger Rogers
Edna	Joan Peers
Nick Vatelli	Ralf Harolde
Pop Jackson	Charles Sellon
Swanky	Mike Donlin
Slug	Ernie Adams
Joe	Jack Herrick
Miss Waddums	Cupid Ainsworth

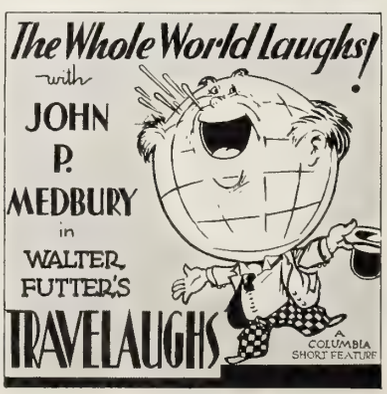
SHORTS

Penalties

(Tiffany)

Interesting

Particularly interesting for football fans is this short, in which some of the country's leading college coaches discuss all possible penalties in the game. Players illustrate the manner in which the penalties may be incurred. Howard Jones of U. S. C. leads off and introduced the numerous mentors. Produced by Alfred Mannon.—Running time, 11 minutes.



Trapped

(Universal)

Fair

The initial offering in a new series, "Shadow Detective," in which is enacted the manner in which a gang leader is trapped by the police principally through the efforts of a young detective and a girl operative, who stages a fake marriage to get close to the gangster, when he is thought guilty of a murder. He is caught satisfactorily, but suspense and real dramatic action are rather woefully lacking in the short. A shadow of a man appears on the screen at odd moments and at the opening and conclusion of the piece, pointing out in a deep voice that the ways of evil lead to jail, the gallows or something equally unpleasant.—Running time, 23 minutes.

It's smart to show COLUMBIA short features!

Complete Round of Golf

(Vitaphone)

Fine

Here is the last of the Bobby Jones golf series, in which the champion, in a sense, summarizes the lessons of the previous numbers of the series, going entirely around the course. Several important points are again discussed, on the way. Unusual camera angles and Jones' expertness will make this fascinating for golfers and highly diverting for non-players.—Running time, 10 minutes.

Dive In

(MGM)

Good

A number in the Sports Champion series, showing numerous wellknown swimmers and divers doing their difficult water tricks with apparent ease, while slow motion serves to show how it is done and makes it more entertaining at the same time. Some comment was hardly in favor of the accompanying dialogue by Pete Smith, principally by reason of the smart remarks in which he indulged.—Running time, 10 minutes.

Song of the Voodoo

(RKO Pathe)

Splendid

Photographically and scenically this number of the Van Beuren-Vagabond Adventure series is most excellent. The island of Haiti is the subject and the most is made of its natural beauty and grandeur. Port Au Prince, chief city, is seen with the camera's eye, and the customs and peculiarities ferretted out for the audience with an interesting result. A fine travel number.—Running time, 9 minutes.

The Clyde Mystery

(Vitaphone)

Splendid

An audience at the Warner in New York appeared to extract a real kick out of this S. S. Van Dine mystery short, the first in a series. The suspense is real and holds the attention, while the solution of the death of Mr. Clyde, provides something unexpected and therefore quite effective. Warners has something in this group of shorts if the others hold to the standard of this first.—Running time, 21 minutes.

The Black Spider

(Educational)

Good Cartoon

A rather neat Terry Toon number in which the black spider sets his attention upon a beautiful girl. Cleverly enough has been provided an eerie atmosphere and it is well synchronized with a similar type of musical score.—Running time, 6 minutes.

Fairyland Follies

(RKO Pathe)

Good

One of the Aesop animated cartoon numbers and a clever piece of work. The teacher at school requests her pupils to entertain the class and one after another, the varied types of animals do their stunts in amusing fashion.—Running time, 8 minutes.

SHORT FEATURES

Fitzpatrick Completes Two More "Traveltalks" for MGM

James A. FitzPatrick, producer of the FitzPatrick "Traveltalks" series for M-G-M release, is now completing two new numbers after returning from a six-weeks' stay in England and Ireland. Titles are "London, City of Tradition" and "Ireland, the Melody Isle."

With the two, Fitzpatrick will have delivered eight of the scheduled group to M-G-M, leaving five to be produced before the end of 1931.

New Educational Building

Ground has been broken for a new concrete and steel structure to be used for negative handling and cutting on the Coast Educaitonal lot. The building will be approximately 40x60 feet in size.

Buck Back With Jungle Films

Frank Buck has completed filming of his trip through the jungles of India for Van Beuren, which will be released by RKO Pathe as short subjects.

Jury Says "Suicide" Was Murder

A Nashville, Tenn., coroner's jury has concluded that Harry Sudekum, 41, died at the hands of persons unknown, rather than by suicide last December 13. Sudekum's company operate motion picture theatres in north Alabama.

Exhibitors To Visit Coast

Four hundred exhibitors will make a joint trip to Hollywood, following an interchange of letters and personal contact among them. They will be representative of various independent exhibitor organizations. The trip will begin around January 15, requiring 15 days.

Kaplan Group Holding Dance

The Kaplan Projection Society of local 306, New York projectionists' union, will hold its annual dinner dance next Saturday, October 31, at the Hotel Commodore, in the grand ballroom. Numerous notable entertainers will be present.

Arcturus Moves Office

Arcturus Radio Tube Company has moved its western division headquarters to larger space on the first floor of the building it occupies in Los Angeles. L. P. Naylor is in personal charge of the office.

Offers New 300 Watt Lamps

Victor Animatograph Corporation, Davenport, Iowa, has announced a new G-E Mazda projection lamp of 300 watts rating which, it is claimed, does not require any form of lamp resistance.

Asks Television License

First National Television, Inc., Kansas City company, has applied to the federal radio commission for a license to broadcast television programs.

SHORTS ON BROADWAY

Week of October 24, 1931

ASTOR
- Bali ..... MGM
- Olympic Events ..... MGM

CAPITOL
- Flash ..... MGM

HOLLYWOOD
- Looney Tune No. 7 ..... Vitaphone
- Road to Mandalay ..... Vitaphone
- The Musical Mystery ..... Vitaphone

MAYFAIR
- Fairyland Follies ..... RKO Radio
- Full Coverage ..... RKO Pathe

PARAMOUNT
- My Wife's Jewelry ..... Paramount
- Mask-A-Raid ..... Paramount

RIALTO
- Little Annie Rooney ..... Paramount
- Hollywood Beauties ..... Paramount
- Screen Souvenirs ..... Paramount

RIVOLI
- You're Driving Me Crazy ..... Paramount
- Penalties ..... Tiffany
- No More Hookey ..... Paramount

ROXY
- Decision ..... Columbia

STRAND
- Gypsy Caravan ..... Vitaphone
- Platinum Blondes ..... Vitaphone

WARNER
- Old Lace ..... Vitaphone
- Sportslants ..... Vitaphone

WINTER GARDEN
- Rhythms of a Big City ..... Vitaphone
- A Complete Round of Golf ..... Vitaphone
- Southern India ..... Vitaphone

To Insure Long Runs

build up your show with

MICKEY MOUSE

or a Walt Disney

SILLY SYMPHONY

4 L. A. theatres did it

Grauman's Chinese and Criterion with "Cisco Kid"
United Artists with Eddie Cantor's "Palmy Days"
Carthay Circle with "Consolation Marriage"

NEWS PICTURES

FOX MOVIETONE NEWS—No. 9—President lauds nation's forefathers—Yale triumphs over Chicago—Thomas A. Edison passes away—Hoover committee asks help of nation—Daredevil drivers thrill fair crowd at Danbury, Conn.

FOX MOVIETONE NEWS—No. 10—British lose again at Yorktown—Mussolini gets 40,000 recruits—A night trip over the gay white way—German girls get modernistic urge—Some race horses get wet feet—Poland welcomes Sokol athletes.

HEARST METROTONE NEWS—No. 208—Fall racing opens at famous Auteuil—Thomas A. Edison laid to rest as nation mourns—Mexico gets its turkey a la carte—Bernard Shaw on Americans abroad—Elephants blaze new jungle roads—Navy permitted to retain its bands.

HEARST METROTONE NEWS—No. 209—Lindbergh films flood in China—America welcomes Premier Laval on visit to President Hoover—Navy takes over new sky queen—Gar Wood speeds 104 miles per hour—Al Capone gets 11 years in prison—World's greatest bridge opens over Hudson River—Yale-Army clash ends in a tie.

PARAMOUNT SOUND NEWS—No. 25—Rugby—with a kick in English match—War clouds gather over Far East in Manchurian situation—Outboard racers hit high mark in Jersey regatta—President Hoover addresses Yorktown audience on American patriots—Johnny Runger hitches his bathtub to a blimp over New York.

PARAMOUNT SOUND NEWS—No. 26—Florida youngsters work out new water stunts at Miami—Los Angeles school girl wins praise for unemployment relief plan—Navy planes honor Navy Day with swift maneuvers—Laval of France visits Hoover of the United States—Gar Wood steps Miss America at 104 miles per hour—Navy sinks Princeton tiger in gridiron battle.

PATHE NEWS—No. 24—Sarnoff pays tribute to Thomas Edison—America and France honor America's patriots at Yorktown—Far East seethes in dispute over Manchuria—Walter S. Gifford asks for united jobless aid—Yale invades west for first time.

PATHE NEWS—No. 26—Laval visit indicates new era of world peace—Prosecutor praises Pathe News for effort which jailed kidnapers—World's largest suspension span over Hudson now in operation—Football stars shine as Notre Dame tackles Pittsburgh.

UNIVERSAL NEWSPAPER NEWSREEL—No. 86—Arrival of Premier Laval hailed as omen of French-United States accord—Free feeding of Chicago children helps jobless parents—Nation pays last tribute as Edison is buried—News paragraphs—World peace group assembles at Vienna—Bluenose beats Thebaud in North Atlantic fishermen's race—Daring workers raise air beacon over lower New York's skyline.

UNIVERSAL NEWSPAPER NEWSREEL—No. 87—$60,000,000 new Hudson span opened with formal ceremonies—Nationalist parties in Germany stage huge rally under Hitler banner—News paragraphs—Gar Wood fails in try at Kaye Don's speedboat record—Yale ties Army in thrilling battle—Japan defies League as war clouds loom on Manchurian frontier.

Aesop Fable Book Big Seller

A 100,000-copy third edition of the Aesop's Fable Book, published by the Sonnett Publishing Company under the supervision of the Van Beuren Corporation, producers of the cartoon reel released by RKO Pathe, is now on the press. Two 75,000 printings have been exhausted.

J. V. Cremonim Resigns

J. V. Cremonim has resigned from the Pulverman Corporation, New York, manufacturers of sound equipment, according to an announcement from I. Pulverman, president.

Barrell Moves Visugraphic Unit

Distribution branch of Visugraphic Pictures, directed by Marie Barrell, has been moved from 729 7th Ave., to the New York home office at 247 Park Ave.

Weeks' Picture Underway

Fanchon Royer has begun production of "Gangway," a tentative title, for George W. Weeks. Wallace W. Fox is directing from a scenario by Bernard McConville.

YOUR PUBLIC

by RITA C. McGOLDRICK

WITH that queer psychology that is so childlike, the great motion picture industry, with its enormous ramifications, technical wizardry and artistic perceptions, persists in making motion pictures in cycles. The producers, like sheep jumping over a fence, follow the leader. Two years ago, after a period in which no picture was safe from an injected song and dance, the studios decreed music to be out. In the films made since that time we have had no outstanding musical comedy, and incidental music has been practically eliminated from sound picture entertainment. Even Lawrence Tibbett, whose magnificent operatic voice brought him into the film world, was starred as a heroic good fellow rather than as a singer. The spectacle was pitiable.

It has remained for the Germans to teach us a sharp lesson in audience psychology. German directors were not afraid to make musical pictures when Hollywood said music was passe. They do not make their pictures in cycles. They do not bind themselves to six months of sex features, six months of gangsters, six months of juveniles, with a periodic contribution of mystery thrillers. They are wise enough to believe in a balanced diet. And so they brought to a receptive New York light opera in German when there was not another tuneful offering on Broadway. And they gave us a new experience with their impossibly-titled picture, "Two Hearts that Beat in Three-Quarter Time." The picture opened in German without English titling. It had practically no exploitation, and yet critical New York audiences poured into the theatre where it was showing, night after night. We had a spectacle of a light opera on the screen, hampered by everything that the publicity experts would consider a handicap. The picture played for more than two thousand consecutive performances.

"A Student Song of Heidelberg"

The phenomenal success of "Two Hearts" prompted Ufa to rush to this country the lighthearted and perfectly familiar musical story, "A Student Song of Heidelberg." We all know every movement of Old Heidelberg. We sang its college tunes, more than twenty years ago. This film has practically nothing new, but it brought aceptable music to a metropolis that likes music. In addition, it brought the beauty of the original German locale.

And Hollywood, pricking up its ears, has decided that now we are to have a musical cycle.

More and Funnier Comedies

Coincident with music, we are to have laughter—which may not be a bad combination for the nation in these times. While we have been wading through the social complexes of the sex problem and the accompanying melodramatic offerings of the past year, comedy has been at a premium. We have had short features that have tried to be funny in their way, with occasional success. But feature length comedies have been left almost entirely to Charlie Chaplin and Harold Lloyd, both of whom work slowly, turning out one picture every two years. In the past few weeks we have seen "Palmy Days" doing a smash box-office business on Broadway, followed by the Four Marx Brothers in "Monkey Business." Both are models of the art of slapstick, but they have tinkling music and gaiety. "Monkey Business" is the perfect antidote for worry, and although it is marred by the occasional line and suggestive joke, it is grand nonsense, leaving the audience limp with laughter.

MOTION PICTURE HERALD'S "School and Screen" service, launched as an experiment six months ago, like the pebble cast into the lake has sent the ripples of its influence to strangely distant places. Letters have come from South America and Trinidad, Australia, the Philippines and Japan, as well as from every state.

In line with this, the League of Nations, through its Cinematographic Committee, has a number of searching articles on this subject in its latest bulletin, The International Review of Educational Cinematography.

In all of this intellectual analyzing, however, one meets with the same snag. The sound screen is an admitted teaching agent for schools. But European schools have not the ways or means to install its electrical equipment. Nor will they be able to do so for a considerable time to come. It has remained for "School and Screen" to point out to many of these groups that the alternative solution is to bring the mountain to Mahomet. The answer lies in making use of the educational opportunities of the entertainment screen by encouraging pupils to see the best pictures in the theatres.

Yokohama Cooperates

The Young Men's Association of Yokohama is particularly interested in the possibilities of the "School and Screen" movement. They write us that there is but one American theatre in Yokohama but that it is a fact that the various Japanese theatres use American pictures which are understood and loved by the Japanese. It is through this circuit that a committee of young Japanese men hope to exploit selected pictures pointed out by "School and Screen."

The Junior Show

The Strand theatre, a Paramount-Publix house of Lowell, Mass., contributes the following idea to those who are particularly interested in developing the Junior Matinee or special shows for children:

"We have an Early Bird Club and send application cards for membership to boys and girls under twelve years of age. The Early Bird cards are distributed to all children attending matinees who submit their names to the office.

"We are also building a Birthday Club which has aroused considerable interest on the part of the parents. The children receive a party ticket on their birthday which is good for admission for themselves and their parents."—James J. Dempsey, Manager.

Denver's Suggestion

Harry E. Huffman, president and treasurer of Aladdin Theatre Corporation of Denver, writes us of his experience. He says: "The Aladdin Theatre Corporation of Denver operates five theatres, the Tabor and America downtown in the heart of the city, the Aladdin in a very fine residential section, the Bide-A-Wee in a poorer section, and the Blue Bird in an outlying residential section, but a very good district.

"At the Blue Bird on Saturday afternoons we give a children's matinee showing pictures suitable for the kiddies. Few, if any, adults attend this performance. We have found this to be a very satisfactory arrangement and a large attendance is usual.

"Friday nights at this same theatre is 'Family Night,' when pictures suitable for both adults and children are shown."

Oregon Contributes

The children of Klamath Falls in Oregon were the guests of the News and Herald at a great matinee program at the Pelican theatre in that city. The admission to the theatre was one color page from a series being run by the News and Herald. The children bringing the required funny sheet were admitted to the show free of charge and were in addition regaled with a perfectly good chocolate bar.

Conventions Feature Department

Perhaps the most definitely encouraging reaction to "School and Screen" has come from club conventions within the past two weeks, where the pamphlets on the service from this department were presented to the attending delegates as a practicable and important help to Better Films groups. Mrs. Clara G. Wallace of the New York State Federation of Women's Clubs, speaking before a large meeting at Canton, New York, emphasized particularly the "Junior Show" and appointed a committee to cooperate with the "School and Screen."

Mrs. Edmund M. Barsham, chairman of the Motion Picture Committee of the Delaware State Federation of Women's Clubs, and before the county institutes of the state, also distributed the literature from "School and Screen" to statewide delegates who will cooperate with its aims in their various communities.

Mrs. Oscar A. Blaisdell of the Massachusetts State Federation of Women's Clubs, through a strongly organized committee, has distributed the literature to organizations, schools, theatres and libraries in her community.

Mrs. James Purcell, at a convention held last week at Jamestown, N. Y., presented the project to a round-table committee who agreed with enthusiasm to take up the matter with the theatremen in their localities.

The Mothers' Union, Canadian Dominion Council, Winnipeg, writes: "Many thanks for copies of the pamphlet 'School and Screen' which you have sent us. We have passed them on to the minister of education here and others holding important positions in connection with our city schools."

MANAGERS' ROUND TABLE CLUB

CHARLES E. "CHICK" LEWIS
Chairman and Editor

An International Association of Showmen Meeting in
MOTION PICTURE HERALD
Every Week—for Mutual Benefit and Progress

CONDUCTED BY AN EXHIBITOR FOR EXHIBITORS

Our Bedtime Story!

AND now, brother showmen, draw up your chairs and lend "Uncle Chick" your ear while he tells you a little bedtime story; not "just" another story, nay, nay; this is going to be a real fable. In fact, I think so well of it that I'm going to title it; "The Fable of The Porter Who Became a Boss And a Boss Who Became A Porter." Do you like the title?

Not so very long ago there was a "big-shot," ("shot," I said) boss who just loved to ride 'most everybody on the circuit. From what we can gather, he even went out of his way to make life more or less lousy for every man he came across. Now, in this little circuit, there was a young and ambitious chap who, because no other job was open, became porter of one of the theatres. But when originally applying for a job to the b.s., the young fellow remarked that, among his other qualifications, he had had a college education.

Now, the b.s. took great delight in riding the porter about how far his college education was taking him, but the porter took it all with a smile and went right on portering. Which was as it should have been.

It is almost hard to believe how they thoroughly disliked this b.s., but nevertheless it's true. Not a man in the outfit, from house managers down to the lowest paid usher, that did not hate the mugg's very guts (pardon our French). Never a kind word or a bit of encouragement did he have for the boys when they were under pressure. He even displayed great joy whenever the opportunity presented itself to make a monkey out of one of the managers at the weekly meeting. All of which was as it should NOT have been.

It's easy enough to describe the good deeds, but when one starts to tell about the bum ones . . . that's some job . . . mere words just won't convey how particularly rotten this b.s. was . . . but if you've ever run across a guy like this one then you'll understand what we mean. . . . But let's get on with the story:

As frequently happens, the circuit went through a complete reorganization. Manpower switched, fired, rehired, reduced, advanced and what have you. And during this process of the circuit's earthquake, the b.s. suddenly found himself without a job and the porter was moved up the line rapidly and within a space of about two years was looking after a complete district.

The now "ex" b.s. was finding the going rather tough. Getting a job under normal conditions was not the easiest thing in the world, and for him it was next to impossible. Everyone knew his rotten rep. They all shied away from him. So he drifted from one job to another until he found himself out entirely and his family rapidly approaching the point where they might even cut down on their food supply. Which is a pretty tough "sit-she-hay-shun" in any man's existence.

So it finally came to pass, with everybody else turning a cold shoulder to his advances, he swallowed his once inflated pride and took himself to see the once-porter who was now a district manager. And did that d.m. ride the ex-b.s.? Did he tell him what a punk he was? Did he tell him that he was glad to see him down and out? Like hell he did. On the contrary, he showed that he harbored no ill-feeling and greeted the ex-b.s. in a cordial and friendly manner. But he did not have a spot open. Every house was well-handled and everything was running smoothly. So once again the ex-b.s. swallowed hard and said he would take anything, even a porter's job.

Sensing how desperate the man was, the d.m. created a spot for him in one of the small houses as a sort of general porter and assistant. He really made the job to order, but he was repaying rotten treatment with a kindly act.

The story ought to end right there, but we are compelled to further inform you that the ex-b.s. has struggled a bit up the ladder again, and is, at last reports, managing a house again. A sadder but much wiser man, brother showmen, yet faring much better than he really deserved.

The moral of this fable, gentle readers, is: practice the Golden Rule; to do unto others as you would have others do unto you. You may never know when the guy you are riding will become your boss. So lay off the riding and try getting better acquainted with your subordinates by treating them decently and giving them a break whenever you can. Bear with them when they make a mistake and give them a little encouragement when they put over a good piece of work.

Now, you've played hookey from the floor of the theatre long enough while reading this fable, so brush back your hair, put on your best smile and go out to meet and greet your customers. Nighty-night.

"CHICK"

LOBBY LAFFS!

By DICK KIRSCHBAUM

Reprinted At Dick's Request

COME ON FELLOWS,—DIG IN!

Swanson Letter On Theatre Opening A Diplomatic Stroke

The problem of issuing invitations to representative people of a community on opening night of a theatre or some similar event, and at the same time assuaging feelings of the uninvited and publicizing the event, was neatly met with a letter sent out by Oscar J. Swanson, manager of the Colonial Theatre, Southington, Conn. The following will be self-explanatory:

"Dear Neighbor: We want to acquaint the theatre-going public of your town with the many advantages of our new playhouse, The New Colonial Theatre in Southington.

"It was impossible to invite all the good people of your town so we conducted a drawing from among the prominent residents and you are among the lucky few who drew the prize of the enclosed invitation tickets which may be presented at the box office Monday to Friday inclusive.

"We hope you will accept our invitation and tell your friends who were not among the lucky ones during the first drawing all about us and how you enjoy our shows and the comfortable environment of the New Colonial Theatre.

"P. S.—Fill out and mail the coupon in the enclosed program if you are desirous of receiving our weekly program."

At considerable outlay of money the Colonial was recently rebuilt and reopened and the above letter, sent out on opening and from time to time thereafter, has proved an excellent means of bringing public attention to the new house, at the same time building up a good mailing list. Swanson is working hard to put the Colonial in the niche it should rate in Southington and the Club will be interested in all future developments.

Whittaker Active In Charlotte With Many Selling Gags

Ballyhoos, an effective novelty herald and the sending of personal letters, all contributed to the successful exploitation of three pictures recently played by E. E. Whittaker, manager of the Carolina Theatre, Charlotte, N. C.

For "Silence" he had a man attired in a tuxedo parade the streets and pass out cards. On the man's upper lip was a paster with "Silence" printed on it. The cards passed out carried the word "Silence" in large type and other copy stated that guest tickets would be awarded those who wrote the title the greatest number of times on back of the card. Over 150 cards were submitted.

The local agency of a popular-priced motor car was also tied-up for a give-away of a new car. The model was placed in the lobby four weeks in advance and on night of award twelve policemen had to be drafted to take care of traffic in front of the theatre. Over 250,000 coupons were turned in.

A little novelty in the shape of an oversize postcard was effectively used in connection with "Young As You Feel" and if you recall seeing the one we published a few weeks ago in reference to a gag otten out by Tom Cleary, of the Princess Theatre in Montreal, Canada, it would serve as a better illustration than a mere description. It was a silhouette of a newsboy ballooning "extra," with slit under arm for insertion of a little newspaper. Whittaker employed a similar card, except that a miniature copy of "Carolina Theatre News" was inserted. He also landed a spot in the toy department and an outside banner in one of the large local stores as additional publicity for this picture.

Personal letters, not mimeographed but written individually, were mailed to all lawyers as a plug for "American Tragedy" and the trial feature of the picture was duly stressed. That these were well received was testified to by comment made by many lawyer-patrons who attended a showing of this picture.

And now we've told you all we can about Whittaker's doings for the time being and will sign off until some further word comes from his neck of the country. That he's been busy we think all other Club members will agree.

Many Good Stunts Featured Levey's Picture Campaign

Contests, ballyhoos, a full-page co-op, valuable window space and a 16-foot model of a blimp moored to the front of the building were highlights of a recent campaign made on "Dirigible" by William A. "Bill" Levey, manager of the Beacon Theatre, Port Washington, L. I., N. Y.

In cooperation with the local newspaper, the theatre gave guest tickets to the first 20 correct answers to eight questions pertaining to outstanding aviation exploits and a most attractive looking co-op page, made up of ads from local merchants, was promoted at no cost to theatre. A photograph of a big Navy dirigible adorned the top portion of the page and the entire middle portion was devoted to advertising the feature picture and other attractions at the theatre.

The same model dirigible which the photo shows moored to theatre front was also used as a street bally on a truck promoted from a local merchant. The vehicle was driven through all principal streets of the town and a considerable portion of the surrounding territory.

An almost costless campaign seems to have been engineered by this enterprising manager over in Port Washington, outside of the small expense attached to construction of the blimp and give-away of a few tickets. Nice work, Bill, and don't forget to let the Club know about other campaigns you have made.

Notice to Members:

Please be sure to notify the Chairman of any change of address.

—THANK YOU.

Brunson Obtains A Lot Of Publicity Through A Column

An advertising column conducted in the morning newspaper for the past two months has proven highly successful as a means of publicizing theatre and pictures for Newton "Carolina" Brunson, manager of the Yuma Theatre, Yuma, Ariz.

The column runs full depth of the page and is headed "Dry Heat, by Carolina," and is a running account of newsy chatter combined with description of articles which may be purchased at several different stores. We note that the first paragraph is devoted to what can be seen at the Yuma Theatre and that the theatre is again referred to in a succeeding paragraph. The idea is somewhat similar to the "Shopping With Susie" column, which many newspapers have used as a means of obtaining advertising for presentation in reader interest style. Of course, at the bottom of the last paragraph a small "advt." appears.

Although the stunt described above will take up a portion of a manager's time, which, any one will agree, is entirely too limited, it is an excellent means of reaching the public with a message dressed in a different way. The merchants pay the entire cost of space and any manager who does any calling at all on storekeepers can make arrangements to run a similar column. It's working nicely for "Carolina" and we're obliged to him for sending along the suggestion. We will be looking forward to receipt of those photos of the Yuma Indian Band just as soon as he can find the time to pass them on.

Russ Rose Cashed In On Newspaper's Story On Gangster

Quick to take advantage of newspaper publicity following the murder of a notorious gangster in an Atlantic City hotel a short time ago, Russell Rose, manager of the Harrowgate Theatre, Philadelphia, Pa., got out a 40 x 60, two 3-sheets and 5,000 heralds carrying this copy:

"(Name of gangster) Rest in Peace. . . . You Don't Have to Worry Any More—I'll Run Your Whiskey, Sell Your Beer—and Shoot Down Those Dirty Rats—Leave It To Me! I'm Spencer Tracy, the Toughest Gangster That Ever Lived, and If Philadelphia Doesn't Believe It—See Me In 'Quick Millions.' (Name of theatre and playdates followed.)"

Another little gag he recently used when playing "Black Camel" consisted of placing a "Chinese Mystic Man" in a fortune-telling booth in the theatre lobby. It was advertised that the "Mystic" would tell people's fortunes and as they approached the booth a boy in appropriate costume would hand them a card, nine out of ten times securing date of birth.

That was quick thinking Russ, on the gangster murder, and your other little stunt was certainly an excellent method to obtain both publicity for picture and to add to your birthday files. What else have you done for the Harrowgate since these were put over?

Catlow Has Worked Out a Novel Idea For House Program

Searching around for something new in programs, C. J. Catlow, advertising manager of the Catlow Theatre, Barrington, Ill., hit upon an idea which has been worked out in a novel and interesting way. We'd like to present it through the art of the engraver, but it's absolutely out of the question to make a reproduction which would be clearly understood by other members. We'll attempt a description, tricky as it appears to be.

The trick part is all in the folding. For example, take two sheets of ordinary writing paper and lay one on top of the other. Now move up the top one lengthwise about three-quarters of an inch, clip and fold both so that there will be three over-lapping margins. In the finished article, issued semi-monthly in red, blue or some other color, mats and copy are arranged so that day and date of pictures appear on the margins, acting as a sort of index to the program. The front cover is theatre and picture copy and enough small ads are scattered through the following seven pages to take care of all printing costs. The paper stock is non-coated and fairly heavy, each sheet measuring about 7 x 11 inches.

That's about the best we can do in the way of explanation and if you want any more information we feel sure that Catlow will send along a sample if you will drop him a line. It's a neat little gag and we believe him when he tells us that he personally supervises every detail of the printing. He certainly turned out an attractive job, entirely different in appearance from other programs. Although he's a busy man, also acting as organist, we will hope to present other evidence of his activities.

"The Showman's Calendar"

NOVEMBER

7th	Admission Day — Montana — Admitted to Union in 1889
8th	Marie Prevost's Birthday
9th-15th	American Education Week
9th	Marie Dressler's Birthday
10th	Martin Luther (Born 1483)
11th	Armistice Day
11th	King's Birthday (Italy)
11th	Admission Day — Washington — Admitted to Union in 1889
11th-18th	50th Anniversary—Red Cross Roll Call Week
11th	Raquel Torres' Birthday
12th	William Collier, Sr.'s Birthday
12th	Jack Oakie's Birthday
15th	Lewis Stone's Birthday
16th	Admission Day—Oklahoma—Admitted to Union in 1907
15th-21st	Children's Book Week
17th	Suez Canal Opened (1869)
17th	Frank Fay's Birthday
19th	Nancy Carroll's Birthday
20th	Reginald Denny's Birthday
23rd	Capt. John Ericcson Landed in N. Y. 1837
23rd	Repudiation Day—Maryland
18th-25th	National Motion Picture Week

ATTRACTIVE NEW ORLEANS FRONT!

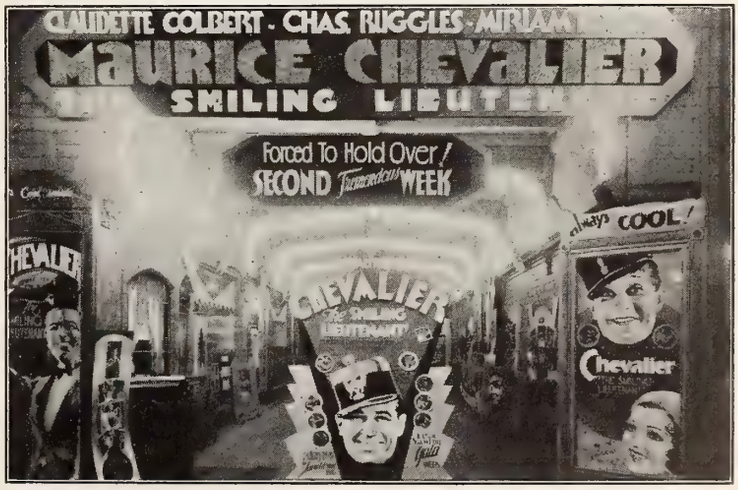


Photo above shows the attractive and striking front of the Tudor Theatre, New Orleans, designed by Manager Bolivar F. Hyde and artist, Lloyd Foley, on the occasion of "The Smiling Lieutenant." Note the interior of the lobby, which is flashy and has real selling value. Examples of Hyde's able showmanship have often appeared in this department; Foley is rendering an excellent account of himself at this theatre.

Keeping Up With The Times

By GUY JONES

LET'S DROWN THE CALAMITY HOWLERS!

Al Cox Had Them Talking About His Harmonica Contest

Al Cox deserves a word of praise in putting over a highly successful harmonica contest at the Publix-Irving Theatre, Wilkes-Barre, Pa. The contest was staged on Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights with the finals on the last night. Applause of the audience adjudged the ultimate winner.

The contest was staged in such a manner that it became a matter of local interest with most everybody talking about it and eager to be on hand to see how their favorites in the contest were making out.

From a box-office standpoint, the contest was a decided success—bettering the average receipts for those three days by over $1,000.

The above is just one of the many things that is being done by Cox to keep his theatre on the profit side of the ledger. The next time we tell you about what Al is doing we will hope to outline some more of his stunts.

Scholar-Merchant Tie-Up Kempenich Made Helped Trade

School opening provided M. Kempenich, manager of the Moorhead Theatre, Moorhead, Minn., with an idea for boosting kiddie patronage at his house, a tie-up being made with a local merchant to act as host to the youngsters at a theatre party.

With school opening at hand, the sale of school supplies should be somewhat brisk. But to make certain that a certain stationery store got their share of that business, they tied in with the theatre on the party.

With every 25 cents worth of merchandise purchased at this stationery store was given a guest ticket which permitted a kiddie to attend the special kiddie's matinee.

The store printed the tickets, paid for a special matinee trailer, put out 3,000 heralds on the attraction and paid a $50 guarantee to assure the theatre of running the show at a profit.

Another instance of valuable publicity gained at very small cost to theatre, considering the amount of goodwill built up among the kiddies and their parents. A little late to use just now but this stunt can be filed away for future reference, or adapted to other use. Let the Club hear from you regularly, Kempenich.

Kennedy Tied With Baker To Pack 1000 Tickets In Loaves

It was only a short time ago that we told you how R. M. Kennedy, manager of the Paramount Theatre in Montgomery, Ala., made direct appeal to women patrons with a contest for best transcriptions of a shorthand message as a plug for "Secrets of a Secretary." This brought excellent results, and now we have at hand another little gag he worked by tying up with the largest baker in his city.

Free tickets to see "Monkey Business" were offered through distribution of 1,000 cards packed in as many loaves of bread. If certain copy on the card corresponded with that on a bulletin board in the theatre lobby, the holder of one of the 200 cards designed for this purpose might apply for a guest ticket. Enough to state that as soon as this was made public a large number of people visited the lobby.

Kennedy is located in a live show town, at least we know it used to be and don't believe it's changed as yet, and we're going to look forward with interest to all his activities. Is the old Theatrical Club still in existence in your town, R. M.? Give our best regards to Hoxey Farley, also, if he's still around Montgomery. And let's hear from you some more. As far as your inquiry as to what kind of material to send the Club is concerned, let us state that you're on the right track when you contribute any idea which will help your fellow showmen sell their shows. You're going along great. Keep it up.

Street Stunt Used To Good Effect By Jay-Dee Braunagel

Although only at the Orpheum Theatre in Ogden, Utah, for a short time, Manager J. D. Braunagel has the old ball rolling along at a fast pace. You will recall Jaydee as assistant manager of the Capitol Theatre in Salt Lake City, where one of his stunts consisted of writing a breezy movie column for one of the local newspapers under the nom de plume of Jay D. Bee, initials of his name.

When playing "Pardon Us" he took a life-size cut-out heads of Laurel and Hardy, dressed up two young fellows with slickers which covered their heads, and then put the cut-outs on top. Copy pertaining to picture was placed on their backs. From a straight-on view of the two they appeared to be the two comedians coming down the street, and when the pair passed the people naturally turned around to look and read the placard attached to their backs.

He also has a Micky Mouse Club going, with merchants tying-in for the give-away of such articles as life-size dolls, bicycles and other prizes. Merchants give votes for certain prizes and the theatre gives 100 votes to each kiddie attending the Mickey Mouse meeting. The boy with the largest number of votes wins the bike and the girl the doll.

We're mighty glad to hear that Jaydee is getting along so nicely and there can be no question but that his promotion was well deserved. Please convey our best regards to R. G. Glasmann and be sure to let headquarters hear from you regularly.

THE TALE OF A SHIRT!

The photo above illustrates a shirt gag pulled by Harold Kay, manager of the Utopia Theatre in Painsville, Ohio. He made a window tie-up with the local dealer of Buddy Rogers shirts, a sign in the front instructing persons that they would be given a guest ticket by identifying their names on one of the shirts. There may be this kind of shirt dealer in your town. Look him up when you play a Rogers picture.

Oakley Waged Good Campaign When He Played "Bad Girl"

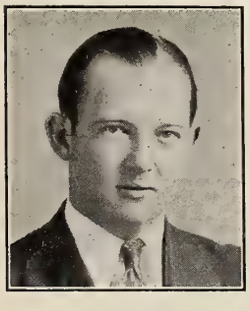
Large banners, gigantic cut-out letters spelling the picture title and an attractively dressed lobby were some of the features of a campaign made on "Bad Girl" by Charles H. Oakley, manager of the Warner-Capitol Theatre, Danbury, Conn.

You can get an idea of the size of the letters which were suspended over the street in front of the theatre from the photo on this page, although it really does not do justice to the display. These letters were five feet high and could be seen for three blocks in any direction.

Also note a view of the lobby, with the felt pennants hanging from a table display of Bad Girl books and the large, painted cutout of Sally Eilers. The house artist gave the frame work of the latter a marble effect. Special cutouts of Bad Girl were also on display, done in silver and gold metallics with a background of red and blue.

A 36-foot sign with title, stars and dates was hung underneath the marquee, and still another 36 x 5-foot sign was run across the top of the theatre.

Additional effort consisted of the distribution of 5,000 heralds in town and by mailing list over a radius of 25 miles; use of 10 24-sheets; hundreds of window cards and one-sheets, and an extensive newspaper campaign which included the running of the serial in advance and during run of picture. Book stores were also tied up for window displays.



Oakley came in for a lot of praise for the way he handled his campaign on this picture, and so we're passing along his method of action to his fellow Club members. It produced fine results and that's what counts.

Unless we are very much mistaken readers can look forward to accounts of other stunts he is putting over in Danbury in the show-selling line, so until then we'll sign off on this wave length.

ROUND TABLE BIOGRAPHIES

Starting in at the age of 14 years as usher and general utility boy around a theatre, Walter E. Tooley kept climbing the ladder until he was made manager of a theatre. He's passed out heralds, acted as ticket-taker and done a hundred odd jobs that come up in theatre routine, and now we find him at the helm of the T & D State Theatre in Red Bluff, Calif.

Walter Tooley

Tooley was born in Glenwood, Iowa, on St. Patrick's Day which, taking into consideration his name, appears to be something of a break at that. He then trekked westward into California where he received part of his education in a grammar school in Redding. Later on we find him in Hastings, Nebraska, where he finished High School and completed a course in a business college.

He acted as assistant manager of an independent theatre in Redding, Calif., in 1926 and in 1928 was transferred to Red Bluff as resident manager of his present house. He got into show-business because it held a distinct fascination for him and quite emphatically denies any intention of ever leaving the game. We hardly have to state that he's an enthusiastic member of this Club for readers have had many occasions to inspect his brand of showmanship.

DON'T NEGLECT FOOTBALL SLANTS!

The football season is in full swing. Are you cashing in on a situation made to order for you? If not, take advantage of the fact that the greater portion of the country is football-minded at this time of the year. Following are a few hints. Elaborate on them or adapt them to local conditions.

Your local "eleven" has won a game on the home grounds, or has victoriously returned from its opponent's town. Invite the team to your theatre as a testimonial of your interest in its prowess. Assign a special section in the orchestra, or a box to the players for this occasion. It might be arranged with the boys to have them give the team "yell," or this could be otherwise arranged on backstage, while a spot is played on the group. If a prominent team, whatever musical facilities you have at your command should render the school or college march; or, if a lesser one, put a lively college march on the non-synch. A slide, or personal announcement from stage, would also lend to the occasion. And don't forget to contact your newspaper office for an advance story.

Perhaps you or your assistant went out to the local gridiron to take some action shots of a local game. If you didn't, you muffed a wonderful opportunity to cash in on local interest in one of the greatest and most popular sports in this country. If you don't happen to have a camera, maybe you are not aware that one of these can be rented for as little as $5, and that your negative costs should not exceed 8 cents per foot; an utterly negligible expense, considering the value of an attraction carrying such strong local appeal.

Then there is the matter of furnishing score cards. Before you do anything along this line, sound out the local athletic board and find out if it plans to sell cards as a means of helping meet expenses during the season. If not, it will be a small matter to donate them, cards of course carrying theatre credits; or, entire cost of cards may be covered by giving space to local sports store for an ad. Season schedule cards can also be used to excellent advantage in the same manner.

Without doubt you have booked some of the usual crop of football feature pictures, inevitable during the season. Many managers like the idea of dressing ushers in football toggery for an occasion such as this, obtaining the necessary articles of clothing from a local sporting goods store. A small credit, usually a conservatively printed card in foyer, etc., generally takes care of this end. Maybe you are also running a series of shorts, devoted to the coaching end of the game. These can also be nicely tied in with your local sports store for windows, etc.

Another little stunt which has met with favor in many towns is the announcement by slide or from stage of scores made by local and major teams on Saturday evenings or holidays. This is fully appreciated by those who have missed radio or press scores.

There are many other slants which you will think of yourself to fit the football season. We are merely setting down a few suggestions which have come to the Club's attention from time to time. If any of them appeal to you, help yourself.

Well Dressed Front Was One Of Several Stunts O'Hare Used

An attractive theatre front and several other stunts largely contributed to successful showings of "Huckleberry Finn," when played by Wm. C. O'Hare, manager of the Lyceum Theatre, Duluth, Minn.

The entire entrance gave the effect of a fence. The box office, allowing an opening for the selling of tickets, was completely covered with boards with copy on it about picture, etc. The copy incidentally was printed in all sorts of ways as though a kid had done it. The panels on each side of the entrance as well as the glass on the entrance and exit doors were also boarded up—giving the effect of a fence.

A tie-up was made with a club whereby members were admitted for 10 cents provided they were wearing their button. Jackie Coogan also joined the club and in return received lead story on Fairplay Club page Friday in advance. Other publicity through this tie-up included one-column cut, three two-column mats and one three-column cut.

A tie-up was also made with the News-Tribune in putting over co-operative page on school opening. One hundred tickets were given to kids as prizes in a limerick contest on page. Theatre received eight-column heading plug, two 2 x 7 ads on either corner of page and a limerick (without last line) built around picture. This was used in every ad on page.

That front of O'Hare's smacks a bit of "Skippy," but there's plenty of kid appeal in both of these pictures, and what goes for one will go for another if it hasn't been overworked in your community. And just as he did, if you have a kiddie club in your town it will certainly pay to tie it in with this picture. All in all, it would appear that O'Hare put on a well-worked campaign, as is testified to by the excellent results he achieved.

AMERICAN EDUCATION WEEK! NOVEMBER 9TH TO 15TH

In connection with the observance of American Educational Week throughout the country, the National Education Association in Washington, D. C., has sent us the following education schedule for each day of the week:

Monday—In Economic Progress.

Tuesday—In Child Health and Protection.

Wednesday—In Citizenship And Loyalty To Law.

Thursday—In Improvement Of Rural Living.

Friday——Through A Higher Level Of Intellectual Life.

Saturday—Through The Enrichment Of Adult Life.

Sunday—Through High Ideals Of Character And Home Life.

Many local schools and organizations are going to cooperate with the National body in furthering the thoughts behind this Education Week. If you will follow this up you may be able to assist them and tie the theatre into the activities for this special week.

Kislingbury's Novel Ads Were Paid For By Local Auto Man

Take a look at the reproduction of an ad which found its way into the columns of a New Jersey newspaper through the efforts of F. F. Kislingbury, manager of the Paramount Theatre in Plainfield, N. J., and then decide whether the average reader would distinguish it from a regular theatre advertising. We don't think he or she could. For your further information, this was one of three ads he secured free of charge from the local Ford dealer for the privilege of granting room in the theatre lobby for exhibition of one of the current models of his line.

Of course, due credit must be given Kislingbury for his preparation of the ad. Regular mats of this particular picture were used, care was taken in selection of copy and you will agree that copy pertaining to theatre attraction dominates the ad. The total amount of free space obtained through this deal amounted to 112 inches, the largest ad measuring five columns by twelve inches.

Naturally, the picture referred to above will have been played by many theatres but the idea can be adapted to any number of current attractions. For instance, take a few like the following: "Women Go On Forever" Driving Fords; "Everything's Rosie" when you drive a Ford; "Smart Women drive a Ford; "Girls About Town" drive Fords; "Twenty-four Hours" out of the day your Ford will give you service; and, you can keep on going down the list and find dozens of other titles which can be adapted to a tie-up with a Ford dealer or some other auto man who appreciates the value of cooperative advertising. And when you prepare the ad, do as Kislingbury did. Give it the attention it deserves and see that your house gets a good break in copy.

Suggs Is Batting Usual Average In Tennessee Theatre

A couple of stunts on "Huck Finn" and a special preview on "Sporting Blood" helped M. S. Suggs, manager of the Paramount Theatre, Bristol, Tenn., build up nice business on these two pictures.

On the former a special trailer was used on the screen in advance. Just prior to the showing of the trailer, several members of the house staff stationed in different parts of the house gave the "Huck and Finn" yell. This trailer then faded in, "You'll please pardon our staff for the unusual disturbance just now—Make your dates now to see (title, playdates)." Just as the trailer was flashed on the screen the organist played selections from "Skippy."

A freckle-faced boy, typical of "Huck" was dressed in old ragged overalls and an old torn hat. He paraded the downtown streets carrying a fishing pole with copy on a panel hanging from the pole. The boy worked this stunt throughout run of picture.

Several old wooden fences about town were painted with white paint in kid writing a week in advance reading, "Me and Tom'll be at the Paramount Theatre three days starting Thursday," etc. Also initials were scribbled all over the fences. Several of the downtown drug stores permitted the theatre artist to paint on their front mirrors similar copy.

The preview on "Sporting Blood" was held on Monday night before the picture's Thursday opening. The audience was made up of newspaper men and representatives from nearby Kentucky towns as well as Bristol.

A comment card was passed out to those attending the preview—and these comments were later used in the lobby for two days during the showing of "Daddy Long Legs" and throughout the showing of "Sporting Blood." These comments were also used in the daily theatre newspaper ads. Inasmuch as some of these comments were from very prominent local people, they carried that much more weight and helped materially to sell the picture.

Two thousand memo slips were printed and given to the purchaser of every ticket for four days in advance. These slips carried copy about "Sporting Blood" and caught the huge crowds attending the "Daddy Long Legs" picture.

Which all goes to show that Suggs is batting his usual average at the Paramount. Boys dressed to represent "Huck" appear to be getting away with the desired publicity for this picture and his stunt on the other picture turned out to be a double barreled affair which worked like a charm. More of these for the Club, M. S., and more power to you for getting such excellent results.

T. Pawley Found Out How Long Auto Can Run On 5 Gal. Of Gas

Two stunts recently used by Thomas Pawly, manager of the Keystone Theatre in Towanda, N. Y., can be adapted to the exploitation of any number of pictures.

One of his stunts was a tie-up made with a local auto dealer on a guessing contest as to how many hours a certain car would run on five gallons of gasoline. The car was jacked up in front of the theatre, started by the Mayor, then sealed and locked and remained so until the gas was consumed. The car agency donated five dollars in gold and the theatre put up ten guest tickets.

Another stunt was a tie-up made with a tea-room for the give-away of a theatre ticket with each lunch or dinner purchased for two days. The tea-room paid for all tickets.

Both the above stunts were used on different occasions and each influenced box-office receipts on currently played pictures. As Pawley will agree, all it takes is a little enterprise necessary to make contacts with the proper parties.

FEATURE TIME NOTED IN ADS!

The practice of devoting a small amount of space in display ads to state what time of day or evening the feature picture starts is increasingly popular, according to a large number of ads recently brought to our attention.

Without a doubt this is service pure and simple, for there are any number of people who are at a loss for this information and who do not like to arrive at a theatre in the middle of a feature picture. Elsewhere we have called attention to selling your newspaper the idea that a feature time-table is also a service from its end. Tie-up with it on your end. Both notices are none too many.

Break Records With a Stage Wedding!

Details Can Be Worked Out In Very Short Time!

Stage weddings are among the few promotional ideas that rate well with most all theatres. Its chief appeal, from the box office point of view, is in the number of angles which can be tied in with it and the tremendous amount of interest it creates among the theatre-goers of the town. The Club pages have carried dozens of successful Stage Wedding campaigns from start to finish and if you are maintaining the Tickler File which we recommend so often then it will be a simple matter to look through those other campaigns as well as this brief description. Those who stage similar affairs this season are urged to forward us full details as well as photos and tear sheets. These will be incorporated into a special bulletin for future use.

The following plan of campaign for a Stage Wedding is not to be construed as infallible, or one to work out point for point as here set down; rather, it is designed along the lines of suggested action. Then, if the idea appeals to the reader, it will be up to him to build his structure to fit local conditions and to use whatever material he has at hand.

From time to time in past issues of the Round Table Club accounts of various stage weddings have been written up. We suggest that you go over your file on this matter, for reason that these were combed from many different sections of the country and contained many different and interesting angles pertaining to the staging of this kind of attraction. These, in conjunction with this outline, should enable you to proceed along the proper course. As previously stated, it is all based upon local needs, but if what we set down proves the means of prompting you to put over one of these profitable affairs, our mission is fulfilled.

First: The Bride and Groom!

Of course, the first and one of the most important phases of your campaign is to produce the bride and groom. This has been done in a number of ways, such as through newspaper advertising, newspaper stories and contacting welfare and other organizations to locate an engaged couple who would not be averse to receiving outside aid to start them off in life.

We will assume that the bride and groom have now been sold on the idea, so the next steps are to have the newspaper sponsor the affair and to line up the local merchants for their part. The newspaper will generally fall in line for such an affair but even if it doesn't, go right ahead and contact the merchants and arrange for the promotion of the articles to be donated to the couple. Dealers especially necessary include, haberdashers, milliners, shoestores, ladies' apparel, clothing stores, furniture stores, a jeweler, a florist, department store, an auto dealer and a printer.

If you happen to be located in a town where an agent of a transportation company has an office, it is often possible to line his concern up for a free honeymoon trip in lieu of the advertising received. It need not be an elaborate trip, merely in keeping with the status of the couple. And while on the subject of the couple, let us point out that choice of nationality and social standing is an important point in the campaign. You have first-hand knowledge of what class of people makes up patronage in your house, and it is therefore necessary to use good judgment and not present a pair who would clash with your clientele.

Merchants Donate Presents!

Taking for granted that you have now secured support from your newspaper and a sufficient number of merchants, attempt to sell the dealers on the idea of running a cooperative full page or double truck of ads. This will get you in strong with the newspaper boys and in these days of cooperative advertising it should not be a hard job to convince merchants that a co-op ad tie-up is of immense value as an advertising medium. If they don't know about a co-op, tell them the pointers. Show them how they can directly tie articles of merchandise with those displayed in the lobby of the theatre and in their windows. If in the store windows, cards should state the tie-up; if in the lobby, credits should identify every donated article.

Still other sources of advance publicity are the local Chamber of Commerce, the Mayor and other important officials. Get the Mayor to send a personal letter to you, wishing a successful venture; have the Chamber of Commerce do the same thing. Call on your banker friend and see if you can't promote a modest savings account to help the pair get their start. This can be tied up with an ad as well as any other article of merchandise, and banks are good advertisers.

Great care should be taken with your publicity campaign in the newspapers. First, the announcement of the wedding; then, a couple of human interest stories, followed by a story of the bride's tour through the shopping district. The tour will, of course, be taken in a car donated by a local auto dealer and its route will be to all stores represented in the donation of the trousseau. This should be followed by an account of the groom's shopping tour.

Photographer and Florist!

A photographer should be tied-in for the taking of photos of both bride and groom. In addition to having these published in the newspaper, displays should be made in all store windows of participating merchants. Run your cooperative ads the day before the wedding; don't forget your follow-up story the day after the wedding; and, if possible, grab off another story when the couple return from their honeymoon.

Now, let us take up the subject of the theatre, which like all other phases of the campaign is a most important one. Most showmen are not in favor of having reserved seats for an occasion of this sort, so it is advisable to announce that no one will be permitted to enter the theatre while the ceremony is in progress. By all means see that a dignified atmosphere pervades the entire house. Marriage has its humorous angles as well as a most serious side, and it is next to impossible to keep an accurate check on every smart aleck, ever ready to pull a wise crack which might turn the whole show into a burlesque.

See that floral decorations are carried out in good taste, in front, lobby and auditorium. Have your organ soloist feature a special theme song, or if you haven't an organist and console, use an organ record on the non-synch. Secure the services of a local tenor or a quartette for rendition of the theme song. Endeavor to tie-up with a local orchestra to work either on the stage or in the pit and see that your stage setting is in keeping with the occasion. Have your front in the same tone.

As regards lighting, use special effects or other novelties which may come to your attention. A little novelty that was used by a showman out on the Coast consisted of dropping flower blossoms from the flies while the ceremony was going on. By this we don't mean heaving basketfuls over the heads of the people taking part, but a slow and graceful scattering of petals. This same thing was accomplished by another Club member by use of a trick lighting effect.

A Sure-Fire Hit With Your Patrons And The Box Office

Staging the Wedding!

And now we arrive at that all-important part when even whispers among your audience have subsided and the wedding is almost ready to get under way. At this point, shoot on a trailer expressing gratitude to all who cooperated with you in the campaign. Immediately following the conclusion of this trailer, have a flash read, "And Now Here Comes The Bride!" At this, cut off and have your organist, or what have you, play the wedding march, with stage curtains drawn and the bridal party assembled on the mezzanine floor or back of the orchestra. Have the party march down the center aisle and proceed to the stage, where everything is properly set for the ceremony.

The officiating clergyman should be waiting to begin the ceremony, the band should be playing, lights all set, and positively everything in readiness. As the bridal party steps up on the stage, have the orchestra break in with the theme song and whoever your singers are, let them render the chorus. At conclusion of the song, start the ceremony and as it comes to an end, finish off with singing and the last two lines of the theme song as the curtain slowly draws upon the closing scene. At this point, instruct your organist to get all he can out of the console, or step up volume on the non-synch; shoot up all the lights you have in the house for a few moments, with the entire house staff standing at attention; all doors open (weather permitting), and every light on the outside turned on. Hit the screen with your coming attractions, followed by trailer—and this part of the show is over—everything ready to go on with a program which you have appropriately rounded out for the occasion.

There's not much use in going into detail as to whether these stage weddings interest the public. Ever see a group of women discussing an approaching marriage? Don't tell us they're not all hopped up about it! And while the males look on rather sheepishly, they, too, appear to get some kind of a kick from witnessing a marriage ceremony, if only for the fact that another guy is about to don the ball and chain.

Revamp For Your Situation!

So there's the dope as near as we can gather it to pass along. Take what you wish and fix it up to suit yourself, for you are the sole judge of what is best in your home town. In any number of instances, the campaign as outlined above, has been used in its entirety; in other towns, just parts of it have been utilized. Don't forget that more than one couple may take part in a ceremony, for we've heard of two, and even three weddings being pulled off at the close of one of these campaigns. The more the merrier. It's up to you, Round Tabler. You know how to sell shows in your community and you know how to take suggestions. If you decide to stage one of these affairs, go about it with care, always bearing in mind that there is much to be gained by efficient and constructive handling of the various steps in a tie-up of this nature.

THEATRE POSTER ART!

Drawn by Benton L. James

Above is the fourth of a series of posters reproduced from an original supplied Club headquarters by Benton L. James, of the Missouri Theatre in St. Joseph, Mo. This time the heads of Laurel and Hardy are used and we believe he has particularly brought out the natural facial expressions of these two popular comedians.

As stated before, a balioptican device can be used to make a copy of this poster for adaptation to your own use and you will find that the tracing will show up unusually well, considering size of the reproduction.

A number of Club members have reacted most favorably to the publishing of these poster creations of James' and we will continue to present other samples of his work from time to time. But don't put the entire burden on Benton's shoulders. Let's hear from some other Round Tablers on the subject of posters. Send along an example of YOUR work.

R. Miller Promoted Full Page Ads With "Mystery" Ballyhoo

A full-page of ads of several merchants was promoted on the strength of a "Mystery Man" and a lot of people had a whole lot of fun trying to identify him at stated hours in the different stores, when this stunt was pulled in connection with "Public Defender" by Rowan Miller, manager of the World Theatre in Kearney, Neb.

This was the old "Raffles" stunt revived, if you recall that one, and to the first five persons tapping Mr. "Mystery" on the shoulder at the various stores, a guest ticket was handed out. The ads called attention to the time of the day he would appear in the stores.

A neat piece of work promoted at no expense save time of the man hired to impersonate "Mr. Mystery." It's been some little time since the Club has heard from Miller; in fact, we believe he was district advertising man at that time. Now that he's up on the firing line, we hope he will try to find time to shoot some ideas for his fellow members.

Richard Moss Waged Excellent Campaign To Sell "Politics"

Newspaper advertising and several tie-ups with local business concerns played an important part in the campaign made on "Politics" by Richard Moss, former manager of the Orange Theatre, Orange, Calif.

Announcements were made four days in advance at a large outdoor dancing pavilion and this was followed by the presentation of a big pass, measuring 4 x 12 feet, to the Mayor. Arrangements were made with a local laundry for printing shirt card fronts with copy relating to picture and a tie-up was also made with restaurants for window space.

Newspaper ads consisted of teaser copy directing reader to turn to next page; advertising of a "Loudest Laughter Contest," whereby prizes were offered for those laughing loudest during picture; an ad stating that a reward would be given to any patron who could sit through the picture without laughing; another ad featuring a scrambled title contest, and a contest in the paper to get up a slogan for the picture.

Other activities included the distribution of 1,000 ballots; tie-up with radio store for announcement through loudspeaker at store; use of 1,000 napkins, appropriately lettered for restaurant; teaser card made up to look like season pass; co-operative herald with gas station; special window cards, special trailer and 24 sheets in busy sections.

Dick's campaign appears an economical one compared to some we've had occasion to read about on this picture, but he got the business despite a big outlay and that's all the more to his credit. This is the first peep we've had out of him for some little time, but now that he is at the U. A. theatre in Los Angeles we will expect him to come through with a lot of other tips which we can pass along to Round Tablers.

Tom Edwards Torch Gag For Dietrich Film Was Hot One

In spite of the fact that Tom Edwards, owner and operator of the Eldon Electric Theatre in Eldon, Mo., is out on the road a good bit of the time selling film, he manages to get back in town occasionally to assist his wife, Mrs. Connie Edwards, with the management of the theatre. You will recall that we recently told you about the fine beauty show which she promoted all on her own.

That day when Tom came back to town was a cold one for the time of the year and the night broke even colder. But he knew there would be people passing his house and here's the idea which occurred to him to use in connection with the showing of a Marlene Dietrich picture. He dug up a blow-torch and placed it on the sidewalk in front of the theatre with a sign alongside reading, "If You Think This Is Hot, Come In And See Marlene Dietrich." The flame of the torch could be seen for two blocks away and the stunt really brought people into the house.

Winter's coming on boys and as this little gag only cost Edwards 15 cents worth of gasoline, we're passing it along with Tom's compliments. It's an idea, and one which some of you ought to be able to use to good effect.

ROUND TABLE BIOGRAPHIES

A loan of money to a friend operating a theatre brought C. W. Doctor into show-business, for his friend failed and C. W. was forced to take over the house to protect his own interests. However, he tells us that he ran a magic lantern outfit at an early age so we gather that the show-germ was already firmly imbedded in his system when the above opportunity arose and needed but little cultivation to assert itself. This we state in view of his remark that if he had to start all over again, the theatre business would command his exclusive attention.

C. W. Doctor

Doctor was born in Kenosha, Wisconsin, and circumstances did not permit him to devote much time to study in schools. However, his is an instance where self-education worked out pretty well for he engaged in photography and has continued this line in addition to being the owner-manager of the May Theatre in Maysville, Wis.

He is married and the father of five children and is a member of the Wisconsin Motion Picture Exhibitors' Association. It's almost needless to state that he is very much interested in show-business and will undoubtedly follow it for years to come.

Big Brother Club And Other Stunts Aided Jim Landers

Once again we have occasion to acquaint Club members with some goings-on in the show circles of San Antonio, where that enterprising manager, Jim Landers, conducts the Aztec Theatre, and we are indebted to his able publicity director, V. D. Welker, for passing on the information.

An important organization of the Aztec as regards juvenile patronage is the Big Brother Club matinees held every Saturday morning, these special shows drawing from 900 to 1,500 people each week. A tie-up with a local radio station has been made without cost to theatre for a 30-minute program put on by talent recruited from the club. At each show the youngsters are permitted to choose an extra feature to be shown the following Saturday, choice made from a list of pictures that have completed local showings. Promoted prizes are awarded to the three best entertainers and also awards of at least four attendance prizes, two to girls and two to boys. Candy, popsicles, gum or crackerjack is also promoted for distribution to the entire club and given to them as they leave the theatre in order to encourage prompt dismissal and prevent littering the auditorium with paper, etc.

When playing "Huckleberry Finn' a special drive was made not only with the Big Brother Club, but was extended to pupils enrolled in the 60 schools in the city. The school board was contacted and permission obtained for the distribution of 40,000 heralds through the medium of the many school teachers. The heralds advised the children that holders would be admitted to the show for 10 cents if the attached tickets were presented between the hours of 3 and 6 P. M., the same price as allowed the Big Brother Saturday matinees. This was a price concession of 5 cents for the smaller kids and the difference between 10 cents and regular admission price for the older students.

Jim Landers

As a special inducement for a big turnout of the Big Brothers, attendance prizes consisting of a Shetland pony, a bicycle, a complete football outfit, two pet rabbits, a girl's clothing outfit for school, and other school supplies were promoted. Information regarding the prizes were carried on the heralds described above. Four excellent dogs were also secured from the local dog pound at no cost.

As a result of this drive attendance results were astounding. The theatre, with a seating capacity of 2,750, sold 3,540 admissions by 11 o'clock for this matinee of "Huck Finn." At 1 o'clock, half an hour before the first complete show was over, 4,800 had been sold and the local fire department official forced the management to stop selling tickets. There were more than 800 adults included among the 4,800 admissions. One of the photos on this page will give readers a good idea of the size of the turn-out.

Another stunt which has been going over big is the giving of a series of free Contract Bridge lessons on the mezzanine floor. Services of an instructor were promoted in exchange for the advertising he received. The lessons were advertised in brief radio announcements, newspaper stories, a few lines in ads and a lobby set piece and were conducted over a period of six weeks. Each lesson was given on a Thursday, the Aztec's opening day, and repeated the following Tuesday. Classes were held at 2 o'clock, enabling the patrons to see the show either before or after the lesson. After the lessons the students were invited to compete for guest tickets in a rubber of Contract, with the instructor supervising the play. These lessons averaged 200 players every week and the efficiency of the tie-up was demonstrated in that attendance held up 100 per cent over the period.

We mentioned in a previous article that the Aztec operated a tea room on the mezzanine floor, where samples of cake, sandwiches, coffee and iced tea are served every afternoon free of charge to patrons. This service is still in effect, with the matron and day porter doing the serving, and it tied up excellently with the Contract Bridge parties. The tea room, not counting days when card games were scheduled, served from 100 to 200 people daily, depending on show attendance. The patron is supplied with score pads, cards, tables, etc., and while reservations are not compulsory, is encouraged. Facilities enable the theatre to take care of parties ranging in size from one table to 150 persons. "Bunco" is also played and these parties average about five per week. As a follow-up stunt to the bridge parties, a Bridge Tournament will be held during the showing of "My Sin." The instructor will again offer his services from time to time during the entire season.

We have also mentioned that the Aztec had arranged excellent parking facilities for patrons at a cost of 10 cents per car to theatre, actual count by cashier disclosing that ticket sales average three to every car parked. The parking station proprietors have shown a fine spirit of cooperation, even changing the name of their place to "Aztec Theatre Parking Station" and permitting the posting of three-sheets and distribution of other advertising matter. The parking stunt is a great plug for this theatre because of the fact that the district is congested and four first-run houses are all located within an area of two blocks.

Still another form of amusement promoted for patrons is the Ping Pong table, a game that has rather successfully revived the past year or so. This is seldom idle for any length of time, especially on Saturdays and Sundays, when the youngsters hold tournaments with as many as 15 or 20 competing. The game has also proved popular with people who desire to kill time before starting of the feature picture. The table was constructed in the theatre workshop and that efficient matron has supervision of the games.

The time clock advertising stunt has also been profitably used by the Aztec management, permission being obtained from 25 local merchants to place 14 x 28 frames near the clocks advertising the fact that employees from the various establishments would be admitted until 6:30 at matinee prices. Identification cards were distributed to each store, copy worded so as to give store credit for obtaining the concession. A changeable card arrangement permits often as necessary insertion of copy pertaining to current attractions, and as the clocks are punched four times per day the value of this constant plug can well be seen.

The Club is again indebted to Messrs. Landers and Welker for passing along all these valuable suggestions and will be interested in presenting each and every example of what these two are doing to sell shows at the Aztec. Welker mentions that some of the above stunts might horrify some of the older showmen, but when taking into consideration the fact that San Antone is over-seated; that it is a place where many speak a foreign tongue; that the weather is so uniformly pleasant the year 'round, so as to almost discourage showgoing, it will be seen that the unusual must be employed to get maximum returns. And, anyway, times have changed in showbusiness.

HOW ABOUT THAT TIME-TABLE?

Each week's batch of newspapers brings further evidence that many managers are selling their local sheet the idea of running a time-table on feature attractions in the major theatres. Have you sold your editor the idea? If not, take it up with him the next time you pay a visit to his office. It's NEWS, boys, and newspapers print NEWS.

Ninety-nine out of a hundred people don't know when your feature picture goes on and we believe you will be able to convince your editor that he will be rendering valuable service to his readers by devoting a small amount of space to a schedule of this kind. And it will help cut down theatre telephone calls, too.

——ALWAYS WEAR YOUR CLUB PIN!——

THEY NEED YOUR HELP!

Each year the Managers' Round Table Club has urged its members and readers to sponsor a food matinee or special show for the benefit of the unfortunates of the community who are finding the "going" rather tough. According to reports the "going" is going to be still tougher this year.

The very spirit of Thanksgiving makes it a most appropriate time to stage an event of this sort and the public reaction is apt to be more enthusiastic than at any other time. (Christmas excepted.)

In working out the details of a special show like this it must be kept in mind that the proper officials and organization must be tied together closely with the theatre. Particularly must the newspaper get behind the idea so as to insure proper publicity and advertising, not only the object of the performance, but, the tremendous help it will give those less fortunate folks who need some help and encouragement at this time.

Many showmen have the mistaken impression that performances of this kind must be confined to the children who are expected to bring the article of merchandise or food necessary for admission. Get that idea out of your head right away. For real successful results, I suggest that you make your special show a midnight performance. Line up a fine show and if possible get some stage entertainers, even if they are popular local folk who are fairly well known to the community and will lend to the success of the show.

Ed Cline Obtained Large Window From A Department Store

One of the city's largest department stores contributed a splendid window display in connection with a showing of "Confessions of a Co-Ed" made by E. J. Cline, manager of the State Theatre, Scranton, Pa. The display included a six-sheet cut-out of one of the co-eds holding a diary with a flashing heart on it. This cut-out was placed on a cedar chest in the center of the window. On either side were chairs, wardrobe trunk, dresses, coats, desk and numerous art cards carrying copy about the picture, theatre and playdates.

On the walls appeared pennants of various women colleges such as Goucher, Smith, Wellesley, Vassar and Marywood. Marywood incidentally is one of the large girl colleges situated in Scranton—and this window display naturally appealed to these students.

Much favorable comment was created by this display and as stated above the tie-up was a natural in this city on account of the local school. However, every town has its schools and where this picture hasn't played it would appear that Cline's suggestion can be used to good advantage. Since Eddie pulled this one he has moved up to the Academy Theatre in Newburgh, N. Y., where the Club wishes him continued success and hopes to be kept posted as to what's going on at his new location.

Grossman a Wizard Promoting Articles For An Anniversary

Right on the heels of a School Party he promoted on the occasion of the last Saturday matinee before classes were started, Leonard Grossman, manager of the Atlantic Theatre, Chicago, Ill., planned and executed a 16th Anniversary Week" for his playhouse, which was a big success from every angle.

Every evening some gift, promoted from merchants in return for advertising received, was handed each patron who came to the theatre. Some idea of the extent of this angle may be had from the following list of merchandise: One three-hundred pound birthday cake; 12,500 bottles of beer; 4,000 cakes from a baking company; 2,000 half-pound boxes of bacon; 15 fifteen-pound hams; 4,000 packages of high grade groceries; 10 baskets of groceries, each valued at $5; one gas range, valued at $140, and one radio. The entire theatre front, lobby and foyer were elaborately decorated for the occasion.

Grossman appears to be a wizard when it comes to the promotion of gifts for the various special events held at his house and we suppose the answer to this lies in the fact that his house has been established in the neighborhood over a long period. Referring again to the School Party, every boy and girl attending the theatre on that occasion received prizes of pencils, tablets, blankbooks etc., the total cost of some 2,000 articles obtained at negligible cos. to the theatre. Needless to state, the house was packed.

Another stunt he pulled not long ago was a beauty contest that ran over a period of eight weeks. It was a big success from a box office angle and with the cooperation of local merchants Grossman secured a first prize of a popular automobile; an expensive wrist watch for second prize, and 60 bathing suits from a local knitting company. Next thing he'll be doing is giving away a house and lot, and we say more power to this aggressive showman.

Davidson Featured Many Novel Stunts On "Street Scene"

Several noteworthy stunts featured the campaign made on "Street Scene" by L. E. Davidson, manager of the Colfax Theatre, South Bend, Ind., including an effective lobby display, ballyhoo tie-up with local automobile concerns and cooperative advertising arrangements with a number of leading local merchants. All in all, it was a most comprehensive piece of work and had the entire town hopped up in anticipation of the showing.

Note the photo on this page showing an effective display of cut-outs arranged in the lobby. This one included the heads of Estelle Taylor, Sylvia Sidney and Buster Collier, in a fan arrangement with the title in the middle. It was placed a few days prior to opening and attracted a great deal of attention.

In the auto tie-up he got out a number of banners along the lines of, "No Street Scene Is Complete Without . . ." and a distributor of a de luxe motor car loaned models for a parade through the city. A police escort was also arranged for this occasion.

A prominent collar distributor, likewise a wholesaler of a leading brand of cigarettes, contributed to the campaign with 5,000 streamers on all store windows, and in addition to this a tie-up was made with a radio dealer for distribution of several thousand four-page tabloids. Mention was also made via radio broadcast and newspapers gave generous space to advance stories.

Davidson is City Manager for Publix out in South Bend and we are glad to hear from this Club member again. He's been missing from these pages for a short while but now that he's back again we will hope to hear a lot more about his interesting feats of showmanship.

BIRTHDAY GREETINGS

Ivan F. W. Ackery
Edwin Adler
Donald K. Ayres
W. Richard Bartholomew
Floyd Bell
Charles S. Edwards
William Exton
Irving Feinman
Sydney Gottlieb
Russell M. Hogue
Guy Jones
Raymond J. Mellien
Paul E. Michaud
Leslie Paine
Samuel Rose
Ben Rosenberg
Donald Seasholtz
Arnold Stoltz
Oscar F. Swanson

Essay Contest And Petition Help L. P. Weaver Sell "Huck"

An essay contest and a petition stunt greatly helped L. P. Weaver, manager of the Rialto Theatre, Phoenix, Ariz., in publicizing "Huckleberry Finn."

A contest with the local newspaper was put over — offering prizes for the best essays written on the stories of Mark Twain. Of course, this contest was for children only. Each child submitting an essay was to receive a guest ticket to see the picture.

The essay contest gained a bit of publicity by getting a story and art layout in the paper a week in advance and every day and breaking on the front page in one edition during run of picture. The contest also helped in creating a world of goodwill among the parents and children.

Weaver also used the petition stunt. A petition was given to each of fifty boys; the petitions carrying announcement copy for the coming engagement of "Huckleberry Finn." Each boy was to get 200 names on his petition in order to win a guest ticket to see the picture. This stunt was most successful as practically every boy had more than the 200 names required—and the comment received from the stunt was most favorable.

This is a corking picture for enlisting exploitation aid from the youngsters of a certain age inasmuch as the average boy is very apt to visualize himself as "Huck." The success of the two stunts used by Weaver amply testify to interest shown by the children, and it was all put over at cost of but a few passes.

Scaling Used Pony Give-Away As Plug For "Huckleberry"

Appeal to kiddie patronage on "Huckleberry Finn" was made through a give-away of a Shetland pony by Dennis Scaling, manager of the Criterion Theatre, Enid, Okla.

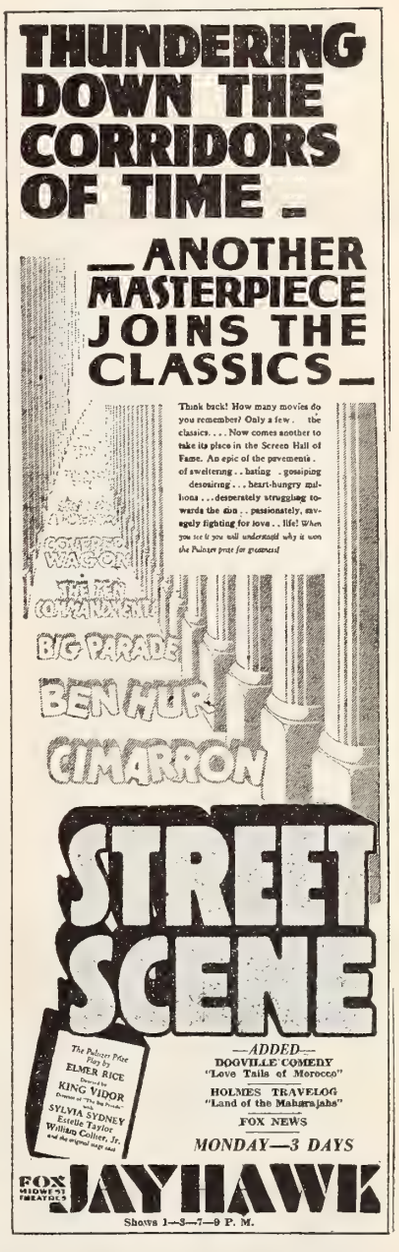
The pony was promoted through a tie-up with one of the local department stores; they purchasing the pony. The only cost to the theatre was 50 per cent of the printing of handbills, which was a very small amount. The handbills carried co-operative copy about store, pony give-away and picture.

The pony was in front of the theatre during the showing of picture—and was given away from the stage on last day of picture's engagement. This stunt created lots of talk with a consequent result of a house record being broken for the first hour of showing.

For a lobby display, Scaling built a small fence. Using the heads off of the three-sheet, they were mounted and made to appear as if the kids were looking over the fence.

The picture was also plugged over the radio every morning through a special tie-up with an ice cream company.

It appears that a pony will get the kiddies every time, and why not? There isn't one of them who doesn't hope to own one some day. Certainly, Scaling got away with this one at very small cost, considering the fact that his only expense was 50 per cent of the printing cost, and he is to be congratulated for his enterprise.



A "CLASSIC" IN ADVERTISING

They talk about classics in this newspaper ad, but to our way of thinking, the ad itself is a classic in more ways than one.

H. E. Jameyson, advertising director for the Fox Midwesco houses, is the man responsible for this grand piece of work and he may well be proud of the result of his efforts. Since coming across it, while going through a batch of newspapers, we have shown it to over a dozen visiting showmen, including some expert publicity men, and they were as enthusiastic in their praise as we are right now.

To the artist who worked out Jameyson's idea should also go some measure of credit for so ably illustrating the thought behind the idea. And when you look at the finished product with the most critical eye, you must surely admit that it's as near a masterpiece as you'll find in many a month of newspaper ad seeking.

We sincerely hope that Mr. Jameyson will, in the future, forward proofs of all his newspaper advertising to Club headquarters where we can select the most outstanding for use on our pages. We feel sure that other showmen will glean many helpful suggestions from the type of advertising being used by the Midwesco houses under Jameyson's supervision of publicity. Other advertising directors have willingly sent us their material for this purpose and we won't be satisfied until we have added this man to our list of special contributors. The industry can well afford to know a whole lot more of what he is doing, and, apparently, he's doing plenty to push pictures he is showing.

Possibly this ad will suggest to others an idea for selling "Street Scene" or some other outstanding picture via a medium of this sort. If so, we would like to see a copy of the finished ad.

BIG POW-WOW IN ALLENTOWN, PA.

When Al Nowitsky played "The Squaw Man," members of the Red Hawk Tribe, Red Men, paid a visit to the Rialto Theatre and staged a heap big dance in front of the theatre. Note Al standing at the extreme left, holding the pipe of peace presented to him by the Chief. The local newspaper gave the occasion a splendid write-up. If you have any Red Men in your town, this ought to be a tip-off.

Engel Sent Up 500 Toy Balloons When Selling "Dirigible"

Release of toy balloons caught attention from the public and a local newspaper when this stunt was employed by Phillip Engel, manager of the Strand Theatre in Perth Amboy. Engel announced through the newspaper that on the occasion of playing "Dirigible," 500 balloons would be sent up in the air in front of the theatre. Some of the balloons were made in the shape of a blimp and the kids came out in droves in an effort to follow the flights.

The reason the newspaper was interested in printing this story was because of the fact that passes to see "Dirigible" were attached to a limited number of the balloons. As a result of the tremendous interest shown in this stunt, the Perth Amboy paper carried a long story the following day (a day before opening), describing the manner in which the stunt was conducted. And in this connection the newspaper carried a detailed description of the picture "Dirigible."

From our observations Engel has been giving a mighty good account of himself since taking charge of the Strand and the above is just one of the many stunts which he has used. We'd like to hear more from this Round Tabler and hope he will find an opportunity to send headquarters a resume of what he has been doing for the past several weeks.

DON'T PRACTICE ECONOMY HERE!

With economy as the alibi, many theatres have started off their new season with uniforms that are in a mighty shabby condition. Now, we are in no position to tell you when to spend or how to save, but using good, common sense as a foundation, we would say that the neglect of your ushers and doormen's uniforms will in all probability end up as a big expense rather than a money-saving move.

The ones who wear those uniforms will be careless because the condition of the outfit does not encourage care and attention. From ordinary wear and tear, it will soon amount to the complete destruction of the uniform and then you must face the cost of buying new ones.

For the small cost entailed, we suggest that your uniforms be cleaned and pressed regularly, and, if repairs are needed, take care of them without delay. If you take care of these clothes they will stand up under heavy usage for perhaps several seasons longer than you anticipated when you first bought them. So, if you must save some foolish pennies, don't start with the clothes worn by your staff when they meet and serve your patrons.

Jack Wright Now In Charge Of Two La Grande Houses

It's been some time since we've had a line on the activities of Jack E. Wright, manager of the Liberty Theatre, La Grande, Ore., in fact it was about the time Hughes-Franklin assumed control of this theatre. However, that doesn't mean that he hasn't been on the job, for he has, and how! He's busier than ever these days because of the added detail of supervising another house, the Granada, newly opened a few weeks ago. The reproduction of a flash-light photo will convey an idea of what the new theatre looks like and, if you will look close, that bulky figure in the middle of the sidewalk trio appears to be Wright himself.

He made a novel tie-up with the Western Union when the Granada was opened which lent an added air of importance to the event. Note in the accompanying photo that the local W. U. manager, D. Hall, is sitting behind one of the Simplex machines, recording messages sent at intervals from every place in Hollywood to Texas. It was advertised that congratulatory telegrams would come into the theatre by direct wire and the local W. U. manager used his resources to acquaint many other theatre men in Oregon of the event. A mechanical doll, placed near the box-office, displayed some fifteen of the messages and the balance were posted on the large board at the right. Fifty-two telegrams came in during the evening, about one-third local and the balance from the West Coast and other states.

Another gag used in connection with the opening picture was a tie-up made with a newspaper in which picture names of cast were scattered among merchants' ads. This was worked for several days in advance and prizes were given to those who first supplied the correct names of the actors and actresses. While we are on the subject of newspapers let us state that some advertising splurge was made in connection with the Granada's reopening. The merchants entered into the spirit of the occasion and liberally supported it with some fine cooperative ads, and the newspaper management also did their full share to publicize the event.

The Western Union tie-up received a lot of attention from the public on the night of opening, many people stopping to read the messages and watch the latest mechanical marvel in this field record them. It gave the telegraph company some additional business and a chance to display the machine and messages throughout the entire evening, as care was taken to send them in at proper intervals.

Another litle stunt recently put over by Wright was the booking of the Blue Mountain Wranglers on the occasion of playing "Dude Ranch." In addition to doing their stuff inside the theatre it was arranged to have them sing and play on the sidewalk in front of the theatre. This was a pleasing innovation that attracted much attention from the passing public.

In the other photo directly under the glare of a ceiling light you will discern the face of the genial Wright himself. Shadows hide the balance of his imposing figure. The service man and girls represent the Granada crew. We're mighty glad to get a line on this old Round Tabler again and hope he will continue to keep the Club informed on what he's doing to send the Liberty and Granada over the top during the new season. And lest we forget to inform you, Jack is now a regular member of the ball and chain gang and the usual congratulations are in order.

PERSONALITY—IN THIS AD!

This newspaper ad. from Memphis, Tenn., a two-column by six-inch product, comes under the heading of "intimate advertising" and has met with much favor in many spots throughout the country. It is also interesting to record that some communities go for it in such a big way, that they use them regularly.

It is not so much the text of this particular ad which we are stressing; rather, the idea in itself. Framing these ads for each picture, addressing your newspaper readers in an easy, readable style, just as though they were seated in your office, is the best approach. Avoid tongue-twisting words or high-sounding phrases. Stick to plain language.

A catch line that will live up to its title is most important. Get their attention and you will be almost certain that the ad will be read. Chat with them, joke with them, if necessary, plead with them, but do it in a convincing manner.

We are very much in favor of this type of advertising and would welcome others along these lines for reproduction on the club pages. If you've ever used them, send us copies and we'll do the rest. On the other hand, if you have some good reason for NOT using them, tell us about it, too. We want both sides of every argument.

P·E·R·S·O·N·A·L·I·T·I·E·S

SHOWMEN NEWSETTES FROM EVERYWHERE

RUSSELL LEDDY, formerly assistant to A. D. Kvool, city supervisor for Fox-Midwesco in Milwaukee, Wisc., has been appointed manager of this circuit's local Wisconsin Theatre. He succeeds Edward Lurie who has taken over management of the Strand Theatre, same city.

* * *

HARRY KARP, formerly manager of the Strand Theatre, Milwaukee, has been placed in charge of the Savoy Theatre, a local neighborhood house, where he has replaced George Allen.

* * *

WM. SCHUTTENHELM has been made manager of the Globe Theatre, Detroit, a house recently taken over by the Bishop Theatre interests.

* * *

BENJ. COONEY has been appointed manager of the Kenosha Theatre, a Warner house in Kenosha, Wisc. Fred Westfall was the former manager.

* * *

ED WOLF is the new manager of the Circle Theatre, a Warner house in Philadelphia.

* * *

H. CAVANAUGH is handling publicity for the Orpheum Theatre in Des Moines, Iowa. He was formerly in Minneapolis.

* * *

FORREST WALKER, manager of the Liberty Theatre, Johnson, Kansas, has reopened following installation of several new items of equipment.

* * *

R. E. ARCHIBALD, manager of Fox-West Coast Theatres in Pocatello, Idaho, has been promoted to the management of the new Fox-DeLuxe Theatre in Billings, Mont.

* * *

C. P. SCATES has succeeded R. E. Archibald as manager of the Fox Theatres in Pocatello, Idaho.

* * *

F. A. OLSON, formerly assistant manager to Archibald in Pocatello, Idaho, has won promotion to the management of the Fox Theatre in Idaho Falls.

* * *

LAWRENCE PROSSER is the new manager of the Palace Theatre, Cedar Rapids, Iowa. He was formerly of the Spencer Theatre in Rock Island.

* * *

H. PETRUS has taken lease on the Municipal Theatre, Highland, Wisc., and will install sound equipment.

* * *

RALPH HOSSLE recently purchased the Strand Theatre in Sidney, Iowa, from Shirley Leavitt.

* * *

J. A. MARTIN, formerly of Kansas City theatre circles, has taken over the management of the Society Theatre, Seattle, Wash.

* * *

HARRY D. GRAHAM, has been made district manager of Universal's southwest division and will make his headquarters in Kansas City.

* * *

C. I. WURMAN, manager of the Rex Theatre in Sprague, Wash., has announced showings two days per week.

* * *

LOU GOLDEN is in charge of the reopened U. A. Whittier Theatre in Los Angeles, Calif.

* * *

DAVID FERGUSON has been transferred from the Coliseum to the Colonial Theatre, Seattle, Wash.

* * *

E. J. DECH has taken over lease on the Colonial Theatre in Palmerton, Pa.

* * *

FRANK KELSEY has been appointed manager of the Capitol Theatre in York, Pa. Jack Keith is acting as assistant.

* * *

BILL GOURY, formerly assistant manager for a Publix house in Birmingham, Ala., has been promoted to the post of manager of a Publix theatre in Knoxville, Tenn.

* * *

J. C. WILBURN has taken over operation of the Palace Theatre in Wolf City, Texas.

* * *

C. GRAVES will manage the Alhambra Theatre in Sacramento, Calif., when this house is reopened in November. Graves was former publicity man for the Alhambra.

* * *

C. O. BAIRD has reopened the Pastime Theatre, Portage, Pa., after a thorough renovation.

* * *

J. A. ALEXANDER has been appointed manager of the new State Theatre, Glennville, Ga.

* * *

LAFAYETTE THOMAS will have charge of the new Roxy Theatre, Shirley, Ind.

* * *

PAUL FOX has been made manager of the recently reopened Grand Theatre in Sheboygan, Wis.

* * *

NATE SCHEINBERG has acquired the Stearns Theatre in Filmore, Calif., a house formerly owned and operated by H. C. Stearns.

* * *

GEORGE WILLIAMS has reopened the Central Theatre, Norfolk, Va. New sound equipment has been installed.

* * *

RUTH KILLEN will continue operation of the Norton Theatre in Norton, Va. She is the widow of C. A. Killen, former operator.

* * *

GRACE FISHER, a prominent lady-exhibitor of Cumberland, Md., will open the new Embassy Theatre in that city some time during November. She also operates the local Capitol Theatre.

* * *

A. B. CHILDERS has taken over the management of the motion picture theatre in Archer, Texas, and has renamed the house the Mignon.

* * *

ROBERT WOLF has acquired a long-term lease on the Bandbox Theatre, Germantown, Pa. He will give the house a complete renovation and install new sound equipment.

* * *

W. R. STEEN is in charge of the Dorothy Theatre in Henrietta, Texas.

* * *

LOUIS M. FELT has been appointed manager of the Westmar Theatre, Norristown, Pa.

* * *

Items for publication on this page should be addressed to "Chick" Lewis and will be published the week following receipt. Notices of promotions, transfers, change of addresses, and other material of this nature is what we want for our "Personalities" page. The more you send the more interesting will be the page each week.

TOM GILBERT has tendered his resignation as manager of the Liberty Theatre in Donoroa, Pa.

* * *

RALPH BLANK, formerly manager of the Figueroa Theatre, Los Angeles, Calif., is the new manager of the Ritz Theatre, same city.

* * *

MURRAY PENNOCK, formerly manager of the Ritz Theatre, L. A., Calif, is now manager of the Figueroa.

* * *

EARL RICE has been appointed city manager for Warner theatres in Salem, Ore. Marty Schwartz formerly held this job prior to taking over management of the new Warner theatre in Los Angeles, Calif.

* * *

NED STEELE has reopened the Almond Theatre, Arbuckle, Calif. This house was formerly known as the Arbuckle.

* * *

CARROLL WADDELL is in charge of the recently reopened Pasadena Theatre, Pasadena, Calif., a U. A. house under Fox-West Coast.

* * *

JOSEPH CASNER and an associate have purchased the Cameo Theatre in West Haven, Conn.

* * *

ELI ROSENBAUM, for many years owner of the Hippodrome Theatre in Ogdensburg, N. Y., has sold this house to Julius Frank and Byron Evans. We wonder if Eli ever perfected his device to utilize ends of carbon.

* * *

JOHN L. WIBBLE, former operator of the Auditorium Theatre, has taken over the lease of this house from John Blair, Sr.

* * *

E. E. ALGER has purchased the Hub Theatre, Rochellem, Ill., which was a community-owned house. Alger also operates the Apollo Theatre in Princeton, Ill.

* * *

EDDIE KADANE, manager of the Frederick Amusement Co., Frederick, Okla., has announced installation of sound equipment for the Grand Theatre, Frederick.

* * *

WALTER WARNER has been appointed manager of the Davies Theatre, San Francisco, Calif., replacing John Victor.

* * *

W. G. RIPLEY, manager of the Columbia Theatre, Longview, Wash., who has been confined in a local hospital with a recent attack of stomach trouble, is reported on the road to recovery.

* * *

MARTY SCHWARTZ, former Warner theatre chief located at Salem, Ore., has assumed active management of the Western Theatre, a new Warner house in Hollywood, Calif.

* * *

B. SILVERMAN has purchased the Vita Temple Theatre in Toledo, Ohio, from the Rogramil Theatre Corp., of Cleveland. Jack O'Connell, Toledo theatre operator, was a former owner of this house.

* * *

J. A. JEFFRIES, of the Dickinson Theatres home office, has assumed charge of the Wareham and Dickinson Theatres in Manhattan, Kansas, following the resignation of Lewis B. Sponsler.

* * *

MAURICE ROSENTHAL, formerly manager of the Capitol Theatre in Wilkes-Barre, has been transferred to the Publix house in Holyoke, Mass.

* * *

YOU'LL JOIN EVENTUALLY—WHY NOT NOW?

C. P. CHAN is also a theatre manager and a new member of this organization and he is at the helm of the Southern Palace Theatre, Wing Hon Road, Canton, China, which is quite a long way off from Club headquarters. Our membership is growing in his country and we will expect to hear some interesting accounts of how shows are sold in China.

———Wear Your Club Pin! ! !———

JOSEPH LYMAN manages the Princess Theatre in White Hall, Ill., and he's still another independent theatre operator to join the ranks of this organization. We will look forward with interest to whatever contributions Lyman chooses to send along and this will be a reminder that his fellow members will also be on the lookout for any tips he has to offer.

———Wear Your Club Pin! ! !———

RONALD H. BLANKENBEKER is the manager of the Rex Theatre out in Dunkirk, Ind., a merchant-owned house. This is rather an unique situation and we would like to hear from this new member as to just what brought about an arrangement of this kind and how it's working out. It would seem that there would be vast co-operative possibilities here. Let's hear more from you Ronald, and don't forget to send along some selling angles on pictures you've played.

———Wear Your Club Pin! ! !———

E. PAULSON sends the Club an interesting letter from far away Juneau, Alaska, where he manages the Capitol Theatre. He has only been in this business since 1907 (24 years) and therefore considers himself still a novice. But he's willing to learn, he states, so that's that. It will no doubt be tough to teach this "old dog any new tricks" about show selling; still he's right about being a novice at that. There's always a new gag being pulled, at least, one with a new slant; and when a man of his experience joins the Club we know that his mind is wide open for any practical suggestion. Paulson, we're mighty glad to have you with us. Carry on!

Here's the Blank

Application For Membership In

"MANAGERS' ROUND TABLE CLUB"

Hey, "Chick":

Please enroll me in the Club and send me my framed certificate.

Name .....

Position .....

Theatre .....

Address .....

City .....

State .....

(Mail to Managers' Round Table Club, 1790 Broadway, New York)

K. K. HANSEN has the job of managing RKO's Coliseum Theatre at 181st Street and Broadway, New York City. He is also one of the Club's newest members and we take this occasion to introduce him to all his brother showmen. Hansen is located in a thriving neighborhood which should give him leeway for productive exploitation and we shall hope to recount a number of his activities concerned with show selling in the city's upper West Side.

———Wear Your Club Pin! ! !———

WARREN L. WEBER is in charge of the Ellinwood Theatre in Ellinwood, Kansas, and at the rate applications are coming in from his state the Club will soon have one hundred percent representation in this new member's territory. His is another independently operated theatre, and thus his name adds to an ever-increasing list of independent theatre owners and managers in this organization. Let us know what you're doing out your way, Warren.

———Wear Your Club Pin! ! !———

MILTON L. KAISER is located out in Milwaukee, Wisc., where he manages Fischer's National Theatre. He is likewise a new member of this Club and to him we also extend a cordial invitation to submit showman-like ideas which we can pass along to other members. He has been following this department for some time, likes it and now intends to do his share to help carry on these pages. We like your spirit, Milt, and will await your next communication.

———Wear Your Club Pin! ! !———

LEON JARODSKY manages two theatres, the Lincoln and Paris in Paris, Ill., and we are quite certain that his name is familiar to many exhibitors in the Middle West and elsewhere. Operating two houses is enough to keep any one man's time well taken up but we think that he will snatch a few minutes now and then to send along some show-selling tips for his brother showmen to use.

———Wear Your Club Pin! ! !———

R. J. SCHOELERMAN is the manager of the Corn Theatre in Everly, Iowa. He does not state whether his house is tied-in with any circuit organization or not so we conclude that he, too, is in charge of an independently operated theatre. The Club is anxious to know what a lot of independents are doing in the way of selling their shows these days so we'll appreciate hearing further from this new member.

———Wear Your Club Pin! ! !———

RAYMOND J. MELLIEN has charge of the Plaza Theatre, Burlington, Wisc., and we now introduce this new Round Tabler to his host of fellow showmen. His state is chock full of active contributors to these columns and we hope that he will do his part to keep up the good work. Tell us what you are doing to sell shows out in your town, Ray, and we will pass along your tips to others.

———Wear Your Club Pin! ! !———

W. A. CLARKE, JR., is one of the Club's newest members in the Middle West. He is located in the city of Canton, Ill., and manages the Garden Theatre, a small but up-to-date independent house. We are glad to acknowledge Clarke's application and will look forward with interest to his future communications. In the meantime, we're going to ask him to take a little time off at the first opportunity that presents itself and jot down a few words about what he has been doing to sell entertainment at the Garden.

R. H. BIGGS is another member of Hall Industries Theatres of Texas to become a member of the Round Table Club. He operates the Rialto Theatre at Arkansas Pass, Texas, and promises to shoot along some ideas for his fellow showmen to use. That's the good old spirit, Biggs, and we will be mighty glad to hear further from you or any of your brother Hall Theatremen. You fellows are on the job when it comes to getting good returns on shows and are the kind of members we want to hear from often.

———Wear Your Club Pin! ! !———

LOUIS LISS is located in the Borough of the Bronx, New York City, where he manages the Star Theatre. They still make an effort to sell shows up in his neck of the big town and we'll be waiting to hear what this new member has to offer his fellow showmen in the way of show-tips. Fall in line now, Louis, and see if you can do as well for the Club as Harry Clifford (also up your way) is doing.

———Wear Your Club Pin! ! !———

R. F. SCHERER is the manager of the Grand Theatre in Linton, Ind., and he's another new Club member. He is in charge of an independently operated house and promises to become an active contributor to these columns. So go right ahead, R. F., and jot down a little yarn which will tip off your fellow showmen on what you have been doing to sell shows in Linton.

———Wear Your Club Pin! ! !———

IRA J. CARTER, JR., is located down in a state where a lot of fellows are going to wish they were when the snow begins to fly—in Florida. He manages the Star Theatre, Newberry, and we are mighty glad to extend the Club welcome to this new member from Dixie. Keep in touch with headquarters, Ira, now that you are one of us, and tell us how you are putting the Star over.

———Wear Your Club Pin! ! !———

WILBUR A. THOMPSON is the assistant manager of the Publix-Casino Theatre in Marshalltown, Iowa, a house managed by C. M. Peterson. Thompson has been with the Casino for two years and was promoted to his present position. Prior to making this connection he was with the Strand, same city. He's 21 years of age and well on the way toward reaching the goal of manager and the Club wishes this new member unlimited success.

———Wear Your Club Pin! ! !———

CLYDE V. WILSON has been an independent exhibitor for over eighteen years, which certainly means that this new Club member knows a thing or two about show-business. He is located out in Tipton, Indiana, where he owns and operates the Ritz Theatre, a sound equipped house seating slightly under 700 persons. With all the experience Wilson has had in the show-selling game, we will anticipate some interesting contributions to this department.

———Wear Your Club Pin! ! !———

DALE A. LEIFHEIT manages the Egyptian Theatre in DeKalb, Ill., and according to records his house is also independent of all circuit affiliations. His house is a prominent one in the community and we believe all other members will be benefited by the addition of his name to the roster of this constantly growing organization of showmen. Pass along some ideas, Dale, and headquarters will attend to the broadcasting.

SOUND REPRODUCTION

The BLUEBOOK School

By F. H. RICHARDSON

BLUEBOOK SCHOOL QUESTION NO. 102—(A) Name the various elements in R C A Photophone pick-up. (B) Tell us how they are mounted. (C) How many spare exciting lamps may be mounted and how are spare lamps brought into position for use? (D) How is electric contact provided for each lamp? (E) Will or will not the R C A exciting lamp filament always be square with the slit?

(Note—These questions are taken verbatim from the index of Vol. 3 of the Bluebook.)

A Magnificent Figure Gone

Last week friend daughter and I traveled over to West Orange, New Jersey, to pay a last, sad tribute to Thomas Alva Edison, the greatest man who has lived since Abraham Lincoln.

The great man usually becomes entirely too great in his own estimation. He draws away from the very people whence he sprung. He surrounds himself, in effect, with a stone wall, excluding all except those few other great ones. The average man of wealth or importance is as easy to approach as is the King of England, and decidedly less easy to get into personal touch with than is the President of these United States of America.

Not so with Mr. Edison. The editor of this department is a plain "common" man. He has wished to talk with Mr. Edison perhaps a dozen times during the past 22 years and, save for a space of perhaps two years when I would not agree that his talking picture had practical value for anything except perhaps very short subjects, I had not at any time the least difficulty in reaching and talking with the great inventor.

That Mr. Edison had much to do with making the motion picture a commercial possibility we all know. That he did much work in the field of investigation from which the motion picture as we now know it finally sprung, we all know. And we of the industry now grown to such huge proportions are all gratified and proud that the name of the great man just departed is connected so intimately with it.

On behalf of many thousands of exhibitors, theatre managers and motion picture projectionists I take the liberty of tendering to Mrs. Edison, and to the children of Thomas Alva Edison, our sincere sympathy and genuine sorrow in this their great bereavement.

The Reaper shall gather the grain when it's ripe,
To be stored in Eternity vast.
But the grain is not dead. It will live on and on
And be helpful while living shall last.

F. H. R.

Answer to Question No. 97

Question No. 97 was: "(A) Explain the location of each half of the Western Electric fader coils with relation to each other and to the film pick-up amplifier. (B) Explain the use of the switches at the top of the fader. (C) What will be the effect if the fader pointer be not kept on one of the numbers—kept between two of them? (D) How may either the red or the white side of the fader be cut out?

The following have answered acceptably: C. Rau and S. Evans, H. D. Cole, Kroll and VanBuskirk, G. E. Doe, T. Van Vaulkenburg, Alexander Tilson, Dan F. Grant, Jack Billings, N. D. Garling, William Broadbent, Nic Granby, D. L. Graves, Will Peck, D. L. Simmons, Henry Davidson, Bill Doe, Thos. McGruder, K. L. Knight, Dan Graves, Larry Tipton, Frank G. Garrison, James Devoy, Peter Cermak, John Cermak, R. Lester, M. Daniels, James Pendone, Robt. Banning, Richard Singleton, Dave Lode, Frank Oliver, W. D. Hotaling, H. B. Becker, Andy F. Boe, S. Kay, Dan Roxbury, James Ledbetter, W. D. Samuels, Alec Gibson, Alonzo Zerach, P. T. Garling, Henry B. Coates, F. T. Leroy, Dave Bittdoll, H. D. Schofield, Andrew Davis, Henry Edwards, D. L. Warren, G. Richards, A. Dexter, Ben Granby, L. T. Samuels, P. L. Toeping, Tom Hazelton, Dave Pundit, Frank Burker, Frank D. Tollman, S. Emmerson, John Williams, William Bogert, Cyrus T. Davis, John Wentworth, John Williams, Andy Bailey, Seymour Carroll, H. D. Tyler, A. R. Lyttle, S. T. Jones, R. B. Whitnath and Pat O'Brien.

The following gave exceptionally excellent answers: Messrs. Rau and Evans, Kroll and VanBuskirk, Henry Edwards, G. E. Doe, T. VanVaulkenburg, S. T. Jones, Robert Banning, Ben Granby, Dan Graves and James Devoy. I have selected the answer of G. E. Doe as best for publication.

Brother Doe says:

"(A) The coils of each half of the W. E. fader are connected in series with each other, though the number of coils in use (in series) at any moment of time depends upon the position of the fader indicating pointer or hand. The coils of each side are in series with the film pick-up amplifier of one of the projectors, or, to be exact, that portion of them in use at any time is in series with the film pick-up amplifier of one of the projectors, the coils on the white side being connected in series with the right hand projector; those on the red side being connected with the left hand projector.

"(B) At or near the top of each W. E. 702-A fader are two switches. They are located side by side, the left hand one being used in event one side of the fader for any reason becomes inoperative. Thrown to the left, this switch cuts out the red side, at the same time introducing sufficient resistance into the circuit to equal a No. 9 fader setting. If this switch be thrown to the right it has exactly the same effect on the white side.

"The other, or right hand switch, is for use when there is a three-projector installation. When this switch is thrown to the left it cuts the third projector into the fader circuit, using the right hand or "white" side.

"(C) Should the fader indicating hand be kept halfway between two numbers it would mean that its contact button would be resting partly on two coil contacts. The result would almost certainly be arcing, which would set up unpleasant noise in the horns and, if this position were held for any length of time, produce a roughening, both of the coil contacts and the contact button on the arm controlled by the fader knob, which would of course tend to produce noises in the horns thereafter whenever these roughened contacts came together.

"(D) Yes, either the red or white side of the fader may be cut out, as explained in B."

MUSIC AND TALENT

ACTS HINDERED, SAYS SOPHIE TUCKER

Restless Audiences Dare Player to 'Wow' Them

Used to Be Event To Be Taken To Theatre, Now It's Time-Killer, Says Star Trouper

By ED DAWSON

A most pronounced and annoying lack of deportment on the part of audiences at motion picture stage presentation theatres is today one of the most serious handicaps confronting the stage performer, Sophie Tucker told us this week in an exclusive interview in New York. Miss Tucker, one of the very few remaining troupers of the old school, left on Wednesday for a four weeks' tour of presentation houses in Chicago and the Midwest.

"No performer," she said, "and I do not mean the young hip twisters who are a fad for a day and then drop into oblivion, can possibly stand up consistently and continuously giving four and five shows a day at a de luxe picture stand, and not feel the effects in lowered morale of a restless audience which sits slumped back in seats and just dares you to 'wow' them.

"Few managers have taken into consideration the feelings of performers on their boards. If a performer 'lets down,' for instance, during the supper show, the management invariably condemns the performer, never thinking that there is a possibility that it is not the performer's fault, but the fault of inattention of the audience, their slumping in their seats, or their use of the house as a petting ground.

"Of course, the real troupers would never 'let down' under any consideration. Nevertheless, they get a tough break when their audience sit through a real performance that merits their consideration and they do not give it."

Miss Tucker said that when she was a youngster, it was an event to be taken to a theatre, an event that called for extra scrubbing of her ears, and the wearing of her "party" dress. "Nowadays," she said, "children, and grownups, too, are so used to going to theatres that it is no longer anything more than a place to spend a few hours."

Loew Vaudeville Tryouts

Mr. Louis K. Sidney, head of production for Loew's, will personally supervise the auditions for vaudeville aspirants, every Thursday both at the afternoon and evening performances at Loew's 46th St., Brooklyn. The professional auditions are to be part of the regular programs.

Mack Returns To New York

Ted Mack has returned to New York after acting as master of ceremonies at Shea's Buffalo for four weeks.

TED CRAWFORD

Here is a young chap who is of the species known as a native Californian. He really is, having been born in Alameda 27 years ago. So many people have claimed to be natives of this fair state that we can hardly believe them, so to really prove it, Ted has sent his birth certificate in to us, so we are forced to believe him. Incidentally Ted is a solo organist and is featured at Warner Bros., Granada theatre, Santa Barbara, Calif. He has played organ for the past 10 years and has been featured in 1923 at the Newman, Kansas City, Mo., then for the next two years in theatres in Los Angeles for West Coast Theatres, then at Shea's Buffalo. In 1927 he was sent by Publix to the Indiana, Indianapolis, and then went to the Mark-Strand on Broadway, New York City. From New York he was sent to the Paramount, San Francisco, where he stayed until he was offered the Warner house in Santa Barbara. Ted has not spent all his time being an organist; no, sir; he has written and had accepted two musical comedies and was also in the movies for two years, but claims he would rather play organ and write music, any day, than act.

Patrons Disappointed Waiting Return of the Stage Shows

There was no stage show granted the New Orleans Saenger patrons this week, a disappointment to many who believed that at this late date the Publix units or their substitute would be again seen at this house.

But, to satisfy, Lou Forbes and his boys presented an interesting program featuring the classical and "otherwise."

Mills Purchases Waterson Catalog of 5,000 Songs

Purchase of the huge music catalogue of Waterson, Berlin and Snyder Company by Mills Music Company is a development of importance in the music publishing, motion picture and radio fields. The purchase was made from Irving Trust Company, receiver for the estate.

The Waterson catalogue, an accumulation, for more than a quarter century, of numbers by almost every wellknown song writer, is one of the biggest and richest in the trade. During its activity it involved a turnover of milions of dollars.

The purchase is a demonstration of the foresight of Jack and Irving Mills, who ever since they started their music publishing concern have consistently applied surplus capital to the acquisition of other catalogues.

Acquisition of the Waterson catalogue, including the purchase price and expenses incident to inventory, transfer from the warehouse into convenient storage, rearrangement of numbers and modernization of orchestrations, and so on, represents an investment of more than $50,000 on the part of the Mills Music Co.

The catalogue included such memorable hits as "Margie," "For Me and My Gal," "Hello Hawaii," "I Hate to Lose You," "I'll Be Happy When the Preacher Makes You Mine," "Baby's Prayer at Twilight," "Back Home in Tennessee," "Mickey," "My Mother's Rosary," "My Sweetie Went Away," "Oh, What A Pal Was Mary," "Old Pal Why Don't You Answer Me?", "Rockabye Your Baby With a Dixie Melody," "Yaaka Hula Hinkey Doola," "You're a Million Miles From Nowhere."

Such outstanding writers are represented as Walter Donaldson, Harry Ruby, Bert Kalmar, Edgar Leslie, E. Ray Goetz, Joe Young, Rudolf Friml, M. K. Jerome, Harry Carroll, Con Conrad, Benny Davis, Harry Akst, Sammy Fain, Al Dubin, Sigmund Romberg, Roy Turk, Pete Wendling, Russell Robinson, Ted Snyder, Maurice Abrahams, Ray Henderson, Harry Tierney, Buddy DeSylva, Cliff Friend, Lew Brown, Hugo Reisenfeld and others.

Revival of many of the hits is contemplated by the Mills brothers, particularly for radio use, since most of them antedate the growth of broadcasting.

Both the motion picture and the radio industries have made definite moves toward acquiring music catalogues and control of copyrights. The assignment of this particularly large and important one to an active music publishing concern holds special significance for members of the trade, especially the writers.

STAGE SHOWS

New York Roxy

Week ending October 29

Stage presentation titled "Days of '49," produced by Clark Robinson, offered the tinkling of guitars, the swishing of spangled skirts and songs of the colorful old West, all blending into the feature picture, "Cisco Kid," and making for 35 minutes of pleasing entertainment.

Show opens with a prologue called "Gold," set in a mountain scene in which the male chorus of 13 voices sing the old songs of the gold-mining days. The ballet Corps, in gold spangled dress, follow with a perfectly executed toe routine. Following, Patricia Bowman is backed up by the ballet ensemble as she does a weird, graceful interpretative toe dance. Miss Bowman, symbolizing gold, is dressed in a gold tight-fitting dress, a gold head piece and mask of gold set off with a black transparent gauze skirt. She is literally the symbol of grace and her work as usual gets a most appreciative response from the audience. The dancehall scene, called "Tia Juana," is used by the specialty artists; Arthur Humby, the traveling musician, who sings "Oh, Suzanna," while strumming on his guitar.

The barkeepers, Monroe and Grant, prove a good novelty for this house with their work on a trampoline, which is deftly hidden behind the bar. The Wonder Horse, "Sporting Life," ridden by Bob Roebuck, goes without a hitch through his routine of picking up his supposedly wounded rider and the rider's hat. Bob Rogers, internationally known rope-spinner and bullwhip cracker, apparently was not in his own element on the stage, for his roping and spinning was distinctly amateurish and muffed three or four times. Bert Faye did a slap-shoe routine that had nothing outstanding. The Mexican dancers, Zanou and Kaz, routine into a quarrel which leads to the fire effect and two-horse vision on treadmill for the finale.

Credit for outstanding performances this week go to Patricia Bowman, the Roxy Ballet Corps and the Thirty-two Roxyettes.

The effect for the finale was used as a background for the title of the feature.

RKO Deluxer Opens at Albany

The latest Radio-Keith-Orpheum theatre, the RKO Palace at Albany, opened Friday night, October 23, with a huge parade and a celebrated audience.

The house has 4,000 seats and long before the doors opened the good-old "SRO" sign was out.

The national anthem was sung by Helen Yorke and Virginia Johnson as the entire audience stood. The dedication program had for speakers such well-known men as Joseph Plunkett, vice-president and General Manager of RKO Theatres, Lieutenant-Governor Lehman of New York and Mayor Thatcher of Albany.

The RKO Palace Concert Orchestra, with Anthony Morelli conducting, and Ray Turner at the console of the Grand Organ, did their share in making the program a first class affair. (Reports of "Overture" and "Organ Solo" on next page.)

First class vaudeville was presented by Maurice Colleano and Family, Helen Yorke, Virginia Johnson, Medley and Dupree and the Norman Thomas Quintette.

The feature picture was "Devotion."

Denver Denver

Week ending October 29

The Fanchon & Marco "Gay Vienna" Idea consists mostly of gay costumes and scenery flashes, a couple of attempts at humor, and a four-year-old boy mind reader, spotted in the show for this week only.

The lad, Jackie Merkle, has been appearing with his father at clubs and private entertainments, but this is the first theatre audience he has faced and he acquitted himself splendidly. His father goes through the audience asking questions, and Jackie answers most of them without hesitation. If the boy is coached in the right direction this ought to make a good act. The audience here certainly got a kick out of it.

Helen Tyner and John Pilon, winners of the Colorado Atwater-Kent contest, each sang a song.

The "Gay Vienna" idea opens with a black drop having huge heart cut out, back of which are Emma Woodland and Roy Smoot singing "Two Hearts in Waltz Time." Their voices blended well. The curtain parts, disclosing two hearts. Each singer follows one of the hearts. The line does a waltz number, one-half dressed as Hungarian lassies and the other as boys. In their second routine they are clothed as soldiers in red and white costumes, and sit around while Dici de Karekjarto plays the violin. The scene shows a beautiful throne. Rena & Rathbun do an exaggerated inebriation act rolling all over the stage and getting a few laughs. The two Gaudsmith Brothers and their two dogs put on a comedy act. The final flash shows the two huge heart cut-outs with Miss Woodland and Roy Smoot back of them—the curtain closes so that they join each other and the line is dressed in lovely evening gowns with huge feather fans.

Baltimore Hippodrome

Week ending October 30

This program of five vaudeville acts opened with Clyde Hagar, comedy street fakir in a humorous monologue which gained laughs as he went along and applause at the end. He was followed by the Six Marinelli Girls in their unusual feats which gained a fair amount of applause.

Then came the band on full stage from Sherry's Night Club of Baltimore directed by Joe Candullo and Teddy Joyce, who acted as master of ceremonies throughout the show. Band played several selections, one of which "On the Road to Mandalay," was done in novel jazz fashion from Candullo's own arrangement, interspersed with singing of "Sweet and Lovely," by Edward Garrison, tap dancing by the Three Devils, one girl and two men; playing of "Tiger Rag," by Candullo with violin, guitar, bass viol and drummer with old suitcase, and brush sticks by others; "Minnie the Moocher," with dancing by Joyce; banjo selections by Warren Bowden winding up with "Hi, Hi, Hi," to fast tempo. Running laughs and applause.

Next came Armida who sang "Cigarette," in Raquel Meller fashion, going into audience and distributing cigarettes. She appears again in a novelty gold cloth costume and goes into comic classical singing, getting laughs and losing skirt at end as she walks off. Then she puts on another flounced gold cloth skirt and into bull fight dance with castinets and comedy at end with Joyce. Applause. Changes costume and sings "Without That Man," burlesquing Helen Morgan without saying so. Big applause. Next came Charlie Foy, son of Eddie, with his gang, including Alice Cavin, dancer, in a lot of comedy hokum, songs and dances with running laughs throughout and big applause at end.

They listen — attentively and sing — vociferously and laugh — occasionally and applaud — plenty for
Rex Koury

Presenting modern organ entertainment
RKO PROCTOR'S TROY, N. Y.

San Francisco Fox

Week ending October 28

A clever interpretation of the good old days is presented in Fanchon and Marco's "Tin-Types" Idea which harkens back to the sentimental seventies.

Oscar Taylor sings of other days before a curtain which dimly shows the enormous figure of a photographer and his early-day camera. A screen is moved and the Sunkist Beauties are shown posed as croquet players. They wear clothes that seem outlandish and dance their way through a croquet game, with one garbed to resemble a ball.

The Aaron Sisters are revealed, posed as mountaineers, and sing touching ballads after the manner of the Hill Billies. They have good voices and know how to use them. Pressler and Klaiss evidence real class in showing just how Pa and Ma looked when they had their picture taken fifty or sixty years ago. They sing and dance and go over well.

The scene shifts to that of an oldfashioned parlor, with a party in progress. Marie Remington entertains with fancy skating and an exhibition of acrobatics on roller skates. Cy Landry does a novel pantomime dance, giving an imitation of an Apache dance with an imaginary girl. He proves especially funny in the dance of the seven veils.

A Civil War veteran tells the story of a major engagement and this is thrown on a miniature screen in picture form, making it very thrilling. The picture fades into a stage set and the Sunkist Beauties appear in uniforms of blue, mounted on stilts, which in turn are on roller skates. They go through difficult maneuvers and drill to patriotic music and the entire company comes out on the stage as the curtain falls.

New Organist in Cincinnati

Erwin Schenck is handling the organ at the RKO Albee, Cincinnati, succeeding Harold Kreel. Keith's first-run independent, has added an organist, Hy C. Geis.

Music Revival Pleases Rolph

Governor James Rolph, Jr., of California, congratulated Herman Heller, musical director, upon the revival of pit orchestras in the New Mission and New Fillmore, twin Francisco theatres near the home of the governor.

Franklin Uses 55 Musicians

Harold B. Franklin will install 55 musicians in the Los Angeles Paramount under the direction of David Mendoza.

ORGAN SOLOS

RAY TURNER (Albany RKO Palace) for his inaugural program introduced community singing to a city which hasn't had an organist feature this type of entertainment for some time, and surprisingly thawed them out after the first song and really had many of them sing. His program opened with special lyrics to the tune "Hello Beautiful," telling the audience of his intention to have them enjoy his programs and forget their cares by singing. Hesitatingly at first, but with increasing courage and volume, the audience sang "Me," a special to "99 Out of a 100," a special tongue-twister about "Min's Mince Pies" to "Baby Just Cares," a special to "Million Dollar Baby," "I Don't Know Why," "It's the Girl" and a final chorus of "East Side, West Side."

The organist showed rare judgment in offering a number of very laughable special choruses at the first part of his solo. This assisted greatly in turning a strictly formal affair into a good old community singing fest.

JOHNNY WINTERS (Brooklyn Strand) presented an entertaining solo. It was titleless, but can be classed as a "challenge" solo. It had songs for the old folk to sing and some for the young. The old folk first sang "Let Me Call You Sweetheart," with the young ones following with a special parody on "Wanna Sing about You." "Smiles" "I Don't Know Why," and a special to "There are Smiles" rounded out the program. Winters is personable, plays a good organ and works hard to put it over.

BOB BAILEY (Paramount, Denver) is actually getting the audiences to sing. He is the first to succeed in this although others have tried it. It is because of his pleasing personality and his way of "kidding" the crowd that produces the results. In the program caught he read a number of requests and answered them on the organ. Included were "By the Waters of the Minnetonka," "Moonlight Savings Time," "When the Moon Comes Over the Mountain," "When the Autumn Leaves of Life Begin to Fall" and "Walking My Baby Back Home."

FRANKLIN BENTAL (Beaver Falls Rialto) presented a novel and entertaining organ solo this week, entitled "The Hay Ride." Completely covering the organ console with hay, and leaving only the manuals exposed, Bental, dressed as a farmer, offered a solo that was certainly different. The program, opening with "Hey, Hey, The Gang's All Here," led the audience on the "Hay Ride" with clever parody choruses of the following songs: "Giddap Napoleon," "Reuben, Reuben," "Turkey In the Straw," "Won't Go Home 'til Morning," and "World Waiting for the Sunrise." Complete songs used included "Pack Up Your Troubles," "Down By the Old Mill Stream," and "Good Night Ladies." The novelty was cleverly presented. The entertaining programs this organist is offering is decidedly increasing his popularity.

OVERTURES

ANTHONY MORELLI (Albany RKO Palace) and his Concert Orchestra in their inaugural program proved to the theatregoers of Albany that they have an accomplished and personable leader in Morelli and a versatile aggregation of musicians in the orchestra. Their first overture was made up of selections from Friml and Romberg, and was composed of "My Sword and I," "Lover Come Back," "Deep in My Heart," "Song of the Vagabonds" and "March of the Three Musketeers." Each number was specially arranged by Morelli and in two of the numbers a string sextet and saxophone quintet were featured. Beside the 14 men in the orchestra, Ray Turner assists at the organ.

CHARLIE PAUL (Jamaica Valencia) and His Melody Boys presented an outstanding orchestral overture entitled "A Trip through a Gallery" or "Paintings on Exhibition." As well known paintings were shown on the screen, Paul and his orchestra played numbers suggested by these pictures. Unfortunately the pictures were shown on the paneled curtain and were very indistinct but the good work of the orchestra overcame this handicap. Opening with the Allegro movement from "William Tell," the orchestra then played "An Old Refrain," with the first violinist featured and followed by the brass section. For the showing of an old painting, representing an organ grinder, the house organist, Joe Stoves, soloed with a very good imitation. The first saxophonist featured in the playing of "Traumerei," popularly known as the "Dream." The playing of "The Hunt" (in which the "echo" part is done by one cornetist in the wings) closed his entertaining overture. This orchestra is composed of versatile and accomplished musicians and has a personable and showmanly leader in Charlie Paul.

HARRY SILVERSTADT (Brooklyn Metropolitan) and His Metropolitan Orchestra. An overture of "Rain Melodies," this week, offered another opportunity to this director to show the patrons what accomplished and versatile musicians his band of 15 men is composed of.

Opening with a compilation of bits of "rain" numbers, he cleverly modulated into the full choruses of "One Little Raindrop," "Running Between the Raindrops," "April Showers," and a final chorus of "Singing In the Rain," beautifully sung by Teddy Goodyear, band saxaphone player. This orchestra is a very good one and is ably led by Mr. Silverstadt, whose hard work compiling good overtures for the patrons has been responsible for their popularity here.

IGNACE NOWICKI (New York Roxy) and Roxy Symphony Orchestra under the personal direction of Maurice Baron, presented "Gems" from the works of Tschaikowsky as his overture this week. The 70 men comprising this world-famous orchestra open with excerpts from "The Pathetic Symphony," the famous Pizzicato Ostinato from the Fourth Symphony, the beautiful strains of "None but the Weary Heart," and some typically Russian dances. The triumphant brass choral from "The Year 1812," depicting the victory of Russia over the retreating troops of Napoleon, close the compilation.

Unique effects in the orchestrating make these overtures at the Roxy, more than outstanding.

Nowicki's directing shows a keen sense of the immortal values of Tschaikowsky. The director works hard to "sell" this inspiration to the audience, and succeeds very well.

UP AND DOWN THE ALLEY

HELLO EVERYBODY!

Warner Brothers and RKO have both opened beautiful new houses in the past week. One is in Los Angeles and the other Albany. . . . The thing that will interest you is that Albert Hay Malotte is at the console of the Warner Western in L. A. and Ray Turner at the RKO Palace, Albany. . . . Anthony Morelli is conducting the Palace Grande Orchestra. . . . "Mack" is the organist at the Egyptian, North Platte, Neb.

* * *

Rudy Vallee has recently completed a new collegiate fox-trot song, which is made to order for the football season. . . . He has been featuring it a great deal over the air lately and it sounds plenty good. . . . Leo Feist, Inc., are the publishers. . . . It is a great singing number for you organist's to feature in your community sings. . . . Write Marie Adams or Nat Feist at the Special Service department of Feist's and they'll send you on the slides. . . . A lot of the boys are using "I Don't Know Why" and 'Guilty," both by Feist, and the audiences are singing them plenty. . . .

Dick Betts, featured organist, was hired for a week at the Capitol, Binghamton, N. Y., and proved such a draw that he is still being held over. . . . He is on his third week now and going greater than on his first. . . . Looks like he'll have a steady berth there. . . . Alice Redlund is broadcasting twice a day from the municipal organ (the largest Kimball in the country) at Minneapolis and is using Bob King's "Rocky Mountain Lullaby" as her theme song. . . . Dick Hartigan, who for seven years worked in Warner theatres in Troy, N. Y., is now the featured organist at RKO's new Plaza picture house in Schenectady, N. Y. . . . Dick is just across the street from Bettye Lee Taylor, organist at the RKO Proctors. . . . Joe Belle, w. k. music conductor, is putting on the overtures at the Proctors. . . .

* * *

Louis K. Sidney, production chief for the Loew circuit, has secured the services of Horace Heidt and his Californians as the feature of the stage presentation at the Capitol this week. . . . All the members of this great aggregation are native sons of the Golden State. . . . Not only that, but they all have the same Alma Mater—the University of California. . . . Clarence Leverenz, feature organist at the State, Kalamazoo, is not only continuing his duties at the theatre, but is also broadcasting twice a day over WKZO, on a wavelength of 590 K. . . . E. H. (Buddy) Morris, vice-president of Music Publishers Holding Corp. and general manager of M. Witmark & Sons, placed "Waitin' for a Call From You," in Dorothy Mackaill's forthcoming First National picture, "Safe in Hell." . . . Mr. Morris recently returned from the Coast studios, where he discussed music in relation to pictures, with studio heads. . . .

Three or four important changes in organist personnel will occur in the next week. . . .

(To be continued next week)

Ed Dawson.

Vaudeville Exchange Opens

The RKO Western Vaudeville Exchange has reorganized its club department and is connected with a nation-wide group of club offices operating out of New York. Amy Cox is manager of the Kansas City exchange.

THE RELEASE CHART

Productions are listed according to the names of distributors in order that the exhibitor may have a short-cut toward such information as he may need, as well as information on pictures that are coming. Features which are finished or are in work, but to which release dates have not been assigned, are listed in "Coming Attractions." Running times are those supplied by the distributors. Where they vary, the change is probably due to local censorship deletions. Dates are 1930, unless otherwise specified.

BIG 4 FILM CORPORATION

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Cyclone Kid	Buzz Barton	Oct. 28,'31
Flying Latnta	Wally Wales	Aug. 25,'31	60
Headin for Trouble	Bob Custer	Sept. 22,'31	60
Hell's Valley	Wally Wales	Mar. 18,'31	60
Red Fork Range	Wally Wales	Jan. 12,'31	60	Mar. 7,'31
Riders of the Cactus	Wally Wales	July 7,'31	60	July 25,'31
Sheer Luck	Ralston-Stuart	Feb. 7,'31	60	Mar. 9,'31
So This is Arizona	Wally Wales	Apr. 24,'31	60
Trapped	Stuart-Quartaro-Dean-Santschi	Apr. 14,'31	62

Coming Feature Attractions

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Big City Shadows			6 reels
Blazed Trails			6 reels
Dance Hall Kisses			6 reels
Desert Spawn			6 reels
Devils Decoy			6 reels
Diamond Mystery			6 reels
Guns and Saddles			6 reels
Hard Pan Gulch			6 reels
Highway Raiders			6 reels
Lure of the Range			6 reels
Mark of the Spur			6 reels
Midnight Prowlers			6 reels
Quick Trigger Lee	Bob Custer		6 reels
Railroad Mail Limited			6 reels
Rip Roaring Broncs			6 reels
Rio Grande Raiders			6 reels

COLUMBIA

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Avenger, The	Buck Jones	Mar. 8,'31	65	Mar. 28,'31
Border Law	Buck Jones-L. Tovar	Oct. 15,'31
Branded	Buck Jones	Sept. 1,'31	61
Dangerous Affair, A	Holt-Graves-Blane	Sept. 30,'31	77	Sept. 5,'31
Dirigible	Holt-Gray-Wray	Apr. 4,'31	93	Mar. 14,'31
Dreyfus Case, The	Cedric Hardwicke	Aug. 28,'31	92	May 2,'31
Fifty Fathoms Deep	Richard Cromwell-Jack Holt-Loretta Sayers	Aug. 17,'31	70	Sept. 26,'31
Fighting Sheriff, The	Buck Jones-Loretta Sayers	May 15,'31	61
Good Bad Girl, The	Mae Clark-James Hall	May 20,'31	73	May 23,'31
Last Parade, The	Holt-Moore-Cummings	Feb. 28,'31	80	Feb. 14,'31
Lightning Flyer, The	James Hall-D. Sebastian	Mar. 20,'31	84	Apr. 11,'31
Lover Come Back	Jack Mulhall-C. Cummings-B. Bronson	June 5,'31	63	June 20,'31
Man from Chicago	Bernard Nedell	Mar. 17,'31	65
Meet the Wife	Lew Cody & Laura La Plante	Apr. 17,'31	73	Apr. 4,'31
Men Are Like That (Arizona)	John Wayne-L. La Plante	June 27,'31	67	Aug. 22,'31
Middle Watch, The		Mar. 3,'31	65
Miracle Woman, The	Barbara Stanwyck	July 20,'31	87	Aug. 22,'31
Pagan Lady	Evelyn Brent-C. Bickford-C. Nagel	Sept. 8,'31	63	Sept. 26,'31
Platinum Blonde	Young-Harlow-R. Williams	Oct. 31,'31		Oct. 3,'31
Shanghaied Love	R. Cromwell-Blane-N. Beery	Sept. 20,'31
Sky Raiders, The	Lloyd Hughes-Marceline Day	May 15,'31	67
Subway Express	Holt-Kelsey-Pringle	May 1,'31	68	May 9,'31
Ten Cents a Dance	Barbara Stanwyck-Cortez	Mar. 6,'31	79	Mar. 19,'31
Texas Ranger, The	Buck Jones	Apr. 10,'31	61	Apr. 25,'31

Coming Feature Attractions

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Blonde Baby	Jean Harlow
Deadline	Buck Jones	Dec. 3,'31
Forbidden	B. Stanwyck-A. Menjou
Guilty Generation	Leo Carillo-C. Cummings-Leslie Fenton
In the Secret Service	Jack Holt
Men In Her Life, The	Lois Moran-Chas. Bickford
One Way Trail	Tim McCoy
Range Feud	Buck Jones	Dec. 1,'31	56	Oct. 3,'31
Ridin' For Justice	Buck Jones
Shopworn	Barbara Stanwyck
Shot Gun Pass	Tim McCoy
Unwanted	Lloyd Hughes-Dorothy Sebastian-Ian Keith
Yellow	Jack Holt - R. Cromwell

CONTINENTAL PICTURES CORP.

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Defenders of the Law	Catherine Dale Owen-Holland-Gleckler	May 1,'31	May	23,'31
Mystery Train, The	N. Stuart-M. Day-H. Hopper	Aug. 1,'31

Coming Feature Attractions

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Air Eagles			6 reels
Hellion's Last Cruise, The			6 reels
Rose of Chinatown			6 reels
Streets of Shadows			6 reels

FIRST NATIONAL

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Bargain, The	Lewis Stone-Doris Kenyon (Reviewed under title "You and I")	Sept. 5,'31	70	Apr. 18,'31
Big Business Girl	Loretta Young-Ricardo Cortez	July 4,'31	80	Mar. 14,'31
Broadminded	Joe E. Brown	Aug. 1,'31	72	Apr. 11,'31
Chances	Douglas Fairbanks, Jr.	July 18,'31	72	May 9,'31
Father's Son	Janney-Stone-Rich	Mar. 7,'31	77	Oct. 4
Finger Points, The	Barthelmess-Wray	Apr. 11,'31	88	Mar. 21,'31
Five Star Final	Edward G Robinson	Sept. 26,'31	89	June 27,'31
Honor of the Family	Bebe Daniels	Oct. 17,'31	66	Oct. 24,'31
Hot Heiress, The	Lyon-Munson	Mar. 28,'31	78	Jan. 24,'31
I Like Your Nerve	D. Fairbanks, Jr.-L. Young	Sept. 12,'31	70	Sept. 19,'31
Lady Who Dared	Billie Dove	May 29,'31	56
Last Flight	Richard Barthelmess	Aug. 29,'31	77	Sept. 12,'31
Misbehaving Ladies	Lee-Lyon	Apr. 18,'31	72	Mar. 14,'31
Men of the Sky	Irene Delroy-Jack Whiting	June 20,'31	86
Party Husband	Dorothy Mackaill	June 6,'31	68	Apr. 18,'31
Penrod and Sam	Leon Janney	Oct. 3,'31	71	Aug. 29,'31
Reckless Hour	Dorothy Mackaill-Conrad Nagel	Aug. 15,'31	72	May 2,'31
Ruling Voice, The	Huston-Young-Kenyon	Oct. 31,'31	76
Too Young to Marry	Young-Withers	May 8,'31	68	Nov. 29
Woman Hungry	Lee-Kohler-Blackmer	Apr. 4,'31	68	Mar. 28,'31

Coming Feature Attractions

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Alias the Doctor	Richard Barthelmess
Captain's Wife, The	Lil Dagover
Compromised	Ben Lyon-Rose Hobart	Dec. 5,'31	Sept.	12,'31
Fireman, Save My Child	Joe E. Brown
Her Majesty, Love	Marilyn Miller-Ben Lyon	Dec. 26,'31
Honorable Mr. Wong	Edw. G. Robinson
Local Boy Makes Good	Joe E. Brown	Nov. 21,'31	Oct.	3,'31
Safe In Hell	Dorothy Mackaill	Dec. 12,'31
Union Depot	D. Fairbanks,Jr.-J. Blondell	Nov. 28,'31

FOX FILMS

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Always Goodbye	Landi-Stone	May 24,'31	60	Apr. 25,'31
Annabelle's Affairs	McLaglen-MacDonald	June 14,'31	75	May 30,'31
Are You There?	Lillie-Garrick	May 3,'31	60	Nov. 29
Bad Girl	James Dunn-Sally Eilers	Sept. 13,'31	88	July 18,'31
Black Camel	Warner Oland-Eilers	June 21,'31	71	May 15,'31
Body and Soul	Farrell-Landi	Feb. 22,'31	82	Mar. 7,'31
Brat, The	Sally O'Neil-F. Albertson	Sept. 20,'31	67	July 25,'31
Charlie Chan Carries On	Oland-Churchill	Apr. 12,'31	69	Mar. 28,'31
Cisco Kid, The	Baxter-Lowe-Montenegro	Nov. 1,'31	61	Oct. 10,'31
Connecticut Yankee, A	Will Rogers	Apr. 5,'31	96	Mar. 21,'31
Daddy Long Legs	Gaynor-Baxter	June 7,'31	80	May 23,'31
Doctors' Wives	Baxter-Bennett	Mar. 15,'31	82	Apr. 4,'31
Fair Warning	O'Brien	Feb. 1,'31	62
Goldie	Harlow-S. Tracy-W. Hymer	June 28,'31	68	July 11,'31
Heartbreak	C. Farrell-H Albright	Nov. 8,'31	Oct.	10,'31
Holy Terror, A	George O'Brien-S. Ellers	July 19,'31	53	July 25,'31
Hush Money	J. Bennet - J. Kirkwood-Hardie Allbright	July 5,'31	69	June 13,'31
Man on Call	Edmund Lowe - Clarke	Jan. 18,'31	70	Mar. 7,'31
Merely Mary Ann	Gaynor-Farrell	Sept. 6,'31	75	Aug. 1,'31
Mr. Lemon of Orange	Brendel-Dorsay	Mar. 22,'31	67	Mar. 7,'31
Not Exactly Gentlemen	McLaglen-Wray-Cody-Gribbon	Mar. 8,'31	61	Apr. 11,'31
Quick Millions	Tracy-Churchill-Eilers	May 3,'31	70	Apr. 4,'31
Riders of the Purple Sage	G. O'Brien-M. Churchill	Oct. 18,'31	57	Sept. 19,'31
6 Cylinder Love	Spencer Tracey - Merkel (Reviewed under title "The Minute Man")	May 10,'31	70	Apr. 18,'31
Skyline	T. Meighan - H. Albright-Maureen O'Sullivan	Oct. 11,'31		Aug. 22,'31
Sob Sister	J. Dunn - Linda Watkins	Oct. 25,'31	71	Sept. 26,'31
Spider, The	Edmund Lowe-Lois Moran	Sept. 27,'31	60	Aug. 22,'31
Spy, The	Hamilton-Johnson	Apr. 26,'31	68
Their Mad Moment	Baxter-Mackaill-Pitts	July 12,'31	57
3 Girls Lost	Wayne-Young	Apr. 19,'31	71	Apr. 18,'31
Transatlantic	Edmund Lowe-Lois Moran	Aug. 30,'31	78	July 18,'31
Wicked	V. McLaglen-Elissa Landi	Oct. 4,'31	55	Aug. 8,'31
Women of All Nations	McLaglen-Lowe-Nissen	May 31,'31	72	May 30,'31
Yellow Ticket, The	Elissa Landi-L. Barrymore	Nov. 15,'31	76	Oct. 17,'31
Young As You Feel	Will Rogers-Dorsay	Aug. 23,'31	78	Apr. 18,'31
Young Sinners	Meighan-Jordan-Kirkwood	May 17,'31	70

Coming Feature Attractions

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Alimony Queens	Baxter-Bennett
Ambassador Bill	Will Rogers	Nov. 22,'31	Oct.	24,'31
Business and Pleasure	Will Rogers-Jetta Goudal
Charlie Chan's Chance	Warner Oland
Circumstances	Violet Heming - Paul Cavanaugh
Dance Team	James Dunn - Sally Eilers
Delicious	Gaynor-Farrell	Dec. 27,'31
Devil's Lottery	Sally Filers - C. Farrell
Disorderly Conduct	Ralph Bellamy-Spencer Tracy
First Cabin	Ralph Morgan-Sally O'Neil
Good Sport	Linda Watkins-John Boles	Dec. 13,'31
Heart Free (Tent.)	Janet Gaynor
Over the Hill	Dunn-Eilers-Marsh-Crandall-Kirkwood-Lane	Nov. 29,'31
Rainbow Trail	Geo. O'Brien-Cecilia Parker
She Wanted a Millionaire	J. Bennett-S. Tracy
Stepping Sisters	Louise Dresser-M. Rambeau
Surrender	Warner Baxter-Lelia Hyams	Dec. 6,'31
Swindle	Spencer Tracy-J. Kirkwood
While Paris Sleeps	McLaglan-Helen Mack
Widow's Might	Warner Baxter
Young America	Maureen O'Sullivan

METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Cuban Love Song, The	L. Tibbett-L. Velez	Oct. 31,'31	Oct.	24,'31
Daybreak	Ramon Novarro	May 2,'31	76	Apr. 18,'31
Easiest Way, The	Bennett-Menjou-Montgomery	Feb. 7,'31	73
Five and Ten	Marion Davies	June 13,'31	89	June 13,'31
Free Soul, A	Norma Shearer-Leslie Howard	June 20,'31	92	Apr. 25,'31
Gentleman's Fate	Gilbert-Wolheim	Mar. 7,'31	93	Jan. 31,'31
Great Lover, The	A. Menjou	July 18,'31	71	July 4,'31
Guardsman, The	Lunt-Fontanne-Z. Pitts	Dec. 19,'31	81	Aug. 8,'31
Guilty Hands	L. Barrymore-M. Evans	Aug. 22,'31	68	July 18,'31
It's a Wise Child	Marion Davies	Mar. 21,'31	75	Feb. 28,'31
Just a Gigolo	William Haines (Reviewed under title "Dancing Partner")	June 6,'31	67	Apr. 25,'31
Laughing Sinners	J. Crawford-N. Hamilton	May 30,'31	72	June 6,'31

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Man in Possession, The	Robert Montgomery	July	4,'31 84	June 13,'31
Men Call It Love	Hyams-Menjou-Duncan-Foster	Mar.	14,'31 71	Feb. 28,'31
Never the Twain Shall Meet	Montenegro-Smith-Howard	May	16,'31 80	May 30,'31
New Adventures of Get Rich Quick Wallingford, The	Wm. Haines	Oct.	3,'31 94	Sept. 19,'31
Pardon Us	Laurel-Hardy	Aug.	15,'31 55	Aug. 29,'31
Phantom of Paris, The	John Gilbert-Leila Hyams	Sept.	12,'31 74
Politics	Dressler-Moran	July	25,'31 73	July 4,'31
Prodigal, The (Reviewed under title "The Southerner")	Lawrence Tibbett	Feb.	21,'31 83	Jan. 17,'31
Secret Six, The	Beery-Harlow	Apr.	18,'31 83	Apr. 25,'31
Shipmates	Montgomery-Jordan-Torrence	Apr.	25,'31 72	Mar. 28,'31
Son of India	Ramon Novarro	Aug.	1,'31 73	Aug. 1,'31
Sidewalks of New York	Buster Keaton	Sept.	26,'31 71	Aug. 15,'31
Sin of Madelon Claudet, The (Reviewed under title "The Lullaby")	Helen Hayes-Lewis Stone	Oct.	24,'31	Oct. 3,'31
Sporting Blood	Clark Gable-M. Evans	Aug.	8,'31 84	July 18,'31
Squaw Man, The	Roland Young-Valez-Baxter	Sept.	5,'31 106
Stepping Out	Denny-Greenwood-Hyams	Apr.	11,'31 73	Mar. 21,'31
Strangers May Kiss	Norma Shearer	Apr.	4,'31 77	Feb. 28,'31
Susan Lenox, Her Fall and Rise	Greta Garbo-Clark Gable	Oct.	10,'31	July 18,'31
Tailor Made Man, A	William Haines	Mar.	28,'31 80	Mar. 7,'31
This Modern Age	Joan Crawford	Aug.	29,'31 68	June 13,'31

Coming Feature Attractions

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Boarding School	Madge Evans-Jordan-Page
Champ, The	Wallace Beery-Jackie Cooper	Nov.	7,'31	Oct. 17,'31
Courage	Robert Montgomery
Emma	Marie Dressler	Jan.	2,'32
Family Affair, A	Robert Montgomery			Oct. 24,'31
Flying High	Bert Lahr	Nov.	14,'31
Freaks
Grand Hotel
Hell Divers	Beery-Rambeau	Dec.	5,'31
Her Cardboard Lover
Mati Hari	Greta Garbo-R. Navarro	Dec.	26,'31
Possessed	Joan Crawford-Clark Gable	Nov.	21,'31
Private Lives	N. Shearer-R. Montgomery	Nov.	28,'31
Sky Scraper	Madge Evans - Robt. Young
West of Broadway	J. Gilbert-Brendel-L. Moran	Dec.	12,'31	Aug. 22,'31

MONOGRAM PICTURES CORPORATION

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Dugan of the Badlands	Bill Cody	June	27,'31 60	Aug. 8,'31
In Line of Duty	Sue Carol-Noah Beery	Oct.	1,'31 64	Oct. 10,'31
Land of Wanted Men	Bill Cody	Oct.	30,'31
Man from Death Valley, The	Tom Tyler	Sept.	1,'31 62
Montana Kid, The	Bill Cody	Aug.	10,'31 60
Mother and Son	Clara K. Young	Aug.	1,'31 60	Aug. 22,'31
Oklahoma Jim	Bill Cody	Oct.	10,'31 60
Partners of the Trail	Tom Tyler	July	11,'31 64	Sept. 5,'31
Ships of Hate	L. Hughes-D. Sebastian	June	20,'31 65	Aug. 8,'31
Two Fisted Justice	Tom Tyler	Oct.	20,'31

Coming Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Forgotten Women	M. Shilling-Rex Bell	Nov.	10,'31 7 reels
Law of the Sea	All Star	Nov.	15,'31 7 reels

PARAMOUNT PUBLIX

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
An American Tragedy	Phillips Holmes-Sylvia Sidney-Frances Dee	Aug.	22,'31 95	June 6,'31
Beloved Bachelor	Paul Lukas-D. Jordan	Oct.	24,'31 74	Oct. 3,'31
Caught	Richard Arlen-L. Dresser	Aug.	8,'31 68	July 4,'31
City Streets	Sylvia Sidney-Gary Cooper	Apr.	18,'31 80	Apr. 11,'31
Confessions of a Co-Ed	P. Holmes-Sylvia Sidney	July	11,'31 75
Conquering Horde, The	Arlen-Wray	Mar.	7,'31 72	Feb. 21,'31
Daughter of the Dragon	Warner Oland-Anna May Wong	Sept.	5,'31 79	Aug. 8,'31
Dude Ranch, The	Jack Oakie	May	16,'31 67	Apr. 18,'31
Fighting Caravans	Cooper-Damita	Feb.	14,'31 91	Feb. 7,'31
Girl Habit, The	Charles Ruggles	June	27,'31 77	July 11,'31
Girls About Town	Kay Francis-L. Tashman	Oct.	3,'31	Oct. 17,'31
Gun Smoke	Arlen-Brian	Apr.	11,'31 64	Mar. 14,'31
Honeymoon Lane	Eddie Dowling	July	25,'31 71	July 11,'31
Honor Among Lovers	Colbert-March-Ruggles	Mar.	21,'31 75	Mar. 7,'31
Huckleberry Finn	J. Coogan-Mitzi Green	Aug.	15,'31 80	Aug. 1,'31
I Take This Woman	Gary Cooper-Carole Lombard	June	27,'31 74
June Moon	Jack Oakie-Frances Dee	Mar.	21,'31 70	Feb. 28,'31
Kick In	Clara Bow	May	23,'31 74	Apr. 25,'31
Ladies' Man	Wm. Powell-Kay Francis	May	9,'31 75	Apr. 4,'31
Lawyers' Secret, The	Clive Brook	June	6,'31 63	May 23,'31
Mad Parade	E. Brent-L. Tashman	Oct.	3,'31 64	May 12,'31
Magnificent Lie	Ruth Chatterton	July	25,'31 79	July 25,'31
Man of the World	Wm. Powell-Lombard	Mar.	28,'31 70	Mar. 7,'31
Monkey Business	Four Marx Bros.	Sept.	19,'31 77	Aug. 1,'31
Murder by the Clock	Wm. Boyd-L. Tashman	Aug.	8,'31 74	July 4,'31
My Sin	Tallulah Bankhead-March	Oct.	3,'31 78	Sept. 19,'31
Newly Rich (Also booked as "Forbidden Adventure")	Mitzi Green-Jackie Searl	June	20,'31 77	June 6,'31
Night Angel	Nancy Carroll-Fred March	July	18,'31 71	July 11,'31
No Limit	Clara Bow	Jan.	24,'31 72
Once a Lady	Ruth Chatterton	Nov.	7,'31	Oct. 17,'31
Personal Maid	Nancy Carroll	Sept.	12,'31 77	Sept. 12,'31
Rango		Mar.	7,'31 64	Jan. 24,'31
Road to Reno	Charles Rogers	Oct.	17,'31 73	Sept. 5,'31
Scandal Sheet, The	Bancroft-Brook-Francis	Feb.	7,'31 73	Dec. 20
Secret Call, The	Peggy Shannon-Richard Arlen	July	25,'31 73
Secrets of a Secretary	Colbert	Sept.	5,'31 75
Silence	Clive Brook-Peggy Shannon	Aug.	29,'31 68	July 25,'31
Skippy	Mitzi Green-Jackie Searl-Jackie Cooper	Apr.	25,'31 86	Mar. 21,'31
Smiling Lieutenant, The	M. Chevalier-C. Colbert	Aug.	1,'31 89	July 11,'31
Tabu	South Sea Island natives and Chinese half castes	Aug.	1,'31 81	Mar. 21,'31
Tarnished Lady	C. Brook-Tallulah Bankhead	May	2,'31 80	May 9,'31
Twenty-Four Hours	C. Brook-Kay Francis	Oct.	10,'31 68	Sept. 12,'31
Unfaithful	Chatterton-Lukas	Mar.	14,'31 85	Feb. 28,'31
Up Pops the Devil	N. Foster-Carole Lombard	May	30,'31 75
Vice Squad	Lukas-Francis	June	13,'31 70	May 9,'31
Women Love Once	Lucas-Boardman-Tashman	July	4,'31 73	July 4,'31

Coming Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Cheat, The	T. Bankhead	Nov.	28,'31
Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde	Fredric March-M. Hopkins	Jan.	2,'32
Evenings for Sale	Paul Lukas	Jan.	30,'32
False Madonna, The	Kay Francis-Wm. Boyd	Dec.	19,'31
Goose Hangs High, The	P. Shannon-C. Rogers
Her Confession (Tent.)	C. Colbert-Wm. Boyd	Jan.	23,'32
His Woman	G. Cooper-C. Colbert	Nov.	21,'31
Husband's Holiday	Clive Brook - V. Osborne	Dec.	5,'31
Ladies of the Big House	Sylvia Sidney-Wynne Gibson	Dec.	19,'31
Man I Killed, The	Lionel Barrymore-Nancy Carrol-Phillips Holmes	Nov.	28,'31
No One Man	R. Arlen-C. Lombard	Jan.	30,'32
One Hour With You	Maurice Chevalier
Rich Man's Folly	G. Bancroft-Kay Francis	Nov.	14,'31
Second Chances (Tent.)	Buddy Rogers Peggy Shannon	Jan.	9,'32
Shanghai Express	Marlene Dietrich-C. Brook	Jan.	16,'32
Ship Shape (Tent.)	Jack Oakie, Mitzi Green, Wynne Gibson	Jan.	30,'32
Spooky	Jackie Cooper - Robt. Coogan-J. Searl	Dec.	26,'31
Through the Window	G. Bancroft-E. Beardman
Touchdown	R. Arlen-C. Starrett-J. Oakie	Nov.	14,'31
Two Kinds of Women	P. Holmes-M. Hopkins	Jan.	30,'32
Uncertain Women	C. Colbert-Wm. Boyd	Jan.	23,'32
Wayward	Nancy Carroll - Phillips Holmes	Jan.	9,'32
Woman Against Woman	Tallulah Bankhead
Working Girls	P. Shannon-S. Erwin-Buddy Rogers	Dec.	12,'31

PEERLESS PRODUCTIONS, INC.

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Lovebound	Loy-Forbes-Bronson	Oct.	20,'31
Sea Ghost, The	L. La Plante-Alan Hale	Sept.	20,'31
Sporting Chance, The	Wm. Collier, Jr.-Claudia Dell-James Hall	Oct.	10,'31

RADIO PICTURES

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Behind Office Doors (Reviewed under title "Private Secretary")	Astor-Ames-Cortez	Mar.	15,'31 82	Jan. 31,'31
Caught Plastered (Reviewed under the title "Full of Notions")	Wheeler-Woolsey-D. Lee	Sept.	5,'31 68	June 27,'31
Consolation Marriage	Irene Dunn-Pat O'Brien	Nov.	1,'31 81	Sept. 5,'31
Donovan's Kid	Richard Dix-Shilling-Sheridan-Jackie Cooper	June	6,'31 77	May 9,'31
Everything's Rosie	Robert Woolsey-Anita Louise	June	13,'31 76	May 9,'31
Fanny Foley Herself	Edna May Oliver	Oct.	10,'31 72	Aug. 15,'31
Friends and Lovers	Lily Damita-Adolph Menjou-Eric Von Stroheim	Oct.	3,'31 68	Aug. 15,'31
Gay Diplomat, The (Reviewed under the title "Woman Pursued")	G. Tobin-B. Compson-I. Lebedeff	Sept.	19,'31 67	Aug. 1,'31
High Stakes	Lowell Sherman-Mae Murray	Aug.	18,'31 69	May 9,'31
Lady Refuses, The	Betty Compson-John Darrow	Mar.	8,'31 72
Laugh and Get Rich	Edna May Oliver-Dorothy Lee	Apr.	20,'31 72	Mar. 7,'31
Perfect Alibi	All Star	Apr.	1,'31 76
Public Defender, The	Richard Dix	Aug.	1,'31 70
Runaround, The (Reviewed under the title "Waiting at the Church")	Kerr, Prevost, Brian, Hines	Aug.	22,'31 68	May 9,'31
Sin Ship, The	Wolheim-Mary Astor-Ian Keith	Apr.	18,'31 65
Smart Woman	Mary Astor-Rob't Ames	Sept.	26,'31 68	Aug. 1,'31
Three Who Loved	B. Compson-R. Ames-C. Nagel	July	3,'31 78	June 13,'31
Too Many Cooks	Bert Wheeler-Dorothy Lee	July	18,'31 77	Aug. 22,'31
Transgression	Kay Francis-Ricardo Cortez	June	27,'31 69
Traveling Husbands	Evelyn Brent	Aug.	15,'31 74	May 2,'31
White Shoulders	Astor-Cortez-Holt	June	6,'31 81	May 30,'31
W. Plan, The	All Star	Mar.	15,'31 98	Apr. 4,'31
Women Between, The	Lily Damita-Lester Vail	Aug.	8,'31 73	Apr. 25,'31

Coming Feature Attractions

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Are These Our Children?	Eric Linden-Rochelle Hudson-Arlene Judge	Nov.	14,'31 83	Oct. 17,'31
Dove, The	Dolores Del Rio-Leo Carillo
Exposed	Mary Aster-Ricardo Cortez
Frontier	Dix-Dunne
Girl Crazy	Wheeler-Lee-Woolsey
Hullabaloo	Mary Astor
Ladies of the Jury	Edna May Oliver
Lost Squadron, The	Richard Dix
Other Passport, The	Irene Dunn
Peach O' Reno	Woolsey-Wheeler
Secret Service	Dix - Shirley Grey	Nov.	14,'31 68	Oct. 10,'31
Should Wives Work	Mary Astor-Rob't Ames
Way Back Home (Reviewed under the title "Other People's Business")	Phillips 'Seth Parker" Lord	Nov.	13,'31 81	Oct. 3,'31

RKO PATHE

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Bad Company	Helen Twelvetrees	Oct.	2,'31 75	Sept. 12,'31
Beyond Victory	Boyd	Apr.	12,'31 73	Apr. 18,'31
Big Gamble, The	Bill Boyd	Sept.	4,'31 63	Sept. 26,'31
Born to Love	Constance Bennett	Apr.	17,'31 99
Common Law	Constance Bennett	July	24,'31 77	July 25,'31
Devotion	Ann Harding	Sept.	25,'31 84	Sept. 26,'31
Freighters of Destiny	Tom Keene	Oct.	30,'31
Lonely Wives	Horton-Ralston-LaPlante Miller	Feb.	22,'31 92	Jan. 24,'31
Painted Desert	Boyd-Twelvetrees	Jan.	18,'31 85	Jan. 17,'31
Rebound	Ina Claire	Sept.	18,'31 91	June 13,'31
Sundown Trail	Tom Keene-M. Shilling	Sept.	11,'31 55	Oct. 24,'31
Sweepstakes	Eddie Quillan-Marion Nixon	July	10,'31 77	June 13,'31
Tip Off, The	E. Quillan-R. Armstrong	Oct.	16,'31
Woman of Experience	Helen Twelvetrees	Aug.	7,'31 76	Apr. 25,'31

Coming Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Big Shot, The	Eddie Quillan	Dec.	18,'31
Lady with a Past	Constance Bennett	Nov.	6,'31
Pick Up	Helen Twelvetrees
Prestige	Ann Harding
Suicide Fleet, The	Boyd-Armstrong-Gleason	Nov.	6,'31
Timber Beast	Bill Boyd	Jan.	22,'32
Woman Commands	Pola Negri
Women Need Love	Ann Harding

SONO ART-WORLD WIDE

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Air Police	Kenneth Harlan-J. Dunn	Apr.	1,'31 60	Mar. 21,'31
First Aid	Gr. Withers-Marjorie Beebe	July	25,'31 65
Hell Bent for 'Frisco	Delaney-Reynolds	July	10,'31 65	July 18,'31
In Old Cheyenne	Rex Lease-Dorothy Gulliver	May	25,'31 62	June 20,'31
Is There Justice?	Rex Lease, Walthall, Blanche Mehaffey	Oct.	4,'31 62	Oct. 3,'31
Mounted Fury	J. Bowers-Blanche Mehaffey	Dec.	4,'31 65
Neck and Neck	Glenn Tryon-Vera Reynolds	Nov.	4,'31 63
Symphony in Two Flats	Novello-Logan	Apr.	15,'31 74
Swanee River	Withers-Todd	Mar.	15,'31 56	Jan. 31,'31

STATE RIGHTS

Features

Title	Star	Dist'r	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Alibi	Austin Trevor	Gaumont-W & F		74	May 30,'31
Alice in Wonderland	Ruth Gilbert	Unique Foto Film	Sept. 30,'31	55	Sept. 26,'31
Almost a Divorce	Nelson Keys	Gaumont-W & F		60	Sept. 19,'31
Black Coffee	Austin Trevor	Twickenham Films, Ltd.		79	Sept. 12,'31
Cain and Artem	Emil Gall	Sovkino
Chance of a Night Time	Ralph Lynn	Gaumont-W & F			June 13,'31

Title	Star	Dist'r	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Clearing the Range	H. Gibson-S. Ellers	M. H. Hoffman, Jr.	Apr.		25,'31
Convicted	Aileen Pringle	Artclass Pictures	Oct.		3,'31
Das Cabinet Des Dr. Lari Fari		George Schneider
Das Rheinlandmaedel	Greti Berndt	Capitol	Sept. 17,'31	70	Sept. 26,'31
Deadlock	Stewart Rome	Butchers Film Service		85	Sept. 26,'31
Der Grosse Tenor	Emil Jannings	Ufa Film			June 6,'31
Die Foerster Christl	Irene Eisinger	Trans-Ocean Film		94	July 4,'31
Dolly Gets Ahead	Dolly Haas	Ufa Film	July 17,'31	94	Aug. 1,'31
Express 13	Heinz Koenecke	Ufa	Aug. 7,'31	65	Aug. 22,'31
Flute Concert of Sanssouci	Otto Gebuehr	Ufa	Oct. 16,'31	82	Oct. 24,'31
Enemies of the Law	M. Nolan-J. Walker	Capital Films	July 21,'31	69	July 18,'31
Glamour	Wardour Films	Seymour Hicks		73	July 4,'31
Ghost Train, The	Jack Hulbert	Gainsborough-Gaumont		70	Oct. 10,'31
Great Passion, The	Camilla Horn	Tobis	Oct. 7,'31	90	Oct. 24,'31
Grief Street	Jean Royce	Chesterfield		65	Oct. 24,'31
Hard Hombre	Hoot Gibson	Allied Pictures			Aug. 22,'31
Hindle Wakes	Belle Chrystall	Gaumont-Gainsborough		79	Oct. 10,'31
Hobson's Choice	Viola Lyel	British Int'n't'l.		65	Oct. 24,'31
Inn at the Rhine, The	Kaethe Dorsch	Associated Cinemas of America	Sept. 23,'31	90	Oct. 17,'31
Jew at War, A	Venimin Zuskin	Ukrainfilm		71	Aug. 1,'31
Karamazov	Fritz Kortner	Tobis Forenfilm	Sept. 18,'31	81	Oct. 10,'31
Lawless Woman, The	Vera Reynolds	Chesterfield	June 15,'31	63	July 4,'31
Let's Love and Laugh	Gene Gerrard	Wardour Film		84	May 30,'31
Lightnin' Smith Returns	Buddy Roosevelt	Standard	Aug. 15,'31	59	Aug. 22,'31
Love Storm, The	Fay Compton	British Int'n't'l.	Oct. 16,'31	62	Oct. 24,'31
Love Waltz, The	Willy Fritsch	Ufa Film	May 15,'31
Maciste in Hell	Bartolomeo Pagano	Excelsior Pictures Corp.			July 11,'31
Mad Parade, The	M. Day-L. Fazenda	Liberty Prod.			May 2,'31
Merry Wives of Vienna	Willy Forst	Super Films	July 9,'31	95	July 18,'31
Mysteries of Nature		Ufa		71
Naples and Sorrento		Italian Star Film Prod.		78
Night Life in Reno	Virginia Valli	Artclass Pictures Corp.			Aug. 8,'31
No Lady	Lupino Lane	Gaumont-British		72	May 30,'31
Pagliacci	Italian Opera	Audio Cinema			Mar. 7,'31
Pueblo Terror	Buffalo Bill, Jr.	West Coast Studios	Apr. 15,'31	60	Apr. 11,'31
Punpet, The	Max Hansen			8 reels
Queen of Sparta, The		Italafilm		9 reels
Queen's Necklace		Protex		9 reels
Road to Hell		Public Welfare Films			July 4,'31
Sally in Our Alley	Gracie Fields	Ass. Radio Pictures		77	July 25,'31
Shadow Between, The	Kathleen O'Regan-Godirey Tearle	British Int'nat'l.		88	Sept. 19,'31
Sherlock Holmes' Fatal Hour	Arthur Wontner	First Division			July 18,'31
Smoke Bellew	Conway Tearle	First Division		73
Student Days	Anita Dorris-Fred Louis Lerch	Heinz Paul	Apr. 27,'31
Student's Song of Heidelberg	Willy Forst-Betty Bird	Ufa			Sept. 19,'31
Ten Nights in a Barroom		Goetz		8 reels
Terror by Night	Una Merkel, Wm. Collier, Jr.	J. G. Bachman			Oct. 17,'31.
These Charming People	Cyril Maude	Para. Film Service, Ltd.		85	Aug. 8,'31
Three from Filling Station	Willy Fritsch	Ufa		75	July 4,'31
Tilly of Bloomsbury	Sydney Howard	Sterling			May 16,'31
Up for the Cup	John W. Entwhistle	Gaumont-British			Oct. 10,'31
Viking, The	C. Starrett	J. D. Williams		72	June 20,'31
Wild Horse	Hoot Gibson	Allied Pictures			July 11,'31
Women Men Marry	Harlan-Blaine	Headline Pic.		69	Mar. 7,'31

SERIALS

NAT LEVINE

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time	Reviewed
Eagle's Shadow, The			12 episodes
Galloping Ghost, The	Harold Red Grange	Sept. 1,'31	12 episodes
Lightning Warrior, The	Rin Tin Tin		12 episodes
Vanishing Legion, The	Harry Carey-Edwin Booth	June 10,'31	12 episodes	July 25,'31

SYNDICATE PICTURES CORPORATION

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time	Reviewed
Mystery Trooper, The	Robt. Frazer-B. Mehaffy	Apr. 1,'31	10 episodes

UNIVERSAL

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time	Reviewed
Battling with Buffalo Bill	Tom Tyler-Rex Bell	Nov. 28,'31	12 episodes	Oct. 3,'31
Danger Island	Ken. Harlan-Lucille Brown	Aug. 24,'31	12 episodes	Aug. 1,'31
Fingerprints	Kenneth Harlan	Mar. 23,'31	10 episodes	Dec. 20
Heroes of the Flames	Tim McCoy	June 2,'31	12 episodes
Spell of the Circus	F. Bushman, Jr.-A. Vaughn	Jan. 12,'31	10 episodes

SYNDICATE PICTURES CORPORATION

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time	Reviewed
God's Country and the Man	Tom Tyler	May 1,'31	67
Law of the Rio Grande	Bob Custer	July 20,'31	58	Aug. 15,'31
Riders of the North	Bob Custer	Mar. 1,'31	67	Apr. 11,'31
Rider of the Plains, A	Tom Tyler	Apr. 1,'31	61	May 9,'31
Son of the Plains, A	Bob Custer	May 15,'31	60	July 11,'31

TIFFANY

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time	Reviewed
Alias the Bad Man	Ken Maynard	July 15,'31	66	Aug. 15,'31
Aloha	Torres-Lyon	Feb. 16,'31	87
Arizona Terror, The	Ken Maynard	Sept. 1,'31	64	Oct. 17,'3
Command Performance, The	Hamilton-Merkel	Jan. 16,'31	79
Leftover Ladies	Claudia Dell-M. Rambeau	Oct. 1,'31	70	Oct. 3,'31
Morals for Women	Bessie Love	Oct. 25,'31	70
Murder at Midnite	Alice White-Hale Hamilton	Sept. 1,'31	69	Oct. 10,'31
Near the Trail's End	Bob Steele	Sept. 20,'31
Nevada Buckaroo	Bob Steele	Sept. 27,'31
Range Law	Ken Maynard	Oct. 11,'31
Riding Fool	Bob Steele	May 25,'31	64	June 20,'31
Salvation Nell	Graves-Chandler	July 1,'31	85	July 11,'31
South of Santa Fe	Bob Steele	Sept. 15,'31
Sunrise Trail, The	Bob Steele	Feb. 7,'31	67
Two Gun Man, The	Ken Maynard	May 15,'31	63	June 13,'31
Women Go on Forever	Clara Kimball Young	Aug. 15,'31	78	July 18,'31

Coming Feature Attractions

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time	Reviewed
Branded Men	Ken Maynard	Nov. 8,'31
Fighting Mad	Ken Maynard	Dec. 6,'31
Hotel Continental		Jan. 17,'32
Last Mile, The		Dec. 13,'31
Luxury Girls		Mar. 30,'32
Race Track	Lee Carrillo	Nov. 1,'31
Riders of the West	Bob Steele
Silent Thunder		Apr. 17,'32
Strangers of the Evening		Apr. 31,'32
Sunset Trail	Ken Maynard	Jan. 3,'32
Those We Love		Feb. 14,'32
X Marks the Spot	Lew Cody-Sally Blane	Dec. 27,'31

UNITED ARTISTS

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time	Reviewed
Age for Love, The	Billie Dove	Oct. 17,'31		Aug. 29,'31
Front Page	Adolphe Menjou	Apr. 4,'31	90	Mar. 28,'31
Indiscreet	Gloria Swanson	Apr. 25,'31	94	Mar. 14,'31
Kiki	Mary Pickford	Mar. 14,'31	89	Feb. 21,'31
Palmy Days	Eddie Cantor	Oct. 3,'31	80	Sept. 5,'31
Street Scene	S. Sidney-W. Collier, Jr.	Sept. 5,'31	80	Aug. 22,'31
Unholy Garden, The	Ronald Colman	Oct. 10,'31	75	Aug. 8,'31

Coming Feature Attractions

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time	Reviewed
Arrowsmith	Ronald Colman	Dec. 26,'31
Cock of the Air	Billie Dove-Chester Morris	Oct. 7,'31
Corsair	Chester Morris	Oct. 28,'31
Greeks Had a Word for It	Ina Claire-M. Evans-Blondell	Feb. 13,'31
Scarface	Paul Muni	Nov. 28,'31
Sky Devils	All Star	Jan. 9,'32
Struggle, The	Zita Johann-Hal Skelly	Nov. 14,'31
Tonight or Never	Gloria Swanson	Dec. 12,'31

UNIVERSAL

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time	Reviewed
Bad Sister	Nagel-Fox-Davis	Mar. 23,'31	67	Mar. 14,'31
East of Borneo	Rose Hobart-Chas. Bickford	Sept. 15,'31	74	Oct. 3,'31
Ex-Bad Boy	R. Armstrong-Jean Arthur	July 15,'31	66
Graft	Regis Toomey-Sue Carol	Sept. 21,'31	54	Aug. 15,'31
Homicide Squad	L. Carrillo-M. Brian-N. Beery	Sept. 29,'31	69	Aug. 1,'31
Iron Man, The	Lew Ayres	Apr. 30,'31	72	Mar. 28,'31
Lasca of the Rio Grande	Leo Carillo	Oct. 27,'31	65	July 25,'31
Many a Slip	Ayres-Bennett	Mar. 2,'31	74	Feb. 28,'31
Mother's Millions	May Robson	Aug. 15,'31	93	Feb. 28,'31
Mystery of Life	Clarence Darrow	Aug. 3,'31	73	July 11,'31
Reckless Living	Mae Clarke-Norman Foster	Oct. 20,'31	68	Sept. 12,'31
Seed	John Boles-Genevieve Tobin	May 11,'31	67	Apr. 25,'31
Spirit of Notre Dame	Lew Ayres	Oct. 13,'31	78	Sept. 26,'31
Strictly Dishonorable	Paul Lukas-Sidney Fox
Up for Murder	Ayres-Tobin
Waterloo Bridge	Mae Clarke-Kent Douglass	June 15,'31	70
		Sept. 1,'31	81	Aug. 8,'31

Coming Feature Attractions

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time	Reviewed
Back Street	Rose Hobart
Blue Blazes
Cohens & Kellys in Hollywood	G. Sidney - C. Murray
Destry Rides Again	Tom Mix
Eagles	Lew Ayres
Fate
Frankenstein	Colin Clive-Mae Clarke	Nov. 21,'31
Gallows	Lew Ayres-Rose Hobart
Heaven on Earth	Lew Ayres-Anita Louise	Nov. 28,'31	90	Oct. 3,'31
Impatient Maiden	Sidney Fox
Lady of Resource	Rose Hobart
Law and Order	Walter Huston-Lois Wilson
Marriage Interlude	John Boles, Lois Wilson, Sidney Fox
Murders in the Rue Morgue	Bela Lugosi
Nice Women	Sidney Fox-Frances Dee
Oh, Promise Me
Pudge
Woman Breaker, The	Slim Summerville-Zazu Pitts
	W. Huston-H. Chandler	Nov. 14,'31

WARNER BROTHERS

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time	Reviewed
Alexander Hamilton	George Arliss	Sept. 12,'31	71	June 13,'31
Beggars Opera, The	Rudolph Forster	June '31	114
Bought	Constance Bennett-Ben Lyon	Aug. 22,'31	83	July 18,'31
Captain Thunder	F. Wray-V. Varconi	Apr. 26,'31	67	May 16,'31
Children of Dreams	Margot Schilling	July 25,'31	83	July 25,'31
Expensive Women	Dolores Costello	Oct. 24,'31
Fifty Million Frenchmen	W. Gaxton-H. Broderick	Feb. 14,'31	74	Jan. 3,'31
God's Gift to Women	Fay-LaPlante	Apr. 25,'31	75	Mar. 14,'31
Gold Dust Gertie	Winnie Lightner	June 27,'31	68	May 9,'31
Maltese Falcon, The	Bebe Daniels-R. Cortez	June 13,'31	80	Apr. 18,'31
Mad Genius, The	John Barrymore-M. Marsh	Nov. 7,'31	81
Millionaire, The	George Arliss	May 1,'31	81	Mar. 14,'31
My Past	Daniels-Lyon	Mar. 14,'31	74	Dec. 20
	(Reviewed under title "Ex-Mistress")
Night Nurse	Barbara Stanwyck	Aug. 8,'31	73	July 25,'31
Public Enemy, The	Harlow-Cagney	May 15,'31	96
Road to Singapore, The	Wm. Powell-M. Marsh-Kenyon	Oct. 10,'31	70	Aug. 1,'31
Side Show	Lightner-Butterworth	Sept. 19,'31	66	July 4,'31
Smart Money	Edw. G. Robinson	July 11,'31	81	May 16,'31
Star Witness, The	Walter Huston	Aug. 22,'31	68	July 25,'31
Svengali	John Barrymore-M. Marsh	May 22,'31	83	May 9,'31

Coming Feature Attractions

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time	Reviewed
High Pressure	Wm. Powell
Blonde Crazy	James Cagney-J. Blondell	Nov. 18,'31	75	Aug. 22,'31
Manhattan Parade	W. Lightner-Butterworth
Man Who Played God	George Arliss
Shadows on the Wall	Kay Francis	Dec. 12,'31
Taxi!	James Cagney-Loretta Young	Jan. 9,'32
Under Eighteen	Marian Marsh-Anita Page	Dec. 31,'31

SHORT FILMS

[All dates are 1931]

BIG FOUR

Title	Rel. Date	Minutes Running Time	Reviewed
JAMISON-MURDOCK
Radio Razzberry, A	Feb. 7	25
Wages of Gin, The	Apr. 28	25

COLUMBIA

Title	Rel. Date	Minutes Running Time	Reviewed
CURIOSITIES
C 216 — Novelty by Walter Futter		1 reel
C 218	Feb. 9	1 reel
C 219	Feb. 29	1 reel
C 220	Mar. 26	1 reel
C 221	May 25	1 reel
C 222	June 25	1 reel
C 223	June 26	1 reel
C 224	Aug. 1	1 reel
C 225	Aug. 29	1 reel
C 226	Sept. 4	1 reel
C 227	Sept. 30	1 reel
C 228	Sept. 30	1 reel
EDDIE BUZZELL SPECIALTIES
Blond Pressure
Call of the North
Check and Rubber Check	Mar. 13	1 reel
Chris Crossed	Aug. 3	1 reel	Oct. 10
I Can't Find a Name for it		9
Kings or Better	May 1	8	May 30
Last of Moe Higgins	May 22	1 reel
Lone Star Stranger	Dec. 27	1 reel	Feb. 7
Red Men Tell No Tales
Soldier of Misfortune
Wine, Women But No Song	Feb. 14	1 reel
KRAZY KAT KARTOONS
Bars and Stripes
Disarmament Conference	Apr. 27
Soda Poppa	May 29
Stork Market, The	July 11	7
Svengarlic	Aug. 3
Swiss Movements	Apr. 4
Weenie Roast, The	Sept. 14
MEDBURY SERIES
Laughing with Medbury in Africa		9	Apr. 25
Laughing with Medbury in Reno	July 6	10
Laughing with Medbury in Turkey
Laughing with Medbury in Death Valley			Oct. 17
MICKEY MOUSE
Barnyard Broadcast
Beach Party, The		1 reel
Blue Rhythm	Aug. 18	1 reel
Castaways, The	Apr. 6	1 reel
Delivery Boy	June 15	10	Oct. 24
Fishin' Around	Sept. 14	1 reel
Mickey Steps Out	July 16	7	Oct. 3
Moose Hunt, The	May 8	1 reel	May 30
MONKEYSHINES
Curses! Curses! Curses!	Aug. 20
Little Beezer	July 5	8
Monkeydoodles	Oct. 12
RAMBLING REPORTER
Father Nile	May 11	1 reel
Jerusalem, City of Peace	May 11	10
Land Nobody Knows	June 27	9
Land of Enchantment	July 31
Streets of Cairo	Apr. 14	7	May 30
Vale of Kashmer, The	Aug. 21
SCRAPPY CARTOONS
Dog Catcher, The Chinatown Mystery
Little Pest, The	Aug. 15	8
Showing Off
Sunday Clothes	Sept. 15
What A Boy
Yelp Wanted	July 16		July 16
SILLY SYMPHONIES
Busy Beavers, The		7
Cat's Nightmare	July 25	8	Oct. 3
China Plate	May 25	8
Egyptian Melodies	Aug. 27	1 reel
Fox Hunt, The
In the Clock Store	Sept. 30	1 reel
Midnight in a Toy Shop	July 3	1 reel	May 2
Mother Goose Melodies	Apr. 17	1 reel	May 9
Ugly Duckling, The

EDUCATIONAL

Title	Rel. Date	Minutes Running Time	Reviewed
ANDY CLYDE COMEDIES
Cannenball, The — Clyde	Sept. 16	19	Aug. 29
Taxi Troubles — Clyde	Oct. 18	19	Oct. 24
BILL CUNNINGHAM'S SPORTS REVIEWS
Inside Baseball	Oct. 11	9
No Holds Barred	Sept. 6	9
BURNS, WM. J., DETECTIVE MYSTERIES
Bank Swindle, A	Jan. 18	11
Death House, The	Apr. 12	10
Double Cross	July 5	11
Framed	May 10	10
Mead Trial, The	June 21	10
Ringleader, The	Mar. 15	11	Apr. 11
Starbrite Diamond, The	June 7	11	Oct. 3
Strangler, The	Mar. 29	12	June 6
Trap, The	May 24	11	Aug. 29
Triangle Murder, The	Mar. 1	11	Apr. 11
CAMEO COMEDIES
Honeymoon Trio	Aug. 30	9	Sept. 26
Idle Roomers	Nov. 29	9	Oct. 24
One Quiet Night	Oct. 25	10
That's My Meat	Oct. 4	11
CANNIBALS OF THE DEEP
Trail of the Swordfish, The	Sept. 6	10	Aug. 29
Wrestling Swordfish	Nov. 8	8
GAYETY COMEDIES
Foolish Forties — Ford Sterling-June McCloy	June 28	21	June 6
Fowl Affair, A	Apr. 26	6	Mar. 21
HAMILTON COMEDIES
Ex-Plumber — Lloyd Hamilton	Mar. 8	21	Feb. 24
HODGE-PODGE
Highlights of Travel	Sept. 12	10
Jungle Giants	June 21	11
Money Makers of Manhattan	July 19	9
Tidbits	May 24	10	July 11
Vagabond Melodies	Aug. 16	10
Wonder Trail, The	Oct. 11	10
IDEAL COMEDIES
Crashing Hollywood — Rita Flynn-Phyllis Crane	Apr. 5	20	Mar. 21
Lure of Hollywood — Brooks-Chandler	July 5	20	June 27
Pete and Repeat — Harrison-Elms	Mar. 1	20	Feb. 21
Queenie of Hollywood — Flynn-Brooks	Nov. 8	21
Tamale Vendor, The — Patricola-DeMontez	Sept. 6	20	Aug. 20
MACK SENNET BREVITIES
Who's Who in the Zoo	Oct. 11
World Flier, The	Sept. 13	9	Sept. 26
MACK SENNETT COMEDIES
Albany Branch, The — P. Kelton-T. Dugan	Aug. 2	6	July 4
Cow Catcher's Daughter — Clyde-Gribbon-Beebe	May 10	22	Apr. 4
Dog Doctor, The — Clyde-O'Leary-Farley	Mar. 15	22	Nov. 1
Ex-Sweeties — Gribbon-Beebe	Apr. 12	19	Mar. 7
Fainting Lover — Clyde-Boteler-Dent	Aug. 16	18
Ghost Parade — Clyde-Gribbon-Beebe	May 24	22	May 2
Great Pie Mystery, The	Oct. 25	22
Hold 'er Sheriff — Beebe-Murray	June 7	21
In Conference	Apr. 26	21	Apr. 11
Clyde-Gribbon-Wilson
Monkey Business in Africa — Clyde-Beebe	June 21	22	July 4
Movie Town — Sennett-Beebe	July 5	17
Poker Widows	Sept. 13	19
Slide, Speedy, Slide — D. Pollard-T. Dugan	July 19	18
Speed — Clyde-Beebe	Sept. 27	22	Apr. 11
Too Many Husbands — Clyde-Boteler	Aug. 30	21
MACK SENNETT FEATURETTES
I Surrender Dear — Bing Crosby	Sept. 13	10
One More Chance — Bing Crosby	Nov. 15
MERMAID COMEDIES
Back Page, The — Chandler-Brooks	May 24	20	Apr. 11
Once a Hero	Nov. 22
Up Pops the Duke — Chandler-Bolton	Sept. 20	20
Windy Riley Goes Hollywood — Jack Shutta-Louise Brooks	May 3	21	Apr. 11
ROMANTIC JOURNEYS
Across the Sea	Nov. 1
Cross Roads	May 3	11	Apr. 11
Dream World	July 5	9	Aug. 29
Glories of America	Sept. 27
Harem Secrets	Oct. 4	10
Honeymoon Land	Feb. 1	10	Mar. 28
Outposts of the Foreign Legion	Oct. 18	10
Peasant's Paradise	Nov. 15
TERRY-TOONS
Around the World	Oct. 4	6
Black Spider, The	Nov. 1
Blues	June 28	6	July 4
By the Sea	July 12	6	July 4
Canadian Capers	Aug. 23	6
Champ, The	Sept. 20	6
China	Nov. 15
Clowning	Apr. 5	6	Mar. 28
Club Sandwich	Jan. 25	5½	Jan. 24
Day to Live, A	May 31	6
Explorer, The	Mar. 22	6	Feb. 23
Fireman's Bride, The	May 3	5	Apr. 11
Fried Chicken		7	Oct. 3
Go West Big Boy	Feb. 22	6	Feb. 21
Her First Egg	July 26	6
Jazz Mad	Aug. 9	6
Jesse and James	Sept. 6	6	Oct. 3
Jingle Bells	Oct. 18	6	Oct. 24
Sing Sing Song	Apr. 19	8	Mar. 28
Sultan's Cat, The	May 17	6	May 2
2000 B.C.	June 14	6	June 6
TORCHY
Torchy — Ray Cooke-Dorothy Dix	Oct. 4	22	Oct. 3
TUXEDO COMEDIES
Bride and Gloomy — Bert Roach-Eleanor Hunt	Mar. 22	20
Don't Divorce Him — Clyde Cook	May 31	18	May 2
Girls Will Be Boys — Charlotte Greenwood	Jan. 25	21	Jan. 24
What a Head — Duffy-Rondell	July 26	20
VANITY COMEDIES
College Racket — Glenn Tryon	June 14	20	June 6
Freshman's Finish, The	Sept. 20	22
Girl Rush, The	Oct. 25	21	Oct. 17
Happy Little Honeymoon, A — Glenn Tryon	Feb. 15	21	Feb. 7
Shotgun Wedding, A	Apr. 19	20	Mar. 14

FOX FILMS

Title	Rel. Date	Minutes Running Time	Reviewed
MAGIC CARPET SERIES
1 Giants of the Jungle	Aug. 8	8	May 9
2 Diamonds in the Rough	Aug. 16
3 Wandering Through China	Aug. 23
4 Down to Damascus	Aug. 30	8	May 9
5 The King's Armada	Sept. 6	9	May 9
6 The Wild West of Today	Sept. 13	8	May 9
7 Where East Meets West	Sept. 20
8 Wild Life on the Veldt	Sept. 27	8	May 9
9 Over the Viking Trail	Oct. 4
10 India Today	Oct. 11
11 The Land of the Nile	Oct. 18
12 The Homeland of the Danes	Oct. 25
13 The Kingdom of Sheba	Nov. 1
14 In the South Seas	Nov. 8
15 The Pageant of Slam	Nov. 15	9	May 9
16 Birds of the Sea	Nov. 22
17 When Geisha Girls Get Gay	Nov. 29
18 Paris of the Orient	Dec. 6
19 Happy Days in Tyrol	Dec. 13	8	May 9
20 Paris Nights	Dec. 20
21 Fires of Vulcan	Dec. 27
22 Stamboul to Bagdad	Jan. 3'32
23 Back to Erin	Jan. 10,'32
24 City of the Clouds	Jan. 17,'32
25 In Old Mexico	Jan. 24,'32
26 The World at Prayer	Jan. 31,'32	8	May 9

METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER

Title	Rel. Date	Minutes Running Time	Reviewed
BOY FRIENDS, THE
Air Tight	May 9	17	May 2
Call A Cop	Sept. 12	20
Kick Off, The	Dec. 5
Love Fever	Apr. 11	20
Let's Do Things	June 6	27
Mama Loves Papa	Oct. 24	17
BURTON HOLMES
Sultan's Camp of Victory	Feb. 28	10
That Little Bit of Heaven	Feb. 28	10
CHARLEY CHASE
Hasty Marriage	Dec. 19
Pip from Pittsburgh, The	Mar. 21	21	Mar. 14
One of the Smiths	May 23	26
Panic Is On, The	Aug. 15	20	Aug. 15
Rough Seas	Apr. 25	27	June 6
Skip The Maloo	Sept. 16	21
What a Bozo	Nov. 7	21
COLORTONE REVUES
Ambitious People	Mar. 21	17
Crazy House	Feb. 7	16	Mar. 14
Devil's Cabaret	Mar. 7	17
Geography Lesson	Mar. 28	17
DOGVILLE
Big Dog House, The	Mar. 14	16	Aug. 8
Love Tails of Morocco	Sept. 5	16	Aug. 15
Trader Hound	Nov. 28
Two Barks Bros.	Oct. 17	17
FISHERMAN'S PARADISE
Fisherman's Paradise	Aug. 15	10
Pearls and Devilfish	Sept. 19
Sharks and Swordfish	Oct. 24
FITZPATRICK TRAVELTALKS
Bali, the Island Paradise	Dec. 5	10
Benares, the Hindu Heaven	Oct. 31	9
Colorful Jaipur	Mar. 19,'32
Ireland, The Melody Isle
London, City of Tradition	Feb. 6,'32
Land of the Maharajahs, The	Aug. 22	10
Madeira, a Garden in the Sea	Sept. 26	8	Oct. 3
Tropical Ceylon	Feb. 27,'32
FLIP THE FROG
Jailbirds	Sept. 26	9
Laughing Gas	Mar. 14	7	Mar. 14
Movie Mad	Aug. 29	9
New Car, The	July 25	8
Ragtime Romeo	May 2	8	Sept. 12
Stormy Seas	Aug. 22	9
HARRY LAUDER
I Love a Lassie	Dec. 19	8
Nanny	Nov. 14	8
Roamin' in the Gloamin'	Sept. 5	10	Aug. 15
She's My Daisy	Oct. 10	9	Apr. 11
LAUREL & HARDY
Beau Hunks	Dec. 12	40	Sept. 5
Come Clean	Sept. 19	21
Helpmates	Mar. 5
Laughing Gravy	Apr. 4	21
Our Wife	May 16	21	Apr. 11
One Good Turn	Oct. 31	21
OUR GANG
Bargain Day	May 2	19
Big Ears	Apr. 29	21
Dogs Is Dogs	Nov. 21	21
Fly My Kite	May 30	21
Little Daddy	Mar. 28	21	Mar. 14
Readin' and Writin'	Jan. 2,'32
Shiver My Timbers	Oct. 10	21	Oct. 24
PITTS-TODD
Catch-As-Catch-Can	Aug. 22	20
Hot Dogs	Nov. 14
Pajama Party	Nov. 3	20
SPORTS CHAMPIONS
Athletic Daze	Mar. 26,'32
Flying Spikes	Apr. 16,'32
Forehand, Backhand, Olympic Events	Jan. 16,'32
Service (Tilden)	Sept. 5	9	Aug. 15
Splash	Oct. 3	10
Tennis Technique (Tilden)	Aug. 29	8	Sept. 5
Timber Toppers	May 7,'32
Volley and Smash (Tilden)	Sept. 12	8	Sept. 5
Wild and Wooly	Nov. 7	9	Sept. 5
Whippet Racing	Dec. 12	9

PARAMOUNT-PUBLIX

Title	Rel. Date	Minutes Running Time	Reviewed
BRUCE NOVELTIES
A Hunting We Did Go	May 16	1 reel
Climate Chasers	July 11	1 reel
My West	Mar. 7	1 reel
Runaway Boys	Jan. 31	1 reel
ONE REEL ACTS
African Dodger, The — Tom Howard	Apr. 4	10	Mar. 14
All for the Band — Eddie Younger	Apr. 4		Mar. 14
Antique Shop, The — Burns & Allen	Mar. 7		Feb. 21
Around the Samovar — Columbia Broadcasting Feature	Feb. 28		Feb. 28
Beauty Secrets from Hollywood — Technicolor Novelty	Sept. 5
Beach Nut, The — Herb Williams	Oct. 3,'32
Cheaper to Rent — Willie West & McGinty	Sept. 19
Clinching a Sale — Harry Richman	Apr. 18
Crazy Compositions — Fuzzy Knight	Apr. 11
Devil Sea — Ethel Merman and Leslie Stowe	Feb. 28
Discovered — Solly Ward	Jan. 17		Jan. 17
Fair Ways & Square Ways — Eddie Miller	May 2
Finn and Caddie — Borrah Minnevitch	Oct. 17
French Line — Gina Malo	Jan. 24
Happiness Remedy — Ted Lewis	Feb. 14
Helping Hand — Solly Ward	June 27

Title	Rel. Date	Minutes Running Time	Reviewed
Hudson and Its Moods	Apr.	11	May 12
Leslie Stowe-Speed Young
I'm Telling You	Mar.	7
Willie and Eugene Howard
Laugh It Off	Feb.	14	May 9
June MacCloy
Lease Breakers, The	Sept.	5	2 reels
Dave & Arthur
Lesson in Love, A	Sept.	26	11 Sept. 19
Helen Kane
Let's Stay Single	Mar.	14
Frances Williams
Make Up Your Mind	Jan.	10
Alice Boulden
Miscast	Mar.	21
James Kelso-Dolores DeMonde
More Gas	Oct.	24
Solly Ward
Moonlight and Romance	Feb.	21
Moreno-Martini
M'Lady	Mar.	28
Irene Bordoni
My Wife's Jewelry	Aug.	22	11 Sept. 12
Tom Howard
No More Hookey	Aug.	29
Haig Trio
Once Over, Light	May	23	May 16
Burns and Allen
One Big Night	Feb	7
Ben Blue
One Hundred Percent Service	Aug.	21	10 Sept. 5
Burns and Allen
Lester Allen in Paris	Aug.	8	Feb. 7
Lester Allen
Pent House Blues	Feb.	21
Muriel D'Or-Cy Kahn
Pest, The	Mar.	14
Tom Howard
Plastered	Nov.	22
Willie West & McGinty
Puff Your Blues Away	Oct.	31
Lillian Roth
Real Estators, The	May	2	10 May 23
Smith & Dale
Simply Killing	Jan.	31
Willie & Eugene Howard
Tongue Tied	Dec.	13
Lulu McConnell
Tons of Trouble	Jan.	3
Rudy Miller & Rosie
Top Notes	Mar.	21	Mar. 14
Willy Robyn
Tune Detective, The	Apr.	25	June 13
Dr. Sigmund Spaeth
Two's Company	Feb.	7	Jan. 3
Marion Harris
Two A. M.	May	2
Tom Howard
Via Express	July	4	10 Oct. 10
Tom Howard
PARAMOUNT PICTORIAL
No. 6—The Trout Harvest The Children's Hour—Lowell Thomas	Feb.	28	1 reel
No. 7—Rudy Valee—Lowell Thomas — Marionette Show	Mar.	28	1 reel
No. 8—Jesse Crawford. Ruth St. Dennis—Lowell Thomas			1 reel
No. 9—Harmonies of the Harp; Facts and Fancies in sports—Lowell Thomas.	May	2	1 reel
No. 10—Lowell Thomas — Golf Chats—Sweet Lady of the Air	June	6	1 reel
No. 11—Lowell Thomas — Golf Chats—Flo Ziegfeld.	June	27	1 reel
No. 12—Michael Fokine — Africa, U.S.A. — Jesse Crawford	July	18	1 reel
STARTING AUGUST, 1931
No. 1—Lowell Thomas — Aber Twins — Japanese Goldfish	Aug.	22
No. 2—Painting with Light—The Dragons of Today — Songs of the Organ	Sept.	26
SCREEN SONGS			1 reel
Alexander's Rag Time Band.	May	9
And the Green Grass Grew All Around	May	30	1 reel
Any Little Girl That's a Nice Little Girl	Apr.	18	1 reel
Betty Co-Ed	Aug.	1	1 reel
By the Beautiful Sea	Jan.	24	1 reel
Gallagher & Shean	Aug.	29	1 reel
I'd Climb the Highest Mountain	Mar.	7	1 reel..June 13
I Wonder Who's Kissing Her Now	Feb.	14	1 reel
Kitty from Kansas City Rudy Vallee	Oct.	31	1 reel
Little Annie Rooney	Oct.	10	1 reel
My Wife's Gone to the Country	June	13	6 Sept. 26
Please Go Way and Let Me Sleep	Jan.	10	1 reel
Somebody Stole My Gal	Mar.	21	1 reel
That Old Gang of Mine	July	11	1 reel
You're Driving Me Crazy	Sept.	19	1 reel
SCREEN SOUVENIRS
No. 1—Old Time Novelty	Aug.	15	10 Sept. 26
No. 2—Old Time Novelty	Sept.	12	1 reel
No. 3—Old Time Novelty	Oct.	10	1 reel
PARAMOUNT SOUND NEWS
Two Editions Weekly
TALKARTOONS
Bimbo's Express	Aug.	22	Sept 12
Bimbo's Initiation	July	25	1 reel
Bum Bandit, The	Apr.	4	1 reel
Cow's Husband, The	Mar.	14	8 Mar. 28
In the Shade of the Old Apple Sauce	Oct.	17	1 reel
Male Man, The	Apr.	25	6 May 23
Minding the Baby	Sept.	26	1 reel
Silly Scandals	May	23	1 reel. May 9'31
Teacher's Pest	Feb.	7	1 reel
Thee Saps	Feb.	21	1 reel
Twenty Legs Under the Sea.	June	6	8 Oct. 3
TWO REEL COMEDIES
Auto Intoxication	Oct.	17
Ford Sterling
Big Splash, The	Oct.	17
Weismuller-Kruger
Broadway Romeo, A	Mar.	28
Jack Benny & Co.
Bullmania	Aug.	15
Billy House & Co.
Cab Waiting	June	20	17 May 16
Jack Benny
Elmer Takes the Air	July	18	Sept. 12
Kruger-Assen Jordanoff
Fur, Fur, Away	Oct.	3	Sept. 5
Smith & Dale
Gents of Leisure	May	9
Chester Conklin
Great Pants Mystery	Feb.	14
Smith & Dale
Headache, The	Mar.	14	June 13
Billy House
He Was Her Man	Mar.	25
Gilda Gray
It Might Be Worse	Jan.	3
George Jessel & Co.
Love in the Suburbs	Jan.	31
Victor Moore
Nothing to Declare	Aug.	8
Lulu McConnell
Out of Bounds	Nov.	14
Billy House
Retire Inn	Sept.	19
Billy House
S.S. Malaria	June	6
Smith & Dale
Studio Sap	Sept.	28
Chester Conklin
Socially Correct	Oct.	10
Lulu McConnell
Summer Daze	Oct.	31
Dane-Arthur (Reviewed under the title "In the Good Old Summer Time"	Apr.	4
Taxi	Apr.	11
Chester Conklin
13th Alarm, The	July	4
Chester Conklin
Thou Shalt Not	May	23	May 2
Billy House
What Price Pants	Aug.	22
Smith & Dale

RKO-RADIO PICTURES

Title	Rel. Date	Minutes Running Time	Reviewed
CHARLES "CHIC" SALE SERIES
County Seat, The	Aug.	15	20
Cowslips	Sept.	19	18
Ex-Rooster
Hurry Call, A
Many a Sip
DANE & ARTHUR SERIES
Dumbells in Derbies	Feb.	7	10 Mar. 2
Lime Juice Knights	Mar.	22	21 Mar. 7
HEADLINER SERIES
House Dick, The	Oct.	17	18
Jimmy Savo
False Roomers	Oct.	10	20
Clark & McCullough
Scratch As Catch Can	Oct.	24	19
Clark & McCullough
Melon Drama, A	Nov.	6	20
Clark & McCullough
Trouble from Abroad	Aug.	22	20 June 20
F. Sterling-L. Littlefield
HUMANETTE SERIES
Humanette No. 8	Mar.	22	9 Mar. 9
Humanette No. 9	Apr.	15	9
Humanette No. 10	May	1	10
Humanette No. 11	June	13	10
Humanette No. 12	July	1	10 June 20
LIBERTY SHORT STORIES SERIES
Fixed
Round Heels
LOUISE FAZENDA SERIES
Blondes Prefer Bonds	May	15	21
Itching Hour, The	Feb.	1	22
Second Hand Kisses	Mar.	29	19 Mar. 2
MICKEY McGUIRE SERIES
Mickey's Crusaders	Apr.	12	19
Mickey's Diplomacy	July	15	18
Mickey's Rebellion	June	27	18
Mickey's Stampede	Feb.	7	19
Mickey's Thrill Hunters	Sept.	19	18
Mickey's Wildcats	Sept.	12	18
NED SPARKS SERIES
Big Game Hunting
Strife of the Party, The	Oct.	17	16½
Way of All Fish, The	Aug.	29	19 June 13
When Summons Comes
NICK & TONY SERIES
He Loved Her Not	Jan.	25	20
Wife O' Reilly	Feb.	25	20 Mar. 7
NICK HARRIS DETECTIVE SERIES
Facing the Gallows	Sept.	26	21
Mystery of Compartment C, The	Oct.	31	21
ROSCO ATES SERIES
Clean up on the Curb, The	Sept.	12	20 June 13
Gland Parade, The	Sept.	26	20 Aug. 1
Lone Starved Ranger, The	Aug.	8	20 July 25
Never the Twins Shall Meet
Use Your Noodle	Oct.	31	20
TOBY THE PUP
Toby in the Circus Times	Jan.	25	7 Mar. 7
Toby in the Brown Derby	Mar.	22	7
Toby Down South	Apr.	15	7
Toby the Bull Thrower	June	7	7 May 27
She Went for a Tramp	Mar.	15	20
TOM AND JERRY SERIES
Wot a Night	Aug.	1	8½
Polar Pals	Sept.	5	7 Sept. 19
Trouble	Oct.	10	7

RKO PATHE SHORT SUBJECTS

Title	Rel. Date	Minutes Running Time	Reviewed
AESOP'S FABLES
Animal Fair, The	Feb.	1	1 reel..Jan. 3
Big Game	Aug.	3	9
Cinderella Blues	April	12	8 Apr. 11
College Capers	Mar.	15	1 reel..Mar. 21
Cowboy Blues	Feb.	15	1 reel..Feb. 7
Family Shoe, The	Sept.	14	7 Oct. 10
Fairyland Follies	Oct.	3	1 reel
Fisherman's Luck	June	13	10 July 4
Fly Guy, The	May	10	7 June 6
Fly Hi	Aug.	31	9 Oct. 10
Fun on the Ice	July	19	8 Aug. 8
Love in a Pond	Aug.	17	8 Sept. 19
Mad Melody	Apr.	26	1 reel..May 2
Making 'Em Move	July	5	9 July 25
Old Hokum Bucket, The	Mar.	29	7 Apr. 4
Pale Face Pop	June	22	9 July 4
Play Ball	May	24	10 May 30
Radio Racket	Mar.	1	1 reel..Feb. 25
Red Riding Hood	Jan.	18	1 reel..Jan. 31
Toytown Tale	Jan.	4	1 reel..Jan. 3
BENNY RUBIN COMEDIES
Dumb Dicks	Mar.	21,'32	2 reels
Full Coverage	Nov.	9	2 reels
Guests Wanted	Jan.	18,'32	2 reels
Julius Sizzer	Sept.	7	20 Sept. 5
Messenger Boy, The	June	29	22 July 25
CAMPUS COMEDIES
Night Class	May	31	2 reels. May 16
Open House	Mar.	22	20 Apr. 11
CAPITAL COMEDIES
Bare Knees	May	8	2 reels. Mar. 7
Half Pint Polly	May	3	2 reels
Over the Radio	Dec.	14	2 reels. Feb. 7
CHECKER COMEDIES
Chasing Trouble	Apr.	26	2 reels. May 9
Disappearing Enemies	Mar.	1	2 reels. Apr. 4
FARRELL GOLF SERIES
Duffer Swings	Feb.	22	1 reel..Mar. 7
Fore!	Feb.	15	1 reel..Feb. 14
Getting on the Green	Mar.	22	1 reel..Apr. 11
In the Rough	Mar.	8	1 reel..Feb. 28
Under Par	Mar.	15	1 reel..Mar. 28
Winning Putts	Mar.	1	1 reel..Apr. 4
FLOYD GIBBONS' SUPREME THRILLS
Turn of the Tide, The	Sept.	14	11 Sept. 26
Woodrow Wilson's Great Decision	Aug.	17	11
FOLLY COMEDIES
Gossipy Plumber, The	May	17	2 reels. May 2
Parents Wanted	Mar.	15	2 reels. Apr. 4
FRANK McHUGH COMEDIES
Big Scoop, The	Nov.	16	2 reels
Hot Spot, The	Sept.	14	18 Oct. 10
News Hound, The			2 reels
That's News to Me	July	6	20 May 30
GAY GIRL COMEDIES
Easy to Get	Dec.	7	2 reels
June First	July	27	20 July 4
Only Men Wanted	Feb.	8,'32	20
Take 'Em and Shake 'Em	Sept.	28	20
GRANTLAND RICE SPORTLIGHTS
Battling Silver Kings	July	12	11 July 18
Blue Grass Kings	June	20	1 reel..July 4
Diamond Experts	May	17	10 May 23
Floating Fun	Sept.	7	10
Hunting Thrills	Apr.	21	1 reel..Apr. 11
Manhattan Mariners	Aug.	24	9 Oct. 24
Olympic Talent	Aug.	9	8 Sept. 12
Outboard Stunting	May	3	1 reel..May 31
Pigskin Progress	Sept.	21	9 Oct. 10
Poise	July	27	9 Aug. 8
Rough & Tumble	Jan.	25	1 reel..Jan. 24
Sink or Swim	Mar.	22	9 Mar. 28
Ski Pilot	Feb.	3	1 reel..Feb. 14
Speed Limit	Mar.	8	1 reel..Mar. 14
Tennis Topnotchers	Apr.	4	1 reel..June 6
Timing	Oct.	10	10
Under Cover	Jan.	11	1 reel..Jan. 24
Younger Years	June	29	10 July 4
Water Bugs	June	6	10 May 23
KNUTE ROCKNE FOOTBALL SERIES
Backfield Aces	Sept.	26	1 reel
Flying Feet	Sept.	26	1 reel
Hidden Ball, The	Sept.	26	1 reel
Last Yard, The	Sept.	26	1 reel
Touchdown	Sept.	26	1 reel
Two Minutes to Go	Sept.	26	1 reel
MANHATTAN COMEDIES
Crashing Reno	Aug.	24	2 reels. Aug. 8
Frozen Face	Apr.	19	2 reels. Apr. 18
Oh, Marry Me	Nov.	2	2 reels
She Snoops to Conquer	June	22	20 June 20
MASQUERS COMEDIES
Great Junction Hotel, The	Oct.	26	18 Oct. 17
Oh, Oh, Cleopatra	Aug.	17	22 Aug. 8
Stout Hearts and Willing Hands	June	15	20 May 30
Wide Open Spaces			2 reels
MELODY COMEDIES
Not So Loud	May	3	2 reels. May 2
Twisted Tales	Mar.	29	22 April 4
MR. AVERAGE MAN COMEDIES (EDGAR KENNEDY)
Bon Voyage	Feb.	22,'32	2 reels
Camping Out	Dec.	14	2 reels
Lemon Meringue	Aug.	3	20 June 6
Thanks Again	Oct.	5	20 Oct. 10
PATHE NEWS
Released twice a week
PATHE REVIEW
Released once a month
RAINBOW COMEDIES
Against the Rules	June	6	19 May 23
Three Wise Clucks	Apr.	12	2 reels. Apr. 18
RUFFTOWN COMEDIES (JAMES GLEASON)
Battle Royal	Feb.	29,'32	2 reels
Doomed to Win	Dec.	21	2 reels
Slow Poison	Oct.	19	21 Oct. 24
Where Canaries Sing Bass.	Aug.	10	18 Sept. 12
TRAVELING MAN COMEDIES (LOUIS JOHN BARTELS)
Beach Pajamas	Sept.	21	20 Sept. 26
Blondes by Proxy	Apr.	11,'32	2 reels
Selling Shorts	Nov.	30	2 reels
Stop That Run	Feb.	1,'32	2 reels
That's My Line	July	13	2 reels
VAGABOND ADVENTURE SERIES
Beneath the Southern Cross.	Aug.	24	10
Call of Mohammed	Apr.	7	1 reel..Apr. 4
Dogs of Solitude	Feb.	6	1 reel..Feb. 14
Fallen Empire	July	27	10
Hurricane Island	April	21	1 reel..Mar. 28
Shadows of the Dragon	Mar.	8	1 reel..Mar. 14
Tale of Tutuila	Jan.	25	1 reel..Feb. 7
Thom the Unknown	Mar.	22	1 reel..Apr. 4
Utmost Isle, The	Oct.	3	11 Oct. 3
Well of Fortaleza, The	Feb.	28	1 reel..Feb. 21
WHOOPEE COMEDIES
All Gummed Up	May	23	2 reels. May 16
Rough House Rhythm	Apr.	5	2 reels. Mar. 14
Seein' Injuns	Feb.	15	2 reels. Jan. 3

STATE RIGHTS

Title	Rel. Date	Minutes Running Time	Reviewed
FALCON PROD.
Knights in Khaki		22	May 23
IDEAL
Birds of a Feather		8	Apr. 4
In the Good Old Summer-Time		8	Apr. 4
Jerusalem—The Holy City		10	Sept. 26
Journey Through Germany, A		10	Oct. 3

Title	Rel. Date	Minutes Running Time	Reviewed
Legend of the Skies		6	Mar. 14
Peculiar Pets		8	Apr. 4
Poem in Stone, A		7	Mar. 14
Sacred Elephants of India		8	Mar. 21
Some Wild Appetites		8	Mar. 21
Spring Is Here		9	Mar. 21
IMPERIAL PICTURES
Isle of Isolation		9	Oct. 10
JUDEA FILMS
Jewish Gypsy
Hymie Jacobson		10	Sept. 26
LOUIS SIMON
Palmy Daze		28	Oct. 24
B. M. POWELL
Harem Scarem		9	Sept. 12
Travelogue
TOBIS FORENFILM
Germany in 15 Minutes			Oct. 10
Melodie der Welt		30	Oct. 24
Songs of the Steppes		13	Oct. 10
UFA
Hunting the Carpathian Bear		12	Aug. 1
Secrets of Plant Life		10	Aug. 1
VISUOGRAPHIC
Wings of Tomorrow		10	May 2
WELSHAY
Beauty Secrets from Hollywood—No. 1 (technicolor)			Mar. 14
Old Songs for New—Bob Welsh		9	Sept. 5

SYNDICATE PICTURES CORP.

Title	Rel. Date	Minutes Running Time	Reviewed
JACK HOXIE
Broken Spur, The	Feb. 1	18
Desert Bridegroom	Jan. 15	17
Romantic Sheriff	Jan. 1	16
Sparks of Flint	Feb. 15	15
ALICE SERIES
Alice Loses Out	Mar. 1	6
Alice Picks the Champ	Mar. 15	6
Alice Plays Cupid	Apr. 1	6
Alice Rattled by Rats	May 1	6
Alice Solves the Puzzle	Apr. 15	6
Alice's Mysterious Mystery	May 15	6

TIFFANY

Title	Rel. Date	Minutes Running Time	Reviewed
FOOTBALL FOR THE FAN SERIES
1—Spring Training	Sept. 26	9	Sept. 5
2—Wedge Play	Oct. 3	9
3—Kicking Game	Oct. 10	11
4—Deception	Oct. 17	10	Oct. 24
5—Forward Pass	Oct. 24	9	Oct. 10
6—Penalties	Oct. 31
TIFANY CHIMP SERIES
6—Chasing Around	Mar. 23	16	Mar. 28
7—Africa Squawks	July 7	18
8—Ageing Hollywood	Aug. 16	21
9—Cinnamon		11
10—The Gland Hotel
11—Skimpy
VOICE OF HOLLYWOOD SERIES
Station S-T-A-R
No. 26—Kenneth Harlan	Mar. 2	11	Mar. 28
VOICE OF HOLLYWOOD SERIES (NEW)
John Wayne-Our Gang
No. 1—Lew Ayres		10	Sept. 5
No. 2—Elliott Nugent	July 5	11
No. 3—Ivan Lebedeff	July 19	11
No. 4—Arthur Lake	Aug. 2	11
No. 5—Olson & Johnson	Aug. 16	10
No. 6—John Boles & Helen Chandler	Sept	9
No. 7—Roscoe Ates	Sept. 27	11

UNIVERSAL

Title	Rel. Date	Minutes Running Time	Reviewed
LEATHER PUSHER SERIES
Lady Killer, A, No. 8	Jan. 28	2 reels
Kane Meets Abel, No. 9	Feb. 11	2 reels
The Champion, No. 10	Feb. 25	2 reels
OSWALD CARTOONS
Band Master, The	May 18	6	June 20
Champ, The	July 27	1 reel
Clown, The	Dec. 7	1 reel
Country School, The	May 5	1 reel	May 16
Farmer, The	Mar. 23	1 reel
Fireman, The	Apr. 6	1 reel
Fisherman, The	Nov. 23	1 reel
Hare Mail, The	Nov. 9	1 reel
Hot Feet	Sept. 14	6	Oct. 10
Hunter, The	Oct. 12	6	Oct. 10
In Wonderland	Oct. 26	1 reel
North Woods	June 29	1 reel	July 11
Radio Rhythm	July 27	1 reel	Aug. 15
Shipwreck	Feb. 9	1 reel	Feb. 21
Stone Age, The	July 13	1 reel
Sunny South, The	Apr. 20	1 reel	May 2
RED STAR SERIES
Dangerous Daze	Mar. 11	2 reels	Mar. 14
The Cat's Paw	July 8	2 reels	Apr. 4
Hello Napoleon	June 3	2 reels	July 11
Howdy Mate	July 22	2 reels
It Happened in Hollywood	Feb. 4	2 reels
No Privacy	Apr. 22	2 reels
One Day to Live	Apr. 1	2 reels	Apr. 11
Scared Stiff	May 13	2 reels	May 2
SHADOW DETECTIVE SERIES
No. 1—Burglar to the Rescue	Sept. 7	18	Aug. 15
No. 2—Trapped	Oct. 28	2 reels
No. 3—Sealed Lips	Nov. 11	2 reels
SIDNEY-MURRAY COMEDIES
All Excited	Mar. 25	2 reels	Feb. 28
Divorce a la Carte	Apr. 15	2 reels	Mar. 14
Butter in Yeag Man	May 6	2 reels	Apr. 11
Hot and Bothered	Mar. 4	2 reels
Hotter Than Haiti	Nov. 25	2 reels
In Old Mazuma	Jan. 1	2 reels
Stay Out, The	May 5	2 reels
SLIM SUMMERVILLES
Arabian Knights	Apr. 8	2 reels	May 28
Hello Russia	Jan. 17	2 reels	Dec. 20
Here's Luck	May 20	2 reels	May 2
Let's Play	Apr. 29	2 reels	Aug. 8
Parisian Gaieties	June 17	2 reels	Aug. 8
The Royal Bluff	Feb. 18	2 reels	Feb. 28
Sargle's Playmate	May 8	2 reels	Feb. 21

Title	Rel. Date	Minutes Running Time	Reviewed
SPORTS REELS
Backfield Plays—Notre Dame Football	Sept. 28	1 reel
Carry On—Notre Dame Football	Oct. 5	1 reel
Developing a Football Team—Pop Warner Football	Nov. 2	1 reel
Famous Plays—Notre Dame Football	Sept. 21	1 reel
Football Forty Years Ago—Pop Warner Football	Nov. 9	9	Oct. 24
Offensive System—Notre Dame Football	Sept. 14	1 reel
Shifts—Notre Dame Football	Sept. 7	1 reel
Soccer—Pop Warner Football	Nov. 16	1 reel
Trick Plays—Pop Warner Football	Oct. 26	1 reel
STRANGE AS IT SEEMS SERIES
No. 5—Novelty	Jan. 19	1 reel	Jan. 3
No. 6—Novelty	Feb. 18	1 reel	Feb. 7
No. 7—Novelty	Mar. 16	1 reel	Mar. 14
No. 8—Novelty	Apr. 13	1 reel	Apr. 11
No. 9—Novelty	May 11	1 reel	July 4
No. 10—Novelty	June 8	10	July 11
No. 11—Novelty	July 6	1 reel
No. 12—Novelty	Aug. 31	9	Aug. 29
No. 13—Novelty	Sept. 15	9	Oct. 10
No. 14—Novelty	Oct. 12	1 reel
UNIVERSAL COMEDIES (1931-32 SEASON)
An Apple a Day—Lloyd Hamilton	Sept. 30	2 reels
Fast and Furious—Daphne Pollard	Oct. 14	19	Oct. 3
One Hundred Dollars—Chas. Lawrence	Sept. 16	2 reels	Aug. 29
Out Stepping—Don Brodie	Oct. 28	2 reels
First to Fight—Summerville	Sept. 2	4 reels	Aug. 8
Hotter Than Haiti—Summerville	Nov. 11	2 reels
Models and Wives—Sidney-Murray	Nov. 25	2 reels
Bless the Ladies—Summerville	Dec. 29	2 reels

VITAPHONE SHORTS

Title	Rel. Date	Minutes Running Time	Reviewed
ADVENTURES IN AFRICA
No. 1—Into the Unknown		2 reels	June 6
No. 2—An African Boma		2 reels	July 25
No. 3—The Lion Hunt		2 reels	July 25
No. 4—Spears of Death		2 reels
No. 5—Trails of the Hunted		2 reels
No. 6—The Buffalo Stampede		9	Aug. 15
No. 7—The Witch Doctor's Magic		14	Aug. 22
No. 8—Flaming Jungles		2 reels
No. 9—Dangerous Trails		15	Sept. 19
No. 10—Maneaters		2 reels
No. 11—Beast of the Wilderness		2 reels
No. 12—Unconquered Africa		2 reels
BELIEVE IT OR NOT—ROBERT L. RIPLEY
No. 6		7	Mar. 28
No. 7		1 reel	Feb. 21
No. 8		9	May 23
No. 9		1 reel	July 18
No. 10		1 reel
No. 11		1 reel
No. 12		1 reel
NEW SERIES
No. 1		1 reel
No. 2		1 reel
BIG STAR COMEDIES
No. 1—Lucky 13—Thelma White and Fanny Watson		2 reels
No. 2—Platinum Blondes—Walter O'Keefe		2 reels
No. 3—Of All People—Thelma White and Fanny Watson		2 reels
No. 4—Relativity and Relatives—Dr. Rockwell		2 reels
No. 5—Her Weding Night-Mare—Thelma White and Fanny Watson		2 reels
BOOTH TARKINGTON SERIES
No. 1—Snakes Alive—Billy Hayes-Bobby Jordan		1 reel
No. 2—Batter Up—Billy Hayes-Bobby Jordan		1 reel
BROADWAY BREVITIES SERIES
No. 1—The Musical Mystery—Janet Reade-Albertina Rasch Girls		2 reels
No. 2—Words and Music—Ruth Etting		2 reels
No. 3—Footlights		2 reels
HOW I PLAY GOLF—BOBBY JONES
No. 1—The Putter		1 reel	Apr. 25
No. 2—Chip Shots		1 reel	Apr. 25
No. 3—The Niblick		1 reel	Apr. 25
No. 4—The Mashie Niblick		1 reel
No. 5—The Medium Irons		1 reel
No. 6—The Big Irons		1 reel	July 18
No. 7—The Spoon		1 reel	Aug. 8
No. 8—The Brassie		9	Aug. 22
No. 9—The Driver		1 reel
No. 10—Trouble Shots		1 reel
No. 11—Practice Shots		1 reel
No. 12—A Complete Round of Golf		1 reel
LOONEY TUNES SERIES SONG CARTOONS
No. 9—Dumb Patrol		1 reel	Mar. 28
No. 10—Yodeling Yokels		1 reel
No. 11—Bosko's Holiday		1 reel	May 9
No. 12—Trees Knees		1 reel
NEW SERIES
No. 1—Bosko's Shipwrecked		1 reel
No. 2—Bosko, The Dough boy		1 reel
No. 3—Bosko's Soda Fountain
MELODY MASTER SERIES
No. 1—The "Big House" Party—Earl Carpenter's Gang		1 reel
No. 2—A Havana Cocktail—Castro's Cuban Band		1 reel	Apr. 25
No. 3—Darn Tootin'—Rudy Weidoeft		1 reel

Title	Rel. Date	Minutes Running Time	Reviewed
MERRY MELODIES SONG CARTOONS
No. 1—Smile, Darn Ya, Smile		1 reel
No. 2—One More Time		1 reel
No. 3—Ya Don't Know What You're Doin'		1 reel
No. 4—Hittin' the Trail for Hallelujah Land		1 reel
THE NAGGERS SERIES MR. AND MRS. JACK NORWORTH
The Naggers' Housewarming		8	Sept. 5
The Naggers in the Subway		11	Aug. 8
The Naggers at the Dentist		1 reel	May 2
The Naggers at the Races		1 reel	Aug. 15
The Naggers at the Ringside		1 reel	May 16
NEW SERIES
The Naggers' Anniversary		1 reel
The Naggers at the Opera		1 reel
NOVELTIES
Handy Guy, The—Earl Sande		2 reels
Rhythms of a Big City		1 reel
A Trip to Tibet		1 reel
Scenic
Gypsy Caravan—Martinelli		1 reel
ONE REEL COMEDIES
Baby Face—Victor Moore
Gold-Digging Gentlemen—Al Klein-Joan Abbott			Aug. 22
Grand Dame, The—Patsy Kelly			May 9
I'll Fix It—Kent-Lake			May 28
Lodge Night—Phillips-Cox			May 16
Maid to Order—Eleanor Shaler-Bob Lynn			May 2
Military Post, The—Roberto Guzman
Milky Way, The—Neely Edwards			July 18
No-Account, The—Hardie-Hutchison
No Privacy—Lloyd Hamilton			May 2
No Questions Asked—Little Billy
Number Please—Sheila Barret			Mar. 31
Purely An Accident—Brown-Kearns			May 16
Sitting Pretty—Joe Phillips-Ruth Donnely			May 9
Sky High—Janet Reade-Dudley Clements			Mar. 28
Squaring the Triangle—Donald Brian
Strong Arm, The—Harrington-O'Neil
Twixt Love and Duty—Howard-Gresham			May 2
ORGAN SONG-NATAS
Bigger They Are, The		2 reels
Trip to Tibet, A
For You—Organ-Vocal		1 reel
Just a Gigolo—Organ-Vocal		1 reel	Aug. 15
Say a Little Prayer for Me		1 reel
When Your Lover Has Gone		1 reel
JOE PENNER COMEDIES
Gangway		2 reels	Aug. 15
Moving In		2 reels
Rough Sailing		2 reels
Sax Appeal		1 reel	Aug. 1
A Stuttering Romance—Where Men Are Men		1 reel	Sept 26
PEPPER POT SERIES
No. 1—The Eyes Have It—Edgar Bergen
No. 2—Thrills of Yesterday
No. 3—Hot News Margie—Marjorie Beebe
No. 4—Free and Easy—Edgar Bergen
SPORTSLANTS SERIES—TED HUSING
No. 1		1 reel
No. 2		2 reels	Sept 26
S. S. VAN DINE MYSTERY SERIES
No. 1—The Clyde Mystery—Donald Meek-John Hamilton		2 reels
No. 2—The Wall Street Mystery—Donald Meek-John Hamilton		2 reels
No. 3—The Week-End Mystery—Donald Meek-John Hamilton-Jane Winton		2 reels
TWO REEL COMEDIES
Gigolo Racket, The—Helen Morgan			Aug. 1
Meal Ticket, The—Jack Pearl			June 13
23 Skidoo—Lew Fields			May 2
Freshman Love—Ruth Etting
Old Lace—Ruth Etting
Dandy and the Belle, The—Frank McGlynn, Jr.-Mary Murray
For Two Cents—De Wolf Hopper			June 6
Good Mourning—Eddie Foy-Dressler-White			Sept. 5
Last Straw, The—Romney Brent			May 2
Partners—Billy Gaston			Apr. 4
Silent Partner, The—Billy Gaxton			Aug. 15
WAYNE AND WHITE COMEDIES
Good Pie Forever—Billy Wayne-Thelma White		1 reel	Aug. 8
In Your Sombrero—Billy Wayne		1 reel
Inventor, The—Billy Wayne-Thelma White		1 reel	May 16
Taking Chances—Billy Wayne-Thelma White		1 reel	May 9
With Pleasure—Billy Wayne		1 reel	May 2
WORLD TRAVEL TALKS—E. M. NEWMAN
No. 1—Little Journeys to Great Masters		1 reel
No. 2—Southern India		1 reel
No. 3—Road to Mandalay		1 reel
No. 4—Mediterranean Byways		1 reel

J. C. Jenkins—His Colyum

Twin Falls, Idaho

DEAR HERALD:

Doggone if it don't beat everything. You drive for miles and miles through a sagebrush desert and you wonder what it was ever made for and all at once you drop right down into as fine a country as there is on earth outside of the Elkhorn valley where we live.

This country around Twin Falls grows everything—alfalfa, wheat, oats, barley, potatoes, onions, sugar beets and all kinds of fruit besides a lot of Borah Republicans and a few Democrats. It just shows what this country will produce if they can get water on it, and they seem to have an abundance of water here, for you cross irrigating ditches every twenty rods and some of the water runs up hill and some down. One ditch you cross the water will be running south and in the next one it will be running north. They have sure got this water trained right.

We had a nice visit today with Will Markland, who operates the Wilson theatre at Rupert for Harris Theatres Corporation. There's a boy who impressed us as a right snappy theatre manager who divides his time between a brand new baby and the Wilson theatre. If that baby gets as much attention as the theatre does it will be a spoiled youngster before it starts eating Idaho potatoes. It's easy to spoil 'em, Billy.

At Burley we called on Mr. I. H. Harris who operates the Burley theatre.

Mr. Harris was trying to fight off a couple of film salesmen when we arrived and we watched the scrap from the sidelines. He finally won, but he was a total wreck when the scrap was over.

Mr. Harris has a string of five theatres, one at Green River, one at Evanston, one at Rupert, one at Burley and one at Buhl. He reports business as very slow with not much prospect in sight for a change for the better, which is no different from other localities we have visited.

▼

Complaint on Checking Plan

We have found considerable complaint from theatremen on the manner in which they are being checked by the Ross Federal Service. They don't object to being checked but they do object to a local man doing the checking because, they say, it gives the patrons of the house the idea that the manager is crooked. Since the public doesn't understand that it is a universal service, they get the idea that this particular manager has been singled out from the others as one who needs watching. The public should be advised that this checking service is general all over the country and that would prevent any wrong impressions of the local manager.

▼

Here in Twin Falls we met three very delightful gentlemen. Mr. Anderson, who was the head of Anderson Amusement Company until recently when he sold his two theatres, the Orpheum and the Idaho, to the Fox organization. The theatres are now being managed by Joe Kohler.

Joe K. as he is familiarily known by the Twin Falls folks, is an oldtimer in the business, having started in the picture business back when two short reels and an illustrated song sung by Joe made a complete performance and gave the customers the worth of their money.

Through the courtesy of Joe K. we were privileged to witness a showing of "Penrod and Sam" at the Idaho theatre and we were delighted with the picture. This is a picture that undoubtedly will please everybody but the flappers, but who cares about the flappers. The youngster who played the part of Penrod gave a most excellent portrayal of that character and will rank well up to the top with the best of them. We should like to see him and Mitzie Green cast in the same picture with parts commensurate with their ability.

Mr. Charles L. Bond is the owner and operator of the Roxy theatre, an independent house located between the Orpheum and Idaho theatres.

Both the Roxy and Idaho theatres were doing a capacity business last night, which would indicate that Twin Falls has not been hit as have other houses we have visited lately.

Mr. Bond and Mr. Kohler are two delightful managers to meet and Twin Falls will always be a bright spot in our itinerary.

▼

A Fine Show House

The Ramona at Buhl is a very fine show house belonging to the Harris chain of theatres and is managed by Mr. C. C. Voeller, another of Idaho's popular managers. We had a delightful visit with him and hope he will remember us as long as we do him.

At Mountain Home we met Mr. Dickerson, who operates the theatre at that point in the desert. When he introduced us to Mrs. Dickerson she grabbed us by the hand and nearly shook our arm off, and said, "Why, you old son-of-a-gun, where did you come from?" and if that reception wouldn't make you feel at home then you "hain't got no home." She wanted to go right home and cook up a big dinner for us but we wouldn't permit it because we wanted to go on to Boise. The next time we are going to put our feet under her table, by George, as Elmer Tuggle says. You should meet these two people, they are regular folks.

From Buhl we wanted to go around by Jerome, Shoshone and Gooding and meet those theatre boys but we were told that we would have about sixty miles of rough gravel road and we knew that if that road was as rough as the road from Rupert to Burley before we got over it every bolt in April Shower would be scattered along the highway and they would have to articulate the bones in our skeleton with a pitchfork. We hope those boys won't be sore because we failed to call on them, and we hope by the next time we come this way they will have the road oiled.

▼

Telling "Dusty"

When we stopped in a town today a boxcar tourist, who had lamped our license plate, came up to us and said, "Say, aren't you the fellow I rode with last fall down in Nebraska, isn't your name Smith from Nebraska?" And we replied, "Say, Dusty, you are undoubtedly suffering from a too vivid imagination. We are not from Nebraska. Nobody is FROM Nebraska who has good sense, they all stay there, and our name is not Smith. It used to be Smith until a lot of Smiths moved into our town and we were suspicioned of being directly responsible for the gradual disappearance of the chickens and watermelons of the community and so we changed our name to Cleanser, Will Cleanser, and we are one of the Gold Dust Twins, and now what is it that burdens your mind, a breakfast or a dinner?" And he replied, "Well, brother, since you have brought the subject up, and since we have long since passed the breakfast hour and are now entering the dinner period we might suggest that a little nourishment would be quite acceptable." To which we replied, "Well, Dusty, there are two of us. Our internal machinery has been running empty so long that the bearings have become rusty from the lack of proper lubrication, and now, if you have the price of a couple of dinners, it will give us great pleasure to accept your invitation to join you."

He looked at us for a moment and then as he turned to go away he said, "Oh, you go to h—l!"

▼

These Idaho folks must all be left-handed, for they put the most of the road signs on the left side of the road. Maybe they are cross-eyed.

▼

Boise, Idaho

There are five theatres here; two Publix, two independents and one Fox.

We haven't been here long enough to find out how business is, but we note that one Publix house is playing "Daddy Long Legs" at 5 cents and 15 cents up to 6 o'clock, and 10 cents and 25 cents after 6. This would indicate that business is not what it once was. When we were here two years ago these houses were doing capacity business, but two years ago and now are two different periods. What will it be two years hence? If you can answer that question correctly you will be entitled to a raise in salary with a six-months' vacation and all expenses paid, provided you can get it.

We might give you some bedtime stories but it is time we were all in bed, so if George will put the cat out and turn out the lights let's all say, "Now I lay me down to sleep."

J. C. JENKINS,
The HERALD Man

CLASSIFIED Advertising

Ten cents per word, payable in advance. Minimum charge, $1.00. Copy and checks should be addressed Classified Ad Dept., Motion Picture Herald, 1790 Broadway, New York, N. Y.

The Recognized National Classified Advertising Medium

Mail Order Bargains

MORE MONEY FOR YOU—HERE'S HOW TO BUY BRAND NEW EQUIPMENT—LOOK—Electric Fan Covers, 59c; Film Splicers, $4.95; Standard Make Lenses, $12.75; Box Office Chairs, $5.75; Screen Cleaner, $3.88 gal.; G. E. Mazda Lamphouses with Regulators, $97.50; Bench Rewinders 2000′ reel, per set $5.97; Special Theatre Carpet, 69½c per yd.; Carpet Cushion or Acoustical Felt, 27½c sq. yd.; Automatic Reflector Arc Lamps, $139.90; Carbons, 25% discount; Automatic Changeovers, per set, $39.85; Photocells, all types, each $12.95; Da-Tone Sound Screens, 39c sq. ft.; Silver Sound Screens, 54c sq. ft.; Beaded Sound Screens, 59c sq. ft. Many other bargains in new equipment. S. O. S. CORP. Dept. E-H, 1600 Broadway, New York City. Cable Address "SOSOUND," New York.

STANDARD GENUINE SOUND PRODUCTS AT WHOLESALE—Everything shipped direct from factory: Samson No. 19 Amplifiers, $55.00; Silver Marshall No. 692, $90.00; Genuine Racon Horns, complete with Unit, Transformer and Exciter, $98.00; 30 ampere Rectifiers complete with tubes, $85.00; Da-Tone Sound Screens, 38c square foot; Exciter Lamps, 98c; Rectifiers for sound-on-film, eliminates storage batteries, $45.00. Write us your needs. THEATRE SOUND SERVICE, 130 S. Clinton Avenue, Rochester, New York.

Printing

1,000—4 x 9 Theatre Dodgers, $1.25; 100—11 x 14 Tack Cards, $1.75; Address KING SHOPRINTERS, Warren, Illinois.

Theatres For Sale Or Rent

FOR SALE: Theatre, town 5,000, extraordinary bargain for quick disposal. Address Box No. 75, Motion Picture Herald, 1790 Broadway, New York.

FOR SALE OR LEASE: Beautiful theatre in small prosperous town. New sound-on-film equipment; Simplex projectors, six factories, four railroads. Have other interests; act quick. Address Alta Theatre, Altamont, Illinois.

Chairs For Sale

1,250 HIGH GRADE SPRING CONSTRUCTED CHAIRS: Full upholstered backs, covered in green Velour; Spring Seats covered in imitation Spanish leather. 600 Heywood-Wakefield panel back chairs, spring seats newly upholstered and covered in green imitation Spanish leather. Reasonable prices. Write to ILLINOIS THEATRE EQUIPMENT COMPANY, 1150 South Michigan Avenue. Chicago, Illinois.

700 USED HARDWOOD PORTABLE CHAIRS in sections of two. 1,400 Upholstered Chairs, backs fully covered in red Velour; seats covered in imitation Spanish leather—$2.00 each. 700 Leather Upholstered Chairs, heavy panel backs covered in red imitation leather—$2.25 each. Five-ply veneer chairs, 90c each, in any quantity. 400 Heywood-Wakefield upholstered panel back, squab seat covered in brown imitation leather—$2.25 each.
ILLINOIS THEATRE EQUIPMENT COMPANY, 1150 South Michigan Avenue. Chicago, Illinois.

BIG BARGAIN in used Opera Chairs, 600 upholstered, 800 veneer. Address Movie Supply Co., 844 Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Illinois.

FOR SALE: 1600 Upholstered Chairs in excellent condition. Address Picture Theatre Supply, 722 Springfield Ave., Newark, N. J.

Sound Equipment Bargains

THE LAST WORD IN SOUND ON FILM AT A REMARKABLY LOW PRICE—FOR $395.00 YOU GET—two S. O. S. Sound Heads complete with genuine Jenkins Telephoto Cells; Licensed True Tone Optical Systems; G. E. Exciter Lamps; All Drive Attachments; Operadio Combination AC Power Supply including Head Amplifier; A and B Battery Eliminator, Sound-on-Film Fader, all in one unit; Wright-DeCoster Stage Speaker; Dynamic Booth Monitor, or choice of two special G. E. Constant Motors instead. ALLOWANCE MADE FOR DISC EQUIPMENT. Sound Heads less Amplification and Speakers, $247.50 pair complete. Address S. O. S. CORP., Dept. E-H, 1600 Broadway, New York City. Cable Address, "SOSOUND," New York.

IT'S HERE—PORTABLE SOUND-ON-FILM FOR ROADSHOWING—ALL A.C. OPERATED $796.60: No Batteries, Generators or Rectifiers. Plug in any convenient light socket, set up in five minutes, ready to operate. Equipment includes Projection Machine, Sound Film Head, Combination Power Unit and Amplifier, All Tubes, and Speaker. Uses 35 mm. Film. Finest reproduction suitable for audiences up to 2,000. 92′ throw—9x12 picture. Write for particulars. Dept. E-H. S.O.S. Corp., 1600 Broadway, New York City. Cable Address, "SOSOUND," New York.

Equipment Wanted

HIGHEST PRICES paid for Simplex Projectors or Mechanisms only. Address Box No. 24, Motion Picture Herald, 1790 Broadway, New York City.

HIGHEST PRICES paid for used opera chairs, projection machines, etc. Address Movie Supply Co., 844 Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Illinois.

WANTED: Spotlights of any kind. Address R. Lee, 2711 Oaklawn, Dallas, Texas.

WANTED TO BUY Powers and Simplex mechanisms or complete machines. Address Box 485, Rochester, N. Y.

CASH PAID FOR OLD SIMPLEX PROJECTORS OR MECHANISMS. PEERLESS or Strong Reflector Arc Lamps. Will buy equipment in any condition. Pay highest prices. Address Amusement Supply Co., Inc., 630 Ninth Ave., New York, N. Y.

Theatres Wanted

EXPERIENCED THEATRE MANAGER wants to lease a theatre in the East or South. State number of seats, population, terms, etc. Address THEATRE MANAGER, 695 Chauncey Street, Brooklyn, New York.

THEATRE WANTED: to trade for residential or business property. Address S. OBLEN, 4332 19th Avenue, Kenosha, Wisconsin.

Position Wanted

SOUND OPERATOR-ELECTRICIAN, fifteen years' experience, desires position. Address WALTER INGALLS, New Hampton, Iowa.

PROJECTIONIST, EXPERIENCED, steady, reliable, competent. References. Address PHIL PORTER, Wakeeney, Kansas.

PROJECTIONIST wishes position, ten years actual experience, experienced with sound equipment, will locate anywhere. Address Harold Pope, Dierks, Ark.

PROJECTIONIST, 15 years' experience, run any projector or any sound. Will go anywhere, references. Address Joseph Szymczak, 1709 W. Burnham St., Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

Theatre Training Schools

THEATRE EMPLOYEES—Learn modern theatre management and theatre advertising. Approved and specialized home-study training for theatre employees. The Institute's training leads to better positions. Free particulars. Address THEATRE MANAGERS INSTITUTE, 325 Washington Street, Elmira, New York.

Equipment For Sale

BUY WITH CONFIDENCE—SEND FOR USED BARGAIN SHEET—HERE ARE SOME GUARANTEED VALUES. Simplex Mazda Lamphouses, $39.75; Guaranteed Rebuilt Simplex Mechanisms, $197.50; Rebuilt Powers 6B Mechanisms, $59.50; Hertner Transverters, 20/40 less panel, $75.00; Lenses, all sizes, $9.75; Audak Professional Pickups, $15.00; Sound Mixer, $3.95; Samson, Webster, Silver-Marshall Amplifiers, other makes, $12.50 up; Choice of 5,000 Upholstered Chairs, $1.00 up; Double Turntable Non-Sync Outfits, $35.00; Automatic Reflector Arcs, $69.75; Macy or Racon Giant Exponential Horns with Unit, $59.50; Hall & Connolly Hy-Lo Arc Lamps, $97.50. We buy or trade anything—WHAT HAVE YOU? S. O. S. CORP., Dept. U, 1600 Broadway, New York City. Cable Address, "SOSOUND," New York.

THEATRE EQUIPMENT, new and used. Opera chairs, projectors, screens, generators, rectifiers, reflecting arc lamps, etc. Write for bargain list and catalog. Address Movie Supply Co., 844 Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Illinois.

FOR SALE — ATTENTION INDEPENDENT DEALERS: Simplex large and small magazine rollers, and Asbestos Heat Shields, made of the best grade heat resisting material. Write for prices. Address Joe Spratler, 12-14 East Ninth Street, Chicago, Illinois.

BIG BARGAINS — Rebuilt Simplex Motor Driven Machines with type "S" Lamp Houses, with late type Flat Belt friction drive Speed Controls, $300.00 each. Rebuilt Powers 6B Motor Driven Machine, $235.00 each. DeLuxe Motiograph Machine, $250.00 each. Big Stock of Exhaust and Oscillating Fans for DC and AC current. Generators, all makes, ticket selling machines, film containers, etc., all at bargain prices for immediate shipment. Write: ILLINOIS THEATRE EQUIPMENT COMPANY, 1150 South Michigan Avenue. Chicago, Illinois.

FOR SALE—2 Late Model Peerless Reflector Arc Lamps, like new, $130.00 each; 2 Simplex Projectors, perfect condition, $195.00 each; Hertner Generator, complete, $150.00. Address Box No. 485, Rochester, New York.

BARGAINS: Silent machines and films for road shows; churches, schools and home. Power and Motiograph heads. Stereopticans and spot lights. Address National Equipment Co., Duluth, Minn.

Projector Repairing

BEST SHOP for repairing projection machines. Prompt service, reasonable prices. Address Movie Supply Co., 844 Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Illinois.

SKILLED MECHANICS, specialized tools, and a shop equipped for but one purpose can offer you nothing but the best in repair work. That is what I have, and I can offer you the best in the overhauling of your motion picture machinery equipment. One of the oldest repair men in the territory, and serving some of the largest houses. Relief equipment furnished free. For results bring your work to Joseph Spratler, 12-14 E. Ninth Street, Chicago, Illinois.

LOOK FOR BETTER PICTURES

NOT since sound first burst upon the eager ear of the movie fan have there been changes and improvements so important to the industry as those wrought by Eastman's introduction of ultra-speed negative film. They begin on the lot, and they carry through to the screen. Because of them you can look for better pictures for your audiences. And that is an augury of better business for you. Eastman Kodak Company, Rochester, New York. (J. E. Brulatour, Inc., Distributors, New York, Chicago, Hollywood.)

EASTMAN SUPER-SENSITIVE
Panchromatic Negative, Type 2

The 24-sheet from which cut-out is easily made

Many theatres are using this strikingly beautiful 24-sheet cut-out of Greta Garbo!

The terrific success of Greta Garbo and Clark Gable in "Susan Lenox" continues unabated. Here are a few out of many reports: NEW YORK: First great week close to all-time Capitol house record. Held over. DALLAS: Opening breaks all records. ST. LOUIS: Smashing "Politics" totals. BALTIMORE: Biggest opening in house history. BOSTON: Tremendous. DAYTON: Phenomenal business. RICHMOND: Biggest of year. CINCINNATI: Beating record also held by Garbo. FORT WORTH: Held for additional days, longest run in house history. ATLANTA: Bigger than previous Garbos. HOUSTON: Best since "Trader Horn." FRISCO: Gross is far beyond normal house business! LOS ANGELES: Biggest gross in a year! PORTLAND: Tripled normal gross! AND THE FUN HAS JUST BEGUN!

METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER

Home of the Big Ones!

MOTION PICTURE HERALD

A CONSOLIDATION OF EXHIBITORS HERALD-WORLD AND MOTION PICTURE NEWS

15 BOX OFFICE CHAMPIONS

STANDARD THEATRE SCREEN

Normal frame in sound-on-film, approved by studios, now up to exhibitor and distributor

THAT HELPING HAND SHOW

Vol. 105, No. 6 Entered as second-class matter, January 12, 1931, at the Post Office at New York, N. Y., under the act of March 3, 1879. Published Weekly by Quigley Publishing Co., Inc., at 1790 Broadway, New York. Subscription, $3.00 a year. Single copies, 25 cents. November 7, 1931

GEORGE BANCROFT

Dramatic Smash!

in

"Rich Man's Folly"

● The season's outstanding dramatic hit! That's the opinion of hard-boiled exhibitors who have seen it. Popular return to the screen of George Bancroft in a two-fisted role the fans are waiting for. With FRANCES DEE, ROBERT AMES, JULIETTE COMPTON and little DAVID DURAND. Directed by JOHN CROMWELL.

Big Money Pictures

PARAMOUNT

RUN RIDE FLY

—it doesn't matter how you do it,

but GET THERE!

SPECIAL NATIONWIDE TRADE SHOWINGS

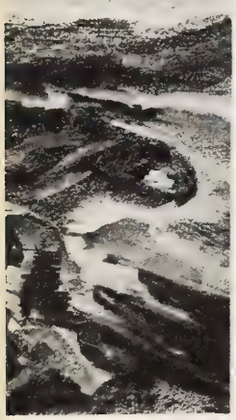
THE CHAMP

Here are a few of the New York ads—

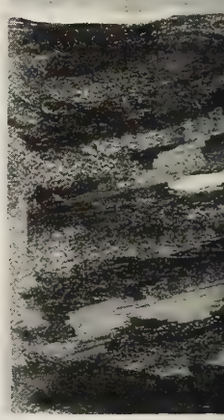
On every film row the "hot" talk is about M-G-M's "THE CHAMP", starring WALLACE BEERY, JACKIE COOPER, with King Vidor directing! Once in ten years such a show! You'll agree when you see it. "THE CHAMP" opens at the Astor in New York and the Chinese, Los Angeles at $2, twice daily! The following trade showings are being held, so that every showman in America can start to plan now for the biggest clean-up in this industry's history!

PICK YOUR SPOT!

Seattle	Paramount		Nov.10	Cincinnati	Lyric	Nov.10 11:30 P.M.
Portland	Broadway		Nov.10	Buffalo	Shea's	Nov.10 11:30 P.M.
Marshfield	Egyptian		Nov.10	Philadelphia	Loew's Keith's	Nov.15 8 P.M.
San Francisco	Milano		Nov 10	New Haven	Fox College	Nov.10
Butte	Rialto		Nov.12	Cleveland	Loew's Allen	Nov.10 11:30 P.M.
Salt Lake	Gem		Nov.10	Boston	Loew's State	Nov.10 10 A.M.
Denver	Ogden		Nov.10	Washington	Ambassador	Nov.10 2 P.M.
Kansas City	Isis		Nov.10	Albany	Harmanus Bleecker Hall	Nov.10 11:15 P.M.
Wichita	Uptown		Nov.11	Detroit	United Artists	Nov.10 11.30 P.M.
Omaha	World		Nov.10	Pittsburgh	Loew's Penn	Nov.10 12:00 Midnight
Des Moines	Des Moines		Nov.10	New Orleans	Tudor	Nov.10 9:30 A.M.
St. Louis	Ritz		Nov.10	Memphis	Memphian	Nov.10 2 P.M.
Chicago	Dearborn		Nov.10	Atlanta	Fox	Nov.15 Afternoon
Milwaukee	Davidson		Nov.10	Oklahoma City	Criterion	Nov.10 11:15 P.M
Minneapolis	Granada		Nov.10	Dallas	Texas	Nov.10 10:30 A.M.
Indianapolis	Rivoli		Nov.10
Louisville	Uptown		Nov.10
Charlotte	Carolina	Nov. 8	2:30 P.M.



Canadian exhibitors will be informed by Regal Films, Ltd. of the dates, cities and theatres in which these trade shows will be given in the Dominion.



METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER

Home of The Big Ones

The old fightin' cock's

SENSATIONAL

SUICIDE FLEET, the Navy's Big Parade, has proven by preview that it is a SENSATIONAL SMASH.

And by SENSATIONAL SMASH I mean the type of picture that a showman can show his stuff with. The exploitation angles are unlimited. And the appeal is for the whole family.

SUICIDE FLEET tells for the first time the inside story of how we sank the submarines. The Navy lent every cooperation to RKO Pathé, including submarines, destroyers and personnel.

It will be released for Thanksgiving. Those fortunate enough to get it will have plenty to be thankful for.

SUICIDE FLEET is sailing toward the box-office to torpedo all your past records!

Ned E. Depinet

General Sales Manager,
RKO Pathé

SUICIDE FLEET

BILL BOYD · ROBERT ARMSTRONG
JAMES GLEASON
GINGER ROGERS · HARRY BANNISTER
Directed by Albert Rogell
Story by Commander Herbert A. Jones
Scenario by Lew Lipton
A CHARLES R. ROGERS PRODUCTION
HARRY JOE BROWN, ASSOCIATE PRODUCER

RKO PATHÉ

FOX SOCKS 'EM with 3 B.O. CHAMPS

Three of the M. P. Herald's 15 1930-31 Box Office Champions are Fox Pictures. Here they are:

GAYNOR-FARRELL in "The MAN WHO CAME BACK"

WILL ROGERS in "A CONNECTICUT YANKEE"

GAYNOR-BAXTER in "DADDY LONG LEGS"

But THAT'S NOTHING

compared to the Fox 1931-32 B. O. bombs. "Bad Girl" and "Merely Mary Ann" are just a warm-up for . . .

GAYNOR-FARRELL in DELICIOUS

WILL ROGERS in AMBASSADOR BILL

BAXTER-LOWE in THE CISCO KID

DUNN-EILERS in OVER THE HILL

LANDI-BARRYMORE-OLIVIER in THE YELLOW TICKET

...They'll be the B. O. Champs of '31-32

YOU'VE GOT TO RECKON WITH FOX FOR PROFIT THIS YEAR

©CIB 132969
NOV -7 1931

MOTION PICTURE HERALD

Vol. 105, No. 6 — November 7, 1931

New Names and Faces

THE last fortnight has seen some decided changes in the personnel picture of the industry, some important realignments and adjustments, and others impend. This is to be taken as a healthy and normal phase of the development of the general process of reconstruction inevitable for this and other great industries in this period. There is a heartening vitality in the new array which Mr. Adolph Zukor has assembled at Paramount, for instance, in the atmosphere of vigor which surrounds the names of Mr. John Hertz, Mr. Albert Lasker and Mr. William Wrigley, Jr. They bring from other fields of endeavor an inference of inevitable success akin to the best traditions of work in the world of the motion picture. The screen has ever had the practise, or the automatic quality, of taking unto itself, its own, wherever it might be found, either in men or materials.

It is, and has been, in the natural course that the condition of economic stress, which the world has imposed on the motion picture along with every other business, should put to test every organization and place stress on weaker links which in gala days of prosperity would not be revealed. Engineers often run "destruction tests" on machines by a process of overloading. Human machines, which means corporations, are tested out the same way, not so deliberately but none the less effectively. The human machinery of the motion picture industry is now under test and here and there adjustments and replacements are inevitable. This is inherent in all organizations that live and work and grow.

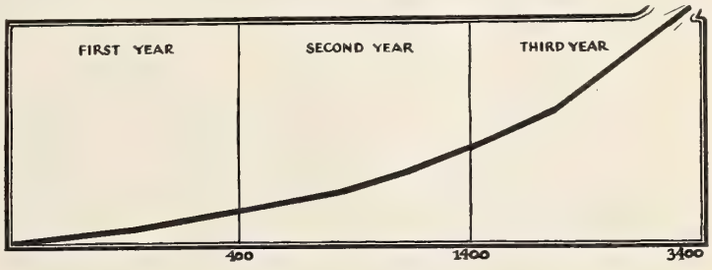
In the appointment of Mr. David Selznick to a vice-presidency and the high post of production chief for RKO Pathe and Radio Pictures comes another movement of adjustment calculated to carry over into that arena the enthusiasm of a young man's ideas, interestingly pre-proven in his prior Hollywood career. His rise and recognition may well be a pride to his philosophical and once spectacularly active father, Mr. Lewis J. Selznick.

The weeks and months ahead promise many another series of like changes on the checkerboard of manpower. Constant change is the law of life—and as we have observed in these pages before, most of the motion picture's pains are growing pains.

▲ ▲ ▲

Here's Sunshine

THE most pleasant document that has passed before these tired eyes in some weeks is the statement issued this week by Loew's, Inc., for the fiscal year ending August 31, showing net earnings of $7.46 a share. That is the cold, cash, statistical token of a success by, for and of showmen engaged strictly in the show business. A certain coterie of gentlemen, including Mr. Nicholas Schenck, Mr. J. Robert Rubin, Mr. Louis B. Mayer, Mr. Irving Thalberg and others most able are entitled to more than a formal congratulation on this signal showing. It is something beyond a handsome performance for an individual corporation: it is a demonstration in behalf of an industry.



▲ ▲ ▲

Who's Who in the Round Table

EVERY once in a while conferences do amount to something, despite all the bitter things we have written about them. Just for example the other day the editor of MOTION PICTURE HERALD and Mr. Charles E. Lewis of the Managers' Round Table Club fell into an office conversation which developed into a conference which brought forth some interesting facts about the Round Table.

A bale of morning mail was spread across the desk between. From this came the interesting fact that out of one hundred and twenty applications for membership in the Round Table in October, eighty-nine were from exhibitors who own and operate their own theatres.

Inspired by this, we decided to get solemnly statistical and run off a little "circulation audit" all our own, for this one valued department. From that came a graph, showing the growth of membership in the Round Table, thus:

Then Mr. Lewis dipped into the files and came up with an analysis showing that with a total membership of approximately 3,400, some 1,200 are owners of theatres and 400 more are independent managers, making a total of 1,600 for that general classification, while almost exactly the same number, 1,600, are circuit theatre managers, and some two hundred-and-odd have affiliations not shown on the records.

This showing right off the office records is an interesting indication of the one-ness of interest among live showmen everywhere, regardless of their special affiliations. The Round Table Club is for showmen who sell pictures to the public, whether they work for themselves or for corporations. After all it is the same public with the same whims, habits and problems.

MOTION PICTURE HERALD — MARTIN QUIGLEY, Editor-in-Chief and Publisher

Incorporating EXHIBITOR'S HERALD, founded 1915; MOTION PICTURE NEWS, founded 1913; MOVING PICTURE WORLD, founded 1907; MOTOGRAPHY, founded 1909; THE FILM INDEX, founded 1906. Published every Friday by QUIGLEY PUBLISHING COMPANY, 1790 Broadway, New York City. Telephone: CIrcle 7-3100. Martin Quigley, Editor-in-Chief and Publisher; Colvin Brown, Vice-President and General Manager; Terry Ramsaye, Editor; Ernest A. Rovelstad, Managing Editor; Chicago office, 407 South Dearborn street, Edwin S. Clifford, manager; Hollywood office, Pacific States Life Building, Leo Meehan, manager; London office, Faraday House, 8-10 Charing Cross Road, London, W.C. 2, W. H. Mooring, representative. Member Audit Bureau of Circulations. All contents copyrighted 1931 by Quigley Publishing Company. All editorial and business correspondence should be addressed to the New York office. BETTER THEATRES (with which THE SHOWMAN is incorporated), devoted to the construction, equipment and operation of theatres, is published every fourth week as section 2 of MOTION PICTURE HERALD. Other Quigley Publications: MOTION PICTURE DAILY, THE HOLLYWOOD HERALD, THE MOTION PICTURE ALMANAC, published annually, and THE CHICAGOAN.

the still of the month

A dual personality lives within the magic dimensions—seven-tenths by nine-tenths of an inch —of the motion picture film. A studio study by Gordon, photographed during the filming of a scene for Paramount's "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde." At a signal from the director the camera whirls from Holmes Herbert to Frederic March (not shown), taking a cameraman for a ride. Chief cinematographer: Karl Struss (in front of camera). Director: Rouben Mamoulian. Assistant Cinematographer George Clemens shown handling rear mechanisms of camera.

RADIO AND PATHE SALES FORCES CONSOLIDATE UNDER LEE MARCUS

Follows Amalgamation of Production Staffs

Only Establishment of Single Administrative Setup in Departments Remains to Complete Move

Sales organizations of Radio Pictures and RKO Pathe were consolidated on Thursday, under direction of Lee Marcus, until now RKO Pathe president, thereby completing the second step in the moulding of the physical structure of these two national organizations into one.

Production units were consolidated last week, under David O. Selznick, and with the realignment of sales personnel, there remains only the establishment of a single administrative setup of department heads at the home office to complete amalgamation of the two organizations.

Personnel of the remade RKO Radio-RKO Pathe sales organization, announced by Marcus, is as follows:

DISTRIBUTION

Lee Marcus, general manager.
Ned Depinet, general sales manager for the West.
Charles Rosenzweig, general sales manager for the East.
Cresson E. Smith, assistant to Depinet.
Jerome Safron, assistant to Rosenzweig.
A. H. Schnitzer, short subject sales manager.
Harry C. Cohen, Western division manager.
W. E. Callaway, Southern division manager.
E. L. McAvoy, Midwest division manager.
Harry Michaelson, Eastern division manager.

PRODUCTION

The production setup, previously announced, is as follows:

David O. Selznick, in charge of production and liaison between RKO and RKO Pathe production forces.
Joseph I. Schnitzer, in charge of business affairs of the combination.
Charles R. Rogers, in charge of RKO Pathe production.
William Le Baron, in charge of a group of Radio pictures.
Harry Joe Brown, assistant to Rogers.

Schnitzer was formerly president of RKO Radio. Ned Depinet had charge of sales for RKO Pathe and Charles Rosenzweig handled similar duties at RKO. The status of Charles Rogers remains unchanged, likewise that of Harry Joe Brown. Le Baron formerly handled RKO production.

Headquarters of Depinet and Rosenzweig will remain at New York. Their assistants, Smith and Safron, will likewise have home office headquarters, and so will A. H. Schnitzer, in charge of short subject sales.

Beginning immediately, steps will be taken to abolish one set of exchanges, with physical moving in the various exchange centers accomplished as rapidly as possible.

Marcus and Selznick Will Operate New Combination

D. O. SELZNICK
In Charge of Production

LEE MARCUS
In Charge of Distribution

Elimination of one group is expected to save the RKO interests approximately $1,600,000 annually.

Reduction of overhead at studios will likewise result in a considerable saving, it is expected.

In announcing the new alignment of branch managers, Marcus said:

"The following managers have been selected in the cities indicated with the idea in mind of retaining an equal balance of personnel between the two companies in positions of responsibility. (Seventeen branch managers are former Radioites; 16 formerly managed for RKO Pathe.) "It is the further intention," Marcus said, "to carry out this same thought throughout the entire reorganization and consolidation."

The new lineup of branch managers follows:

BRANCH	MANAGER	FORMERLY
Albany, N. Y.	C. R. Halligan	Radio
Atlanta, Ga.	C. W. Allen	Pathe
Boston, Mass.	R. C. Cropper	Pathe
Buffalo, N. Y.	R. Mochrie	Pathe
Charlotte, N. C.	R. C. Price	Pathe
Chicago, Ill.	W. E. Branson	Pathe
Cincinnati, Ohio	S. C. Jacques	Pathe
Cleveland, O.	A. Mertz	Radio
Dallas, Texas	L. E. Harrington	Radio
Denver, Colo.	J. H. Ashby	Pathe
Des Moines, Iowa	B. J. McCarthy	Radio
Detroit, Mich.	Nat Levy	Radio
Indianapolis, Ind.	R. E. Churchill	Radio
Jacksonville, Fla.	H. M. Lyons	Radio
Kansas City, Mo.	T. R. Thompson	Pathe
Los Angeles, Calif.	J. H. McIntyre	Pathe
Memphis, Tenn.	P. M. Baker	Radio
Milwaukee, Wis.	A. N. Schmitz	Radio
Minneapolis, Minn.	M. J. Frisch	Radio
New Haven, Conn.	Nat Furst	Pathe
New Orleans, La.	G. C. Brown	Pathe
New York, N. Y.	R. S. Wolff	Pathe
Oklahoma City	R. B. Williams	Pathe
Omaha, Nebr.	Lou Elman	Pathe
Philadelphia, Pa.	Sam Rosen	Radio
Pittsburgh, Pa.	Cleve Adams	Radio
Portland, Ore.	H. L. Percy	Pathe
St. Louis, Mo.	R. V. Nolan	Pathe
Salt Lake City, Utah	T. J. Walsh	Radio
San Francisco, Cal.	G. Wm. Wolf	Radio
Seattle, Wash.	E. A. Lamb	Radio
Sioux Falls, S. D.	S. W. Fitch	Radio
Washington, D. C.	F. L. McNamee	Radio

Several managers of both organizations who have been deposed as branch heads will be retained in the capacity of "sales manager." Many others will be assigned to the sales staff.

The following Radio men have been deposed as managers in the rearrangement:

C. B. Ellis, Atlanta; W. H. Gardiner, Boston; J. W. Holden, Buffalo; William Conn, Charlotte; W. W. Brumberg, Chicago; S. N. Feinstein, Denver; Claude Penrod, Indianapolis; N. P. Jacobs, Los Angeles; B. Pitkin, New Haven; Paul H. Tessier, New Orleans; Jack Ellis, New York; Sam Benjamin, Oklahoma City; M. H. Schulgold, Pittsburgh; W. B. J. Kelly, Portland, Ore.; and E. W. Penrod, St. Louis.

S. W. Fitch was transferred from Omaha to Sioux Falls. R. E. Churchill was transferred from Kansas City to Indianapolis.

RKO Pathe managers who, as managers, have given way to Radio men are:

L. Garvey, Albany; Harry Gibbs, Cleveland; A. M. Avery, Dallas; N. Sandler, Des Moines; H. Silverberg, Detroit; Jack B. Corbett, Indianapolis; S. M. Sachs, Memphis; M. E. Montgomery, Minneapolis; George Lefko, Pittsburgh; R. W. Drew, Salt Lake City; M. E. Cory, San Francisco; and Robert Smeltzer, Washington.

Lou Elman, formerly RKO Pathe manager in Milwaukee, has been transferred to Omaha as manager of the combined exchanges. R. Mochrie, former manager of RKO Pathe Philadelphia exchange, becomes manager of the new Buffalo exchange, and H. L. Percy, formerly RKO Pathe Seattle manager, goes to Portland as manager.

The general administrative setup of department heads, over realignment of which there exists considerable speculation, has not as yet been determined. This is the third and final step in the consolidation, after which RKO Pathe and RKO Radio will no longer exist as separate physical identities, except from a corporate standpoint on a set of books. However, motion

(Continued on page 30)

Debenture Issue Seen As New Financial Move

David Selznick Heads Production—Schnitzer in Charge of Business Affairs of Combination

Brown Announces Changes

Hiram S. Brown, president of Radio-Keith-Orpheum Corporation, and chairman of the board of RKO Radio Pictures, Inc., and RKO Pathe Pictures, Inc., late on Thursday made the announcement of combining distribution of the two organizations, under the direction of Lee Marcus.

STANDARD SOUND-ON-FILM FRAME AWAITING EXHIBITORS' SANCTION

Ratio of Three-to-Four Okayed by Producers

To Theatremen Adoption Would Mean Image of Same Proportions Throughout U. S. Industry

Adoption of standard sound-on-film frame dimensions of approximately the same ratio as those of the silent film now awaits only the sanction of the exhibiting branch of the industry. Although the distributors have yet to give their final approval, the new-sized frame recommended by the technicians' committee of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts & Sciences, has been assented to by the producers, who, in the main, are the leading distributors.

To the exhibitors, adoption of the proposed standard frame of the recommended ratio of three-to-four, would mean (a) an image of the same proportions throughout the American industry, whether sound be on film or disc; (b) elimination of present optical and mechanical contrivances for proportional shifting from sound-on-disc to sound-on-films; and (c) provision in the projector head and, in some cases, at the screen, for a normal image projected from a lower frame.

Efficiency in Three-to-Four

Inasmuch as the Academy investigation showed that the narrowed "movietone" frame is largely being projected as a three-to-four image anyway, this was the proportion decided on, and thus the effect of a normally proportioned sound-on-film frame would be most apparent to the public, and have its greatest efficiency in the processes of the studio.

The public, for example, would notice an improved pictorial quality. Parts of characters no longer would be cut off. The edges of scenes would not be restricted to unimportant matter. And, of course, in those theatres which have been using the narrowed image, masking the screen to eliminate the sound track, patrons would note an image more adapted to the psycho-physiology of natural vision and also not disturbing them with images that differ from those of sound-on-disc, or from those in accommodated theatres.

See Saving of Time and Costs

To the business of manufacturing motion pictures, the Academy expects important contributions, some of great effect upon production costs. Cinematographers estimate that from a half-hour to an hour a day now spent in setting up for composition in three apertures—full-frame, "movietone" frame and proportional—can be saved. Studio technicians also declare that scaffold lights could be lowered from three to five feet, thus making possible a reduction in the wattage or number of units. In general, sets could be made smaller, since at present they have to be expanded so as to fill portions of the frame that in actual theatrical projection are masked off in many houses by proportional apertures.

A highly important effect is also expected upon the quality of the pictures, both in sound and image. Since tolerances in height would not have to be made, the microphones could be lowered from an estimated three to five feet. The cinematographer, moreover, could utilize the full frame to advantage, instead of being restricted by the artificial limitation of present ground-glass dimensions adopted when proportional projector apertures came into general use.

Advantages pointed out as accruing even to those theatres which use the proportional aperture include a gain in screen image of an estimated 4 per cent, without additional magnification. It is also cited that when the film should go out of frame, the projectionist would be warned by seeing a frame line, and also, in such event, the lines would be sufficiently wide to permit correction of the misframe before noticed by the audience. More uniform prints, it is said, would be another result.

The actual linear dimensions recommended call for a camera aperture of .651x.868 inches, and a projector aperture of .615 x .820. Ground glass dimensions now applied in production are .620x.835, while the "movietone" projector aperture now is .680x.800. Frames will remain at their same relative distance apart, the lowered height being compensated for by increase in the amount of opaque area between them.

It is pointed out by the Academy, in response to an inquiry from the Radio Manufacturers Association, that the proposed frame dimensions allow for an adaptation to the requirements of television

This Week

Sales organizations of Radio Pictures and RKO Pathe are consolidated under Lee Marcus Page 9

Standard sound-on-film frame awaits sanction of exhibitors Page 10

Doubt change of Paramount policy as Hertz, Lasker and Wrigley enter directorate Page 11

How to run helping hand show Page 13

FEATURES

Editorial Page 7
Still of the Month Page 8
The Camera Reports Page 15
J. C. Jenkins—His Colyum Page 78
Selections, by Rita C. McGoldrick Page 56

DEPARTMENTS

Box Office Receipts Page 31
Chicago Page 49
Passing in Review Page 50
Managers Round Table Page 59
Short Features Page 49
Music and Talent Page 79
Sound Reproduction Page 53
The Release Chart Page 75
Classified Advertising Page 82

Screen Silvering Preparation Made By Warner People

Technicians connected with the sound department of the Warner theatre circuit, have perfected a preparation for giving the porous screen the same effectiveness in the matter of light that was possessed by the old silver screen. The preparation is said to be already beyond the trial stage, having been demonstrated effectively.

Frank E. Cahill, Jr., sound engineer in charge of Warner theatre equipment, stated in connection with the new preparation: "Unless it is done with the greatest care it is dangerous to wash a porous screen for it is likely to be streaked, which is bad. The silvering process improves the screen and is easy to keep clean. We are now doing over the screens in a number of our houses."

Maude Adams Is Back on the Stage

Maude Adams, famous Frohman star, long and unsuccessfully sought by motion pictures, has returned to the stage again after thirteen years. Tuesday night she became the toast of Cleveland, opening there in the role of "Portia" in "The Merchant of Venice." A special feature of her return to the stage is the use of a special form of lighting, said to have been evolved under Miss Adams' direction in her several years of research at electrical laboratories in her years of retirement. She was at one time said to be concerned not only with lighting devices but also a motion picture color process.

Robert Flaherty, the camera adventurer made famous by "Nanook of the North" and "Moana," worked with Miss Adams for some months, until their somewhat diverse but equally marked temperaments clashed. It is deemed improbable now that Miss Adams will ever face the motion picture camera. Her present schedule includes a tour of the west and south which will bring her to New York and Broadway sometime in April, if the production continues its road success. The guessers calculate that Miss Adams share promises to range between $4,000 and $5,000 a week.

Flinn, Lally Must Stand Trial

Indictments against John C. Flinn and Henry F. Lally in connection with the Pathe studio fire of 1929 have been upheld by the appellate division of the supreme court, and the two will have to stand trial.

Universal Takes Criterion

New York's Criterion on Broadway will be used by Universal as a two-a-day for the premiere run of "Strictly Dishonorable," starting Tuesday night.

DOUBT PARAMOUNT POLICY CHANGE AS HERTZ, LASKER, WRIGLEY ENTER

Exhibitors Get Behind Move to Cut Studio Cost

The campaign of the MPTO of Eastern Pennsylvania, Southern New Jersey and Delaware, designed "to secure relief from the stranglehold which star salaries have fastened on the picture business," it is understood, is to be linked with other demands that excessive negative costs be reduced.

Exhibitors organizations over the country, under the plan, are to appoint members of a "fact finding commission, which will go to Hollywood to study the situation and outline exhibitor problems to producers. The committee will seek a round table conference on the subject of production costs and audience tastes and reactions.

David Barrist, chairman of the board of managers of the Pennsylvania exhibitor unit, said in commenting on the situation: "We have no quarrel with legitimate salaries paid to real stars, but we cannot afford to pay the freight on out-of-proportion salaries paid to incompetents." A meeting of the board of managers is scheduled this week to further consider plans.

New Invention Gives Sound and Radio New Throat

Much interest in technical circles has been aroused over a new invention which, it is claimed, will provide sound pictures as well as radio with a new and revolutionary type of "throat."

According to Dr. Karl Lark-Horovitz, head of the physics department of Purdue University, Lafayette, Ind., the invention, which was developed by C. K. Stechman, of Vancouver, in the university's laboratory, consists of a drum-shaped pickup made of a gold leaf membrane 50 to 100 atomic diameters in thickness, which is said to be the practical equivalent of one-millionth of an inch. This membrane is stretched taut, similar to the head of a drum, over a steel ring, the diameter of which is somewhat larger than a silver dollar.

Since it is a physical impossibility for either the fingers or a machine to stretch so thin a membrane without tearing, it is done by the movement of atoms when metals expand in the heat and contract in the cold. This property is their "coefficient of expansion" and is used to give the gold leaf three separate stretchings. Authorities claim that this big pickup reproduces low frequencies, or deep tones, with practically no distortion. It can be used for both the pickup of sound and for loud speakers.

COMMENDED

WHEREAS MOTION PICTURE DAILY has cooperated with this organization in its campaign against extravagance of the producing companies due to unwarranted waste in the course of making of pictures; unwarranted high salaries paid to stars, executives, and a total disregard for the present trend in economic retrenchment, now therefore be it

RESOLVED by the M.P.T.O. of Eastern Pennsylvania, Southern New Jersey, and Delaware at a meeting of its board of managers held in Philadelphia on November 5, 1931, that the highest commendation be extended to MOTION PICTURE DAILY for its plain spoken editorials on this stand.

Schenck May Be Production Head

If Sam Goldwyn refuses to renew his production activities with Art Cinema Corp., Joseph M. Schenck may be forced to resume active production in his stead, it was stated in New York this week. Schenck declared he was attempting to induce Goldwyn to continue as head of production, and that the latter's decision is expected around December 1, when Goldwyn is slated to arrive in New York.

Schenck also stated that he was now concluding negotiations with Lewis Milestone to direct pictures for Art Cinema Corp. Milestone leaves for Russia next month to direct Douglas Fairbanks in a picture similar to "Around the World in 80 Minutes." Last season, Goldwyn was persuaded by Schenck to take over Art Cinema production, and made four pictures for that firm in addition to the three he made on his own.

Beery Home Burns

The Beverly Hills residence of Wallace Beery was destroyed by fire reported of unknown origin early Wednesday while the star was flying his plane between Kansas City and Chicago, on his way to New York to attend the opening of "The Champ," at the Astor on Monday evening.

Kent Points to 3 Years To Run on Contract

Move Again Shows Important Places Held by Chicagoans in Motion Picture Sun

Three names, new to the screen world, but looming large in the picture of American business—Lasker, advertising; Wrigley, gum; Hertz, taxicabs—are to be added to the Paramount directorate at a meeting announced for next Monday.

With this announcement this week the stock of the corporation began to show vibrations of increased interest in Wall Street.

Broadway and the financial district enjoyed the expected flood of rumors concerning changes in policy, personnel and the like, but actual developments of the sort were not yet in evidence. The official statement of the move as issued by the publicity department of the corporation follows:

Adolph Zukor, president of Paramount Publix Corporation, announces that John Hertz of Chicago has accepted an invitation to become a member of the board of directors and chairman of the finance committee of the company and would become actively engaged in its executive management. William H. English, heretofore chairman of the finance committee, will become chairman of the board.

"I have known John Hertz for a great many years," observed Mr. Zukor, "and recently invited him to become actively engaged in the executive management of Paramount Publix Corporation. He was the founder and chairman of the Yellow Cab Company of Chicago and of the Yellow Truck and Coach Corporation. He is also a director of the First National Bank of Chicago. I am certain that the confidence displayed by him in our organization by becoming a member of it and his ability, as displayed in all of the enterprises with which he has heretofore been connected, will be beneficial to our corporation.

"I have also invited to become members of the board of directors Mr. Albert D. Lasker, who is the chairman of Lord, Thomas and Logan, one of the largest advertising agencies in America and who was chairman of the United States Shipping Board, together with Mr. William Wrigley, Jr., who is chairman of the board of the Wrigley Company in Chicago and is the owner of the Chicago National League Baseball Club. Both of these men, who are thoroughly familiar with advertising and merchandising, should be of great assistance to the corporation in its advertising and merchandising problems."

This development was considered in the

(Continued on page 18)

STORY THE THING NOW, SAYS BANKER

Credits Talking Pictures With Forcing Out Star System, Thus Permitting Production Economy

An INTERVIEW by the ANALYST

MOTION PICTURE HERALD presents the following interview because it reveals opinions pertaining to this industry held by a banker very high indeed in world financial affairs and incidentally variously identified with motion picture interests.

The fact of publication is not to be taken as implying agreement with the viewpoints expressed. In its function of purveying news the HERALD must often presents quotations, ever within quotation marks, of statements and opinions in which it does not concur. What important persons say is news because they say it, if for no other reason.

In this instance most showmen will agree, we are sure, that no matter how earnestly bankers may wish to eliminate the power of personality it will always persist as one of the big vital factors of the amusement industry. The traits of the human race make it so and nothing could be done about it if one wanted to do something. Real stars are created by forces as elusively uncontrollable as gravity.

—TERRY RAMSAYE

Without claiming credit for having brought it about, a partner in a banking house closely associated with one of the major distribution companies points to the present policy of production as a vindication of the theory held by financial men which has led to numerous arguments between them and production executives. This banker holds that the present season is the first one in which the motion picture industry has demanded service of every person on the payroll and has made a sincere effort to vest their best box office assets in the company's trademark rather than in personalities.

In other words, he believes that the star system has been definitely abandoned and never will return, that motion picture companies realize now what good stories are more essential than a cast headed by some one who has been highly publicized. He regards the new situation as he sees it as being the most encouraging sign that he has observed in the industry in 17 years of more or less intimate financial association. He credits the sudden arrival of talking pictures as the real reason for the change.

"Up to the time of talking pictures," he said, "The only asset which a motion picture company had was the names of its stars. Salesmen sold so many Richard Dixes, so many Bebe Daniels, so many Colleen Moores, and so on and the companies retained these assets only as long as they were willing to pay bigger and bigger money for the sake of retaining a thing which they themselves had created—the prestige of the particular player. Such assets were always ephemeral, for the whims of the individual in which they were vested could spoil their value overnight or else carry it to a rival company. But they kept on the same old round picking out individuals, spending plenty of money on them in the attempt to make them a box office asset only to find that in most cases it was the player they had chosen for fame who insisted upon getting, and got, the major share of the profits out of his pictures.

"It is more than probable that this system would have continued indefinitely. Exhibitors had learned to judge pictures by the player who headed the cast, or, in some instances, by the director, but in any case by individuals. There were numerous executives who fully appreciated the instability of profits from such a system, but feared to change because of a doubt as to whether pictures could be sold upon any other basis. Then came the talking pictures.

"The different talents required by talking pictures suddenly put all the companies in a position where they did not have a name to sell. The slate was wiped clean as far as the star system was concerned. Names which had meant advanced rentals a few months previously could not be sold for anything when dialogue had become established. There was a grand rush for stage stars, for anyone who had ever proved that he or she could talk English distinctly enough so that it could be understood. In this rush, however, the motion picture executives did not show any signs of having abandoned the star system. They tried to buy names, but in most cases failed—due in most of the cases that came under my observance to the outlandish demands of the players of the legitimate stage.

"Although this attitude on the part of the legitimate stage stars was bewailed at the time by motion picture executives, it turned out to be one of the most fortunate breaks which has ever happened to the industry. The popularity of a player with the number of people who could crowd into one theatre in the course of an extensive run was not enough to charm the 20,000,000 who make up the audience for the average picture. In other words, stage experienced players were not the solution of talking pictures. So the individual who got a contract had to have something more than a theatrical or motion picture reputation to recommend him. The motion picture salesman found that he could sell pictures instead of names.

"A few months later, a second discovery was made. The distributing companies found that their chief customers were other distributing and producing companies. This was due to the fact that the distributing companies had the first call on talking picture projection equipment for their theatres and for several months the only theatres equipped for showing talking pictures were the big chains owned by companies which were producing pictures. This new type of customer had found that he could sell pictures to the public and did not necessarily have to have a wellknown name to put in the lights above his theatre door. With this discovery came the beginning of the present era in which, from all outward appearances, the individual has been subordinated to story value.

"Of course, this change in system does not mean that there will no longer be stars. The Greta Garbos and the Maurice Chevaliers will always climb to the top and their names will be used as a box office draw. It will be a reputation that they manufacture through their own talents, however, and while doing so will be delivering full value to the company which develops them. This is a great change from the era when most reputations were manufactured in the publicity departments even before the public had had a chance to pass upon the star.

"The motion picture industry has come through the depression in better shape than many of other industries. It could not have made as good a showing under the old system. Manufactured stars permitted of no economy. The real star is always worth whatever he or she is paid. During the last season pictures manufactured under the new policy of getting a dollar's worth of talent in return for every dollar spent on production permitted several companies to pay off the heavy debts incurred by the wild attempt of the previous season to manufacture talking picture stars through publicity and special productions. The independent exhibitor is just awakening to the fact that 'Always a Good Picture' as a house slogan entices more money than 'The Home of Stars.'

"A second good result of this abandonment of names as the chief ingredient of product is the end of the jealousy between companies regarding their players. In the past few weeks we have seen the same player in a prominent role in two big productions by different companies and playing in competing theatres on Broadway. Such a situation is assurance to producers that they can always adequately cast a picture whether or not they have the ideal players for certain roles under contract themselves. This willingness of companies to loan their players to rivals results in the saving of salaries during idle periods to the companies which have these players under contract. This saving amounts to considerable over the period of a year and also enhances the value of the players by permitting them to appear in parts for which they are fitted. Any producing company thus makes a double gain. It can adequately cast any production it chooses to make and can also allocate a goodly percentage of its player cost to other companies."

HOW TO RUN HELPING HAND SHOW

Small City Gets Same Opportunity as Big Town in Motion Picture Week November 18-25

By CHARLES E. LEWIS

The motion picture industry can always be depended on to get back of any worthwhile move for national relief or other worthy purpose. And the industry, as a whole, generally comes through with flying colors. But, rarely does the average smaller city exhibitor participate in the activities or success of such drives. Why they don't is not a hard question to answer. The reason lies chiefly in the fact that these drives are not brought home to them forcibly enough and naturally they lose interest and just sit by and let it go at that.

Now we find the entire industry allied in a concentrated effort to help the unemployment situation with a special National Motion Picture Week which will be observed November 18 to 25, inclusive. But this time the smaller city showman is going to take as big and as active a part as his brother showmen in the larger key cities. In so doing, he will be aiding his own local situation and emphasizing to his community that the theatre is always glad to take the lead in all matters of a local nature.

This will be done by reason of the special benefit show which every public-spirited showman will sponsor via his theatre, a benefit show backed by a national campaign that is bound to attract the attention of every person in the community and add prestige and good will for the theatre itself.

First: we must not lose sight of the fact that every community, whether large or small, has its own individual unemployment troubles, families whose breadwinner cannot find steady employment, or perhaps has been out of a job for a long time. Don't confuse this issue with the usual for-the-poor-or-needy benefits which have been the rule for many years past. This special show is aimed solely at relief for the unemployed. Keep away from any idea that may tie the other slants into it. Its success depends on your treating it exactly as we are emphasizing it. Help for the Unemployed.

For the Unemployed Only

While it is true that the same agencies or organizations that have specialized in aiding the poor and needy are also active in unemployment relief, they must be sold on this idea for the unemployment phase only. Any suggestion that the funds so raised should be used for a general purpose must be killed the moment it comes to the fore. And in this respect it may be better for the local showmen to utilize the organized committees in the town, but also form a separate committee for this special show and purpose.

There are numerous ways and means of getting behind a move of this sort. Therefore, such suggestions as are offered in this article must be accepted as only suggestions, and if they form a basis for you to start the ball a-rolling, all the better. Otherwise, let your own good judgment prevail and start your campaign moving along such lines as your individual conditions may dictate.

Where to Get Accessories

Accessories for the "Helping Hand Show" can be obtained as follows:

Special tickets: Order them direct from the company you purchase your regular tickets from. All ticket companies are printing them and will supply their regular accounts free.

Posters, Stickers and Pennants: All Columbia exchanges.

Talking Trailer, featuring Eddie Cantor: All United Artists exchanges.

Press Books and Mats: All Universal exchanges.

The press book will give you a complete lineup of all accessories and shows the type of material available. Posters are being made up in ones, threes and twenty-four sheets.

For other information communicate with the Managers' Round Table Club, MOTION PICTURE HERALD, 1790 Broadway, New York City.

The national committees have been working day and night under pressure to provide you free of charge with everything necessary for the successful handling of your special benefit show. Talking trailers, posters, lobby cards, benefit performance tickets, a marvelous press book and many other aids have been made up and will be ready for distribution before this story goes to press. Grab that press book right away. Devour its contents. Note the many suggestions it contains for the organizing of the show, the committees, the exploitation, the advertising double truck for your local paper, the banners (which will be available at half price), the news stories that your paper will be glad to get. And don't overlook those mats for your ads.

The leading brains of the industry have worked together to make this material 100 per cent perfect and you will be delighted to have such material to work with. It not only will make your benefit show announcements outstanding, but it actually will build up interest in the show itself and bring out patrons who rarely attend the theatre. That's one of the real interesting sidelights. This benefit show of yours will attract patrons who don't come out as often as they should and possibly will make them come more steadily. Besides it will bring out-of-town patrons into your town and theatre. That ought to count for something in every man's theatre.

Perhaps, if I were to tell you how I would go about organizing a show of this sort, backed by many years in theatre operation, it would make the telling far more simple and more easily understood. So with that thought in mind I'll start from the beginning:

First, I must be sold myself before I can sell others. To become sold solidly on the idea we must know what it's all about and what must be done. To find this out, you should get every bit of material available and follow the progress of the national campaign in every detail. That won't be hard if you just keep your eye on the trade press for the "dope" of what's going on.

Having learned all there is to know about the purpose and the thought back of the entire National Motion Picture Week campaign, I would then proceed as follows:

Get your newspaper editor and go into the idea thoroughly with him. Have his advertising manager there, too—he'll be interested in that double truck advertising scheme. Get him as enthused as you are and then, together, visit the mayor or call a meeting of the mayor and all other influential citizens of your community leaders of the various welfare organizations and the Chamber of Commerce. There you have your start; your committee that will take over the actual work from the time you sell them on this great idea. Selling them should be your easiest task because you, as the theatre manager, will be making the first and greatest sacrifice in donating, absolutely free, your house and the show, plus the services of every one of your staff.

Manager Must Lead

If the folk you call together are real public-spirited citizens they will jump at the chance to participate and help in every possible way. But some one must take the lead and point out how every detail should be handled. That's your job. Be prepared to answer all their questions and to make the entire thing clear to each and every one of them.

Have the mayor frame an impressive proclamation, have the more influential men and women make statements, get the newspaper editor to write a special editorial about it. All these slants can be utilized to good advantage in your own campaign. The mayor's proclamation can be enlarged for an immense lobby display, and the other statements can be used for newspaper publicity, and so on.

The disposition of the tickets is one angle that must be done through the committee rather than through the theatre. Each organization in the town should pledge itself to dispose of a certain number of tickets. Be careful, in towns where ticket sale is restricted to seating capacities, that you don't oversell, unless you are in a position to take care of the overflow. That's another one of YOUR problems.

Every merchant in the town should carry conspicuous signs in his windows announcing the event and the sale of tickets. The women welfare workers in particular should

(Continued on page 58)

BEAVERBROOK SEEKS FOX SHARES IN GAUMONT IN EMPIRE CRUSADE

Part of Comeback Effort In Film and Theatre

Publisher Already in Moss Vaudeville Circuit—Reported Planning Invasion of Production Field

By WM. H. MOORING, London.

Lord Beaverbrook, British press magnate, and Empire Crusader, is planning a big comeback into the film and theatre world, and is said to be dickering for the Fox holdings in the Metropolitan and Bradford Trust, Gaumont-British financial company. This he would hope to augment by taking over the 2 per cent held by Lord Lee of Farsham, chairman of the Metropolitan and Bradford, which would in all comprise an interest of 51 per cent in Britain's largest film-theatre combine.

Momentum for Crusade

The psychology of such a deal is clear: it would add momentum to Lord Beaverbrook's Empire Crusade by clearing the Gaumont-British organization of the influence now exercised by Fox of U. S. A.

Beaverbrook is already in Moss Empires —a chain of vaudeville theatres—and with Will Evans, late of Gaumont-British, is pressing forward the conversion of these theatres to talkers. Moss Empires already has a working arrangement with the Gaumont-British concern which dates from the big Bromhead-Evans merger of the Gaumont and P. C. T. circuits. (Also in Moss Empires are Col. A. C. Bromhead, former Gaumont chief, and R. H. Gillespie.

Reported Entering Production

Lord Beaverbrook is also said to be planning an entry into British production.

The Fox situation in this country, however, will presumably offer certain obstacles to the acquisition by Lord Beaverbrook, or any other bidder, of the interest they hold in the Gaumont financing company. The difficulties which once clouded the arrangement under which Fox had hoped to secure blanket dates throughout the Gaumont circuit, have been all but smoothed away, and the Gaumont concerns under the Ostrers are making handsome profits, besides setting new standards in quality of the major British output. Furthermore, just at the moment Fox is without any theatre interests in this country such as are possessed by Paramount, Metro, Radio and United Artists. That 49 per cent held by Fox must be of some considerable value above par to the American concern, though in view of political moves of anti-foreign bias, Lord Beaverbrook, who is extremely wealthy as well as tremendously powerful, might make tempting offers. There is no underrating the effect on his public—he is definitely in the running for a big political power—of his complete overthrow of all foreign influences within the largest British combine.

Rita C. McGoldrick
Motion Picture Herald
1790 Broadway
New York City

Dear Mrs. McGoldrick:

Your letter of September 30th reached me at Rochester and I reviewed the matter with pleasure and great satisfaction. I am especially happy over what you have to say about the Boy Scout picture, "The Lost Valley."

I like the plan of the SCHOOL AND SCREEN very much. It is undoubtedly doing great good.

Sincerely and cordially yours,

BOY SCOUTS OF AMERICA
James West
Chief Scout Executive

Boston Club Will "Crusade" To Make Screen "Smirchless"

Boston, the town of double censorship standards, having one set for weekdays and another for Sundays, has developed another peculiar complex; reformation on a national scale.

A committee of the 20th Century Club Civic Welfare League on Thursday launched what it hopes will develop into a nationwide "crusade" to make the screen "smirchless," striving to organize public sentiment against alleged "inferior" films through Parent-Teachers Associations, women's clubs and civic associations. Federal regulations of films will be sought.

"Judges, probation officers, and social workers blame inferior films to a great extent for the increase of delinquency among youth in the United States," said Harold P. Whitney, the club's secretary.

In its campaign to enlist country-wide support for the desired legislation the committee probably would circulate a "white list," which would contain names of approved films. The chairman of the Twentieth Century Club's motion picture committee is a woman, Mrs. Lucia Ames Mead of Brookline, whose husband, Edwin Mead, was a founder of the World Peace Foundation.

Carolina Convention Dec. 7

The Carolina Theatre Owners Association, including several hundred owners of both Carolinas, will hold its mid-winter convention in Charlotte on December 7. Various problems will be discussed, with Charles W. Picquet, of Pinehurst, N. C., president, presiding.

Michigan Allied Ousts Leaders of "Rebel" Movement

First official action against "rebel" exhibitor members of Allied who bolted the Michigan state organization and formed Detroit Exhibitors' Club came late this week when the Allied board voted to remove from its roster the names of Sam Ackerman, Harry Clark, William Schulte and Joe Portell, who are charged with being the leaders in a move to create dissension in Allied ranks, and for issuing a bulletin which attacked the Allied policies.

The bulletin which aroused the ire of the Allied board described the recent Allied convention as a "cut-and-dried" affair with the election of officers being all set before the vote at the convention took place. It accused the Allied directors of being a "steam roller which paved a smooth road for the engineer." H. M. Richey, Allied general manager, is the engineer, according to the club's leaders.

Official notice to other members of the Detroit Exhibitors Club has not been sent, although Allied declares a member of the club cannot be a member of Allied. However, the club has issued an edict declaring that an Allied member cannot belong to D. E. C.

The club is planning to hire a general manager whose duties will be similar to those of Richey. Expansion to include exhibitors in the state also is being considered. There has been talk of the club affiliating with the M.P.T.O.A., but it is understood the club leaders are not in favor of such a move at present.

MPTOA Convention Set For Washington Early in 1932

The MPTOA will hold its next convention, probably in January or February, in Washington, because of the Washington bicentennial celebration and the administration's proposed tax program. The information was contained in a letter from M. J. O'Toole, secretary of the MPTOA to the Kansas City Chamber of Commerce, answering the city's offer that the convention be held there.

An earlier tentative promise was to the effect that the convention would be held there, but the possible taxation made the change in plans necessary. The following convention may go to Kansas City.

Ohio MPTO Postpones Meet

The MPTO of Ohio has postponed its annual convention until January after a referendum vote of members conducted by P. J. Wood, business manager. The meeting is usually held in November. Unsettled conditions at present dictated the postponement, it is understood.

THE CAMERA REPORTS

ACME PHOTO

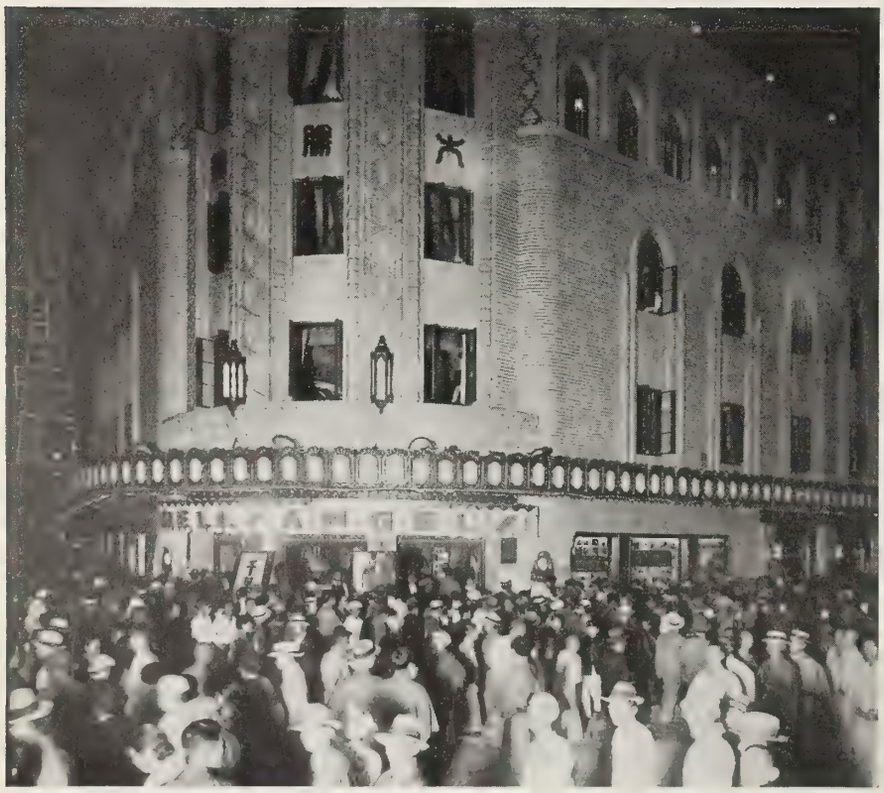
NEWLYWEDS. Just when everybody figured he was a confirmed bachelor, Richard Dix up and married. And here he is with his bride, Winifred Coe, daughter of a retired San Francisco business man.

PORTRAIT. A new one, and one especially appreciative of the curvilinear beauty of Lillian Bond, Warner Brothers contract player. Photography by Ferenc.

BACK TO PICTURES. Edward G. Robinson, East for the premiere of his latest starring picture, Warner Brothers' "Five Star Final," and also for personal appearances, as he and Mrs. Robinson left New York for Hollywood the other day.

POLO SPECTATORS. While company colleagues play the game. Joe E. Brown and his boss, Jack L. Warner, watching the 11th Cavalry-Los Indios teams clash. Three Warner executives—Darryl Zanuck, Lucien Hubbard and Raymond Griffith—are members of the Los Indios team.

THAT BIG ONE. And this one he got. It's the 92-pound marlin that Harry Rapf, M-G-M studio executive, brought home from Catalina as evidence of his vaunted fishing skill. It took Rapf only 22 minutes to land the big swordfish, and that's said to be a record.



A DAD AND A PROVERBIAL CHIP. Filmdom's Douglas Fairbankses—Senior and Junior—as they met the other day to decide the family golf championship, Dad being an excellent golfer, while Son is one of Warner Brothers' star—er—actors. (Follow through on that one!)

GIRL-FRIEND'S. (Above.) Another family portrait, as 'twere, is this one of Ruth Hall, First National player of featured roles, and her mother—the first published of them together.

THAT HAT! Enough of it, at least, to show the Princesse Eugenie tilt over the right ear of Dorothy Jordan, M-G-M featured player. However, Dorothy is nice, is she not?

AIR-MINDED TOKYO. And this crowd isn't at an airport, either. Just swarming over sidewalks and street in the Japanese metropolis trying to get into the Taiyo-Kan theatre to see the United Artists' aviation thriller, "Hell's Angels". This picture was taken on the second night of the picture's run in Tokyo. Note title in our Arabic characters.

RIDE 'EM COWBOY! Pigs is pigs, yet only bronch's to Bill Cody, Monogram Western star. Bill is shown winning a hog riding contest in Tulsa, Okla., while appearing at Phil Isley's theatres there.

A VISIT. (Above) As Mrs. Herbert T. Kalmus, wife of the head of Technicolor and his co-worker, visited Winnie Lightner on the set for Warner Brothers' "Manhattan Parade".

NEW "GANGSTER". Kendall McComas, new member of Hal Roach's "Our Gang". He's eight years old, has plenty of freckles, and will be known as "Breezy" Brisbane.

THE UNEXPECTED CALL. Delighting a lovely lady at going-to-bed-time, or getting-up-time, or what time have you? At least just a moment, please, for Joan Blondell, rather new to screen fans, yet already a featured player.

MUTUAL SUPPORT. That is indeed to say that Joan Crawford and Clark Gable back each other up in her latest M-G-M picture, "Possessed," he as her leading man. Clarence Brown directed.

OFFICIALLY ARRIVED. Monogram's greeting for Herman Rifkin—one of Rifkin, Rifkin & Rifkin of Boston (read the sign)—and Monogram's New England distributor, as he came the other day to Hollywood to observe Monogram production activities under the supervision of W. Ray Johnston. And don't let the copper's presence fool you!

DOUBT PARAMOUNT POLICY CHANGE

(Continued from page 11)

world of cinema chatterings from Dinty Moore's to Sardi's to be a very brilliant and considerable feather in the cap of Sam Katz of Paramount Publix. It is to be recalled that Mr. Hertz was an early backer of the Balaban and Katz theatre enterprises in Chicago, the projects which in time made Mr. Katz a power in Paramount Publix.

▼

At the same time the interviewers went off pell-mell to see Sidney Kent of Paramount Publix for an expression in the matter, there being, it seems, a slight intimation in the air that there had been at times some divergences of opinion and policy within the organization. Mr. Kent, with a characteristic nonchalance, responded to this not entirely graceful approach of the interrogators with the remark that his contract with Paramount Publix had some three years yet to run and that he hoped to be with the company 33 years more.

In the view of some observers of the scene, it appeared probable that the changes on the board of Paramount might be considered as likely to prove of more external than internal importance.

The coming in of Mr. Wrigley at this juncture recalls for the moment that for a number of years he shone with a special dominance on the precise spot occupied by the great Paramount building, with what was then the world's greatest electric sign on the old Putnam building, devoted to proclaiming to the world the joys of Mr. Wrigley's celebrated chewing gum.

Hertz, Wrigley, Lasker constitute a Chicago triumvirate, all associates in Lawrence Stern & Company, brokers and underwriters, a concern which has more recently been Mr. Hertz's sole ostensible business connection. A fourth figure in the brokerage concern, Charles McCullough, is not mentioned thus far in connection with Paramount Publix matters.

It is to be remembered that Chicago has, after all, contributed rather more of men and money to motion picture development than is generally recognized in this Broadway-centered industry. George Kleine, George K. Spoor and William N. Selig made up the strongest grouping in the once powerful General Film Company. Carl Laemmle and his Universal took their rise from a Chicago nickelodeon in Halsted street, where incidentally, young Mr. Sam Katz played the piano. The one-time robust Mutual Film Corporation took its rise from the activities of Harry E. Aitken and John R. Freuler with their Western Film Exchanges, centering in Chicago. Also the one-time great business of the serial picture took its rise from the enthusiasm of The Chicago Tribune for the use of the screen in promotion of circulation, beginning with the "Adventures of Kathleen" and proceeding through the fantastically profitable "Million Dollar Mystery" and its successors to the final serial debacle of the pretentious "Gloria's Romance." It was a Chicago Tribune-Freuler serial, "The Diamond from the Sky," which bid Mary Pickford's salary up to the shocking figure of $4,000 a week 'way back there in 1914. And more recently out of Chicago came Harley Clarke into the affairs of the Fox corporation.

▼

There is considerable of the splashing, dashing Chicago quality in the stories of all three of the new members of the Paramount board. The most perfect Horatio Alger narrative of the group, however, pertains to Mr. Hertz, who was brought to America from Austria at the age of four, ran away at twelve, worked as a copy boy on the Chicago Daily News, drove delivery wagons, sold sports items on space to the Chicago Record, learned to spell with one finger on a typewriter and became a sports reporter, then a fight promoter, then a motorcar salesman, then an operator of taxicabs to utilize his trade-ins, and presently the motorcar magnate of Yellow Cab, with in turn the Fifth Avenue Coach Company in New York. There was a merger with General Motors and profits galore, and presently what passed for retirement, and devotion to race horses. Mrs. Hertz is a horse enthusiast with him, and their Cary, Ill., stables have presented among other proud names the great Reigh Count, winner of the Kentucky Derby and the Coronation Cup, and Anita Peabody, winner of the 1927 Futurity and a total of one hundred and eleven thousand dollars that year. In spite of all that long career of work and excitement Mr. Hertz was only 52 years old on April tenth last.

▼

Mr. Wrigley, who seems to so much pertain to Chicago, and his Catalina Island, was born in Philadelphia. "Who's Who in America" compresses his busy life story into these words:

Born Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 30, 1861; began business with father in Philadelphia in 1882; removed to Chicago and entered business for self, 1891, under firm name of Wm. Wrigley, Jr., & Co., manufacturers of chewing gum; on Jan. 1, 1911, the plant of the Zeno Mfg. Co. was absorbed and the name of the corporation changed to Wm. Wrigley, Jr., Co., of which he is president. Director of the First National Bank, Chicago; First Trust & Savings Bank, Chicago; Boulevard Bridge Bank, Chicago; Consumers Co., Chicago; chairman of the board Bon Air Coal and Iron Corp., Tennessee; Wilmington Transportation Co., California; Santa Catalina Island Co., California; Chicago National League Ball Club; Angel City Baseball Club, Los Angeles.

▼

Mr. Lasker has long enjoyed imposing fame in the world of advertising, through his activities and connection with the Lord & Thomas Agency, now known as Lord, Thomas & Logan. He was born of American parents at Freiberg in Germany, May 1, 1880, and reached the United States in his infancy. His especially successful business career brought him to the public attention in the world war days and he was appointed chairman of the U. S. Shipping Board by President Harding in 1921, a post from which he resigned in 1923.

ALBERT D. LASKER

© Underwood

JOHN HERTZ

WILLIAM WRIGLEY, JR.

BOX OFFICE WALLOPS!

● Pictures packed with the public's brand of entertainment are doing the big business. Socking theatre receipts sky-high! Pictures like "THE SMILING LIEUTENANT," "AMERICAN TRAGEDY" and "MONKEY BUSINESS." To say nothing of the current craze "GIRLS ABOUT TOWN" and RUTH CHATTERTON'S "ONCE A LADY." ● As examples of sure-fire profit guarantees consider these smashing box-office wallops coming from PARAMOUNT . . . . .

The Screen's Super-thrill in Football . . .

"TOUCHDOWN!"★

with
RICHARD ARLEN,
PEGGY SHANNON,
JACK OAKIE,
REGIS TOOMEY,
CHAS. STARRETT.
Directed by Norman McLeod.

"HUSBAND'S HOLIDAY"

CLIVE BROOK, Charlie Ruggles, Vivienne Osborne, Juliette Compton and Harry Bannister.

"DR. JEKYLL and MR. HYDE"

with
FREDRIC MARCH,
Miriam Hopkins, Rose Hobart.
From Robert Louis Stevenson's novel. Directed by ROUBEN MAMOULIAN.

GEORGE BANCROFT

in "RICH MAN'S FOLLY"★

His greatest smashing dramatic hit! The women rave about it! With Frances Dee, Robert Ames and Juliette Compton. Directed by JOHN CROMWELL.

"THE MAN I KILLED"

An ERNST LUBITSCH Production.

With
LIONEL BARRYMORE,
NANCY CARROLL
and PHILLIPS HOLMES

GARY COOPER
CLAUDETTE COLBERT

in

"HIS WOMAN"★

Directed by Edward Sloman. Based upon a novel by Dale Collins.

★These three have already been previewed and pronounced positive sensations.

GREATEST NAME IN SHOW BUSINESS

RUTH CHATTERTON

In "TOMORROW and TOMORROW"

with

PAUL LUKAS

and

ROBERT AMES

Directed by Richard Wallace

"SOOKY"

JACKIE
COOPER

ROBERT
COOGAN

and the all-"Skippy" cast. From the book "Dear Sooky" by Percy Crosby. Directed by Norman Taurog

Released during Christmas Holidays.

MARLENE DIETRICH

in "SHANGHAI EXPRESS"

with

CLIVE BROOK, Anna May Wong, Warner Oland, Louise Closser Hale and Eugene Pallette. Directed by JOSEF VON STERNBERG.

MAURICE CHEVALIER

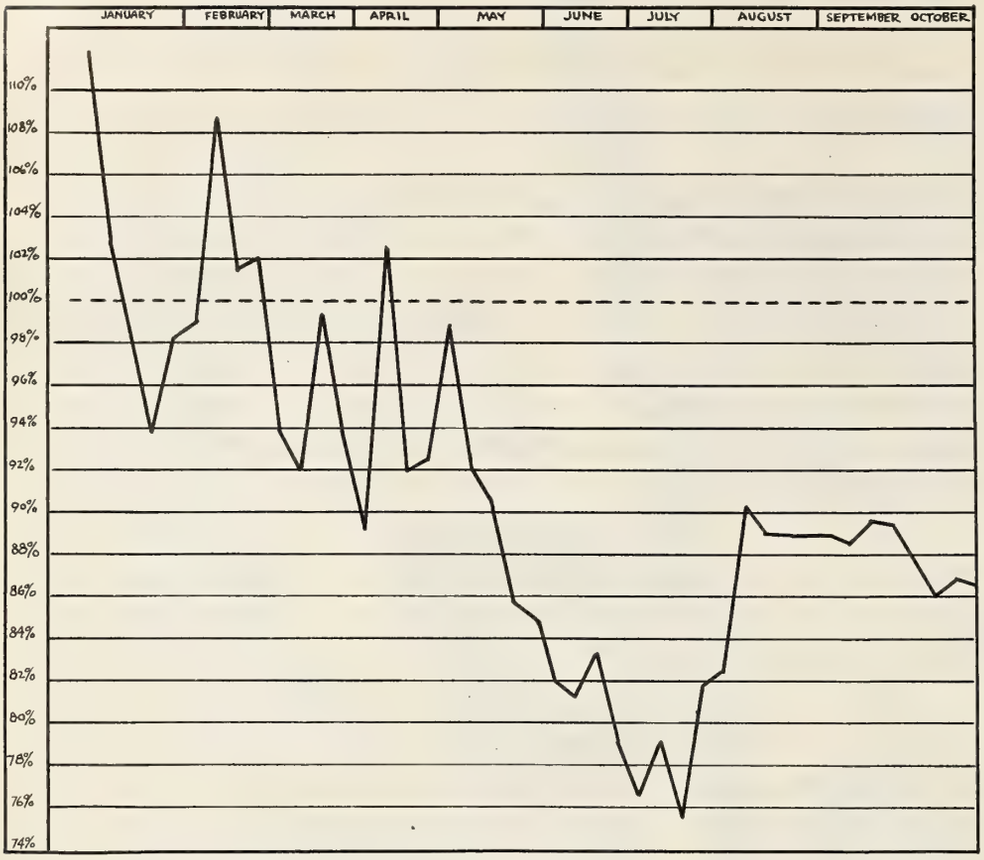
in

"ONE HOUR WITH YOU"

with

JEANETTE
MacDONALD



GENEVIEVE TOBIN

and Charlie Ruggles

Music by Oscar Straus.

PARAMOUNT

The black line represents the box office receipts per week in sixteen cities from January to October this year. The 100 per cent line represents the average receipts in the same cities for the like period in 1930. The figures are based on MOTION PICTURE HERALD'S compilation of receipts in cities throughout the United States and Canada.

New Rhode Island Unit of Exhibitors Elects W. E. Spragg

William E. Spragg, district manager of Paramount Publix at Providence, has been elected president of the Theatre Owners Association of Rhode Island, a new organization recently formed, taking in all the theatres in Providence, Pawtucket, Woonsocketт, Newport, and westerly Rhode Island.

W. E. Spragg

The officers elected, besides Spragg, are Martin R. Toohey of the Leroy theatre, Pawtucket, vice president; J. William Deubach of the RKO Albee theatre, Providence, secretary and treasurer; Edward M. Fay, chairman of the board of directors; and the directors: Providence county, H. H. Maloney of Loew's State, Edward M. Fay of Fay's theatres, Antonio Romano of the Bijou, Royal, and Castle theatres; Kent county, James C. Thornton of the Palace theatre, Riverpoint; Bristol county, Lon Vail of the Lyric theatre, Warren; Washington county, John B. Findley; Newport county, David J. Dugan of the Paramount theatre, Newport.

C. F. Payne of the Leroy theatre, Pawtucket, was made honorary vice president.

U. S. LEADS EUROPE IN THEATRE IDEAS: ROXY

Junket Finds Little Abroad That Is Worthy of Adoption for Radio City

The Roxy entourage, upon completion of its European pilgrimmage in search of continental "ideas" for incorporation in the blossoming Radio City, states in its report that not only had it found nothing in Europe to contribute to Radio City, but that Europe, in many instances, was itself employing purely American ideas in its public entertainment.

"Altogether," the report says in summary, "the result of our trip will, as far as we can now see, in no way change or modify the original plans for Radio City."

Another phase of the report admits that "stage novelties or features such as could be adapted to our own requirements were very rare. . . . It was extremely complimentary to find that the American stage technique is being widely copied throughout all of Europe."

The trip, according to the report, resulted in convincing Roxy's junket that America already has—or is in a position to develop—everything which will be required by Radio City.

"While we heard some excellent voices," says Roxy's report, "and saw some very fine artists, we will be compelled to draw from our own country for the majority of our talent. At this time we would like to say that the little American ballet girl is certainly equal, if not superior, to her sister in Russia and Europe, and as for our premiere dancers, there is nothing like them in all Europe.

"Lighting effects as applied to the stage, were not striking, with the exception of various new effect lamps, but we shall arrange to bring some of the electrical experts into our laboratories and work in conjunction with them for future development of lighting in Radio City."

The Roxy conclusion is that, although the trip failed to contribute anything materail to Radio City plans, it did at least "broaden the purpose" of the project. "Radio City must be international in its scope," it is declared.

Continental antipathies to American domination of anything European, however, evidenced themselves before Roxy had returned to America, plainly revealing the difficulties attendant upon making anything with a New York address "international in scope."

The British press reception of Radio City plans was decidedly luke-warm.

"There is a feeling," said one British commentator, "that Roxy is not going to fool anybody. His idea may be good. But even if it reaches what he says it will, it simply cannot work as far as Britain is concerned, because if there is to be any international entertainment center to supply the world of the future with its ether pictures, it will not have to be in New York. Why not build it in Geneva?"

Leases for approximately 1,000,000 square feet of office space in Radio City were signed this week by RCA and subsidiaries, and the Metropolitan Square Corporation, Rockefeller's Radio City holding company.

The leases, said to be the world's greatest group lease, provide for occupation of the seventh, eighth, ninth, and tenth floors of the main building by RCA, as well as portions of the 53d and 54th floors. RCA will also occupy seven floors, from the 19th to the 25th, in a second Radio City office building. Radio-Keith-Orpheum corporation will occupy the remaining 24 stories of this 31-story building. RKO will also lease International Music Hall, the world's largest theatre, which will have a seating capacity of 6,500, and a picture theatre seating 3,500.

RCA-Photophone and National Broadcasting Company are also provided for.

Schenck Denies U. A. Loew Merger Talk

"There has not been a single discussion with regards to a proposed merger of United Artists and Loew's-MGM in six years," said Joseph M. Schenck, U. A. president, on Thursday, in stilling widespread reports of the existence of negotiations.

ASIDES & INTERLUDES

By JAMES CUNNINGHAM

A CERTAIN national distributor was considering the purchase of what appeared to be a sure-fire novel, but negotiations were called off when the director of publicity and advertising, who had a voice in such matters, vigorously opposed the buy on the grounds that the yarn had no picture possibilities and most certainly would be a "flop" in celluloid.

Three weeks later he resigned and joined another organization in a similar capacity. Two days following, the new affiliation bought the story on the say-so of the ad chief.

Catch on?

▼

And now that Mr. Wrigley is in the picture business, perhaps he may cooperate with exhibitors and offer for their immediate use a solution to the industry's oldest problem: "How to Remove Chewing Gum from Theatre Seats."

▼

Estelle Taylor is a swell hostess at a midnight cocktail party, but what surprised us more than the kick of Estelle's pale dry and ice is the star's frankness in admitting that she's "terrible" in her new "Unholy Garden."

The camera, it seems, among other things, was most unkind in transforming Miss Taylor's contour to celluloid, and while the li'l lady cannot boast of possessing the last word in sylph-like beauty ("lines"), we do not think her physique would be scoffed at by any student of the aesthetic.

▼

Unless the income ledgers of certain national distributors blacken up a bit within the immediate future, we fear it will be necessary to stage a relief drive for some of the employed.

▼

Dr. Alfred N. Goldsmith, chief engineer of Radio Corporation of America, and newly elected president of the Society of M. P. Engineers, signalized his contempt for "the depression" by appearing with a large and handsome and rare star ruby of purest pigeon blood color. Dr. Goldsmith is, incidentally, an internationally known authority on precious stones, and is an enthusiastic collector of them. Once when he was asked the special why of this hobby, he remarked: "To really get my mind off business—you see a golf score is nothing to worry about for long, but a mistake on a sapphire or an emerald can be serious enough to be diverting."

▼

Can it be that Walter Winchell is too modest to print the fact that Lucky Strike interests are paying him $3,500 for three hours of air work each week? (Who said "for what?")

And that's in addition to $750 weekly for his "Mirror" column and $250 from syndicate royalties.

▼

Hollywood producers "may have learned their lesson," says the London Film Review, "but they cannot, if controlled by ignorance, bombast, hot air and all the other make-believe which so often goes into the saddle over there, do anything but do as they are told, under their masters, the financiers, get on the rampage because the public is not throwing in enough money."

Well yes. And no. But then, maybe.

▼

And there's the one going the rounds about the office manager who bawled out a conscientious worker because he obviously was ignoring the new efficiency system.

"Perhaps, I am, sir," he replied, "but somebody has got to get the work done!"

Spotlight!

"With a general reduction in the buying power of the country, the small neighborhood and small town theatres, with lower admission, should recover a substantial part of the business taken from them in recent years by the deluxe chain houses."

Allied Exhibitor

F. HERRICK-HERRICK, silent film director, has been lost to the picture business for quite some time until last week, when we discovered him at St. Louis working on a community short for a Fox neighborhood house, duly reporting the fact in this pillar.

Three days later there came from Herrick the following wire:

"Thanks for the notice. It's true. But the trail back is open and I'm going to try like hell. The forest of debts and the valley of mistakes are behind. It's a long, long trail, but I'm on my way!"

That's "guts." The type of stuff which is so sorely needed at this very instant in every nook and corner of the picture business. We hope Herrick makes it. We know he will.

▼

It was Lehman Brothers, Wall Street financial house, which sought Sidney R. Kent as operating chief of Fox companies to work with Harley L. Clarke. When several leading financial institutions were bidding for refinancing of the Fox interests, an invitation to Lehman Brothers brought a hearty response—on condition that Kent assume operating charge.

Kent would not leave his berth at Paramount Publix and Lehmans decided, as a result, that they did not care to participate in the Fox financial rehabilitation.

▼

Two important producer-distributors are negotiating with Count P. von Luckner for a starring spot in a feature picture. The Count, Germany's sea hero of the world war, made it quite hot for the Allies with a lone German cruiser. He came to New York only recently, sailing the Atlantic in his own 285-foot yacht.

While not particularly enthused over a picture deal, he will go to Hollywood provided the film company which signs him supplies the necessary gelt and bier.

▼

Shades of yesteryear were drawn at the New York Motion Picture Club when executives posted for suspension the names of Elmer R. Pearson, former Pathe president, and John J. McGuirk, chairman of Stanley Company several years ago, and later, but only for a short time, president of First National Pictures.

▼

Decision to bring together studio forces of RKO and RKO Pathe this week caused more than a little concern at the home offices of both organizations, where many department heads, in a reminiscient mood, brought back to mind the course followed at Warners-First National when those two concerns got together and then affected studio economies on the West Cost, which later found their way into New York and practically a complete absorption of the physical workings of First National by the Warner concern.

CONSOLIDATED FILM INDUSTRIES has finished its ax-swinging at the Pathe News laboratory in New Jersey, which it purchased recently from RKO Pathe. The toll to date reaches 52 persons, representing practically the entire staff.

President Yates and his lieutenants have offered many and divers excuses for firing the News crew, but as yet no one has admitted that a little "accident" to a Consolidated auto truck had considerable to do with the situation.

It seems that, following the Pathe lab purchase, Consolidated dispatched to the plant a Mack truck in which all raw stock was to be transferred to the Consolidated laboratory at Fort Lee. Some time during the loading, the four huge balloon truck tires were slashed to ribbons, ignition wires were severed, and, generally, much damage done to impede the progress of transformation.

Ralph Poucher, Consolidated executive, stormed the Pathe plant, lined up the employees and demanded to know the identity of the guilty parties. The Pathe gang denied participation in the little "prank," and Poucher fired the entire crew.

▼

By way of trans-Atlantic gossip comes the story that Charlie Chaplin is taking his world influence pretty seriously, having recently remarked to friends around a cafe table in Paris that he had given Ramsaye MacDonald and the British government the idea of abandoning the gold standard, which became effective only three days later.

Mr. Chaplin is unquestionably the world's greatest comedian, but he ought not to play with finance like that. It might get serious some time.

▲

A.M.P.A. delinquents in dues should hear the call of the new regime which seeks to clean up several bills outstanding, including $750 which remains payable to the Hotel Astor in New York for that colossal financial fiasco ("Naked Truth Dinner") of a few seasons back.

▼

Study closely the current workings of principal picture companies because from them is now being written film history!

▼

An enlightening bit of publicity matter from Universal's home office informs us that "John Stahl is in the Wilds of Chicago today. He is either married, being married, or going to be married. Nobody seems to know his exact matrimonial state at the moment." (Not even Mr. Stahl?)

▼

The California State Bureau of Commerce has figured out that tourists to the "Golden State" spend 10 per cent of their traveling expenditures for theatres.

▼

RCA claims America's broadcasting programs are "worth" $70,000,000. But it fails to say to whom.

▼

Hans Hanke, who plays the piano on the mezzanine at the Paramount for waiting patrons, and patrons who prefer music to sound pictures, says that the song birds all sing off key. For that reason he will never go to the country. Suppose it gives him the bucolic.

▼

Union musicians at Terre Haute, Ind., met the other day and decided that it was their duty to alleviate the economic handicaps under which theatres in that town are supposed to be operating. They talked long and loud of their own commendable action, of the splendid spirit which prompted them to take this voluntary reduction—and then they voted to cut their salaries $2.50 a week! Which is okay in a way but it does not weigh enough.

THE AMAZING RISE

(No. 734 Straight from the Shoulder Talk by Carl Laemmle, President of the Universal Pictures Corporation)

THOUSANDS OF EXHIBITORS NOW LOOK TO UNIVERSAL FOR A BETTER GRADE of pictures than they can get anywhere else.

THOUSANDS OF THEATRES ARE NOW DOING A BETTER BUSINESS WITH Universal pictures than with any other brand.

THIS RISE OF UNIVERSAL TO THE ABSOLUTE TOP IS NOTHING SHORT OF sensational.

CONSIDER A FEW FACTS:

BEFORE SOUND CAME INTO PICTURES, UNIVERSAL HAD MORE CUSTOMERS than any company, but they were mostly in the very small situations which could not pay good prices for product.

WHEN SOUND CAME, TREMENDOUS NUMBERS OF THESE THEATRES CLOSED their doors because they could not afford equipment.

IT THEN BECAME NECESSARY FOR UNIVERSAL TO ADOPT ITS PRESENT POLICY of aiming every picture at the first run box office on the theory that what was good for first runs was good for all theatres able to remain open.

WE HAD TO QUIT MAKING CHEAP PICTURES BECAUSE THEIR MARKET WAS gone. We had to quit making $1,000,000 and $2,000,000 pictures (of which we had made eight in a period of three years) because business conditions after the fall of 1929 made them out of the question.

SO THE OLDEST BIG COMPANY IN THE BUSINESS HAD TO TURN RIGHT ABOUT face and start from scratch. We started the new policy two years ago.

SINCE THEN, UNIVERSAL'S RECORD HAS BEEN THE MOST AMAZING IN THE annals of picturedom. We made not just a spasmodic hit, but a never-ending succession of them. All of last year we were the mainstay of thousands of theatres. This year, when good pictures are needed more than ever in the history of the business, we are not merely repeating that fine record but surpassing it.

BEST OF ALL, THE WHOLE TRADE SEEMS TO BE GLAD ABOUT IT. EVEN OUR competitors whose dust we once ate are now generous enough to admit that Universal is the head man!

IF YOU ARE NOT GETTING THE WHOLE UNIVERSAL OUTPUT, FEATURES, SHORTS, serials and newsreels, you are not doing all that you should to make your theatre profitable in the highest degree!

Ride with a Winner!

OF UNIVERSAL !

—they all bought Universal!

R K O
FOX

BENTON CIRCUIT
SCHINE CIRCUIT
MANNING & WINK CIRCUIT
CRESCENT AMUSEMENT CO.
BIJOU AMUSEMENT CO.
WOLFSON & MEYER CIRCUIT
E. M. LOEW CIRCUIT
SHARBY CIRCUIT
LEVENSON CIRCUIT
SCHINE THEATRICAL AMUSEMENT CORP.
COMERFORD AMUSEMENT CO.
L. C. SIPE CIRCUIT
JENKINS CIRCUIT
SEMALROTH CIRCUIT
REAL NETH CIRCUIT
CHESBROUGH CIRCUIT
WASHINGTON CIRCUIT
GUSDANOVIC CIRCUIT
ASSOCIATED THEATRES
SMITH BEIDLER CIRCUIT
SCOVILLE, ESSICK, REIF CIRCUIT
LEFKOWICH & GREENBURGER CIRCUIT
MEMPHIS THEATRE & EQUIPMENT COMPANY
MALCO THEATRES
FISHMAN CIRCUIT
ANGER CIRCUIT
JOHNSON CIRCUIT
RUPERT RICHARDS CIRCUIT
AFFILIATED CIRCUIT
ROSEN CIRCUIT

WARNERS
LOEW

SPRINGER COCALIS CIRCUIT
WILLIAM YOOST CIRCUIT
MANHATTAN PLAYHOUSES
GOTTESMAN CIRCUIT
LOEW CIRCUIT
LEE OCHS CIRCUIT
RANDFARCE AMUSEMENT CO.
CONSOLIDATED THEATRES
LEO BRECHER CIRCUIT
SOL BRILL CIRCUIT
ROSENBLATT CIRCUIT
SALKIN CIRCUIT
HILDINGER AMUSEMENT CO.
ALLISON CIRCUIT
LIPSIE CIRCUIT
MANOS AMUSEMENT CO.
S. LUST CIRCUIT
LICHTMAN CIRCUIT
DURKEE CIRCUIT
WALTER COULTER CIRCUIT
L. F. ROME CIRCUIT
FAMOUS PLAYERS CANADIAN CIRCUIT
MECHANIC CIRCUIT
ALLEN CIRCUIT
BLOOM & FINE CIRCUIT
DEWEES CIRCUIT
SIMONS CIRCUIT
KLUTH LAVIN CIRCUIT
ESSANESS CIRCUIT
SCHOENSTADT CIRCUIT
BROCKELL CIRCUIT

PUBLIX
HUGHES-FRANKLIN

REINHEIMER CIRCUIT
POLKA BROS. CIRCUIT
McCOLLUM CIRCUIT
EAST TEXAS AMUSEMENT CO.
COLE CIRCUIT
HORWITZ CIRCUIT
DENT CIRCUIT
HUFFMAN CIRCUIT
CENTRAL STATES CIRCUIT
BUTTERFIELD CIRCUIT
COOPERATIVE CIRCUIT
BEECHLER CIRCUIT
COHN CIRCUIT
SCHREIBER CIRCUIT
BAIR CIRCUIT
MALLERS CIRCUIT
4th AVE. AMUSE. CO.
VONDERSCHMIDT CIRCUIT
BROADWAY AMUSE. CO.
SWITOW CIRCUIT
O. K. MASON CIRCUIT
DICKINSON CIRCUIT
SHANBERG CIRCUIT
RHODEN CIRCUIT
FITE CIRCUIT
PACIFIC NATIONAL CIRCUIT
RICKARDS & NACE CIRCUIT
MIDWESCO CIRCUIT
WEISNER CIRCUIT
DELFT CIRCUIT
ADLER CIRCUIT
LUDWIG CIRCUIT
TRAMPE CIRCUIT
HEYWOOD AMUSE. CO.
GREENE CIRCUIT
WAMPNER CIRCUIT
GRIFFITH CIRCUIT
MIDWEST CIRCUIT
TERRY CIRCUIT
EPSTEIN CIRCUIT
GOLDBERG CIRCUIT
INTERSTATE CIRCUIT BEAMS CIRCUIT
MULTNOMAH CIRCUIT
TIBBETTS CIRCUIT
FRISINA CIRCUIT
WEHRENBERG CIRCUIT
ST. LOUIS AMUSE. CO.
BUCK LEWIS CIRCUIT
HARRIS-VOELLER CIRCUIT
DEMORDAUNT CIRCUIT
COL. COLE CIRCUIT
R. FRELS CIRCUIT
H. CLUCK CIRCUIT
CONSOL. AMUSE. OF HONOLULU
GOLDEN STATE CIRCUIT
T. & D. JR. CIRCUIT
GEORGE MOON CIRCUIT
BLUMENFIELD CIRCUIT
GREENFIELD CIRCUIT
NATIONAL CIRCUIT
ARKUSCH CIRCUIT
JOHN DANZ CIRCUIT
WEST CENTRAL CIRCUIT

—AND STILL THEY COME!

Loew's Net for Year Is $13,484,768; Equal To $7.46 on 1,464,205 Shares

Loew's Inc., and all 100 per cent owned subsidiaries report net profit of $13,484,768.37 for the year ended August 31, 1931 after all charges.

The net is equal to $7.46 per share on its 1,464,205 shares of common stock after preferred dividend requirements. This compares with $9.65 per share on 1,413,574 shares of common in 1930.

Of this amount, minority interests' share in affiliated corporations is $1,321,485.64 and Loew's share, after federal taxes, $12,163,282.73. Last year's net of all Loew companies was $17,036,705.11; minority interests' share $2,094,687.90 and Loew's share, after federal taxes, $14,942,017.21.

The consolidated balance sheet for the year ended August 31, 1931 follows:

ASSETS

Current:
Cash and Call Loans	$5,766,635.33
Cash Reserved for Construction	644,830.47
		$6,411,465.80
Sinking Fund Requirements Anticipated—At Cost		1,569,462.00
Receivables:
Accounts Receivable	$1,951,154.62
Notes Receivable	80,474.88
Due from Affiliated Corporations	786,304.05
		2,817,933.55
Inventories—At Cost:
Film Productions in Process, Completed and Released (after Amortization)	$27,129,229.61
Film Advertising Accessories	521,969.97
Theatre and Studio Supplies	315,336.40
		27,966,535.98
Advances:
To Motion Picture Producers, Secured by Film Productions	$1,199,125.40
Mortgage and Interest Payments	63,874.40
		1,262,999.80
Total Current Assets		$40,028,397.13
Investments:
Stocks and Mortgages of Affiliated Corporations	$12,882,228.64
Deposits on Leases and Contracts	868,158.43
Miscellaneous	775,597.02
		14,525,984.09
Property—100% Owned:
Land	$24,824,699.06
Buildings and Equipment	58,827,527.81
Leaseholds	3,093,840.43
	$86,746,067.30
Less Reserve for Depreciation	15,328,943.32
		71,417,123.98
Deferred		3,461,638.70
		$129,433,143.90

LIABILITIES

Current:
Accounts Payable	$4,481,904.56
Notes Payable	42,363,48
Federal and State Taxes	1,364,418.43
Accrued Interest	617,085.32
Advances from Affiliated Corporations	146,195.58
Debenture Sinking Fund Payments	1,000,000.00
		$7,651,967.37
Subsidiary Corp. Dividend Payable Sept. 15th		67,356.48
Accounts Payable—Long Term		154,000.00
Fifteen-Year 6% Debentures, Due 1941		10,707,000.00
Bonds and Mortgages of Subsidiary Corporations		12,387,345.50
First Lien 6% Bonds of Subsidiary Corporation—Due 1947		8.786,100.00
Subsidiary Corporations' Stock Outstanding (Metro-Goldwyn, etc., Preferred)		4.815,425.57
Deferred Credits		697,090.98
Reserve for Contingencies		152,445.50
Capital Stock:
Preferred Stock, No Par Value, $6.50 Cumulative: 145,203 shares		13,721,683.50
Common Stock, No Par Value: 1,464,205 shares		36,576,580.64
Surplus		33,716,148.36
		$129,433,143.90

[Financial statement continued on next page]

McCarthy to Return to Fox

J. J. McCarthy, who resigned from Fox last spring to go abroad, will return to the company after the first of the year in an advisory capacity in Hollywood. He had been in charge of script and talent material before resigning.

Named Assistant Sales Head

W. L. Tenney, on the sales staff of Nash Motor Company for 16 years, has been named assistant general sales manager of the General Register Corporation, manufacturers of automatic ticket register machines. J. C. Enslen is general sales manager.

Universal, Kaplan, Columbia Employes Frolic at New York

The Eastern industry's social season was launched at New York on Friday last when employees of Columbia's home office held a "Victory Dance" at the Astor hotel in celebration of the Columbia baseball team's victory in the Motion Picture Baseball League. Trophies were presented by Quigley Publications and by Film Daily.

On Saturday night, the entire Universal home office group, led by President Carl Laemmle, attended that company's annual dinner-dance at the Astor, where amid a picturesque atmospheric Parisian night setting, executives and employees frolicked to tunes played by Jack Berger's Astor Orchestra. Club President Herman Stern presented Laemmle with an oil painting of the Universal chief, done by M. Kassel. The Universal executive group in attendance included, besides Laemmle, P. D. Cochrane, Phil Reisman, Charles Paine, Ted Schlenger, Sig Wittman, Nate Manheim, Paul Gulick, Sam Sedran, John V. Ward, Herman Stern, Douglas Leisman and Julius Singer.

Among those present, not connected with Universal, were John D. Tippett, Oscar Lynch, Joseph H. Tooker, William A. Bach, Alex Hamlon, C. Kucker, Milton Barrett, Elmer Pearson, E. H. Gaylor, W. H. Evarts, Leo Brecher, Al Ruben, Walter Eberhardt, Ned Depinet, Phil de Angelis, N. M. Schenck, Lou Rydell, Mr. and Mrs. Heath Cobb, John Jacox, Floyd Del Brown, Herbert Yates, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Rogers, Miss Evelyn Gerstein, Fred Rothenberg, Hugo Mayer, Mr. and Mrs. George Skouras, Don J. Cox, Jules Levy, John O'Connor, Fred Myers, Jack Kelley, Sam Lefkowitz, Milton Feld, Dave Chadkin, Alex Halperin, Joe Dietch, Dan Michalove, Clayton Bond, Si Seadler, T. W. Yates, Ralph Poucher, Tom Wiley, Charles Zenker, Joseph Seidler, Herman Robbins, Baron C. J. Von Cronsted, Mrs. Rita McGoldrick.

Sam Kaplan's testimonial, given by the New York projectionists' local and an annual affair, was also held on Saturday evening, at the Commodore hotel. Judge John McCooey and Harry Charnas sat on the dais with Kaplan. Projection chiefs of the national and independent circuits attended with their operators.

Sears Appoints 3 District Managers

Gradwell L. Sears, Western sales manager for Warner-First National, has made the following appointments: Carl Lesserman as mid-West district manager, headquarters in Chicago, and covering Chicago, Milwaukee, Minneapolis, St. Louis, Omaha, Des Moines, Kansas City; Fred M. Jack, manager at Dallas, to Southern district manager, headquarters in Dallas, and covering Dallas, New Orleans, Charlotte, Atlanta, Memphis, Oklahoma City.

N. H. Brower, manager at Seattle, to West Coast district manager, headquarters in Los Angeles, and supervision over Los Angeles, Seattle, Portland, San Francisco, Salt Lake City, Denver.

ECONOMIES IN MERCHANDISING FROM RKO PLAN OF INDIVIDUAL CAMPAIGNS

Loew's Consolidated Balance Sheet

(Continued from preceding page)

OPERATING STATEMENT

Gross Income:
Theatre Receipts, Rentals and Sales of Films and Accessories	$111,552,259.54
Rentals of Stores and Offices	4,737,643.89
Booking Fees and Commissions	1,411,440.53
Miscellaneous Income	2,778,166.84
		$120,479,510.80
Expenses:
Theatres and Office Buildings	$54,480,277.70
Film Distribution	13,711,892.85
Amortization of Films	27,395,872.43
Film Advertising Accessories	562,191.05
Producers' Share of Film Rentals	5,458,839.87
		101,609,073.90
Operating Profit before Depreciation and Federal Taxes		$18,870,436.90
Depreciation of Buildings and Equipment	$3,831,179.83
Federal Taxes	1,554,488.70
		5,385,668.53
Net Profit all Corporations		$13,484,768.37
Minority Interests' Share, Affiliated Corporations		1,321,485.64
Loew's Incorporated Share after Federal Taxes		$12,163,282.73

CONSOLIDATED SURPLUS ACCOUNT

Surplus, September 1, 1930		$28,784,301.69
Operating Profit as above		12,163,282.73
		$40,947,584.42
Less:
Undistributed Share Affiliated Corporations	$241,006.56
Dividends Paid and Declared:
Susidiaries Preferred (Metro-Goldwyn, etc.)	333,288.74
Loew's Inc. Preferred	946,354.51
Loew's Inc. Common	5,710,786.25
		7,231,436.06
Surplus, August 31, 1931		$33,716,148.36

Color Franchises Is New Plan to be Offered Studios

The progress of color has been hampered by its heavy cost, which impediment must be eliminated to allow for a color comeback, according to Archie Mayers, executive of Colorfilm Corporation. With this in mind, states Mayers, his company will immediately revise its method of operation, reducing drastically laboratory and royalty charges.

The company's new method of operation will give to producers, many of which have their own laboratories, a franchise to develop their color negatives, each company paying royalties, similar to sound royalties, for the use of and rights to Colorfilm's system when it is installed in the studio laboratory.

Colorfilm will develop and print for producers who do not engage in laboratory activities.

Percival Moore, Kentucky banker, who is financing the corporation, arrived in New York this week to assume executive charge and operation, disposing of Gregory Linder.

Nakken Charges Independent with Sound Infringement

Universal Sound System, independent sound equipment manufacturer and distributor, was made defendant this week in a patent infringement action filed in United States district court at Wilmington, by Hugh M. Morris, former federal judge, on behalf of Nakken Patents Corporation.

The Nakken interests charge infringement of patents for transmission of light impulses into electrical currents as used in motion picture sound reproducers.

The bill of complaint states that Theodore H. Nakken applied for a patent on November 3, 1920, receiving a grant in 1925, which he assigned to Naamlloze Vannootschop Nederlandsche-Lummotron Maalschapp, of Holland. Later the patent was found to be defective and a reissue was granted, it is said, in February, 1928. The new patent was then transferred to the Nakken Patents Corp. on October 17, 1928.

In addition to damages because of alleged infringement, the plaintiff seeks temporary and will later fight for a permanent injunction.

Circuit Relieves Managers Of Exploitation Duties

Heavy Concentration of Publicity and Advertising on Each Picture To Be Handled at Home Office

Following a precedent established by Publix and Fox in modifying the duties of theatre managers to allow for more intensive actual picture selling, Radio-Keith-Orpheum, beginning immediately, will relieve its managers of all responsibility and effort of conceiving exploitation, publicity and advertising ideas, thus enabling them to devote considerable additional time to their theatres.

Complete sales campaigns on every picture booked for the RKO circuit will be prepared in the home office hereafter and forwarded to theatre managers from ten days to three weeks in advance of their opening play dates. The campaigns will cover all phases of exploitation, publicity and advertising on each picture, and will supply one uniform sales campaign to all RKO theatres.

The sales campaigns are prepared under the direction of Jack Hess, national advertising director for RKO theatres. They detail and suggest a large number of tie-ups for each picture; they concentrate publicity stories for each production into one complete bulletin, and they include mats of complete advertising campaigns for each picture. In 18 days, Hess's department turned out complete sales campaigns of this kind on "Reckless Living," "The Tip Off," "Consolation Marriage," "Platinum Blonde," "Are These Our Children?" and "Way Back Home."

The most pretentious of these campaigns has been that mapped out for Radio Picture's "Way Back Home," featuring Seth Parker.

The first volume—Exploitation—contains ideas, stories and advertisements, all approved by home office executives. Following the foreword, are cast and story synopsis, 30 ideas for exploitation tie-ups and contests, special portraits, heralds and a variety of publicity mats.

In the second volume—Publicity—are 35 complete publicity stories and short biographies of all principals, suitable for newspaper use.

The third volume—Advertising, contains 28 advertising mats, comprising a complete campaign for the picture. The three volumes were said to have been prepared at an insignificant cost. All advertisements and illustrations supplied are in mat form and can be cheaply reproduced, thus effecting economies throughout the circuit.

All copy and art material in the volumes is first approved by Joseph Plunkett, RKO theatre head, and other executives.

Hot and box-office!

TIFFANY Productions Inc. presents

NORAS for

Fashioned in every factor for capacity business. A title that intrigues—one of the best of any season. A brilliant cast. Surprising dramatic twists along the tortuous trail of the sweethearts of luxury.

WOMEN

with

BESSIE LOVE

CONWAY TEARLE

June Clyde, Natalie Moorhead,
Lina Basquette, Edmund Breese,
Virginia Lee Corbin

Story by Frances Hyland

Directed by Mort Blumenstock

TIFFANY
PRODUCTIONS, INC.
Distributed by
SONO ART– WORLD WIDE

RADIO-PATHE SALES FORCES UNITE

(Continued from page 9)

pictures will continue to be released under individual company brand names for a time, at least.

The sales consolidation was effected on Wedneday at a meeting of RKO and RKO Pathe executives. A conference for the creation of a single set of department heads is next. Although no definite decision has been made with regards the selection of heads of departments, insiders say that Hy Daab will be found in complete charge of advertising and publicity, inasmuch as Abe Waxman, who holds a similar post at RKO Pathe, is a newcomer to the RKO interests, having been brought over from Warners only a few months ago, whereas Daab's RKO affiliation dates back to 1921.

Effective November 9

Ambrose Dowling is in charge of RKO foreign business, with T. F. Delehanty in the same post at RKO Pathe. RKO's general executive assistant is Frank O'Heron; at Pathe this work is divided between C. J. Scollard and E. H. Goldstein. Dan Dougher holds the title of purchasing agent at RKO, with J. T. Richards holding a parallel post at RKO Pathe. J. F. Skelley manages exchange operations for RKO, Edward Ballentine for Pathe.

The new sales appointments become effective on Monday, November 9, following only by a week the establishment of a working agreement between RKO Radio and RKO Pathe, by the terms of which studio facilities of both organizations will be merged and the various production assets of both companies made available to each. Schnitzer, Selznick and Rogers, who came to New York last week for production conferences, are back at Hollywood where they immediately will realign and consolidate studio forces. Although it has not been determined where slashes will be made, all studio forces have been given notice of the reorganization, which takes care of the 60-day cancellation clause in contracts.

Only Shorts at Pathe Plant

Production will be concentrated at the Radio lot, with short subjects only occupying space at RKO Pathe's Coast plant.

The scenario department of RKO Pathe was merged on Wednesday with that of Radio Pictures, marking one of the first immediate results of the production merger. Miss Tarrington North and Miss Latshaw have moved their headquarters to the Radio home office. Kay Brown is at the helm.

Prominent in executing details of the rehabilitation and consolidation of the Radio interests have been David Sarnoff, president of the Radio Corporation of America, and Hiram S. Brown.

Pathe News, Inc., the newsreel unit, it is to be assumed, will be moved into the new setup status quo.

An arrangement was made this week between Hiram Brown and Basil Dean, RKO's European representative, prior to Dean's return to London, whereby a part of the future output of Associated Radio Pictures at its new Ealing Green studio, London, will be made with the direct cooperation of American stars, directors and technicians of RKO and RKO Pathe and the distribution of these pictures will be facilitated in America and throughout the world.

Dow, Jones & Company, in a financial bulletin, stated Thursday that Radio-Keith-Orpheum Corporation would shortly undertake new financing and expressed the belief that it would take the form of "convertible debentures with some sort of a bonus attached."

This statement of the financial service came concurrently with various reports that Radio-Keith-Orpheum would seek $5,000,000 of additional capital. It was variously reported that the $5,000,000 would be advanced by General Electric Company and that a million shares of new stock would be issued to present stockholders at $5 a share.

Dow, Jones stated that "the sale of additional common stock would probably be difficult under current market conditions. The Company has already outstanding $40,000,000 in real estate mortgage bonds. Without any substantial net profit in the first three quarters of this year and with its increased film production program, RKO's need for additional working capital is apparent."

Brown Refuses to Comment

Hiram Brown, president of Radio-Keith-Orpheum Corporation, was reached by a representative of Motion Picture Herald shortly before press time and stated that he would not comment on rumors. Herman Zohbel, treasurer of the company, could not be reached. Paul Mazur, member of the firm of Lehman Brothers, RKO's bankers and an important member of the board of directors, said that so far as he knew there was nothing definite yet concerning arrangements for new RKO financing.

The financial report for RKO for the nine months ending September 30 showed a profit of $622.

David Selznick, who this week took over the reins in charge of production at Hollywood for RKO and RKO Pathe, although still in his early twenties, was trained from early childhood with a view to becoming a motion picture executive. His able tutor was Lewis J. Selznick, his father, a motion picture pioneer and founder of Selznick Pictures.

Born in Pittsburgh, in 1902, this 29-year old production chieftain was educated in New York public schools, at Hamilton Preparatory school, and Columbia University. During school vacation periods he was assigned by the elder Selznick to work in all departments of the family's old picture enterprises. With the personal supervision and aid of his father, the younger Selznick received extensive training in publicity and advertising, sales, theatre operation and, finally, production.

During this training period he edited the Selznick house organ, was in charge of advertising layouts for the company's campaigns, and at one time was in full charge of the advertising and publicity department of Selected Pictures. For a long period of time he was assistant to the Selznick sales manager in charge of contract approvals. At another time, he was in charge of the old Selznick News Reel. Again, he served as manager of the Ritz theatre in Brooklyn, while he received his schooling in theatre operations.

This training period within the old Selznick organization continued until 1925, when the younger Selznick joined Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer as assistant story editor. Later, he became story editor and, thereafter, was appointed assistant to Harry Rapf, who at that time was an associate producer in charge of Westerns for Metro.

To Paramount in 1927

Selznick resigned from Metro in 1927 to become associate producer and head of the writers' department at Paramount. During this period he produced such well-known Paramount pictures as "Forgotten Faces," "Four Feathers," "Street of Chance." Soon after, he was appointed executive assistant to B. P. Schulberg, managing director of Paramount. During Schulberg's absence from the studio in the summer of 1930, Selznick was in complete charge of production of various Paramount successes, such as Ruth Chatterton's first big hit, "Sarah and Son," Nancy Carroll's "Honey."

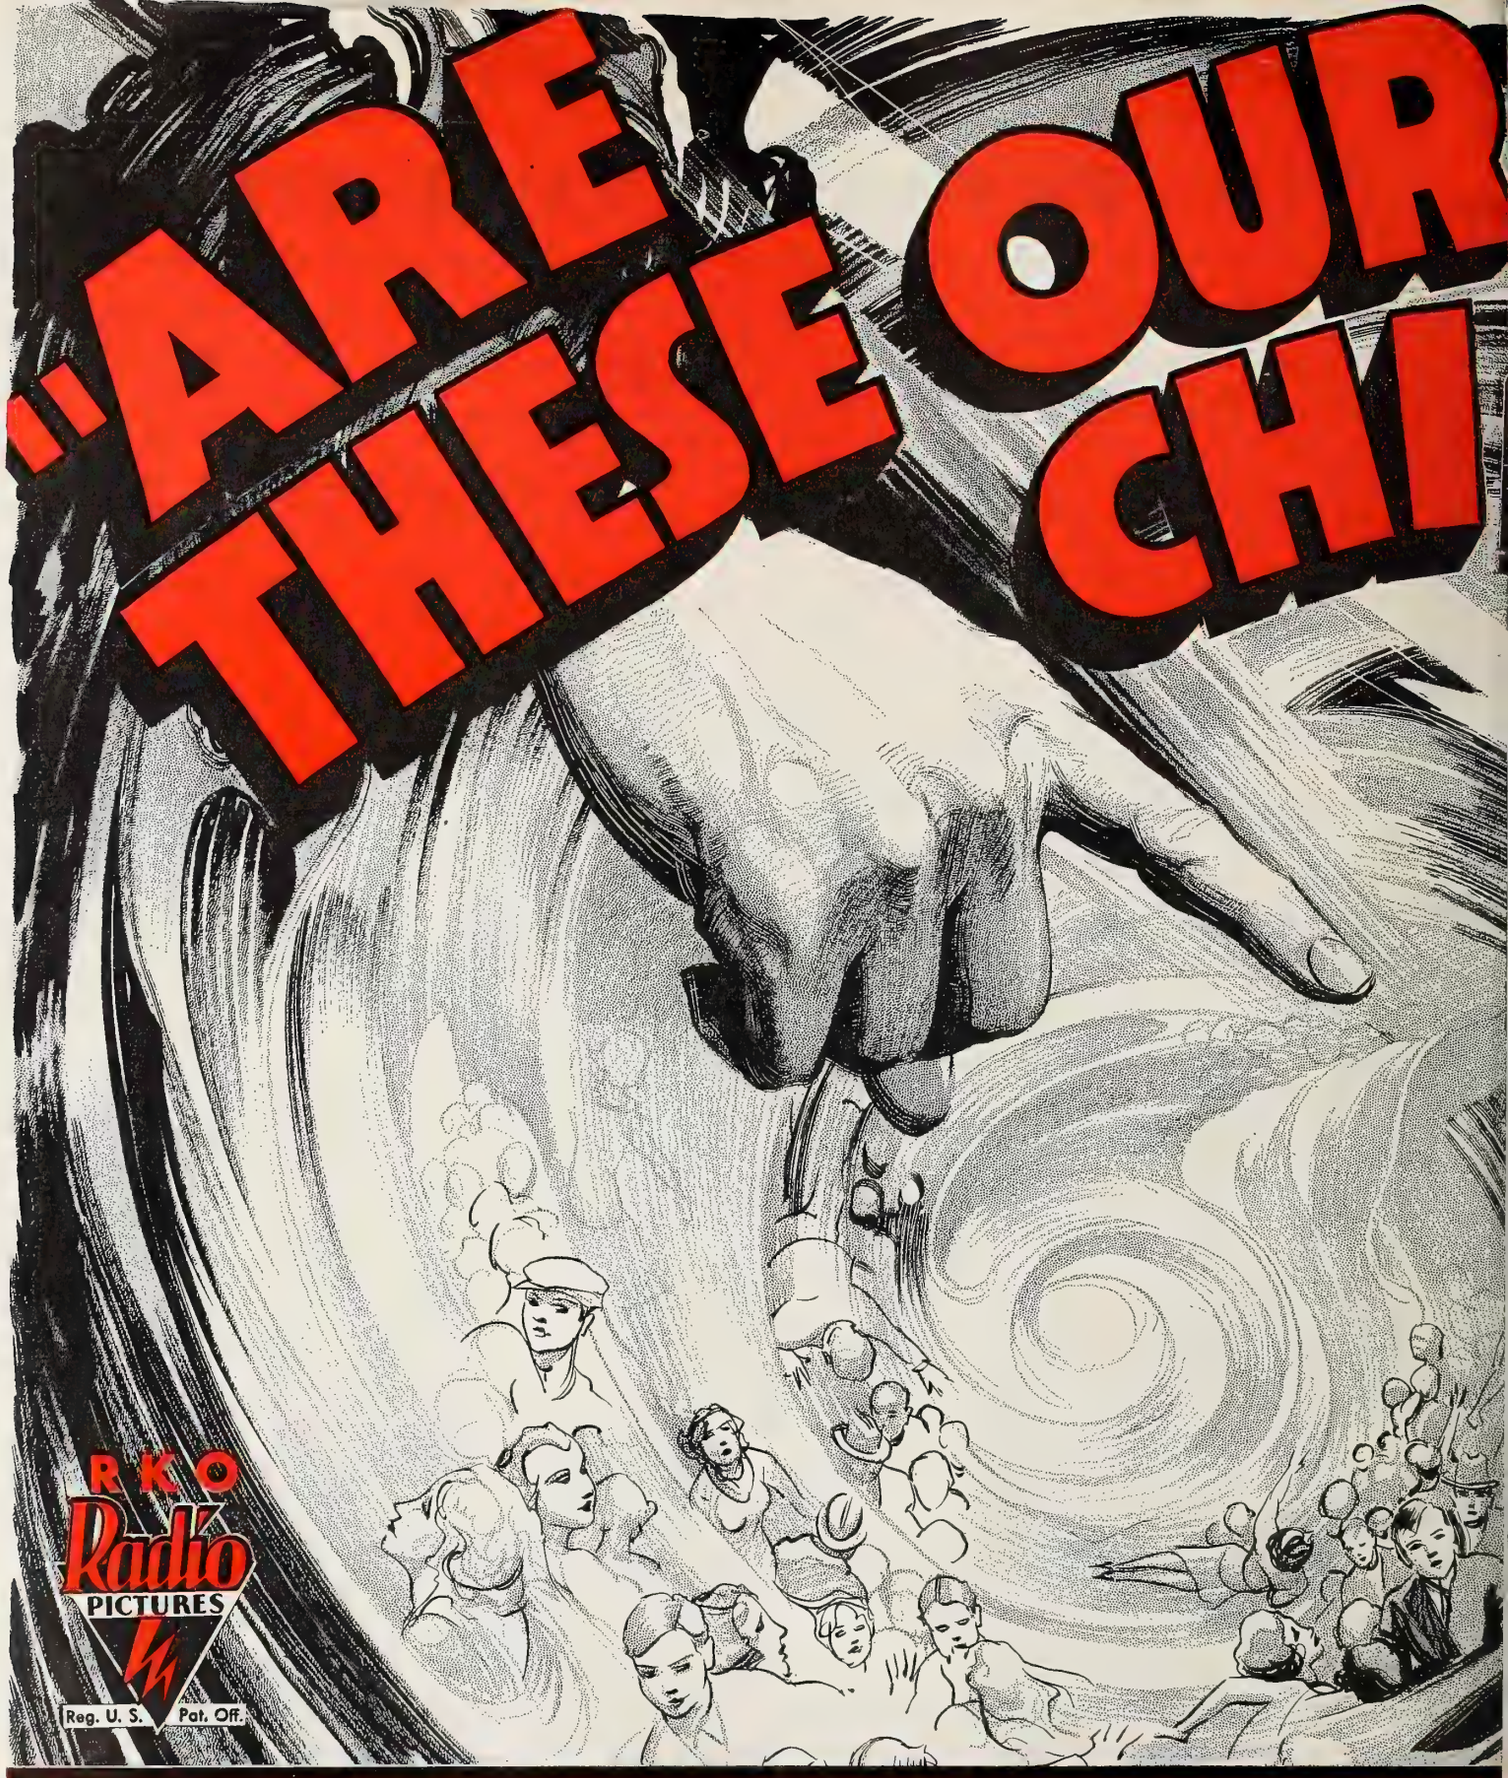
All this time the conviction that mass production of pictures under one studio head was impractical was growing on the young producer. He came, in time, to believe implicitly in the unit system of production, with production talent responsible only for a limited number of good pictures, rather than for a quantity of average pictures. His attempts to obtain this reform in the Paramount studios and to obtain the adoption of a unit system of production ended in failure, and last summer Selznick resigned from Paramount. His ambition at the time was to organize, with Lewis Milestone, an independent producing company which would operate on the basis of Selznick's ideas of unit production. Difficulties overtook this plan and it was abandoned.

With Selznick's appointment to head the production activities of RKO Radio, that company officially adopted the unit system of production championed by Selznick.

Selznick last year married Irene Mayer, a daughter of Louis B. Mayer, M-G-M production head.

Goldsmith Sees Television In Theatres in Five Years

Television in theatres will be a general fact within five years, in the opinion of Dr. Alfred N. Goldsmith, vice president of RCA and president of the SMPE, expressed at a regular AMPA meeting in New York on Thursday. Television in the home is seen by the executive as a practical device within a year.



He said that the motion picture industry will play a vital part in television because of its actors and actresses, studios and theatres, but agreed that television is still a puzzle at present.

THEATRE RECEIPTS

Box office receipts for the current calendar week, ending October 31, indicate a gain over the previous seven-day period for the 29 cities over the country included in the compilation. The present week's gross total reached $2,371,769, which, compared with the last week figure of $2,318,274, results in an increase of $53,495. Four new high individual totals were recorded during the week and six new low figures, which compares with six new highs and 11 new lows last week. Box office figures for the theatres in the city of Detroit, included in this week's record for the first time, will be regularly listed in the theatre receipts compilation in the future.

(Copyright, 1931: Reproduction of material from this department without credit to Motion Picture Herald expressly forbidden)

Theatres			Current Week		Previous Week		High and Low Gross (Tabulation covers period from January, 1931 to date)
			Picture	Gross	Picture	Gross
Albany
Harm-Bleeker ..	2,300	35c-50c	"Young as You Feel" (Fox)..... (6 days)	8,350	"Pardon Us" (MGM)..... (6 days)	8,200	High 1-24 "Reducing"	$ 18,500
Leland	1,350	25c-35c	"The Spider" (Fox) ..... (6 days)	5,500	"Skyline" (Fox) ..... (6 days)	5,175	Low 4-4 "Passion Flower"	6,100
Ritz	1,146	25c-35c	"East of Borneo" (U.) ..... (6 days)	4,950	"Monkey Business" (Para.)..... (6 days)	4,000	High 5-2 "Strangers May Kiss"	8,100
Strand	1,900	35c-50c	"24 Hours" (Para.) ..... (6 days)	6,140	"Susan Lenox" (MGM) ..... (6 days)	10,350	Low 7-11 "Daddy Long Legs"	2,900
							High 10-31 "East of Borneo"	4,950
							Low 6-6 "Party Husband"	3,190
							High 10-24 "Susan Lenox"	10,350
							Low 7-11 "Broadminded"	5,500
Baltimore
Auditorium	1,600	25c-50c	"This Thing Called Love" (Pathe) (6 days)	3,250	"Spirit Of Notre Dame" (U.)..... (6 days)	4,095	.....
Europa	267	25c-50c	"Fight For the Matterhorn" .... (German) (6 days)	600	"Gretel And Liesel" (German).. (6 days)	900	.....
Hippodrome	2,250	25c-50c	"Skyline" (Fox) ..... (6 days & Sun. midnite show)	11,500	"A Dangerous Affair" (Col.)..... (6 days and Sun. midnite show)	11,000	.....
Keith's	2,500	25c-50c	"Expensive Women" (W. B.)..... (6 days & Sun. midnite show)	6,320	"24 Hours" (Para.)..... (6 days and Sun. midnite show)	6,240	High 4-9 "Bachelor Apartment"	16,080
Loew's Century	3,076	25c-60c	"The Road to Reno" (Para.)..... (6 days)	18,500	"I Like Your Nerve" (F. N.)..... (6 days)	18,000	Low 1-17 "Abraham Lincoln"	4,800
Loew's Parkway	987	15c-35c	"The Unholy Garden" (U. A.)..... (6 days)	3,500	"Palmy Days" (U. A.)..... (6 days)	4,800	High 4-11 "Tailor Made Man"	30,000
Loew's Stanley..	3,532	25c-60c	"Sin of Madelon Claudet" (MGM) (6 days)	22,500	"Susan Lenox" (MGM)..... (6 days and Sun. midnite show)	24,000	Low 3-21 "Conquering Horde"	17,000
Loew's Valencia	1,487	25c-35c	"The Unholy Garden" (U. A.)... (6 days)	3,000	"Palmy Days" (U. A.)..... (6 days)	3,600	High 1-3 "Follow the Leader"	5,500
New	1,600	25c-50c	"The Yellow Ticket" (Fox)..... (6 days)	8,000	"The Cisco Kid" (Fox)..... (6 days and Sun. midnite show)	8,500	Low 1-10 "Lottery Bride"	3,100
Rivoli	1,982	20c-40c	"Fifty Fathoms Deep" (Col.)..... (6 days)	5,400	"Devotion" (Pathe) ..... (6 days)	6,000	High 4-11 "Strangers May Kiss"	33,500
							Low 3-14 "Reaching for the Moon"	15,000
							High 1-3 "Going Wild"	4,500
							Low 6-13 "Too Young to Marry"	2,400
							High 1-10 "Man Who Came Back"	18,000
							Low 7-11 "Their Mad Moment"	6,000
							High 1-10 "Criminal Code"	10,000
							Low 6-20 "Woman Men Marry"	5,200
Boston
Keith's	2,800	25c-65c	"Consolation Marriage" (Radio)...	20,000	"Spirit Of Notre Dame" (U.)..... (2nd week)	21,500	High 2-14 "Cimarron"	26,000
Keith-Boston ..	2,500	25c-60c	"Homicide Squad" (U.).....	19,000	"Fanny Foley Herself" (Radio)...	20,000	Low 7-18 "Woman of Experience"	17,500
Loew's Orpheum	3,100	25c-50c	"Get Rich Quick Wallingford".... (MGM)	21,000	"Palmy Days" (U. A.).....	22,000	High 1-10 "Danger Lights"	22,000
Loew's State ..	3,700	25c-50c	"The Unholy Garden" (U. A.)....	21,500	"Susan Lenox" (MGM).....	22,000	Low 7-18 "Up for Murder"	17,000
Metropolitan ...	4,350	35c-75c	"24 Hours" (Para.).....	34,500	"The Beloved Bachelor" (Para.)..	36,000	High 1-24 "Hells Angels"	31,500
Olympia	2,500	25c-50c	"The Last Flight" (F. N.).....	15,000	"Road To Singapore" (W. B.)...	15,000	Low 7-11 "Indiscreet"	18,000
Scollay Square.	1,800	25c-50c	"Bad Girl" (Fox).....	15,000	"The Spider" (Fox).....	16,000	High 4-11 "City Lights"	25,000
Uptown	2,000	25c-60c	"The Last Flight" (F. N.).....	13,000	"Road To Singapore" (W. B.)...	12,500	Low 7-18 "Man in Possession"	19,000
							High 1-31 "No Limit"	44,500
							Low 7-4 "I Take This Woman"	30,000
							High 1-3 "Blue Angel"	18,000
							Low 2-21 "Sit Tight"	12,000
							High 1-17 "Right to Love"	25,000
							Low 3-21 "Drums of Jeopardy"	13,000
							High 9-26 "Monkey Business"	15,000
							Low 7-18 "Night Nurse"	11,000
Buffalo
Buffalo	3,500	30c-65c	"Sob Sister" (Fox)	21,000	"Devotion" (Pathe)	35,200	High 3-28 "My Past"	39,500
Century	3,000	25c-35c	"East of Borneo" (U.)	11,400	"Penrod And Sam" (F. N.).....	7,900	Low 7-4 "I Take This Woman"	19,000
Court Street ...	1,200	25c	"The Big Gamble" (Pathe)..... (3 days)	2,100	"I Like Your Nerve" (F. N.) and "Sharkey-Carnera Fight Films" (State Rights) (4 days)	4,100	High 2-14 "Cimarron"	25,600
			"Side Show" (W. B.)..... (4 days)	4,300			Low 4-4 "Mothers Cry"	5,900
Erlinger	1,400	25c-50c	"Das Rheinlandsmaedel" (Capitol) (8 days)	6,000	.....	.....	.....	.....
Great Lakes ...	3,000	25c-50c	"Spirit of Notre Dame" (U.).....	19,800	"Monkey Business" (Para.)..... (2nd week)	10,000	High 8-8 "Politics"	35,100
Hippodrome	2,100	25c-50c	"The Beloved Bachelor" (Para.)...	17,000	"The Road To Reno" (Para.).....	16,900	Low 9-26 "American Tragedy"	16,000
Lafayette	3,300	25c-35c	"Fifty Fathoms Deep" (Col.).....	12,100	"Women Go On Forever" (Tiff.)..	8,200	High 2-14 "Free Love"	26,300
							Low 7-4 "Six Cylinder Love"	14,800
							High 4-11 "Ten Cents a Dance"	24,100
							Low 8-15 "Viking"	6,700
Charlotte
Broadway	1,167	25c-50c	"Expensive Women" (W. B.)..... (3 days)	4,000	"Road To Singapore" (W. B.)..... (3 days)	4,000	.....
			"A Dangerous Affair" (Col.)..... (3 days)	3,500	"Penrod And Sam" (F. N.)..... (3 days)	3,000
Carolina	1,441	40c-50c	"Susan Lenox" (MGM)..... (3 days)	7,000	"My Sin" (Para.)..... (3 days)	6,000	.....
			"Sob Sister" (Fox)..... (3 days)	5,500	"Caught Plastered" (Radio)..... (3 days)	5,000

ITS STINGING THEME CATCHES AMERICA WIDE OPEN! . . . Dates Cleared Over-Night as the Good Word Spreads . . . Big Houses Everywhere on the Line for mid-November Day-and-Date Opening . . . Nation's Newspapers Tied Up to Hit Day in Advance on Same Scale as "Cimarron"

TUNE IN! "RKO Theatre of the Air" N.B.C. Coast to Coast Network Every Friday Night, 10:30 P.M. New York Time

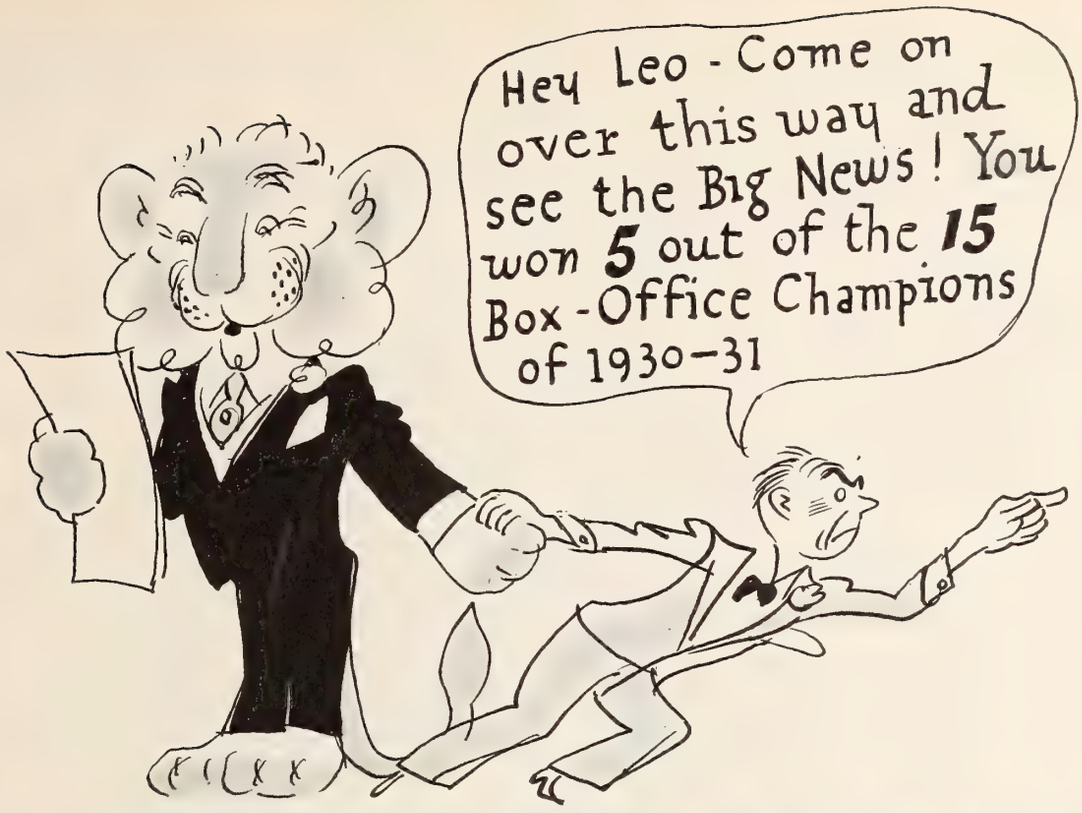
WESLEY RUGGLES' DRAMA OF WORLD CHAOS

They turned creation upside down to make possible the sweetest story of kid devotion ever told . . . Here is artist Frederic Madan's conception of what Ruggles has sent swirling across the screen—the vortex of a mad world with today's bewildered babes struggling valiantly to find a way out!



A CAST IN ITS 'TEENS . . . PLAYING LIKE BLAZES . . .

ERIC LINDEN, Boy Sensation of the Theatre Guild, ROCHELLE HUDSON, MARY KORNMAN, Pick of the Wampas Babes, BEN ALEXANDER, The Kid of "All Quiet", ARLINE JUDGE . . . Brilliantly aided by Beryl Mercer, Ralf Harolde, Wm. Orlamond . . . Adaptation and Dialogue by Howard Estabrook, Ruggles' co-Worker of "Cimarron"

(THEATRE RECEIPTS--CONT'D)

Theatres			Current Week		Previous Week		High and Low Gross (Tabulation covers period from January, 1931 to date)
			Picture	Gross	Picture	Gross
Chicago
Chicago	4,000	35c-85c	"Get Rich Quick Wallingford" (MGM)	47,000	"Susan Lenox" (MGM)	55,000	High 2-28 "Father's Son"	62,235
							Low 7-18 "Women Love Once"	26,250
McVickers	2,284	35c-85c	"Alexander Hamilton" (W. B.) (4 days—2nd week)	9,000	"Alexander Hamilton" (W. B.) (1st week)	21,000	High 2-7 "Doorway to Hell"	38,170
							Low 10-24 "Alexander Hamilton"	21,000
Oriental	3,940	35c-85c	"Susan Lenox" (MGM)	28,000	"The Beloved Bachelor" (Para.)	27,500	High 3-7 "My Past"	46,750
							Low 6-27 "Party Husband"	19,450
Palace	2,509	35c-85c	"Wicked" (Fox)	27,000	"Homicide Squad" (U.)	29,000	High 5-2 "Laugh and Get Rich"	30,875
							Low 1-3 "Follow the Leader"	18,600
Roosevelt	1,591	35c-85c	"The Mad Genius" (W. B.)	18,500	"Pardon Us" (MGM) (2nd week)	14,000	High 4-11 "Dishonored"	30,350
							Low 6-6 "Tabu"	10,100
State Lake	2,776	35c-85c	"Devotion" (Pathe)	23,000	"The Spirit Of Notre Dame" (U.) (2nd week)	20,200	High 2-14 "Cimarron"	43,100
							Low 7-4 "Transgression"	13,200
United Artists	1,700	35c-85c	"The Unholy Garden" (U. A.)	23,000	"Palmy Days" (U. A.) (3rd week)	21,000	High 3-21 "City Lights"	46,562
							Low 4-25 "Kiki"	20,825
Cincinnati
Keith's	1,600	25c-40c	"Wicked" (Fox)	4,650	"Honor Of The Family" (F. N.)	4,625	High 2-7 "Pay Off"	6,300
							Low 8-22 "A Holy Terror"	2,900
RKO Albee	3,300	35c-75c	"Pardon Us" (MGM)	22,521	"Traveling Husbands" (Radio)	22,832	High 1-3 "Remote Control"	38,321
							Low 3-7 "Once a Sinner"	20,645
RKO Capitol	2,000	30c-50c	"24 Hours" (Para.)	12,520	"Susan Lenox" (MGM)	18,661	High 10-24 "Susan Lenox"	18,661
							Low 8-8 "Hush Money"	8,551
RKO Family	1,140	15c-25c	"Riders of the Purpls Sage" (Fox) (4 days)	2,600	"I Like Your Nerve" (F. N.) (4 days)	2,292	High 2-14 "No Limit" and "Boudoir Diplomat"	4,275
			"The Mad Parade" (Para.) (3 days)	1,400	"Is There Justice?" (Sono-Art) (3 days)	1,234	Low 8-22 "Lawless Women" and "Man in Possession"	1,900
RKO Lyric	1,400	30c-50c	"Road to Singapore" (W. B.) (7 days and Sat. midnite show)	10,546	"Spirit Of Notre Dame" (U.) (7 days and Sat. midnite show)	12,926	High 2-14 "Reducing"	21,300
							Low 2-7 "Little Caesar"	8,655
RKO Palace	2,700	30c-50c	"The Unholy Garden" (U. A.) (7 days and Sat. midnite show)	13,872	"Five Star Final" (F. N.) (7 days and Sat. midnite show)	14,087	High 8-15 "Politics"	29,500
							Low 7-11 "Chances"	11,517
RKO Strand	1,350	25c-40c	"Smart Woman" (Radio)	4,500	"Side Show" (W. B.)	4,293	High 6-6 "Connecticut Yankee"	5,970
							Low 8-22 "Honeymoon Lane"	2,500
Ufa	400	30c-50c	"Die Blonde Nachtigal" (Ufa)	1,200	"Karamozov" (Tobis)	2,000
Cleveland
Allen	3,300	25c-50c	"Susan Lenox" (MGM)	25,000	"Unholy Garden" (U. A.)	14,000	High 8-8 "Politics"	26,000
							Low 4-9 "Ladies Man"	12,000
Cameo	1,200	25c-40c	"Caught" (Para.)	5,000	"Tabu" (Para.)	5,000
RKO Hippodrome	3,800	25c-50c	"Consolation Marriage" (Radio)	13,000	"A Dangerous Affair" (Col.)	15,000	High 3-14 "Dracula"	30,000
							Low 4-18 "Unfaithful"	10,000
RKO Palace	3,100	25c-75c	"Fanny Foley Herself" (Radio)	21,000	"Homicide Squad" (U.)	28,000	High 5-2 "Laugh and Get Rich"	40,000
							Low 7-18 "Arizona"	18,000
State	3,400	25c-50c	"24 Hours" (Para.)	18,000	"Wicked" (Fox)	18,000	High 9-5 "Pardon Us"	26,000
							Low 6-20 "Vice Squad"	14,000
Stillman	1,900	25c	"The Brat" (Fox)	8,000
Warner's Lake	800	25c-50c	"Honor Of The Family" (F. N.)	3,000	"I Like Your Nerve" (F. N.) (5 days)	3,200	High 10-3 "Five Star Final"	15,000
							Low 7-4 "Big Business Girl"	2,000
Denver
Denver	2,300	25c-65c	"Beloved Bachelor" (Para.)	16,000	"Susan Lenox" (MGM)	18,500	High 8-8 "Politics"	25,000
							Low 6-6 "Laughing Sinners"	13,000
Huff'n's Aladdin	1,500	35c-75c	"Pagan Lady" (Col.)	6,000	"Devotion" (Pathe)	7,500	High 4-11 "Connecticut Yankee"	12,000
							Low 4-9 "Gods Gift to Woman"	4,500
Huffman Tabor	1,900	25c-50c	"A Dangerous Affair" (Col.)	9,000	"Road To Singapore" (W. B.) (25c-75c)	10,000	High 3-21 "City Lights"	14,000
							Low 7-4 "Annabelle's Affairs"	7,000
Paramount	2,000	25c-50c	"Road to Reno" (Para.)	10,000	"The Unholy Garden" (U. A.)	11,500	High 1-10 "Hells Angels"	22,000
							Low 6-27 "Just a Gigolo"	7,500
Rialto	1,040	25c-50c	"Phantom of Paris" (MGM) (9 days)	6,000	"The Mad Parade" (Para.) (5 days)	1,000	High 6-13 "Kiki"	5,500
							Low 9-19 "The Bargain" and "Rango"	2,200
Detroit
Downtown	2,750	25c-50c	"Spirit of Notre Dame" (U.) (2nd week)	16,000	"Spirit of Notre Dame" (U.) (1st wetk)	20,000
Fisher	2,300	25c-50c	"Honor of the Family" (F. N.)	18,000	"The Road to Reno" (Para.) (25c-60c)	20,000
Fox	5,000	25c-50c	"The Big Gamble" (Pathe)	32,000	"The Cisco Kid" (Fox)	32,000
Michigan	2,500	25c-60c	"The Beloved Bachelor" (Para.)	32,000	"24 Hours" (Para.)	30,000
Paramount	3,450	25c-60c	"Susan Lenox" (MGM) (5 days—3rd week)	6,000	"Susan Lenox" (MGM) (2nd week)	21,000
			"Platinum Blonde" (Col.) (3 days)	4,000
State	3,000	25c-50c	"Leftover Ladies" (Tiff.)	9,000	"Murder at Midnite" (Tiff.)	10,000
United Artists	2,000	25c-75c	"The Unholy Garden" (U. A.)	23,000	"Palmy Days" (U. A.) (6 days—3rd week)	15,000
Hollywood
Chinese	2,500	25c-75c	"Yellow Ticket" (Fox)	9,000	"Cisco Kid" (Fox) (2nd week)	6,300	High 1-31 "Trader Horn"	36,000
							Low 10-31 "Yellow Ticket"	9,000
Pan. Hollywood	3,000	35c-65c	"Pardon Us" (MGM)	15,000	"My Sin" (Para.)	10,400	High 1-10 "Sin Takes a Holiday"	19,000
W. B. Hollywood	3,000	35c-50c	"The Ruling Voice" (W. B.)	9,400	"The Dreyfus Case" (Col.)	8,200	Low 8-15 "Tabu"	9,200
							High 2-7 "Little Caesar"	30,000
							Low 10-10 "I Like Your Nerve"	7,500

(Continued on page 43)

LEO PREFERS TO TALK ABOUT 1931-'32 NOW!

Sure, he's proud of taking 5 out of 15 B. O. Champions in M. P. Herald's survey — but he's all excited about:

THE CHAMP—WALLACE BEERY and JACKIE COOPER make their bow Nov. 9th at the $2 Astor in KING VIDOR'S masterpiece!

FLYING HIGH—The West Coast is all agog over George White's stage phenom in pictures. BERT LAHR of the original show is filmdom's new scream!

POSSESSED—JOAN CRAWFORD in a de luxe role with CLARK GABLE. Previewed in California and the rave notices haven't stopped coming in yet!

CUBAN LOVE SONG—What an entertainment! Hot love with LUPE VELEZ romancing with LAWRENCE TIBBETT, Songs! Laughs! JIMMY 'Schnozzle' DURANTE plus ERNEST TORRENCE. A surprise smash!

HELL DIVERS—Month after month M-G-M in cooperation with the Navy have been building a BIG ONE. WALLACE BEERY, CLARK GABLE together!

PRIVATE LIVES—NORMA SHEARER and ROBERT MONTGOMERY, the unforgettable 'Divorcee' pair, now making the decade's biggest stage hit into pictures!

Box-Office Champion? You said it!

METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER

BOX OFFICE CHAMPIONS OF 1930-31

MOTION PICTURE HERALD here presents the fifteen pictures of the season of 1930-31 which attained the best box office performance. The deciding figures have been taken from the box office receipts of 165 leading theatres in twenty-four cities of the United States, for the period of twelve months beginning September 1, 1930. It is an automatic election by the vote of the consumer dollar, significant alike to theatre showmen and producers of pictures. The diversity of pictures represented indicates the omnivorous nature of the American public taste and the vindication of the showman's attitude who says "It makes no difference what a picture is about if it is good." It does, however, become immediately apparent that the high spice of sex and sophistication are not considerable ingredients among the fifteen best at the box office. By this box office test and the vote of the American public the Box Office Champions of 1930-31 are:

CIMARRON
HELL'S ANGELS
TRADER HORN
CHECK AND DOUBLE CHECK
CITY LIGHTS
MIN AND BILL
LITTLE CAESAR
STRANGERS MAY KISS REDUCING DADDY LONG LEGS
THE MAN WHO CAME BACK
POLITICS MOROCCO
A CONNECTICUT YANKEE
ANIMAL CRACKERS

A few pictures which might have been expected in this list could not be properly included, despite the fact they were released as 1930-31 season product, for the reason that some of them played their important first runs in July and August of 1930, while others, released in the late summer of 1931, did not play the preponderance of their time until after September 1.

BOX OFFICE CHAMPIONS

"MOROCCO" PARAMOUNT

Based on the play, "Amy Jolly," by Benno Vigny. Directed by Josef von Sternberg. Cinematographer: Lee Carmes. Cast: Gary Cooper, Marlene Dietrich, Adolphe Menjou and Juliette Compton. Released December 6, 1930.

"A CONNECTICUT YANKEE" FOX

From the novel by Mark Twain, adapted by William Conselman. Directed by David Butler. Assistant director: Ad Schaumer. Cinematographer: Ernest Palmer. Art director: William Dowling. Cast: Will Rogers, William Farnum, Maureen O'Sullivan, Frank Albertson, Myrna Loy and Mitchell Harris. Release date: April 5, 1931.

"ANIMAL CRACKERS" PARAMOUNT

Based on musical comedy by George Kaufman and Morris Ryskind. Directed by Victor Heerman. Cinematographer: George H. Folsey. Song lyrics by Bert Kalmar and Harry Ruby. Cast: The Four Marx Brothers, Lillian Roth, Margaret DuMont, Margaret Irving, Jerry Goff, Robert Greig and Edward Metcalf. Release date: September 6, 1930.

(THEATRE RECEIPTS--CONT'D)

Theatres			Current Week		Previous Week		High and Low Gross (Tabulation covers period from January, 1931 to date)
			Picture	Gross	Picture	Gross
Houston
Kirby	1,654	25c-50c	"Alexander Hamilton" (W. B.)	4,500	"Five Star Final" (F. N.)	5,500	High 3-7 "Abraham Lincoln"	9,500
							Low 8-15 "Old English"	3,200
Loew's State	2,700	25c-50c	"Get Rich Quick Wallingford" (MGM)	6,500	"Fifty Fathoms Deep" (Col.)	6,000	High 5-2 "Trader Horn"	19,800
							Low 6-27 "Five and Ten"	5,000
Metropolitan	2,512	25c-50c	"The Unholy Garden" (U. A.)	7,500	"Palmy Days" (U. A.)	14,000	High 10-24 "Palmy Days"	14,000
							Low 7-25 "Secret Call"	6,500
RKO Majestic	2,250	25c-50c	"Consolation Marriage" (Radio)	3,200	"Rebound" (Pathe)	4,000	High 2-14 "Cimarron"	18,000
							Low 10-31 "Consolation Marriage"	3,200
Indianapolis
Apollo	1,100	25c-50c	"Sob Sister" (Fox)	4,000	"Spirit Of Notre Dame" (U.) (2nd week)	6,000	High 6-13 "Daddy Long Legs"	10,000
							Low 7-4 "Annabelle's Affairs"	3,500
Circle	2,600	25c-50c	"Devotion" (Pathe) (9 days)	9,500	"Friends and Lovers" (Radio) (5 days)	4,000	High 2-14 "Cimarron"	13,000
							Low 8-22 "Travelling Husbands"	4,000
Indiana	3,300	25c-50c	"24 Hours" (Para.)	18,500	"Pagan Lady" (Col.)	19,000	High 1-17 "Her Man"	25,000
							Low 8-8 "Confessions of Co-Ed"	11,500
Lyric	2,000	25c-50c	"Fifty Fathoms Deep" (Col.)	8,500	"Riders Of The Purple Sage" (Fox)	8,000	High 1-10 "Under Suspicion"	13,000
							Low 9-12 "East of Borneo"	5,750
Palace	2,800	25c-50c	"Sidewalks of New York" (MGM)	7,500	"Susan Lenox" (MGM)	15,000	High 5-2 "Trader Horn"	22,000
							Low 10-31 "Sidewalks of New York"	7,500
Kansas City
Liberty	1,200	25c-50c	"Honor Of The Family" (F. N.)	4,500	"The Road To Reno" (Para.)	5,000
Mainstreet	3,067	35c-60c	"Devotion" (Pathe)	15,000	"Spirit of Notre Dame" (U.)	19,500	High 2-14 "Cimarron"	24,750
							Low 1-10 "Criminal Code"	14,500
Midland	4,000	25c-50c	"The Sin Of Madelon Claudet" (MGM)	17,000	"Susan Lenox" (MGM)	28,130	High 10-24 "Susan Lenox"	28,130
							Low 5-9 "Quick Millions"	7,500
Newman	2,000	35c-50c	"Girls About Town" (Para.)	12,500	"The Beloved Bachelor" (Para.) (7 days and Sat. midnite show)	12,500	High 9-26 "Monkey Business"	19,000
							Low 5-16 "Ladies Man"	8,000
Uptown	2,200	25c-50c	"Penrod and Sam" (F. N.)	5,700	"High Stakes" (Radio)	5,700	High 1-10 "Girl of Golden West"	8,000
							Low 10-10 "Great Lover"	5,100
Los Angeles
Carthay Circle	1,650	75c-$1.50	"Consolation Marriage" (Radio) (2nd week)	4,900	"Consolation Marriage" (Radio) ($5.00 premiere—1st week)	8,500	High 3-21 "Strangers May Kiss" (5 days)	28,000
							Low 10-24 "Consolation Marriage" ($5 Premiere)	8,500
Fox Criterion	1,652	35c-65c	"Yellow Ticket" (Fox)	11,000	"Cisco Kid" (Fox) (2nd week)	10,000	High 5-9 "Secret Six"	27,000
							Low 1-31 "Royal Family Bway"	7,000
International	2,000	25c-50c	"Amor Solsecando" (Para.)	5,200	"Law Of The Harem" (Fox-Spanish)	6,600	High 1-10 "El Hombre Malo"	8,000
							Low 3-28 "La Fruta Amerga"	3,000
Loew's State	2,418	35c-65c	"Sob Sister" (Fox)	15,300	"Susan Lenox" (MGM)	39,000	High 10-24 "Susan Lenox"	39,000
							Low 8-8 "Hush Money"	15,000
Los Angeles	2,100	25c-65c	"Wicked" (Fox)	12,000	"Leftover Ladies" Tiff.)	7,500	High 2-7 "City Lights"	48,000
							Low 4-8 "Among the Married"	5,000
Orpheum	2,750	35c-65c	"Spirit of Notre Dame" (U.) (2nd week)	14,600	"Spirit Of Notre Dame" (U.) (1st week)	15,100	High 2-14 "Cimarron" (5 days)	32,000
							Low 8-22 "Dirigible"	6,500
Paramount	3,596	35c-65c	"Beloved Bachelor" (Para.)	41,000	"Road To Reno" (Para.)	14,000	High 10-31 "Beloved Bachelor"	41,000
							Low 7-11 'Girl Habit"	10,000
RKO	2,700	35c-65c	"Homicide Squad" (U.)	18,000	"Smart Woman" (Radio)	16,200	High 10-31 "Homicide Squad"	18,000
							Low 8-1 "Arizona"	11,000
United Artists	2,100	35c-65c	"Palmy Days" (U. A.) (3rd week)	8,600	"Palmy Days" (U. A.) (2nd week)	14,600	High 9-26 "Monkey Business"	32,000
							Low 8-1 "Honeymoon Lane"	4,500
W. B. Downtown	2,400	35c-50c	"The Ruling Voice" (W. B.)	8,200	"Penrod and Sam" (F. N.)	10,100	High 2-7 "Little Caesar"	27,000
							Low 10-10 "I Like Your Nerve"	7,000
W. B. Western	2,400	50c-75c	"Alexander Hamilton" (W. B.) (3rd week)	13,300	"Alexander Hamilton" (W. B.) (2nd week)	18,500
Milwaukee
Alhambra	2,660	25c-60c	"East of Borneo" (U.)	9,000	"The Spirit Of Notre Dame" (U.) (2nd week)	8,000
Garden	1,150	25c-60c	"Murder at Midnite" (Tiff.) (5 days)	5,000	"The Dreyfus Case" (Col.)	9,500
Palace	2,587	25c-60c	"Bad Girl" (Fox) (2nd week)	8,500	"Bad Girl" (Fox) (1st week)	11,800
Riverside	2,180	25c-60c	"Friends and Lovers" (Radio)	14,000	"A Dangerous Affair" (Col.)	13,500
Strand	1,406	25c-60c	"Riders of the Purple Sage" (Fox)	6,000	"The Spider" (Fox)	6,500
Warner	2,500	25c-60c	"The Ruling Voice" (W. B.)	12,500	"Honor Of The Family" (F. N.)	9,500
Wisconsin	3,275	25c-65c	"Susan Lenox" (MGM)	15,000	"My Sin" (Para.)	14,200
Minneapolis
Aster	812	20c-25c	"Wicked" (Fox) (20c-35c—3 days)	1,000	"Mystery Of Life" (U.)	1,500	High 3-21 "Father's Son"	2,000
			"The Bargain" (F. N.) (4 days)	700			Low 4-18 "Men Call It Love"	900
Lyric	1,238	20c-40c	"Get Rich Quick Wallingford" (MGM)	3,000	"Riders Of The Purple Sage" (Fox)	2,500	High 5-30 "Kiki"	4,000
							Low 1-24 "Men on Call"	1,200
Minnesota	4,000	30c-75c	"Road to Singapore" (W. B.)	24,000	"Susan Lenox" (MGM)	26,000	High 6-27 "Daddy Long Legs"	32,000
							Low 2-28 "Dance Fools Dance"	18,000
Pantages	1,500	25c-50c	"Palmy Days" (U. A.) (5 days—3rd week)	3,000	"Palmy Days" (U. A.) (2nd week)	5,000
RKO Orpheum	2,900	25c-50c	"Five Star Final" (F. N.)	17,000	"The Last Flight" (F. N.)	16,500	High 2-14 "Cimarron"	30,000
							Low 9-12 "Waterloo Bridge"	12,000
RKO 7th St.	1,300	15c-40c	"Reckless Living" (U.) (3 days)	1,500	"Rebound" (Pathe) (3 days)	2,000
			"Gay Diplomat" Radio) (4 days)	1,200	"The Woman Between" (Radio) (4 days)	1,000
State	2,300	25c-50c	"Guilty Hands" (MGM)	9,000	"Sidewalks Of New York" (MGM)	7,500	High 8-29 "Sporting Blood"	10,000
							Low 14-18 "Body and Soul"	6,000
Montreal
Capitol	2,547	25c-60c	"Night Nurse" (W. B.) and "I Like Your Nerve" (F. N.)	11,500	"The Squaw Man" (MGM) and "Parlor, Bedroom and Bath" (MGM)	12,500	High 1-10 "Just Imagine"	18,000
							Low 7-11 "Always Goodbye" and "Annabelle's Affairs"	9,200
Imperial	1,914	15c-40c	"High Stakes" (Radio) and "Too Many Cooks" (Radio)	4,300	"Mother And Son" (Monogram) and "Penrod And Sam" (F. N.)	4,700	High 1-17 "Office Wife"	10,000
							Low 6-20 "Single Sin" and "Dawn Trail"	3,000
Loew's	3,115	25c-75c	"Phantom Of Paris" (MGM)	14,500	"Wicked" (Fox)	14,000	High 1-31 "Derelict"	16,000
							Low 7-18 "Stepping Out"	9,000

It's up to YOU!

From now until January 9th you can make more money than you've ever made in two months...IF YOU GET BEHIND THESE NINE WARNER and FIRST NATIONAL box-office hits:—

NOW READY— F.N.

THE RULING VOICE

with WALTER HUSTON, LORETTA YOUNG, Doris Kenyon, David Manners, Dudley Digges. Most amazing picture of the year!

NOV. 7 W.B.

JOHN BARRYMORE

in the triumph of his career, "THE MAD GENIUS" with Marian Marsh, Chas. Butterworth, Donald Cook, Carmel Myers.

NOV. 18 W.B.

BLONDE CRAZY

JAMES CAGNEY running wild in his first comedy role with Joan Blondell, Guy Kibbee, Noel Francis. Written by Kubec Glasmon and John Bright, the "Smart Money" boys.

NOV. 26 F.N.

JOE E. BROWN

in his million laugh-power riot "LOCAL BOY MAKES GOOD" with Dorothy Lee, Ruth Hall, Eddie Nugent.

DEC. 5 F.N.

COMPROMISED

with BEN LYON, ROSE HOBART, Juliette Compton, Bert Roach, Claude Gillingwater. Written by the author of "Illicit."

DEC. 12 F.N.

DOROTHY MACKAILL in

SAFE IN HELL

with Donald Cook, Ralf Harolde, John Wray, Victor Varconi.

DEC. 26 F.N.

MARILYN MILLER

in "HER MAJESTY, LOVE" with Ben Lyon and four of the screen's funniest comedians, Leon Errol, W. C. Fields, Chester Conklin Ford Sterling. Romance! Music! Dancing! Laughter!

DEC. 31 W.B.

UNDER EIGHTEEN

MARIAN MARSH as the first star of the new year. With a brilliant supporting cast, WARREN WILLIAM, Anita Page, Regis Toomey, Norman Foster.

JAN. 9 W.B.

JAMES CAGNEY

crashes to stardom in "TAXI", by Kenyon Nicholson, Kubec Glasmon and John Bright. With Loretta Young, Dorothy Burgess, Guy Kibbee, Geo. E. Stone, David Landau.

Current releases from Warner Bros. and First National include:—

THE STAR WITNESS

FIVE STAR FINAL with Edw. G. Robinson

George ARLISS in ALEXANDER HAMILTON

William Powell in THE ROAD TO SINGAPORE

Richard Barthelmess in THE LAST FLIGHT

Booth Tarkington's PENROD AND SAM

MORE THAN YOUR CONTRACT CALLS FOR

(THEATRE RECEIPTS--CONT'D)

Theatres			Current Week		Previous Week		High and Low Gross (Tabulation covers period from January, 1931 to date)
			Picture	Gross	Picture	Gross
Montreal (Cont'd)
Orpheum	1,119	25c-60c	"Her Unborn Child" (Windsor)	8,000	"The Dreyfus Case" (Col.) (2nd week)	4,800
Palace	2,600	25c-99c	"This Modern Age" (MGM)	14,300	"Merely Mary Ann" (Fox)	15,000	High 2-21 "Man Who Came Back"	19,000
							Low 8-1 "Donovan's Kid"	10,500
Princess	2,272	25c-65c	"Palmy Days" (U. A.) (2nd week)	13,500	"Palmy Days" (U. A.) (1st week)	13,500	High 4-11 "City Lights"	22,500
							Low 7-18 "Colonel's Lady"	7,200
Strand	750	15c-50c	"Transatlantic" (Fox) and "Magnificent Lie" (Para.)	4,500	"Reckless Hour" and "Secret Call" (Para.)	4,300	High 2-14 "London Calling" and "Sisters"	5,200
							Low 6-27 "East Lynne and "Can Love Decide"	3,000
New York
Astor	1,120	50c-$2.00	"The Guardsman" (MGM) (8th week)	13,189	"The Guardsman" (MGM) (7th week)	15,740	High 1-3 "New Moon"	23,684
Broadway	2,000	35c-$1.00	"The Tip Off" (Pathe)	24,201	"Women Go On Forever" (Tiff.)	19,213	Low 6-13 "A Free Soul"	20,181
Capitol	4,700	35c-$1.50	"Susan Lenox" (MGM) (2nd week)	77,979	"Susan Lenox" (MGM) (1st week)	99,741	High 10-24 "Susan Lenox"	99,741
							Low 3-21 "Great Meadow"	49,789
Embassy	598	25c	All Newsreel	8,351	All Newsreel	8,136	High 1-3 Newsreels	9,727
							Low 7-4 Newsreels	7,085
Hollywood	1,549	50c-$1.00	"The Mad Genius" (W. B.)	25,321	"Alexander Hamilton" (W. B.) (6th week)	10,250
Mayfair	2,300	35c-85c	"Spirit Of Notre Dame" (U.) (2nd week)	17,000	"Spirit Of Notre Dame" (U.) (1st week)	36,000	High 2-14 "Millie"	44,200
							Low 7-4 "Sweepstakes"	12,500
Paramount	3,700	40c-$1.00	"Woman Between" (Radio)	49,900	"The Beloved Bachelor" (Para.)	40,100	High 2-7 "Finn and Hattie"	85,900
							Low 10-24 "The Beloved Bachelor"	40,100
Rialto	1,904	40c-$1.00	"Palmy Days" (U. A.) (6th week)	12,200	"Palmy Days" (U. A.) (5th week)	19,300	High 3-14 "Dishonored"	58,000
			"Unholy Garden" (U. A.) (5 days)	24,900			Low 6-27 "Dracula" and "Hell's Angels"	4,500
Rivoli	2,103	40c-$1.00	"Monkey Business" (Para.) (4th week)	25,900	"Monkey Business" (Para.) (3rd week)	35,900	High 10-17 "Monkey Business"	57,400
							Low 7-11 "Newly Rich"	15,800
Roxy	6,200	50c-$1.50	"The Cisco Kid" (Fox)	69,600	"Heartbreak" (Fox)	50,600	High 1-10 "Man Who Came Back"	130,430
							Low 10-24 "Heartbreak"	50,600
Strand	3,000	35c-85c	"Alexander Hamilton" (W. B.)	12,847	"Honor Of The Family" (W. B.)	14,169	High 1-17 "Little Caesar"	74,821
							Low 8-22 "Men Are Like That"	9,274
Warners	1,490	35c-75c	"Fanny Foley Herself" (Radio)	2,540	"The Love Storm" and "The Flying Fool" (British Int'nat'l)	1,703	High 1-3 "Vienese Nights"	16,968
							Low 8-22 "Disraeli," "General Crack" "Noah's Ark," "Weary River," "Son of the Gods," "On With The Show," "Gold Diggers of Broadway"	1,646
Winter Garden	1,493	35c-$1.00	("Five Star Final" (F. N.) (7th week)	16,672	"Five Star Final" (F. N.) (6th week)	19,907	High 9-19 "Five Star Final"	59,782
							Low 6-6 "Maltese Falcon"	16,692
Oklahoma City
Capitol	1,200	10c-50c	"Road to Reno" (Para.)	5,000	"Caught Plastered" (Radio)	4,500	High 2-7 "Illicit"	11,000
							Low 6-27 "White Shoulders"	4,000
Criterion	1,700	10c-50c	"Traveling Husbands" (Radio)	6,000	"The Unholy Garden" (U. A.)	6,000	High 2-21 "Cimarron"	15,500
							Low 8-1 "Magnicent Lie"	5,500
Liberty	1,500	10c-35c	"The Tip Off" (Pathe)	3,800	"Five Star Final" (F. N.)	3,800	High 1-24 "Under Suspicion"	7,200
							Low 6-20 "Big Fight" and "Drums of Jeopardy"	900
Mid-West	1,500	10c-50c	"Devotion" (Pathe)	5,200	"Spirit Of Notre Dame" (U.)	5,000	High 9-19 "Young as You Feel"	11,000
							Low 7-4 "Hush Money"	4,000
Warner	1,800	10c-50c	"Wicked" (Fox)	5,600	"The Bargain" (F. N.)	5,800	High 1-3 "Going Wild"	10,500
							Low 10-31 "Wicked"	5,600
Omaha
Orpheum	3,000	25c-60c	"Devotion" (Pathe)	14,000	"Spirit Of Notre Dame" (U.)	14,650	High 2-14 "Cimarron"	25,550
							Low 6-20 "White Shoulders"	11,500
Paramount	2,900	25c-60c	"Palmy Days" (U. A.) (25c-50c)	6,500	"Susan Lenox" (MGM)	9,500	High 6-20 "Daddy Long Legs"	12,000
							Low 1-31 "Bachelor Father"	6,000
State	1,200	35c	"I Like Your Nerve" (F. N.) (4 days)	900	"The Last Flight" (F. N.) (4 days)	1,400	High 3-14 "Trader Horn"	10,000
			"Skyline" (Fox) (3 days)	900	"Wicked" (Fox) (3 days)	700	Low 9-26 "Tabu" and "Children of Dreams"	1,325
World	2,500	25c-40c	"The Squaw Man" (MGM)	6,000	"Personal Maid" (Para.)	5,250	High 4-11 "Men Call It Love"	16,000
							Low 8-1 "Women Love Once" and "Secret Call"	5,000
Ottawa
Avalon	990	15c-35c	"Bad Girl" (Fox) (3 days)	1,850	"Merely Mary Ann" (Fox) (3 days)	1,500	High 5-30 "Hells Angels" and "Body and Soul"	3,300
			"College Lovers" (F. N.) and "Viennese Nights" (W. B.) (3 days)	1,800	"Young As You Feel" (Fox) (3 days)	1,250	Low 6-27 "My Past" and "Fifty Million Frenchmen"	1,900
Capitol	2,592	15c-60c	"Pardon Us" (MGM) (6 days)	8,200	"The Common Law" (Pathe) (6 days)	10,000
Centre	1,142	15c-60c	"Plunder" (British) (6 days)	5,800	"Smart Woman" (Radio) (6 days)	5,000	High 5-16 "Devil to Pay"	6,300
							Low 1-3 "Sunny"	2,900
Imperial	1,091	10c-40c	"Star Witness" (W. B.) (3 days)	1,900	"Riders Of The Purple Sage" (Fox) (3 days)	1,550	High 5-9 "Trader Horn"	7,000
							Low 8-1 "Speckled Band"	2,300
			"Traveling Husbands" (Radio) (3 days)	1,500	"Wicked" (Fox) (3 days)	1,650
Regent	1,225	15c-60c	"Daughter of the Dragon" (Para.) (3 days)	2,800	"Caught Plastered" (Radio) and "Tabu" (Para.) (3 days)	2,900	High 5-30 "Seed"	6,200
							Low 7-1 "Shipmates"	4,200
			"Road To Singapore" (W. B.) (3 days)	2,500	"Hush Money" (Fox) (3 days)	2,400
Philadelphia
Arcadia	600	50c	"Phantom of Paris" (MGM) (6 days)	2,500	"An American Tragedy" (Para.) (6 days)	2,700	High 1-3 "Laughter"	5,000
							Low 10-31 "Phantom of Paris"	2,500
Earle	2,000	25c-65c	"Honor of the Family" (F. N.) (6 days)	13,500	"Get Rich Quick Wallingford" (MGM) (6 days—2nd week)	14,500	High 1-3 "Divorce Among Friends"	26,000
							Low 10-31 "Honor of the Family"	13,500
Fox	3,000	35c-75c	"Riders of the Purple Sage" (Fox) (6 days)	23,000	"Skyline" (Fox) (6 days)	20,000	High 2-7 "Man Who Came Back"	40,000
							Low 10-24 "Skyline"	20,000
Karlton	1,000	40c-50c	"I Like Your Nerve" (F. N.) (6 days)	4,000	"Sidewalks Of New York" (MGM) (6 days)	6,000	High 5-2 "City Lights"	8,000
							Low 3-21 "Resurrection"	3,000
Keith's	1,800	35c-75c	"Pardon Us" (MGM) (6 days)	14,000	"Guilty Hands" (MGM) (6 days)	13,000	High 1-3 "Tom Sawyer"	24,000
							Low 8-8 "Woman Between"	7,500

"STREET SCENE"
RONALD COLMAN in THE UNHOLY GARDEN
EDDIE CANTOR in PALMY DAYS
GLORIA SWANSON in TONIGHT OR NEVER THEY'RE CLAMORING FOR THESE BIG ONES FROM SAMUEL GOLDWYN
From
UNITED ARTISTS!
The Leader!
give him a lift
NATIONAL MOTION PICTURE WEEK—NOV. 16 to 23
FOR LOCAL UNEMPLOYMENT RELIEF

(THEATRE RECEIPTS--CONT'D)

Theatres			Current Week		Previous Week		High and Low Gross (Tabulation covers period from January, 1931 to date)
			Picture	Gross	Picture	Gross
Philadelphia (Cont'd)
Mastbaum	4,800	35c-75c	"Susan Lenox" (MGM) (6 days)	34,000	"24 Hours" Para.) (6 days)	28,000	High 8-29 "Caught Plastered"	62,000
							Low 10-24 "24 Hours"	28,000
Stanley	3,700	35c-75c	"Spirit of Notre Dame" (U.) (6 days—2nd week)	11,000	"Spirit Of Notre Dame" (U.) (6 days—1st week)	19,000	High 2-14 "Cimarron"	26,000
							Low 7-25 "Rebound"	8,000
Stanton	1,700	25c-65c	"My Sin" (Para.) (6 days)	9,000	"The Dreyfus Case" (Col.) (6 days—2nd week)	7,000	High 3-21 "Last Parade"	16,500
							Low 10-10 "Fifty Fathoms Deep"	7,000
Portland, Ore.
Fox Broadway	1,912	25c-50c	"24 Hours" (Para.)	6,400	"The Cisco Kid" (Fox)	5,700	High 1-10 "Min and Bill"	21,000
							Low 4-4 "The Prodigal"	3,000
Fox Paramount	3,068	25c-60c	"Riders of the Purple Sage" (Fox)	13,600	"The Road To Reno" (Para.)	12,500	High 1-3 "Paid"	26,000
							Low 5-23 "Young Sinners"	11,000
Hamrick's Music Box	1,800	35c	"Honor of the Family" (F. N.)	5,600	"The Road To Singapore" (W. B.)	6,000	.....
RKO Orpheum	1,700	25c-50c	"Smart Woman" (Radio)	11,000	"The Spirit Of Notre Dame" (U.)	14,000	High 2-14 "Cimarron"	20,000
							Low 5-23 "Iron Man"	8,500
United Artists	945	25c-60c	"Palmy Days" (U. A.) (25c-50c)	7,000	"Susan Lenox" (MGM) (2nd week)	5,800	High 1-10 "Hells Angels"	12,500
							Low 10-3 "Pagan Lady"	3,500
Providence
Loew's State	3,800	15c-50c	"Susan Lenox" (MGM)	20,000	"The Unholy Garden" (U. A.)	11,000	High 2-7 "Insperation"	25,500
							Low 6-27 "Five and Ten"	9,500
Majestic	2,400	15c-50c	"Road to Singapore" (W. B.) and "Expensive Women" (W. B.)	8,500	"Five Star Final" (W. B.)	14,000	High 3-7 "Little Caesar"	18,000
							Low 4-4 "Love of Aloah" and "Costello Case"	8,000
Paramount	2,300	10c-50c	"The Beloved Bachelor" (Para.)	6,500	"24 Hours" (Para.)	6,500	High 3-14 "Unfaithful"	14,000
							Low 8-8 "Secret Call"	4,500
RKO Albee	2,300	10c-50c	"Spirit of Notre Dame" (U.)	10,000	"Friends And Lovers" (Radio)	6,500	High 1-10 "Criminal Code"	14,000
							Low 7-4 "Sweepstakes"	3,200
RKO Victory	1,600	10c-35c	"Reckless Living" (U.) (4 days)	2,000	"The Dreyfus Case" (Col.)	2,000	High 2-14 "Last Parade"	11,000
							Low 10-24 "The Dreyfus Case"	2,000
St. Paul
Paramount	2,300	25c-50c	"Alexander Hamilton" (W. B.)	8,500	"Susan Lenox" (MGM)	10,000	High 8-22 "Smiling Lieutenant"	12,000
							Low 1-17 "Paid"	7,000
Riviera	1,300	25c-50c	"Sidewalks of New York" (MGM)	5,000	"The Star Witness" (W.B.)	4,500	High 9-5 "Huckleberry Finn"	9,000
							Low 1-17 "Just Imagine"	1,500
RKO Orpheum	2,600	25c-50c	"Five Star Final" (F. N.)	15,000	"The Last Flight" (F. N.)	14,000	High 2-14 "Cimarron"	28,000
							Low 2-21 "Millie"	10,000
RKO President	1,200	15c-35c	"Reckless Living" (U.) (3 days)	1,000	"Rebound" (Pathe) (3 days)	1,100	.....
			"Gay Diplomat" (Radio) (4 days)	1,000	"The Woman Between" (Radio) (4 days)	1,100
Tower	1,000	15c-25c	"Skyline" (Fox)	2,000	"Riders Of The Purple Sage" (Fox)	1,500	High 10-3 "Penrod and Sam"	4,000
							Low 1-24 "Along Came Youth"	1,000
San Francisco
El Capitan	3,100	25c-60c	"This Modern Age" (MGM)	13,200	"Transatlantic" (Fox)	13,000	High 8-15 "Daddy Long Legs"	16,750
							Low 3-14 "Part Time Wife"	12,000
Fox	4,600	35c-60c	"Heartbreak" (Fox)	32,000	"Cisco Kid" (Fox)	43,000	High 1-3 "Lightning"	70,000
							Low 5-30 "Six Cylinder Love"	30,000
Golden Gate	2,800	35c-65c	"High Stakes" (Radio)	14,000	"Woman Between" (Radio)	13,000	High 7-11 "Lawless Woman"	20,000
							Low 7-4 "Lover Come Back"	9,500
Orpheum	3,000	25c-50c	"Spirit Of Notre Dame" (U.) (2nd week)	10,000	"Spirit Of Notre Dame" (U.) (1st week)	18,000	High 2-14 "Cimarron"	20,000
							Low 7-11 "Sweepstakes"	7,500
Paramount	2,670	25c-50c	"Sob Sister" (Fox)	15,000	"Beloved Bachelor" (Para.)	15,000	High 2-7 "Morocco"	35,000
							Low 7-18 "Women Love Once"	10,000
United Artists	1,200	25c-60c	"Palmy Days" (U. A.) (2nd week)	11,500	"Palmy Days" (U. A.) (1st yeek)	14,000	.....
Warfield	2,700	25c-50c	"Road To Reno" (Para.)	19,500	"Skyline" (Fox)	19,000	High 3-14 "Parlor, Bedroom and Bath"	28,000
							Low 10-10 "Wicked"	16,000
Warners	1,385	35c-50c	"Road To Singapore" (W. B.)	8,200	"Alexander Hamilton" (W. B.) (2nd week)	7,700	High 9-12 "Star Witness"	15,100
							Low 8-22 "The Viking"	4,850
Seattle
Blue Mouse	950	25c-75c	"Honor of the Family" (F. N.)	6,500	"The Road To Singapore" (W. B.)	6,500	.....
Fifth Avenue	2,750	25c-75c	"Personal Maid" (Para.)	13,000	"Riders Of The Purple Sage" (Fox)	12,000	High 4-18 "Trader Horn"	17,000
Fox Coliseum	2,000	25c-50c	"The Common Law" (Pathe) (4 days)	3,000	"24 Hours" (Para.)	6,000	Low 3-14 "Inspiration" (10 days)	10,000
			"Sweepstakes" (Pathe) (3 days)	2,000			.....
Liberty	2,000	15c-30c	"Mother and Son" (Monogram)	6,500	"Alias The Bad Man" (Tiff.)	6,000	High 1-10 "The Lash"	11,500
							Low 5-23 "Lightning Flyer"	5,500
Music Box	950	25c-75c	"Unholy Garden" (U. A.) (2nd week)	8,000	"Five Star Final" (F. N.) (5 days—2nd week)	4,000	High 2-28 "City Lights"	14,000
							Low 3-28 "My Past"	5,500
					"Unholy Garden" (U. A.) (2 days—1st week)	2,000
Paramount	3,150	25c-75c	"The Road to Reno" (Para.) (5 days)	11,000	"My Sin" (Para.) (5 days)	8,000	High 1-10 "Paid"	18,000
							Low 9-19 "Transatlantic"	10,000
					"Sob Sister" (Fox) (2 days)	3,000
RKO Orpheum	2,650	25c-75c	"Spirit of Notre Dame" (U.)	18,000	"Devotion" (Pathe)	13,500	High 10-31 "Spirit of Notre Dame"	18,000
							Low 3-21 "Kept Husbands"	10,000
Toronto
Imperial	3,444	15c-75c	"24 Hours" (Para.) (6 days)	16,500	"My Sin" (Para.) (15c-75c—6 days)	18,500	High 9-19 "Merely Mary Ann"	22,000
							Low 6-20 "Always Goodbye"	13,000
Loew's	2,088	15c-75c	"Unholy Garden" (U. A.) (6 days)	12,500	"Sidewalks Of New York" (MGM) (6 days)	12,000	High 4-18 "City Lights"	22,000
							Low 8-15 "Son of India"	10,500
Shea's	2,600	30c-75c	"The Spider" (Fox) (6 days)	14,500	"Penrod And Sam" (F. N.) (6 days)	13,000	High 3-7 "Three French Girls"	16,500
							Low 6-27 "Painted Desert"	10,000
Tivoli	1,600	15c-75c	"An American Tragedy" (Para.) (6 days)	10,500	"Monkey Business" (Para.) (6 days—2nd week)	10,200	High 2-28 "Cimarron"	19,500
							Low 8-1 "Uneasy Virtue"	9,800
Uptown	3,000	15c-60c	"Side Show" (W. B.) (6 days)	11,000	"Road To Singapore" (W. B.) (6 days)	12,300	High 4-25 "Don't Bet on Women"	14,000
							Low 10-17 "Ten Nights In a Barroom"	8,300

With ERPI service you avoid this "UP and DOWN"

Unless sound equipment receives regular service, expenses shoot UP — for repairs and replacements — receipts slide DOWN along with the quality of sound you will be giving your patrons.... ERPI Service Engineers protect you against this Up and Down of improperly serviced sound equipment — a protection that is a real economy. . . . These engineers are trained in the Bell System practice of preventing breakdowns that come with the wear and tear of time. . . . ERPI's constant watchfulness saves money and produces profits. It enables your Western Electric equipment to deliver uniformly good sound for the life of your contract.

Western Electric
SOUND SYSTEM
THE VOICE OF ACTION

Northern Electric in Canada

Distributed by

Electrical Research Products Inc.

250 West 57th Street, New York

As One Voice The Motion Picture Industry Cries —

WE WILL SHARE!

AND the greatest cooperative move since war days sweeps every unit in this vast industry into line to answer the appeal of the needy. National Motion Picture Week, with its benefit performances in every community for the assistance of local unemployed, will reveal the heart of Motion Pictures.

A press sheet with full details on how to put over local benefit campaigns is on the way. Posters and other accessories that will sell your benefit tickets to your public are coming. Every item necessary to put over National Motion Picture Week is provided free.

Are YOU Doing YOUR Share?

If you have not yet started plans for your benefit performances, get in touch with your local relief committee NOW.

▲ ▲ ▲

Following are Chairmen of District Motion Picture Committees. For information, address Chairman of your District.

L. H. Keene, Fox Theatre, ATLANTA . . . Martin J. Mullin, 60 Scollay Sq., BOSTON . . . J. H. Michael, 505 Pearl St., BUFFALO . . . H. H. Everett, 505 W. 4th St., CHARLOTTE . . . Felix Mendelssohn, 1325 South Wabash Ave., CHICAGO . . . George A. Smith, 1214 Central Parkway, CINCINNATI . . . Fred Desberg, Loew's State Theatre, CLEVELAND . . . J. J. Friedl, Melba Theatre Building, DALLAS . . . Harry E. Huffman, Aladdin Theatre, DENVER . . . Lester F. Martin, Nevada, Iowa (for DES MOINES district) . . . H. M. Richey, 608 Fox Theatre Building, DETROIT . . . Charles R. Metzger, 315 Chamber of Commerce Bldg., INDIANAPOLIS . . . Arthur H. Cole, 1800 Wyandotte St., KANSAS CITY . . . Mike Rosenberg, Washington at Vermont Ave., LOS ANGELES . . . M. A. Lightman, 409 South Second St., MEMPHIS . . . Sam Sherman, 732 W. Second St., MILWAUKEE . . . W. A. Steffes, Pence Building, MINNEAPOLIS . . . Arthur Horn, 134 Meadow St., NEW HAVEN . . . H. F. Wilkes, 221 S. Liberty St., NEW ORLEANS . . . Charles L. O'Reilly, Times Building, NEW YORK CITY . . . Pat Magee, Criterion Theatre, OKLAHOMA CITY . . . L. R. Pierce, RKO-Orpheum Theatre, OMAHA . . . Joseph Hebrew, 1225 Vine St., PHILADELPHIA . . . E. A. Bell (Temporary Chairman) 209 Clark Bldg. PITTSBURGH . . . Floyd Maxwell, Paramount Theatre, PORTLAND . . . Fred Wehrenberg, 2708 Cherokee St., ST. LOUIS . . . W. F. Gordon, 212 E. 1st St. South, SALT LAKE CITY . . . Thomas D. Van Osten, 25 Taylor St., SAN FRANCISCO . . . John Danz, 205 Empress Building, SEATTLE . . . John J. Payette, Earle Theatre Building, WASHINGTON.

NATIONAL MOTION PICTURE WEEK · NOV. 18TH TO 25TH · give him a lift · FOR LOCAL UNEMPLOYMENT RELIEF

The following contributed in the presentation of this advertisement

Lee & Phillips, Inc., Typographers
O'Flaherty Electrotype Company
Hap Hadley, Artist
City Photo Engraving Corporation
Space by courtesy of this publication

WABASH AVENUE

CHICAGO

Walter Branson, branch manager of RKO Pathe, believes this is the time for exhibitors to show their worth by putting on the kind of campaign and the type of front that will bring the public back to the box office. Every effort, he contends, should be made to revive the theatre-going habit through more advertising and better theatre operation.

▼

Henri Ellman has purchased an interest in the Imperial theatre. His partner in the enterprise is Florence Paley. It is reported that Ellman soon will acquire several more houses.

▼

November 21 will be set aside as the day for special benefit performances for unemployment relief in Chicago theatres.

▼

Gradwell L. Sears, western general sales manager of Warner, stopped in Chicago on his way from the west coast to New York.

▼

Employees of National Screen Service are planning a dance and buffet luncheon for the near future to be held in the Warner building. The affair is exclusively for employees.

▼

Now that the war is over the Allied forces have given up their headquarters in the Auditorium hotel, and Aaron Saperstein is on the fourth floor at 1018 South Wabash.

▼

S. J. Gregory, well known in Chicago film circles, will soon open a theatre at Frankfort, Ind.

HOLQUIST

SHORTS ON BROADWAY

Week of October 31, 1931

ASTOR
- Bali ..... MGM
- Olympic Events ..... MGM

CAPITOL
- Pajama Party ..... MGM

HOLLYWOOD
- Musical Mystery ..... Vitaphone
- Bosko, the Doughboy ..... Vitaphone
- Road to Mandalay ..... Vitaphone

MAYFAIR
- Beneath the Southern Cross.. RKO Pathe
- Scratch as Catch Can..... RKO Radio

RIALTO
- I Surrender Dear..... Paramount
- Jack and the Beanstalk ..... Max Fleisher

RIVOLI
- You're Driving Me Crazy.... Paramount
- Penalties ..... Tiffany
- No More Hookey ..... Paramount

STRAND
- Free and Easy ..... Vitaphone
- Believe It Or Not No. 12.... Vitaphone

WARNER
- Old Lace ..... Vitaphone
- Sportslants ..... Vitaphone

WINTER GARDEN
- Rhythms of a Big City..... Vitaphone
- A Complete Round of Golf. Vitaphone

NEWS PICTURES

HEARST METROTONE NEWS—No. 210—Premier MacDonald scores triumph in British election—Platinum blondes are out, says Paris—Nationalist rally stirs Berlin—Paris youngsters have own theatre—German soldiers go on smell hunt in novel maneuver—Senator Hiram Johnson sees United States pushed into League—Rome's finest give Italians a treat—Huge Akron ties up to skyscraper.

HEARST METROTONE NEWS—No. 211—Jim Londos defends wrestling title successfully in New York bout—Senator La Follette leads battle over cancellation of 11 billions in foreign debts—Australians get spring thrills at cattle show—Holiday turkeys hear their doom on western farms—Notre Dame does it again at expense of Carnegie—Prince of Wales honors English regiment—Traffic speeds up on biggest bridge.

PARAMOUNT SOUND NEWS—No. 27—Honor from Il Duce—Premier Laval visits New York's highest roof before sailing—Japan and China clash—Akron joins United States navy—Will Rogers chews gum and talks to "mike."

PARAMOUNT SOUND NEWS—No. 28—Germany's Fascist leader, Hitler, hailed in ceremony—Ruth Nichols' plane wrecked after landing with new women's record—Fishing schooner "Thebaud" fights way to Grand Banks in teeth of gale—Charlie Chaplin, Jr., sails for Europe—New French sub-chasing dirigible in test flight—Schwartz leads Notre Dame in victory over Carnegie.

PATHE NEWS—No. 28—Cold weather speeds turf contenders in Maryland—Little foundlings have lots of fun in New York home—French couples married 50 years celebrate at Montesson—Don Cossacks, Russian male chorus, tune up on Waldorf-Astoria roof—Lion-hearted dogs win medals for bravery—Yale-Dartmouth stage season's greatest thriller.

UNIVERSAL NEWSPAPER NEWSREEL—No. 88—Chinese hostilities halted as slain troops are honored—Bookmen marvel at exhibit of tiny volumes worth $50,000—Entire Rome police force on parade before Mussolini—News paragraphs—Statue of Liberty gets gift of floodlights—Triple crash mars autumn opening of Coast auto racing.

UNIVERSAL NEWSPAPER NEWSREEL—No. 89—Wheat prices rise on rumor of Soviet withdrawing from exportation—Cuban exile riles great figures with clever artist's pen—News paragraphs—Blast giant cliff in Iowa highway construction—Dartmouth and Yale daze crowd with 33-33 tie game.

PASSING IN REVIEW

The department endeavors to set forth two lines of material of service to the exhibitor—first a showman's evaluations of the outstanding pictures—second, reviews of information

"THE YELLOW TICKET" brings to your theatre the superb acting of Lionel Barrymore and the best that Elissa Landi has offered to date. Altogether it is entertainment far above the average that this season has so far brought to light.

Considering the many slants that a showman can dwell upon with a title such as this, we would venture to predict that it is "box office" in more ways than one. But it will be necessary to play safe according to your community's tastes when you start to sell this via your usual campaign. The same applies to any form of exploitation you use. Naturally, the name of the picture immediately suggests a "ticket" throwaway of some kind; make sure that you are kicking up no "come-backs" in the one you select.

The picture is "audience" in almost every way. It certainly should prove excellent entertainment for all classes of patrons and will hold the interest of the "nickelodeon" customer as well as those who buy tickets for the deluxe house. In other words, you'll do business with this one.

A campaign emphasizing the fact that the heroine remained good despite the fact she carried a "yellow ticket," a campaign sold along the worthwhile slants rather than playing up the fact that the holders of these tickets are all bad, is less apt to cause the "straight-laced" to find fault or to criticize you and your theatre. The picture being what it is, keep it away from the kids. Ditto for Sunday in certain communities.

While cautioning you against playing up anything along the dirt line in your campaign, I do not hesitate to say that in "The Yellow Ticket," Fox again adds another money maker to a string of box office pictures already setting a pace this season. So long as they keep away from the sophisticated, ritzy dialogue, they stand a good chance of leading the field this year. More power to them, and to our box offices. Say you, Amen?

▼

"THE SIN OF MADELON CLAUDET." Knowing the story about "Lullaby," I frankly shuddered when I heard that it was to be made into a picture. How they could treat the "dynamite" slants and still make it get by the censors and the box office was, to me, going to be a problem. But M-G-M solved it—and Helen Hayes came through with what should be one of the greatest performances of this year—yes, and a couple of other years.

I don't care if she is unknown in your town, or in yours, or even in yours. Just sell her and the picture properly and leave the rest to that word-of-mouth advertising we all so love to grab. And how they'll talk is nobody's business. They'll rave. It's that kind of picture.

Despite fine support from all other members of the cast, Miss Hayes runs away completely with the picture in every respect. The most infrequent patrons in the most secluded corners of the country will know that as soon as they've seen her acting. And what a pleasure it is to watch her.

The title may be "box office" in some communities and not in others, you as the manager must know, and you must be guided accordingly. Where you doubt its pulling power, get behind it in your selling campaign and drive home the thought that here is a picture that no human being on earth should miss. The terrific battle put up by this mother so that her son could have the future she wanted for him, what she went through, how she suffered, and what sacrifices she made, those, and a hundred others, are the slants I would use, local situations being satisfactory.

After what I've said above, it stands to reason that this is a powerful "audience" picture and if your customers don't applaud this production, then we miss our guess. While it's true that certain parts of the story consist of touchy material, we doubt whether you will encounter much opposition from any source. Sell it clean. It deserves that. And by all means play up Helen Hayes for future box office value.

▼

"THE WOMAN BETWEEN." Why RKO Radio ever made this, is mystery number one. Why Paramount should book it for its ace Broadway house, is mystery number two.

True, the title has merchandising possibilities, but that would involve promises of a pleasant evening at your theatre which you could never deliver to your patrons. On the other hand, if you must play it, for reasons best known to yourself, advertise the surrounding program strong and then gag the feature so that they won't be inclined to take it too seriously.

▼

"GIRLS ABOUT TOWN" has a lot of good qualities that we could talk about, but on the other hand it also has a couple of slants that we didn't care an awful lot about. Gold-digging has been a favorite theme for the producers for many years and here you get it again, maybe not so rough, but it's digging just the same. Naturally, you must frame your selling campaign to fit the type of story they give you. You can hurdle the objectionable portions by selling away from them, but insofar as selling slants are concerned, you won't find them lacking. Big city critics will be able to swing the hammer if they are so inclined, but that should not be too much of a criterion for the average theatre in most spots.

In discussing a picture of this kind, we are all too often mistaken about the reaction it may bring to the various box offices depending on the location and type of theatre. Showmen who make it a point to know all about every picture they present, are best qualified to decide the merits or demerits of such pictures. It's all very well for Times Square or the Loop to endorse or condemn a picture, but the ticket machine in YOUR theatre is the only authentic judge of any production. This is a picture that is entertaining in many ways, yet, some showmen will say it is not a good picture chiefly because of the story. There is no question but that it can be sold via a good campaign to 'most any community. But should the showman selling it see it first, he will be far better able to frame his campaign so as to inject into the minds of his patrons a sort of pre-determination about what this picture is. They then will see the picture through the eyes of the showman and overlook whatever may be lacking in what they usually demand in the way of entertainment.

Kay Francis and Lilyan Tashman carry off the honors and are aided in many fine ways by Eugene Pallette and the others in the cast. The clothes worn by the two feminine stars constitute your greatest sales angle in the picture. Women, regardless of where they live, will go wild over the way these two gold-diggers strut their stuff in the latest creations. So, sold along the lines that best interest your particular clientele, this should really be turned into a "box office" picture. As for its "audience" values, it's going to depend on how your customers go for this sort of stuff. If they like gold-digging, they'll like this one, if not . . . too bad for you.

N. G. for kids or Sundays, especially the former.

"Girls About Town" is the sort of picture that will click best where sold properly. Left to shift for itself it may disappoint. So get behind it and see what you can do to make it turn in receipts above your average.

▼

"CONSOLATION MARRIAGE" is one of those pictures that alternately hold your interest and gets on your nerves. Dragged out by at least two reels, the extra footage merely tends to slow up what otherwise might have been a corking fine story with every chance of being outstanding in many ways.

Irene Dunn is marvelous and at times may even rate a round of applause from your cash customers, but the rest of the cast are just so-so. The story had plenty of possibilities, but they never really materialized due to the "drawing out" process.

The title offers many unusual slants that, with proper merchandising, ought to make this picture worth something at the box office, but it will never rate itself 100 per cent in "audience value" for the reasons set forth in the foregoing. But don't misconstrue this to mean that it is not a fair picture. It is all of that, and in many of the neighborhoods will be received with much satisfaction by the patrons. The women, especially, will get a great kick out of the baby and Irene Dunn; at times they are both adorable. But they can't shoulder and carry the entire burden. Pat O'Brien will probably get on their nerves just as he did on mine. Myrna Loy is OK for the little unsympathetic bit she has, but you can't cash in on her share of the picture.

You can use it on Sunday if you want to; as for the youngsters, they will get so restless that you will think they have ants in their pants, so preserve them from sitting through it. As for adult running days, it's OK anywhere else.

Stick to selling the women on this one. Plenty of angles to work on with such a title and plot. Appeal to them and ask what they would do if confronted with the same problem. Stick to those lines; they strike me as being by far the safest and most effective. But don't expect too much from "Consolation Marriage" and you won't have any cause for disappointment. Just chalk it up as a great story that suffered from production faults. Its only redeeming feature is its star, Irene Dunn—and that cute baby. Times Square reports the picture as dying at the box office on its first-run.

—CHARLES E. LEWIS

Strictly Dishonorable

(Universal)

Drama

(Seen at Hollywood)

"Preview Tonight" hung in front of the Forum Theatre one night last week jammed the house to the rafters. The preview was that of "Strictly Dishonorable," Universal's long-awaited film version of the well known Broadway success by Preston Sturges—the play that not only earned Sturges a flock of money but a social-registerite wife in the person of Miss Eleanor Hutton.

Smart—but not too smart; notable in that it presents Paul Lukas, Lewis Stone and that attractive little newcomer, Sidney Fox; daring in spots but never to the point of offensiveness,

"Strictly Dishonorable" can be rated a worthy companion-piece to the other attractions offered by Junior Laemmle to the autumn film-shopper.

The response of the audience was exceedingly flattering. It can be pretty safely said, in fact, that the popular acclaim was a lot more enthusiastic than the approval given by the professional critics present—a mighty fine augury for the success of the picture. Laughs never ceased throughout the unreeling—laughs that grew from time to time into uproarious guffaws of solid amusement.

Lewis Stone turned in one more of his flawless characterizations as Judge Dempsey. Lukas indicated that he needs more seasoning before he can appear in a strictly English-speaking part; but indicated also a fine sly humor, a broad and understanding sense of comedy. Gladys Lehman well earned the contract awarded to her by Junior on the strength of her script.

John M. Stahl did not muff any opportunities either, followed the play closely enough to lose none of its dramatic or comic values.

Produced and distributed by Universal. From the play by Preston Sturges. Screen play by Gladys Lehman. Directed by John M. Stahl. Art director, Herman Rosse. Film editor, Arthur Tavares. Photographed by Karl Freund. Release date, January 1, 1931.

CAST

Gus.....Paul Lukas
Isabelle.....Sidney Fox
Judge Dempsey.....Lewis Stone
Henry.....George Meeker
Tomasso.....William Ricciardi
Mulligan.....Sidney Toler
A waiter.....Carlo Schipa
A waiter.....Samuel Bonello

Florabel Muir

Around the World In Eighty Minutes

(United Artists)

Travel

(Seen at Hollywood)

Burton Holmes, Martin Johnson, Tom Terris, Robert Bruce and the rest of you travelogueers, look out! Another globe trotter, riding the magic carpet of overwhelming cinema popularity, with a name which has spelled vim and vigor and joy, and taking life with a grin in every language, comes to the screen as a travel impresario. Douglas Fairbanks takes you 'round the world in 80 minutes! Poor old Jules Verne, with his 80 days. Imagine Post and Gatty taking eight days! We go with the irrepressible Doug in 80 minutes—with whoopee, golf, thrills, romance and the privilege of meeting famed figures of the mysterious Orient.

We cruise the sapphire, or is it saffron, seas. We breakfast with a Japanese family. We ride the vast inland waterways of China, see that ancient country's toiling millions fight starvation with a complacency that shames our own belly-aching about "depression." We ride the surf of Waikiki with Doug and Duke Kahanamoku. In Manila we visit with General Aguinaldo. In Bangkok we lunch with King Prajadhipok, see his white elephant eat peanuts and roll over with glee when Doug's infectious grin lights up his palatial stable. We see Doug discover that the foxtrot originated in Siam. To prove it he does a tango with the Marilyn Miller of the Orient. Sacred monkeys, fakir snakes, double and single top camels, elephants, leopards, tigers—just a few of the animal performers. A bird that can, and does, string beads with a needle and thread, a Hindu magician who makes a rope stand straight up in the air. These are just a few of the innumerable sights seen with Fairbanks, unerring in his eye for interesting things hitherto presented so formally or not at all by returning travels.

Novelty of treatment, photographically and otherwise, feature this innovation from Fairbanks. He took Director Vic Fleming, Cinematographer Hank Sharp and Chuck Lewis along as companions and assistants. They also took portable recording equipment with their photographic outfit, so that actual sounds and talk at many of the scenes of interesting adventures are included along with Doug's running monologue as the happy-go-lucky "lecturer" of the piece.

The return to Hollywood is a riot. It is made on Fairbanks' famous magic carpet he used in "Thief of Bagdad." It gives the picture a sensational and laughable finish, tops it off with real novelty.

Mary said something before she left Hollywood the other day about doing things to bring the youngsters back into the cinema houses. If she can spare Doug for a few more of these world adventures she is likely to do a lot to bring back all the "kids" from eight to 80!

Leo Meehan

The Calendar

(Gainsborough-British Lion)

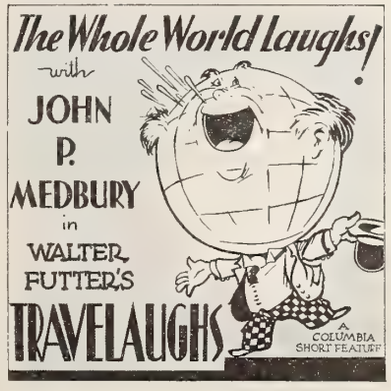
Well Done Racing Drama

Because of Herbert Marshall's considerable reputation in America and because T. Hayes Hunter, its director, has kept one eye on his native side of the Atlantic, this picture, which follows a good line of sound product from the Gaumont production subsidiaries, is likely to appeal to American audiences. It is practically assured an outlet in Canada, through the Regal interests of the British Lion chief, Sam Smith. A change of title will help in the United States, where the "Calendar," applied to the British turf will mean nothing.

Strongest points in this film are the fine acting of Herbert Marshall, as Garry Anson, the young aristocrat horse owner, and Gordon Harker, as Hillcott, his ex-burglar, ex-batman manservant; English racing scenes during the fashionable Ascot meeting; Edgar Wallace as the author, and a liberal sprinkling of exteriors.

Story show us the young racehorse owner in love with Lady Panniford (Anne Grey), and foolishly trying to help her to win easy money, by sending her secret information that his horse Rangmere is to be "pulled" in the Ascot Stakes. Afterwards he relents and sends her a further note to that effect, but when later he is involved in heavy financial losses, Lady Panniford turns him down. When Rangmere, through an unforeseen technicality, is declared the winner of the Ascot, she is peeved, so hands to the Stewards of the Jockey Club the note in which Anson told her he had intended to prevent his horse winning. Anson is "warned off"—expelled from the British turf. In order to secure his personal vindication, he, with his ex-burglar manservant, breaks into Lady Panniford's house, and picks her safe, recovering his cancellation message which he had written on the back of a money note. During the burglary he disturbs the household, and discovers Lady Panniford is occupying a room with a lover.

There is nothing really great in this story; it is not even a characteristic Edgar Wallace yarn, lacking the wealth of incident which this prolific writer invariably crams in. But with 400 or 500 feet cut, it will get rollicking home, chiefly because Hayes Hunter has succeeded in making human beings of each of his artists, and has invested the story with that sense of reality which is so often lacking in British motion pictures.



Produced by Gainsborough-British Lion (collaborating). Distributed in Britain by W. and F. (Gaumont-British). Directed by T. Hayes Hunter. Recording, RCA. Running time, 78 minutes.

CAST

Garry Anson.....Herbert Marshall
Jill Panniford.....Edna Best
Hillcoot (butler).....Gordon Harker
Lady Panniford.....Anne Grey
Sir Wm. Panniford.....Nigel Bruce
John Dory (Bookmaker).....Alfred Drayton

Wm. H. Mooring

It's smart to show COLUMBIA short features!

The Sporting Chance

(Peerless)

Drama

A fairly entertaining race track yarn is this independent film, in the opinion of several who witnessed a screening. William Collier, Jr., plays the jockey, who, after achieving success on the track, develops a very severe case of "swelled head," which leads to his suspension from the track for disobedience. He gets his big chance, however, through the efforts of the boss's son, a playboy portrayed by James Hall, who had been instrumental in his suspension.

Of course, he wins the big steeplechase, despite two broken ribs sustained in a fight with Hall the previous night over the girl, played by Claudia Dell, and vindicates himself with the boss, the stable master and the girl, not to mention the colored stable boy, Horseshoes, whose luck emblems and lines add a bit of comedy to the film.

It was indicated that the race shots, of which there are a number, are almost too obviously clips from stock racing shots, with close-ups of Collier as a jockey run-in, but this fact hardly offsets the high element of action which is supplied by these race scenes, particularly the climax sequences in which the boy wins the 'chase.

The cast was conceded to be capable, featured by the work of Collier and James Hall.

Produced and distributed by Peerless Productions, Inc. Directed by Albert Herman. Story by King Baggot. Continuity by Rex Taylor. Edited by Earl Neville. Photography by E. Fox Walker. Running time, 69 minutes.

CAST

Terry Nolan.....William Collier, Jr.
Mary Bascom.....Claudia Dell
Phillip Lawrence, Jr.....James Hall
Phillip Lawrence, Sr.....Joseph Levering
"Horseshoes".....Eugene Jackson
Aunt Hetty.....Hedwiga Reicher
Master of stable.....Mahlon Hamilton
Blake.....Lewis Sargent
Mullins.....Henry Roquemore

Neck and Neck

(Sono-Art World-Wide)

Comedy-Drama

Glenn Tryon plays the smart-aleck aluminum salesman, who gets himself into all sorts of hot water by reason of his unquenchable habit of fabricating stories at the slightest opportunity, or when an opportunity does not exist at all.

He tells Vera Reynolds, after fixing a flat tire on her car, that he is the owner of numerous horses, including one particular crack horse on the local track. She believes him but later discovers the truth. Telling him her father is interested in buying that horse, she invites him to visit her home, where he is almost recognized by the woman to whom he had sold all his kitchen ware samples. He makes an appointment to meet the father at the stables.

Here as elsewhere throughout the picture, fortunate developments happen exactly on scheduled time. He is enticed into a poker game with his not-too-clever partner, Walter Brennan, and wins the horse as a gambling debt.

When they look at the animal next morning, Step 'N Fetchit, slow-moving negro hostler, shows them the wrong horse, and the mistake

(Continued on page 55)

VOICE OF THE INDUSTRY

AFTER READING AN ITEM IN CINEMA Crafts referring to Frank Gulette, will say that someone of that name was here in Kansas City, Mo., early in 1925. He met me by appointment through a company in Chicago, Ill. He wanted me to accompany him as a cameraman. After his slip-crank proposition was explained to me I was not interested.

I am inclosing a carbon copy of a letter that circulated the country in regard to two who first rented a tripod from me, returned the same to the Mainstreet theatre and later returned after it, pawned same and left town owing hotels, automobile dealers and everyone whom they could beat.

If you can use this letter to any advantage, you have my permission.

A warrant is still being held at Kansas City, Mo., for the two men described on the attached sheet.—HAROLD M. HODSON, H. & H. Film Co., Kansas City, Mo.

Oct. 17, 1930.

Gentlemen:

Please keep an open eye for the men of the following description. A warrant is being held by the Kansas City police department for their arrest. These men are working eastward with an advertising scheme of theatrical advertising and will probably call on your store when they arrive in Chicago. Please detain them and order their arrest. You will lose no sale by this as they have no buying power.

C. Dorety, dark complexioned, and dark hair, height 5 feet 6 to 8 inches, weight about 150, gray suit, light felt hat, and generally known as the barker. Stands by his camera setup on street corners. Wanted for grand larceny and embezzlement.

N. T. F. Coyne, the promoter, light complexioned, 6 feet 2 to 3 inches, dark hair and gray suit, felt hat, medium light, acts as advance man for his partner. They will have pocket credentials and reference letters from RKO theatres and other leading theatres in the West.

Traveling in a 1925 Cole 8 touring car, motor 47497 or 47447.

Any information you can furnish the Kansas City police department and myself will be highly appreciated concerning the Los Angeles M. P. tripod stolen here, Saturday, Oct. 11, 1930.

Very truly yours,
H. & H. FILM CO.

Later my tripod was recovered by the police in a pawnshop.

A New York State Problem

HAVE YOU EVER HEARD THE TERrible sound that is emitted from a movietone print whenever a license number appears on the screen? That is, whenever the operator forgets to turn off the sound?

How much longer is this evil going to be tolerated by the motion picture industry?

For four years the operator has had to be on the watch for "razzing" license numbers. When are license numbers going to be printed with silent sound tracks?

MOTION PICTURE HERALD will do thousands of operators and millions of movie fans a great service if it calls this great but easily remedied evil to the attention of the parties that can do something about it.—ASSISTANT MANAGER, Rivoli Theatre, South Fallsburg, N. Y.

Seconds Jaysee's Motion

I READ WITH MUCH INTEREST JAYsee Jenkins' criticism regarding the poor quality of the product that is coming out of Hollywood.

You are absolutely right and I am glad that someone on the outside of the exhibiting business is getting that angle.

The batting average is very low this year and just about two out of every five that you are forced to run really hit at the box office.

There seems to be a paucity of good stories. Pathe with Constance Bennett has had two released right close together with a sameness of stories, each of them dealing with the fallen woman type which has been done to death.

You tell 'em, J. C., I am for you and your Colyum strong.

With best wishes for your continued success, I am—A. E. HANCOCK, Columbia Theatre, Columbia City, Ind.

SIGNED . . .

Columbia

Dorothy Gulliver, Mathew Betz, Tim McCoy in "Quicksands"; Ross Lederman, direction. . . . Dorothy Sebastian, Richard Tucker, Natalie Moorhead, Lloyd Hughes, Ian Keith in "Unwanted"; Louis King, direction. . . . Marie Prevost, Jean Harlow, Mae Clark in "Blonde Baby"; William Beaudine, direction. . . . Jack Holt, Richard Cromwell in "Yellow"; Edward Sedgwick, direction. . . .

Fox

Ralph Bellamy, Linda Watkins, Spencer Tracy, Lawrence O'Sullivan, Weldon Heyburn, Jesse DeVorska, William Pawley, Vanya Roberti, Sally Eilers in "Disorderly Conduct"; John Considine, Jr., direction. . . . Joan Bennett in "Salomy Jane"; Raoul Walsh, direction. . . . Violet Heming, Allan Dinehart, Paul Cavanagh, Ralph Bellamy in "Circumstances"; William Cameron Menzies, direction. . . . Violet Heming, new contract. . . .

MGM

Myrna Loy, Madge Evans, new contracts. . . . Johnny Weismuller, Neil Hamilton, C. Aubrey Smith in "Tarzan," Edgar Rice Burrough's story; W. S. Van Dyke, direction. . . . Jean Hersholt, Marie Dressler in "Emma"; Clarence Brown, direction. . . . Nils Asther, Buster Keaton, Jimmy Durante in "Her Cardboard Lover." . . .

Paramount

Mary Boland, long term contract. . . . Charles "Buddy" Rogers, Judith Wood, Frances Dee, Dorothy Hall, Stuart Erwin, Paul Lukas, Mischa Auer in "Working Girls"; Dorothy Arzner, direction. . . . Kent Taylor, Kay Francis, William Boyd, Conway Tearle, Julia Swayne Gordon in "The False Madonna"; Stuart Walker, direction. . . . Ruth Chatterton, Paul Lukas, Robert Ames, Walter Walker in "Tomorrow and Tomorrow"; Richard Wallace, direction. . . . Carole Lombard, Juliette Compton, George Barbier, Arthur Pierson, Frances Moffett, Allen Vincent in "No One Man."

Radio

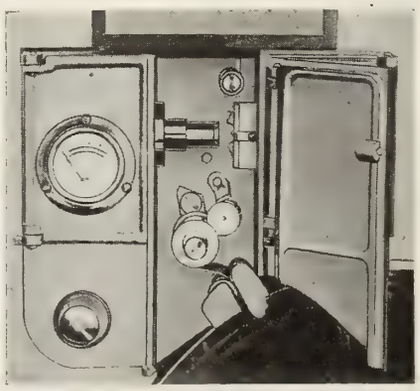
Dolores Del Rio, Lew Kelly in "The Dove." . . Roscoe Ates, Kitty Kelly, Lita Chevret, Cora Witherspoon, Edna May Oliver, Jill Esmond, Ken Murray in "Ladies of the Jury"; Lowell Sherman, direction. . . . Richard Dix, Paul Hurst, Joel McCrea, Eric von Stroheim, Eric Linden, Dick Grace in "The Lost Squadron"; Paul Sloane, direction. . . .

RKO Pathe

Pola Negri, Frank Reicher in "A Woman Commands"; Paul L. Stein, direction. . . . Helen Twelvetrees, Reina Velez, Robert Armstrong, Charles Bickford, Paul Hurst, Maude Eburne, Marjorie Peterson, Hans Joby in new Twelvetrees vehicle (untitled); Ralph Murphy, direction. . . .

United Artists

Ronald Colman, new contract. . . .



Universal

Slim Summerville, Zasu Pitts, Allison Skipworth, Dorothy Christy, Tom O'Brien, Claud Allister, Richard Cramer, Cora Sue Collins in "The Unexpected Father"; Thornton V. Freeland, direction; Dale Van Every, original story. . . . Carmel Myers, Sidney Fox, Frances Dee, Lucille Gleason, Patsy O'Byrne, Florence Enright, Jo Wallace, Alan Mowbray, Russell Gleason, James Durkin in "Nice Women." . . .

Warner-First National

William Powell, Evelyn Brent, Evalyn Knapp, Ralf Harolde, Guy Kibbee, Polly Walters, Frank McHugh in "High Pressure"; Mervyn LeRoy, direction. . . . Winnie Lightner, Joe Smith, Charles Dale, Walter Miller, Greta Granstedt, Bobby Watson, Dickie Moore, Luis Alberni, Charles Middleton, Polly Walters, Harold Waldridge in "Manhattan Parade"; Lloyd Bacon, direction; Robert Lord, Huston Branch, adaptation.

Buy Senior Model at Junior Price

YOUR ATTENDANCE is determined in a large measure by the quality of your sound. Mellaphone quality sells at production prices today. Buy Senior Model at Junior Price. Write for full information and prices.

WHEN you install Mellaphone Equipment you are assured that all requirements, and expectations of better sound, will be amply fulfilled. Full Sized precision equipment, unerring performance. Quiet; no chains; trouble-free. Mellaphone equipment is used the world over with consistently good results, and will meet your particular requirements with the same big measure of satisfaction.

MELLAPHONE CORPORATION ROCHESTER, NEW YORK

SOUND REPRODUCTION

The BLUEBOOK School

By F. H. RICHARDSON

BLUEBOOK SCHOOL QUESTION NO. 103—(A) Describe the RCA exciting lamp. (B) What is the reason for darkening of interior of an exciting lamp globe? (C) What is the relative effect of a darkened exciting lamp globe, and what should be done with a lamp when its globe begins to darken? (D) Name the various things affected by a faulty exciting lamp—sagged filament, filament out of square with the slit or darkened globe.

(Note—These questions are taken verbatim from the index of Vol. 3 of the Bluebook)

Answer to Question No. 98

Question No. 98 read: "(A) Suppose you start with the exciting lamp not lighted. How would you handle the fader before lighting it, the exciting lamp, and why? (B) Explain your method of handling the fader at changeover. (C) Explain, in detail, just why it is impossible to secure good results unless the projector be run at exactly the same speed the taking camera and recorder were run at. (D) Exactly what fault or faults will variation in taking and reproduction speeds set up?"

For some reason the answers dropped down to less than 600 this week. What's the idea? Tired, or getting chilled feet? True it involves a lot of very real effort to dig up, write out and send in answers every week for many weeks, but really, gentlemen, just about everything worth while in this little ball we call the earth requires very real effort.

I honor those who have sent in answers week after week, with hardly a miss, for many months. Exhibitors will do well to keep their eyes upon such men. Directors of projection should, whenever possible, place them in one of their theatres. For certain it is such men are live, active workers, anxious to know their profession and all that pertains to it.

The following answered acceptably: Lester Borst*, S. Evans and C. Rau*, Van Buskirk & Kroll*, G. E. Doe*, D. Fausett, Jack Billings, T. Van Vaulkenburg, H. B. Becker, H. D. Cole, Wm. Bogert, W. D. Samuels, Robert Singleton, Dan Graves, P. T. Turner, Peter Cermak, Henry Edwards*, Harry Lidding, James Devoy, Jack Thomas, Robert Banning, Larry Tipton, Dave Saunders, Will Peck, J. Ledbetter, A. F. Boe, Jerry Davis, John Williams, Tom Kay*, Andy Bailey, Geo. Daniels, Wm. D. Hotaling, George Richards*, Pat O'Brien*, Frank Oliver, Thos. McGruder*, D. T. Wyley, S. Kay, F. T. Leroy, S. Carroll, Wm. Gibson, Lester Daniels*, Chas. L. Goldman, B. G. Anden, Larry James, Frank Burker, B. G. Anden, Alonzo Zerach, Dave Tupton and John Tupton, P. L. Topeing, H. D. Schofield*, D. L. Warren, D. L. Simmons, Peter Danielson and James Hackett.

Note—Those names followed by an asterisk gave excellent, complete answers.

The choice for publication lay between Lester Borst, Evans & Rau, G. E. Doe and Pat O'Brien. I have selected the answer of Borst, which is essentially the same as the others. He says:

"(A) Were I to pull such an inexcusable blunder I would retard the fader quickly to zero, light the exciting lamp and then return the fader to its correct setting as quickly as might be possible without injury to sound. A too-quick return of the fader to the normal setting would not only result in a crash of sound, but might work injury to the more delicate parts of the sound equipment by reason of what amounts, in effect, to a heavy overload.

"(B) The change from red to white or white to red should be made in one swing of the fader knob. The fader knob should be so grasped that it cannot be moved in the wrong direction. If the setting be high it may be necessary for some men to pause on zero to shift the hand, but I believe any man with normal hands may make the entire movement in one sweep.

"(C) Unless the taking and projection speeds be exactly equal, the reproduced sound will not have the pitch of the original sound. It will be either higher or lower. This is because the frequencies will be altered. The reason for this is quite obvious. If, for example, in an RCA recording, 200 peaks in the sound track are made in one second in recording, and those same 200 peaks are run past the reproducer sound gate in say seven-eighths of a second, then the sound will of course be more shrill. On the other hand, if they be run past in one and one-eighth seconds, then the sound will be lower, or more hoarse."

[There was a misprint in this. It should have read variations, instead of vibrations.—Ed.] [Any variations would of course set up a change in the reproduced sound, due to alterations in frequencies.—Ed.]

BUSINESS AND COURTESY

Come, friend local unions, let us sit down and have a little heart to heart conversation concerning certain matters deserving attention.

First of all, what is a labor union?

A labor union is a business organization, pure and simple. I've been a union man continouusly since 1884. In the old days when a wage disagreement, or any other argument with friend boss, meant just one thing, namely battle, I was in the forefront of several heated arguments. I know unions front, back and sidewise. They are a very necessary and a most excellent institution, but they are not a fraternal organization in any appreciable degree. That is just plain wrong, and you all know it. They are, as I have said, almost purely a business organization, hence should be run along business lines, which, I am sorry to say, is not always done.

As you all by now know, I have made several trips by motor, accompanied by friend daughter, who acts as my secretary. That is not hokum. She is just exactly that. I could not make the trips and keep up my work without her. It has been my custom to offer to stop in cities where there are locals and address the men on projection matters, provided the local is willing to arrange for the meeting and assume the hotel and garage bill.

I have been told that in a few instances—a few only, be it said to the credit of the men—individuals have objected on the ground that it is "pretty soft for Richardson, getting a trip over the country with friend daughter for nothing, hornswoggling locals into paying the expenses."

Gentlemen, such a misconception is really too childishly foolish to deserve consideration, but I nevertheless will try to show you why, taking as an example a trip we propose to make next week. What I say concerning it applies equally to all such journeys.

By invitation of our dear friend Otto Nelson, chief of National Cash Register Company, large projection department, we propose next week to drive to Dayton, Ohio, and spend a few days at his home, possibly, though not certainly, running down to call on Curle and his frau at Chattanooga, Tenn., also possibly stopping to say hello to Slagle and Seckle and their families at Marion, Ohio.

Now we could easily drive through to either Dayton or Marion in two days, with one night hotel and garage expense. In fact, if there are no invitations we will do exactly that. However, since I am constantly in close touch with matters projectional all over this country and Canada, and more or less so in other countries as well, it seems to me I may be able to give locals along the way a general talk on projection matters, fully justifying an overnight stop. If I remember correctly there are six locals we might easily reach on the way out, but if we stopped and addressed each one it would take us eight days, instead of two, to reach Dayton, hence we would find the expense mounting to a sum reaching at least within looking distance of one hundred dollars, with no advantage to us except the "pleasure" of staying up until about 2:30 a. m. each night and delivering a rather difficult talk or lecture.

Now, gentlemen, don't you who have held the notion that we merely are "getting a free trip" feel just a bit ashamed of yourselves. Seems to us we are doing a lot of darned hard work, without any sort of remuneration at all, except that we get "bed and board" for ourselves and the car while doing it.

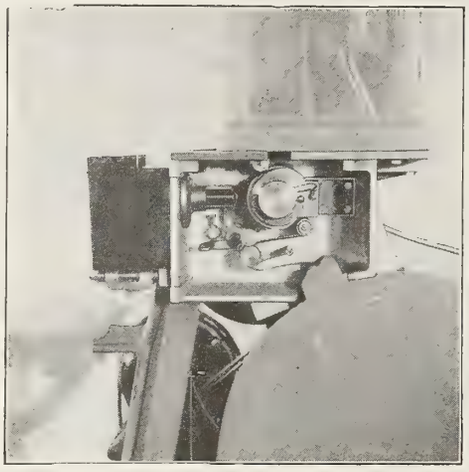
▼

And now concerning another highly important matter: When arranging for such trips we must of course ask each local it is possible to visit whether or not it wants us to stop. Naturally it is impossible to plan the trip and advise locals as to the time of our arrival until we know just what stops we must make, and this is very often made exceedingly difficult because of the way many secretaries handle correspondence.

Locals for the most part hold regular meeting only once a month—some of them not even that often. Say the local has just held its regular meeting when our letter is received asking whether the men want us to stop. If the secretary files the letter for attention at the next meeting, we must either hold that date open for a whole month or else pass it up. As a matter of fact, under those circumstances, we cannot even know the letter has been received until the local meets.

▼

In this case we wrote, as I remember it, six or perhaps eight locals, one of which was Local 411, Williamsport, Pa. By return mail, we received this communication from Secretary W. K. Glodfelter: "Your kind letter of October 28 has just been received. I will take the matter up with the local and notify you within a few days. Thanking you for your kind consideration I am fraternally yours."



Now that is both courteous and businesslike. Glodfelter is a real Secretary. He proceeds along business lines. I compliment both him and Local 411. If the local accepts I shall be glad to visit them. If it does not we will be ahead one day of time and some little expense, since the hotel and garage is not all the expense when traveling. The time is very short and few if any invitations are expected, but except in large cities may I suggest it is not difficult to hold a short special meeting in one of the theatres, after the shows close, to consider a special matter such as this.

Projection Society Makes Whoopee

The New York Chapter of the American Projection Society made Hallowe'en whoopee in a big way on Hallowe'en eve. Two hundred members and their guests gathered at the club rooms on 44th street at midnight, the older folks enjoying a good visit with one another, while the younger and more peppy crowd danced until the largest of the sma' wee hours. With the ever-filled punch bowl, a good buffet lunch, something like a barrel of big red juicy apples and a big tub of water in which to duck for them—the apples—and a congenial crowd to do the ducking, there was much merriment. If all enjoyed themselves as did Friend Daughter and I (and if appearances count, they did) the affair may be pronounced a huge success.

For a little while, for various reasons the future of the New York Chapter of the American Projection Society looked rather dubious. Now, however, its troubles are largely over and I believe we may expect that in the near future, the chapter will have the membership and cooperation of every worthwhile projectionist in New York City.

SYNCROFILM HAS — IS THE LAST WORD

Showgoers nowadays are not content with just sound. They demand voices and music. Syncrofilm is the last word in natural reproduction. Showmen nowadays are spending their money to get every nickel's worth of value. Syncrofilm has the last word in comparative tests.

For Syncrofilm does something no other sound head does. Syncrofilm puts four times as much light through the sound track as other reproducers. This intensity projects every shading of voice or instrument on the photocell. Nothing is slurred or muffled.

People will come to hear good sound reproduction. Proof of this is that Syncrofilm owners are sticking to Syncrofilm though they may change everything else in their effort to increase business. Not one has asked us to make good on our guaranty, which reads, Satisfaction or your money back.

Tell us the make and model of your projection machines so we may tell you which Syncrofilm will enlarge your profits most.

WEBER MACHINE CORPORATION
59 RUTTER ST. ROCHESTER, N. Y.

Export Office, 15 Laight St., New York City
Cable Address, Arlab, New York

Aleograph Files Appeal Brief In Erpi Patent Suit

Attorneys for the Aleograph Company, San Antonio firm, which filed suit against Western Electric charging sound equipment patent infringement in the United States district court in October, 1930, have filed briefs in an appeal in the United States circuit court of appeals, sitting at New Orleans.

The suit, which at the time was thought to possibly develop claims of from $50,000,000 to $100,000,000, was decided in late November, 1930, against the Aleograph Company. Judge West, in the San Antonio federal court, at that time decided from the bench that the plaintiff had failed to establish any infringement, and since there was none, he did not attempt to pass on the validity of the patent involved.

It is expected that the appeal court will, when it renders its decision, probably not before January, 1932, decide on the validity of the patent as well as rendering an appeal decision on the district court verdict.

The case was originally brought in March, 1930, with hearings held in October and decision rendered in November. In its case, the Aleograph Company asked for an accounting of profits and an injunction against the Western Electric subsidiary, Electrical Research Products, Inc. The plaintiff company is a Delaware corporation, owned by some 800 stockholders in Southwest Texas, and was formed following the purchase of patent rights to the sound invention of Allen Stowers and Leo DeHymel of San Antonio. Stowers is still a large stockholder in the firm, which is incorporated for $30,000.

It is understood that if the Stowers patent is declared invalid by the appeals court, opening the way for promiscuous manufacture and use of the machine, or any similar to that employed by Western Electric licensees, it is possible that exhibitors will be at liberty to cancel their contracts with Erpi. Erpi sound equipment contracts with exhibitors contain a clause providing for cancellation of contract on six months' notice at the option of the exhibitor, but the clause can only be invoked after the equipment has been in use by the exhibitor for a period of three years.

50 Dealers Attend Opening Of 16mm. New York Exchange

International 16mm. Pictures, Inc., has opened a New York exchange known as Talkies, Inc., as the first step in its plan to open 150 exchanges throughout the country. Approximately 50 dealers and representatives of large merchandising units attended the opening of the New York office.

Radio and other dealers handling the equipment will be able to rent the films and records at $1.00 per record and reel per week. Re-rental rate to the consumer per night is 50 cents per record and reel and an arbitrary figure of 75 cents for a weekend was suggested.

is not discovered until after the father, the girl and Tryon himself had placed all their money on the horse in the day's race.

Everything looks black for Tryon, with the family accusing him of being a crook and so forth. However, and not unexpectedly, the horse wins by the well known neck and everything, including the girl, is saved for Tryon.

Lafe McKee plays the father and the balance of the support was considered to be satisfactory. The story, though light, and in spots, rather amusing, is almost too well scheduled, in the manner in which Tryon's lies come true, to be convincing.

The one race scene which climaxes the film is rather short, but effective. Numerous scenes at the track supply authentic atmosphere.

Produced and distributed by Sono-Art World-Wide. Directed by Richard Thorpe. Produced by George W. Weeks. Supervised by Roy Davidge. Story by Betty Burbridge. Running time, 63 minutes.

CAST

Bill Grant ..... Glenn Tryon
Norma Rickson ..... Vera Reynolds
Hector ..... Walter Brennan
Col. Rickson ..... Lafe McKee
Frank Douglas ..... Carroll Nye
The Hostler ..... Step 'N Fetchit
Bookie ..... Lloyd Whitlock
Aunt Susan ..... Fern Emmett
Crystal ..... Rosita Butler

Stamboul

(Paramount)

Mild Romantic Drama

Frankly this is not up to the standard indicated by the first product from the Paramount British unit, and better can and will surely have to be done.

An adaptation of the novel, "L'Homme Qui Assassina," by Claude Ferrere, it is directed by Dimitri Buchowetski, and these names would do about as much to sell it to the English-speaking public as the camouflage of more romantic of more romantic sounding things. The characters, in the absence of vital dialogue, or convincing situations, never begin to love, there is little left but the pleasant settings and more or less colorful trappings supplied by the oriental associations of the so-called plot. There is a beautiful countess with a swinish husband and a lover whose entreaties she rejects only for the sake of her small son of whom she is passionately fond.

She is later accused by her husband of infidelity with a second man, and is forced to sign away her honor and her son. Her real lover avenges her sorrow by killing the villain responsible for her divorce and is pardoned by the Pasha just in time to seek his long-awaited happiness with the now liberated countess. The Eastern atmosphere is successfully created, but even this does not make the film a Turkish delight. It cannot be accepted as a serious test of Paramount British production policy, but must go down as one of those things which happen in the best regulated companies.

Produced by Paramount British. Directed by Dimitri Buchowetski. Art direction by Major Rutherford. Recording, Western Electric. Running time, 75 minutes.

CAST

Colonel Sevigne ..... Warwick Ward
Baroness von Strick ..... Rosita Morena
Baron von Strick ..... Henry Hewitt
Countess Elsa Talven ..... Margot Grahame
Mehmed Pasha ..... Abraham Sofaer
Prince Cernuwicz ..... Garry Marsh

Wm. H. Mooring

Un Soir De Rafle (The Night Raid)

(Osso Films)

Drama

Deriving its title merely from an opening sequence, this film, a French language effort, concerns a seaman, who turns fighter, wins the championship of Europe and has his head badly turned in the process. His first love returns to reclaim him from his despondency after losing the title to conclude the effort.

The title is not too insignificant, however, since it is a night raid of Parisian police which throws Georget and Mariette together, as she rushes to him for aid, and he succeeds in saving her from arrest.

The two fall in love, and after Georget beats a former champion in the ring at a fair, the fighter, Georgett, Mariette and the clown of the show form a happy foursome, as he goes after the championship. He wins, but at the same time meets a seductive girl for whom he trips, stumbles and falls. She blasts his boxing career and causes his manager to leave him. Mariette refuses to try to bring him back. Finally he sees the light himself, but too late. The championship lost, his new friends and admirers desert him, but Mariette returns and the foursome is reunited.

Albert Prejean as Georgette was thought to possess marked histrionic ability as well as a good singing voice. Annabella, in the opposite role, registers well emotionally and is capable. The balance of the cast is decidedly satisfactory.

The film presents a good picture of life in Paris with several excellent bits of photography in night scenes. It seemed to hold an audience at the Little Carnegie Playhouse in New York, most of it composed of people who spoke French.

Produced by Osso Films. Directed by Carmine Gallone. Story by Henri Decoin. Music by Philippe Pares and Van Parys.

CAST

Georget ..... Albert Prejean
Mariette ..... Annabella
Le Baron ..... Lucien Baroux
Yvonne ..... Edith Mera
Fred ..... Lerner
Charly ..... Constant Remy

SHORTS

Pearls and Devilfish

(MGM)

Good

Seen graphically and entertainingly in this short are the dangers which confront the pearl divers in certain southern waters. Most exciting are the battles with the hugh devilfish which are a constant obstacle to the hardy divers. The number is somewhat weakened by dialogue which is not only lacking in real quality, but is really entirely unnecessary in this instance.—Running time, 9 minutes.

Out Stepping

(Universal)

Few Laughs

Don L. Brodie takes a lead in this comedy effort, concerning the young man who hires a dress suit after making a mess of the tailor shop, then runs into all sorts of difficulties in an effort to shave when the water and lights successively go back on him. Late for the date with his girl friend at the night club, he runs into more trouble, which concludes when the dress suit, rented to him by mistake, turns out to be a trick suit, and falls apart at the right moment. Not many laughs, and those not particularly hearty.—Running time, 16 minutes.

Pathe Review

(RKO Pathe)

Interesting

An interesting and diverting number, picturing the Moors of Venice, a novelty offering called "Through Grandma's Spectacles," an interview with Ivan Mestrovic, famous European sculptor and Doc Rockwell, comedian and tropicologist of Maine, whose ideas about climate are amusing.—Running time, 8 minutes.

The Great Pie Mystery

(Educational)

Slapstick

A silly number in which an amateur detective, after finding a stolen diamond bracelet, becomes badly involved in attempting to discover the mysterious thrower of pies. Harry Myers, detective, is recounting the story to a reporter, and the films ends where it started with the reporter taking a pie full in the face. Harry Gribbon does his share of the silliness as the son of a farmer who is bait for city girls.—Running time, 21 minutes.

The Pajama Party

(MGM)

Fairly Amusing

A Hal Roach comedy in which Thelma Todd and Zasu Pitts take the combined lead. The pair are taken to the home of a wealthy society woman after her car has forced them both to take an unexpected bath in the lake. A party is in progress and the sweethearts of the two happen to be the entertainers, which is meant to provide the comedy opportunity. However, that opportunity is only partially grasped. Laughs are good, but rather few.—Running time, 20 minutes.

China

(Educational)

Novel

Frank Moser and Paul Terry are responsible for the rather clever animation in this Terry-Toon cartoon. The animals, in toto, are Chinese in every respect, and the result is clever and amusing.—Running time, 6 minutes.

Beasts of the Wilderness

(Vitaphone)

Good

It's all about animals, this issue No. 11 of the "Adventure in Africa," made by the Wynant D. Hubbard expedition. Rat owl, iguana, zebras, antelope of several varieties, a bush pig, wart hogs, wildebeests, giraffes—and undoubtedly others. The bounding exits of the antelope made it easy to comprehend the statement in the recorded lecture that these animals can broadjump 40 feet. No sensational encounters, but a thoroughly interesting subject. Running time, 15 minutes.

Selling Shorts

(RKO Pathe)

Fair

Louis Bartels and a big cast in this latest Traveling Man comedy number. It is satisfactory without, however, boasting a great many laughs. Bartels runs into a feud and the family attempts to marry him to two supposed eligibles. He manages to escape, but has a difficult time. Bartels is not too happy in his role.—Running time, 17 minutes.

Benares, the Hindu Heaven

(MGM)

Interesting

James A. Fitzpatrick takes the audience on a visit to the sacred Hindu city, Benares, located on the banks of the Ganges. Most of the short is devoted to a picturization, in interesting fashion, of the superstitions with which the Hindu religion is filled. A cremation ceremony is a particularly impressive bit.—Running time, 9 minutes.

SELECTIONS

Made by RITA C. McGOLDRICK

A GLANCE at this array of Rita McGoldrick's "Selections" reveals that the producers have made handsome answer to the plea of a few months ago for pictures for the whole family. In the accompanying list of classified product we see the lowest percentage of the last two years ticketed as entertainment for "adults only."

The product presented here shows a re-awakening to the function of the picture as the all-American amusement, obligated to the service of the vast majorities of the box office following, as opposed to the prior tendency to make the pictures so high in flavor that a preponderance of them drew the disapproval of parents and discriminating committees of selection.

This monthly presentation of "Selections," it will be recalled from prior announcements, is in fact a selection of selections, crystallizing here the best that is to be gleaned from the lists of the many selection committees of various social organizations, plus the personal judgments of Mrs. McGoldrick.
—THE EDITOR.

Family Suitability

BELOVED BACHELOR — VERY GOOD
Paramount

Drama—A heart interest story in the manner of "Daddy Long Legs." Paul Lukas gives a sympathetic performance in his role of a kindly sculptor who falls in love with his adopted daughter. (Stars: Paul Lukas, Dorothy Jordan, Charles Ruggles and Vivienne Osborne.)

CISCO KID, THE — GOOD
Fox

Western—Warner Baxter as a border bandit with Robin Hood propensities, such as he has played in "In Old Arizona." The picture is episodic in character, but moves rapidly in an atmosphere of reckless adventure and romance. (Stars: Warner Baxter, Edmund Lowe, Conchita Montenegro.)

FANNY FOLEY, HERSELF — GOOD
RKO Pathe

Comedy—The story of social distinctions, a mother's sacrifice and final happiness. It is rather mediocre entertainment, but imbued with a certain freshness and wholesomeness by Edna May Oliver's characterization of the mother.

FREIGHTERS OF DESTINY
RKO Pathe — VERY GOOD

All reviewing groups are unanimous in the decision that this is a distinctively better-than-average Western picture, which tells the story of the caravans carrying provisions to the isolated desert towns in the late 80's. There is a beautiful trained horse in this picture, some extraordinary photography, and the singing of the men of the camp in the moonlight. Any one of these would lift the picture above mediocrity. (Stars: Tom Keene, Barbara Kent.)

HEARTBREAK — VERY GOOD
Fox

Drama—This is a war picture of Vienna during 1916 in which the American aviator shoots down an Austrian who turns out to be his fiancee's brother. The plot is not startling in its originality but the action holds one's interest and the flying scenes are good. The picture arrives at a happy ending. (Stars: Charles Farrell and Madge Evans.)

OVER THE HILL — VERY GOOD
Fox

A presentation of the old poem with its basic theme of self-sacrificing mother love, and the heart-break that comes to her through the selfishness of the children to whom she has devoted her life. The road over the hill is the road to the poorhouse and the story finds its highlights in the loyal devotion of one son who saves her in her last humiliation. This is a pathetic picture with more of tears than laughter but redeemed by an element of comedy and action. It is distinguished by moments of sensitive acting. (Stars: Sally Eilers, James Dunne and Mae Marsh.)

SECRET SERVICE — VERY GOOD
RKO Radio

A story of two brothers enlisted in the Secret Service of the Northern section during the Civil War. The plot centers around their mission and the love story of the older boy. This picture contains sustained action, pretty romance and the intrigue of the spying system. It is very good entertainment. (Stars: Richard Dix and Shirley Grey.)

SPORTING CHANCE, THE Peerless Prod. — VERY GOOD

Drama—The story of a jockey who is tempted by the allurements of a gay life as presented to him by the son of the owner of his stable. The race at the end is splendid; a composite of other races, falling horses, hurdles and the thunder of hoofs. (Stars: William Collier, Jr., Claudia Dell and James Hall.)

SHOT GUN PASS — GOOD
Columbia

This is a typical old-fashioned melodrama and is reminiscent of the stories used in the early days of the movies. But it is a tale of cowboys; the exciting riding of horses would appeal to boys. (Stars: Tim McCoy and Virginia Lee Corbin.)

TOUCHDOWN — VERY GOOD
Paramount

This picture has been made from the story "Stadium" by Francis Wallace and is an original departure from the average sports picture. It tells of the adventures of college stars who have graduated to take up coaching. Dick Arlen is superb as the All-American coach who never loses. He is supported by Jack Oakie, Regis Toomey, Howard Jones, Jim Thorpe, Bob Hall and other notable football heroes. Farrell MacDonald again impersonates Rockne. This is a brilliant picture with particular entertainment value for men and boys and all lovers of sports. (Stars: Charles Starrett, Peggy Shannon and George Barbier.)

WAY BACK HOME — EXCELLENT
RKO Pathe

Seth Parker and his troupe of the radio have brought to the screen in this picture a realistic story of Maine in those days of her history when we sang "In the Shade of the Old Apple Tree" and "Put On Your Old Grey Bonnet." This moving story with action and excitement, enough to sustain the plot, has given Seth Parker an opportunity to express so much of his sane philosophy and the Golden Rule of true neighborliness. The picture has some lovely photography; there are ducks and chickens and surreys, broken-down buckboards, taffy-pulls and hay rides, and the singing of the old sweet songs in the evenings. There is something of leisureliness, reality, beauty and goodness in this picture. Because of the questioned parentage of two young people in the picture it is not entertainment for very young children. (Stars: Phillips Lord, Effie Palmer, Frank Albertson, Bettie Davis and Frankie Darro.)

Adult Suitability

AMBASSADOR BILL — VERY GOOD
Fox

Will Rogers, as Ambassador of the United States to a little Balkan Kingdom, becomes attached to the boy king and proceeds to straighten out the involved intricacies of the small country's politics. This situation gives Will Rogers an opportunity to develop some finely humorous situations. It is one of his funniest pictures. (Stars: Will Rogers, Marguerite Churchill, Greta Nissen, Tad Alexander, Ray Milland.)

CONSOLATION MARRIAGE
RKO Pathe — VERY GOOD

A pathetic story of a girl and boy disappointed in love who marry each other for consolation. Later their former sweethearts come back in their lives and tragedy is averted by the girl's love for her baby. It is an appealing picture, admirably enacted. (Stars: Irene Dunn and Pat O'Brien.)

WHITE DEVIL, THE — GOOD
UFA

Made in Germany, this adaptation of Tolstoy's "Hadschi Murat," although lacking in continuity, is engrossing entertainment because of the histrionic ability of the stars and the vividness of the photography. (Stars: Ivan Mosjoukine, Lil Dagover.)

RULING VOICE, THE — VERY GOOD
Warner

Drama—Though this picture deals with racketeers it is a protest against them and their lack of respect for human life. It is well acted and interestingly staged. (Stars: Walter Huston, Loretta Young and Doris Kenyon.)

Short Subjects

ACROSS THE SEA — EXCELLENT
Educational

An exceptionally fine travel picture accompanied by an interesting lecture. It shows the beauty of Hawaiian Islands with the contrast of their high mountains and luxuriant plantations.

ATHLETIC DAZE, THE — VERY GOOD
MGM

Done in slow motion, this picture contrasts present day methods in athletics and those of

SELECTION OF SELECTIONS IN PICTURES

(Continued from preceding page)

several years ago. Will prove particularly entertaining to boys. (Accompanying lecture.)

BARNYARD BROADCAST — VERY GOOD
Columbia
A Mickey Mouse cartoon that is a clever satire on every day radio programs. (Synchronized.)

BATTLE ROYAL — GOOD
RKO Pathe
A Terry Toon cartoon of an ugly spider and his machinations; well drawn and synchronized.

BIG SCOOP, THE — VERY GOOD
RKO Radio
This is the story of a reporter who decides to resign from his paper and live the simpler life, but a passing patrol wagon on its way to a sensational murder causes him to change his mind. His solution of the murder plot is the basis for the picture.

CANINE CAPERS — EXCELLENT
Educational
Every lover of dogs will find this short feature one of the most charming, instructive and interesting studies of dog life that has ever come to the screen. Various breeds of animals are shown and described by the announcer; there is a very amusing Boy and Dog Show and a particularly fine series of shots in slow motion and full speed of the greyhound, the aristocrat of dogs, in action. This is a superior short-feature.

CINNAMON — GOOD
Educational
A parody on "Cimaroon" with a cast of chimpanzees which children like. (Sound.)

FOREHAND, BACKHAND SERVICE — VERY GOOD
MGM
Bill Tilden in an instructive demonstration of the proper and improper form in tennis playing. (Synchronized.)

DEVELOPING A FOOTBALL TEAM — GOOD
Universal
A timely topic and interestingly produced film showing "Pop" Warner's method in developing his team at Stanford University. (Sound.)

FAMILY SHOE, THE — VERY GOOD
RKO Pathe
Cartoon—An Aesop's Fable telling the story of the old lady who lived in the shoe. (Synchronized.)

HAPPY DAYS IN THE TYROL — GOOD
Fox
Bavarian peasants shown in their native dress singing and dancing. (Sound.)

HOMELAND OF THE DANES — GOOD
Fox
Views of Copenhagen, with its busy life and lovely buildings. (Sound.)

IDLE ROOMERS — GOOD
Educational
Two professional acrobats practice their act before an appointment with a booking agent. It is a fine piece of nonsense and good entertainment.

IN WONDERLAND — GOOD
Universal
Cartoon showing the Jack and the Bean Stalk adventures of Oswald in search of gold to pay off the mortgage. (Synchronized.)

KITTY FROM KANSAS CITY — GOOD
Paramount
A "screen song" in which Rudy Vallee sings this popular song to the animated cartoon.

KINGDOM OF SHEBA, THE — GOOD
Fox
Depicting the Abyssinian realm, showing native life and customs with the noise and clamor of the East. (Sound.)

LAUGHING WITH MEDBURY IN DEATH VALLEY — VERY GOOD
Columbia
One of the series in which Medbury carries on his amusing dialogue in the strange scenes of Death Valley.

MUSICAL MYSTERY — GOOD
Warner
There is some good dancing in this little picture in which characters in a book come to life. (Sound.)

PAGEANT OF SIAM — GOOD
Fox
The second of the series of travelogues entitled "The Magic Carpet of Movietone." This one is of interest because of the recent visit to this country of King Pradjiphok. (Sound.)

PARIS OF THE ORIENT — GOOD
Fox
Views in and about Saigon in Indo China taken from plane make an unusual travelogue. (Sound.)

PATHE REVIEW NO. 3 — VERY GOOD
RKO Pathe
As usual, diverting entertainment is found in this short subject which shows the lovely old homes in New England; an instructive demonstration of how an autogiro works. (Sound.)

RIDERS OF RILEY — EXCELLENT
RKO Pathe
This is a Grantland Rice Sportlight showing the soldiers at Fort Riley in Kansas putting their horses through their paces. It is a thrilling picture with some fine photography which includes the action of a polo game. This film makes one regret that it is only one reel in length.

SKIMPY — GOOD
Educational
A parody on "Skippy" enacted by a cast of chimpanzees; amusing to children. (Sound.)

SMART WORK — VERY GOOD
Educational
A comedy starring Billy Doray in which he plays the role of a detective. (Sound.)

SONG OF THE VOO-DOO — GOOD
RKO Pathe
A Vagabond Adventure picture taken on the island of Haiti showing the customs and life of the people in a fascinating manner. (Accompanying lecture by Tom Terriss.)

SPRING TRAINING — GOOD
Educational
Spring training for the football squad; interesting and instructive for boys and adults.

SOUTHERN INDIA — EXCELLENT
Warner
An E. W. Newman travel talk made in India showing the primitive machinery used, the marvelous temples and shrines. (Accompanying lecture.)

SPEAKING OUT OF TURN — GOOD
Warner
Comedy—An amusing satire on motion picture production and methods. (Sound.)

STAVE OFF — GOOD
Paramount
Comedy in which Karl Dane and George K. Arthur are again cast together. This is a funny story of two sailors. (Sound.)

TORCHY PASSES THE BUCK — VERY GOOD
Educational
One of this new series in which Torchy mistakes the son of his employer for a stranger and refuses to admit him to the office; amusing situations develop. (Sound.)

TIMING — GOOD
RKO Pathe
A Grantland Rice Sportlight in which the value of perfect timing is shown for complete mastery of any sport. (Accompanying lecture.)

VOICE OF HOLLYWOOD NO. 6 — GOOD
Educational
These depictions of the amusements and hobbies of screen stars prove entertaining for the average picture-goer. (Sound.)

WHO'S WHO IN THE ZOO — GOOD
Educational
A Billy Bevan comedy in which the children are taken to the zoo. This has been done in color. (Sound.)

How To Run That Helping Hand Show To Aid Unemployed

(Continued from page 13)

be great saleswomen for tickets. Many of these organizations have perfected systems for the disposition of tickets and they should get behind it in every way. They will if you sell them right.

When to Run the Show

Possibly you were thinking that I've overlooked the most important bit of the whole affair; the running of the show; when and how. But I've never lost sight of it. The first moves are exactly as outlined in the foregoing. Then comes the date and show.

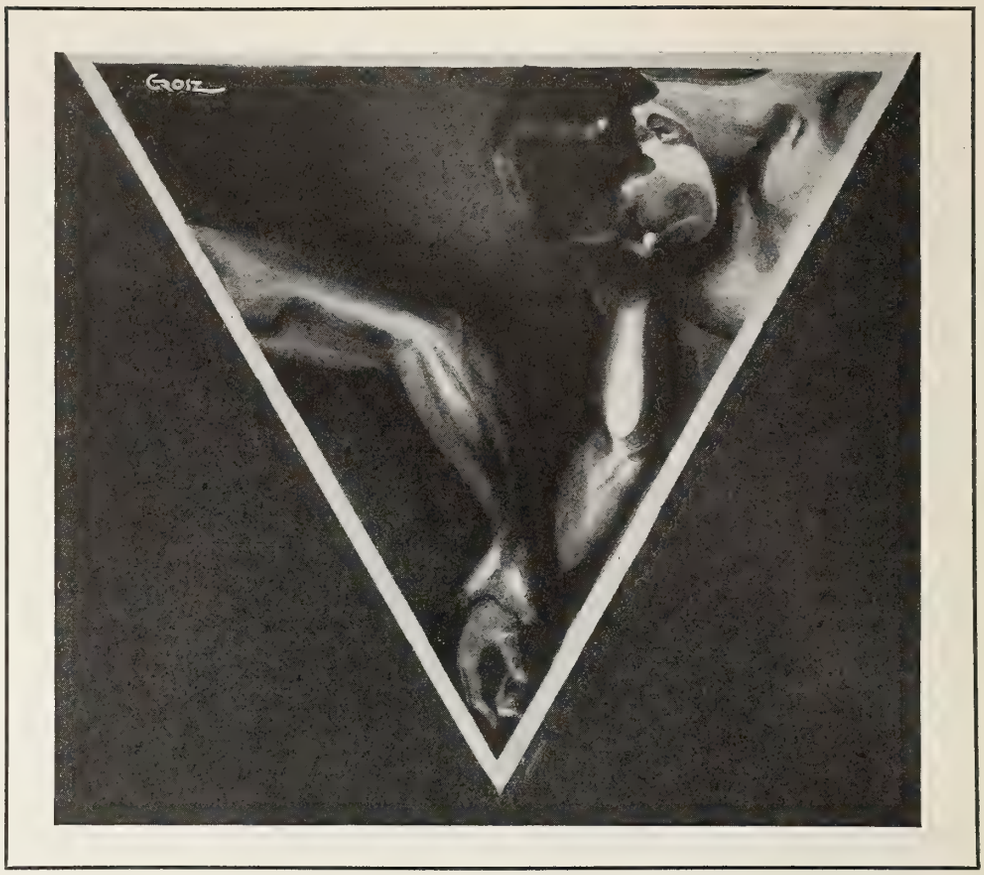
There is one particularly good spot for the performance; open your current show with a special midnight performance, providing such midnight shows are practical in your town. Another thought, if Sunday performances are prohibited it should be a simple matter to get an OK for a show of this kind on the Sabbath.

Having selected the exact date and time for the show, you can then have your tickets properly imprinted with the date and price and put them in the hands of the committees who will undertake the selling of them.

Advertising the Show

With the committee formed, the date and time selected and the tickets in the hands of the selling group, you now can turn your attention to the advertising and publicity for the show.

Get the trailer right away; or, better still, order it at the same time you start forming your committee; then it will be on hand when the date, etc., is settled. The trailer is free.



Start shooting your trailer together with an end trailer stating the time and details of the show.

Have your newspaper advertising manger get busy on the big double truck which is shown in the special press book; it's available in many forms and can be worked out to suit any size newspaper or press. Get after your local billboard company and see that it posts the free 24-sheets on all unused or unsold stands. Four-sheet date snipes will be supplied, specifying the place, date and time of the show. Other posters are also yours for the asking, to be used wherever they can be spotted.

National Radio Hookup

The three great nationwide networks of the radio broadcasting companies will be used for two or three weeks prior to National Motion Picture Week for the purpose of telling the listeners-in about the great show for the benefit of the unemployed that will take place in your community. While the announcement will be general it can be made to tie right in with your own campaign by reason of the way you are plugging your own show.

It is well that we break into the story at this point to call your attention to the importance of tying your theatre closely into the entire proceeding by making your theatre the headquarters for the campaign and the committees. If you have lobby space, spot a few tables and chairs, together with appropriate signs, and have the committee at work right in full view of the patrons. Otherwise, give them your office or such other office space as your premises permit.

The poster entitled "Lend a Hand" contributed to the film industry's unemployment relief campaign by the art department of Educational.

One mistake for which you never would forgive yourself would be permitting any sort of collection or donations to be made on the night of the show at your theatre.

Remember there will be no charge for the extra day's use of the film by your theatre. The distributors will donate the film for the special show, but naturally that applies only to the extra show and not the run of the picture.

In your advertising it may be well to plug the line that if every person in the community were to buy a ticket it would be a tremendous aid in helping the local unemployment relief.

Where there is more than one theatre in the town, combine your facilities and run a show in both theatres. The same advertising and publicity, right on down the line, can apply for one or more theatres participating. Don't "hog" the affair. Where we have referred to the individual theatre we have meant every house in the town as well.

Tremendous national publicity will be in force throughout the week before and during the National Motion Picture Week. Cash in on that publicity by emphasizing your own local show.

The performance must take place some day between November 18 and 25; otherwise all the material and advertising in connection with it will be of no use. Try to make it a Sunday or a midnight show. Scale your prices so that you will be sure of a complete sell-out.

The heads of the unions have promised that all union labor will donate their services. Take this point up with your local officials. As far as the rest of the staff are concerned, I never knew a single individual who ever refused to work gratis for such a purpose. You'll have no trouble with that slant.

Get the local bus or traction company to permit the use of signs and banners on the sides of buses and cars; possibly they will donate a car to run over their entire system carrying special signs about the show into outlying communities. Ditto for the local taxi boys.

Get every minister, priest and rabbi behind the idea solidly. See that they are represented on your main committee. See that they mention it in their sermons and at services.

A Glorious Opportunity

In conclusion:

Here is a glorious opportunity for every real showman to get behind a mighty worthwhile move and to make his own individual show the most talked about event in the community.

Wholehearted enthusiasm is the first requisite for the successful handling of a thing like this. Sell yourself so completely that your own enthusiasm will be reflected in your remarks to those whom you would line up on the idea.

Every community, large or small, has its own unemployment problems. Help is sorely needed. What better source for help is there than the theatre backing a benefit show aimed exclusively for the aid of the unemployed?

Here is the chance for every man to do his duty, to his community and to his industry. Don't be a slacker. Work like you've never worked before.

If there is any help or information you require, shoot a wire to the writer and he'll be johnny-on-the-spot with prompt attention and action.

MANAGERS' ROUND TABLE CLUB

CHARLES E. "CHICK" LEWIS
Chairman and Editor

An International Association of Showmen Meeting in
MOTION PICTURE HERALD
Every Week—for Mutual Benefit and Progress

CONDUCTED BY AN EXHIBITOR FOR EXHIBITORS

Wake Up Showbusiness!

For about a year, now, you've been lying in the mud and slopping around without any great effort to raise yourself and show that there's life in the old carcass yet. . . . What in hell's the matter with you? . . . Is it this baloney called "a slump"? . . . or are you just losing interest in life and not giving a good gosh darn whether you recover or die . . . ?

True . . . you've had some tough shackles to contend with . . . what with chain handicaps . . . lousy showmanship from executives who never did (and never will) know what it's all about. . . . Red tape galore from home offices where system is over-efficient. . . . and relations are under-efficient. . . .

But all of the above is no excuse for floundering around in that mire of muck . . . of fear . . . of depression . . . of hesitancy . . . and gradually . . . but surely . . . losing every bit of pep you've ever had . . . That's no way to act when conditions are such that it's time every mother's son of you took on a new lease of life and shook yourselves free of the glue which is holding you down. . . .

And this is no one man's task . . . it's a job for the big and the small . . . for the little independent and the large circuit . . . for the shoe-string producer and the moguls of the movie factories . . . for the usher and the manager . . . for the salesman and the salesmanager. . . .

Each new restriction in selling the new product means adding another obstacle to the restoration of prosperity . . . and we use the word prosperity with reluctance because we know you've heard it so often that it must sound like a pain-in-the-neck by now . . . but it describes what we are aiming for . . . and . . . should be shooting at right now. . . .

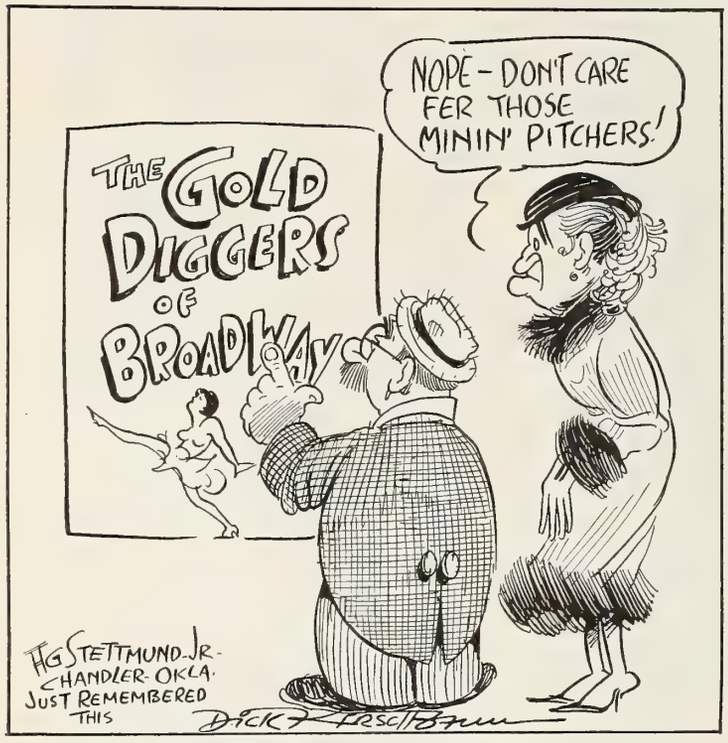
Someone has handed you all a "knock-out" pill and it's left you stupified ever since . . . take a cold draught of water and clear your head . . . get up on the rooftops and shout to your community in particular and the whole world in general . . . that there's nothing to be scared about. . . . Most of the folks who were working before are still working . . . people have got to eat . . . got to wear clothes . . . got to get from here to there . . . and absolutely . . . must laugh . . . must forget the hardships of today's work and tomorrow's problems. . . . Where can they find this much needed recreation . . . ? In the theatres, of course. . . .

The producers will have to turn out box office product . . . the distributors must sell it on a fair and equitable arrangement so that the theatre can buy it and still stay in business . . . and the theatre must sell it to the community through common-sense merchandising . . . advertising that will make 'em come out to see the show . . . exploitation that must command respect as well as attention. . . . In theatres where they will be well received . . . courteously treated . . . respectfully handled and comfortably set so that the modern and well kept equipment will do its own share in the dispensation of the entertainment which they bought a ticket to see. . . .

It's in the bag boys . . . nothing can stop you if you set out to break every record the house ever established . . . just sell yourself so completely on the idea that it must naturally follow . . . just as night follows day . . . and if you've the courage of your own convictions you'll live to stand in the lobby and watch the lines form while the merry cash keeps dropping into the till. . . .

But you'll never live to see that day if you walk around with each end of your mouth dragging on the ground . . . and a grouch a mile long sticking out of every pore . . . and in a theatre which is a perfect reflection of yourself.

In every spot where peppy activity is the key-note, we find the most encouraging reports from the box office . . . obviously . . . the answer is work . . . and more of it . . . spending a few extra dollars to make your advertising sell more seats . . . yes . . . we've heard all about advertising budget slashes . . . but they who issue such orders have placed a terrible restraint on the houses and will have to wake up or find themselves left by the wayside. . . .



What do you say if we cut out this advertising slump and give it to them right between the eyes for a couple of weeks just to prove that good selling will bring them in? Worth a try, isn't it?

You've pulled a "Rip Van Winkle" long enough. At least Rip slept on clean earth. . . . Showbusiness has been doing her napping in the mud. . . .

Snap out of it . . . there's work to be done . . . pictures to be made . . . shows to be advertised . . . theatres to be kept in condition . . . and patrons to be sold on the idea that the playhouses contain relaxation and entertainment . . . at a nominal admission price. . . . They want to come to your theatres . . . they are sorely in need of amusement . . . they have no other way to turn for that much-needed mental relief . . . So come to life . . . crawl out of the mud . . . dispel the fog . . . wash yourself clean . . . and let's all get back into showbusiness. . . . "CHICK."

LOBBY LAFFS!

By DICK KIRSCHBAUM

SEND YOUR LAFFS IN NOW!

Burrell Made Deal With Newspaper To Run A Tab Edition

As a supplementary means of advertising the opening of a new house in his town, J. Burrell, manager of the Shea Theatre, Geneva, Ohio, published an edition of 2,500 tabloid size newspapers consisting of eight pages. The local newspaper co-operated with him in production and stuffed a copy of the tab in each of its deliveries the day before opening. Local concerns identified with construction of the theatre contributed to advertising support, likewise a number of other local merchants tied-up with ads which entirely defrayed all expense.

We have had occasion to inspect this tab and it's a neat piece of work. We note that a number of managers are doing something along this line when they open in the fall of the year after a mid-summer shut-down for renovation and repairs; therefore, the idea may be applied to other events than just to openings of new theatres. Thanks to Burrell for this reminder and we'll hope to hear what he has been doing with the new house.

Campbell Obtained Front Page Notice On Football Party

In line with football activities which have been discussed from time to time in this department, we call attention to some front-page publicity recently garnered by Julien E. Campbell, manager of the Strand Theatre in Long Branch, N. J.; and he didn't wait for any special team event, but went right out and invited a bunch of the local players and coaches to his party.

By tying-in the local newspaper for a share of the honor, he rated a picture of himself and a good sized story on the front page, the story setting forth that 50 of the boys would be entertained on that night. Guests of both newspaper and theatre were instructed to enter the theatre in a body and to sit in a section devoted to the boys for this occasion. The balance of the story covered team activities.

Every city or town supports a local team to considerable extent and in most cases the local papers are more than glad to co-operate with any stunt of this kind. Its cost to theatre is practically nil, considering the amount of free publicity and good will obtained. Julian has been missing from these pages for a few issues, but now we know that he's still on the job down in Long Branch. We'll look for more from him in the near future.

Chidley Ushers In A New Season With Family Night Stunt

Greater Talkie Season was ushered in by C. H. Chidley, manager of the Rialto Theatre, Casper, Wyoming, with a full page announcement of theatre policy and a listing of outstanding attractions booked for the month of September. Another full page carried some smaller display ads and the balance of this page was devoted to other information on pictures and theatre. It was a nicely worked out job all the way around and without doubt made the desired impression on the theatre-going public.

He has also inaugurated Family Night programs which are to be sponsored by the Parent-Teachers Association and a number of other important local organizations. He feels that there are certain pictures made every year which need cooperation of this kind to put them over and reaction to the first program, played on a Friday and Saturday during September proved so popular that these will be continued throughout the season. Programs issued for the occasion were distributed to every family in town by the Parent-Teachers Association. All schools were included in the tie-up, along with women's clubs, Boy Scouts, American Legion, Rotary, Kiwanis, Chamber of Commerce and many other organizations.

This appears to be a splendid move on the part of Chidley, particularly in view of his having enlisted aid from such a representative group of civic bodies. Of course, it is entirely obvious that care must be exercised in the selection of Family Programs; not such a slip up as one of the leading companies recently made in an announcement in a New York daily when it included a lurid sex picture among a list designed especially for the kiddies. We shall watch with interest Chidley's experiment with Family Nights and hope that he will continue to keep the Club informed as to how it is working out.

LaBar Made Tie-Up With Big Store To Plug "Night Nurse"

As the result of a tie-up made with a large department store in his city, F. LaBar, Jr., was enabled to arrange a splendid window display on "Night Nurse" when this picture played the Imperial Theatre in Asheville, N. C. You can note from the accompanying photo how nicely the Stanwyck cut-out tied in with the brand of nurses' clothing being pushed by the store; also, that the half of the window carrying theatre display gives most generous mention to theatre, picture and play-dates. Incidentally, the window donated by the store occupied a prominent spot on the main street of the city.

LaBar's work is familiar to a great many members of this Club so it's no news to repeat that this Round Tabler is always putting over some interesting tie-up. For any community where there is considerable hospital patronage this one is a natural, and even if there isn't, if the store carries such a line the management may be sold on the idea of making a window tie-up.

NATIONAL MOTION PICTURE WEEK!

November 18th to 25th will be celebrated as National Motion Picture Week and during this period the various theatres cooperating will feature their special performances for the benefit of local unemployment relief.

Those who successfully engineer such benefit shows are asked to furnish the Club with full details, photos and tear sheets so that we may carry stories on how they were handled.

We would appreciate receiving such information as soon as possible after you run your special show. Also, how the funds were handled by the local committees working with the theatre to put over the show.

Woodin Played Up A Local Industry Slant In Picture

Located in the heart of a newly developed gas field, Larry Woodin, manager of the Arcadia Theatre, Wellsboro, Pa., played up the oil angle of the picture when he showed "Cimarron."

There's a boulevard in front of his house and in the middle he erected a replica of an oil derrick. Directly in front of the theatre another derrick was placed and on both were hung flashing, colored lights. Cutout letters, spelling the picture title were placed in staggered effect from top to bottom of the derricks. Another novel display consisted of a large map of the gas fields, placed in the middle of lobby entrance. The lobby was further enhanced by a display of one-sheets giving, as Larry says, both Richard Dix and the oil an even break.

This plug on local interest in an industry vital to his town's prosperity proved to Woodin that his idea was an excellent one, for attendance on this picture almost set a new record for the house. In case some other member is located near an oil field, it would appear that this stunt will certainly be well worth trying out.

A few weeks ago we broadcast a stunt of Woodin's concerning how he made his complimentaries act as two-for-ones. We have his complete plan at hand, so be prepared for an interesting yarn from this enterprising Round Tabler.

Theatre Front And Kid Impersonators Aided W. E. Drumbar

A most attractive theatre front and a kid dressed as one of the characters in the picture greatly aided W. E. Drumbar, manager of the Tennessee Theatre, Knoxville, Tenn., in publicizing "Huckleberry Finn."

A special set piece was used in the lobby two weeks in advance. A crude fence background with Huck standing in front, with fishing pole, etc. This was placed at front of lobby where every one could see it.

The front was covered with beaverboard over the entire entrance. Over the entrance appeared the title of the picture and the panels on either side included cut-outs from the picture as well as copy including title, cast and sales copy.

On top of the marquee were cut-out heads of the four kids in the picture. The electrician fixed them on some contraption so that they would slowly move from side to side. These cut-outs were also flooded by night, and since they were the first to hit the eyes, they attracted quite a bit of attention.

Drumbar got a kid about Junior Durkin's size and dressed him in the garb as worn by Durkin in the picture—with fishing pole, straw hat and all the other paraphernalia. This boy distributed special heralds to mothers and fathers, personally, and from house to house. The boy would make certain that they were handed to the persons themselves rather than to leave them on porches or under front doors. This really caused excellent reaction as heralds were never delivered in this manner before. Women were also taken into consideration by having these heralds delivered in the afternoons rather than in the mornings when they were busy with housework.

Nice work, Drumbar, and we can see that you, like many other Club members, are cashing in on the fine exploitation possibilities offered in this picture. It's a great one for the youngsters.

THEATRE POSTER ART

By BENTON L. JAMES

Will be resumed in next week's issue. Lack of space due to the six months' Club index made it necessary for us to hold over the poster reproduction scheduled for this issue.

A snappy, attractive poster for "The Side Show," followed by one on Joan Crawford, will be on the next James' contributions to this interesting series.

Incidentally, other theatre artists have pormised to assist James in making the series still more popular.

"The Showman's Calendar"

NOVEMBER

11th	Armistice Day
11th	King's Birthday (Italy)
11th	Admission Day — Washington — Admitted to Union in 1889
11th-18th	50th Anniversary—Red Cross Roll Call Week
11th	Raquel Torres' Birthday
12th	William Collier, Sr.'s Birthday
12th	Jack Oakie's Birthday
15th	Lewis Stone's Birthday
16th	Admission Day—Oklahoma—Admitted to Union in 1907
15th-21st	Children's Book Week
17th	Suez Canal Opened (1869)
17th	Frank Fay's Birthday
19th	Nancy Carroll's Birthday
20th	Reginald Denny's Birthday
23rd	Capt. John Ericcson Landed in N. Y. 1837
23rd	Repudiation Day—Maryland
18th-25th	National Motion Picture Week
25th	British Evacuated New York—1783
26th	Thanksgiving Day
26th	Frances Dee's Birthday
29th	Genevieve Tobin's Birthday

City Playgrounds Gave O'Hearn Idea For Good-Will Gag

On the occasion of the close of the season at the Children's Playgrounds in Chelsea, Mass., Joe F. O'Hearn, manager of the Olympia Theatre, received some worth-while editorial mention in the local newspaper and a large amount of good will from parents of the children he entertained at his theatre.

A special show was run off in connection with the event, a suitable series of pictures being shown along with different numbers put on by several of the children. Safety angles were tied up with the meeting at the theatre, the Mayor and other city officials lending their presence to the occasion. During an intermission President Hoover's message to playground children was read and 2,000 copies distributed among the audience.

Other recent costless activities of O'Hearn's include a tie-up with a big chain tobacco stores company whereby 2,000 cards advertising the theatre and a sundae were promoted; and a deal with a telegraph company for the free distribution of 10,000 messages on regular telegraph form. The copy instructed readers to wire all their friends via W. U. that Jubilee Month would start at the Olympia on a certain date and mentioned several coming attractions.

According to the above Joe is still carrying on at his theatre with a lot of publicity gags that don't cost him a cent and that counts these days. According to some newspaper clippings at hand the playground stunt achieved some very valuable advertising for the theatre and the other means he employed may also prove a tip to some brother showman looking for free distribution. Shoot some more along, Joe, and we'll see that the rest of the gang are let in.

Keeping Up With The Times!

By GUY JONES

DON'T WAIT FOR THIS LETTER!

John Calman Tied With City's Home As Good Will Gag

John Calman, manager of the newly-opened Temple Theatre in Birmingham, Ala., whose return to the Magic City we announced in this department a short time ago, has been garnering some good publicity with a tieup made with city institutions.

He announced that throughout the season any orphan from any city orphanage, accompanied by a guardian, will be admitted free of charge. This will be made a weekly feature. Thursdays being chosen for guest day. If the picture shown on this day is unsuitable for children, arrangements will be made to admit the couples on another day.

Calman has only been at the Temple for a short time but results of his work are already evidenced by steady increase in attendance. A kindly man is John, always ready to do a good turn for others and the folk down his way like him. We'll be looking for further information concerning his show-selling ideas. He is one of the veteran showmen of the South and we believe every member of this Club will be the gainer through his recent affiliation with this organization.

Department Store Gave Out Heralds As Aid For Smith

For a stunt on "Young As You Feel," F. F. Smith, manager of the Paramount Theatre, Nashville, Tenn., made arrangements with a local department store for the packing of novelty heralds in all packages over a given period.

The heralds presented a chart of figures whereby one could reveal the mystery of a person's age. It was also explained in detail just how one could do this little trick—all of which was rather interesting to both young and old. At the bottom of the herald appeared, "But even figures will lie because Will Rogers says you're AS YOUNG AS YOU FEEL—theatre name and dates."

The front of theatre also was dressed up appropriately with the box office paneled, showing cut-outs and stills as well as the entrance and exit doors and both sides facing the sidewalk.

Inasmuch as there isn't any mention of what was done for the store management in return for enclosing the heralds we must conclude that this was a matter of good salesmanship on the part of Smith; or, maybe a few passes distributed to the right parties took care of the deal. At any rate, he got away with something which called attention to many that this picture was in town.

Frank Hill Pulled Nifty Street Stunt For "Star Witness"

If you can secure the services of a rapid-fire cartoonist you might try the rather nifty stunt recently pulled in connection with "Star Witness" by Frank B. Hill, manager of the H.-F. Liberty Theatre, Walla Walla, Wash.

He placed the cartoonist at a busy street corner where he rapidly turned out cartoons based on scenes in the picture. Crowds collected to see the artist's work and as he finished each drawing he would throw it up in the air to be scrambled for by the bystanders. He kept this up for two days in the various portions of the business section of the city, making over 150 cartoons.

It is vouched for by Hill himself that this was one of the livest publicity stunts he ever pulled in his city, the only trouble being that at times the crowd became so large that policemen had to force the cartoonist to move to another stand. However, his work was so attractive that many followed to take their chance on securing a copy of his work.

According to the above, friend Frank is still very much on the job out in his home town, and we're sure that his idea will prove most effective wherever it can be put to practical use. As he will tell you, all you need is a fast-working and good cartoonist.

Local School Band Featured Campaign Made By A. Molstad

One of the highlights of a campaign made on "Politics" by A. J. Molstad, manager of the Regent Theatre, Eveleth, Minn., was a tie-up made with the local High School Band, an aggregation of players who have won the State Championship for the past two years and, therefore, a popular local organization.

Molstad only had a nucleus of ten pieces from the band; selecting the solo instruments only. However, these boys led a parade of other people carrying banners on the picture. The line of march took them up and down the main street on the Saturday previous to picture's Sunday opening as well as on two days of picture's engagement.

Another excellent stunt that came in for lots of favorable comment was the distribution of a set of political cards. Each one of the four cards carried the same copy in reference to picture, theatre and playdates but with a different picture of someone in the cast including Polly Moran, Marie Dressler, Roscoe Ates and John Miljan.

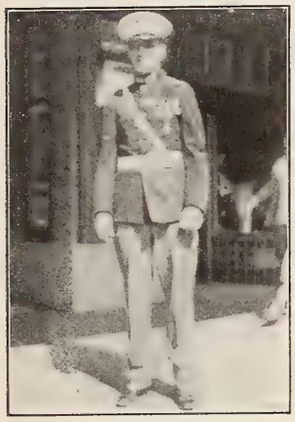
By assembling a complete set of four and presenting it at the box-office permitted that person to see the picture as the guest of the management. Only a few of the fourth card in the series was distributed thereby enabling not more than a possible one hundred to gain an admission in this manner. However, only a small percentage of the possible one hundred were able to collect the full set.

Promotion of the band was a smart piece of work on the part of Molstad and his card stunt is one that can be used in connection with many pictures, if you can manage to get hold of enough mats of stars necessary to complete the set of cards.

ROUND TABLE BIOGRAPHIES

At 13 years of age the theatre cast its spell over J. D. Chaffin and he began his career in the amusement business by operating a player-piano. Since that first venture he has filled every position from bill-boy to manager.

J. D. Chaffin



After his experience with the piano he turned attention to the booth and at 14 years of age was operating the machines. He acted in this capacity for six years, operating at various theatres, and spent two years traveling around with road-shows. Then he tried a hand at selling films and worked in this capacity for about one and one-half years. The balance of the time was spent as manager of several different theatres and at present he is located at the Fox-Auditorium, Marshall Mo.

Some of the circuits he has been associated with include the Midland Theatre and Realty Co.; Standard Theatre Corp.; Midwest Theatres, and Fox-West Coast. Practically all of his assignments have been in cities of the Middle West. He was born in Sudglan, Okla., August 16, 1902, and was educated in Oklahoma schools. At the present time he has no thought of ever following another line of endeavor.

Newsboy Party And Street Stunt Aided Prytz Sell Picture

Several stunts were recently used to excellent results by Roy Prytz, manager of the Granada Theatre, Duluth, Minn., among which was a corking tie-up made with newsboys and a street stunt that helped send "Women of All Nations 'way over the top.

His deal with 130 Liberty boy carriers was made in connection with "Devil to Pay" and the manager of the local news service issued a letter advising all his young employees that they would meet in front of the theatre on a certain day and take some snapshots before seeing the picture. He then went on to state that each boy would receive cards and circulars to be distributed with their allotment of magazines and advised that faithful distribution be made in view of his promise to Mr. Prytz. It was also stipulated that each boy must sell all his magazines before being allowed to participate in the party. Three special prizes were mentioned for award.

Eighteen girls arrayed in colorful costumes of all nations followed a band that paraded through the streets on the occasion of "Women of All Nations." We have on hand several snaps showing the line-up of this parade, but continuity is not perfect enough to permit a good reproduction. Suffice to state that banners were used fore and aft and that the girls presented a snappy appearance, led by a medal-bedecked Marine who was a veteran of many military engagements. Up at the top you can see Roy himself, wearing the Marine's uniform. The other photo shows the group of newsboys in front of the theatre.

Additional effort on the above picture included the dressing of the marquee with many flags of several nations and a tie-in with the Veterans of Foreign Wars for a loan of uniforms for the entire theatre staff. A roving reporter also picked up the yarn and played it in such a way as to create the impression that the theatre staged the parade in order to provide employment for the participants.

Nice work, Roy, and the Club is obliged to you for remembering your fellow showmen with these two live-wire stunts. According to that snap of yourself in the Marine's uniform, it's a wonder the outfit didn't shanghai you long ago. However, you deserve a medal for showmanship, anyway.

This Round Tabler is always on his toes, and now that the holidays, such as Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year's, are coming on we will expect to receive a batch of interesting material concerning stunts he plans to engineer for shows to be played during this festive season. He has been a faithful contributor to this department in the past and we are sure that he will keep up the good work of passing along a lot more of his show-tips for other members of this Club to use.

ORDER TRAILERS NOW!

Many important holidays and events are scheduled for November and December. Be prepared to acknowledge them via appropriate trailers which are available from several sources.

Also, don't wait too long to order your trailers for that special New Year's Eve performance. The sooner you start your advance campaign, the sooner will your patrons want to get their tickets.

PROJECTION EFFICIENCY!

Of what use are perfect projectors, fine sound and the comforts of your theatre if the lamp-houses supplying the light are antiquated or in bad condition? Good projection means exceptionally good light on your screen, otherwise you can't claim that your pictures are being presented properly.

Sitting in a manager's office the other night after the show, we listened to a fifteen minute argument over a carbon jaw that cost 65c. The manager insisted that the old one could be fixed up and the projectionist claimed that he was constantly in danger of losing his arc because the carbon was not held in place.

All they had to do was spend 65c and everything would have been O.K. So I ask you, was it worth arguing about? And if the amount was a great deal more, it surely involved a matter of sufficient importance to warrant spending the money if it would insure better projection.

But it's not alone carbon jaws or other small parts that constitute efficient light back of that mechanism. All too often lamp houses are in poor condition all the way through or sadly in need of replacement. It's no cinch to have to spend a couple of hundred dollars a piece for new lamphouses in these days when we all like to hang on to the dough, but taking each part of your theatre's operation costs into consideration may reveal the interesting fact that the investment in such equipment is a well-spent expenditure.

We haven't a doggoned thing to sell you. Neither do we care whose lamps you may decide to buy. We're just concerned over the fact that too many houses are ruining their projection with broken down lamphouses.

Save every cent you can; watch the purse strings carefully; but for the lovamike, don't be a piker at the expense of your chief stock in trade; the projection of your pictures.

Ted Emerson Used Attractive Float On Marx Brothers

One of the features in a campaign made on "Monkey Business" by Ted Emerson, manager of the Iowa Theatre, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, was the use of a wagon float, a photo of which we are reproducing here. The float was a horse-drawn vehicle and consisted of a cut-out of the 4 Marx Brothers aboard an ocean liner. This cut-out was surrounded by compo-board ocean waves. The wagon was driven through the principal thoroughfares and attracted an unusual amount of attention.

He also used the usher stunt when presenting a trailer in advance of showing. One of the ushers, dressed like Harpo, chased a girl up and down the aisle until another usher, impersonating Groucho, yelled "Stop; there shall be no Monkey Business in this theatre until next Saturday."

Another little gag that got attention was a one-sheet easel on which were pasted 50 or 60 buttons, copy reading "Here Are Some of the Buttons That Were Found in the Iowa After the First Matinee of Monkey Business. They Were Broken Off During the Many Laugh Scenes. Owners Will Please Call for Them."

Other stunts included a use of a centerpiece with green, yellow and red signal light flashing intermittently, with copy reading, "GO . . . wild about it . . . CAUTION . . . Everyone you know not to miss it. . . .STOP . . . at nothing to get there." A street parade consisting of 77 members of a boys' drum corps, arranged on a free-pass basis, and the distribution of 5,000 glassine bags of assorted nuts, with appropriate copy.

It's been a few months since we've heard from Emerson, but if the above is a sample of what has been keeping him busy we'll have to forgive this Round Tabler and hope that he will strive to keep in closer touch with headquarters. Certainly, his campaign on this picture was a well rounded-out one in every respect and it produced most excellent results at the box office.

THIS AD IS "DIFFERENT"!

Hal Kopplin succeeded in turning out something entirely distinctive and different when he hit upon this type of a newspaper ad. We must admit that it is no easy task to make up something that could really be called different in newspaper advertising. But Hal, apparently, has done just that.

How he accomplished it, he failed to say, so we'll speculate on its possibilities and venture a guess that he may possibly have laid his hands on a wallpaper background, or something similar. From that point he worked out the needed space for his exchange mats and text.

At any rate, you must agree with us that here is a mighty fine looking ad and one that certainly is a credit to the theatre and the attraction it is selling. We would like to see many more like it.

Have YOU a "different" newspaper ad? We're looking for them all the time to feature just as we feature this one. And we can always use good looking ads for our group page of advertising. So don't be backwards or bashful, if you've produced something worth-while, let's all get a look at it via the one international medium for such material, the Round Table Club pages in Motion Picture Herald.

James McKoy Still Batting Them Over For Miami Theatre

Miami, Fla., continues to be informed on what's playing at the Olympia Theatre, thanks to the showman-like efforts of Manager James H. McKoy. The last time we told you about Mack he was doing things with a Chevalier picture—a lot of "bed" tie-ups—remember? Now we're going to relate what he did to sell "Huck Finn," and another Chevalier picture.

For "Huck" he had two boys, dressed in overalls, patched shirts and frayed straw hats to imitate Huck Finn and Tom Sawyer. These boys were used as a ballyhoo throughout the downtown district two days before opening and on opening day of picture.

On Sunday, following opening day of picture, Huck and Tom were joined by two more pals, representative of the other members of the cast. These two were also attired in clothes similar to those worn by Huck and Tom—carrying fishing tackle, bait, books, etc. The four went to the beach Sunday afternoon where over 4,000 people had gathered. Through permission of the city of Miami Beach a temporary pier was built on a prominent spot on the beach from where these four children sat and made an attempt to fish at intervals during the day.

Arrangements were made with the most prominent girls' club in the city to feature a Kid Dance with the theatre, offering five-dollar prizes to the best boy and girl representing Huckleberry Finn and Becky Thatcher. This club also made radio announcements and sent circulars announcing their dances with references being made about picture, theatre and playdates.

The lobby front was also appropriately decorated with cut-outs, panels, stills, etc., on the picture to give it a most attractive appearance.

On "Smiling Lieutenant" he featured a most brilliant and attractive theatre front, banners carrying picture copy protruding from corners of the marquee and smaller ones, carrying similar copy, hung on flag poles in front of the theatre.

A picture of Chevalier was placed on top of box office with an American flag on one side and a French flag on the other. This, together with art panels, stills, etc., completed a most alluring lobby front which practically stopped every passer-by.

He also distributed a sufficient quantity of garter-heralds. These heralds carried a portion of a lady's garter and then copy tying in with the picture as well as name of theatre, cast and playdates.

McKoy is always on the job down in his town, and now that the real season is coming on for Miami we expect that he'll be busier than ever. Keep up the excellent work, and when you find the time, shoot along some more.

Novel Folder Used By Al Sindlinger As Boost For Pictures

A neat little folder was recently issued by Albert Sindlinger, manager of the Holme Theatre, Philadelphia, Pa., as a plug for four of the new season pictures. When open it measured about 12 x 14 inches and folded lengthwise and across, half that size. The copy on cover read, "I'm Warning You. . . . I'll Go Nuts!" Then followed instructions to turn page. Next page read: "I'll Go Nuts . . . If I Don't See Something New When I Go to the Theatre. I'm Tired of These Gang Stories; I Want to See Something Different, Said Mr. Public the Other Day."

The following paragraph answered: "He Is Right, Absolutely Right, and We Theatre Managers Are Aware of It. You Have Changed. Then So Will We. We'll Not Give yo Any More Gang Stories. We'll Give You Something Different and Pictures You and the Family Will Want to See. Such Pictures the Holme Theatre NOW Has for You in Its NEW SHOW SEASON. (Paragraph.) "Well, Sir Public, Here They Are! Then instructions to turn page down and inside of folder was equally divided for advertising the four attractions." Copy on back read: "We . . . Won't Let Him Go Nuts. . . . No, Sir."

This is something a bit different in the way of folders and Sindlinger sent it along with the idea that others might find it useful in boosting certain coming attractions. For this he has the Club thanks and headquarters will hope to hear from him again.

A Rousing Campaign Made On "Politics" By Harold Gabrilove

A rousing campaign to exploit "Politics" was put over by Harold Gabrilove, manager of the Broadway Theatre, Newburgh, N. Y., and when the show opened you may be sure that the entire town knew this picture was around.

The lobby was fixed up to represent a polling place. It included a voting machine, cut-outs and a one-sheet on Marie Dressler for Mayor. And the lobby was also decorated with banners and tack cards with—Marie Dressler for Mayor.

With a radius of one-half a block about the theatre was placed card reading, "No Electioneering." Marie Dressler cards were placed around the theatre and outside on poles and in suburban spots.

Saturday night, previous to opening, a torch parade was held including a truck, a group of musicians, old-time political banners and a stump speaker running for Commissioner of Garbage.

A tie-up with a local furniture store resulted in their passing out theatre cards on "Politics" which read, "Vote Straight Laugh Ticket," at the Broadway theatre beginning Monday. This same store granted a 10 per cent discount to all customers during the run of the picture.

It's been some little time since we've heard about what Gabrilove has been up to in Newburgh show circles and we're glad to make contact again. We've had occasion to publish many campaigns made on this picture, and from all appearances his was right up among the top-notchers.

BALLOONS

All sizes. All shapes. All colors. Send your specifications to this Dept. Prices include any imprint you desire. They make a wonderful flash when you cover your lobby with them. Limit your imprint to three lines. Don't use too many words.

For further information and samples write to Box 503

MANAGERS ROUND TABLE CLUB
1790 Broadway New York, N. Y.

Kennebeck Comes To Life With Arm-Full Of Showmen's Gags

As we take a look at the collection of gags and whatnot representing a portion of show propaganda issued over a considerable period by F. V. Kennebeck, manager of the Le Claire Theatre, Moline, Ill., it's like taking a sock in the solar pluxus to determine just where to begin. There's a stack of heralds, special and otherwise; herald tie-ups with local concerns; announcement of a tie-up with a local store for a fashion show; a variety of give-aways of radios, etc.; postcard mailers; a lot of numbered tickets; door-knob hangers; classified ad contests; cards for free facials in beauty shop; fake checks for "two hours of solid entertainment"; baseball score cards carrying theatre imprint; a card on "Kid Braggars Club," admitting kid free when 10 numbers are punched; a similar card to plug a serial, and numerous other ideas along the same lines.

Practically all of the above had to do with pictures played some time ago, but if running through the list suggests using one or more of them with a current attraction, then thank F. V. for sending them along. All of them are forms of exploitation in vogue in many towns and can be easily adapted to other pictures. For instance, the baseball score card can be made seasonable with football, etc.

One thing is certain: almost all Kennebeck's heralds and other advertising carries a tie-up with local business concerns, which means that he has put over a whale of a lot of publicity at negligible cost to his theatre. We'll be looking for some more of F. V.'s ideas and hope he won't wait so long next time.

Ramsdell's Unique Foyer Display Was Plug On Ship Film

A most attractive foyer display for advance advertising on "Transatlantic" was recently turned out by Hobart H. Ramsdell, president of the Ramsdell Theatre Company, Gaithersburg, Md. While the accompanying cut may not enable readers to grasp full detail, it will, in any event, serve to convey an excellent idea of how the display was arranged. The frame in the corner consists of a three sheet, mostly in blue, and that's the reason that the reproduction came out dull. Blue will not reproduce well.

The life saving ring at the life bearing the copy, "S.S. Transatlantic" was also done in blue, which accounts for its illegibility. This, together with helm and port and starboard lights, was promoted from a marine concern in Washington. The ship in the frame at bottom of poster was secured from the office of the International Mercantile Marine, and is of the animated type, electrical equipment making the water move so as to appear that the ship is moving ahead at full speed, with smoke rolling out of the stacks. The port and starboard lights have blinkers in them. In return for the courtesy of loaning the equipment, literature of the company bearing imprint of theatre, was passed out.

The above is a simple and inexpensive display which can be used in connection with any picture having to do with ships, and if you happen to be located in a town large enough to boast a steam-ship agency, like as not an animated sign similar to the above may be obtained. Ramsdell tells us that his patrons certainly gave it the eye, and we're obliged to him for sending along the idea.

BRYAN SWITCHED TO CHICAGO!

Bunny Bryan, former director of publicity and advertising for Warner theatres in the New Jersey and Staten Island division, has been transferred to Chicago, Ill., with headquarters at the Balaban & Katz Chicago Theatre Building.

Bryan rendered a fine account of himself in his eastern division, one of his last campaigns being the staging of an elaborate industrial exposition in conjunction with Manager E. S. C. Coppock of the Paramount Theatre in Stapleton, S.I. All his friends and brother Round Tablers wish him unlimited success at his new location.

AT YOUR SERVICE!

This week's Club pages carry various announcements pertaining to novelties, toys and various other items all suitable for kiddie shows, holiday performances, etc.

Prompt attention will be given to all inquiries regarding this sort of merchandise and in view of the large number of requests about this time every year, we are trying to anticipate your wishes and be ready to serve you.

Write, wire or telephone Club headquarters and we will be more than pleased to assist you. But don't wait too long. Delays and last minute requests generally result in dissatisfaction and disappointments. Get busy early this year. Let us assist you.

Managers' Round Table Club.

Harry Stowell Made Deal With Florist For A Fine Display

On the occasion of "Jubilee Week," Harry C. Stowell, manager of the Paramount Theatre in Middletown, N. Y., made a tie-up with a florist which resulted in the staging of an attractive flower show for the entire week. The photo of a portion of the show, featuring a large windmill, is herewith reproduced and we hope it's large enough for you to get a good idea of what it looked like; but, on account of its small size justice is not done to general attractiveness of the decorative scheme.

On each fan of the mill was placed a card selling the coming product. The mill was equipped with an electric motor, geared down so that the blades revolved slowly. The blades were wired with small, colored electric lights with blinker attachment, flashing on and off as it went around. At the base of the mill the florist set in cut-out letters with lights in back giving a shadow-box effect. Beautiful flowers of all description were placed in profusion both in front and on each side of the windmill. A tank containing gold fish and small sail boats, arranged like a miniature Japanese garden, also lent to the general display.

We are also showing a photo of another recent stunt pulled by Stowell on the occasion of playing "Sporting Blood." It consisted of five men and girls on horseback, led by a boy driving a horse pulling a two-wheel vehicle. Between each horse were men carrying signs playing up the title of picture, theatre and playdates, with a portion of space devoted to the riding academy which furnished the horses. The parade circulated through the principal business and residential sections of the town.

Expense on the flower show was negligible since both tank and windmill were resurrected from the theatre warehouse. Flowers and other material were all promoted and there can be no question but that it made a most effective plug for coming attractions. Likewise, his parade stunt cost but little on account of tying up with the riding academy for horses, etc. 'Attaboy, Harry! It's these "costless" activities that bring the kind words these days. What has taken place in the meantime up your way? Let your Club know.

SIX MONTHS CLUB INDEX!

Item	Issue	Page
Aeroplane Tieups	May 2nd	63
	Oct. 3	58
Anniversary Week	Sept. 26th	60
Anniversaries	Aug. 1st	55
	Oct. 3rd	54
	24th	61
	31st	50
Art Work
May 16th	85
23rd	70
23rd	71
June 6th	56
Atmospheric Stunts	Aug. 8th	183
Australian Showmanship	July 25th	68
Baby Show	Aug. 1st	58
Band Act	Aug. 8th	186
Banners	Sept. 26th	52
Baseball Tie-up	Oct. 3rd	51
Bathing Beauty Revue	Aug. 1st	69
	8th	184
	15th	65
	Oct. 10th	62
	17th	56
	17th	58
Benefits	May 16th	81
	June 20th	62
	July 25th	60
Big Brother Club	Oct. 31st	49
Billposting	Aug. 29th	51
Birthday Club	Oct. 10th	60
Book Cover Stunt	Aug. 1st	62
	Oct. 10th	65
Boy Scout Tieup	July 4th	60
	Aug. 22nd	61
Bridge Whist Gag	Aug. 22nd	61
	Oct. 24th	51
Bus Tie-up	Sept. 12th	52
	Oct. 3rd	55
Business Posters	July 11th	65
Calendars	Aug. 8th	181
	15th	61
	Oct. 10th	68
Church Tie-up	July 25th	58
Cigarette Tie-up	Aug. 22nd	68
Civic Contacts	May 23rd	58
Classified Stunts	Oct. 3rd	52
Contests
May 16th	78
30th	60
June 6th	59
6th	61
13th	61
13th	64
20th	66
20th	69
27th	59
July 4th	60
11th	64
25th	58
25th	62
25th	66
Aug. 1st	67
8th	185
Cooling Hints	June 13th	61
	27th	65
Country Club Tie-up	July 4th	61
Direct Mail Campaign	Aug. 1st	58
	8th	176
	8th	181
	8th	185
	8th	188
	15th	64
	29th	41
Displays
May 2nd	101
2nd	104
9th	69
16th	76
16th	81
Double Truck Ads	Aug. 8th	184
Exploitation Manual	Aug. 1st	60
	1st	61
	8th	182
Fashion Shows	May 9th	67
	June 13th	56
	Aug. 1st	59
	15th	58
	22nd	58
	Oct. 17th	63
Feature Campaigns
May 2nd	92
2nd	98
2nd	100
2nd	101
2nd	102
9th	63
9th	67
16th	77
16th	78
30th	70
June 6th	56
20th	61
27th	63
27th	68
July 4th	54
4th	55
4th	56
4th	58
4th	62
4th	63
11th	63
July 11th	68
18th	64
18th	67
25th	60
25th	61
25th	65
Aug. 1st	66
1st	67
15th	58
22nd	66
29th	68
Sept. 5th	50
5th	53
5th	54
5th	56
5th	60
12th	42

The following articles appeared in one or two pages as feature stories and can be used as complete manuals for the subjects they cover. Reprints are available upon request of accredited members.

Local Appeal & Civic Contacts—Nat Holt	May	23rd	Page 58
Value of Kiddie Biz—Natalie Tolman	"	"	" 60
Give Yourself Double Check—Larry Woodin	"	"	" 61
Depression vs. Prosperity—Jack O'Connell	"	"	" 61
Ads for Weekly Paper—Paul Kunze	"	"	" 64
Press Books & Stills—Eddie Hitchcock	"	"	" 66
Something for Nothing—Bunny Bryan	"	"	" 66
"Get Acquainted Month"—Hugh Borland	"	"	" 67
B. O. Courtesy—Bernard Buchanan	"	"	" 69
Individuality in Theatre Management—Jos. Luntz	"	"	" 69
Theatrical Art—Heinie Johnson	"	"	" 70
Displays Inside and Out—Theo. Z. Halmi	"	"	" 71
Pictures or Brains—E. S. C. Coppack	"	16th	" 80
Kid Minstrel—L. W. Orlove	June	6th	" 52
Best Forms of Theatre Advt.—Frank Whitbeck	"	27th	" 62
Newsp. Advt. for Small Cities—Ralph Cokain	"	"	" 63
Socking Summer Slumps—E. S. C. Coppack	July	11th	" 65
Benders Exploitation Manual	Aug.	1st	" 61
Benders Exploitation Manual (Continued)	"	8th	" 182
Slam Door on Depression	"	29th	" 42
Slam Door on Depression	"	"	" 43
Your Entertaining Atmosphere—B. Buchanan	"	"	" 49
Weekly Service Staff Meetings—Earle Holden	Sept.	5th	" 55
Dog and Doll Contest—Wallace J. Butler	"	19th	" 53
Play Fair with Newspapers	"	26th	" 53
System in Theatre Operation—S. S. Solomon	Oct.	10th	" 67
Get Acquainted with Industry	"	17th	" 59
Stage Weddings	"	31st	" 47

Item	Issue	Page
Fashion Shows	May 9th	67
Sept. 12th	45
12th	46
12th	47
12th	52
12th	53
19th	57
19th	61
26th	50
26th	51
26th	54
26th	55
26th	57
26th	58
26th	60
Oct. 3rd	53
Football Tie-ups	Oct. 24th	61
	31st	45
Foyers	Aug. 15	65
	29th	50
	Sept. 12th	46
	19th	55
Fronts
May 2nd	93
2nd	104
9th	67
9th	71
9th	76
9th	78
June 13th	62
20th	69
27th	58
27th	60
27th	61
27th	67
July 4th	60
4th	61
4th	64
18th	63
18th	66
18th	68
18th	72
Aug. 1st	66
1st	68
Good Will	June 20th	66
Graduation	May 9th	62
	July 4th	59
Handbills	Aug. 22nd	64
Heralds
May 2nd	95
2nd	102
9th	68
16th	77
16th	86
June 13th	59
20th	64
House Organs	June 13th	55
	27th	66
	Aug. 15th	56
	Oct. 10th	64
Institutional Ads	May 9th	60
	16th	75
	16th	81
	30th	63
Institutional Gags
May 16th	80
16th	82
16th	84
23rd	69
30th	60
30th	65
30th	67
June 6th	58
13th	61
20th	64
Joy Jubilee	Sept. 5th	52
Kiddie Biz.
May 2nd	104
9th	65
16th	74
16th	75
16th	84
23rd	57
23rd	60
30th	60
30th	63
30th	64
June 6th	53
6th	54
6th	58
6th	59
13th	55
20th	58
20th	66
27th	59
27th	60
27th	68
July 4th	58
11th	59
Kiddie Clubs	Aug. 22nd	64
	29th	49
	Sept. 12th	44
	19th	55
	Oct. 24th	54
Kiddie Playroom	Sept. 5th	52
Kite Kontest	Aug. 29th	45
Lobbies
May 2nd	92
2nd	93
9th	71
16th	75
16th	76
30th	66
June 6th	51
6th	54
13th	55
13th	64
27th	66
July 11th	62
11th	66
11th	68
11th	69
18th	67
25th	60
Local Movies	Aug. 15th	62
Magazine Tie-up	Aug. 15th	59
Magic Club	Oct. 10th	64
Maintenance	May 16th	75
Marquees	Aug. 15th	63
	29th	46
Merchant Tie-Ups
May 2nd	94
9th	60
9th	69
June 6th	51
13th	60
13th	64
20th	66
20th	67
July 4th	62
4th	63
25th	60
25th	62
25th	67
25th	68
Aug. 1st	59
1st	63
1st	66
8th	185
15th	55
Aug. 15th	60
15th	62
15th	69
22nd	65
29th	48
Sept. 5th	54
5th	60
12th	47
12th	50
12th	52
19th	51
19th	54
19th	61
26th	51
26th	52
26th	58
26th	60
Oct. 3rd	61
17th	57
Mickie Mouse Club	Oct. 10th	70
Mickey Mouse Parade	Aug. 8th	184
Midnight Previews	July 4th	64
Minstrel Show	June 6th	52
Miscellaneous
Depression vs. Prosperity—Jack O'Connell	May 23rd	61
Theatre Management—Larry Woodin	May 23rd	61
Slant on General Conditions—Earl Leaper	May 23rd	62
Something for Nothing—Bunny Bryan	May 23rd	66
Individuality in Theatre Management—Jos. Luntz	May 23rd	69
Defining Loyalty—Wallace J. Butler	May 23rd	71
Mother's Day Tie-up	May 2nd	92
Mother's Day	July 4th	62
	18th	62
	25th	61
Movie Column	Aug 29th	40
New Product Announcement	Aug. 29th	42
	29th	43
	Oct. 3rd	50
Naval Tie-up	May 2nd	101
	30th	62
Newspaper Ads
May 2nd	92
2nd	94
2nd	95
2nd	100
2nd	105
9th	62
9th	64
9th	65
9th	68
9th	69
9th	72
16th	74
16th	76
16th	77
16th	78
23rd	59
30th	61
30th	67
June 6th	50
6th	53
6th	55
6th	57
6th	59
6th	62
13th	57
13th	60
13th	63
20th	58
20th	59
20th	62
20th	63
20th	65
27th	66
July 4th	55
4th	65
11th	58
11th	62
11th	66
July 11th	69
18th	60
18th	64
18th	69
18th	71
25th	59
Aug. 1st	59
1st	65
1st	69
8th	187
15th	59
15th	61
15th	63
22nd	69
29th	47
Sept. 5th	54
5th	57
5th	58
5th	61
12th	49
12th	51
12th	53
19th	50
26th	52
26th	54
26th	56
26th	59
Oct. 10th	54
10th	69
17th	61
17th	62
24th	52
24th	56
24th	57
31st	46
31st	51
31st	52
Newspaper Cooperation	Sept. 26th	54
Newspaper Tie-ups
June 27th	60
Aug. 15th	60
Sept. 5th	50
12th	53
Sept. 18th	53
Oct. 3rd	55
10th	60
24th	55
Newsreel Gags	May 16th	86
Novelty Gags
May 2nd	92
2nd	94
2nd	105
9th	60
9th	61
30th	64
June 6th	54
13th	58
20th	69
27th	64
27th	68
July 4th	59

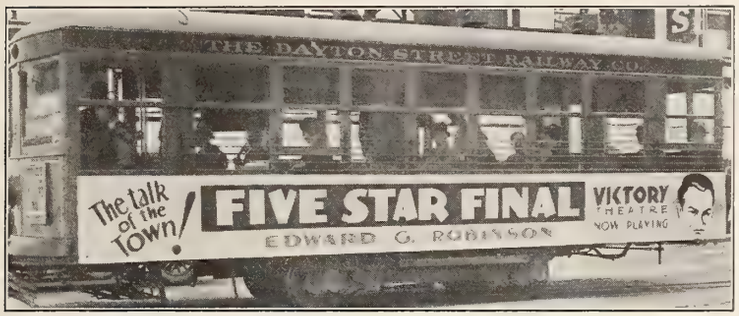
Selected Preview Audience Gag Was Plug For Chernow

Through co-operation from one of the local newspapers, Sam Chernow, manager of the Strand Theatre, Scranton, Pa., arranged to hold a preview of "American Tragedy" for a mixed audience of teachers, students, bank clerks, advertising writers, mill workers, engineers, etc. His idea was to have a thoroughly representative crowd present so that results of the idea he was to propose to them would reflect reactions from all walks of life.

In order to become a contestant for one of the three prizes of $10, $5 and $2.50 to be awarded the three best critics, whether their reviews be favorable or unfavorable, it was necessary to write a letter to the manager telling him why the writer should be selected to witness the preview and giving name, address, age and occupation.

The newspaper played up a "first night" story, as one of those gay and gala affairs staged in New York and Hollywood; in other words, it conveyed the impression that one had something to talk about by being a first-nighter.

About seventy-five people attended the special screening and the stunt was highly successful from every angle, giving the picture the desired publicity which later reflected itself at the box office in a most satisfactory manner. Keep up the good work, Sam, and let the Club know about other stunts you are pulling down your way.



Deuel Took Booth At County Fair To Stage His Exhibit

It's quite evident that no opportunities are being overlooked in the matter of obtaining publicity for his theatre by Starr A. Deuel, manager of the Paramount Theatre in Provo, Utah. During the Utah County Fair he arranged an exhibit in a booth on the fair grounds. Following is his own description:

"In order to draw business from the fair, we secured a booth, decorating it nicely and placing on display a camera and a projector machine. A small 16 millimeter projection machine was secured along with some film of the knockout fight of Dempsey and Tunney, the take-off of Lindbergh's flight to Paris, and a track meet held at the local university. This film was shown in our booth and it certainly drew the crowd. Alongside of this, we installed a public address system. Periodically throughout the showing of the film, we announced the current and coming attractions at the theatre. Every day the wording of the announcements were changed to keep them from being stereotyped. These announcements were made in the main building at the fair and could be heard throughout the building. We can safely say that 75 per cent of the 14,000 attending the fair heard our announcements."

It's been some little time since we've been in touch with Deuel, but now we know that he's still batting a strong average in the matter of letting his town know that the Paramount is its theatre. Getting a message over to 14,000 people is showmanship.

BANNER SOLD DAYTON SHOW!

Above illustrates one of the stunts employed by J. Elmer Ridelle, manager of the Victory Theatre in Dayton, Ohio, to let the whole town know that "Five Star Final" was showing at his theatre. This car was routed through principal sections of the city and carried this large banner during entire engagement of picture. It materially aided in building up extraordinary returns at the box-office.

Business Men Cite Jack Maher For An Outstanding Stunt

Four months is long enough for any man to be in an average city in order to get acquainted with its people. This fact may be questioned, but Jack Maher, manager of the Majestic Theatre in Hornell, New York, is ready to prove it. Four months ago Maher was sent to Hornell by the Warners and he proceeded to know everybody at once. A few weeks ago he was one of the promoters of "Hornell Days" sponsored by the merchants of the city. So successfully did his campaign turn out that it won the following letter of appreciation from the Chamber of Commerce:

"I have been instructed by the retail merchants of the Hornell Chamber of Commerce to thank you and Warner Bros. theatre for the part you took in our recent Hornell Days campaign. We certainly appreciate the work you performed in this respect. Very truly yours, R. W. Wills, Secretary and Treasurer Hornell Chamber of Commerce."

Nice work, Jack; and we predict that you won't be the loser in days to come for the part you played in helping those business men over the top with their sales campaign. More power to you and let's know what else you are doing up your way.

CLUB INDEX FOR SIX MONTHS!

Item	Issue	Page
Novelty Gags (Continued)
July 4th	62
11th	58
11th	64
18th	67
18th	72
25th	60
25th	64
25th	66
25th	67
Sept. 5th	58
12th	42
12th	44
Novel Signs	Oct. 3rd	60
Organists	May 2nd	105
	9th	71
	Aug. 8th	178
	29th	45
Pajama Party	Aug. 15th	54
	Sept. 19th	60
	Oct. 24th	53
Personal Letter Gags	May 29th	41
Police Tie-up	May 30th	62
	July 11th	60
	Sept. 19th	54
Political Picture Gag	Aug. 5th	61
Popularity Gag	Aug. 8th	188
	15th	65
Posters	Sept. 26th	50
	Oct. 10th	62
	17th	57
	24th	58
Premiere	July 11th	64
Press Books	May 23rd	66
Previews	May 16th	87
	Aug. 8th	188
	29th	46
Programs
June 6th	54
13th	74
June 20th		60
27th		58

Item	Issue	Page
Programs (Continued)
June 27th	59
July 4th	64
11th	63
18th	70
Aug. 1st	63
Sept. 12th		46
19th		50
Oct. 3rd		55
3rd		60
10th		65
10th		71
17th		55
24th		61
31st		43
31st		48
31st		51
Questionnaires	Aug. 8th	184
	15th	64
Radio Tie-up	June 6th	50
	July 11th	62
	Aug. 15th	64
	22nd	63
	Sept. 26th	50
	Oct. 3rd	62
	17th	63
School Tie-ups	May 2nd	93
	16th	76
	June 13th	61
	July 25th	61
	25th	65
	Aug. 8th	179
	22nd	61
	Sept. 12th	49
	Oct. 10th	61
Serial Campaign	Oct. 3rd	58
	17th	55
Short Subjects	May 9th	68
	16th	85
	June 13th	56
	20th	59
	20th	67
	27th	61
	July 11th	62
Special Matinees	July 25th	66
	Sept. 12th	43
	Oct. 3rd	50
Special Nites	May 9th	65
	9th	66
	30th	68
	June 20th	61
	27th	68

Item	Issue	Page
Special Months	May 23rd	67
	July 18th	67
	Sept. 19th	58
	Oct. 24th	58
Special Weeks	May 9th	69
	June 13th	59
	27th	66
	July 11th	62
Staff Meetings	Sept. 5th	56
Stage Weddings	May 16th	85
	Aug. 29th	44
	Sept. 26th	56
	Oct. 31st	47
Street Ballys
May 2nd	94
2nd	98
2nd	100
2nd	104
9th	70
9th	71
9th	72
16th	74
16th	82
16th	84
16th	87
30th	62
30th	64
30th	68
June 6th	50
6th	51
6th	56
6th	60
13th	57
13th	58
20th	59
20th	61
27th	60
27th	67
July 4th	56
4th	59
July 4th		60
4th		61
4th		62
4th		64
11th		60
11th		62
18th		62
18th		63
18th		68
25th		64
Aug. 1st		63
1st		66
1st		69
8th		176
8th		180
8th		181
8th		184
8th		186
15th		57
22nd		69
29th		44
Sept. 12th		45
12th		46
12th		47
12th		50
12th		52

Item	Issue	Page
Street Ballys (Continued)
Sept. 19th	54
19th	56
19th	58
19th	61
26th	58
Oct. 3rd	51
3rd	58
3rd	61
10th	60
10th	64
Oct. 10th		65
10th		66
10th		71
17th		52
17th		60
17th		61
24th		53
24th		54
24th		60
31st		44
Student Birthday Stunt	Aug. 15th	54
Summer Santa Claus Gag	Aug. 1st	62
Telegraph Co. Tie-up	July 11th	60
	Aug. 15th	63
	Sept. 5th	50
	12th	46
Theatre Advertising	June 27th	62
	27th	63
	July 4th	57
	11th	61
	18th	65
	25th	63
	Aug. 15th	60
Theatre Operation	Oct. 10th	67
Theatre Opening	Oct. 31st	42
Trailers	May 2nd	93
	9th	62
	June 20th	65
	20th	68
	July 11th	68
Traffic Stunts	Aug. 22nd	60
	22nd	66
Transportation Tie-up	Sept. 19th	58
Twenty-four Sheets	Aug. 29th	49
Western Union Tie-up	Oct. 31st	52
Whisker Gag	Aug. 8th	176
Whoopee Parties	Aug. 1st	68
Window Displays	June 13th	64
	July 4th	54
	11th	58
	Sept. 26th	57
	Oct. 3rd	51
	3rd	56
	31st	44
	31st	50

AN UP-AND-DOING SERVICE CLUB!

The Olympia Service Club, of which we have had occasion to write about before, recently published an Anniversary Issue of its organ, "The Olympia Service News." It is a finely gotten-up little magazine of 52 pages and really serves as a sort of a theatre regional for Publix houses other than solely for its sponsor, the Washington Street Olympia Theatre in Boston, Mass. It is chock-full of newsy little items of interest to many managers in this section.

Much credit is due the Olympia staff for their efforts which advanced the "News" from mimeograph stage to its present de luxe form. It grew in popularity with each issue and when it was decided to turn out printed copies, overhead was arranged to be offset with local ads. The issue to which we here refer is a solid testimonial to its success in its field.

However, this Olympia Service Club is a unique organization. Every member not only takes keen pride in proficient accomplishment of duties as usher, etc., but they willingly lend a hand to Manager George Laby in the staging of stunts to ballyhoo attractions, a matter to which we have referred in past articles. All of which merely goes to show what real service a Service Club can render if intelligently organized. We wish the whole gang much success.

Pete Maguzzu's Kid Party A Big Event In Hazleton House

As a climax to a Publix First Anniversary, Pete Maguzzu, manager of the Grand Theatre in Hazleton, Pa., staged a Kiddie Party that was attended by over 3,700 youngsters. The photo on this page shows a portion of the audience gathered in front of the theatre at close of the show; however, at the start they were lined up for blocks, waiting in the rain for the doors to open. Everything was free and the program was especially selected for the children.

When Maguzzu got them all inside he made an address explaining that a "Kiddies' Club" was then functioning. He told them that every child who had a birthday during the week would be entitled to a free ticket to attend the regular Saturday morning show for children. A record kept by the theatre office would be the means of notifying each club member when his or her birthday came around and the tickets sent by mail. An open vote was then held by the kids to determine what show they would see the following Saturday, when each attendee would be given a bottle of a popular brand of chocolate milk.

No doubt that this Round Tabler got off to a flying start with his Fall edition of Kiddie Club, as a score of newspaper clippings bear witness. We imagine that most members of this organization have also gotten under way with their kiddie organizations for the new season, but in case they have not, Pete's show will serve as a reminder to get busy at once.

Wally Caldwell Is Still Batting Them Over Out In Toledo

Wally Caldwell, manager of the Valentine Theatre, Toledo, Ohio, waged his usual well-rounded campaign on the occasion of "Street Scene" a few weeks ago, which included several valuable tie-ups with well known concerns and manufacturers of popular brands of merchandise. A wide distribution of heralds and extensive newspaper coverage also figured prominently as part of the advance work.

His tie-up with the Postal Telegraph Company consisted of the placing of cut-out messenger boys in empty store windows, merchants' windows and lobbies of large office buildings, all important downtown locations. Another flash that lived over the week-end was the posting of 9x14 heralds on sidewalks in every important corner in the downtown district. In addition, laundries and markets were tied-up for distribution of several thousand heralds wrapped in packages. A newspaper contest on how many words could be made out of "Street Scene" also came in for its share of attention.

This is the first time we've heard from Wally since he put over a campaign on "Politics" in his town, but he's apparently going about his work in the usual manner. If he has an occasional photo to illustrate some of the outstanding stunts we know he puts over and will send some of these to headquarters, we'll see that they are reproduced for the benefit of other members of this Club.

Wounded Vet Stunt Earned Lot Of Good Will For Clifford

The last time we had a line on the doings of Harry Clifford, manager of the Arcadia Theatre, Bronx, New York City, was when he demonstrated that stunts were still being pulled in and around the Metropolitan area; at least still being pulled by Harry, for you will recall that he captured attention in his neighborhood by having a "Harlem gorilla" perform stunts on a rope in connection with the showing of an African film.

Now he has another one to bring to the attention of Club members, more on the line of a good will stunt, but an idea that brought him some fine write-ups in Bronx editions of various newspapers. He made a tie-up with the local Veterans of Foreign Wars and obtained permission from a Base Hospital to entertain about 100 wounded veterans. A bus line was contacted to provide free transportation, which it agreed to give for the advertising, and it also allowed the theatre to display on sides of the coach a banner stating that the passengers were going to see such and such attraction at the Arcadia. A circuitous route from the hospital to theatre was chosen, resulting in a wide circulation of the theatre ad.

It's needless to state that the vets were entirely grateful for the opportunity to see the show and there can be no question that a large amount of good will was aroused by this stunt. Harry is passing along the idea for those Club members who may be similarly situated.

Lou Smith Is Busy Building Up House Closed Long Time

Back in harness again after a brief sojourn in the country, Lou Smith is busy these days with the task of building up trade for the Elton Theatre, a house over in the Boro Park section of Brooklyn, which has been closed for the past three years on account of property litigation and other matters.

Figuring that children were one of the best mediums for word-o'-mouth advertising, one of the first things he got under way was a serial club card on "Battling With Buffalo Bill." It was called a Scouts' Card and the holders were entitled to a free admission to the succeeding serial, when all ten numbers were punched.

Another little gag which occurred to him and perchance may be of interest to others in the big town, was getting out a card suitable for the new letter boxes in the new apartments. Apparently these boxes have a narrow slot that will only permit insertion of a card measuring 2 1-4 inches wide by 5 1-2 inches deep (the width most important), so he had these especially made for the new type houses in his neighborhood. One side was devoted to prices of admission and the other to attractions for the week.

We're mighty glad to hear that Smith is again on the job, and while the task of putting over a house closed for three years is not easy, we feel sure that he has the necessary enterprise to succeed. Keep the old ball rolling, Lou, and let the Club hear from you.

SPECIALS FOR
The Latest Fall Picture Releases
Fill your seats with original box-office
EXPLOITATION NOVELTIES
Made for Every Picture Produced
Now Serving
PATHE : R-K-O : UNIVERSAL : M-G-M : TIFFANY
SONO-ART : LOEW'S : UNITED ARTISTS
FIRST NATIONAL
and Many Others
For further information and samples write to Box 501,
MANAGERS ROUND TABLE CLUB
1790 Broadway New York, N. Y.

Pickle Sought Aid From Local School On Historical Film

In seeking effective means of calling attention to "Alexander Hamilton," Leon Pickle, manager of the Kentucky Theatre in Henderson, Ky., figured he could do nothing better than rouse the interest of the school children in the picture. If he could succeed in this he felt the enthusiasm of the children would be carried into their homes, and the stunt would prove to be a double-barreled one with both barrels working.

Granted permission by the school board, Pickle personally addressed the students in the various schools, dwelling on the life of Hamilton and the era in which he moved. The big moments in the life of the first treasurer of the republic were stressed and references were made as to the manner in which these were shown on the screen in the Arliss picture. The manager's address went over with the young people so well that he was asked to repeat it before the classes in history.

Carrying out the original idea still further, Pickle conceived the idea of getting the high school classes to arrange for benefit presentations of "Alexander Hamilton" and in this he was also successful.

The stunt, while it involved a lot of labor for Pickle, was entirely devoid of expense. Another point regarding it is that it can be carried out with any picture that has an historical or educational background.

If You Have Nerve Try Frank Costa's Manager's Week Gag

If you happen to entirely run out of stunts to boost business at your theatre you might try one purported to have been pulled by Frank Costa, manager of the Playhouse Theatre, Ridgewood, N. Y.—that is, if you think you can get away with such an unprecedented example of cast iron nerve, showmanship, salesmanship or what have you.

In an exuberant moment the thought occurred to him that he had done a great deal for Ridgewood in the way of giving this critical community a lot of good entertainment. That being the case, it, of course, followed that the town should show appreciation with something like, say a "Manager's Week."

The more he dwelt upon the idea the more forcibly was he impressed with the part he had played in diverting the good citizens from business cares, domestic spats, etc. So he had printed several hundred books of admission tickets, called his newsboy friends in conference and delegated them his salesmen for the occasion. A free show was promised them for disposal of the books. Success in sight in this direction, he next sought aid from local merchants, subtly letting these men in on the advisability of cooperating in the civic testimonial to his worth as a dispeller of gloom.

Well, the story goes that Costa's week for managers turned out to be a most profitable one. We're not acquainted with Frank; neither can we find a record of his membership in this Club, but we'll state right now that this outfit needs men like him. If he can pull stunts like this one, then he must be resourceful enough to stage even a Hoover Week right now. Come on in, Frank.

ROUND TABLE BIOGRAPHIES

Joseph G. Ehrlich is a member of the press department of Loew's State Theatre in Boston, Mass., and he's quite sure he entered this business because of a strong strain of showblood in his make-up. At any rate, he began his career four years ago at the above-mentioned theatre and he's still holding down the job.

Joe Ehrlich

Joe was born in Portland, Me., on December 12th, 1905, which makes him 26 years old at the present time. He was educated in the Portland High School and later on attended Boston University. Prior to entering show-business he did reportorial work for home-town newspapers, thereby gaining experience which was to stand him in good need when he went with Loew's State. He likes his present work and environment and finds his business associates very congenial and considerate, but ultimately hopes to wend his way westward to the California studios of this industry.

Asked if he would choose this profession were he to start all over again, his reply was in the affirmative; so we judge that he has no intention of ever leaving his present field for another.

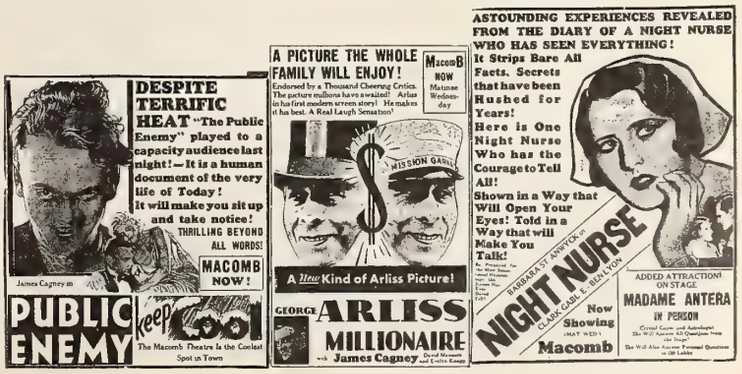
SIX MONTHS CLUB INDEX!

We present, this week, the third Six Months Index of Club activities. Since this service was first inaugurated a year ago it met with instant acclaim from members and non-members alike. Many have told us that it really makes the filing of MOTION PICTURE HERALD with the Club pages an encyclopedia of showmanship.

For the wide-awake showman who wants ideas, tried and proven, right at his finger-tips, he need only refer to the six months index to find the type of exploitation or stunt that he needs for some particular picture or event. Then locating the item in its proper issue is but the work of a few moments and there you have what you want—when you want it.

In the course of six months, every conceivable type of exploitation, ballyhoo, newspaper tie-up, publicity gag, celebration, pointers on theatre operation, civic contacts and newspaper advertising is carried on the many Club pages. Taking the pages for a period of six months, binding them together and placing this index in front, would give the book a value of many dollars. Through the publication of the index in this form on the Club pages, and the filing of your HERALDS each and every week, you have a complete resume of everything that has been done in showbusiness for that period.

Extra copies of the index will be available for those who prefer to have it apart from the Club pages. Write to the Chairman at Club headquarters and it will be mailed to you promptly.



Sol Krim Staged Big Pajama Party In Mount Clemens

Climatic conditions may prevent the staging of a pajama party by the time this gets in print, but if it's unseasonable just place it in the warm weather file as a stunt to use next season. We are referring to a party recently put over by Sol Krim, manager of the Macomb Theatre, Mount Clemens, Mich., which proved to be an excellent publicity getter.

He announced that the first one hundred girls dressed in pajamas would be admitted free to the midnight show and Pajama Party and on the night of the event many of them arrived early and had to wait in the lobby and in front of the theatre, thereby causing quite a bally for the show. As you will note in the photo, cut-outs were made of movie stars dressed in pajamas for lobby display. Further details of the party are lacking, but Sol states that he will be glad to furnish more information to any one who seeks it. It is possible that there was judging of costumes and awarding of prizes during the evening.

We are also presenting for your inspection samples of the Macomb type of advertising. These are typical of all advertising recently carried out and you will note that copy and mats are played up in heavy black type.

DICK MOSS PROMOTED!

Richard Moss, formerly manager of the Orange Theatre, Orange, Calif., and a well known contributor to this department, has been placed in charge of the United Artists Theatre in Los Angeles.

This is a big step forward for Dick and a well deserved one, for his work at the Orange has been outstanding in every respect. His present house is classed as one of the aces on the West Coast and the Club wishes him much success in his new location.

Janecky And Katz Get Out New Kind Of Testimonial Ad

Something different in newspaper display advertising was pulled recently by Harold Janecky and Ben Katz, respectively manager and advertising manager of the Warner Theatre, Milwaukee, Wis.

Ads featuring a testimonial from local citizen are not a novelty in any sense of the word, but these two showmen went one better along this line by securing and publishing photos along with the testimonials, certainly resulting in a vastly different looking kind of ad.

The accompanying layout of three ads will not clearly show all copy on account of smallness of type, but you can get a general outline of the way it was worked out. Note that they succeeded in landing an assistant district attorney for one ad, making an appeal to business and professional circles; and that the other ads—the message to women—was directed through a secretary and waitress.

It's certainly very ably worked out and there's every evidence that thought was applied to framing the copy of each ad. Janecky and Katz are always doing something worthwhile wherever they may be and it's a pleasure to submit samples of their work to other members of this Club.

Small Calendar Is Aiding McCowan To Keep Up Patronage

Changes made in form of his weekly and monthly advertising circulars, etc., have acted as a fine business stimulator for L. W. McCowan, manager of the Cameo Theatre, Mountain Grove, Mo., and all at no cost to the house.

He issues a small monthly calendar which combines a daily calendar of the month and attractions at his theatre during the period. It is stated at top of card holding the calendar that 25 free tickets are in it and in the pad are slips featuring ads of merchants which when presented at store entitle the first few persons to free tickets. When the pad is entirely used the card and one adult ticket will admit two pople free of charge.

He changed his bakery hook-up so that 3,000 bills carrying copy for a week's attractions are circulated every week. Fifteen of these presented at the bakery are good for one child admission, the bakery paying the theatre five cents for each ticket.

We can tell from a reprint on the cover of the Cameo program that McCowan stands in well with local institutions. It had to do with a first anniversary of the theatre, and the newspaper article paid tribute to the efficient management. He also works with the churches, despite the fact that these institutions were up in arms when the house opened with Sunday movies. Now he arranges for benefit shows and has earned the good will of the church.

Texas Zulu Helped John Fanning Sell Marx Bros. Picture

John C. Fanning, manager of the Capitol Theatre, Brownsville, Tex., pulled a stunt that clicked for the Four Marx Brothers in "Monkey Business."

The merchants' fall style show was held in the sports arena. During this show, a negro boy, painted as a Zulu, mingled with the people. Accompanying the negro boy were three men in bathing suits, representing the other three Marx Brothers. Announcement card carrying playdates, picture and theatre was on their backs. As a special attraction at the style show, Zulu, the negro boy, did a dance. This was well received and meant further publicity for the picture.

No doubt but that Fanning's little Ethiopian lent an interesting slant to the style show and the occasion was a splendid one to let a whole lot of people know what was going on at his theatre. This is the first time we've been able to get a line on J. C. and we will hope to tell you more about his work in the future.

Reward For Monkey Business Man, Gag Of Ed Whittaker's

A reward of $50 cash for the capture of the "Monkey Business Man" was offered by the theatre and 11 co-operating business concerns on the eve of the opening of the picture, "Monkey Business." A man practiced in the prankish arts that have made the Marx Brothers famous wandered through the city, calling in turn at each of the business concerns co-operating, cutting "monkey-shines"

To win the reward of $50, it was necessary only to tap the right person on the shoulder, show him the latest edition of "The Atlanta Georgian," and say: "You are the monkey business man for whom the 'Atlanta Georgian' and Georgia theatre are offering $50."

When the right person was tapped, he was required by the rules of the game to confess his identity and go with his captor to the Georgia Theatre and there receive his reward. The kind of monkey-shines the monkey business man cut as clews for his pursuers was not announced in advance, but each day several of them were described in reports of his adventures until he was caught.

The firms co-operating in the hunt for the "monkey business man" and whose places and time he would visit were listed on a full-page co-operative spread. In fact, one of these concerns offered an extra prize to the person tagging the monkey business man in their establishment.

A human interest touch was added to the final story due to the fact that the man winning the cash award hasn't paid his room rent for three months due to being out of work. This was especially pleasing to the landlord as it was to the winner, himself.

Whittaker is right on the job these days as you will note from reports received by this department from time to time and there's no doubt but that he's keeping the Georgia right up among the leaders.

Robert Soffer Still Conducting Column In East Side Paper

The last time we had occasion to mention the name of Robert Soffer, manager of the Hollywood Theatre, East Side of New York City, we stated that he was conducting an interesting movie column for the "East Side News," a neighborhood newspaper. He's still on the job at the Hollywood and still conducting the column, recently using the latter to publicize the outcome of an issue decided by audience vote. The question he put before the patrons of theatre for open vote was whether they wanted a three-hour show or a two-hour show, the majority approving of the latter.

In a chummy manner he plugs his house from all angles, never offering anything but institutional copy. He calls attention to the fact that the theatre will gladly cooperate with clubs, churches or fraternal orders in the matter of making special prices on tickets; tells parents that he is making special preparations to entertain the children with carefully selected subjects; that the kids will receive great care at the theatre, and other items of interest to movie fans.

Movie columns are being conducted for newspapers by theatre managers in a number of cities these days and this is a stunt which this department has always advocated as one productive of valuable publicity for the theatre. It can only be done, of course, where the situation calls for assistance of this kind. If you are so situated, try Bob Soffer's method of obtaining free mention each day in the week.

Newspaper Advertising is a Showman's first line of attack

Classified Gag A Good Plug On Film Shown By Friedman

As part of an effective campaign made on "Pardon Us" by S. Friedman, manager of the Capitol Theatre in Pottsville, Pa., the newspaper was tied-up for a classified ad contest, based on solution of the letters L. R. O. (Laughing Room Only). The paper ran special stories explaining the contest and 30 guest tickets were awarded the winners.

Still another contest promoted by the theatre and the newspaper was the usually handled give-away of an auto. The title of picture was used in all copy pertaining to contest, and in all ads the fact was stressed that this picture was Laurel & Hardy's first feature. The line, "Their First Full Length Laugh Riot" was consistently plugged.

It's been quite some time since we've been able to get a line on Friedman's activities in show-business, and the above is all too brief. However, maybe this will remind him of his delinquency and serve as a hint that his brother showmen want to be kept posted about his work.

A Line On How Tom Di Lorenzo Sells A Show In Glen Cove

Thomas di Lorenzo is still batting over 300 these days despite the fact that the Club hasn't heard from him in some little time. He's still holding forth at the Fox Cove Theatre, in Glen Cove, L. I., N. Y., and we're going to let you in on a couple of recently used gags that helped sell a feature and a serial.

On "Smart Money" he had 6,000 hand bills printed in the form of the new dollar bills and used six stores for points of distribution. Each store was supplied with a special card bearing appropriate copy on the picture and campaign and scene still from the picture. The reverse side of the bill bore an identification mark which, if corresponding to another such mark published in the local paper, entitled the holder to a pair of guest tickets. In other words, it was "Smart Money." The stores pro-rated the entire cost of bills and printing and in return the theatre placed a lobby card on display, calling attention to patrons and passersby to the opportunity and mentioning the stores. The newspaper which was tied-up with the scheme agreed to print the notices on the front page and donate a quarter page ad for the mention it received on window cards.

A little gag that did a lot to create interest in "Vanishing Legion" was a contest for the kiddies to submit as many words as possible from letters spelling the title of the serial. Free tickets to the opening chapter were given to each kid who sent in a list.

Now that you are an active contributor again Thomas, keep it up and remember that a host of your fellow showmen will be wanting to hear from you regularly about other stunts you are using to keep the Cove on the map. The holidays are all coming along within the next two months and we will all want to hear about what special exploitation plans you have in mind.

ROUND TABLE CLUB EMBLEM PIN!!!

Use This Blank:

Managers' Round Table Club
MOTION PICTURE HERALD
1790 Broadway, New York

Kindly send me, postpaid, ... Club pins, for which I enclose payment at $1.00 per pin.

Name of Member .....

Theatre .....

Address .....

City ..... State .....

FLAM MANAGING IN PENNSYLVANIA!

Dave Flam, for many years an outstanding figure in circuit operation, has assumed the management of the State Theatre in Johnstown, Pa.

There are few showmen in the business today who can match experience or background with Dave and, to us, it is a foregone conclusion that he will accomplish great things for the State Theatre.

In this era of curtailed budgets and otherwise stinted operation, he will prove that ability to exploit and promote will do more for stimulating the box office than the foolish spending of unnecessary money for purposes that are questionable insofar as getting results are concerned.

The Round Table Club wishes this member every bit of success and feels certain that he will mount the ladder rapidly. He's that kind of a showman who just won't stay in a rut. We'd like to be able to say that for a good many more.

Go to it, Dave; we're all rootin' for you—and how!

"CHICK"

Kenneth Reid Has John Hart's Old Job in Cleveland

The last time we had occasion to jot down what was going on out in Loew's Doan Theatre, Cleveland, Ohio, John Hart was at the helm of this house. Now our records show that John is operating a restaurant instead of a theatre and that Kenneth Reid has taken Hart's place as manager of this house.

However, Kenneth sends along a couple of snap-shots as evidence of what he's doing to keep the Doan on the map and we are presenting one of them on this page depicting a stunt he used as an advance ballyhoo on "Sporting Blood." Note the horse and old-style sulky that was driven all over this theatre's zone. As you will note, a banner-blanket bearing copy on picture, theatre and playdates covered the horse's back.

Another gag he pulled a short time ago when he was ballyhooing "Politics" was use of a bannered hearse with copy reading, "This man died Sunday laughing at Marie Dressler in Politics; now playing at the Doan Theatre." Maybe a little gruesome for some localities, but it certainly caught the eye and delivered the message.

Thanks for your information on Hart, Kenneth, and maybe that move of his wasn't so bad at that. Three square meals each day is always something to write home about these days, what? The Club is glad to hear that you are going along so nicely at his old stand and will look forward to hearing more about your work.

School Kids Aided Lee Goldberg Sell "Penrod and Sam"

A rather neat and inexpensive piece of exploitation is that which Lee Goldberg, Warners' zone manager in the Louisville district, turns in as having been carried out in Henderson, Ky.

Booth Tarkington's "Penrod and Sam" having been booked the Henderson man sought means of interesting the school children in the picture. He did this by getting up a card enclosed in an envelope upon which was this announcement: "Every child in Henderson should deliver this to his (or her) Mother or Father."

The enclosed card read: "Dear Mother or Dad: Please, can I go to the Kentucky Theatre Sunday or Monday and see Leon Janney and Junior Coghlan in Booth Tarkington's 'Penrod and Sam'? I really should see it. YOUR CHILD."

Every school child in Henderson was given one of the envelopes with its enclosure and the results were more than satisfying.

Johnson's Fashion Show Pulled Better Than One Last Year

Apropos of Fall Fashion Shows, we are informed that the second annual show of this kind put on by Elliott Johnson, theatre manager, artist and publicity man with Malco Theatres in Hope, Ark., pulled even better than the one he put on one year ago, all merchants entering into the spirit of the occasion with extra zest and vigor in a co-operative effort to speed up local trade.

Regarding this show he put on at the Saenger in Hope during the month of September, about twenty merchants put their shoulders to the wheel. The local paper issued a special eight page edition for the occasion, with practically the entire front devoted to an appropriate fashion mat. As an extra plug, the local club of business and professional women were tied-in with the affair as sponsors, they receiving a small percentage of the receipts. Special stage settings and backgrounds were built for the presentation and the entire show clicked along to everyone's complete satisfaction.

We've also had occasion to inspect samples of the monthly programs issued by Johnson, and to our way of thinking these are neatly gotten up. These are printed on stock for mailing purposes and are folded so that one side carries space for address and boxed institutional copy, and the other for further institutional copy. From time to time a small coupon is inserted carrying a two-for-one inducement for the out-of-towners to visit the theatre.

Just as Johnson states, Fashion Shows will make money for any showman if handled right, and at very little cost to theatre. So if you haven't put on yours, get busy and sound out your merchant friends and cash in same as this Round Tabler did. He's a busy member of this Club, doing all art work and publicity in addition to theatre management, but promises to send along some photos of fronts in the near future. We have had occasion to look over examples of work he has done in the past and know that any contribution he makes to this department will be interesting to other members.

MAGIC TRICKS

A variety of ten (10) different tricks with directions for performing: Coin tricks, card tricks, magic disappearing tricks, etc. All articles, such as coins, cards, etc., necessary to perform the trick, come packed in an envelope on which you can put your theatre imprint. Write to this department for a free sample.

How to Use Them: Hold Saturday "Trick Matinees" and give out a trick to every boy and girl. Get the newspaper to run a "trick department" during the run of your serial and let the paper give the tricks away to every fan who sends in a letter telling why he likes the chapter play.

For further information and samples write to Box 504
MANAGERS ROUND TABLE CLUB
1790 Broadway New York, N. Y.

A SEASONABLE STUNT!

Among the crop of this season's football gags the following one which is being pulled out in the Middle West has been the means of obtaining that much sought for free space in newspapers.

Several Indiana theatres are doubling up with the papers in various cities on score-guessing contests, the papers giving the publicity and generally listing ten major games on which score may be estimated. The person submitting the most correct estimate is rewarded with guest tickets.

Stubblefield Sold Short Subject With Ballyhoo And Radio

Popularity of a "torch singer" occasioned Flynn Stubblefield, manager of the Strand Theatre, Louisville, Ky., to put on extra steam in the way of publicizing "I Surrender, Dear," Bing Crosby's first Sennett comedy.

For two weeks prior to showing, the truck which you see in the photo carried large signs announcing the coming of the above picture to the Strand, travelling through all principal sections of the city. In addition to this ballyhoo, a tie-up was also effected with a local radio station, part of a chain over which Crosby broadcasts his songs. Every night, for 10 nights preceding local opening of his comedy, announcement was made during his program that those who were interested might see him at the Strand. He was also given prominent billing on the marquee.

Stubblefield's efforts in this case indicates what can be accomplished by keeping in touch with the public pulse. This singer was popular down his way and he determined to make the most of it—and did. Lots of Round Tablers are familiar with this manager's work, and while he's been missing from these pages for several weeks, we're mighty glad to welcome him back to the fold.

Phillips Arranged Novel Display For "Ten Cents Dance"

A moving display rigged up in the lobby of his theatre and later moved out in front during run of picture, helped sell "Ten Cents A Dance" for Ralph E. Phillips, manager of the State Theatre, Chattanooga, Tenn. From one of the dancing lithos on this picture he made a cutout and on this put a dress which gave the appearance of an evening gown. This was placed atop a box. A concealed electric fan made the dress flip out and actively move, catching attention from all passers-by and persons entering the lobby.

But that's not all that Phillips has been doing lately. When playing "Broadminded" he again used his lobby and this time for the display of a large shirt, such as the kind you may have seen in some haberdasher's window to advertise a certain brand of shirts. This particular shirt measured 47½ inches around the neckband and he mounted it on a large board with a large head of Joe E. Brown, with long neck out of the regular collar band. To those estimating the correct size of the shirt he gave guest tickets. He also secured a window from a local haberdasher on the strength of the display.

Both good gags and we are sure that Phillips' fellow Club members will appreciate the fact that he passed them along. The one on the dress can be made with little effort and it is quite possible that you may be able to locate a haberdasher who has on hand one of those mammoth shirts. Many of these were on display last season. Let's hear some more from you, Ralph.

Here's Your School of Showmanship!

KENNETH O. SWEET is located up in Rochester, N. Y., where he assists Edward C. May with the management of the Riviera Theatre. You remember Ed May, don't you? He's that organ-playing manager that we told you about several weeks ago. Sweet's boss is a versatile theatre man and with his brand of coaching it probably won't be long before Sweet, too, will be climbing up another notch on the ladder of success. He's already worked all the way along the line from the post of usher. So watch out for this new member.

———Wear Your Club Pin! ! !———

CLARK C. RADER has charge of the Indiana Theatre in Bedford, Ind., and he's another Publix manager to enroll as a member of this organization of showmen. Clark, we're mighty glad to introduce you to your host of brother Round Tablers and hope that you will display the same spirit as they—that of regularly sending along some show tips for others to use. Club headquarters will see that these are passed along.

———Wear Your Club Pin! ! !———

CHARLES S. ROTH is another new member of this Club and he has the job of managing the Trenton Theatre down in Lynchburg, Va. He is one of Frank Boucher's boys and his house is one of the new Warner units in this state, only being opened about a month or so ago. In line with the Club attitude toward all of Boucher's proficient managers, we are indeed glad to have this new member with us and predict that any ideas that he sends along will be well worth while.

———Wear Your Club Pin! ! !———

RUPERT N. KOBLEGARD, JR., manages the Sunrise Theatre down in sunny Fort Pierce, Fla., and we are also in receipt of his application for membership in this Club. Welcome to this showman's organization, Koblegard, and let the rest of the gang know what you are doing to put your house over.

Here's the Blank

Application For Membership In

"MANAGERS' ROUND TABLE CLUB"

Hey, "Chick":

Please enroll me in the Club and send me my framed certificate.

Name .....

Position .....

Theatre .....

Address .....

City .....

State .....

(Mail to Managers' Round Table Club, 1790 Broadway, New York)

HAROLD BARNES manages the Palace Theatre out in Burlington, Iowa, one of the links in the Central States Theatre Corp. He's another new Round Tabler and we're sure his name is familiar to a lot of showmen out in the middle west states. We're glad to have you with us, Harold, and now all you have to do to keep in good standing is to shoot along some ideas that we can broadcast to aid other members with their work.

———Wear Your Club Pin! ! !———

JACK FORNEY is also in line for an introduction to other Club members. He has the job of helping Manager Oriani with the management of the Strand Theatre down in Staunton, Va., a house under the supervision of Frank Boucher. Get the Club spirit, Jack, and keep in touch with headquarters regularly so we can get a line on what you are doing to put Strand shows over the top.

———Wear Your Club Pin! ! !———

HENRY DUGGAN is at the helm of the Ritz Theatre in Dennison, Iowa, and we are also in receipt of his application for membership in this organization. Duggan is so situated that he can keep close tab on theatrical problems in his town and we will expect him to send along some constructive show tips to pass along to his brother Round Tablers. Shoot them in, Henry, and we'll do our part.

———Wear Your Club Pin! ! !———

RALPH DAVES is another new member of this Club and he, too, is in the Virginia district supervised by Frank Boucher. Ralph is in charge of the New Theatre in Lexington where he is giving an excellent account of himself as a theatre executive. With his application at hand the Club once more gains cooperation from an accomplished showman and we will tell you more about his activities at a later date.

———Wear Your Club Pin! ! !———

W. J. ORIANI is located down in Staunton, Va., where he has charge of the Strand Theatre. He is another man in Frank Boucher's district and we are also indebted to that distinguished Round Tabler for proposing Oriani's membership in this organization. It is a well known fact that all men in Boucher's division are hustlers so we are going to look forward to receiving some worthwhile tips of what's doing in this military college town.

———Wear Your Club Pin! ! !———

G. HAROLD BURGESS has the job of assisting Wm. A. Bennett with the management of the Strand Theatre in Amsterdam, N. Y., Bennett being boss of both Strand and Rialto Theatres in this town. Burgess came to the Strand from the Rialto about two months ago and we will await his next communication in which we will expect to hear something about what he is doing to help put shows over in his city. It's a good town when the mills are clicking. How's business up there these days, Burgess?

———Wear Your Club Pin! ! !———

MAURICE BLOUIN is the manager of the Masonic Theatre in Clifton Forge, Va., and judging by the name of his house the rent must be finding its way into the coffers of a local fraternal order. He's another new member of this Club and his application was also sponsored by well known Round Tabler Frank Boucher, late of Hagerstown, Md., and now headquartering at Lynchburg, Va. Again we extend the usual welcome and hope that Blouin will come through with some good tips for his fellow showmen.

———Wear Your Club Pin! ! !———

ALBERT LAFRENTZ owns and operates the Star Theatre out in the town of Ute, Iowa, and we are glad to welcome him as a new member of this Club. As soon as you can spare the time, Al, take off a little time and tell us what you are doing in the show-selling line. We'll be awaiting your next letter.

———Wear Your Club Pin! ! !———

KENNETH R. DAVIS assists Charles Roth with the management of the new Warner Trenton Theatre in Lynchburg, Va., and we need only repeat the welcome we extended his boss to express our feelings in regard to this new Club member. Keep the old ball rolling Kenneth, and let's know what you are doing on your end of the job.

———Wear Your Club Pin! ! !———

L. E. MORROW is the owner and manager of the Morrow Theatre in Decatur, Ill., and you can guess right away that this new member operates an independent house. Yes sir, he does, and we're going to look forward to some interesting communications from this Round Tabler just as soon as he can spare the time to sit down to his desk and knock off an account of what he has been doing to boost attendance for his house. Shoot along your ideas, L. E., and we'll do the rest.

———Wear Your Club Pin! ! !———

H. B. LINDBLAD manages the Grand Theatre out in McIntosh, Minn., and his application for membership in this Club brings up the total of a large and ever-increasing contingent of Round Tablers in his state. Glad to have you with us, Lindblad, and now that you have been introduced to the rest of the gang, do your stuff. What we mean is, send along some show-selling stunts that have proved profitable to you so that your brother members may also cash in.

———Wear Your Club Pin! ! !———

CHARLES L. BAKER has charge of the Piccadilly Theatre, Columbus, Ohio, and he is another new member we want the rest of the Club to shake hands with. So step right up Charles, and the way to do this is to take a little time off some day in the near future when you are not too busy and knock off an account of what you have been doing in show-business.

———Wear Your Club Pin! ! !———

J. H. VOERSTER is the manager of the Douglas Theatre in Newman Grove, Neb., and this new member admits that he has been following this department for a long time. Now he proposes to do his share to keep these pages filled with interesting slants on the business of selling pictures. To illustrate his good intentions, he also sent along a description of a recently-pulled stunt. This will be published at the first opportunity. In the meantime, we will be on the lookout for further communications from this Round Tabler.

———Wear Your Club Pin! ! !———

E. C. GRADY is located out in Whiting, Indiana, where he manages the Hoosier Theatre, a house in the Warner chain. We have his application for membership at hand and also his request for dope on the Stage Wedding stunt, which has been duly forwarded. So meet the rest of the boys, Grady, and do your best to contribute some good, live showmanlike ideas that we can broadcast to your fellow showmen. We'll be waiting to hear from you.

THE RELEASE CHART

Productions are listed according to the names of distributors in order that the exhibitor may have a short-cut toward such information as he may need, as well as information on pictures that are coming. Features which are finished or are in work, but to which release dates have not been assigned, are listed in "Coming Attractions." Running times are those supplied by the distributors. Where they vary, the change is probably due to local censorship deletions. Dates are 1930, unless otherwise specified.

ACTION PICTURES

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Anybody's Blonde	Dorothy Reviere-Edna Murphy	Oct. 30,'31
Chinatown After Dark	Carmel Myers-Rex Lease	Oct. 15,'31	58	Oct. 31,'31
Sky Spider, The	Glenn Tryon-Beryl Mercer	Oct. 1,'31	59

BIG 4 FILM CORPORATION

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Cyclone Kid	Buzz Barton	Oct. 28,'31	60
Flying Lariats	Wally Wales	Aug. 25,'31	60
Headin' for Trouble	Bob Custer	Sept. 22,'31	60
Hell's Valley	Wally Wales	Mar. 18,'31	60
Riders of the Cactus	Wally Wales	July 7,'31	60	July 25,'31
So This Is Arizona	Wally Wales	Apr. 24,'31	60
Trapped	Stuart-Quartaro-Dean-Santschi	Apr. 14,'31	62

Coming Feature Attractions

Big City Shadows	6 reels
Blazed Trails	6 reels
Dance Hall Kisses	6 reels
Desert Spawn	6 reels
Devils Decoy	6 reels
Diamond Mystery	6 reels
Guns and Saddles	6 reels
Hard Pan Gulch	6 reels
Highway Raiders	6 reels
Lure of the Range	6 reels
Mark of the Spur	6 reels
Midnight Prowlers	6 reels
Quick Trigger Lee — Bob Custer	6 reels
Railroad Mail Limited	6 reels
Rip Roaring Broncs	6 reels
Rio Grande Raiders	6 reels

COLUMBIA

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Border Law	Buck Jones-L. Tovar	Oct. 15,'31	61
Branded	Buck Jones	Sept. 1,'31	61
Dangerous Affair, A	Holt-Graves-Blane	Sept. 30,'31	77	Sept. 5,'31
Dirigible	Holt-Gray-Wray	Apr. 4,'31	93	Mar. 14,'31
Dreyfus Case, The	Cedric Hardwicke	Aug. 28,'31	92	May 2,'31
Fifty Fathoms Deep	Richard Cromwell-Jack Holt-Loretta Sayers	Aug. 17,'31	70	Sept. 26,'31
Fighting Sheriff, The	Buck Jones-Loretta Sayers	May 15,'31	61
Good Bad Girl, The	Mae Clark-James Hall	May 20,'31	73	May 23,'31
Lightning Flyer, The	James Hall-D. Sebastian	Mar. 20,'31	64	Apr. 11,'31
Lover Come Back	Jack Mulhall-C. Cummings-B. Bronson	June 5,'31	63	June 20,'31
Man from Chicago	Bernard Nedell	Mar. 17,'31	65
Meet the Wife	Lew Cody & Laura La Plante	Apr. 17,'31	73	Apr. 4,'31
Men Are Like That (Arizona)	John Wayne-L. La Plante	June 27,'31	67	Aug. 22,'31
Middle Watch, The		Mar. 3,'31	65
Miracle Woman, The	Barbara Stanwyck	July 20,'31	87	Aug. 22,'31
One Way Trail	Tim McCoy	Oct. 15,'31	58	Oct. 31,'31
Pagan Lady	Evelyn Brent-C. Bickford-C. Nagel	Sept. 8,'31	63	Sept. 26,'31
Platinum Blonde	Young-Harlow-R. Williams	Oct. 31,'31	90
Shanghaied Love	R. Cromwell-Blane-N. Beery	Sept. 20,'31	66
Sky Raiders, The	Lloyd Hughes-Marceline Day	May 15,'31	67
Subway Express	Holt-Kelsey-Pringle	May 1,'31	68	May 9,'31
Ten Cents a Dance	Barbara Stanwyck-Cortez	Mar. 6,'31	79	Mar. 19,'31
Texas Ranger, The	Buck Jones	Apr. 10,'31	61	Apr. 25,'31

Coming Feature Attractions

Alias The Sheriff	Tim McCoy
Blonde Baby	Jean Harlow
Deadline	Buck Jones — Dec. 3,'31
Forbidden	B. Stanwyck-A. Menjou
Guilty Generation	Leo Carillo-C. Cummings-Leslie Fenton
In the Secret Service	Jack Holt
Men In Her Life, The	Lois Moran-Chas. Bickford
Range Feud	Buck Jones — Dec. 1,'31 — 56 — Oct. 3,'31
Ridin' For Justice	Buck Jones
Shopworn	Barbara Stanwyck
Shot Gun Pass	Tim McCoy
Unwanted	Lloyd Hughes-Dorothy Sebastian-Ian Keith
Yellow	Jack Holt - R. Cromwell

CONTINENTAL PICTURES CORP.

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Defenders of the Law	Catherine Dale Owen-Holland-Gleckler	May 1,'31		May 23,'31
Mystery Train, The	N. Stuart-M. Day-H. Hopper	Aug. 1,'31

Coming Feature Attractions

Air Eagles	6 reels
Hellion's Last Cruise, The	6 reels
Rose of Chinatown	6 reels
Streets of Shadows	6 reels

FIRST NATIONAL

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Bargain, The (Reviewed under title "You and I")	Lewis Stone-Doris Kenyon	Sept. 5,'31	70	Apr. 18,'31
Big Business Girl	Loretta Young-Ricardo Cortez	July 4,'31	80	Mar. 14,'31
Broadminded	Joe E. Brown	Aug. 1,'31	72	Apr. 11,'31
Chances	Douglas Fairbanks, Jr.	July 18,'31	72	May 9,'31
Father's Son	Janney-Stone-Rich	Mar. 7,'31	77	Oct. 4
Finger Points, The	Barthelmess-Wray	Apr. 11,'31	88	Mar. 21,'31
Five Star Final	Edward G. Robinson	Sept. 26,'31	89	June 27,'31
Honor of the Family	Bebe Daniels	Oct. 17,'31	66	Oct. 24,'31
Hot Heiress, The	Lyon-Munson	Mar. 28,'31	78	Jan. 24,'31
I Like Your Nerve	D. Fairbanks, Jr.-L. Young	Sept. 12,'31	70	Sept. 19,'31
Lady Who Dared	Billie Dove	May 29,'31	56
Last Flight	Richard Barthelmess	Aug. 29,'31	77	Sept. 12,'31
Misbehaving Ladies	Lee-Lyon	Apr. 18,'31	72	Mar. 14,'31
Men of the Sky	Irene Delroy-Jack Whiting	June 20,'31	86
Party Husband	Dorothy Mackaill	June 6,'31	68	Apr. 18,'31
Penrod and Sam	Leon Janney	Oct. 3,'31	71	Aug. 29,'31
Reckless Hour	Dorothy Mackaill-Conrad Nagel	Aug. 15,'31	72	May 2,'31
Ruling Voice, The	Huston-Young-Kenyon	Oct. 31,'31	76
Too Young to Marry	Young-Withers	May 8,'31	68	Nov. 28

Coming Feature Attractions

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Alias the Doctor	Richard Barthelmess
Captain's Wife, The	Lil Dagover
Compromised	Ben Lyon-Rose Hobart	Dec. 5,'31		Sept. 12,'31
Fireman, Save My Child	Joe E. Brown
Her Majesty, Love	Marilyn Miller-Ben Lyon	Dec. 26,'31
Honorable Mr. Wong	Edw. G. Robinson
Local Boy Makes Good	Joe E. Brown	Nov. 21,'31		Oct. 3,'31
Safe In Hell	Dorothy Mackaill	Dec. 12,'31
Union Depot	D. Fairbanks,Jr.-J. Blondell	Nov. 28,'31

FOX FILMS

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Always Goodbye	Landi-Stone	May 24,'31	60	Apr. 25,'31
Annabelle's Affairs	McLaglen-MacDonald	June 14,'31	75	May 30,'31
Are You There?	Lillie-Garrick	May 3,'31	60	Nov. 28
Bad Girl	James Dunn-Sally Eilers	Sept. 13,'31	88	July 18,'31
Black Camel	Warner Oland-Eilers	June 21,'31	71	May 15,'31
Brat, The	Sally O'Neil-F. Albertson	Sept. 20,'31	67	July 25,'31
Charlie Chan Carries On	Oland-Churchill	Apr. 12,'31	69	Mar. 28,'31
Cisco Kid, The	Baxter-Lowe-Montenegro	Nov. 1,'31	61	Oct. 10,'31
Connecticut Yankee, A	Will Rogers	Apr. 5,'31	96	Mar. 21,'31
Daddy Long Legs	Gaynor-Baxter	June 7,'31	80	May 23,'31
Doctors' Wives	Baxter-Bennett	Mar. 15,'31	82	Apr. 4,'31
Goldie	Harlow-S. Tracy-W. Hymer	June 28,'31	68	July 11,'31
Heartbreak	C. Farrell-H. Albright	Nov. 8,'31		Oct. 10,'31
Holy Terror, A	George O'Brien-S. Eilers	July 19,'31	53	July 25,'31
Hush Money	J. Bennet - J. Kirkwood-Hardie Allbright	July 5,'31	69	June 13,'31
Merely Mary Ann	Gaynor-Farrell	Sept. 6,'31	75	Aug. 1,'31
Mr. Lemon of Orange	Brendel-Dorsay	Mar. 22,'31	67	Mar. 7,'31
Not Exactly Gentlemen	McLaglen-Wray-Cody-Gribbon	Mar. 8,'31	61	Apr. 11,'31
Quick Millions	Tracy-Churchill-Eilers	May 3,'31	70	Apr. 4,'31
Riders of the Purple Sage	G. O'Brien-M. Churchill	Oct. 18,'31	57	Sept. 19,'31
6 Cylinder Love (Reviewed under title "The Minute Man")	Spencer Tracey - Merkel	May 10,'31	70	Apr. 18,'31
Skyline	T. Meighan - H. Albright-Maureen O'Sullivan	Oct. 11,'31	70	Aug. 22,'31
Sob Sister	J. Dunn - Linda Watkins	Oct. 25,'31	71	Sept. 26,'31
Spider, The	Edmund Lowe-Lois Moran	Sept. 27,'31	60	Aug. 22,'31
Spy, The	Hamilton-Johnson	Apr. 26,'31	68
Their Mad Moment	Baxter-Mackaill-Pitts	July 12,'31	57
5 Girls Lost	Wayne-Young	Apr. 19,'31	71	Apr. 18,'31
Transatlantic	Edmund Lowe-Lois Moran	Aug. 30,'31	73	July 18,'31
Wicked	V. McLaglen-Elissa Landi	Oct. 4,'31	55	Aug. 8,'31
Women of All Nations	McLaglen-Lowe-Nissen	May 31,'31	72	May 30,'31
Yellow Ticket, The	Elissa Landi-L. Barrymore	Nov. 15,'31	78	Oct. 17,'31
Young As You Feel	Will Rogers-Dorsay	Aug. 23,'31	78	Apr. 18,'31
Young Sinners	Meighan-Jordan-Kirkwood	May 17,'31	70

Coming Feature Attractions

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Alimony Queens	Baxter-Bennett
Ambassador Bill	Will Rogers	Nov. 22,'31		Oct. 24,'31
Business and Pleasure	Will Rogers-Ietta Goudal
Charlie Chan's Chance	Warner Oland
Circumstances	Violet Heming - Paul Cavanaugh
Dance Team	James Dunn - Sally Eilers
Delicious	Gaynor-Farrell	Dec. 27,'31
Devil's Lottery	Sally Eilers - C. Farrell
Disorderly Conduct	Ralph Bellamy-Spencer Tracy
First Cabin	Ralph Morgan-Sally O'Neil
Good Sport	Linda Watkins-John Boles	Dec. 13,'31
Heart Free (Tent.)	Janet Gaynor
Over the Hill	Dunn-Eilers-Marsh-Crandall-Kirkwood-Lane	Nov. 29,'31		Oct. 31,'31
Rainbow Trail	Geo. O'Brien-Cecilia Parker	Jan. 3,'32
She Wanted a Millionaire	J. Bennett-S. Tracy
Stepping Sisters	Louise Dresser-M. Rambeau
Surrender	Warner Baxter-Leila Hyams	Dec. 6,'31
Swindle	Spencer Tracy-J. Kirkwood
While Paris Sleeps	McLaglan-Helen Mack
Widow's Might	Warner Baxter
Young America	Maureen O'Sullivan

METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Cuban Love Song, The	L. Tibbett-L. Velez	Oct. 31,'31		Oct. 24,'31
Daybreak	Ramon Novarro	May 2,'31	76	Apr. 18,'31
Five and Ten	Marion Davies	June 13,'31	89	June 13,'31
Free Soul, A	Norma Shearer-Leslie Howard	June 20,'31	92	Apr. 25,'31
Gentleman's Fate	Gilbert-Wolheim	Mar. 7,'31	93	Jan. 31,'31
Great Lover, The	A. Menjou	July 18,'31	71	July 4,'31
Guardsman, The	Lunt-Fontanne-Z. Pitts	Dec. 19,'31	81	Aug. 8,'31
Guilty Hands	L. Barrymore-M. Evans	Aug. 22,'31	68	July 18,'31
Just a Gigolo (Reviewed under title "Dancing Partner")	William Haines	June 6,'31	67	Apr. 25,'31
Laughing Sinners	J. Crawford-N. Hamilton	May 30,'31	72	June 6,'31

(THE RELEASE CHART--CONT'D)

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Man in Possession, The	Robert Montgomery	July 4,'31	84	June 13,'31
Never the Twain Shall Meet	Montenegro-Smith-Howard	May 16,'31	80	May 30,'31
New Adventures of Get Rich Quick Wallingford, The	Wm. Haines	Oct. 3,'31	94	Sept. 19,'31
Pardon Us	Laurel-Hardy	Aug. 15,'31	55	Aug. 29,'31
Phantom of Paris, The	John Gilbert-Leila Hyams	Sept. 12,'31	74
Politics	Dressler-Moran	July 25,'31	73	July 4,'31
Secret Six, The	Beery-Harlow	Apr. 18,'31	83	Apr. 25,'31
Shipmates	Montgomery-Jordan-Torrence	Apr. 25,'31	72	Mar. 28,'31
Son of India	Ramon Novarro	Aug. 1,'31	73	Aug. 1,'31
Sidewalks of New York	Buster Keaton	Sept. 26,'31	71	Aug. 15,'31
Sin of Madelon Claudet, The	Helen Hayes-Lewis Stone (Reviewed under title "The Lullaby")	Oct. 24,'31		Oct. 3,'31
Sporting Blood	Clark Gable-M. Evans	Aug. 8,'31	84	July 18,'31
Squaw Man, The	Roland Young-Valez-Baxter	Sept. 5,'31	106
Stepping Out	Denny-Greenwood-Hyams	Apr. 11,'31	73	Mar. 21,'31
Strangers May Kiss	Norma Shearer	Apr. 4,'31	77	Feb. 28,'31
Susan Lenox, Her Fall and Rise	Greta Garbo-Clark Gable	Oct. 10,'31		July 18,'31
Tailor Made Man, A	William Haines	Mar. 28,'31	80	Mar. 7,'31
This Modern Age	Joan Crawford	Aug. 29,'31	68	June 13,'31

Coming Feature Attractions

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Boarding School	Madge Evans-Jordan-Page
Champ, The	Wallace Beery-Jackie Cooper	Nov. 7,'31		Oct. 17,'31
Courage	Robert Montgomery
Emma	Marie Dressler	Jan. 2,'32
Family Affair, A	Robert Montgomery
Flying High	Bert Lahr			Oct. 24,'31
Freaks
Grand Hotel
Hell Divers	Beery-Rambeau	Dec. 5,'31
Her Cardboard Lover
Limpy
Mati Hari	Greta Garbo-R. Navarro	Dec. 26,'31
Possessed	Joan Crawford-Clark Gable	Nov. 14,'31		Oct. 31,'31
Private Lives	N. Shearer-R. Montgomery	Nov. 28,'31
Sky Scraper	Madge Evans - Robt. Young
Tarzan
West of Broadway	J. Gilbert-Brendel-L. Moran	Dec. 12,'31		Aug. 22,'31

MONOGRAM PICTURES CORPORATION

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Dugan of the Badlands	Bill Cody	June 27,'31	60	Aug. 8,'31
In Line of Duty	Sue Carol-Noah Beery	Oct. 1,'31	64	Oct. 10,'31
Land of Wanted Men	Bill Cody	Oct. 30,'31
Man from Death Valley, The	Tom Tyler	Sept. 1,'31	62
Montana Kid, The	Bill Cody	Aug. 10,'31	60
Mother and Son	Clara K. Young	Aug. 1,'31	60	Aug. 22,'31
Oklahoma Jim	Bill Cody	Oct. 10,'31	60
Partners of the Trail	Tom Tyler	July 11,'31	64	Sept. 5,'31
Ships of Hate	L. Hughes-D. Sebastian	June 20,'31	65	Aug. 8,'31
Two Fisted Justice	Tom Tyler	Oct. 20,'31

Coming Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Forgotten Women	M. Shilling-Rex Bell	Nov. 10,'31	7 reels
Law of the Sea	All Star	Nov. 15,'31	7 reels

PARAMOUNT PUBLIX

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
An American Tragedy	Phillips Holmes-Sylvia Sidney-Frances Dee	Aug. 22,'31	95	June 6,'31
Beloved Bachelor	Paul Lukas-D. Jordan	Oct. 24,'31	74	Oct. 3,'31
Caught	Richard Arlen-L. Dresser	Aug. 8,'31	68	July 4,'31
City Streets	Sylvia Sidney-Gary Cooper	Apr. 18,'31	80	Apr. 11,'31
Confessions of a Co-Ed	P. Holmes-Sylvia Sidney	July 11,'31	75
Conquering Horde, The	Arlen-Wray	Mar. 7,'31	72	Feb. 21,'31
Daughter of the Dragon	Warner Oland-Anna May Wong	Sept. 5,'31	79	Aug. 8,'31
Dude Ranch, The	Jack Oakie	May 16,'31	67	Apr. 18,'31
Girl Habit, The	Charles Ruggles	June 27,'31	77	July 11,'31
Girls About Town	Kay Francis-L. Tashman	Oct. 3,'31		Oct. 17,'31
Gun Smoke	Arlen-Brian	Apr. 11,'31	64	Mar. 14,'31
Honeymoon Lane	Eddie Dowling	July 25,'31	71	July 11,'31
Honor Among Lovers	Colbert-March-Ruggles	Mar. 21,'31	75	Mar. 7,'31
Huckleberry Finn	J. Coogan-Mitzi Green	Aug. 15,'31	80	Aug. 1,'31
I Take This Woman	Gary Cooper-Carole Lombard	June 27,'31	74
June Moon	Jack Oakie-Frances Dee	Mar. 21,'31	70	Feb. 28,'31
Kick In	Clara Bow	May 23,'31	74	Apr. 25,'31
Ladies' Man	Wm. Powell-Kay Francis	May 9,'31	75	Apr. 4,'31
Lawyers' Secret, The	Clive Brook	June 6,'31	63	May 23,'31
Mad Parade	E. Brent-L. Tashman	Oct. 3,'31	64	May 2,'31
Magnificent Lie	Ruth Chatterton	July 25,'31	79	July 25,'31
Man of the World	Wm. Powell-Lombard	Mar. 28,'31	70	Mar. 7,'31
Monkey Business	Four Marx Bros.	Sept. 19,'31	77	Aug. 1,'31
Murder by the Clock	Wm. Boyd-L. Tashman	Aug. 8,'31	74	July 4,'31
My Sin	Tallulah Bankhead-March	Oct. 3,'31	78	Sept. 19,'31
Newly Rich	Mitzi Green-Jackie Searl (Also booked as "Forbidden Adventure")	June 20,'31	77	June 6,'31
Night Angel	Nancy Carroll-Fred March	July 18,'31	71	July 11,'31
Once a Lady	Ruth Chatterton	Nov. 7,'31		Oct. 17,'31
Personal Maid	Nancy Carroll	Sept. 12,'31	77	Sept. 12,'31
Rango		Mar. 7,'31	64	Jan. 24,'31
Road to Reno	Charles Rogers	Oct. 17,'31	73	Sept. 5,'31
Secret Call, The	Peggy Shannon-Richard Arlen	July 25,'31	73
Secrets of a Secretary	C. Colbert	Sept. 5,'31	75
Silence	Clive Brook-Peggy Shannon	Aug. 29,'31	68	July 25,'31
Skippy	Mitzi Green-Jackie Searl-Jackie Cooper	Apr. 25,'31	88	Mar. 21,'31
Smiling Lieutenant, The	M. Chevalier-C. Colbert	Aug. 1,'31	89	July 11,'31
Tabu	South Sea Island natives and Chinese half castes	Aug. 1,'31	81	Mar. 21,'31
Tarnished Lady	C. Brook-Tallulah Bankhead	May 2,'31	80	May 9,'31
Twenty-Four Hours	C. Brook-Kay Francis	Oct. 10,'31	68	Sept. 12,'31
Up Pops the Devil	N. Foster-Carole Lombard	May 30,'31	75
Vice Squad	Lukas-Francis	June 13,'31	70	May 9,'31
Women Love Once	Lucas-Boardman-Tashman	July 4,'31	73	July 4,'31

Coming Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Cheat, The	T. Bankhead	Nov. 28,'31
Dance Palace	Miriam Hopkins-Chas. Rogers
Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde	Fredric March-M. Hopkins	Jan. 2,'32
Evenings for Sale	Paul Lukas	Jan. 30,'32
False Madonna, The	Kay Francis-Wm. Boyd	Dec. 19,'31
Her Confession (Tent.)	C. Colbert-Wm. Boyd	Jan. 23,'32
His Woman	G. Cooper-C. Colbert	Nov. 21,'31
Husband's Holiday	Clive Brook - V. Osborne	Dec. 5,'31
Ladies of the Big House	Sylvia Sidney-Wynne Gibson	Dec. 19,'31
Man I Killed, The	Lionel Barrymore-Nancy Carrol-Phillips Holmes	Nov. 28,'31
No One Man	R. Arlen-C. Lombard	Jan. 30,'32
One Hour With You	Maurice Chevalier-Jeanette MacDonald-Genevieve Tobin
Rich Man's Folly	G. Bancroft-Kay Francis	Nov. 14,'31
Second Chances	Buddy Rogers Peggy Shannon	Jan. 9,'32
Shanghai Express	Marlene Dietrich-C. Brook	Jan. 16,'32
Ship Shape (Tent.)	Jack Oakie, Mitzi Green. Wynne Gibson	Jan. 30,'32
Spooky	Jackie Cooper - Robt. Coogan-J. Searl	Dec. 26,'31
Through the Window	G. Bancroft-E. Boardman
Touchdown	R. Arlen-C. Starrett-J. Oakie	Nov. 14,'31		Oct. 31,'31
Two Kinds of Women	P. Holmes-M. Hopkins
Wayward	Nancy Carroll-Richard Arlen	Jan. 9,'32
Woman Against Woman	Tallulah Bankhead
Working Girls	P. Shannon-S. Erwin-Buddy Rogers	Dec. 12,'31

PEERLESS PRODUCTIONS, INC.

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Lovebound	Marion Nixon - Neil Hamilton - Sally Blane	Dec. 10,'31
Sea Ghost, The	L. La Plante-Alan Hale	Nov. 1,'31
Sporting Chance, The	Wm. Collier, Jr.-Claudia Dell-James Hall	Nov. 21,'31

RKO PATHE

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Bad Company	Helen Twelvetrees	Oct. 2,'31	75	Sept. 12,'31
Beyond Victory	Boyd	Apr. 12,'31	73	Apr. 18,'31
Big Gamble, The	Bill Boyd	Sept. 4,'31	63	Sept. 26,'31
Born to Love	Constance Bennett	Apr. 17,'31	99
Common Law	Constance Bennett	July 24,'31	77	July 25,'31
Devotion	Ann Harding	Sept. 25,'31	84	Sept. 26,'31
Freighters of Destiny	Tom Keene	Oct. 30,'31	60	Oct. 31,'31
Painted Desert	Boyd-Twelvetrees	Jan. 18,'31	85	Jan. 17,'31
Rebound	Ina Claire	Sept. 18,'31	91	June 13,'31
Sundown Trail	Tom Keene-M. Shilling	Sept. 11,'31	55	Oct. 24,'31
Sweepstakes	Eddie Quillan-Marion Nixon	July 10,'31	77	June 13,'31
Tip Off, The	E. Quillan-R. Armstrong	Oct. 16,'31	75	Oct. 31,'31
Woman of Experience	Helen Twelvetrees	Aug. 7,'31	76	Apr. 25,'31

Coming Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Bad Timber	Bill Boyd	Jan. 22,'32
Big Shot, The	Eddie Quillan	Dec. 18,'31
Lady with a Past	Constance Bennett	Nov. 6,'31
Pick Up	Helen Twelvetrees
Prestige	Ann Harding	Dec. 25,'31
Suicide Fleet, The	Boyd-Armstrong-Gleason	Nov. 20,'31
Woman Commands	Pola Negri
Women Need Love	Ann Harding

RKO RADIO PICTURES

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Behind Office Doors	Astor-Ames-Cortez	Mar. 15,'31	82	Jan. 31,'31
Caught Plastered	(Reviewed under title "Private Secretary") Wheeler-Woolsey-D. Lee	Sept. 5,'31	68	June 27,'31
Consolation Marriage	(Reviewed under the title "Full of Notions") Irene Dunne-Pat O'Brien	Nov. 7,'31	81	Sept. 5,'31
Donovan's Kid	Richard Dix-Shilling-Sheridan-Jackie Cooper	June 6,'31	77	May 9,'31
Everything's Rosie	Robert Woolsey-Anita Louise	June 13,'31	76	May 9,'31
Fanny Foley Herself	Edna May Oliver	Oct. 10,'31	72	Aug. 15,'31
Friends and Lovers	Lily Damita-Adolph Menjou-Erie Von Stroheim	Oct. 3,'31	68	Aug. 15,'31
Gay Diplomat, The	G. Tobin-B. Compson-I. Lebedeff	Sept. 19,'31	67	Aug. 1,'31
High Stakes	(Reviewed under the title "Woman Pursued") Lowell Sherman-Mae Murray	Aug. 18,'31	69	May 9,'31
Lady Refuses, The	Betty Compson-John Darrow	Mar. 8,'31	72
Laugh and Get Rich	Edna May Oliver-Dorothy Lee	Apr. 20,'31	72	Mar. 7,'31
Perfect Alibi	All Star	Apr. 1,'31	76
Public Defender, The	Richard Dix	Aug. 1,'31	70
Runaround, The	Kerr. Prevost. Brian. Hines	Aug. 22,'31	68	May 9,'31
Sin Ship, The	(Reviewed under the title "Waiting at the Church") Welheim-Mary Aster-Ian Keith	Apr. 18,'31	65
Smart Woman	Mary Astor-Rob't Ames	Sept. 26,'31	68	Aug. 1,'31
Three Who Loved	B. Compson-R. Ames-C. Nagel	July 3,'31	78	June 13,'31
Too Many Cooks	Bert Wheeler-Dorothy Lee	July 18,'31	77	Aug. 22,'31
Transgression	Kay Francis-Ricardo Cortez	June 27,'31	69
Traveling Husbands	Evelyn Brent	Aug. 15,'31	74	May 2,'31
White Shoulders	Aster-Cortez-Holt	June 6,'31	81	May 30,'31
W. Plan, The	All Star	Mar. 15,'31	98	Apr. 4,'31
Women Between, The	Lily Damita-Lester Vail	Aug. 8,'31	73	Apr. 25,'31

Coming Feature Attractions

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Are These Our Children?	Eric Linden-Rochelle Hudson-Arlene Judge	Nov. 14,'31	83	Oct. 17,'31
Chi Chi and Her Papas	Lily Damita
Dove, The	Dolores Del Rio-Leo Carillo
Exposed	Mary Aster-Ricardo Cortez
Frontier	Dix-Dunne
Girl Crazy	Wheeler-Lee-Woolsey
Hullabaloo	Irene Dunne-Laurence Oliver
Ladies of the Jury	Edna May Oliver
Lost Squadron, The	Richard Dix
Other Passport, The	Irene Dunne
Peach O' Reno	Woolsey-Wheeler
Secret Service	Dix - Shirley Grey	Nov. 14,'31	68	Oct. 10,'31
Should Wives Work	Mary Astor-Rob't Ames
Way Back Home	Phillips 'Seth Parker" Lord (Reviewed under the title "Other People's Business")	Nov. 13,'31	81	Oct. 3,'31

SONO ART-WORLD WIDE

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Air Police	Kenneth Harlan-J. Dunn	Apr. 1,'31	60	Mar. 21,'31
First Aid	Gr. Withers-Marjorie Beebe	July 25,'31	65
Hell Bent for 'Frisco	Delaney-Reynolds	July 10,'31	65	July 18,'31
In Old Cheyenne	Rex Lease-Dorothy Gulliver	May 25,'31	62	June 20,'31
Is There Justice?	Rex Lease, Walthall, Blanche Mehaffey	Oct. 4,'31	62	Oct. 3,'31
Mounted Fury	J. Bowers-Blanche Mehaffey	Dec. 4,'31	65
Neck and Neck	Glenn Tryon-Vera Reynolds	Nov. 4,'31	63
Symphony in Two Flats	Novello-Logan	Apr. 15,'31	74
Swanee River	Withers-Todd	Mar. 15,'31	58	Jan. 31,'31

STATE RIGHTS

Features

Title	Star	Dist'r	Running Time Rel. Date	Minutes	Reviewed
Alibi	Austin Trevor	Gaumont-W & F		74	May 30,'31
Alice in Wonderland	Ruth Gilbert	Unique Foto Film	Sept. 30,'31	55	Sept. 26,'31
Almost a Divorce	Nelson Keys	Gaumont-W & F		60	Sept. 19,'31
Black Coffee	Austin Trevor	Twickenham Films, Ltd.		79	Sept. 12,'31
Cain and Artem	Emil Gall	Sovkino
Chance of a Night Time	Ralph Lynn	Gaumont-W & F			June 13,'31

(THE RELEASE CHART--CONT'D

Title	Star	Dist'r	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Convicted	Aileen Pringle	Artclass Pictures	Oct.		3,'31
Das Cabinet Des Dr. Lari Fari		George Schneider
Das Rheinlandmaedel	Gretl Berndt	Capitol	Sept. 17,'31	70	Sept. 26,'31
Deadlock	Stewart Rome	Butchers Film Service		85	Sept. 26,'31
Der Grosse Tenor	Emil Jannings	Ufa Film			June 6,'31
Der Liebesexpress	George Alexander	Foreign Talking Pictures	June 15,'31	86
Die Feerster Christi	Irene Eisinger	Trans-Ocean Film		94	July 4,'31
Dolly Gets Ahead	Dolly Haas	Ufa Film	July 17,'31	94	Aug. 1,'31
Express 13	Heinz Koenecke	Ufa	Aug. 7,'31	65	Aug. 22,'31
Flute Concert of Sanssouci	Otto Gebuehr	Ufa	Oct. 16,'31	82	Oct. 24,'31
Enemies of the Law	M. Nolan-J. Walker	Capital Films	July 21,'31	69	July 18,'31
Glamour	Wardour Films	Seymour Hicks		73	July 4,'31
Ghost Train, The	Jack Hulbert	Gainsborough-Gaumont		70	Oct. 10,'31
Great Passion, The	Camilla Horn	Tobis	Oct. 7,'31	90	Oct. 24,'31
Grief Street	Jean Royce	Chesterfield		65	Oct. 24,'31
Hard Hombre	Hoot Gibson	Allied Pictures			Aug. 22,'31
Hindle Wakes	Belle Chrystall	Gaumont-Gainsborough		79	Oct. 10,'31
Hobson's Choice	Viola Lyel	British Int'n't'l.		65	Oct. 24,'31
Inn at the Rhine, The	Kaethe Dorsch	Associated Cinemas of America.	Sept. 23,'31	90	Oct. 17,'31
Jew at War, A	Venimin Zuskin	Ukrainfilm		71	Aug. 1,'31
Karamazov	Fritz Kortner	Tobis Forenfilm.	Sept. 18,'31	81	Oct. 10,'31
Lawless Woman, The	Vera Reynolds	Chesterfield	June 15,'31	63	July 4,'31
Let's Love and Laugh	Gene Gerrard	Wardour Film		84	May 30,'31
Lightnin' Smith Returns	Buddy Roosevelt	Standard	Aug. 15,'31	59	Aug. 22,'31
Love Storm, The	Fay Compton	British Int'n't'l.	Oct. 16,'31	62	Oct. 24,'31
Love Waltz, The	Willy Fritsch	Ufa Film	May 15,'31
Maelste in Hell	Bartolomeo Pagano	Excelsior Pictures Corp.			July 11,'31
Mad Parade, The	M. Day-L. Fazenda	Liberty Prod.			May 2,'31
Merry Wives of Vienna	Willy Forst	Super Films	July 9,'31	95	July 18,'31
Naples and Sorrento		Italian Star Film Prod.		78
Night Life in Reno	Virginia Valli	Artclass Pictures Corp.			Aug. 8,'31
No Lady	Lupino Lane	Gaumont-British.		72	May 30,'31
Nur Am Rhein	Daisy D'Ora	Foreign Talking Pictures	Oct. 1,'31	85
Pagliacci	Italian Opera	Audio Cinema			Mar. 7,'31
Pueblo Terror	Buffalo Bill, Jr.	West Coast Studios	Apr. 15,'31	60	Apr. 11,'31
Puppet, The	Max Hansen			8 reels
Queen of Sparta, The		Italafilm		9 reels
Queen's Necklace		Protex		9 reels
Road to Hell		Public Welfare Films			July 4,'31
Sally in Our Alley	Gracie Fields	Ass. Radio Pictures		77	July 25,'31
Shadow Between, The	Kathleen O'Regan-Godfrey Tearle	British Int'nat'l.		88	Sept. 19,'31
Sherlock Holmes' Fatal Hour	Arthur Wontner	First Division			July 18,'31
Student's Song of Heidelberg	Willy Forst-Betty Bird	Ufa			Sept. 19,'31
Susanne Macht Ordnung	Truus Van Alten	Foreign Talking Pictures	Oct. 15,'31	82
Ten Nights in a Barroom		Goetz		8 reels
Terror by Night	Una Merkel, Wm. Collier, Jr.	J. G. Bachman			Oct. 17,'31.
These Charming People	Cyril Maude	Para. Film Service, Ltd.		85	Aug. 8,'31
Three from Filling Station	Willy Fritsch	Ufa		75	July 4,'31
Tilly of Bloomsbury	Sydney Howard	Sterling			May 16,'31
Up for the Cup	John W. Entwhistle	Gaumont-British			Oct. 10,'31
Viking, The	C. Starrett	J. D. Williams		72	June 20,'31
Wild Horse	Hoot Gibson	Allied Pictures			July 11,'31

SERIALS

NAT LEVINE

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Eagle's Shadow, The			12 episodes
Galloping Ghost, The	Harold Red Grange	Sept. 1,'31.	12 episodes
Lightning Warrior, The	Rin Tin Tin		12 episodes
Vanishing Legion, The	Harry Carey-Edwin Booth	June 10,'31.	12 episodes.	July 25,'31

SYNDICATE PICTURES CORPORATION

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Mystery Trooper, The	Robt. Frazer-B. Mehaffy	Apr. 1,'31.	10 episodes

UNIVERSAL

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Battling with Buffalo Bill	Tom Tyler-Rex Bell	Nov. 28,'31.	12 episodes.	Oct. 3,'31
Danger Island	Ken. Harlan-Lucille Brown	Aug. 24,'31.	12 episodes.	Aug. 1,'31
Heroes of the Flames	Tim McCoy	June 2,'31.	12 episodes
Spell of the Circus	F. Bushman, Jr.-A. Vaughn	Jan. 12,'31.	10 episodes

SYNDICATE PICTURES CORPORATION

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
God's Country and the Man	Tom Tyler	May	1,'31	67
Law of the Rio Grande	Bob Custer	July	20,'31	58	Aug. 15,'31
Riders of the North	Bob Custer	Mar.	1,'31	67	Apr. 11,'31
Rider of the Plains, A	Tom Tyler	Apr.	1,'31	61	May 9,'31
Son of the Plains, A	Bob Custer	May	15,'31	60	July 11,'31

TIFFANY

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Alias the Bad Man	Ken Maynard	July	15,'31	66	Aug. 15,'31
Arizona Terror, The	Ken Maynard	Sept.	1,'31	64	Oct. 17,'3
Leftover Ladies	Claudia Dell-M. Rambeau	Oct.	1,'31	70	Oct. 3,'31
Morals for Women	Bessie Love	Oct.	25,'31	70
Murder at Midnite	Alice White-Hale Hamilton	Sept.	1,'31	69	Oct. 10,'31
Near the Trail's End	Bob Steele	Sept.	20,'31	58
Nevada Buckaroo	Bob Steele	Sept.	27,'31	64
Range Law	Ken Maynard	Oct.	11,'31	63
Riding Fool	Bob Steele	May	25,'31	64	June 20,'31
Salvation Nell	Graves-Chandler	July	1,'31	85	July 11,'31
South of Santa Fe	Bob Steele	Sept.	15,'31
Two Gun Man, The	Ken Maynard	May	15,'31	63	June 13,'31
Women Go on Forever	Clara Kimball Young	Aug.	15,'31	78	July 18,'31

Coming Feature Attractions

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Branded Men	Ken Maynard	Nov.	8,'31
Fighting Mad	Ken Maynard	Dec.	6,'31
Hotel Continental		Jan.	17,'32
Last Mile, The		Dec.	13,'31
Luxury Girls		Mar.	30,'32
Race Track	Lee Carrillo	Nov.	1,'31
Riders of the West	Bob Steele
Silent Thunder		Apr.	17,'32
Strangers of the Evening		Apr.	31,'32
Sunset Trail	Ken Maynard	Jan.	3,'32
Those We Love		Feb.	14,'32
X Marks the Spot	Lew Cody-Sally Blane	Dec.	27,'31

UNITED ARTISTS

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Age for Love, The	Billie Dove	Oct.	17,'31	80	Aug. 29,'31
Corsair	Chester Morris	Oct.	28,'31	75
Front Page	Adolphe Menjou	Apr.	4,'31	90	Mar. 28,'31
Indiscreet	Gloria Swanson	Apr.	25,'31	94	Mar. 14,'31
Palmy Days	Eddie Cantor	Oct.	3,'31	80	Sept. 5,'31
Street Scene	S. Sidney-W. Collier, Jr.	Sept.	5,'31	80	Aug. 22,'31
Unholy Garden, The	Ronald Colman	Oct.	10,'31	75	Aug. 8,'31

Coming Feature Attractions

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Arrowsmith	Ronald Colman	Dec.	26,'31
Cock of the Air	Billie Dove-Chester Morris	Oct.	7,'31
Greeks Had a Word for It	Ina Claire-M. Evans-Blondell	Feb.	13,'31
Kid From Spain, The	Lily Damita - Eddie Cantor
Scarface	Paul Muni	Nov.	28,'31
Sons O' Guns	Lily Damita - Al Jolson
Sky Devils	All Star	Jan.	9,'32
Struggle, The	Zita Johann-Hal Skelly	Nov.	14,'31
Tonight or Never	Gloria Swanson	Dec.	12,'31

UNIVERSAL

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Bad Sister	Nagel-Fox-Davis	Mar.	23,'31	67	Mar. 14,'31
East of Borneo	Rose Hobart-Chas. Bickford	Sept.	15,'31	74	Oct. 3,'31
Ex-Bad Boy	R. Armstrong-Jean Arthur	July	15,'31	66
Graft	Regis Toomey-Sue Carol	Sept.	21,'31	54	Aug. 15,'31
Homicide Squad	L. Carrillo-M. Brian-N. Beery	Sept.	29,'31	69	Aug. 1,'31
Iron Man, The	Lew Ayres	Apr.	30,'31	72	Mar. 28,'31
Lasca of the Rio Grande	Leo Carillo	Nov.	2,'31	65	July 25,'31
Many a Slip	Ayres-Bennett	Mar.	2,'31	74	Feb. 28,'31
Mother's Millions	May Robson	Aug.	15,'31	93	Feb. 28,'31
Mystery of Life	Clarence Darrow	Aug.	3,'31	73	July 11,'31
Reckless Living	Mae Clarke-Norman Foster	Oct.	20,'31	68	Sept. 12,'31
Seed	John Boles-Genevieve Tobin	May	11,'31	97	Apr. 25,'31
Spirit of Notre Dame	Lew Ayres	Oct.	13,'31	78	Sept. 26,'31
Strictly Dishonorable	Paul Lukas-Sidney Fox	Dec.	26,'31	81
Up for Murder	Ayres-Tobin	June	15,'31	70
Waterloo Bridge	Mae Clarke-Kent Douglass	Sept.	1,'31	81	Aug. 8,'31

Coming Feature Attractions

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Back Street	Rose Hobart
Barbary Coast
Blue Blazes
Bullet Proof
Cohens & Kellys in Hollywood	G. Sidney - C. Murray
Destry Rides Again	Tom Mix
Eagles	Lew Ayres
Fate
Frankenstein	Colin Clive-Mae Clarke	Nov.	21,'31
Gallows	Lew Ayres-Rose Hobart
Great Air Robbery
House Divided, The	W. Huston-M. Chandler	Nov.	28,'31
Heaven on Earth	Lew Ayres-Anita Louise	Dec.	12,'31	Oct. 3,'31
Impatient Maiden	Sidney Fox
Lady of Resource	Rose Hobart
Law and Order	Walter Huston-Lois Wilson	Dec.	26,'31
Marriage Interlude	John Boles, Lois Wilson, Sidney Fox
Murders in the Rue Morgue	Bela Lugosi-Sidney Fox
Nice Women	Sidney Fox-Frances Dee	Dec.	5,'31
Oh, Promise Me
Unexpected Father, The	Slim Summerville-Zazu Pitts

WARNER BROTHERS

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Alexander Hamilton	George Arliss	Sept. 12,'31	71	June 13,'31
Beggars Opera, The	Rudolph Forster	June '31	114
Bought!	Constance Bennett-Ben Lyon	Aug. 22,'31	83	July 18,'31
Captain Thunder	F. Wray-V. Varconi	Apr. 26,'31	67	May 16,'31
Children of Dreams	Margot Schilling	July 25,'31	83	July 25,'31
Expensive Women	Dolores Costello	Oct. 24,'31
God's Gift to Women	Fay-LaPlante	Apr. 25,'31	75	Mar. 14,'31
Gold Dust Gertie	Winnie Lightner	June 27,'31	68	May 9,'31
Maltese Falcon, The	Bebe Daniels-R. Cortez	June 13,'31	80	Apr. 18,'31
Mad Genius, The	John Barrymore-M. Marsh	Nov. 7,'31	81	Oct. 31,'31
Millionaire, The	George Arliss	May 1,'31	81	Mar. 14,'31
My Past	Daniels-Lyon (Reviewed under title "Ex-Mistress")	Mar. 14,'31	74	Dec. 20
Night Nurse	Barbara Stanwyck	Aug. 8,'31	73	July 25,'31
Public Enemy, The	Harlow-Cagney	May 15,'31	96
Road to Singapore, The	Wm. Powell-M. Marsh-Kenyon	Oct. 10,'31	70	Aug. 1,'31
Side Show	Lightner-Butterworth	Sept. 19,'31	66	July 4,'31
Smart Money	Edw. G. Robinson	July 11,'31	81	May 16,'31
Star Witness, The	Walter Huston	Aug. 22,'31	68	July 25,'31
Svengali	John Barrymore-M. Marsh	May 22,'31	83	May 9,'31

Coming Feature Attractions

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
High Pressure	Wm. Powell
Blonde Crazy	James Cagney-J. Blondell	Nov. 18,'31	75	Aug. 22,'31
Manhattan Parade	W. Lightner-Butterworth
Man Who Played God	George Arliss
Shadows on the Wall	Kay Francis
Taxi!	James Cagney-Loretta Young	Dec. 12,'31
Under Eighteen	Marian Marsh-Anita Page	Jan. 9,'32
		Dec. 31,'31

J. C. Jenkins—His Colyum

Baker, Ore.

DEAR HERALD:

If you want to learn more about the theatre business in two hours than you have learned since away back, then you want to stop at Nampa, Idaho, and talk with Herman Brown of Island Amusement Company.

Brown has been in the picture business from the days of John Bunny and Flora Finch down to Will Rogers and Louis Fazenda, and what he knows about this business would make an encyclopaedia look like a horse sale handbill. Brown's contention is that the amusement business is a necessity and not a luxury, that we have to feed the body and that it is therefore necessary to feed the mind, and that pictures are necessary to fill that requirement. Brown is correct.

He also says that the producers can't make a "Common Clay," a "Sunny Side Up" and an "All Quiet on the Western Front" and then follow them with fifteen or twenty features of blah blah and expect the public to fall for them. Tally another one for Brown.

When the Public Buys

Brown's theory is that if you give the public what it wants the public will buy it. This has been demonstrated to us a number of times this fall. In every town we have visited where they were holding a county fair all records for attendance were broken. "Penrod and Sam" at Twin Falls the other night drew a capacity house. "Daddy Long Legs" did the same thing in Boise.

You may not care for our theory but we are going to give it to you just the same, and that is that there has been too much chasing rainbows in this business. Fox wanted to see the name "Fox" emblazoned on the top of the finest theatres in the land. Others wanted to keep pace or go them one better, and the result has been that production has had to content itself with the crumbs. They have lost sight of the fact that the men who write the stories and the men who handle the megaphones have had to shoulder the burden of keeping this business on its feet without the proper assistance of those who have been watching the Neon signs on the tops of the theatres. General Motors would be a failure if they put their energy and resources into palatial office buildings instead of automobiles. Wrigley never could have bought the Cataline Islands if he had put axle grease into his gum. It's the source of production that counts in this business and not palatial theatres.

Time was when men wore celluloid collars today they would be a curiosity. When a woman calls for silk hosiery she doesn't want cotton, and they are all wearing silk. They are more attractive, at least they are to us, and we can always tell silk from cotton at a glance, which proves that our eyesight is still fairly good. We say this without fear because our wife says she seldom wastes her time reading this Colyum. Isn't that a nice way for a woman to talk?

The directors of pictures are the men who get our sympathy. If the story is bad the picture must necessarily be bad and the director gets the harpoon.

If the story is good he makes a good picture and nobody ever thinks of him, he gets the same screen publicity as the eighth assistant superintendent of the wardrobe or Bill Sikes who turns you down at the main entrance. And now, if the foregoing proves to your mind that we are crazy please remember that we are not violent.

▼

Their Problem

Mr. G. C. Knight owns two theatres in Caldwell. One he keeps closed because the business will not warrant its operation. Caldwell is largely dependent upon the production of wheat, potatoes and fruit, and since the bottom has fallen out of the market values of these commodities it of necessity makes business much below normal, as reported by Mr. Knight.

Through the courtesy of Mr. and Mrs. Hughes of the Ritz theatre at Payette we were privileged to see Gaynor and Farrell in "Merely Mary Ann." The picture drew fairly good business for a Monday night and undoubtedly gave satisfaction. Mr. and Mrs. Hughes are delightful folk to meet and it has always been a pleasure to call on them, this being our third visit.

Payette is in the heart of the fruit country, and the orchards loaded with apples provide a sight worth going miles to see.

Choice Delicious apples are selling for sixty cents a box at these orchards and the same apples will sell for two dollars and a half in our home town. We have paid ten cents an apple for them in the eastern centers, which would amount to at least eight dollars a box.

What this country needs is another Teddy Roosevelt. When Teddy was president he gave the kaiser four hours in which to move his warships out of the line of fire or he would sink them. The kaiser moved 'em, don't think he didn't. He told the miners to produce coal or the Government would, and they produced it. When an emergency arose he took the bull by the horns and threw him over the fence. There's an emergency now and it's useless to wait for Congress to debate the matter for two or three sessions before any action is taken.

▼

There are just two things that are worse than jazz music. One is the seven-year itch, but we can't remember the name of the other.

Walla Walla, Wash.

About as picturesque a country as we have ever driven is from La Grande, Ore., over the blue mountains to Pendleton. You start climbing the minute you leave La Grande and keep it up until you reach the summit at an elevation of 4035 feet and a distance of 25 miles from La Grande. The engineers who laid out the road made the grade so gradual you scarcely realize that you are climbing. From the summit you glide down the western slope about 20 miles to Pendleton, hardly touching the gas feed at all. This road winds through canyons and around mountains in such graceful curves that one marvels at the efficiency of the engineers.

From Pendleton you drive over the high table land until you drop down into the Walla Walla Valley where Walla Walla is located. This rolling table land is where they raise millions of bushels of wheat every year, and the Walla Walla Valley is one of the famous orchard districts of the West. Here they grow apples, peaches, pears, plums and grapes, not by the bushel, but by the trainload. Surrounded by wheat lands and orchards, as Walla Walla is, makes this town of twenty thousand people one of the live spots of the western slope.

▼

What They Want

We have just called on Mr. F. B. Hill, who is the local manager for the Hughes-Franklin houses here in Walla Walla. Mr. Hill has been connected with the theatre business for a number of years and he impressed us as a man who has a thorough knowledge of the business. He gives two reasons for the slump in theatre attendance, one being the general situation, but the main reason he sees is a lack of product of sufficient merit to interest the public. He has found what we have found all over the country, and that is that when he gets a good picture he can do good business regardless of the general economic status. He told us that the banks of the town showed a combined deposit of over ten million dollars, which wouldn't indicate a lack of money but rather a lack of interest in the class of service he is required to show. We might add to the reasons given by Mr. Hill for poor business that when producers will go to producing pictures and leave the theatre management to theatre men this business will show a marked improvement.

▼

The farther west we go the more pronounced the business situation seems to be. This country is dependent very largely upon fruit and wheat. The fruit growers are not getting the cost of production out of their fruit and the wheat growers are getting 32 cents a bushel, which is also less than production cost. Banks are not lending money to the farmers and merchants because of the uncertainty, and we see many "closing out" signs in and about every town we visit. Maybe conditions will improve. We hope so.

J. C. JENKINS,
The HERALD Man

ORGAN SOLOS

BERNIE COWHAM (Flushing Keiths) entertained his audience with another interesting community sing. The signature song, "Voice of the RKO," was played as the "opener" with an oral explanation about the songs and "Singing Class," following.

Bernie is one organist who really does try hard to please his audiences, not only obliging with their requests but also working out novelties of his own creation. This week's program consisted of the singing of "There's No Other Girl," "River, Stay Away from My Door," "Shine On, Harvest Moon," "Waiting for a Call from You," "Little Gypsy Sweetheart," and a parody on "Just One More Chance," which he had made popular. This parody was written about the "Empress Eugenie" hats. Of course, Bernie closed his solo with his ever popular edition of the "North Shore Daily Journal." Up-to-the-minute news, both local and national, is written to the tune, "It's the Girl," with the audience singing the news and certainly enjoying it, if applause means anything.

Bernie has been at this house for three years and his popularity ever is increasing.

MAC BRIDWELL (San Antonio Majestic) recently offered an organ solo which he named "Everything's RKO." His first selection was "Wrap Your Troubles in Dreams and Dream Your Troubles Away," followed by "The Waltz I Saved for You," an excellent parody to the tune of "Two Heart Beats"; then came "Sweet and Lovely" and "I Want a Girl."

BETTY HAMMOND (Scranton Rialto) presented a delightful and appropriate solo this week entitled "Hallowe'en Hokum." The entire organ and orchestra pit is beautifully decorated with all the doodads that go with Hallowe'en, and to make the solo more realistic, Miss Hammond hides her beauty behind a witch costume, even to a false-face. Throughout the solo, weird effects are played on the organ and grotesque green hands and so on are flashed on the screen. The opening song is "Deep Night," played by Miss Hammond, as special lyrics to the tune, telling of the stunt, appear on the screen. The first audience-singing number is "Take It From Me," with all participating. Miss Hammond, in a low, dramatice voice, tells melodiously about the "green hand," which is to make them scream. The remainder of the program, consisted of the singing of "Harvest Moon," "River Stay Away From My Door," "Words," and "Never-the-less."

A tongue-twister with words all starting in "Z," written to the tune, "Oaken Bucket," got a lot of laughs, as did all the spooky stuff between songs.

As she took her final bow, Miss Hammond removed the mask and flashed that smile that is helping to make her so popular there.

JACK MARTIN (Milwaukee Wisconsin) plays "College Daze' which includes "Collegiate," "Betty Co-ed," "Notre Dame Victory Song," "Ring Out Ahoya," "Sweetheart of Sigma Chi," and "On Wisconsin," JOE STOVES (Jamaica Valencia) presented a comedy organ solo entitled 'Hats," and did very well with it. Hats of every description are worn by Stoves as he introduces the numbers. This proves very laughable and assists greatly in getting the audience quickly into a mood to sing. Solo opens with "Where Did You Get That Hat," then goes into a special on "There are Smiles," with the title, "There Are Hats," and so on.

Stoves, orally, says each hat he would wear suggested a song to him and the audience are to sing them. The old brown derby suggests, "East Side, West Side," Baby bonnet suggested a special lyric to "Here Comes the Sun," an old silver-lined top hat suggested "Smile Darn Ya Smile," an old bonnet, "Old Fashioned Girl," a cap suggested "That Old Gang of Mine," and a sailor's top-piece, "Anchors Aweigh," and the old tin pot of war days, "Pack Up Your Troubles In An Old Kit Bag." For this number, a war film of soldiers marching is shown. The solo was well presented and proved very entertaining to this audience.

MILTON CHARLES (Jersey City Stanley) presented a short and snappy organ solo this week, using but one number. According to Charles' announcement, the number requested by the patrons was "Guilty" and he sang and played two choruses of it. His singing is very good, but apparently he did his best to "blast" the audience out of their seats with his incidental music before he got down to the singing of the song.

OVERTURES

DON ALBERT (Jersey City Jersey) and the Loew's Grande Orchestra of 19 accomplished musicians dressed up the well known "trip through New York" stunt in a manner surpassing all others. Don Albert, himself, arranged and conceived the idea and deserves credit for not only this but for his fine presentation of this overture.

It is called "Melting Pot—A Trip from the Battery to the Bronx." Ted Meyn, solo organist, made all announcements through the microphone as Albert directed the orchestra in all the appropriate songs designating the different sections of New York. Newsreel shots of the city and Bon Walker, singer, also were used and assisted greatly in making this overture not only instructive but entertaining as well.

JACK TEITLEBAUM (Staten Island St. George) and His St. George Syncopators offered a group of "Rose" numbers which he incorporated into an overture for his spot on the bill. The orchestra here is a good one, but apparently the management does not fully appreciate it because the orchestra and leader are not given a spotlight or even house lights. They just present their overture and then play for the vaudeville. The overture this week opens with "Moonlight and Roses," and is followed by "Love Brings a Gift of Roses," and closes with "Roses of Picardy."

A "rose" effect was played on the screen, but instead of lending a harmonious effect it only detracted by its wobbling and stopping. There was no spotlight even at the finish and the leader didn't take a bow, though there was a smattering of applause.

WALT ROESNER (San Francisco Fox) and the Fox Concert Orchestra of thirty-five artists step into the field of modern composers this week and present a delightful offering under the title of "A Friml Fantasy." Tuneful selections from such popular light operas as "Firefly," "Vagabond King," "High Jinks," "Katinka" and "Rose-Marie" make up the number and meet with an enthusiastic reception. The trombone and trumpet players are given special parts and take a bow. Joaquin Garay sings "What Aloha Means to Me," a composition of Merton H. Bories, local song writer and radio star.

JOHN GART

ORGANIST-MUSIC DIRECTOR
LOEW'S 46th ST., THEATRE
BROOKLYN, NEW YORK

DELL ISOLA (Brooklyn RKO Albee) and his Albee Ensemble offered an entertaining and well-played overture composed of college tunes, as a sequence to the feature picture, "Spirit of Notre Dame." The 16 boys were all attired in blazers which made a distinct contrast to their usual sedate dress. Their presentation opened with their playing of a medley of college numbers, three of which were sung by boys in the band. These were "Sweetheart of Sigma Chi," "Freshie," and the Notre Dame "Loyal Sons" song. The overture was snappily presented.

JOE BELLE (Schenectady Proctors) and His RKOlians presented a short but entertaining and well-played overture recently. Opening with a medley of popular tunes, the orchestra, under the able direction of Belle, offered special arrangements of "Jealous," "Poor Butterfly" and "What'll I Do." Different sections of the orchestra were prominently featured in some of the numbers and the songs themselves are offered in a various style, with shadings and color enhancing each.

Belle is a capable director and knows how to "sell" to audiences. Proof of this is seen in the good receptions accorded them.

AL RICHI (New York 86th) and his RKOlians presented an overture, entitled "Fantasy Orientale," which was a compilation of oriental melodies, symphonically arranged and played in a rhythmic style. This orchestra is an entirely new one and under the capable leadership of this young conductor it is doing very well.

UP AND DOWN THE ALLEY

Hello Everybody!

Shapiro, Bernstein and Company are now installed and settled in their spacious new offices in the Capitol Theatre Building. . . . Without a doubt just about the most beautiful of music publishing offices on "the street." . . . Mr. Louis Bernstein deserves a lot of credit for making these offices distinctly different from the usual run of music publishing offices . . . beautifully simple, but with a richness unsurpassed . . . coming into the main room . . . rather awes ones . . . at least it did me. . . . Incidentally, Noon-Day Club members, the honor roll was the first thing Harry Blair hung on the walls of his office. . . . While I am at it, all of Frank Kelton's many friends should know that he is no longer with Davis, Coots and Engel; he now has charge of Radio exploitation for Shapiro, Bernstein. . . . Pardon me, I nearly forgot to mention that Frank is now known as Lieutenant Frank Kelton; he has just received his commission in the U. S. A. Reserve Engineers Corps. . . .

* * *

Horace Heidt and his Californians have done so well at the Capitol this week that they have been held over for another week. . . . George Latch is now the staff organist in the new Waldorf-Astoria hotel. . . . He plays two hours each day at the big Mohler organ in the broadcasting room and his playing is heard in nearly every room in the hotel, even the chefs can listen to the strains of beautiful melodies as they go about their culinary art-work. . . . John Hammond, for the past year and a half organist at the St. George, Staten Island, is now at the Warner-Strand, Brooklyn. . . . Johnny Winters, who held the job at the Strand, is now at home in Pennsylvania undergoing a minor operation, and starts at the Paramount, Nashville, on November 14. . . . Earl Abel, solo organist at the San Antonio Texas theatre, writes that this is his fourth return engagement at this house, and also goes on to bawl me out for not mentioning his recent vacation trip to the Gay White Way. . . . So many organists have been in town, looking for "new assignments," that it was absolutely inconceivable that an organist was actually in town on a vacation. . . . Forgive me, Earl, I promise not to let it happen again. . . . Hymie Derison has taken Manny Blau's place in the Organ and Slide department of Irving Berlin. . . . Manny is now in Philadelphia where he has become a prominent hair-dresser for the ladies or coiffurist or whatever you call them. . . . Hymie is a hard-working young fellow and an asset to Berlin's. . . . Gotta go now. . . . S'long.

ED DAWSON

STAGE SHOWS

Brooklyn Paramount

Week ending November 5

Cab Calloway and his Cotton Club Orchestra are featured in the Boris Petroff stage show, "Hi De Hi-Ho De Ho." Cab and his boys deliver to the audience song after song of "hot" rhythms, playing and presenting them in a showmanly manner that won the audience over, right from the start. Cab has a great personality and when he did his "harlem" singing the audience applauded for more throughout the show. The numbers used were "St. James Infirmary," "China Boy," "Gotta Have Jig Time," "Can't Stop Me From Loving You," "I'll Be Glad When You're Dead, You Rascal You," and for the finale, Cab's old girl, "Minnie the Moocher." The show also carries Cora La Redd, colored blues singer, Roy Atkins, dancer, Jordon and Jordon, dancers, and "The Harlem Strutters," 12 Sepian beauties. These all do very well, LaRedd and Atkins earning encores. The entire show is well staged and presented in a highclass style.

Jersey City Stanley

Week ending November 5

The stage show this week featured Duke Ellington and his Cotton Club Orchestra. Ed Lowry, house master of ceremonies, is still featured but in this show he does very little except drag out and slow up an otherwise fast show. He is on for about twenty minutes, doing gags with Olive Faye and Vic Ince. Olive Faye gets a great hand for her difficult tap and Russian dance.

The "Duke" and his band of 11 men offer a number of well-played selections, including "Ringin' the Bell," "Stardust," "Minnie the Moocher," "Limehouse Blues," "Hittin' the Bottle," "One Hour Tonight," and their own composition, "Black and Tan Fantasy." The band work hard, and throughout the audience appreciates their inimitable rhythms and fine playing. Beside the band numbers, Ivy Anderson, colored blues singer, does very well as do the Four Step-brothers, who perform some good tap and precision dancing. This half of the show did very well and at the finale the audience kept applauding for more.

Roxy Changes Stage Policy; Will Augment Ballet Corps

The Roxy theatre, beginning Friday, November 13, will replace the singing ensemble with specially engaged singing groups and an augmented list of soloists.

The move comes as a result of conclusions by the operating chiefs, led by Clark Robinson, production head, that the present audiences prefer specialized groups. The ballet corps will also be increased.

Three NBC Stars at Stanley

Three NBC attractions, Lee Morse, Edward East and Ralph Dumke and Baby Rose Marie, will appear at the Jersey City Stanley, week of November 6 for one week.

Milwaukee Wisconsin

Week ending October 29

Fanchon & Marco's "Yesterday's Stars" Idea opens with a dance and song number by Miss Sylvia Shaw and Miss Irene Peterson, future stars, according to Hank Brown, who plays the role of master of ceremonies. The setting is that of a playhouse with the orchestra on the stage.

Alexander and Evelyn stage a trick bouncing ball number which is unusual and clever. They are followed by Freddie Ford, who sings "Sleep Baby, Sleep," and yodels as well.

Rice & Cady do their stuff as two German comedians which includes comedy patter and funny songs. William Lee in the role of Cho Cho, the clown, stunts about despite his seventy-odd years, in an extremely agile manner.

Tom Kelly entertains with a batch of Irish jokes and a vocal selection, and George Harrison appears with his granddaughter in costumes of many years ago to stage a tap dance bit.

Corinne, who is reported to have introduced jazz here many years ago, offers "International Rag" with much flourish and gusto. Hi Tom Ward, who is 75 years of age, sings "When You and I Were Young Maggie" with much vim.

Eva Tanguay, the headliner of the show, parades about in her sparkling costume and imitates herself some twenty years before singing "I Don't Care."

Before the finale, Hank Brown cracks several jokes, and then the entire company comes out in violet cloaks to stage a walking for the cake dance.

RKO Band on Steamers

A Radio-Keith-Orpheum orchestra, vaudeville acts and a master of ceremonies have been included in an entertainment program planned for a series of Southern cruises by ships of the Holland-America Line.

Offers Six-Unit Stage Shows

The Capitol, Racine, Wis., is offering six-unit shows on Friday, Saturday and Sunday of each week in addition to the regular feature film attraction.

$2,500 Per Week for Mitzi

Mitzi Green has been booked by RKO at $2,500 per week for 10 weeks, opening December 18 in St. Louis. M. S. Bentham arranged the booking in New York with RKO, at the home office.

EGON DOUGHERTY

SOLO ORGANIST

Resuming "Community Singing"

LOEW'S TRIBORO THEATRE

ASTORIA, LONG ISLAND

NEW YORK CITY

bernie cowham

rko flushing new york

MUSIC AND TALENT

STAGE SHOWS

New York Capitol

Week ending November 5

The stage show this week, produced under the personal direction of Louis K. Sidney, proved to be the most entertaining on the Main Stem. A fast-moving show, with never a dull moment, featured Horace Heidt and his Californians, who possess not only good musical ability but surprising versatility and showmanship.

This aggregation springs more surprising tricks and stunts throughout the show than any other band this reviewer has ever seen, and the audience sit tense on their seats, never knowing what new stunt will come next. Horace Heidt, personable, husky and the he-man of all band leaders, ably leads his boys not only in playing, but in their singing, dancing and stunts. They do everything but acrobatic dancing and they probably will have this in their act next week. Clarence Moore and Lobo II, came in for their share of applause, after Moore has Lobo go through his tricks. Lobo without a doubt is one of the world's most intelligent dogs.

The Chester Hale Girls, between scenes, offer two new routines of dancing that are outstanding. The finale, using the boys in soldier attire and the Hale girls as background, is one of the most impressive offered in this house for many weeks.

A thoroughly good and entertaining show.

Baltimore Century

Week ending November 5

"Fantastique," a Loew-Capitol stage presentation act directed by Chester Hale and supervised by Louis K. Sidney, was introduced by slides while the orchestra played a lively air in the pit, directed by George Wild. The orchestra provided incidental music throughout.

The production opened in three with Anita Avila, premiere ballerina, on in a Pierrot costume in a toe specialty with two dolls. She pantomimes steep. Is joined by six Chester Hale girls in the same costumes. The girls do a novelty dance, and are joined by six others in Pierrette costumes. Avila awakens. The Pierrots come in with dummies of Pierrettes held overheads. Then the other six return with dummies of Pierrot.

Stetson juggles his high hat, ball and cane, then three high hats, then three cigar boxes. Blanche Sweet is next, with her accompanist. She sings "I Apologize," "When It's Sleepy Time Down South," "Shine On Harvest Moon," drawing weak appaluse.

John Clark, tenor, sings "Lady of the Evening," as the Chester Hale Girls parade across the stage in nude effects covered with black scrim veils. Five girls, after posing in devil costumes, go into a modernistic dance with alluring motions, joined by Avila.

Mills, Kirk and Martin, three men, do eccentric hokum with some songs and uke playing.

The setting for the finale was representative of an enormous-lipped Ubangi with rolling eyes and huge mouth, six Ubangi warriors on each side in full paint. John Clark on in a Trader Horn costume with a bullwhip, singing "I'm the King," with Avila entering through mouth of idol in a dance to whip snapping and singing. The Chester Hale Girls come through in "White Goddess" costumes for a wild Ubangi dance.

IRVIN TALBOT

Here is a talented and versatile musician, well schooled and trained, a person who understands his audiences and the times. In the show world he stands out very prominently, beloved by the best musicians and appreciated by the immense public he has served for many years. He is one of the few modern musicians who can conduct large symphony, concert, and grand opera orchestra, also stage, popular dance, and novelty jazz bands—all with equal facility and success.

He was born in St. Louis, Mo., in 1896, and studied violin under Christopher Jakob, one of Europe's great teachers. At 16, Talbot was one of the first violinists of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra. During the world war he served as lieutenant of infantry and as band leader of the famous 69th Infantry. After the war he returned to the St. Louis Symphony, later becoming musical director of the Missouri theatre. In 1922 he was engaged as musical director at the Rivoli, New York. When the New York Paramount opened, he became its director and remained in that capacity until he became conductor and scorer for the production department of Paramount Publix. In June, 1929, he went to Hollywood for Paramount, where he conducted the music for a number of money-making pictures. At present he is guest conductor at the New York Paramount and musical director at Paramount's Long Island Studio.

Sophie Tucker Wins Again At the Oriental in Chicago

Sophie Tucker, veteran trouper that she is, has received the royal welcome that always is hers in Chicago, during her week's engagement at the Oriental, started last Saturday. Her new songs have shared in her triumphant return, and the calls for her autographed photos are paralleling the requests made during her engagements at the New York and Brooklyn Paramount theatres.

STAGE SHOWS

San Francisco Fox

Week ending November 4

A humorous, frivolous revue, with one of those amazing finales that sends people out asking how the thing is done, and what the next stage novelty will be, is how Fanchon & Marco's "Stage Door Idea," may be summed up.

The policy seems to be to select titles and build the acts around them, instead of getting acts together and then titling, as formerly seemed the case.

In the "Stage Door Idea," the setting is that of a theatre stage door. A dashing girl comes on, followed by a horde of Johnnies in evening dress, singing "It's a Girl." They offer a lively dance and the girl proves especially adept at high kicking.

Harney and Connors, whose idea seems to be to get a bang out of life, try out the audience with singing, dancing and acrobatics. They get the best response with a novel kicking stunt.

Vina Zole sings delightfully while the Sunkist Beauties dance against an exquisite outdoor setting. A solo dance is featured by one of their numbers who makes good use of a huge feather fan.

Webster and Moreno do a catch as catch can't number, with one dressed as a ballet dancer and the other in conventional leopard skin garb. Their act is burlesque, but is presented awkwardly, which is an art in itself. The orchestra helps out with sound effects.

Bob Hall, master of extempore, and former Orpheum Circuit idol, sings an original song about the show, another about the local election and still another about San Francisco. He asks for a half dozen topics and proceeds to build an original song around them, managing to get in a lot of clever turns.

Vina Zole comes on, carrying an odd mask with headdress attached and is followed by the Sunkist Beauties wearing similar masks. They go through dance steps and when the lights change suddenly are transformed into savages, their white flesh and light colored clothes changing to black. Another change of the lights and they are fair dancers in fancy ball attire. The act comes to a close with other members of the company coming on.

Detroit Fisher

Week ending October 31

Belle Baker headlines the stage feature at the Fisher this week, in a show that is truly reminiscent of the days when vaudeville was something more than a time-killer between feature pictures. Belle looks a little more matronly, and tells a few jokes which are questionable, but the audience goes for her, so that's all that counts. She has the same old manner of singing, sobbing and crooning that she did in the days when she sang "Put It On, Take It Off, Wrap It Up, Take It Home," and similar ditties. Bob Nolan, M. C., helps Belle finish her act, once again proving that he has big-time stuff in him. Serge Flash, a juggler, is aces all the way. He uses rubber balls the size of grape fruit, and the entire routine is out of the ordinary. It is easy to believe he spent nine years perfecting some of his tricks. The Caligary Brothers are a clever French acrobatic comedy-pantomime team, while Mann, Bradford and Van Alst complete the stage bill with some mild dancing.

(Continued on next page)

CLASSIFIED Advertising

Ten cents per word, payable in advance. Minimum charge, $1.00. Copy and checks should be addressed Classified Ad Dept., Motion Picture Herald, 1790 Broadway, New York, N. Y.

The Recognized National Classified Advertising Medium

Mail Order Bargains

MORE MONEY FOR YOU—HERE'S HOW TO BUY BRAND NEW EQUIPMENT—LOOK—Electric Fan Covers, 59c; Film Splicers, $4.95; Standard Make Lenses, $12.75; Box Office Chairs, $5.75; Screen Cleaner, $3.88 gal.; G. E. Mazda Lamphouses with Regulators, $97.50; Bench Rewinders 2000′ reel, per set $5.97; Special Theatre Carpet, 69½c per yd.; Carpet Cushion or Acoustical Felt, 27½c sq. yd.; Automatic Reflector Arc Lamps, $139.90; Carbons, 25% discount; Automatic Changeovers, per set, $39.85; Photocells, all types, each $12.95; Da-Tone Sound Screens, 39c sq. ft.; Silver Sound Screens, 54c sq. ft.; Beaded Sound Screens, 59c sq. ft. Many other bargains in new equipment. S. O. S. CORP. Dept. E-H, 1600 Broadway, New York City. Cable Address "SOSOUND," New York.

STANDARD GENUINE SOUND PRODUCTS AT WHOLESALE—Everything shipped direct from factory: Samson No. 19 Amplifiers, $55.00; Silver Marshall No. 692, $90.00; Genuine Racon Horns, complete with Unit, Transformer and Exciter, $98.00; 30 ampere Rectifiers complete with tubes, $85.00; Da-Tone Sound Screens, 38c square foot; Exciter Lamps, 98c; Rectifiers for sound-on-film, eliminates storage batteries, $45.00. Write us your needs. THEATRE SOUND SERVICE, 130 S. Clinton Avenue, Rochester, New York.

Printing

1,000—4 x 9 Theatre Dodgers, $1.25; 100—11 x 14 Tack Cards, $1.75; Address KING SHOPRINTERS, Warren, Illinois.

Theatres For Sale Or Rent

FOR SALE: Theatre, town 5,000, extraordinary bargain for quick disposal. Address Box No. 75, Motion Picture Herald, 1790 Broadway, New York.

WANTED TO RENT: 400 or 500 seat house in North or Central Illinois or Indiana. State all in first letter. Address Box No. 76, Motion Picture Herald, 1790 Broadway, New York, N. Y.

Chairs For Sale

1,250 HIGH GRADE SPRING CONSTRUCTED CHAIRS: Full upholstered backs, covered in green Velour; Spring Seats covered in imitation Spanish leather. 600 Heywood-Wakefield panel back chairs, spring seats newly upholstered and covered in green imitation Spanish leather. Reasonable prices. Write to ILLINOIS THEATRE EQUIPMENT COMPANY, 1150 South Michigan Avenue. Chicago, Illinois.

700 USED HARDWOOD PORTABLE CHAIRS in sections of two. 1,400 Upholstered Chairs, backs fully covered in red Velour; seats covered in imitation Spanish leather—$2.00 each. 700 Leather Upholstered Chairs, heavy panel backs covered in red imitation leather—$2.25 each. Five-ply veneer chairs, 90c each, in any quantity. 400 Heywood-Wakefield upholstered panel back, squab seat covered in brown imitation leather—$2.25 each.
ILLINOIS THEATRE EQUIPMENT COMPANY, 1150 South Michigan Avenue. Chicago, Illinois.

BIG BARGAIN in used Opera Chairs, 600 upholstered, 800 veneer. Address Movie Supply Co., 844 Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Illinois.

Theatre Training Schools

THEATRE EMPLOYEES—Learn modern theatre management and theatre advertising. Approved and specialized home-study training for theatre employees. The Institute's training leads to better positions. Free particulars. Address THEATRE MANAGERS INSTITUTE, 325 Washington Street, Elmira, New York.

Sound Equipment Bargains

THE LAST WORD IN SOUND ON FILM AT A REMARKABLY LOW PRICE—FOR $395.00 YOU GET—two S. O. S. Sound Heads complete with genuine Jenkins Telephoto Cells; Licensed True Tone Optical Systems; G. E. Exciter Lamps; All Drive Attachments; Operadio Combination AC Power Supply including Head Amplifier; A and B Battery Eliminator, Sound-on-Film Fader, all in one unit; Wright-DeCoster Stage Speaker; Dynamic Booth Monitor, or choice of two special G. E. Constant Motors instead. ALLOWANCE MADE FOR DISC EQUIPMENT. Sound Heads less Amplification and Speakers, $247.50 pair complete. Address S. O. S. CORP., Dept. E-H, 1600 Broadway, New York City. Cable Address, "SOSOUND," New York.

IT'S HERE—PORTABLE SOUND-ON-FILM FOR ROADSHOWING—ALL A.C. OPERATED $796.60: No Batteries, Generators or Rectifiers. Plug in any convenient light socket, set up in five minutes, ready to operate. Equipment includes Projection Machine, Sound Film Head, Combination Power Unit and Amplifier, All Tubes, and Speaker. Uses 35 mm. Film. Finest reproduction suitable for audiences up to 2,000, 92′ throw—9x12 picture. Write for particulars. Dept. E-H. S.O.S. Corp., 1600 Broadway, New York City. Cable Address, "SOSOUND," New York.

Equipment Wanted

HIGHEST PRICES paid for Simplex Projectors or Mechanisms only. Address Box No. 24, Motion Picture Herald, 1790 Broadway, New York City.

HIGHEST PRICES paid for used opera chairs, projection machines, etc. Address Movie Supply Co., 844 Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Illinois.

CASH PAID FOR OLD SIMPLEX PROJECTORS OR MECHANISMS. PEERLESS or Strong Reflector Arc Lamps. Will buy equipment in any condition. Pay highest prices. Address Amusement Supply Co., Inc., 630 Ninth Ave., New York, N. Y.

Position Wanted

PROJECTIONIST, EXPERIENCED, steady, reliable, competent. References. Address PHIL PORTER, Wakeeney, Kansas.

PROJECTIONIST wishes position, ten years actual experience, experienced with sound equipment, will locate anywhere. Address Harold Pope, Dierks, Ark.

GERMAN, 27 years of age, with over seven years experience in Germany, wants to be placed as VOLUNTEER or on small salary basis, where best of opportunity is assured to study further the fundamentals of conducting theatre business. New York State or Pennsylvania preferred. Address Box 77, Motion Picture Herald, 1790 Broadway, New York, N. Y.

MANAGER will operate theatre on salary and profit-sharing plan. 8 years' experience managing all types of houses. 3 years in last position. Conservative youth and energy backed with thorough knowledge of modern operation, plus ability to sell shows and sound judgment in expenditures will show results. Write or wire: Address Box No. 79, Motion Picture Herald, 1790 Broadway, New York, N. Y.

AT LIBERTY—Experienced sound operator, married, willing to help, anything, moderate salary. Address H. Swatek, 401 Gilbert Ave., Peoria, Illinois.

Business Opportunities

MONEY WANTED for extension of theatre circuit. Have three (Only Theatre) towns and five others to finance. 10% interest, partnership or stock. Address Box 78. Motion Picture Herald, 1790 Broadway, New York, N. Y.

Equipment For Sale

BUY WITH CONFIDENCE—SEND FOR USED BARGAIN SHEET—HERE ARE SOME GUARANTEED VALUES. Simplex Mazda Lamphouses, $39.75; Guaranteed Rebuilt Simplex Mechanisms, $197.50; Rebuilt Powers 6B Mechanisms, $59.50; Hertner Transverters, 20/40 less panel, $75.00; Lenses, all sizes, $9.75; Audak Professional Pickups, $15.00; Sound Mixer, $3.95; Samson, Webster, Silver-Marshall Amplifiers, other makes, $12.50 up; Choice of 5,000 Upholstered Chairs, $1.00 up; Double Turntable Non-Sync Outfits, $35.00; Automatic Reflector Arcs, $69.75; Macy or Racon Giant Exponential Horns with Unit, $59.50; Hall & Connolly Hy-Lo Arc Lamps, $97.50. We buy or trade anything—WHAT HAVE YOU? S. O. S. CORP., Dept. U, 1600 Broadway, New York City. Cable Address, "SOSOUND," New York.

TWO Guaranteed Rebuilt Simplex Projectors at Big Bargain. Address P. O. Box 2042, Desoto Station, Memphis, Tenn.

SAMSON No. 19 Amplifier with Tubes, $45.00. Wright DeCoster Speaker, $15.00. Condition perfect. Address P. O. Box 2042, DeSoto Station, Memphis, Tenn.

THEATRE EQUIPMENT, new and used. Opera chairs, projectors, screens, generators, rectifiers, reflecting arc lamps, etc. Write for bargain list and catalog. Address Movie Supply Co., 844 Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Illinois.

FOR SALE — ATTENTION INDEPENDENT DEALERS: Simplex large and small magazine rollers, and Asbestos Heat Shields, made of the best grade heat resisting material. Write for prices. Address Joe Spratler, 12-14 East Ninth Street, Chicago, Illinois.

BIG BARGAINS — Rebuilt Simplex Motor Driven Machines with type "S" Lamp Houses, with late type Flat Belt friction drive Speed Controls, $300.00 each. Rebuilt Powers 6B Motor Driven Machine, $235.00 each. DeLuxe Motiograph Machine, $250.00 each. Big Stock of Exhaust and Oscillating Fans for DC and AC current. Generators, all makes, ticket selling machines, film containers, etc., all at bargain prices for immediate shipment. Write:
ILLINOIS THEATRE EQUIPMENT COMPANY, 1150 South Michigan Avenue. Chicago, Illinois.

FOR SALE—2 Late Model Peerless Reflector Arc Lamps, like new, $130.00 each; 2 Simplex Projectors, perfect condition, $195.00 each; Hertner Generator, complete, $150.00. Address Box No. 485, Rochester, New York.

FOR SALE—2 New Type Peerless Lamps. 1 MP 25-25 Forest Rectifier. Used six months. Cost $611.00. Make me an offer, cash. Address William M. Voigt, Mgr., Town Hall Theatre, Bainbridge, N. Y.

Projector Repairing

BEST SHOP for repairing projection machines. Prompt service, reasonable prices. Address Movie Supply Co., 844 Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Illinois.

SKILLED MECHANICS, specialized tools, and a shop equipped for but one purpose can offer you nothing but the best in repair work. That is what I have, and I can offer you the best in the overhauling of your motion picture machinery equipment. One of the oldest repair men in the territory, and serving some of the largest houses. Relief equipment furnished free. For results bring your work to Joseph Spratler, 12-14 E. Ninth Street, Chicago, Illinois.

For Sale

POP CORN—Guaranteed South American Variety. New Crop. Unusually large popping volume. Excellent Quality. 100 pound bag $7.50. Address Douglas Co., Box D7631, Kansas City, Mo.

EVERYBODY BENEFITS . . .

. . . by the introduction of Eastman Super-sensitive Panchromatic Negative. Actor, director, camera man, laboratory worker, exhibitor, audience . . . right down the line, definite and substantial advantages are derived from this major improvement of 1931. And the producers and exhibitors in whose pictures it is used benefit most of all . . . in better photography and better pictures in general. Eastman Kodak Company, Rochester, New York. (J. E. Brulatour, Inc., Distributors, New York, Chicago, Hollywood.)

EASTMAN SUPER-SENSITIVE
Panchromatic Negative, Type 2

The Football Picture that DARES to be Different!

"TOUCHDOWN!"

Richard ARLEN — Peggy SHANNON — Jack OAKIE — Regis TOOMEY — Charles STARRETT

Here IS football! All the super-thrills of the big game. All the problems, hopes, disappointments, dangers and triumphs that make football what it really is. Together with uproarious comedy. And the most unusual and entertaining love story ever. Preview audiences actually cheered wildly! It's big money for you all right! Directed by Norman McLeod. From Francis Wallace's novel "Stadium".

PARAMOUNT

MOTION PICTURE HERALD

A CONSOLIDATION OF EXHIBITORS HERALD-WORLD AND MOTION PICTURE NEWS

ABOUT FAIRBANKS

The story of an adventure in production

SCHOOL & SCREEN

In which Rita C. McGoldrick outlines exploitation

THE DOUBLE BILL

What the leaders say about the trend

ACADEMY'S AWARDS

Special honors bestowed on workers in the art

Vol. 105, No. 7 Entered as second-class matter, January 12, 1931, at the Post Office at New York, N. Y., under the act of March 3, 1879. Published Weekly by Quigley Publishing Co., Inc., at 1790 Broadway, New York. Subscription, $3.00 a year. Single copies, 25 cents. November 14, 1931

GET THE BANNERS OUT FOR "FLYING HIGH!"

BERT LAHR's Personal Panic!

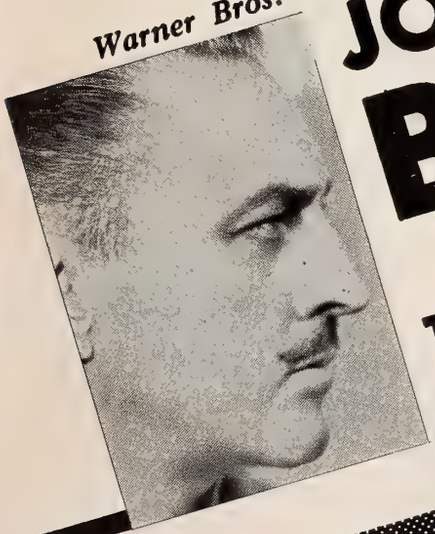
Previewed Thursday night before 2200 patrons of a Yonkers, N. Y. theatre it repeated the riot of it's West Coast preview. There's gold in them thar belly laughs! Go get it!

METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER

Don't Worry!

There are more big hits where 'Night Nurse', 'Bought' and 'Five Star Final' came from. RIGHT NOW you can play these two terrific smash hits day and date with Broadway!

First National's



THE RULING VOICE

with WALTER HUSTON

LORETTA YOUNG
DORIS KENYON
DAVID MANNERS
DUDLEY DIGGES
WILLARD ROBERTSON
GILBERT EMERY

The most amazing picture of the year! Now holding that terrific 'Five Star Final' pace at N. Y. Winter Garden.

Warner Bros.'

JOHN BARRYMORE

in the triumph of his career

The Mad Genius

with MARIAN MARSH
Donald Cook
Charles Butterworth

Now in its 3rd big week at the N. Y. Hollywood

MORE THAN YOUR CONTRACT CALLS FOR

Play that* WARNER and FIRST NATIONAL *program right down the line and you'll get.....

NATIONAL MOTION PICTURE WEEK - NOV. 18th to 25th - give him a lift - FOR LOCAL UNEMPLOYMENT RELIEF

JOE E. BROWN

from First National

for THANKSGIVING

in "Local Boy Makes Good"

▼▼

MARILYN MILLER

from First National

for CHRISTMAS

in "Her Majesty, LOVE"

BOX-OFFICE

THE OLD FIGHTIN' COCK IS RIDING ON THE CREST OF THE WAVE!

THE BIG PARADE

WHAT PRICE GLORY

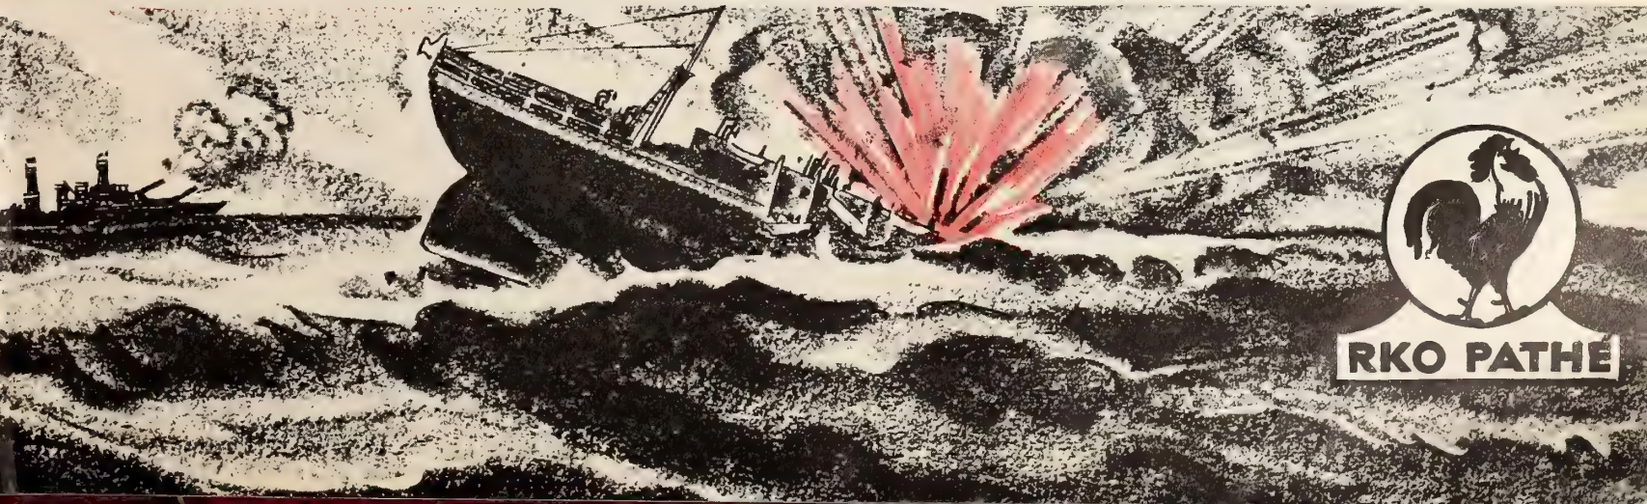
WINGS

THE COCK-EYED WORLD

ALL QUIET ON THE WESTERN FRONT

AND NOW

Released November 20 for Thanksgiving



51 Day-and-Date Key City Openings Thanksgiving Week!

BILL BOYD • ROBERT ARMSTRONG
JAMES GLEASON
GINGER ROGERS • HARRY BANNISTER
Directed by Albert Rogell
Story by Commander Herbert A. Jones
Scenario by Lew Lipton
A CHARLES R. ROGERS PRODUCTION
HARRY JOE BROWN, ASSOCIATE PRODUCER

VICTORIES!

SUICIDE FLEET

WILL TORPEDO ALL YOUR PAST RECORDS

"ROGERS IN HIS BEST particularly happy stage menu...a grand success excitingly told...good jokes...crackerjack cast."

Andrew R. Kelley, Times*

"TAILORED TO FIT WILL

grand vehicle for homespun Will...all good clean fun...pretty gol-darned grand...excellent acting."

M. H., Herald*

"WILL BE REMEMBERED

appeals to Washington public as he must attract attention of the rest of the country...same Rogers spirit."

D. C. C., Star*

"A LOT OF GOOD CLEAN FUN heartily amusing...never uninteresting...genuinely thrilling...Rogers has never been better."

Nelson B. Bell, Post*

WILL ROGERS

in

Ambassador Bill

with GRETA NISSEN
MARGUERITE CHURCHILL
GUSTAV von SEYFFERTITZ
TAD ALEXANDER

Directed by SAM TAYLOR

FOX PICTURE

* from WASHINGTON, D. C. world premiere which topped town with smash $30,000

YOU'VE GOT TO RECKON WITH FOX FOR PROFIT THIS YEAR

NOV 13 1931

©CLB 134271

MOTION PICTURE HERALD

Vol. 105, No. 7 — November 14, 1931

Not Sex, Not Gangster

WRITING in The Hollywood Herald, Mr. Leo Meehan presents from the viewpoint of that producing community, a pithy analysis of MOTION PICTURE HERALD'S "Fifteen Box Office Champions," published in the last issue. He sees in the returns from the vote of the box office for 1930-31 a corroboration of the views expressed by Mr. B. P. Schulberg at a recent Wampas meeting, when the Paramount producer insisted that picture makers must get back to simple, wholesome stories of mass appeal. Mr. Meehan is at pains to point out that only in the instance of Miss Norma Shearer's "Strangers May Kiss" was sex a factor in the winning array, and that out of the fifteen pictures twelve had "names which mean something when put into lights over the theatres." That might be a thought for the famous although anonymous banker interviewed in MOTION PICTURE HERALD last week, with his contention that personalities were on the wane. People are interested in people and nothing can be done about it except to give them people.

▲ ▲ ▲

The Eclipse of the Newsreel

SOME strange blight has fallen on the newsreels. Curiously enough ever since the coming of sound and talk the newsreel has been becoming more and more silent. Sound seems to have taken the zip and the zip and dash and go out of newsreel making.

There is labor and there is cost enough in the current product, as several excellent accountants can tell you, but the result appears to be nothing to talk about. The old swashbuckling rivalries of the news cameramen are in evidence no more, the races to the screen from the ends of the earth have apparently all been run.

May it not be just possible that all this rather sad loss to the color and appeal of the screen has resulted from selling policies controlling newsreel distribution which leave no room for individuality of performance?

The once greatest newsreel built up by some twenty years of strenuous endeavor, and for years dominant in the field, has declined in prestige and circulation to a mere shadow of itself. Another reel built on a successful admixture of feature, beautiful photography and news, has ceased in any practical sense to exist.

For a great many years newsreels suffered from a relative unappreciation at the hands of the trade. They were considerably more important to the more intelligent and influential fraction of the audience than the buyers of films were aware. With the coming of sound and talk an opportunity presented itself to re-establish newsreels on a new basis in the industry and to place them in an enhanced position with the public. Nothing of the kind happened.

The zest has gone out of the newsreel cameramen and their editors chiefly because the fate of the product is being decided not by performances in the field of adventure and on the screen, but around the tables in sales conferences and trade-offs of playing time. The truth is that a really important feature picture can in a fashion drive through its own way to the screen and the market, but the best newsreel on earth could not importantly affect its gross by sheer quality of performance.

The loss in this is rather to the whole industry and institution of the screen, because a very large part of the screen's status has been built by the newsreel. It is the one expression of the screen which has been the least subject to attack, censorship measures and the strictures imposed by the foes of the art. Any depreciation of the newsreel as an institution is a depreciation of the motion picture.

▲ ▲ ▲

Reductio ad Absurdum

OUR industrious Australian representative, Mr. Cliff Holt, sends just in time for this issue discussing the double feature policy, a contribution concerning the ultimate in the application of such a policy. He relates what happened when an exhibitor at Lakemba down in New South Wales decided to create a sensation by presenting eight features in an all day show, for one admission price, half price to children, and, incidentally a Mickey Mouse for good measure. It teaches a great moral lesson, as William A. Brady used to say.

▲ ▲ ▲

Here's An Optimist

THE daily press solemnly records that one Miss Marjorie O'Brien of Dorchester in Massachusetts has brought suit in the United States court against Goldman-Sachs & Company for $500,000,000 "in behalf of herself and other stockholders of the Goldman-Sachs Trading Corporation." There can be nothing seriously wrong with a country where any one can even start to sue for that kind of money.

▲ ▲ ▲

The Store Next Door

WHEN the plea of the store next door becomes an influential factor in the reopening of somnolent theatres, as has been recorded in several cities, there is evidence enough that the motion picture is woven into the warp and woof of American community life.

Perhaps we shall eventually have less "woofing" about the movies as a consequence. The motion picture is a local enterprise wherever there is a theatre.

MOTION PICTURE HERALD — MARTIN QUIGLEY, Editor-in-Chief and Publisher

Incorporating EXHIBITOR'S HERALD, founded 1915; MOTION PICTURE NEWS, founded 1913; MOVING PICTURE WORLD, founded 1907; MOTOGRAPHY, founded 1909; THE FILM INDEX, founded 1906. Published every Friday by QUIGLEY PUBLISHING COMPANY, 1790 Broadway, New York City. Telephone: CIrcle 7-3100. Martin Quigley, Editor-in-Chief and Publisher; Colvin Brown, Vice-President and General Manager; Terry Ramsaye, Editor; Ernest A. Rovelstad, Managing Editor; Chicago office, 407 South Dearborn street, Edwin S. Clifford, manager; Hollywood office, Pacific States Life Building, Leo Meehan, manager; London office, Faraday House. 8-10 Charing Cross Road, London, W.C. 2, W. H. Mooring, representative. Member Audit Bureau of Circulations. All contents copyrighted 1931 by Quigley Publishing Company. All editorial and business correspondence should be addressed to the New York office. BETTER THEATRES (with which THE SHOWMAN is incorporated), devoted to the construction, equipment and operation of theatres, is published every fourth week as section 2 of MOTION PICTURE HERALD. Other Quigley Publications: MOTION PICTURE DAILY, THE HOLLYWOOD HERALD, THE MOTION PICTURE ALMANAC, published annually, and THE CHICAGOAN.

WHAT THE PRESS SAYS

THE NEWS of CISCO in TEXAS has taken its pen in hand to discuss the subject of industrial "dictators" and more especially the appointment of Will Hays to his motion picture post, remarking:

. . . Politically the move has been a success, although there are critics who openly doubt that the moral obligations of the flickering sheet have been honestly served. Nevertheless there has been a noticeable improvement in motion picture standards, although this is not so much due to the influence of Mr. Hays' dictatorship as has been due to the effect of competition and an increasing sense of responsibility on the part of the producers and a growing awareness in the public mind. . . .

▼

THE EVENING POST of NEW YORK presents a copyrighted dispatch from London, under the signature of Morris Gilbert, quoting a famous novelist, as follows:

London, Nov. 7.—The cinema, "the universal narcotic," should be forbidden children until the age of 16, according to Mr. Compton Mackenzie, Scottish Nationalist, isolator and novelist, writing in the Evening Standard here. The reasons for this, Mr. Mackenzie indicates, are that the cinema destroys the capacity for wonder, cheapens womanhood, destroys imagination, and by causing children to suppose that life itself unrolls as easily as a film, is responsible for "the indolence which permeates the whole nation."

Only one film in 200 is fit for children, Mr. Mackenzie declares, and, such being the case, "there is only one way to keep children uncontaminated by the cinema, and that is to forbid them to enter the cinema except on holidays when a special program should be presented."

"We have rightly made the employment of child-labor impossible," he argues, "but I do not hesitate to say that to give children the freedom of the cinema is as great a crime against youth as to send children into cotton mills and coal mines. We have made a law forbidding children under a certain age to smoke. We have raised the age of consent. Then why, with all this tenderness for youthful morals, do we encourage children to encounter the worst side of life on the film before they encounter it directly

▼

THE STAR of KANSAS CITY in MISSOURI deplores the bombing of theatres, which seems to occur simultaneously with differences between the managements and labor, saying:

The callous criminals who are responsible for the bombing of theatre buildings and taking tear bombs into theatres while performances are being given are bringing discredit on the organized motion picture operators. Public indignation is not mollified by any protest that the leaders may make as to their lack of responsibility. The disturbances obviously grew out of the controversy between the operators and the theatre owners.

▼

The TIMES at OKMULGEE, in OKLAHOMA, applies rather strong words to a strong subject when it observes that "it appears that vile scenes, though fewer, have become even more obscene," and suggests that something be done about it, thus:

...It is high time the motion picture producers were taken to task by somebody. Many of the pictures the public is shown these days are the very essence of filth and obscenity...

...Most theatre operators have no means of knowing exactly what they are getting until they receive the film. Even if they did know, they are practically forced by the producers into the position of showing what they are furnished or closing their theatres.

...It is probable that the number of indecent pictures or pictures containing vile and obscene features is not as great as it was a few years ago, but it appears to the Times that the vile scenes, though fewer, have become even more obscene...

This Week

Spread of double featuring policy alarms leaders of the industry Page 9

$11,600,000 made available to new RKO and RKO Pathe combination by new financing in recapitalization Page 10

Mr. Fairbanks and his Picture, by Terry Ramsaye Page 11

Marie Dressler and Lionel Barrymore crowned "King and "Queen" at Hollywood Academy Awards banquet Page 13

Inferior quality threatens United States market for foreign films, says F. Wynne-Jones, Ufa representative Page 12

Suits on protection multiply over country, Allied States Association describes situation as a "general revolt against protection as now enforced" Page 14

FEATURES

Editorial Page 7
What the Press Says Page 8
The Camera Reports Page 15
J. C. Jenkins—His Colyum Page 81
School and Screen, by Rita C. McGoldrick Page 54
Asides and Interludes Page 19

DEPARTMENTS

Box Office Receipts Page 46
Chicago Page 56
Passing in Review Page 37
Managers Round Table Page 57
Short Features Page 56
Music and Talent Page 71
Sound Reproduction Page 53
The Release Chart Page 75
Classified Advertising Page 82

THE TRIBUNE of TAMPA in FLORIDA, way down in the tip of the nation, reflects editorially on certain aspects of Broadway and the amusement of the country, thus:

The movies are rapidly taking the "business" from the legitimate theatre. A current instance is the receivership of the Shuberts, for a long period leading and successful producers of the New York stage. The Shuberts admit a loss of $3,000,000 in two years. The corporation owns 23 theatres, leases 26 others, representing an investment of $20,000,000. The trouble is blamed by the Shuberts on the stock market crash and scarcity of "big spenders"—but the real cause is the increasing popularity of the motion picture shows.

Primarily, it is a matter of prices. The public grew tired of paying excessive prices, getting "stung" by speculators, perspiring in stuffy and uncooled houses when it could enjoy the refrigerated air of the movie palaces at a much smaller fee. Also, there has been a noticeable decline in the quality of stage offerings, while the movies have steadily improved in interest and attraction.

The Shuberts have lost $3,000,000 in two years, not because of the "big spenders," but because the little spenders are moving from the stage to the screen. The legitimate theatre will have to get down to the price level of the movies and, at the same time, present attractions at least equal in popular appeal.

▼

THE TIMES of NEW YORK, interviewing Miss Mary Pickford, quotes her in quest of the good, the true and the beautiful, in the following words:

"As for my picture, it will be a return to wholesome sentiment. The gangster and over-sexed films are done with. I should like to bring the children back into the theatre. I want a picture filled with joy and encouragement; I want cinema audiences to leave the theatre with a distinct feeling of uplift. In these times of depression, I think it is the duty of the theatre, the newspapers, the radio and all those who serve the public to take the national mind off the depression."

▼

THE JOURNAL of AKRON in OHIO editorially relates that State Senator Ackerman, addressing a Cleveland club, said:

. . . that while he has been an ardent backer of censorship for eight years, he now sees it as "thoroughly inefficient," and "then he surprisingly adds that it is doubtful if censorship can effect any praiseworthy influence on public morals. The job being done by Will Hays and his organization is exceeding in quality that done by any censor board in the country."

SPREADING OF DOUBLE FEATURE ALARMS LEADERS OF INDUSTRY

What Double Feature Policy Does to Industry

Double features appear to be unsuccessful theatre policy in a majority of instances, as, having only slight effect one way or the other on operating costs or box office receipts, they apparently injure—or threaten to injure—many vital factors in the industry. Among these are an injurious effect on the sale and quality of short subjects, the playing time of which has been reduced from 30 to 50 per cent wherever the practice is widespread. It has resulted in a shortage of major studio product that has afforded playing time for pictures of inferior quality. If the practice continues to spread, this product shortage, it is believed, will eventually reduce the quality of all productions, as the demand for pictures necessarily will require quantity production at lower rentals.

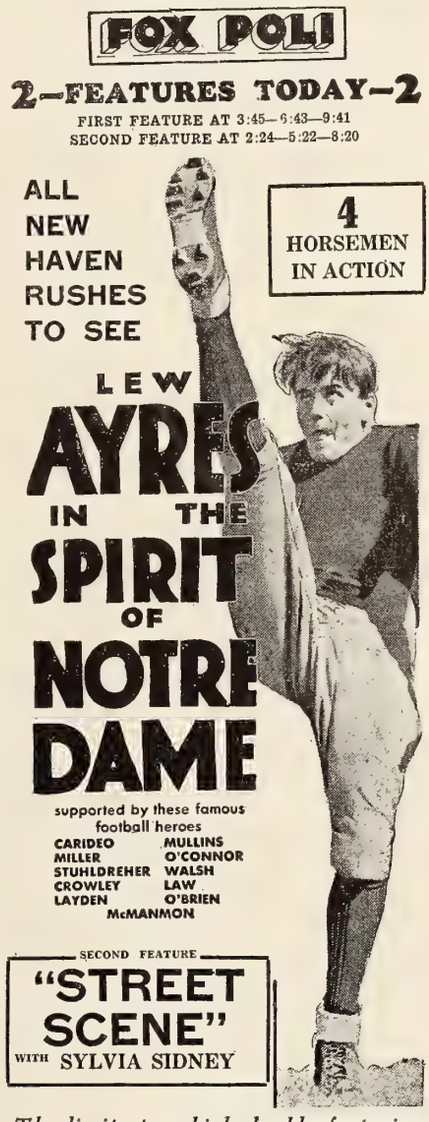
▼

The product shortage has created a larger market for independent and foreign product, and, in such hotbeds of double-featuring as Boston, Chicago and Montreal, such product has gone far toward making a continuance of the policy possible.

▼

Virtually all live entertainment and music has been eliminated from double featuring theatres.

▼



Apparently unethical trade practices have accompanied the spread of the policy, and threaten triple featuring and price wars. In the exhibition field, allegedly unfair competition is created by first-run and pre-release houses which are able to hold a double bill for one week, whereas competing subsequent-runs are obliged to make three and four changes a week, making their film requisites and commitments a correspondingly more serious problem.

▼

In the distribution end, the practice has encouraged irregular sales policies such as were revealed in Chicago, where, exhibitors charged, they were forced to purchase short subjects in order to obtain feature product. This situation was the subject of a federal investigation.

▼

The practice, on the other hand, apparently has proved satisfactory in the New England states and Montreal, and in instances elsewhere. There are numerous cases of both exhibitors and distributors endorsing the policy in certain situations and in entire localities. Industry observers, however, contend that double featuring exerts a real harmful influence.

The limits to which double featuring can go are shown in this newspaper ad of the Fox Poli at New Haven, which ran "The Spirit of Notre Dame" and "Street Scene" on one bill.

Eight Features In His One Show

The endurance racer on the midway has nothing on the exhibitor of Lakemba, Australia, who, on Eight Hours Day, a public holiday, put on an eight feature bill and threw in a Mickey Mouse and a few shorts for good measure. The session lasted from 10:30 a. m. to 5:30 p. m. Publicity matter invited patrons to "COME EARLY—BRING YOUR LUNCH—STOP ALL DAY—NO EXTRA CHARGE."

Prices were a quarter with half price for kiddies. The eight features were: "Fair Warning," "Show of Shows," "Dumbells in Ermine," "Murder Will Out," "Cat Creeps," "Bad Man," "Kiss Me Sergeant," and "Follow the Leader."

Practice Is Unsuccessful, Say Most Executives

See Price Cutting, Elimination of Shorts, Reduced Patronage and Revenue as Ultimate Results

In this consideration of what responsible industry authorities contend is becoming a problem of first rank, MOTION PICTURE HERALD has made an effort to determine whether the double feature policy is a sound or unsound practice—whether it is sound in some places and unsound in other places. In so doing, this publication interrogated representative independent and affiliated exhibitors, distributors and producers.

The findings are being presented in two articles. Next week the HERALD will present the opinions of all divisions of industry executives, and will pursue further the effects of the double feature policy on industry operations.

Nearing the proportions of an industry problem, double featuring continues to spread throughout the country in spite of the alarms being sounded by the many leaders who condemn the practice as a "dangerous and malignant disease" and declare it to have been proved "unsuccessful theatre policy" where practiced.

Among the evils industry executives see trailing in its wake are price cutting wars and triple feature programs, shortages of product, impaired quality of feature product through loss of industry revenue from enforced lower rentals, complete elimination of short subjects in their present form, and general, widespread reductions of theatre patronage and industry revenues. Evidence pointing toward these developments is already available, according to industry observers, in experimental triple feature programs in New England and Chicago theatres, in threatened price wars in several important centers, in the increase of double feature programs at ten-cent admissions in the East and Middle West, and in the definitely announced plans of Hollywood short subject producers to reduce the number of one and two-reel pictures to be made next year.

Charges that the double feature policy is being forced on subsequent-run exhibitors by the extended protection accorded first-run circuit houses, and that the practice is being so manipulated in many pre-release theatres that subsequent-runs are left at the mercy of exchanges, are also made by responsible exhibitor and distributor executives.

Elimination of live entertainment from the theatres has also followed the introduction of double feature policies, according to

(Continued on page 28)

$11,600,000 IN NEW FINANCING TO RKO IN RECAPITALIZATION MOVE

Plan Ready to Go to RKO Stockholders

New Class of Common Stock to Be Issued Supplanting Present Class A and B Shares

With amalgamation of production-distribution units of Radio Pictures and RKO Pathe practically completed, and a new personnel set-up for the home offices in the making, executives of the parent corporation, Radio - Keith - Orpheum, this week launched the machinery which next month will result in complete reorganization of its capital structure and make available to the new combination $11,600,000 in additional financing, to be obtained by offering to stockholders ten-year 5 per cent debentures.

Letters to holders of RKO stock announcing the new financing plan were ready for the signatures of company officers late on Wednesday, but up to press time had not been affixed. B. B. Kahane, vice president and general RKO counsel, stated that the official announcement would not be made until the stockholders' letters had been disposed of.

Stockholders Meet December 10

Stockholders will be asked to attend a meeting on December 10 to vote on the plan, which RKO expects to have in effect on January 1.

It is proposed to issue a new class of common stock on the basis of one share of the new common for each four shares of Class A or Class B stock now held. This will entail the issuance of approximately 600,000 new shares to supplant the present A, and 125,000 for the present 500,000 B shares. The B shares are owned or controlled by Radio Corporation of America, which also owns a block of the A shares. Control of the corporation by RCA is not affected by the refinancing.

Before the exchange is made, however, the present holders of stock will be offered an opportunity of subscribing to the debentures at the rate of $5 face value for each share of stock held. And as a premium they will receive three-fourths of a share of the new common for each $5 subscribed. This will require approximately 1,740,000 new shares, which, combined with the 600,000 required for the A stock will result in exactly the same number of shares of the new common outstanding as there are A shares outstanding.

The stockholders' letter states that fifty per cent of the purchase price of the debentures is to be paid on subscription, and the balance upon receipt of thirty days' notice from RKO. Holders who do not exercise the rights to subscribe to the new issue will hold 75 per cent less of a stock interest in the company than under terms of the present capitalization, according to the workings of the plan. Debentures and shares which are not subscribed for by A holders will go to Radio Corporation of America, which is underwriting the issue. It is understood that the affiliated General Electric and Westinghouse interests participated with RCA in underwriting.

Will Name Depository

RKO, it is understood, contemplates making application to the Stock Exchange for the issuance of certificates of deposit to cover the debentures and the 75 per cent of the new stock being issued in connection with the debentures, so that the debentures and 75 per cent of the new shares cannot be sold separately for a term of years stipulated in the certificates. A depository will be designated to hold 75 per cent of the shares and the debentures during the period, which may be three years.

The proceeds of the new financing will be used for working capital of the combined Radio Pictures and RKO Pathe companies and for repayment of maturing bank loans. It is understood that holders of outstanding secured gold notes in the amount of $6,000,000 have agreed to extend the maturity of the notes so that $100,000 will mature on the first day of each month in 1932, $200,000 on the first day of each month in 1933, and $600,000 on July 1, 1934.

Subsidiary Bonds Unaffected

The company's present capitalization consists of about 2,378,990 outstanding A shares, no par, and 500,000 B shares, convertible and of no par value. Bonds of subsidiaries outstanding are not affected by the recapitalization. Radio-Keith-Orpheum owns or controls RKO Radio Pictures, Inc., Keith-Albee-Orpheum Corporation, RKO Proctor Corporation, RKO Southern Corporation, Radio-Keith-Orpheum Western Corporation, RKO Mid-West Corporation and RKO Pathe.

Since incorporation in 1928 the company has paid no dividends on the Class A shares, which now sell around $5 a share. Class B shares are not entitled to dividends. In liquidation, Class A is entitled to all tangible assets and both classes of stock share equally in intangible assets. The Class A and B shares have cumulative voting power, each shareholder being entitled to as many votes as the total number of shares held, multiplied by the number of directors to be elected.

Concentration at Studios

With arrival in Hollywood this week of David O. Selznick, Joseph I. Schnitzer and Charles Rogers, new production triumvirate, steps were taken to concentrate studio efforts of both companies into one unit, thereby reducing overhead. Selznick, as generalissimo of production, told studio crews of both divisions that, "We want men and women who can and will deliver the work required. Many who are now with RKO and RKO Pathe can help in the type of pictures we must have. We will keep them and add others from the outside."

This is accepted as being significant of the proximity of the "ax," which is expected to lop off the heads of dozens of employees and department heads of each studio in the movement to consolidate forces, which is expected to be completed by December 10. The studio chiefs now are studying the personnel lists to determine the value of existing manpower.

Elimination of one complete set of exchanges was started this week from the RKO home office in New York, under direction of Lee Marcus, the new head of distribution, and Ned Depinet and Charles Rosenzweig, Western and Eastern sales chiefs, respectively. Complete details of the new exchange lineup were announced last week, and appeared in the November 7 issue of Motion Picture Herald.

Only one other phase of the personnel setup remains to be clarified and that centers about a home office administrative group. Wholesale slashing of minor employees was expected early this week but it failed to materialize. E. H. Goldstein, in charge of realigning home office departments stated on Wednesday that the new setup will be known late this week. No official announcement has been made regarding changes and elimination of the various department heads, but it is due Friday.

Threatened Fox Strike Cancelled

The threatened strike of union operators, stage hands and other affiliated employees of all Fox theatres and studios was cancelled on Wednesday, following conferences between Harry Arthur, Fox Theatres head, and William Canavan, president of the I A T S E, at Arthur's offices in New York.

According to the agreement reached by Arthur and Canavan, all union employees of Fox will continue at work, disregarding the strike orders issued earlier in the week by Canavan, which were to have been effective at 500 Fox theatres and at the studio on Friday.

Canavan's strike orders were issued at Kansas City in protest against the activities of W. H. Lollier, assistant to Oscar Oldknow, in the strike at Kansas City suburban theatres over efforts to establish the one-man-to-a-booth policy.

Amusement Stocks Rise $28,869,133

Market value of the five amusement stocks which constitute the entertainment group in the index compiled by The New York Times gained $28,869,133 in value during October as against a loss of $115,507,019 indicated in September over the August totals.

Loew's, Inc. showed the greatest increase, with a rise of $12,994,819. Paramount followed with $11,157,736 and Warners was third with $3,801,214. Fox Class "A" with a $1,212,830 rise and RKO "A" with a decline of $297,466 followed in that order.

The average net gain in points was 2.723, placing the group third in the list of 20 stocks in the index.

MR. FAIRBANKS AND HIS PICTURE

Freewill Film of Adventure Reflects Need of Experiments To Lead Pictures Somewhere

By TERRY RAMSAYE

A curious new product has come to town. It is Douglas Fairbanks' "Around the World in Eighty Minutes," the by-product of an adventure cruise, a tentative ambition toward the marquee lights again, and a spirit of cinema experiment.

Mr. Fairbanks had the cruise and the tentative ambition. Mrs. Fairbanks had the impulse for experiment.

The result is a highly experimental and therefore interesting product. It is a picture which falls into no established categories, has no precedents and in consequence is likely to fret the forehead of the showman.

▼

Mr. and Mrs. Fairbanks are both now in New York, with the twenty-seventh floor of the Sherry-Netherlands as a place to dress in between engagements, while they collectively and severally do a bit of deciding about what, if anything, they do next in this art and industry. And while she is definitely and emphatically Mrs. Fairbanks at the Sherry-Netherlands, she is most positively Miss Pickford in plans, considerations and utterances about the motion picture.

Miss Pickford, according to the bevy of twittering newspaper interviewers who flocked to her while Mr. Fairbanks and I convened on really weighty matters, has some definite plans about making some pictures that will bring the children back to the theatre. Meanwhile I gather that Mr. Fairbanks has no definite plans, and is not worried largely about bringing anybody back anywhere, being the while willing to appear on the screen with adequate provocation.

Some one on this informal occasion was indiscreet enough to remark that "Mary doesn't know just what she wants to do, but she always knows what she wants Doug to do."

▼

Now there is just a tint of that coloration about this "Around the World in Eighty Minutes." It is said to be a great picture. We have it on the word of the esteemed and experienced Mr. James R. Quirk of Photoplay Magazine, who invaded a screening in the cutting room in Hollywood. We also have it on the word and judgment of Mr. Leo Meehan, publisher of the Hollywood Herald, who sends a review saying that the picture is "a riot," and a lot of other things calculated to fire interest and enthusiasm.

The really important aspect of the matter is that probably for the first time in the brief career of the art of the motion picture, a skilled maker of pictures, an able actor and dramatist of the screen, went forth and somewhat of his own freewill and purpose made a motion picture which he did not have to make. This is precisely the sort of endeavor and the sort of auspices under which the art of the motion picture can hope for a free experiment ground and a possibility of experimental forms which may ultimately get the picture somewhere. I pause to admit that this evening the art appears to be nowhere much at present.

Regardless of what one may think of "Around the World in Eighty Minutes" in terms of box office, it is precisely that light and casual sort of thing, done with amateur spirit by a professional hand, which may yet liberate the screen from some of its dreadful fetishes and conventions.

I said something about freewill, but as I now recall it Mr. Fairbanks remarked that when he was going off on his trip it was Mrs. Fairbanks who said something in her sweetly emphatic Irish way about taking a camera along.

After screening the picture in a projection room along with the artist who is going to see what he can do about the press-book, I come to the notion that it is just possible that when Mr. Fairbanks got home, he decided to go over to the studio and make good on his home work by making his world tour picture there.

▼

That remark is not made in carping criticism. The method represents the very best technique. Two cases in point. Back in the dim days of long ago when Mutual was a film corporation it bought, for $25,000 in American silver, from Panchito Villa, all the rights to picturing a Mexican war, aforementioned and said war to be fought by daylight in behalf of the camera crew. The result was two thousand very poor feet of film from Mexico, while D. W. Griffith and Raoul Walsh were employed to make the war for release in a Hollywood studio. They made the best war. Also once upon a time I had to sew up the wavering strands of a great "African Epic" and eventually got the emotional high kick of the product with a scene which I made in Chic Sales' backyard at Scarsdale, New York, with one spear from the American Museum of Natural History and one black boy I discovered on a nocturnal prowl of Broadway at 3 a.m., when I observed him mopping the floor in the Willys-Overland sales room.

▼

Results are everything, and methods are nothing, as Mr. Whistler implied when he said he would paint his pictures with a shoe-brush, if he thought it would make better pictures.

So somewhere between the wilds of Asia, including Cambodia, and the wiles of Hollywood, Mr. Fairbanks emerges with a picture of him or a picture of going around the world. Part of it he gave a close shave and a lot of it was just "once over smooth." I think there is probably as much Hollywood in "Around the World" as there was of Mexico in Trader Horn's motion picture Africa. In any event, Hollywood is just as good as the globe for going around and around.

"Around the World in Eighty Minutes" is not at all a great picture, but it is a great deal of fun, more especially fun if one chances to know a bit about picture making and the delights of playing with sound track, the Dunning process, the stock shot libraries, and the sundry processes of "dubbing" speech, having the while a little feeling for musical foolery.

It is perfectly clear that having come home and got themselves thoroughly confronted with the problem, Mr. Fairbanks, Victor Fleming, the director, and Hank Sharp, the photographer, decided to go to work and make the best of what had been a merry good time. There were some records of notables, some adventures in the jungle, some little episodes in Japan and the like. They first put the beads on a string and then filled the gaps, sometimes with pictures, sometimes with maps and Fairbanks' persiflage, and some persiflage quite so gauche that it must have been written for him, "dictated but not read." When there was a serious gap in the continuity Mr. Fairbanks covered it with a brassie shot on the map. It might well have been, in some passages, a travesty on movie technique.

There are bits when the outraging of movie makers tradition is gorgeous, but that, to be sure, is nothing that the Ultimate Consumers are likely to know much about.

▼

Some of the gay editorial abandon of the ensemble is indicated by the fact that occasion has been found, very slight occasion, too, for the inclusion of Mickey Mouse. That is, one supposes, just a tribute to United Artists and Mr. Joseph Schenck, with whom Mr. Fairbanks has been golfing at Lakeview this week. The narrative movement is such that Mickey Mouse is not a surprise; nothing would be.

It may be remarked that Mr. Fairbanks has built no castles in Spain on this picture. "Anyway," he says, "it does hold my interest. When a picture has nothing to it, one feels it and is done, but this one I like to go back to and keep thinking about things about it."

Also it is to be recorded that Mr. Fairbanks is under no illusions at all about the fact that he has had, in terms of screen triumph, greater days than this. "Ex-king and queen" are not strange words to him. He knows and says that the coming of the sound picture has done things to him.

"You can build a superman illusion in the silent picture—but when they get the voice, too—oh, but that's another thing."

"I sometimes think," he said, not too pensively, "that after a big success it would be nice if there was another world next door where one could move over and be a spectator for a while."

▼

Anyway if vigorous men of experience and attainment in the world of picture making can graduate from professionalism, with their prosperity and resources, into amateur endeavor the motion picture may yet achieve a background of art in front of it. Professional pictures are all too seriously made. Mr. Fairbanks' new picture is not.

QUALITY THREATENS U. S. MARKET FOR FOREIGN FILMS: WYNNE-JONES

Sound Moratorium Starts in Australia

The future of Western Electric and RCA Photophone in Australia, following the New South Wales Government's legislation spreading exhibitor equipment payments over 10 years, thereby annulling the original contract which demanded liquidation of liabilities in three, has caused considerable speculation in the trade in the Antipodes. J. H. Barker, head of W. E. in Australia, stated that his company would continue to sell as before, giving prospective lessees the full benefit of the reduced payments granted to those who had already wired. He described the moratorium as drastic. "Only a strongly capitalized company like Western Electric would be able to continue under the conditions this legislation imposes," he commented, adding that the company was able to meet those circumstances. He expressed, further, the desire to have equitable arrangements with exhibitors in other parts of Australia. If that is to be taken as an indication that W. E. is prepared to extend the payment period to 10 years, it will find plenty of showmen anxious to fall in line.

Prior to the passage of the bill, Western Electric offered to extend the payments to six years, exactly halving, therefore, an exhibitor's weekly cheque to the company. Exhibitor representatives held out for the full 10 years however, and eventually secured them.

Momand Oklahoma Action Dismissed

Charges of alleged conspiracy brought at Shawnee, Okla., by A. B. Momand against Griffith Amusement Company and national distributors, was dismissed this week by District Judge Johnson because films are interstate commerce and the alleged acts complained of by Momand were acts of interstate commerce and so were outside of the state's jurisdiction.

Momand has pending a federal damage suit against the Griffith circuit and distributors and, through his attorney, has stated that he will carry the case to the United States Supreme Court if necessary.

52 For British International

British International Pictures, English producer, has a schedule of 52 features for the first time in its history. RCA Photophone sound recording is used at the Elstree studios of the company.

To Erect Larger Theatre

United Artists will complete a new theatre at Berkeley, Cal., with revised plans for a seating capacity of 1,750 instead of 900 as originally planned.

Critical Shoppers Now, Says Ufa's Agent

Company Drops Plan for National Circuit Here; Will Concentrate On Rebuilding Lost Prestige

The American market for German pictures has been so seriously impaired during the past year by a flood of inferior productions that the immediate future of foreign dialogue pictures and theatres playing them exclusively is threatened, declares F. Wynne-Jones, American representative for Ufa.

So serious has the situation become, Wynne-Jones said, that Ufa has temporarily abandoned its plans for the establishment of a national circuit of German theatres and will instead concentrate exclusively on rebuilding the lost prestige and drawing power of the German picture in America.

The loss of patronage for foreign product is not confined solely to purely American audiences which once accepted the foreign talker as a fad and novelty, but extends as well into the foreign-born clientele, according to Wynne-Jones. He ascribes this loss of foreign patronage for foreign product to indiscriminate bookings in the past and to importation of a large number of second-rate productions.

"America is regarded as some sort of El Dorado by every foreigner," Wynne-Jones said. "When the fad for foreign productions was at its height, European producers immediately imagined that great sums could be realized on any production they were able to get into American theatres. As a result, anything they had on hand was sent to America, at any sort of terms. The main idea was to get a picture into this country.

"Americans," he continued, "were not critical shoppers for foreign pictures. Many who paid to see them did not even understand them. But as long as the fad persisted exhibitors booked foreign product, and in most cases anything would do.

"Foreign-born Americans, however, were more discriminating. The continual flood of inferior foreign product finally discouraged their patronage. In many cities of large foreign-born population there is not now enough patronage for a foreign picture to maintain a single theatre playing foreign product exclusively."

Syracuse, New York, was cited as a city with a German population of 20,000 in which there is only an insignificant support for German pictures. Syracuse, it was said, is typical of many other situations where similar conditions prevail.

As a result of this tendency, Wynne-Jones said, Ufa is abandoning its plans for a circuit of German theatres in America at this time and will devote itself to re-establishing patronage for German pictures. The efforts to be made by Ufa in this contingency will revolve about the utmost care in importing and booking foreign product; and will appeal almost exclusively to foreign-born audiences.

"I have already rejected 40 per cent of the foreign productions available for the American market because of the greater need for re-establishing audience confidence in foreign productions," Wynne-Jones said. "It is now essential that the foreign picture of the future be far above the average heretofore established in order to cope with the new critical attitude of the foreign-born American. It is on him we must rely for the basis of our permanent patronage hereafter."

Katz Denies Plan Of Decentralizing

Sam Katz, executive operator of Publix Theatres, on Wednesday branded as "unfounded" reports that Paramount and Publix will be completely divorced as corporate identities, or that a plan of decentralization of Publix Theatres, similar to Fox's method, is contemplated.

The yarn which Katz denied stated that company executives had abandoned a plan to separate the two units, and in its place had adopted decentralization of the Publix houses, discontinuing direct home office operation in place of field management by district supervisors who would be held responsible for operation, buying, booking, and all other actual management factors.

It was further reported that Publix is anxious to unload large blocks of theatres to former owners, as has been done in Florida with E. J. Sparks, who already has taken back 60 which he had formerly sold to Publix. Sparks may also take over houses at Georgia, with Publix holding a 50 per cent interest.

Sees Value of Flexible Ad Budgets During Next Month

Flexible budgets for advertising are urged on managers by Arthur Mayer of Publix, particularly with reference to the month of December. Campaigns should be planned as far ahead as possible, Mayer advises.

He points out that in general, it is advisable to spend more on advertising in the first two weeks of December than in the third, consequently budgets should be adjusted to take care of the larger expenditure then, balanced by smaller expenses later.

Report On Score Charges Held Up By Vincent Group For Week

Exhibitors will not learn the fate of score charges as levied by distributors until next week, when the Continuing Committee, headed by Walter Vincent, of Wilmer & Vincent, will meet in New York to make known the results of its negotiations and discussions with distributors.

DRESSLER AND BARRYMORE CROWNED "KING AND QUEEN" BY HOLLYWOOD

Bioscope Article on Forecast in Herald Arouses Industry

"U. S. will reciprocate," says The Bioscope of London editorially in replying to comment in English circles that followed an article in that publication citing a forecast in MOTION PICTURE HERALD that a 25 per cent decline in American producers' income in Great Britain would follow the fall in the pound sterling.

The Bioscope editorial, in the issue of October 21, reads:

"Why ask whether America prefers reciprocity or tariffs when the attitude of American concerns has shown consistently that the word reciprocity is omitted from the American vocabulary.

"This is the gist of comment aroused by a BIOSCOPE article last week when we drew attention to a MOTION PICTURE HERALD forecast that through the fall in the pound sterling American motion picture producers were to suffer a reduction of 25 per cent in their income from Great Britain. The same forecast suggested that the effect of going off the gold standard would reduce the U. S. A.'s total film income by 1¼ per cent.

"Simon Rowson, of Ideal, sets that percentage at a much higher figure and is supported by other statisticians in a computation of roughly 15 per cent.

"That America will have to 'reciprocate,' whether or not the strong possibility of an imports tariff becomes a certainty, grows more and more apparent.

"Leading American distributor executives in this country have acknowledged that America cannot turn down British films such as 'The Ghost Train,' 'Hindle Wakes,' 'The Happy Ending' and 'The Calendar,' without betraying definite anti-British bias, and if U. S. A. would welcome a heavy import tariff that is the one means by which she can be certain of getting it.

"The question emerges at this stage: In the event of a tariff against American motion pictures, will British producers set aside temptations which the restriction of competition might create; will they realize that they have most to gain by fostering the marked preference which large sections of exhibitors are now showing for British films of approved quality?

"Then again there are heartening signs that, led by the Gaumont renting affiliates, British distributors have inculcated a new spirit of showmanship into the British film business and recent trade presentations have revealed that British executives have at last plumbed the depths of subtlety in motion picture propaganda.

"We are convinced that America will reciprocate: It will not pay her to do otherwise."

OCTOBER'S SIX BEST

To follow upon the widespread interest in and success of MOTION PICTURE HERALD'S presentation of the 15 Box Office Champions of 1930-31, an election of winners by research into the real box office figures, next week THE HERALD will publish the findings of the box office on the six best pictures of October.

This is a decision made by the public, by the consumers of the motion picture, with a vote cast the one way we can be sure they mean it—by dollars laid down at the box office.

October's Six Best means best in earning power—results in money—what you are in business for.

Paramount Publix: 2½% Dividend

A dividend of 2½ per cent, payable in stock of the corporation and equaling one-fortieth of a share for each share held was declared at the regular monthly meeting of the Paramount Publix board of directors on Monday. The dividend is payable on December 31, 1931, to stockholders of record December 4.

At the same meeting and with nothing unusual in the atmosphere of a regular monthly board meeting John Hertz was elected a director to fill a vacancy and William Wrigley, Jr., and Albert D. Lasker were elected directors in place of Albert A. Kaufman and Daniel Frohman, resigned.

William H. English was elected to the newly created office of chairman of the board and Hertz was subsequently, and in due form, elected a member of the finance committee in place of English.

Tom Barry, Writer, Dead

Tom Barry, Hollywood screen writer and playwright, is dead there of heart disease at the age of 47. Two heart attacks proved fatal. He is best known for his adaptation of "In Old Arizona," "East Lynne" and "Over the Hill."

Norman Taurog Named For Best Direction

Honors Go to Radio's "Cimarron" First National's "Dawn Patrol" And Paramount's "Tabu"

The annual awards of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences and the function attendant upon their announcement in a definite sense signalize the coming of age of the art and industry of the screen. One need to have known this instituiton but a few years to remember when such an organization as the Academy and such recognition of attainments between rivals would have been impossible. The artist more than any other person, probably, works for expression to and approval of his fellows. The Academy award, therefore, has a meaning to and within the Hollywood community which rather transcends the triumphs of the marquee lights and the approval of critics. The Academy judgment is a professional judgment of professional efforts. It is interesting, though, to observe how definitely the opinions tend to parallel those which come, in an inarticulate sort of way, from what we hazily call "the public." Hollywood has never been more intent than now upon doing an effective job. Hollywood's job is a mosaic of the individual efforts of the makers of pictures. Technique, skill, feeling, artistry, finish, all these are the merchandise upon which the whole structure depends. Academy encouragement is a service to the world of the picture, including the audience.

TERRY RAMSAYE

Hollywood's mythical professional kingdom has selected as its rulers for the next year Lionel Barrymore and Marie Dressler, who were duly crowned "King and Queen" at the annual awards dinner of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, held at Hollywood's Biltmore Hotel on Tuesday night.

Members of the Academy voted top honors to Miss Dressler for her performance in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Min and Bill," and to Mr. Barrymore for his characterization in "A Free Soul," likewise a Metro production.

Following speeches by Academy President M. C. Levee, Will H. Hays, president of the M. P. P. D. A., Louis B. Mayer, production executive of M-G-M's studio, and Vice-president Curtis, 1,500 of Hollywood's foremost personalities and studio executives

(Continued on page 18)

SUITS ON PROTECTION MULTIPLY; "GENERAL REVOLT," SAYS ALLIED

U. S. Department Shows Increased Activity

Plea for Judicial Definition Prompts Reply; Great Cost in Time and Money Would Be Involved

In what is described by Allied States Association as a "general revolt against protection as now enforced," numerous private suits attacking protection systems are being filed in many sections of the country and agents of the Department of Justice are reported busy with investigations following receipt of an increasing number of complaints. In the offing is a federal suit attacking Nebraska protection and there are prospects of a state proceeding in Wisconsin.

Actions in both states resulted from alleged efforts to enforce uniform zoning and protection agreements and are sponsored by Allied units which were organized, it is said, in protest against the uniform plans which were accepted by older exhibitor organizations in both states.

Association Forwards Complaint

In addition to scores of actions on the part of individual Allied units, the national association is gathering additional complaints from members and, at their request, is forwarding those it considers meritorious to the Department of Justice. It is the opinion of Allied leaders, however, that the complaints being forwarded by it comprised "only a fraction of the total complaints against zoning and protection practices being sent to that agency."

Allied also believes that the number of private suits attacking protection practices "will be increased, and that there will be a state proceeding in Wisconsin in the near future."

Department of Justice officials, following an established policy, refused to discuss the number or nature of complaints or investigations involving protection and zoning practices it had received or instigated. All details are being kept confidential by the department on the assumption that if the source and nature of the complaint were made public, and later evidence failed to corroborate the charges, the initial publicity might prove a source of damage to those accused which a final clean bill of health could not repair.

Investigators Active

It was pointed out that a similar policy was forced upon the Federal Trade Commission after many complaints were received in Washington that the announcement of investigations initiated had materially injured those named.

From authoritative sources, however, it was learned that investigators working out of the office of John H. Amen, special assistant attorney general in charge of film cases, have shown increased activity within recent weeks in many sections.

Allied contends that, without a judicial definition of the rights involved in protection disputes, agreements are next to impossible, and that, as a result, federal action is the only recourse of the exhibitor.

"All attempts to settle protection issues by agreement result in conflicting assertions of right," said an Allied spokesman, "and as there are no judicial interpretations of the asserted rights, protection disputes inevitably go unsettled.

"Allied would welcome judicial definitions of rights as the only means of resolving protection issues, believing that any agreement of that kind must be founded on an understanding and recognition of the rights of all parties involved."

Distributors' representatives in New York said, in answer to this Allied viewpoint, that "judicial definitions of protection rights could be obtained only at great cost in money and time. Years would be required to obtain the legal interpretations of the rights involved, and identical, lengthy procedures would have to be repeated in every situation."

Coast-to-Coast Broadcast to Open Industry's Motion Picture Week

The Motion Picture Industry will launch its concentrated drive for the aid of the nation's unemployed, in the form of National Motion Picture Week, November 18-25, with a monster radio broadcast on Sunday evening, November 15 from 10:45 to 11:45 Eastern Standard Time. Will Hays will be the featured speaker, seconded by a gigantic entertainment program of which S. L. (Roxy) Rothafel will be master of ceremonies of the air. The most notable names among Hollywood's brilliant array of stars will participate in the "Parade of Stars," which will go out over the ether from the two great national chains, National Broadcasting Company and the Columbia network. Half of the program will be broadcast from New York and half from Hollywood. The air chains have donated the time and virtually every star in motion pictures has offered Roxy his services, by whom as many as possible will be introduced during the hour.

Howard Deitz, publicity and advertising director of M-G-M, is at work preparing the continuity for the program, which, it is said, will present the greatest array of acting, speaking and musical talent ever assembled on the air at one time. Erno Rapee will direct a symphony orchestra in New York and an orchestra made up of the combined musical groups of the Coast studios will render musical accompaniment from Hollywood, from which point Will Hays will deliver his address.

Notable in the annals of the industry is the united front with which the entire motion picture business is facing this call for aid. Every circuit theatre in the country will offer a benefit performance as well as a tremendous number of independent theatre owners the country over during National Motion Picture Week. Eastman Kodak and Dupont have donated 1,000,000 feet of film prints of the special Eddie Cantor trailer, which has already gone out, as have the 20,000 press books, filled with exploitation and selling suggestions on the benefit performances, and of which Paul Gulick was the editor. Consolidated Film Industries laboratories have made the Cantor prints gratis. National labor leaders have given assurance that theatre workers will donate their services to the effort and already 6,000,000 of the vast number of tickets needed have been printed and distributed free of charge by 15 companies.

The industry in every possible phase is marshaling its legions behind the worthy movement, and beginning with the unequaled radio broadcast of Sunday evening, will throw itself whole-heartedly, all evidence indicates, into the task of realizing the greatest possible revenue for the aid of the unfortunate unemployed, from its nation-wide relief effort.

H-F Not Dropping Robb-Rowley Group

Hughes Franklin Theatres will continue to operate the Robb and Rowley division of Texas theatres.

"Not a word of truth in it," said Harold B. Franklin, president of H-F, regarding reports that his company is considering the return of this group of 48 Texas theatres to their former owners. "As a matter of fact," Franklin stated, "business conditions are on the upgrade in Texas, and instead of deserting that field, we are building new theatres at Laredo and Del Rio and are rebuilding the Ritz at Dallas."

Joan, Doug Jr. to East

Joan Crawford and Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., are leaving Hollywood for the East late this week for a vacation.

THE CAMERA REPORTS

A SOJOURN AT HOME. They're in China, according to the script, for "Shanghai Express," which Paramount is making with Marlene Dietrich, the star. Other members of the cast shown are Clive Brook, Anna May Wong, Warner Oland, Eugene Pallette, Louise Closser Hale, Emil Chautard and Gustav von Seyffertitz. And "the movies" and China being what they are, this snapshot was made in Hollywood.

MARRIED. After all those rumors, Dorothy Mackaill did take the threatened (or promised) step, and here she is with her husband, Albert Miller, a Los Angeles radio singer. The First National star and Miller were wed in Yuma, Arizona.

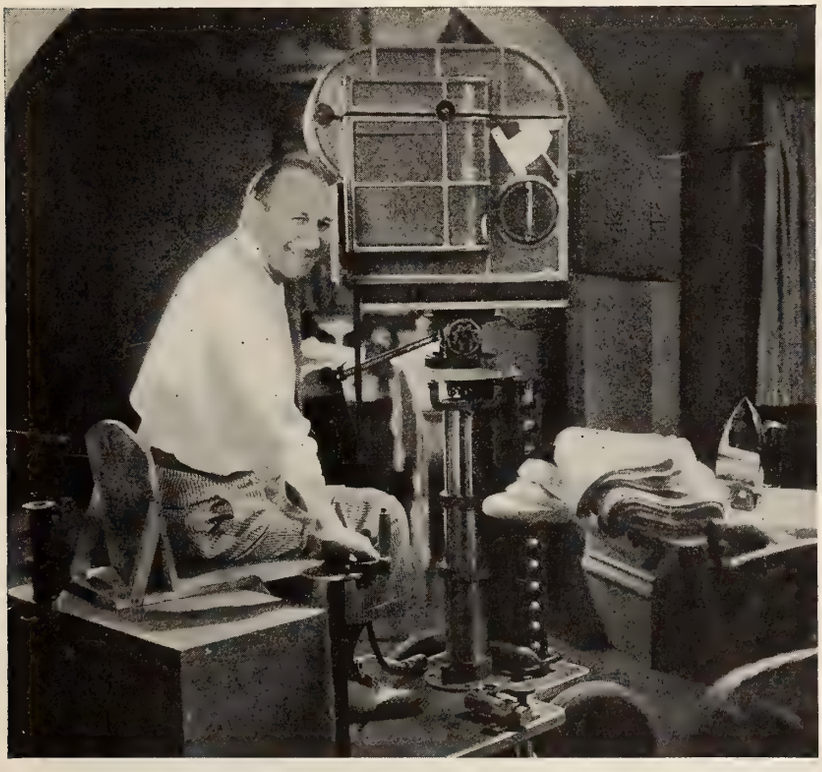
FANTASY. (Left). Revelations contrived by modern lighting to make a gossamer world as old-fashioned as fairies—but not fooling anyone as to the substance of the M-G-M featured player, Astrid Allwyn.

STAFF OF NEW NEWSREEL UNIT. Fox Movietone News now has its own organization in Australia, and here is the staff: Back row—Miss Cooper, James Pearson, William Trerise, Theodore Martin, Eric Bierre, Mervyn Callow, Kel Vaughn, Stanley Pentreath, William Thorp, Miss Pierce. Seated—Ray Vaughn, H. G. Guinnes, editor; Harry Lawrenson, Paul Hance, Colin Hall. In front—Hugh McInnes and Sidney Wood.

FLYING TRIP. It's just one town after another these days for Estelle Taylor, who is making a personal appearance tour in the East. While her latest picture, United Artists' "Unholy Garden," plays Broadway, she herself is "doing the road."

WHAT THE PUBLIC WANTS. M. A. Silver should know, for he's an exhibitor—head of Warners' West Coast houses. He, the new Warner star from Europe, Lil Dagover; and Michael Curtiz, who is directing Miss Dagover's first American picture, "The Captain's Wife," are shown at the studio—in, perhaps, a conference.

EVENING ATTIRE. What time in the evening, the sponsor of this picture did not say. We're told the gown shows a "renaissance of point venise and square decolletege above black velvet." And we know she's Marian Marsh, Warner player.



THREE TRUSTY PEERS. Star, director and a very young featured player. The latter you'll scarcely recognize as Junior Coghlan, he's grown up so! Actually in on a conference between Leo Carrillo and James Cruze over scenes for James Cruze Productions' "Race-track," which will be a vehicle for the veteran stage and screen star.

A STORY OF THREE BEARS. Only about one of 'em is shown here, but actually, three of them were bagged by Hal Roach during his recent vacation in the wilds of British Columbia. The comedy producer planed with a party to Alberta, then packed to the interior. He is shown with C. B. Brunson, Hollywood sportsman.

NOT SO HOT. Expectedly cool—the weather, However, John Dored (shown above) did contrive gave the Wilkins expedition to the Arctic Circle. However, John Dored (shown above) did contrive pictures, and they will form a film released by Paramount in the quite near future.

ONE OF THE UNSUNG. A play should not be a thing of mechanics —hence the credit to the players is as it should be. But in these esoteric pages we can make a fine gesture toward that great invisible cast—and here we make one, in a smiling study of Robert Kurrle, First National cinematographer, atop his roving camera.

FAREWELL, BROADWAY. For a while, at any rate. Already in Hollywood, is Ginger Rogers, coming to play the feminine lead in William Boyd's "Bad Timber," for RKO-Pathe. The baby-talk girl has been making personal appearances.

DRESSLER, BARRYMORE WIN ACADEMY CROWNS

(Continued from page 13)

cheered the new "king and queen" until the echoes thundered beyond the Biltmore doors where a crowd of 30,000 milled about in what appeared to a concerted effort to catch a glimpse of their favorite stellar lights.

The selections are made annually by Academy members who ballot by mail, and resulted in the selection of Paramount's "Skippy" for best direction, with honors going to Norman Taurog. Radio's "Cimarron" was selected as the best produced feature, and John Monk Saunders' version of First National's "Dawn Patrol" received honors for being the best original story.

Honors for adaptation went to Howard Estabrook for his work in "Cimarron," and to Floyd Crosby for his photographic efforts in Paramount's "Tabu." Max Ree's art direction brought further recognition to "Cimarron."

Western Electric automatically received honors when the Academy selected Paramount for achieving the best sound reproduction.

The enormous crowds of picturegoers, star gazers and hero worshippers began to gather in front of the Biltmore shortly before dark, assuming such terrific proportions when the first Academy members arrived that efforts of Los Angeles police were totally unsuccessful in maintaining order and a clear passage to the hotel entrance. Norma Shearer, Marie Dressler and others were the victims of over-enthusiastic fans who actually tore gowns of several stars to tatters.

Dinner Brilliant Affair

The dinner, which began at 9:45, far surpassed similar Academy events in brilliance and climaxed Hollywood's current social season. Speeches of Hays and other industry executives continued until 1 A. M., when the actual counting of ballots was completed.

The welcome accorded Vice-president Curtis and delegates of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association made motion picture history. Flanked on each side by industry executives and members of the Los Angeles newspaper world, an official committee of Hollywood's biggest names greeted the vice-president. The committee included:

J. A. Bell, Vilma Banky, Dr. Frank S. Harham, George S. Barnes, Warner Baxter, Scott R. Beall, Fred Beetson, Paul Bern, Ralph Block, E. Manchester Boddy, Frank Borzage, Hobart Bosworth, Herbert Brenon, H. B. R. Briggs, Clive Brook, Edwin Carewe, Norman Chandler, Alfred A. Cohn, John W. Considine, Jr., Jack Coogan, Jack Conway, Lester Cowan.

Bebe Daniels, Dolores Del Rio, Reginald Denny, Billie Dove, Louise Dresser, Howard Estabrook, Louise Fazenda, Dee D. Garmes, Cedric Gibbons, Claude Gillingwater, James Gleason, John F. Goodrich, Sid Grauman, Alfred E. Green, Sam Hardy, E. Percy Heath, Henry Henigson, Jack Holt, William J. Howard, Lucien Hubbard, Joseph Jackson, Sam Jaffe, De Witt Jennings.

Joseph Johnson, John Le Roy Johnson, Albert A. Kaufman, Henry King, Carl Laemmle, Jr., Mark Larkin, William Le Baron, Mervyn Le Roy, Harold Lloyd, Edwin J. Loeb, Josephine Lovett, J. Farrell MacDonald, E. J. Mannix, Ned Marin, Oliver T. Marsh, Thomas Meighan, Coleen Moore, Antonio Moreno, Chester Morris, Thomas Moulton, Mae Murray, Leo McCarey, Victor McLaglen, Douglas MacLean.

Warner Oland, P. E. Pelton, Van Nest Polglase, Irene Rich, Rod La Rocque, Charles R. Rogers, Alfred Santell, Joseph M. Schenck, Victor L. Schertzinger, B. P. Schulberg, David O. Selznick, Winfield Sheehan, Lowell Sherman, Nugent H. Slaughter, Chandler Sprague, Edward Sutherland.

Norma Talmadge, Sam Taylor, Irving G. Thalberg, George Thomas, Ernest Torrence, King Vidor, Fred Wagner, Jack L. Warner, Carey Wilson, Lois Wilson, Clinton Wunder, Alvin Wyckoff, Waldemar Young, Darryl Francis Zanuck.

M. C. Levee, new president of the Academy, made a short speech after being introduced to the members. He talked about the merits of the Academy and its importance in the industry. Vice-President Curtis made a short speech, as did Louis B. Mayer.

Clinton Wunder Resigns

Will H. Hays, president of the M.P.P.D.A., took a strong stand against censorship. He said: "I have no quarrel with the individual censors, but the principle of censorship is bad." He then changed the subject to the present economic depression, stating that the motion picture industry is now going through a readjustment period and it is coming out of the depression better than any other business.

Hays discussed the Code of Ethics and told the members of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences that the motion picture industry should live up to the code in all respects.

Academy executives and members were taken by complete surprise when Clinton Wunder announced at the dinner his resignation as executive secretary. No successor was named.

Each artist and studio worker selected for honors in the various classifications received a statuette symbolizing the particular branch of production in which the achievement was attained.

Led by Louis B. Mayer, chairman, the awards committee includes B. P. Schulberg, vice-chairman; Al Cohn, Ralph Hammeras, Jean Hersholt, J. T. Reed, John Robertson, King Vidor, Lois Wilson, Waldemar Young. This group was assisted in the balloting by Carl Dreher and a committee on best scientific achievements, which consisted of Karl Struss, J. M. Nickolaus, J. A. Ball, Nugent Slaughter, J. T. Reed, Wesley C. Miller, Hal Mohr, E. H. Hansen, Louis Kolb, Virgil Miller and Roy Pomeroy.

Arrangements for the dinner and presentation were in the hands of Harry Rapf, Reginald Barker, Fred W. Beetson, Donald Crisp, Arthur Edeson, Lawrence Grant, Joseph Johnson, Julien Josephson, Nathan Levinson, Mitchell Lewis, Frank Woods, Clinton Wunder.

Howard Strickling and Arch Reeve handled publicity and press relations.

The Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences is purely a professional association, organized at a formation dinner on January 11, 1927, by Louis B. Mayer, Fred Niblo, Conrad Nagel, Fred Beetson, and 28 other Hollywood personalities and studio executives. It has a membership of over 700, in its various branches of actors, directors, assistant directors, producers, technicians, writers and special divisions. The technicians' branch include art directors, cameramen, electrical engineers, laboratory engineers and sound engineers.

Basically, the association is operated for the betterment of motion picture technique and to influence Hollywood's professionals in uplifting the art of picture making.

Tri-State Answers Fox on Contract Decision in Idaho

Fox Film Corporation has filed a brief in appealing the decision which was recently rendered against it in the case of Fox against Tri-State Theatres, Inc., Lewiston, Idaho, operators of the Rex and Granada. The brief, and that of the operators' attorneys, has been filed in the Idaho supreme court, after a decision in the district court.

The action charges that the operators refused to accept certain films which Fox alleges were included in the contract signed by the operators. In response, attorneys for the operators, Cox, Martin & Ware, of Lewiston, charge the standard contract to be an instrument for the accomplishment of a conspiracy in restraint of trade on the part of motion picture distributors, in what the attorneys characterize as a "movie trust."

The arbitration clause of the contract is termed in the brief submitted to the supreme court in the appeal action, "only a device to restrain the victim from getting into the courts to complain of the crime."

The brief further charges that the "alleged" contracts are not solely instruments defining the rights of the parties, but are "arrangements whereby the 'movie trust' may fix the price of admission to theatres" and whereby the whole economic strength of the "trust" may be mobilized against the offending exhibitor, in case of controversy.

Moe Silver Named Assistant Manager Of Warners Circuit

Moe Silver has been appointed assistant general manager of the Warner circuit, succeeding E. L. Alperson, named general sales manager. Silver becomes assistant to Dan Michalove, circuit head. Clayton Bond continues in charge of film buying; William Clark, shorts buyer; Willard Patterson, de luxe shows and publicity; Dave Weshner, advertising and publicity; William Barron, Harold Mirisch, bookings.

Andy Smith, Eastern sales manager, has appointed Joseph S. Hummel as Eastern district manager. Hummel, with Warners for many years, has lately been associated with Sam E. Morris on distribution matters.

"IF I HAD A PICTURE LIKE 'BEN-HUR' RIGHT NOW!"

You hear it everywhere—

Showmen are saying: "With the coming of talkies, thrilling spectacle has passed. What a showmanship coup it would be to flash a breath-taking spectacle, what a smart change of pace to drag 'em in!"

M-G-M HAS LISTENED—AND NOW—

The Triumphant
Return of

BEN-HUR

at last

IN SOUND!

GIVE THEM THAT LONG-LOST THRILL!

IMAGINE THESE UNFORGETTABLE MOMENTS IN EXCITING SOUND—

1. The Star of Bethlehem
2. Jerusalem Restored
3. Meeting of Ben-Hur and Esther
4. Fall of the House of Hur
5. The Well at Nazareth
6. Thrilling Galley Scene
7. THE SEA FIGHT
8. The Steeds of Araby
9. Great Betting Scene of The Circus Maximus
10. THE STUPENDOUS CHARIOT RACE
11. Messala Wrecks the Greek
12. BEN-HUR WINS
13. The Galilean Legions
14. THE PROCESSION OF PALMS
15. "THE LAST SUPPER"
16. Esther Finds Mother and Sister of Judah
17. THE MIRACLE!
18. The Happy Reunion of Ben-Hur and Esther

THE magic name!
BEN-HUR!
THINK back to
WHEN you
PLAYED it!
A pleasure!
REMEMBER?
AND now it's
IN SOUND—the ROAR of the mobs—
HOOF-beats of the CHARIOT race—
WHAT a difference!
IT'S a new thrill!
AND to help you
PROMOTE it—
NEW accessories
NEW posters
NEW press sheet
AND what could BE sweeter for CHRISTMAS?

Query your M-G-M Branch

(and SEE NEXT PAGE)

THE CHARIOTEERS OF M-G-M AWAIT YOUR CALL!

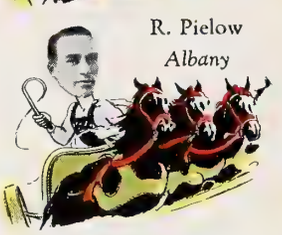
CHARIOTEER
FELIX F.
FEIST

CHARIOTEER
W. F. RODGERS

CHARIOTEER
E.M.SAUNDERS

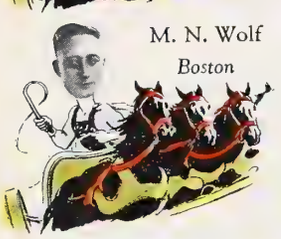
CHARIOTEER
T. J. CONNERS

Charioteer
W. A. SCULLY
New York City



Charioteer
J. E. Flynn
Detroit

Charioteer
C. E. Kessnich
Atlanta

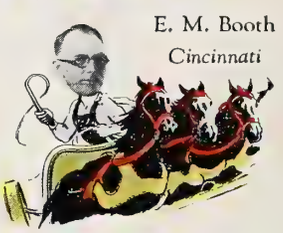


Charioteer
G. A. Hickey
Los Angeles

Charioteer
I. P. Wolfberg
Kansas City

Charioteer
S. A. Shirley
Chicago

R. Pielow
Albany



J. W. Hanlon
Atlanta

M. N. Wolf
Boston

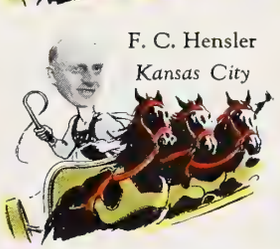
E. K. O'Shea
Buffalo

I. Furman
Charlotte

F. Mendelssohn
Chicago

E. M. Booth
Cincinnati

Frank D. Drew
Cleveland



L. Bickel
Dallas

J. S. Hommel
Denver

W. E. Banford
Des Moines

F. J. Downey
Detroit

W. W. Willman
Indianapolis

F. C. Hensler
Kansas City

J. J. Milstein
Los Angeles

J. F. Willingham
Memphis

S. Shurman
Milwaukee

W. H. Workman
Minneapolis

J. R. Smith
New Haven

J. Bowen
New York

D. A. Levy
New Jersey

C. J. Briant
New Orleans

W. B. Zoellner
Oklahoma City

H. J. Shumow
Omaha

Robert Lynch
Philadelphia

J. J. Maloney
Pittsburgh

L. Amacher
Portland

C. T. Lynch
St. Louis

M. Saffle
Salt Lake City

G. C. Parsons
San Francisco

L. Wingham
Seattle

R. Berger
Washington

ASIDES & INTERLUDES

By JAMES CUNNINGHAM

SPYROS and George Skouras this week made the rounds of New York theatres acquired recently from Fox, spreading a word of good cheer and insisting that hereafter, lobbymen, ushers and doormen effect a "pleasant smile" when greeting patrons. A good idea, but in this order to "smile, darn ya, smile," there is a wee bit of irony.

It appears that after the brothers Skouras had made their departure, ushers at the various theatres discovered that their salaries had been slashed from $15 to $9 and $10 weekly, and paychecks of all doormen will be $15 hereafter instead of $20. All assistant managers were eliminated and many of the higher priced managers were fired to make way for a group of less expensive operators.

By the way, which companies did the brothers have in mind when, after a general "lesson in economy" delivered to their circuit personnel, they stated: "Certain important circuits are headed for receivership"?

▼

Sam Warshawsky has joined United Artists, where there are no time clocks.

▼

William Fox and one Joseph Frankel invested a few thousands in some Long Island real estate six years ago.

Last week, the property was sold at public auction and brought $570,000, the pair taking $285,000 each.

▼

Oh, for a peek at the galley proofs of the matter eliminated by Simon & Schuster, publishers, from "Phantom Life," the tome on the life of Harry Reichenbach, who tells about you and you and you!

▼

Most every one knows the history of the "yellow ticket," used by women of the world's oldest profession during the days of Czars in Russia, and the fact that this information is so widely held should have been sufficient reason to have halted distribution of "yellow tickets" to women who happened to pass the Roxy theatre in New York last week when "The Yellow Ticket" was the attraction.

We have a hunch that stupidity and ignorance had less to do with prompting exploitation of this nature than did the workings of a completely degraded mind. Why must the industry be made to suffer for the actions of such a person?

Handing "yellow tickets" to mothers and daughters. Shame!

▼

Distributors are disturbed over recent court decisions which make void and uncollectable claims filled against theatre owners which are based on the old standard contracts, the courts ruling that the old agreement is illegal inasmuch as it contains the arbitration clause.

▼

Determined to have the circuit show a profit for December despite the annual pre-Christmas slump "which throws the industry deep into the red," Publix officials have ordered managers to cut all expenses to a new low during the period between Thanksgiving and New Year's.

▼

Pathe News celebrates this week its 21st anniversary as the pioneer news film. Quite an age for a rooster!

▼

The pansies and feminine stars who go in heavily for beautification should be happy to learn that Robert DeNeles ("Robert Makes You Beautiful") returned this week from gay Paree, where he gathered a new crop of beauty tricks—t, r-la-la.

SEVERAL weeks back, we exclusively reported in this column the fact that the publishers of Ballyhoo, humor magazine, were plotting an issue burlesquing pictures and picture people. This materialized with the current appearance of a supplement tagged Hullabaloo, which will be marketed twice monthly, devoted to pokes at the industry and its personalities.

It appears that Bernarr Macfadden, likewise in the publishing field, was so impressed with the spontaneous success of Ballyhoo (now netting $40,000 monthly), that he believed a similar publication, selling at 10 cents instead of Ballyhoo's 25-cent tariff, would place his new competitive sheet in an enviable spot, possibly sending Ballyhoo to the wall.

Accordingly, Macfadden quietly laid his plans and determined upon Hullabaloo as a title. Details were guarded closely within the Macfadden stronghold, but somehow the Ballyhoo gang got word of the proposed Macfadden coup and set to work on a second magazine, rushing it to completion in time to beat to market the would-be competitor, and by calling the second "mag" Hullabaloo, eliminated all possible chance of its use by Macfadden.

Incidentally, in the first Hullabaloo issue, which is pretty weak, but nevertheless is a general sock at pictures, RKO and Fox generously contributed toward its existence by purchasing advertising space.

▼

Camels Cigarettes will spend $200,000 in an advertising campaign in which Doug Fairbanks' new "Around the World" film will be given a heavy send-off. United Artists, nor Fairbanks, will be billed for any part of the cost. (Although this particular brand of cigarettes was selected from the large group available as the subject of a most pronounced plug in the picture.)

To strengthen the entertainment value of the travelogue, Doug and U. A. executives injected songs by Morton Downey.

▼

New England theatres have reached what appears to be the height of something or other in double bills.

The New Gayety is a "piker" (showing two features and only five acts of vaude), as compared with the Bowdoin Square, which gives seven acts with two pictures.

▼

An insurance "spy" is visiting New York film circles these days in search of information concerning Lita Grey Chaplin, who seeks a $10,000 policy against theft of jewelry and other valuables.

▼

What a grand and glorious feeling it is to known that Hollywood can turn out a film with sufficient emotional appeal to pull the old heart strings and open wide the flood gates to tear ducts of a hardboiled opening-night New York audience.

A moment before "finis" was flashed on the screen, we watched closely the reaction to Metro's "Champ" when it was premiered on Broadway on Monday. The audience realized that the picture was nearing an end and from almost every corner of the Astor could be seen men and women with handkerchiefs in hand hurrying to wipe away the tears before darkness gave way to bright theatre lights.

The story is not important (a strong love between father and son) and it is filled aplenty with hokum—golden hokum!

To Jackie Cooper. To Wallace Beery. To King Vidor: Congratulations!

ONE of the hobbies of the late E. F. Albee was the acquisition of valuable objects of art and rare antiques for the old Keith Circuit, the collection being displayed in the ace Keith houses.

A subsequent management instituted a checking system under which locals reported to the head office about the deficiencies of upkeep and flaws in operation. These reports were routed as routine through the home office to the division managers and to the individual house managers.

The manager of one of the Cincinnati houses received repeated complaints about the dilapidated condition of two of Mr. Albee's favorite antique chairs which sat in the lobby, so he finally called in an upholsterer and for $50 worth of new velour, $10,000 of Albee antiques were converted into nice new furniture.

▼

A United Artists' publicity representative approached Fairbanks the other day at the home office and asked Doug if he would appear at a gathering of considerable unimportance.

Doug agreed, but when he was told later that the affair is to be held in the evening, he most graciously cancelled his appointment on the grounds that "my time is my own during the day, but the nights belong to Mary!"

▼

How much of Louis (M-G-M) Mayer's personal bankroll has been invested in his brother's International non-theatrical unit at New York?

▼

Tom Chalmers, at one time a Metropolitan Opera songster, has a most unusual manner of doubling-in-brass.

Tom's regular job is to edit RKO Pathe's "Review," and in-between he appears in Eugene O'Neill's "Mourning Becomes Electra," Theatre Guild play at New York.

▼

"When a banana leaves the bunch he usually gets skinned!"

There is more truth than poetry (and, perhaps, some significance) attached to the foregoing line, which is passed on to Warner circuit managers by home office executives.

▼

The MacCauley Company on November 12 will publish "Van Norton Murders," third in the series of detective yarns written by Charles Jones, motion picture publicist.

▼

John Freuler, president of Big 4, has completed a survey of picture theatres, and reports 14,500 in operation at the close of the past season. Approximately 7,112 have played his company's independent product, Freuler tells us.

▼

There are three takes of voice test made by Mrs. Herbert Hoover reposing in the vault at Fox Movietone News. They will likely repose there for a long time.

Mrs. Hoover got worried about her screen appearances and accepted an invitation to do a bit of microphone experimenting. She made three takes, one in high voice, one medium in pitch and one low. While the film was up in New York being developed the story someway strayed to the press. It was, to be sure, of no importance, but the Hooverian dignity was offended and secret service men have been struggling since trying to find who told. Now in a huff Mrs. Hoover has refused to have the tests screened at the White House. In the circumstances they possibly will not appear in the newsreel, either.

TELEVISION IN THEATRES WITH SMALL TRANSMITTERS, RECEIVERS

Acoustic Firms In Working Deal

Kendell and Dasseville, Inc., acoustical engineering firm, has concluded a working arrangement with the National Sound Service Bureau, Inc., an internationally represented group of electro-acoustical service engineers.

Under the agreement, the Kendell company will utilize National's 40 district offices, 400 sales contact points and the service engineering group, consisting of over 2,000 certified electro-acoustical engineers. This group, located in this country, Mexico and Canada, has resident engineers working on theatre acoustical corrections in the various communities.

As a result of the arrangement, Kendell and Dasseville claims to be the largest acoustical engineering organization in the world.

Hughes-Franklin Out of Midwest

Harold B. Franklin has completed a deal whereby the Commonwealth Theatres, Inc., Kansas City, Mo., will take over operation of the Hughes-Franklin theatres in Kansas and Missouri. Hughes-Franklin has relinquished its hold on those theatres.

The circuit will concentrate in California, Washington, Oregon, Texas, Oklahoma and Montana, planning no further expansion in the Midwest. New theatres planned include: Laredo, Texas, new theatre; Ritz, Dallas, rebuilding; new house in Whittier and the Leinert in Los Angeles to open around Christmas.

Laemmle Names H. Milstein As Short Subject Sales Manager

Harry Milstein has been appointed Universal short subject sales manager by Carl Laemmle. Milstein has been exchange manager in Pittsburgh for the past three years.

Max Cohen, city sales manager in New York City under Leo Abrams, was promoted to Milstein's post and Nat Goldberg, in charge of operations, has been promoted to succeed Cohen.

MGM, Educational File Briefs In Appeal On Copyright Case

Educational and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer have filed briefs in a joint appeal in the circuit court of appeals, Boston, from a decision in district court in favor of the Bijou Theatre Company, Holyoke exhibitor, in a copyright infringement suit brought by the distributing companies on overtime playing of films.

BairdAnnouncesNewWhite Light to Succeed Pink

Circuits Understood to be Negotiating with I. C. A. for Sets, Marking Important Step in Theatre Field

Television in the motion picture theatre with small "home" receiving sets and special transmitters, as a separate part of regular screen entertainment and staged in addition to it, may mark the first wholesale application of television to the film industry.

Television on the regular theatre screen has not been perfected to the point of practicability, nor has it been definitely decided just how the new ether entertainment will be made adaptable to the motion picture house as a steady diet—if at all. But, it is learned, manufacturers of "home" sets plan to break into the theatre field by the sale of sets to exhibitors as an added attraction to the regular show.

Says Two Circuits Plan Sets

A. G. Heller, chief engineer of the Insuline Corporation of America, stated this week that his company had already launched negotiations with two important theatre circuits who plan to use the sets in lobbies, possibly equipping a television "room" at some advantageous spot in the theatre. Programs from television stations may be picked up on the "home" radio-televisor, while regular motion picture film may be broadcast from any part of the theatre over the new small transmitter and picked up by the receiver.

Use of this receiver in the lobby, or elsewhere in the theatre, in addition to providing entertainment to patrons waiting to be seated, would also serve as retaliation to threatening competition of nondescript traveling units which already have started to set up temporary store-headquarters near theatres, and where admission is charged to witness a "demonstration" or television "show." In addition, use of this television apparatus in lobbies, where no extra charge is made for witnessing the novelty, patrons are expected to be unconsciously reminded of the picturegoing habit.

Heller refused to reveal the names of the theatre circuits with which I.C.A. is negotiating, stating that the competitive situation in the industry prohibited premature discussion of the deal.

Traveling Units Proposed

William Morris' recent purchase of an interest in the new Sanabra television device was prompted by the thought of establishing numerous traveling units which would set up "demonstrations" or television "shows" at important towns at a flat admission charge.

Simultaneously with the I.C.A. development this week, there came word from Boston, where Hollis Baird, of Shortwave & Television Corp., has developed a white light for television, which, according to Baird, a pioneer, brings "the long desired

(Continued on page 26)

Schlesinger Drops Contract Action

Gus Schlesinger, former foreign manager for Warners, who had filed suit against the company for breach of contract when his agreement was suddenly terminated without notice, has settled his differences amicably with Warners and withdrawn all legal action. His contract had until next January to run.

According to Schlesinger, a communication reached him while at his Berlin headquarters from London informing him that he was to return immediately to New York. After being at the home office for about two weeks, he was informed that his services were no longer required. Suit was filed, terminating in the settlement of last week, the nature of which was not disclosed.

Warner-Columbia $2,000,000 Deal

Warners and Columbia have closed a deal involving $2,000,000 in bookings. Warners has contracted for the entire 1931-1932 Columbia product of 26 features and 16 outdoor dramas, to be exhibited in all theatres of the Warner chain.

Says 95% Fox Midwest Spots Are Using One Man In Booth

Projectionists' unions in 95 per cent of the Fox situations in the middle west have agreed to a one-man booth, according to W. H. Lollier, Fox West Coast home office representative, in Kansas City, in charge of negotiations for Fox Midland Theatre in the operator-exhibitor dispute. Ten Fox Kansas City houses have been closed more than a month pending a settlement.

"All Fox suburban houses in the middle west with the exception of four cities have been operating on a one-man basis since the beginning of the contractual year," said Lollier. "Exception is made where houses are classed as de luxe or where stage shows require two men to a shift. The four cities are Kansas City, Springfield, Mo., and Topeka and Wichita, Kan."

Myers, Steffes, Other Allied Leaders at Cincinnati Meet

Abram F. Myers, W. A. Steffes, H. M. Ritchie, Sidney Samuelson, Aaron Saperstein and Glenn Cross were among the Allied executives present at the first annual convention of the Allied Theatre Owners of Southern Ohio, Kentucky and West Virginia.

The meeting was held at the Netherland-Plaza hotel in Cincinnati this week.

SNAP INTO IT!

LOOK AT THESE!

GEORGE BANCROFT
in "RICH MAN'S FOLLY"
Robert Ames and Juliette
John Cromwell

WHY be content to sit home and gloom? That doesn't help.

Snap into it!

Put on your things. Tell the missus to get hers. Bundle up the kids—and be off!

There's a Paramount Picture, probably around the corner. See it and you'll be out of yourself, living someone else's life. A life that's glamorous—exciting—interesting—new!

You'll forget your troubles. You'll find a new viewpoint. And tomorrow you'll Work—not merely Worry.

Greater movies than ever are here—now. See them and take the family with you!

And remember, when it's a Paramount Picture—now, more than ever—it's "the best show in town!"

PARAMOUNT PUBLIX CORPORATION, ADOLPH ZUKOR, PRESIDENT, PARAMOUNT BUILDING, NEW YORK

Paramount Pictures

Selling 9,000,000 FANS!

3,000,000 circulation. Conservatively estimated three readers to a copy.

Sending THEM TO YOUR BOX-OFFICE

Nine million readers of the Saturday Evening Post are constantly being sold the real entertainment qualities in Paramount Pictures. Full Page Ads!  Attracting Mr. and Mrs. Movie Public to your box-office. Impressing upon them the importance of attending movies regularly. Proving to them that the theatre which shows Paramount Pictures is the one place in which they can forget their worries and be ENTERTAINED. To them, the "best show in town" is "TOUCHDOWN", real football with box-office cast headed by Richard Arlen, Peggy Shannon and Jack Oakie. GEORGE BANCROFT in "Rich Man's Folly", a woman's picture to be sure!  GARY COOPER, CLAUDETTE COLBERT in "HIS WOMAN". "Husband's Holiday" with CLIVE BROOK and big cast. DR. JEKYLL AND MR. HYDE", Fredric March's supreme role. Directed by Rouben Mamoulian.  "THE MAN I KILLED", ERNST LUBITSCH'S Production with LIONEL BARRYMORE, NANCY CARROLL, PHILLIPS HOLMES. RUTH CHATTERTON in "Tomorrow and Tomorrow".  "SOOKY" featuring JACKIE COOPER and ROBERT COOGAN. (Released during Christmas Holidays). MARLENE DIETRICH in "Shanghai Express" A Josef von Sternberg production; and MAURICE CHEVALIER in "One Hour With You" with Jeanette MacDonald, Genevieve Tobin and Charlie Ruggles.  This type of high-powered national advertising, building sure-fire seat-sellers for you, is but one feature of the free service that goes with every contract from . . . .

PARAMOUNT

NO FOOLING —IT'S

RUDY VALLEE

in the

PARAMOUNT SCREEN SONG

"KITTY from KANSAS CITY"

Vallee, outstanding hit of the current "Scandals" on Broadway, leaves his saxophone at home to meet "Kitty" at the station. Something decidedly new for Rudy and for your fans, with Betty Boop as the charming "Kitty".

TYPICAL of STARS in PARAMOUNT SHORTS

★AL ST. JOHN
New laughs from an experienced gagman. A "name" for your lights. 2 reels

★DANE & ARTHUR
They started laughing at Karl as far back as "The Big Parade". Now, with the comical Arthur, the laughs come double. 2 reels

★LILLIAN ROTH
Sparkling feature star concentrates her pep, pulchritude, personality into single reel gems of sizzling songs and settings.

★BOSWELL SISTERS
Connie, Beth and Martha, talented radio harmonizers. Now on the screen! 1 reel

★BURNS & ALLEN
Big-time vodvil stars who click consistently. 1 reel

★ETHEL MERMAN
Sharing the spotlight with Rudy Vallee in the current "Scandals" 1 reel

★SMITH & DALE
★BILLY HOUSE
Two-reel comedy knockouts

★FORD STERLING
Remember the "Keystone Cops"? Here's Ford in four funny farces all his very own. 2 reels

These and many more marquee names! Tom Howard, Borrah Minnevitch, Lulu McConnell, Johnny Burke, Charlie Davis and His Joy Gang, Helen Kane, Mitchell and Durant, Solly Ward, Herb Williams. Also two more mighty musicals with Rudy Vallee. ● Each one a big drawing card in Paramount Shorts. PARAMOUNT SOUND NEWS, two issues a week, 32 TWO-REEL COMEDIES, 52 ONE-REEL PRODUCTIONS, (including Screen Souvenirs). 18 SCREEN SONGS. 18 TALKARTOONS. 12 PARAMOUNT PICTORIALS.

Seat Selling Shorts are . PARAMOUNT

HAYS OFFICE WOULD CENSOR ALL STORIES

Proposals for Reader Department and Submitting Synopses Considered in Furthering Code

To increase the effectiveness of the Production Code and to further the self-regulation of the industry, plans are being formulated at the Hays office for a closer scrutiny of story material before it enters the production stage. The object of the move is to further eliminate productions of a censorable nature and those likely to incite new demands for regulation from the outside.

Two plans to achieve these results have been recommended and others are believed to be forthcoming. The first plan called for organization of a readers' department at the Hays office which would scrutinize all story material prior to its purchase by the producer. Objections to this plan registered by producers were that the establishment of a readers' department might prove too costly and that story material submitted to such a department might be subjected to comment which would permit other producers to copy plots and situations of original stories.

Propose Synopsis Be Submitted

The second plan provides that all story material be submitted to the Hays office in synopsis for examination by department heads. Although this plan eliminates the cost of maintaining a readers' department, it also was objected to on the grounds that it opened the way for copying of original material by other producers.

Both plans were discussed at a recent meeting of directors of the Hays organization with production, distribution and story executives, and although neither plan was definitely rejected a decision was withheld pending possible submission of additional plans.

It is reported that not only the Hays office but distributors themselves are anxious to adopt a suitable plan for examination of story material before purchase, inasmuch as the advance veto of the Hays office would save studios the cost of buying material which might be adjudged later unfit for production.

Only Titles Submitted Now

Under the present system of story supervision by the Hays office, producers submit only the titles of proposed productions for examination and registration by that agency. The titles are tabulated and distributed to department heads. These are quizzed at the time on their knowledge of objectionable matter in the works listed by title. In the case of titles covering original stories, or titles unfamiliar to department heads, the latter are expected to make an effort to familiarize themselves with the works listed.

This system has proved unsatisfactory, as department heads on whom the responsibility falls find it physically impossible to read all story material listed for production consideration in addition to their regular duties.

Adoption of a new plan is looked for soon, as Hays himself is pressing the search for a suitable supervisory system.

Fox Starts Unit Production Plan; Sheehan At Head

Fox will swing to the unit system of production at the Coast plant with Winfield Sheehan and Sol Wurtzel as producers. Four associate producers will be Eddie Grainger, William Sistrom, William Goetz and Al Rockett.

Sheehan estimates that economies in effect at the Fox studios will save about $1,000,000 annually. He believes a saving of about $20,000 on each picture will result under the unit system, totaling $1,000,000 on the 50 features scheduled. "Bad Girl," said to have cost under $200,000, has convinced Sheehan of the savings possible without impairing quality of product.

Richard Carroll is in complete charge of the story department; Al Lewis is in charge of the new story department and leaves the Coast on Friday on a scouting trip to New York.

Milestone Deal Up to Goldwyn

When Samuel Goldwyn arrives in New York in a few days, he is expected to decide the future status of Lewis Milestone regarding a United Artists affiliation. Milestone already has made a tentative deal to direct, negotiating with Joseph M. Schenck, president, who has decided to await Goldwyn's approval before final signatures are affixed to a contract.

Prologue for "Blonde Captive" Is Made at Explorers' Club

William Pizor will state-right "The Blonde Captive," film record of an expedition among the cannibals of tropical Australia. This week Lowell Thomas, Literary Digest "radio voice," completed making a descriptive dialogue account of the trip, for which a prologue was filmed at the Explorers' Club in New York. In the prologue appear Thomas, Carveth Wells, explorer of the Malay jungle; Merle LaVoy, traveler and explorer; Rev. Donald McDonald Millar, traveler, and now with St. John's, New York, and the Chief of Clan Fergus.

Exchanges Leaving Sioux Falls

Paramount, Universal and RKO are reported closing their branches in Sioux Falls, S. D., which will take the city from the list of distribution centers. The territory served will be divided among the Minneapolis, Des Moines and Omaha exchanges of the companies.

Television Field Seen in Theatres Using Small Sets

(Continued from page 20)

freedom from pink pictures, a revolutionary advance in the television art."

"In its last analysis," says Baird, "television is a question of light—pure and simple, for it consists solely of pictures drawn with light. In the wonder of how a picture can be successfully broken up into elements and then reassembled again, the idea that television is fundamentally a question of light sources has been forgotten and merrily the discussion of mechanical versus cathode ray television has gone on. These two latter things should be considered beyond their scanning systems. If we consider the question of light itself, the possibilities of future television become more easily conceived."

What It Means

"In the cathode ray system," Baird continues, "an electron stream, playing upon a chemically treated end of the tube, produces the light. The possibilities of any fluorescent substance as an intense source of light which will permit its development of bigger and bigger pictures in the home is the challenge of the cathode ray system as against the mechanical system and its light sources. These are several but the gaseous tube used in this type of television has made steady strides forward and after the pink lights of the past we have already progressed to a powerful white light. There seems to be no limit to the amount of light which can ultimately be developed through the intelligent uses of gases and their ionization.

"One of the main objections to the mechanical system has been its 'pink eye' effect. Cathode ray pictures are green. Now the mechanical system has a white light which will give as much brilliance as the best of the pink lights of the past few months, and an excellent response with a cool-looking, most agreeable picture as the result.

"This new light now gives commercial home television its first white pictures. This step was thought to be several years off. Instead it is already here. What rapid advances for the whole television system it portends."

The new small transmitter which I.C.A. will market is based, according to Heller, on the projection of television between two points connected by wire, as transmitted by adaptation of a regular motion picture projector incorporating standard 35mm. film. The transmitter may also be operated in conjunction with a radio transmitter, the picture modulated energy output being used to modulate the carrier wave in the usual manner.

"The method of scanning employed in the transmitter," according to Heller, "centers around a 16-inch aluminum scanning disc which has holes arranged in a circle for film-picture projection; horizontal scanning, from left to right, is thus accomplished, while the vertical scanning is obtained by continuous motion of film in the projector.

Named Advertising Manager

Ralph Leavenworth has been appointed general advertising manager of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company.

BANKERS HOLD UNION THEATRES; MAY MERGE CIRCUIT WITH HOYTS

Paramount Publix Estimates 9 Month Net at $7,293,000

Paramount Publix estimates its consolidated net profits, including earnings of subsidiaries at $7,293,000 for nine months ended October 3, after deducting all charges and reserves for federal income and other taxes. The estimated figure is $1,550,000 for the quarter ended October 3.

These earnings are equal to $2.32 per share for the nine months and 50 cents per share for the three months on common stock outstanding. This compares with $13,546,000, or $4.60 per share for the corresponding nine months, and $5,105,000, or $1.61 per share for the corresponding three months of 1930.

Suggest Antenna Underground For Television Work

A possible underground antenna system in connection with television reception and transmission has been suggested recently by W. F. Osler, Jr., engineer. It is understood some preliminary experiments in the system have resulted in interesting developments, and it is seen probable that the underground system will be developed in the future for facilitating long distance transmission and also for eliminating or reducing fading and static interference.

These antennas have been used in radio transmission for a number of years, it is said. It is pointed out that there is good reason to believe that the use of underground antenna, properly designed, should be able to increase the distance to which television signals can be transmitted.

Major Companies Plan Return Of Western To Film Spotlight

Major companies are expected to make considerably more of the outdoor western type of film next year than have been scheduled on the current production programs, with the westerns a major factor on future release schedules.

Harley Clarke, president of Fox, is understood to have queried all company executives on the subject. Other companies are reported studying the country on the possibilities of westerns. It is understood the response indicates that more westerns with big star names featured will go over.

Unrest Among Australian Exhibitors Continues

Robert Hill Assumes Operating Control of Sixty Union Houses and Effects Closer Relationship

Union Theatres, principal circuit in Australia, and an important factor in international motion picture circles, has passed into the hands of its bankers, who have appointed Robert Hill to represent their interests in reconstruction and reorganization of the company.

After weeks of much speculation and considerable anxiety among shareholders and the trade in Australia, to which the prosperity of Union Theatres is of utmost importance, the affairs of this chain of 60 theatres, some of them equalling the world's best, now definitely approach a crisis.

Hill is associated with the chartered firm of accountants which, for some time, has been supervising the financial workings of U. T. He will work in co-operation with the bankers in an effort to replace the wavering circuit on a stable foundation. Their first move was to urge closer co-operation between Union and Hoyts, a move which immediately gave rise to a report that a merger was imminent. However, no such fusion is contemplated for the present.

It is thought in authoritative circles that the action may have been precipitated by efforts to split the working agreement existing between the two chains; and it is known that friction took place behind the scenes over the activities of the combined buying committee, established three years ago when the banks put a stop to the ambitious building program mapped out by each concern. There are conflicting reports as to the continuation of this buying pool; while some who should know state that it is finished, others, equally in touch with inside moves, declare that it must continue.

Simultaneous with the purchase by Fox of control of Hoyts some twelve months ago, it was reported that Paramount might take over Union Theatres. Despite the appearance in Australia of a Paramount representative who investigated the U. T. proposition, nothing came of the possibility. At regular intervals, it was then said that Warners, and later, the Fullers, were dickering for a large interest in the company; but it was the bank which ultimately took a hand in its activities.

The only official statement from U. T. reads: "The combined boards of directors of Greater J. D. Williams Amusement Co. Ltd., Spencer's Pictures Ltd., West's Ltd., and Amalgamated Pictures Ltd., have been conferring on the reconstruction of Union Theatres, and an official announcement will be made as soon as possible."

The next move will be the formation of a new company to take over the bank's interest in Union.

Unrest among Australian showmen has never been so marked as at present. Protests against rentals, contract stipulations, sound charges, service charges and score charges are being made repeatedly. Continual argument is causing the industry in the Antipodes to forget that the first essential is productive work.

Simultaneously, two important exhibitor conferences took place, one in Sydney, the other in Melbourne. Wild talk characterized both, but out of the proceedings, a few sound, concrete proposals emerged. The Melbourne meeting asks for an immediate general reduction of 33-1/3 per cent in rentals, a 50% reduction of service and score charges, and an extension of the time in which to liquidate sound as has been granted in New South Wales by Parliament.

Paramount Lists Foreign Versions In 8 Languages

Paramount has available for domestic distribution a long list of foreign features, some of which were made by Paramount at the studios in Nice, France, others being foreign versions of original American-made pictures. Available languages are French, Spanish, German, Italian, Hungarian, Polish, Portuguese and Swedish.

In French are "Smiling Lieutenant," "The Big Pond," "Dangerous Paradise," "Devil's Holiday," "Doctor's Secret," "Manslaughter," "Playboy of Paris," "Sarah and Son," "Her Wedding Night," "Hole in the Wall," "Honey," "Lady Lies," "The Letter," "Slightly Scarlet." In Spanish: "Benson Murder Case," "Devil's Holiday," "Doctor's Secret," "El Comediante," "Gente Alegre," "Grumpy," "Manslaughter," "Sarah and Son," "Her Wedding Night," "Hole in the Wall," "Honey," "Lady Lies," "The Letter," "Sea God," "Slightly Scarlet."

In German: "Blue Angel," "Dangerous Paradise," "Devil's Holiday," "Mysterious Dr. Fu Manchu," "Sarah and Son," "Lady Lies," "The Letter," "Honey." In Italian: "Dangerous Paradise," "Devil's Holiday," "Doctor's Secret," "Sarah and Son," "Lady Lies," "The Letter." In Hungarian: "Doctor's Secret," "Laughing Lady." In Polish: "Sarah and Son," "Laughing Lady." In Portuguese is "Sarah and Son" and in Swedish: "Sarah and Son," "Hole in the Wall," "Lady Lies."

Reeves Perfects New Optical Unit; Replaces Recording Slit

Arthur Reeves, one of the owners of the Hollywood Camera Exchange, has perfected a new optical unit wherewith to replace the mechanical recording slit ordinarily used in glow-lamp recorders, and which has a guaranteed frequency range of 10,000 cycles.

Reeves has also developed a new duralumin "bomb" microphone, said to be of superior acoustic efficiency and of greater all-around utility for commercial and newsreel use. It is possible with its use to make close shots of people speaking without including the microphone in the picture, it is claimed.

DOUBLE FEATURE POLICY SPREADING

(Continued from page 9)

large numbers of exhibitors, and has thrown hundreds of organists, stage hands and electricians out of work, as well.

Most of these developments have resulted, or will result, according to observers, from the continued spread of the practice. Peculiarly, New England centers, where the policy originated, appear to have escaped most of the disadvantages chalked up against the practice and few complaints, either from exhibitors or distributors, originate in that territory. If the New England situation were to be duplicated nationally, however, industry executives declare that the entire production scheme would have to be revised to meet a condition already threatened. Under this revision, they say, short subjects would be replaced entirely by three and four reel productions; quality of productions would be impaired by enforced lower rentals and by the necessity for quantity production. Far greater diversification of production would also be required to make possible a sufficiency of contrasting subjects for the double programs.

Only Two See Benefit

On the basis of evidence and indications such as these, the practice of double featuring has been condemned by the following, among others: Abram F. Myers, president and general counsel, Allied States Association; Ned E. Depinet, general western sales manager for Radio Pictures and RKO Pathe; James E. Coston, north central district manager of Warner Bros. Theatres; Aaron Saperstein, president, Allied Theatres of Illinois; H. A. Cole, general manager, Allied Theatre Owners of Texas; Lew Pizor, president, M. P. T. O. of Eastern Pennsylvania, Southern New Jersey and Delaware; Al Lichtman, vice-president and general manager of distribution, United Artists Corp.; Sidney Wilmer, Wilmer & Vincent Corp., eastern exhibitors; M. J. O'Toole, secretary, Motion Picture Theatre Owners of America; Norman Moray, Vitaphone sales manager; E. W. Hammons, president, Educational Pictures, and scores of exchange managers and individual exhibitors interviewed by Motion Picture Herald correspondents throughout the country.

Only two executives among the scores in all branches of the industry who were questioned offered the opinion that the double feature policy was a benefit to the industry. They are Felix Feist, general sales manager, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, who limited his opinion with a qualification, and John R. Freuler, president, Big 4 Film Corp.

General industry opinion is that double featuring is adopted ordinarily for any of the following reasons: extended protection of first-runs; in defense against double featuring competition; overbought on product; release of product of quality too poor to play alone; a "hard times" measure, adopted, in the case of first-runs to reduce overhead by eliminating stage shows and organists, and, in the case of subsequents, to overcome patronage decreases.

Having originated in the New England states about 1925, the policy has spread, in greater or less degree, to every section of the country. It may be said, however, that the policy has assumed serious proportions in only six localities. These are, in addition to New England, and in order of significance, Chicago, New York, Montreal, Cleveland and Northern California. Although the policy is unknown in scarcely any section of the country, it is practiced in only single, scattered instances outside of the six designated sections. Its very existence, however, has come to be regarded with apprehension by industry observers because of the apparent contagiousness of the policy and its tendency to force large numbers of competing theatres to follow suit, once it has been introduced in any locality.

Of the six centers in which the double feature policy has attained dominant proportions, reports credit it with being regarded as dangerous trade policy in all but New England. A small proportion of the theatres engaging in the practice in the five other centers claim advantages resulting from the policy, but these appear to comprise a decided minority.

Among the advantages claimed for the policy in these more or less isolated instances are:

Sustained patronage.
Increased patronage.
Avoidance of admission reductions.
Decreased theatre overhead by eliminating
- a) Stage shows, stage hands, electricians, etc.
- b) Organists.
- c) Short subjects.

Increased sales of feature product (particularly that of independent companies).

Opposing these contentions in favor of the policy are the following adverse effects it is reported to exert on exhibition and distribution routine in a large majority of instances:

Decreased patronage.
Decreased grosses.
Increased theatre overhead due to:
- a) Increased film rentals in total.
- b) Increased advertising required.

Decreased distributors' revenue by:
- a) Lowered individual film rentals.
- b) Reduced short subject sales.

Eliminated live entertainment (stage and organ) from theatre.

In weighing these positive and negative effects which have been produced by the double feature policy, it must be remembered that the advantages set forth here are claimed to have been observed in not more than ten per cent of exhibitor and distributor offices involved in double feature practices in any community, whereas the disadvantages enumerated are reported to have been felt by 90 per cent of the theatres and exchanges in communities where the practice is widespread, with the single exception of New England.

In the New England states, where the practice is well entrenched, exhibitors, distributors and public have adjusted themselves to what appears to be an established local order in such a way that the advantages claimed for the policy appear to be shared alike. The practice, apparently, presents no problem to exhibitor or distributor in the New England territory, but this situation is unique nationally and may be explained, perhaps, by a sectional characteristic of thriftiness.

This explanation appears to be strengthened by evidences of a definite trend toward triple featuring in Boston and other New England cities, a trend which, in its experimental stage, is meeting with apparent public response. Similar experiments with triple features, notably in Chicago, were quickly abandoned when patronage not only failed to show an increase under the policy, but fell off to an alarming extent.

Retain Shorts

Catering to the bargain appetites of the New England public has also resulted in retaining short subjects as part of the double feature program in that section and, in consequence, New England distributors have been less disturbed by the practice than have distributors in other localities. The average double feature program in New England consists of a newsreel and one short subject in addition to the two features, whereas in other localities the shorts, for the most part, have been eliminated entirely. In spite of this tendency to maintain shorts as part of the program in New England double featuring theatres, exhibitors in the territory report that they are buying fewer shorts than formerly, and one estimate places the decrease in short subject sales in New England at from 30 to 50 per cent.

The practice in New England is general, with the policy in vogue at virtually every subsequent-run theatre and most first-run theatres of limited seating capacity. The policy's most damaging effect has been visited upon live entertainment, which has been practically eliminated from New England theatres with the exception of a few, large combination program houses in the larger cities. Boston theatres are typical of this development. Of Boston's 66 suburban theatres, 24 were using vaudeville and there is only one full season stock theatre and one which operates a two-month run.

The prevalence of the policy forced New England distributors, some time ago, to make a downward adjustment of rentals,

Would Outlaw Twin Bill

The board of directors of the M.P.T.O. of Wisconsin at a meeting at Milwaukee have adopted a resolution against double feature programs and pledged themselves to adopt all honorable means to outlaw them. An opinion will be sought from the attorney general in the matter, it is reported.

From a trustworthy source it is reported that the M.P.T.O. of Wisconsin sought to enlist the aid of the Allied Independent Theatre Owners of Wisconsin in an effort to combat the double feature evil, but were turned down.

PRACTICE PREVAILS IN SIX BIG CENTERS

(Continued from preceding page)

but the distributors now contend that this decrease has been more than offset by an increase in total sales. New England exhibitors report that gross admissions have probably remained unaffected, with any change pointing to an increase.

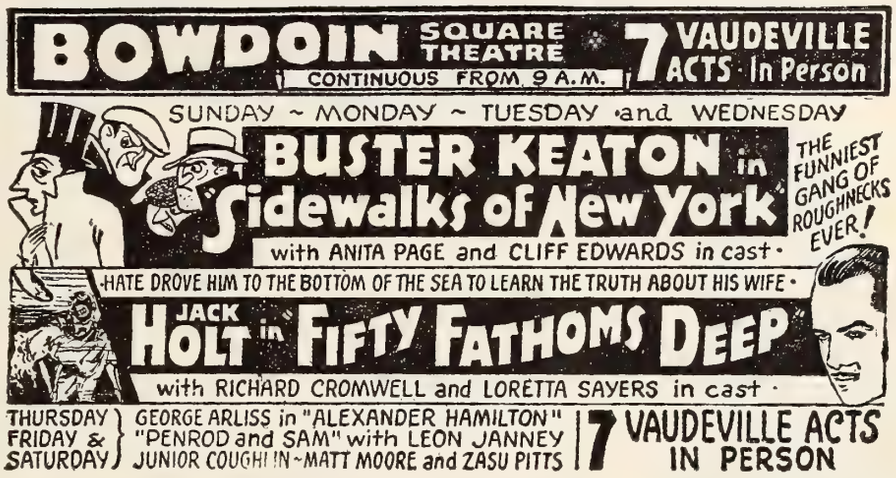
Directly opposed to the New England situation is that of the five other principal double featuring centers, in all of which a very large majority of exhibitors and distributors emphatically denounce the policy as "fallacious, dangerous and, even, unethical." These opinions are also held by a corresponding majority of nationally prominent industry leaders.

Of the five centers outside New England in which double featuring has attained widespread proportions in the past eighteen months, Chicago appears to possess the most serious problem as a result of the policy.

200 Double Billing in Chicago

Approximately 200 Chicago theatres are now on a double feature policy, and of this number, it is estimated that not more than 30 theatres are retaining the policy voluntarily. The remainder are forced to continue double featuring, it is charged, by the refusal of Publix-Balaban & Katz to enter into a concerted action to abandon the policy. Because of the dominant position occupied by Publix-B. & K. in Chicago, theatres in every section of the city are forced by the peculiar competitive situation existing there to maintain double features as long as they are maintained by the Publix subsidiary. It is contended that 98 per cent of the Chicago independent exhibitors have advised Balaban & Katz that they stand ready to abandon the policy at the same moment the circuit does, but the Publix unit continues to make no public statement of attitude of policy, meanwhile retaining double features in all of its de luxe pre-release houses throughout the city and suburbs.

Three weeks ago, Barney Balaban, treasurer of Publix-Balaban & Katz, told a committee of Chicago exhibitors consisting of representatives of all local circuit offices, buying combines and independent and affiliated exhibitor organizations, that Publix-B. & K. was unable, because of film commitments, to abandon the policy at this time. However, at a similar meeting last April, Publix-B. & K. executives were advised that 98 per cent of the independent exhibitors of the city who were double featuring stood ready to abolish the practice if Balaban & Katz would follow suit. The circuit took no action on this plea which, significantly, was made well in advance of the new buying season.



A statement of company policy in this matter was requested of Walter Immerman, general manager of Publix-B. & K., but Immerman maintained a discreet silence. In view of this incident, it is regarded as reasonably certain that no change in policy is considered by the circuit for the immediate future, and certainly not before the next buying season.

Indicative of the attitude of other Chicago exhibitors, representing a numerical balance of theatres, are statements given to Motion Picture Herald by Aaron Saperstein, president of Allied Theatre Owners of Illinois, and James E. Coston, of Warner Theatres.

"Chicago independent theatre owners demand that double features cease or the show business in Chicago will be ruined," Saperstein declared.

A similar note of warning was sounded in Coston's statement:

"I believe that double features as a whole are an evil to our industry, and that while they may temporarily benefit some of the distributors, as they now have a wider distribution of their product, in time they will affect almost all the big producers, as it is humanly impossible to produce pictures in quantity and still maintain quality."

Double featuring, with seven acts of vaudeville for good measure, as practiced by the Bowdoin Square theatre at Boston.

Leaders See Danger

Rapid spread of double featuring in New York is being viewed with alarm by eastern exhibitors and distributors. The policy is common among Manhattan subsequent-runs, is becoming widespread in Brooklyn and appears firmly entrenched in Long Island communities. New York exhibitors, for the most part, are dissatisfied with the results obtained from double featuring, but large numbers of them continue the policy because of double featuring competition, because of film commitments made in anticipation of a satisfactory double feature regime, and because of product considered weak.

The policy is widespread in Montreal, where only three first-run theatres are now operating on a single feature policy. The Capitol, Imperial and Strand—all first-run circuit houses—run double features, as do 47 additional neighborhood houses. Sale of short subjects has suffered to a greater extent there, but rentals on features have been kept at a high average largely by virtue of the brisk demand for features brought about by the local situation.

Due to Montreal's diverse population, foreign productions often find their way onto programs as part of a double feature bill. French productions, particularly, have been benefited by this tendency in billing.

In lesser measure, the same is true of Toronto, where a British production will often be found teamed with an American picture on a double feature program, although the practice is not nearly so prevalent in Toronto as in Montreal.

Double featuring is general at Cleveland subsequent-runs, although distributors are making an effort to check its further expansion there by stipulating in their contracts that first and intermediate runs are not to double feature product. The Cleveland practice has caused a shortage of product, has cut the demand for short subjects exactly in half and has lowered short subject rentals and, in consequence, the quality of available shorts, according to a local circuit theatre owner. It is also charged that the policy has caused a slight increase in operating costs materially affecting gross admissions.

Cleveland independent distributors claim to have been benefited by the practice.

In Northern California it is estimated that 25 per cent of the intermediate and subsequent-run theatres are now using double features. No first-runs have adopted the policy. Results of the practice are seen as including decreased gross rentals, reduced playing time of short subjects, but as yet but slight effect on either operating costs or theatre receipts.

The practice was abandoned in Racine, Wisconsin, after having been tried by local exhibitors and found unsatisfactory. Now, however, it has taken root in the neighboring city of Milwaukee in the face of opposition from various exhibitor groups. The M. P. T. O. of Wisconsin recently adopted a resolution against the policy, pledging the organization's efforts to outlaw the practice.

Double featuring exists in greater or less degree in every section of the country, although it has assumed no serious proportions except in the centers considered above. In other localities, the practice exists in single, isolated instances, and frequently more as a novelty than an established policy.

'Touchdown' Hero Scores Upset; He Loses Game and Wins Girl

Screen Version of Wallace Novel, With Real Football Stars, Defies Traditions

By Everett B. Morris

Believe it or not, a football moving picture in which the hero does not score or make possible the winning touchdown in the last minute of play is about to make its appearance on New York screens. As a matter of fact, the film defies all Hollywood pigskin tradition by having the hero's team lose the game in the final, fleeting seconds.

The climax, though, is still happy. The hero passes up victory, but thereby wins the girl and regains the respect and admiration of old pals who feared that his craving for victory would prove his downfall.

"Touchdown," adapted from "Stadium," a recently published novel written by Frank Wallace, who learned about it for a living on the sports pages of metropolitan journals, left a little knot of sporting writers, watching a pre-view in the Paramount projection room yesterday afternoon with the impression that it was the best football film that ever came out of a cinema studio.

A Straightforward Story

Wallace, drawing on a background rich in contacts with football greats and their ways has penned a straightforward story that apparently has not been tempered in the usual "movie" manner to avoid ruffling the feelings of those who believe that all is pure and sweet in intercollegiate football. He has been fortunate, too, in the cast and in the pains the producers took to give the football scenes the ring of authenticity. No football man need cross his fingers, put his tongue in his cheek or isgustedly reach for his hat when locker room or playing field scenes unroll.

The reason is apparent. Richard Arlen, who is Dan Curtis, the Mid-West All-American who becomes a proselyting, victory-made coach, used to play a little football in his pre-film days at a small college in Minnesota. Gus Smith, the piano mover lured from his truck to play halfback under Curtis at L. and M.—and sacrifice a knee to his coach's lust for triumph—is none other than Bob Hall, a weight man on the University of Southern California's championship track team and one of its current crop of football stars.

Young Gehring, whom Curtis sends to the locker room instead of into the game when all he needs is one of his booming punts to clinch a 7 to 6 victory, is another who sweated in a college uniform—Charley Starrett, a tackle at Dartmouth some years back. These former collegians have good parts in the film and to this inexpert eye bring realism to roles that would have suffered in the hands of the usual run of screen football actors.

Football Without Hokum

Tom Lieb, Russ Saunders, Morley Drury, Roy Riegels and a lot of others whose names are synonymous with football on the Pacific Coast have their share in making the action scenes look like real football.

If you like football with all its drama and color and some of its behind-the-scenes machinations without most the hokum that has spoiled previous efforts to bring the game to the screen, you ought to enjoy "Touchdown," although "Safety" might have been a more accurate title in more ways than one.

From the SPORTS PAGE of the New York HERALD-TRIBUNE, Nov. 11th football film that ever came out of a cinema studio. the best

"TOUCHDOWN!" crashes the Sports Page! At the height of the football season, with football news from all over the country jamming sports pages, The New York Herald-Tribune gave "TOUCHDOWN!" this grand two-column, top-of-the-page send-off! "TOUCHDOWN!", the football picture that dares to be different, is great football news! And it's swell news for smart showmen who book it!

"TOUCHDOWN!"

RICHARD ARLEN • PEGGY SHANNON • JACK OAKIE
REGIS TOOMEY CHARLES STARRETT

Directed by Norman McLeod. From Francis Wallace's novel "Stadium".

Another Big Money Picture from

PARAMOUNT

PUT MANAGER ON OWN, NEW ALPERSON POLICY

Warner General Sales Manager Applies Methods Proved Successful in Theatre Field

Individual theatre management methods will be applied to Warner Bros. exchange operations. The policy being adopted by Edward L. Alperson, new Warner general sales manager, calls for vesting complete local authority and responsibility in branch managers. Under Alperson's policy, the company's branch managers are graduated from organization figureheads to important distribution executives.

"Branch managers in many situations," said Alperson, "may do a gross business annually of $1,000,000 or more. In any other business branch officers directing sales of that volume would be regarded as important executives in their company's organization, and would be ranked among the leading business executives in their respective communities. The same should hold true of film exchange managers, and those associated with our company will be given full authority and responsibility for the administration of their offices."

Brings Ideas from Theatres

Alperson, a former assistant general manager of Warner Theatres, in invoking this policy carries over to the distribution end the operating methods which have proved successful in the theatre field.

In addition, a policy of non-interference with assistant sales managers and district sales managers will be pursued by Alperson's office, he said.

Realignment of the Warner distribution organization was carried toward its conclusion this week with the assignment of district managers nationally.

Sears and Smith Name Aids

Gradwell L. Sears, Western sales manager, announced the following appointments: Fred Jack to head southern branches, including Atlanta, Charlotte, New Orleans, Dallas, Oklahoma City and Memphis; Jack Brower west coast district manager, in charge of exchanges at Los Angeles, San Francisco, Portland, Seattle, Denver and Salt Lake City; and Carl Lesserman Midwest district manager, having charge of exchanges at Chicago, Kansas City, Milwaukee, Minneapolis, Omaha, Des Moines, St. Louis.

Andy Smith, Eastern sales manager, completed the organization of his territory as follows: Joe Hummel, Eastern district manager, in charge of exchanges at Albany, Boston, Buffalo, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Detroit, Indianapolis, New Haven, New York, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Washington and Canada.

Charles Steele, formerly with First National and more recently with Universal, has been named supervisor of exchanges.

Since his appointment as general sales manager, Alperson has been engaged in a personal survey of exchanges, a study which will be continued for several weeks. During the past week Alperson made inspection visits to New England branches, and this week visited Washington. Soon he will go to Buffalo, Detroit and Cleveland branches, and thereafter will make a Coast trip, visiting the remaining exchanges on the return.

During his tour Alperson is issuing definite instructions to branch managers to give every consideration to small theatre operators, making it plain at the same time that Warners regards this business as particularly desirable.

Alperson comes into his new executive post with a wealth of experience in all capacities of distribution and exhibition activities and with an intimate knowledge of the problems of branch and home office personnel. Entering the film business as a shipping clerk, Alperson first joined Warner Brothers as salesman in Omaha seven years ago. He served as branch manager in St. Louis and Kansas City; was called to the home office as a special representative and later was assigned to the theatre department in charge of film buying and booking for the Warner circuit. Upon Dan Michalove's assumption of the post of general manager of the theatre circuit, Alperson was made his chief assistant, and played an important part in expansion of the circuit.

It is the policies which he found to be successful in theatre operation which he will introduce into the company's distributing organization, chief among them being the establishment of complete independence of action on the part of district and branch managers.

"I can't look out of my office window and see Omaha," Alperson said in discussing this policy, "but the branch manager in Omaha can. It is he who should decide all questions of local policy."

Exploration Pictures By Raspin Productions

Raspin Productions, with Edwin B. Raschbaum as president, and Sidney T. Pink as treasurer, has been formed to produce exploration films. The first production, "Explorers of the World," opens at the Criterion in New York on December 14.

This film is said to represent the combined efforts of six noted explorers and expeditions to various parts of the world. Each explorer appears on the screen and is followed by the scenes of his particular experiences accompanied by his dialogue.

Among the explorers represented in the film are James L. Clark, of the Museum of Natural History; Gene Lamb, authority on Tibet and China; Dr. Laurence M. Gould, second in command to Admiral Byrd on his dash to the South Pole; Harold McCracken, author and explorer; and Harold Noice, who accompanied Stefansson on his Arctic expedition and recently returned from the Amazon Wilds of Brazil.

Decides One Man Sufficient

Judge K. A. Bain of Portsmouth, Va., refused to dissolve an injunction against the local projectionists' union forbidding picketing of the Colony theatre, and decided that projection machinery could be safely operated with only one man.

EDWARD L. ALPERSON
General Sales Manager, Warner Brothers

Big 4 Completes Exchange Lineup

With recently signed contracts going into effect currently in the Western territory, Big 4 has completed its national exchange line-up. The 36 branches have already embarked upon a November-December playdate drive. The present exchange system distributing Big 4 product is as follows:

Capital, New York; Gold Medal, Philadelphia and Washington; Century, Boston and New Haven; Standard, Buffalo and Albany; Fisher, Cleveland and Cincinnati; Alexander, Pittsburgh; Excellent, Detroit; Judell, Chicago, Indianapolis, St. Louis and Milwaukee; Celebrated, Minneapolis; Midwest, Omaha and Kansas City; Consolidated, Denver and Salt Lake City; Sheffield, Seattle and Portland; Co-operative, San Francisco and Los Angeles; All Star, San Francisco and Los Angeles; Allied, Dallas and Oklahoma City; Home State, Little Rock; Arthur C. Bromberg, Atlanta, Charlotte, Birmingham, Tampa and New Orleans; Excellent, Toronto, Canada and Filmophone, London.

Crosby Short Educational's

The short subject, "I Surrender, Dear," featuring Bing Crosby, radio singer, is an Educational-Mack Sennett release, and not a Paramount number. as incorrectly noted in the "Shorts on Broadway" column in the issue of November 7.

New G. E. Film Ready

"Liquid Air," latest release of the "Marvels of Science" series, is now current at the New York Warner for a two weeks' engagement. The subject was produced at the General Electric studio in Schenectady.

Frank Buck Returns

Frank Buck, who spent six months in the India and Malay jungle filming wild animal life for the RKO Van Beuren Company, has returned to New York. In all 50,000 feet of film were taken.

Warner Film and Theatre Loss $2,146,074 in Year

Net loss of $2,146,074.57 from operations in production, distribution and exhibition was recorded by Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc., and subsidiaries in the fiscal year ended August 29, 1931.

Operations of the radio, record and music divisions showed a loss of $2,399,161.88 and there was a special writedown of $3,373,368.53 in respect of inventories and accounts receivable of the radio and record division, making a total loss of $7,918,604.98 after deducting all charges. During the year charges of $2,475,515.82 were made direct to surplus, representing a special writedown of the plant and equipment of the radio and record division and loss on other capital assets.

Net earnings available for all interest totaled $8,684,173.30, approximately 1.3 times the consolidated interest charges of the month, after deducting all charges, but before depreciation and amortization, H. M. Warner, president, reported to the stockholders.

Cash balances as of October 31 were more than $5,000,000, an increase of more than $1,200,000 compared with August 29. Within these two dates the cash balances have increased and notes payable have been decreased by more than $1,000,000. Prior to August 1 this year, $1,300,500 principal amount of the optional 6% convertible debentures were retired, and an additional $1,300,000 principal amount of these debentures were retired on September 17.

There were 40,636 stockholders October 31 compared with 26,990 November 7, 1930, and 11,157 November 2, 1929.

Consolidated Balance Sheet, August 29, 1931

Assets

CURRENT AND WORKING ASSETS:—
Cash		$ 3,767,087.88
Notes, drafts and acceptances receivable		397,048.97
Current accounts:
Trade customers, less reserves	$ 2,507,871.43
Notes and accounts receivable from officers and employees	129,892.56
Sundry accounts receivable	492,162.69	3,129,926.68
Inventories:
Released productions, at cost less amortization	$ 9,080,353.28
Productions completed but not released, at cost	4,283,093.94
Productions in progress, at cost	854,653.30
	$14,218,100.52
Positive prints, raw film and supplies	509,653.64
	$14,727,754.16
Inventory of theatre accessory and music divisions	271,058.83
Merchandise finished and in process of manufacture, raw materials, supplies, etc., of radio and record division—less reserves	1,555,397.11	16,554,210.10
Rights and scenarios unproduced, at cost		1,397,485.71
Production and royalty advances, less reserves		535,450.12	$25,781,209.46
MORTGAGES RECEIVABLE			181,611.39
DEPOSITS TO SECURE CONTRACTS AND SINKING FUND DEPOSITS			2,387,027.07
INVESTMENTS AND ADVANCES:
Investments in and advances to wholly owned foreign subsidiaries not consolidated herein, at cost less provision for reported losses		$ 200,776.49
Investments in and advances to affiliated companies, less reserves		4,882,170.82
Investments in participation of profits, license rights, etc.		1,646,217.80
Notes and contracts receivable		725,465.53
Shares in building and loan associations		709,240.96
Miscellaneous investments		127,794.86	8,291,666.46
FIXED ASSETS:
Properties owned and equipment, at cost less depreciation*		$129,860,780.11
Owned properties of radio and record division, less reserves for depreciation and special write-down authorized by the directors		2,437,021.93
Properties leased and equipment, at cost less depreciation and amortization		32,865,871.01	165,163,673.05
DEFERRED CHARGES:
Development expenses unamortized		$ 68,782.11
Bond and note discount unamortized		902,104.48
Prepaid royalties		505,690.76
Prepaid interest, insurance, taxes, rents, etc.		1,857,263.04	3,333,840.39
GOODWILL			8,718,424.86
			$213,857,452.68

*(Includes $6,751,827.54 representing land and buildings acquired for construction purposes, $173,692.01 for architects' fees and $161,442.45 of carrying charges.)

Liabilities

CURRENT LIABILITIES:—
Notes payable:
Secured by capital stock of a subsidiary real estate holding company consolidated herein and its notes for intercompany indebtedness		$ 1,200,000.00
Unsecured		1,176,693.59
		$ 2,376,693.59
Purchase money obligations		1,453,434.93
Dividends on preferred stock payable September 1, 1931		99,240.49
Accounts payable		5,221,532.09
Sundry accruals		3,296,250.72
Due to affiliated companies		72,171.48
Royalties payable to outside producers and participants		768,409.91
Advance payments of film, deposits, etc.		657,673.69	$13,945,406.90
DEFERRED INCOME			325,792.04
REMITTANCES FROM FOREIGN SUBSIDIARIES, HELD IN ABEYANCE			238,316.36
PURCHASE MONEY OR CONTRACTUAL OBLIGATIONS MATURING SERIALLY AFTER ONE YEAR			1,782,075.21
MORTGAGES AND FUNDED DEBT:
Optional 6% convertible debentures, series due 1939		$41,600,000.00
Less—Held in treasury		2,022,500.00
		$39,577,500.00
Mortgages and other bond issues		65,321,426.97	104,898,926.97
(Including $4,180,380.79 maturing within one year)
PROPORTION OF CAPITAL STOCK AND SURPLUS OF SUBSIDIARY COMPANIES APPLICABLE TO MINORITY STOCKHOLDERS			1,114,449.13
RESERVE FOR PREMIUM ON DEBENTURES AND CONTINGENCIES			2,706,774.86
CAPITAL STOCK:—
Authorized:
7,500,000 shares of common stock without par value 785,604 shares of preferred stock without par value (Liquidating value $55 per share)
Issued and outstanding:
3,801,214.55 shares of common stock 103,107 shares of preferred stock			88,621,963.75
EARNED SURPLUS, per annexed statement			223,747.46
CONTINGENT LIABILITIES:
As guarantors and/or endorsers of mortgage bonds of affiliated companies	$ 4,227,500.00
As guarantors in connection with theatre lease approximately	$ 60,000.00
Expenses of arbitration proceedings—amount indeterminable
			$213,857,452.68

STATEMENT OF CONSOLIDATED PROFIT AND LOSS AND EARNED SURPLUS FOR THE YEAR ENDING AUGUST 29, 1931

NET INCOME before providing for amortization and depreciation of properties, interest and miscellaneous charges and Federal income taxes			$36,371,383.05
DEDUCT:
Amortization of film costs (exclusive of depreciation of studio properties)		$28,301,252.94
Amortization and depreciation of all properties		9,856,720.79
Interest and discount expense		6,746,057.49
Provision for investments in affiliated companies		349,389.65
Miscellaneous charges		107,540.25
Provision for Federal income taxes		21,551.44
			45,382,512.56
NET LOSS before other income and minority interests' share of profits			$ 9,011,129.51
DEDUCT—Other income:
Interest and discount earned		$ 421,205.20
Dividends received from affiliated companies		459,154.47
Insurance recovery and miscellaneous income		303,667.51
			1,184,027.18
Net loss before minority interests' share of profits			$ 7,827,102.33
ADD—Proportion of net earnings applicable to minority stockholders			91,502.65
NET LOSS from operation for the year ending August 29, 1931 including write-down of $3,373,368.53 in respect of inventories and accounts receivable of radio and record division, carried to earned surplus			$ 7,918,604.98
EARNED SURPLUS, August 30, 1930		$11,027,378.97
Add—Profit on redemption of $1,300,500 face value 6% convertible debentures		233,451.25
		$11,260,830.22
DEDUCT:
Loss on capital assets (net)	$ 402,285.61
Special write-down of owned properties of radio and record division authorized by the directors	2,073,230.21
Provision for fluctuation of foreign exchange subsequent to August 29, 1931	246,000.00
Dividends on preferred stock to and including September 1, 1931	396,961.96	3,118,477.78
			8,142,352.44
EARNED SURPLUS, August 29, 1931 carried to balance sheet			$ 223,747.46

Rentals High Now? Read This!

Memorandum of Agreement, made this 10 of Oct, 1914, between the UNIVERSAL FILM MANUFACTURING COMPANY, a corporation of the City of New York, party of the first part, and B. K. Fisher party of the second part.

Witnesseth: The party of the first part doth permit the use of their photoplay, known as "~~TRAFFIC IN SOULS~~" Neptunes Daughter to be shown at the theatre of the party of the second part, known as Mozart Theater Milwaukee same to begin Nov. 5 and to run for a period of 2 days, it being agreed that the party of the second part shall not give less than ..... performances and that the price of admission shall not be less than .....

The party of the second part agrees to light, heat and clean the said theatre and to furnish all the usual attaches—piano, player, booth, machine and operator.

The consideration for the aforementioned picture shall be 150.00 FLAT RENTAL ~~for each and the gross receipts to be the property of the said party of the second part and ... the property of the said party of the first part.~~ Cash settlement to be made daily at the end of the last evening performance. 75.00 per Day

~~The party of the first part agrees to furnish at paper at their own cost, at the usual time of the posting of the bills and other display matter, the party of the second part agrees to post all paper and distribute all hand bills and other advertising matter.~~

The party of the second part agrees to use all reasonable care in the use of the aforementioned film and to protect the same from damage or injury.

It shall be mutually agreed between the parties that in the event of fire, police interference, or any other unavoidable objection, there shall be no damage suffered by either of the parties hereto in the event that the film cannot be exhibited for any of the aforementioned reasons.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the parties have hereunto set their hands and seals the day and the year above written.

UNIVERSAL FILM MANUFACTURING COMPANY.

By Norman H. Dixon (L.S.)

..... (L.S.)

Seventeen years ago B. K. Fischer, manager of the Alamo, Mozart and Lincoln theatres at Milwaukee, signed this contract. He paid $150 for "Neptune's Daughter" for a two-day showing at the Mozart, 400-seat neighborhood house. Admission was a dime then (1914) and the picture played to 3,186 paid admissions.

Ufa Offers New Franchise Plan

Ufa plans selling of franchises for its product to exhibitors in situations where it has no theatre outlet of its own. The first, for 15 features, has been closed with Max Goldberg, operating the Europa in New York. Others are the Little in Baltimore and the Europa in Philadelphia. German shorts will round out programs, without being included in the franchises.

Deals now negotiated for 15 features are the 1930-31 schedule. Another franchise for an additional 15 will be available to exhibitors when the first group is completed.

Warner May Drop New York Theatre

Several deals for Warners' Hollywood theatre, large Broadway first-run, are reported to be under consideration by the home office theatre department. Indications are, according to the reports, that the Hollywood would be reopened as a legitimate theatre in the event Warners relinquished control.

The most insistent reports credited Aaron Fields, New York producer and theatre man, with being the one most anxious to assume operation of the Hollywood.

Washington-Idaho Elects John Danz

Washington and Idaho exhibitors elected John Danz president of Allied Amusements of the Northwest at the organization's ninth annual meeting, held this week at Seattle. Mel Kenworthy was elected vice president, and Al Rosenberg, second vice president. James Hone was re-elected secretary. Trustees of the organization are: Robert Bender, John Hamrick, L. O. Lukan, W. Graham, L. Perunko, M. M. Moe and George Endert.

The meeting was addressed by Mel Winstock, veteran exhibitor, who asked abolition of gang pictures and warned the meeting that politicians everywhere were eyeing the industry as a ready source of revenue for depleted public treasuries. James Hone, secretary, reviewed the organization's accomplishments over a period of years, and a plea for "more theatre in the church and more church in the theatre" was voiced by Rev. Cleveland Klechaner, local clergyman.

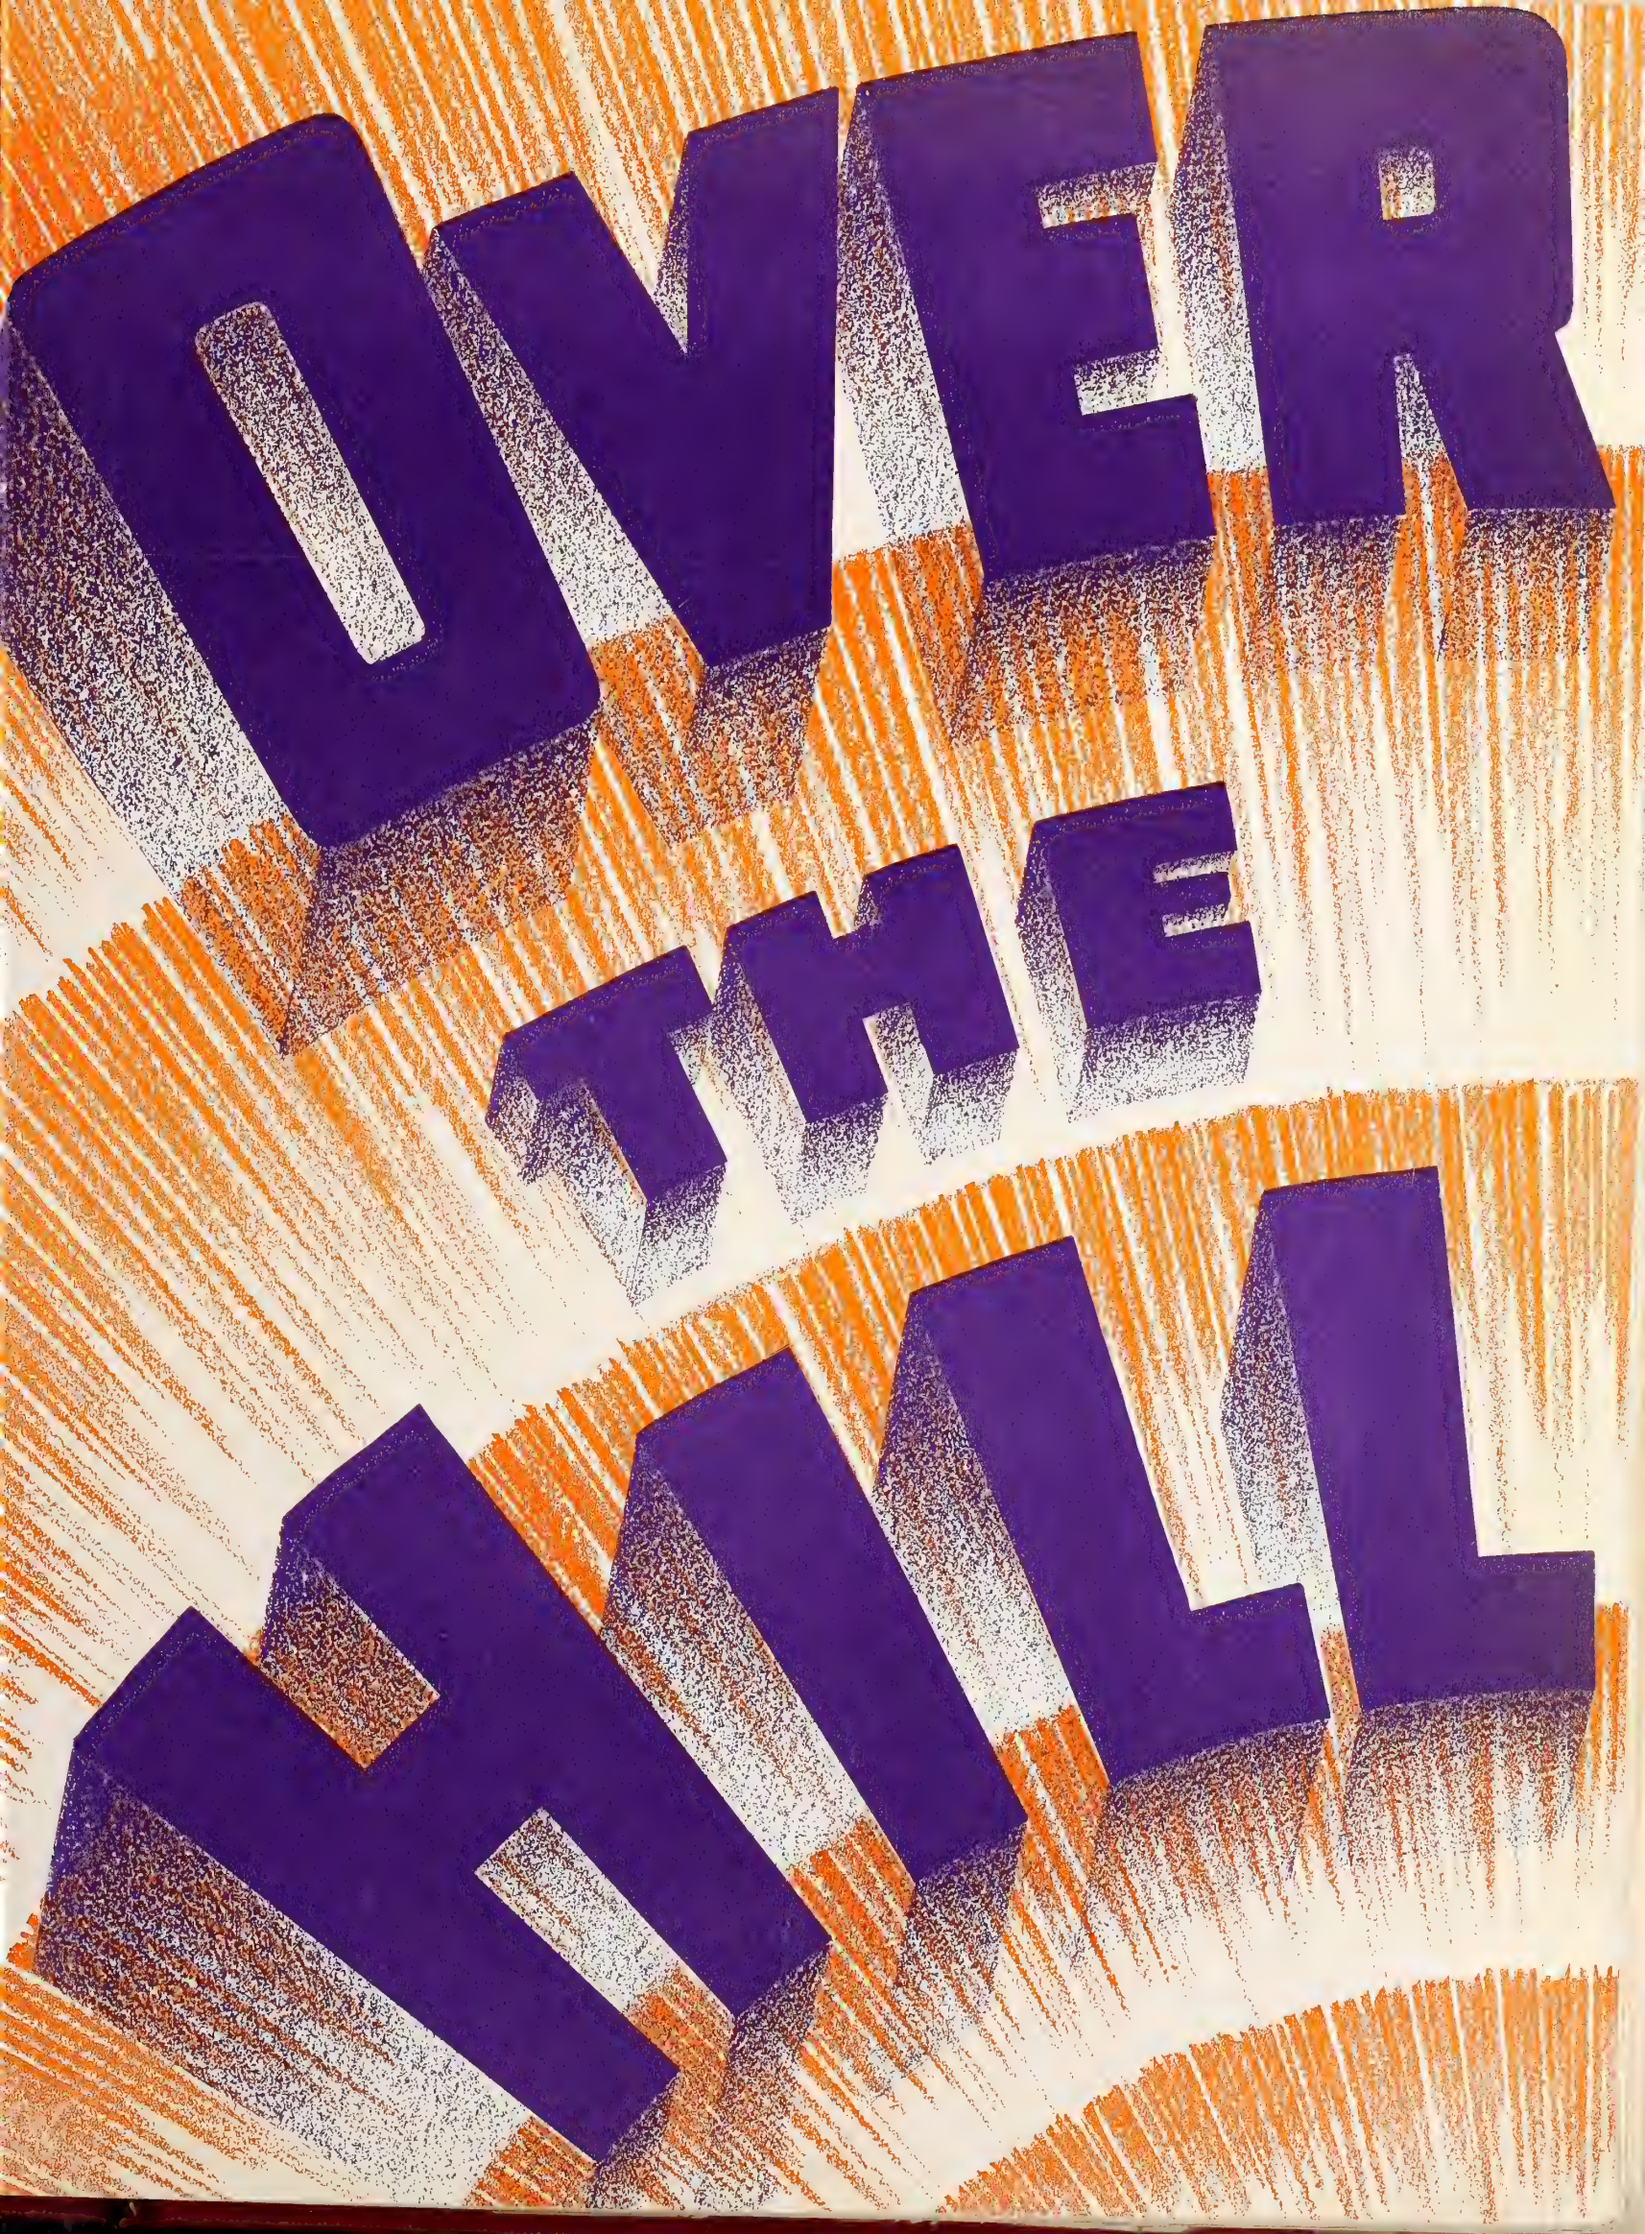
Booking Combine Formed in England

(By Cable Wednesday)—Two hundred British exhibitors form the nucleus of Film Industries Cooperative Society, a collective booking combine of independent owners, which threatens to surpass in size any similar movement ever existing in film annals of Great Britain.

The organization was formed this week to "protect" the British industry, and film leaders at London threaten that unless it is given immediate recognition, concerted effort will be made to secure Government control of the film business throughout Great Britain.

On the initial executive board of F. I. C. S. are A. S. Carr, Will Evans, Sir Gordon Craig, W. H. MacDonald, A. J. Gale and A. T. Bennett.

RCA Nine Months Net $3,957,489



Radio Corporation of America with subsidiaries reports a net income for the first nine months of 1931 at $3,957,489 and a gross for the same period of $73,638,019.

This compares with a net for the same period last year of $870,753 and a gross of $85,150,256. The current year statement shows earnings $52,980 in excess of dividend requirements on the preferred stocks.

For the third quarter of 1931 the gross of the corporation and subsidiaries was $25,664,292 and the net $1,318,785. Earnings for the third quarter were $17,685 in excess of preferred stock dividend requirements.

U. S. Will Hear W. B. Merger Case Dec. 1 in New York City

December 1 is the date set for hearing the case of the Federal Government against Warner Brothers for alleged violation of the anti-trust laws in connection with the acquisition and subsequent merging of First National.

OVER
THE HILL

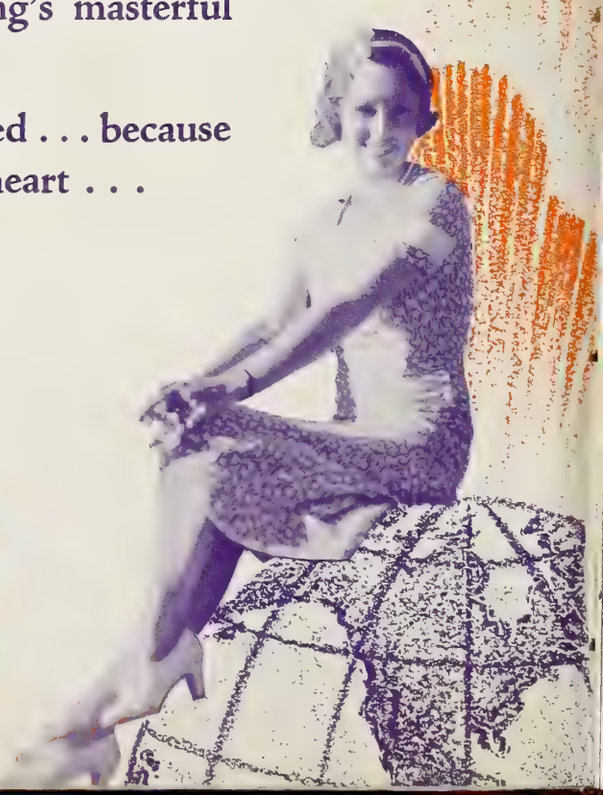
THUNDERING CLIMAX TO A

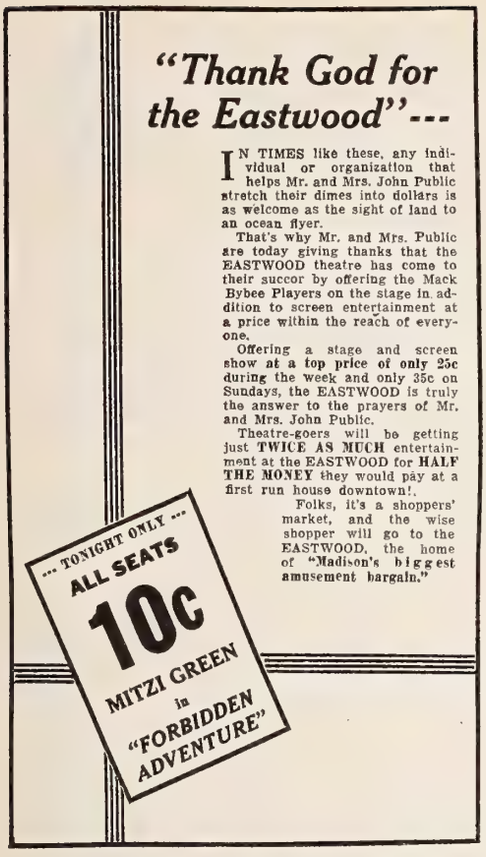
SEASON OF SMASHES . . .



TOWERING ABOVE THE YEAR'S GREAT HITS!

What is OVER THE HILL?

- A story brimming with love of home and family, of mother, and of sweethearts . . .
- Pathos digging deep in the heart blended with boisterous, rollicking comedy and hard-fisted drama . . .
- A cast of plain, every-day people who wrap up your audience's lives in theirs . . .
- James Dunn and Sally Eilers, sweethearts of "Bad Girl," who will cram your house with young folks . . .
- Mae Marsh in a triumphant return as a mother who will melt 120,000,000 American hearts . . .
- Infused with life and vitality by Henry King's masterful direction . . .
- A theme that appeals to every age, race, creed . . . because it deals with emotions felt by every human heart . . .



A FOX PICTURE

BE AMONG THE FIRST TO PLAY IT!

Printed in U. S. A.

This type of advertising in newspapers helped call attention to the novel program policy of the Eastwood Theatre at Madison, Wisconsin.

Action Pictures Has First 12 Set

Action Pictures, independent producing company has already completed six of its season's schedule of 24 features and has set release dates on the second group of six.

Completed are: "The Sky Spider," released October 1; "Chinatown After Dark," released October 15; "Anybody's Blonde," released November 1; "Soul of the Slums," released November 15; "Night Beat," release December 1 and "Passport to Paradise," release December 15.

"Sally of the Subway," "Docks of San Francisco," "Temptation's Workshop," "Hawk of the Yukon," "The Gorilla Ship," "The Widow in Scarlet" will be released on the first and 15 of January, February and March, respectively.

Dorothy Cleveland Joins Kraft

Dorothy V. Cleveland, motion picture publicist, has joined Harry Kraft & Associates, with headquarters at 229 West 28th Street, New York. Kraft was for 12 years art director of J. P. Muller Advertising Agency, which has many film accounts among its clients.

Cleaner Used in Theatres

Skour-Nu, Inc., New York manufacturers of a cleansing cream, report excellent results from theatres over the country where the preparation is used for cleaning carpets, walls and other fabrics in the theatre.

Adds Stock to Films at 25 Cents And Packed Theatre Is the Result

Eastwood Neighborhood House at Madison, Wis., Holds a Low Price; Competes With Circuits

Eyes of Midwestern circuit executives and scores of independent theatre owners are focused on the Eastwood theatre, neighborhood house at Madison, Wis., which, by a sudden change from straight pictures to combination pictures and stage plays, has done such a tremendous business that it is providing real competition to downtown deluxe houses.

The Eastwood theatre, less than two years old, has 1,000 seats and had lost thousands of dollars. The house had been owned and operated by two different corporations. Finally the contractors who built the theatre were forced to buy it at sheriff's sale to get their own money out of it. Knowing and admitting that they are not showmen, the contractors asked F. J. McWilliams, president of Allied Theatre Owners of Wisconsin, and at one time president of the MPTO, to supervise the house. McWilliams, a Madison resident, agreed, and has bought film and otherwise directed the house policies.

Griffiths Made Manager

McWilliams recently called in B. A. Griffiths, well-known theatre manager and a former newspaper man, to operate the house. Griffiths, with several years' experience as manager for Publix, Fox and RKO, was the one man, McWilliams thought, who might be able to do something with the theatre, which was going along just "so-so" under its second-run policy. First-run pictures are not available to the Eastwood, as RKO has the product sewed up.

Griffiths had been on the job hardly a week when he came to the conclusion that actors were needed on the stage in addition to the pictures. He also came to the conclusion that the Eastwood, being a neighborhood house in an industrial section where factories are closed, could not stand an increase in the top price of 25 cents. Always willing to stake everything on his convictions, Griffiths immediately entered into negotiations with Mack Bybee, stock company manager, for a small company that could produce shows weekly, giving mostly comedies and a few mysteries, in conjunction with the talking picture program.

A Smash Campaign

Having bought the show at a price he figured was right, Griffiths turned the town upside down with a smash campaign that made the large circuit houses green with envy. In all of his ads and exploitation on the new policy, Griffiths featured the No Increase in Admission angle.

Chain theatre managers thought he was crazy. How, they asked him, did he expect to take care of the additional overhead of several hundred dollars in a house that is on the outskirts of town and that had depended upon neighborhood patronage.

Griffiths replied that his house has a free parking lot that will handle 400 cars, and that the Eastwood was no longer a neighborhood house, but a house for the county and city.

"Our increase in business at twenty-five cents will not only offset the cost of the show, but will see us in the black as well," Griffiths contended.

Front page pictures and stories; double-page trucks in newspapers, made possible through cooperative ads by merchants; radio broadcasts; billing on a circus scale; banners all over the town, and every other conceivable angle of exploitation was used—for "Griff" knew he was on the spot. It was either make or break, and he was shooting the works.

Success Despite Handicaps

Then came the opening day. The sun was decidedly on the job and the temperature ran around 94 degrees—and the Eastwood has no cooling plant. But that didn't seem to matter to the Madison and Dane County population, hungry for stage entertainment. Capacity crowds greeted the players on the opening day and have crowded the theatre ever since. Holdouts at night are a common occurrence, and patrons stepping into the lobby are sure to see the beaming countenance of "Griff," who is giving them what they want.

The success of Griffiths' policy has spread through these parts and every night some showman, looking for a policy to combat a particular situation, is seen in the theatre.

Business has doubled on some nights, and on one night it is almost tripling the former business. The balcony, formerly used only on a 10 cent night, is now open regularly so great has become the demand for seats.

"First I studied my patrons," Griffiths explains. "I considered conditions in the territory; naturally they are bad. Then I found out through careful questioning of patrons that they want to see actors in person. I figured, however, that they could not stand an increase in price. I got the right kind of show and the answer to it all is the nightly receipts.

Leases More Parking Space

So popular is the new policy at the low price that the Eastwood has found it necessary to lease additional parking space, giving room for about 500 cars. It is common to see expensive cars drive up and unload a family. It is also common to see a farmer and his family and hired help pile out of an old truck. Griffiths has hit on an idea that seems to have a general appeal.

Exhibitors are waiting to see RKO's move. RKO owns all the downtown houses, a vaudeville theatre and three picture houses,

The newspapers seem to be giving "Griff" everything he asks for, and he is taking newspaper ads as large as the big chain theatres. Some of his advertising layouts and copy have aroused a lot of interest. His gag lines, especially, are looked for daily. "Madison's Biggest Amusement Bargain"—"Thank God for the Eastwood"—and for the University of Wisconsin student appeal, "Come to the Eastwood and Save the Difference for the Prom," are a few of them.

A Game Fighter and His Loyal Crew Give Stirring Battle to Depression's Breaks

This is a little story of one Florida exhibitor, who with the aid of a few loyal employees, is able to carry on in these days of "depression."

In the "good time" days this exhibitor was a "big shot." He controlled several houses and was making plenty of money. He was well liked by the film companies, for he was always ready and willing to pay fair rentals. He believed in giving the other fellow a break. His employees all received good salaries, in many cases slightly higher than was customary. Each employee of one year standing was given a vacation at full pay each summer. He was sitting on top of the world.

Then came the lean days of depression. Receipts dwindled and he was forced to give up his houses, one by one, until but one was left. The weekly gross in this house was well below the "nut," but he continued to carry on, sticking to his film contracts and paying the full salary list until his savings had vanished and he was broke.

He then called in the film salesmen and laid his cards on the table. The film companies met the issue by tearing up his contracts and making new ones at a lower rental. This helped some but not enough, for the house books showed nothing but red ink, and there were insufficient funds to meet the salary list.

The employees were then called in and again the cards were laid upon the table. Receipts were hardly more than sufficient to pay film rental, express, advertising and light. The question of rent was not considered as he had built the theatre in the good days, but there was still a mortgage on it. However, that could and would have to wait.

The employees held a conference and it was decided that "the boss" had been a grand fellow when he had the money, and it was now up to them to "play the game" and stick to the finish. So, the employees agreed that they would continue to operate the theatre, and after expenses had been paid the balance would be divided pro rata according to their salary standing, with the boss getting his cut, for even a boss must eat.

Each week this meager dole is divided and the house is carrying on in the hopes that brighter days are "just around the corner." Some weeks the amount is sufficient to give each enough to live on, but there have been weeks when weather conditions kicked a hole in the pitiful business to such an extent that there was a deficit, and then what do you suppose happened? Well, the ones who had savings dug down and "loaned" the needed amount to carry on.

With this wonderful display of loyalty, this house continues in operation. The lights out front burn as brightly as of yore. The music plays and everything seems joy and happiness to the patrons, but that small group within includes many an aching heart. The "boss"; well, his heart is pretty near the breaking point. Every week the full salary of every one is entered on the books, and if these days of depression will just hurry and turn that corner, you'll see the boss make his comeback, and then every one of the loyal crew will be paid, in full and with interest, for that is the kind of man he is.

Starts at Less Than Scratch And Sound Theatre Is Result

Master Stroke in Providing Shows for Oklahoma Hamlet Is Getting Merchants to Buy Matinees

The 300 folk, including babies in the hamlet of Marshall, Okla., wanted a "picture show." The Mecca theatre had been closed a long time and when a spirited young chap, Harry Nave, undertook to reopen the house, first of all there were legal entanglements to unravel, a heritage left by the last owner.

Nave could not command the capital to install sound equipment, and so had to open the theatre as a silent house at a dime admission, later raised to a quarter.

Nave knew, from past experience, that the small town expects just as good projection and comfortable seats as one finds in the city. To dress up the little house, he put white seat covers on all the chairs, cleaned the house from street to sheet, and began operations.

The first three months Nave operated the house as a silent proposition he made $35 for himself. But he gradually increased the ante and things went smoothly—for a time.

Then the novelty of having a theatre wore off. The town wanted talking pictures, or nothing; attendance dropped toward zero.

How install sound equipment with no capital? Finally, Nave figured this out: If he could get the local merchants to give a matinee on Saturdays—purchase so many tickets each Saturday—the amount would be sufficient for him to buy sound equipment and make weekly payments.

It took a lot of hustling on Nave's part to put the idea across, because Marshall is a dead oil town—very, very dead. But there is good drawing territory, and how he did capitalize on that fact!

BRIEFLY TOLD...

Eleven of Pathe Natan's 65 French theatres switch from straight pictures to features and vaudeville, marking the return of stage shows at Paris.

▼ ▼

Publix appoints David McSweeney to district managership at Massachusetts.

▼ ▼

Pictures Realization Corp. is the new corporate title of Sono Art Productions.

▼ ▼

Hal Roach appoints Warren Doane a director. Ben Shipman gets Doane's general manager's title, and L. A. French is promoted to be Shipman's assistant.

▼ ▼

Mary Pickford, in New York with Doug Fairbanks for the opening of Doug's "Around the World in Eighty Minutes," continues negotiations for story material.

▼ ▼

Frank Lloyd this week returned to Hollywood, from New York and three months abroad. He will again work for Howard Hughes.

▼ ▼

Lowell Thomas has started editing and recording accompanying dialogue of a series of 12 shorts made by Cinelog Corporation.

▼ ▼

United Artists will, in addition to England as heretofore, distribute Columbia product in South America and Spain.

▼ ▼

Forty-one exhibitors attending the Nebraska-Iowa MPTO convention at Omaha reelected C. E. Williams president.

▼ ▼

Sidney R. Kent, Paramount's sales chief, this week attended a celebration of his parent's 50th wedding anniversary, at San Francisco. He is due back in New York about November 18.

▼ ▼

Rhode Island theatre owners oppose a 10 per cent levy on receipts to aid the unemployment fund.

▼ ▼

Warners' Mastbaum, leading Philadelphia house, continues dark because of musician-union trouble. Others threaten to close.

▼ ▼

The fight of music publishers and American Society of Composers, Authors & Publishers against street "hawkers" of song sheets was actively launched this week.

Cabellero Substitutes While Arthur Makes A Circuit Tour

Charles Cabellero has assumed temporary supervision of Fox eastern theatres in the absence of Harry Arthur, general manager of the circuit, who is on a coast-to-coast tour of the company theatres. Cabellero has moved from the home office to the Roxy theatre.

Arthur has not appointed a successor to Charles Kurtzman, who resigned as Roxy manager. The probabilities are at present that no appointment will be made.

Warner Books Alice White

The Warner Artists' Bureau has booked Alice White for personal appearances at the Jersey City Stanley beginning November 20, to be followed by a week by the Earle, Washington, December 5.

PASSING IN REVIEW

The department endeavors to set forth two lines of material of service to the exhibitor—first a showman's evaluations of the outstanding pictures—second, reviews of information

"THE CHAMP" is going to pile up more dollars at your box office than any other picture you've run in many a month. You can make your mind up to that right now. Even though the "expert" critics, who just love to tell you about the little technical flaws and shortcomings of the story, will argue that this is not "the perfect" picture, it will nevertheless be a mop-up for every theatre regardless of where it is located. It is packed with plenty of pathos, quite a few belly-laughs and the lovable characterizations of Beery and Jackie Cooper.

You won't have to fall back on overused adjectives when you start out to sell this picture to your community. As a matter of fact, if you just stick to the same type of advertising that M-G-M used for its New York opening you would be doing plenty. Keep plugging the idea that this is a "great" picture and they'll flock to your b. o. without any catch lines or tricky phrases about the story or the cast. Just tell them that Wallace Beery and Jackie Cooper are opening in "The Champ" and tell it to them in the largest type your newspaper boasts of; then be certain that every spot in the area you draw from also knows about it. Your chief task is in your coverage. If you succeed in letting everybody know you're playing this picture you will have accomplished a grand piece of merchandising.

Despite the crap-shooting weakness of Beery and numerous other slants that are not exactly uplifting for the younger generation, it is a kid's picture just as much as for the adults. Spot it for your longest run and maybe you'll be glad to add an extra day or two to boot. It's that kind of a money-maker.

If you missed one of the preview trade showings, you played a dirty trick on yourself and your theatre; so make it a point to catch it when it plays your nearest big city date; then you'll never lack for selling ideas if you intend to get behind it with something exceptional.

The most flattering thing I can say about "The Champ" is that M-G-M deserves a medal for bringing us such a sure-fire box office gold mine as this one. Depression and hard times will get an awful kick in the pants when your theatre plays it.

▼

"BAD COMPANY" is one of the best gangster pictures we've looked at since "Little Caesar" came marching down the pike to roll up box office records here, there and everywhere. Released prior to the general ban on themes dealing with gunmen, it would be a wow, but coming along now while most communities are protesting at this kind of screenfare is gonna make the value of it rather questionable.

Although Helen Twelvetrees is featured, Ricordo Cortez and John Garrick, especially the latter, do outstanding work throughout the picture. Garrick is most sincere in his love scenes with Miss Twelvetrees and will win the feminine portion of your audience as never before. We would even venture a little outside our domain and make the statement that with proper pictures and a good build-up, this fellow would soon be a great box office bet.

The story holds interest from beginning to end with but few dull moments. It is well acted and exceptionally well directed. Which is a decided relief after some of the hokum coming from Hollywood.

If there are no objections to gangster pictures in your community, I would suggest that you create interest and mold your campaign along lines that will keep away from the gangster thought. This is possible through the fine work of the stars, especially Cortez and Garrick. But should there be open antagonism to stuff like this you had better play safe and not try to pull any fast ones. Possibly a preview of the picture will open up several avenues of thoughts for merchandising a picture like this. After all, no one knows your own situation better than yourself.

N. G. for the kids, but as for Sunday showings, that's up to you and your town. If there will be no comeback and you don't make a play for kiddies on the Sabbath, then follow your own best judgment.

The title immediately suggests the gangster slant, plus other angles, and can be made just as powerful at the box office as you sell it. As for "audience" values, it's OK. They'll find 'most every moment of it entertaining in many ways. We are only sorry that there is so much sentiment against stories of this type because this one is better than many others.

▼

"ONCE A LADY." Some day Paramount, as well as every other producer, is going to learn that exaggerated English accents are only enjoyed in the "sticks" as material for laffs in the next-to-closing hokum vaudeville act. Handing it out to motion picture audiences in extra large doses is a sure way to help kill the appeal of the flickers and snickers in America's many small cities. But just to make it still more difficult to sell to the small towns, P-P adds an unusually strong portion of Russian accent and many rolling R's and other "roosian" actions by none other than the star, Ruth Chatterton, and oh, my! how she does Chatter in her "roosian" way.

Here is a picture which starts out so slow and draggy that you could almost scream. It absolutely drags its way through reel after reel until you begin to despair of it ever coming to a finish; then, lo and behold! in the final reel or two it emerges as an honest-to-goodness talker with many interesting spots.

If your customers have a weakness for Ruth Chatterton, this will fully meet their expectations; if not, you must sell it for the picture. Selling should not be too difficult a task for the showman who can take any worthwhile theme and build his campaign in and around it. In this case it's the wife who could not hit it off with the husband's family and who also let the world think her dead rather than interfere with the future of her daughter. Later she helps that daughter attain happiness, all without knowing that her mother was alive and aiding her. Now take a hunk of that and sell it to the natives.

Few names in the cast aside from the star will mean anything at the b. o., so play up Chatterton for all she's worth to your patrons. The picture itself may prove "box office" if sold properly; it won't be "audience" until the final two reels, but that will send them home quite satisfied that they have seen a fairly good picture; to which you must add a fair quota of short subjects to round out the show.

Objectionable for the kids, and they won't like it on general principles. Ditto for Sunday shows in the straight-laced communities. So save it for your midweek bill. Backing it up with a campaign that will emphasize its few outstanding qualities, "Once a Lady" should prove just fair at the box office.

Maybe some one will whisper in Paramount's ear that there are plenty of good old American plots that will get more money than going so far abroad. There are altogether too many pictures with plots laid in European countries to suit the present-day tastes for something our audiences can better understand and enjoy.

▼

"THE UNHOLY GARDEN" is "just another Colman," nothing more and nothing less. It is far from an "outstanding" picture in many ways, but if your patrons have a strong yen for Colman they will accept the picture as only mildly entertaining.

The settings are realistic enough, but somehow contradict the plot itself in that the spot is supposed to be in a remote part of the desert and not very accessible, yet they have frequent visitors and mail at regular intervals.

Supporting Colman are Fay Wray, very likable as the heroine, Estelle Taylor, also OK, and Tully Marshall rounding out a competent cast, all performing very nicely in a silly, unbelievable story about gangsters and other boloney out in the desert where the "long arm of the law" can't reach them.

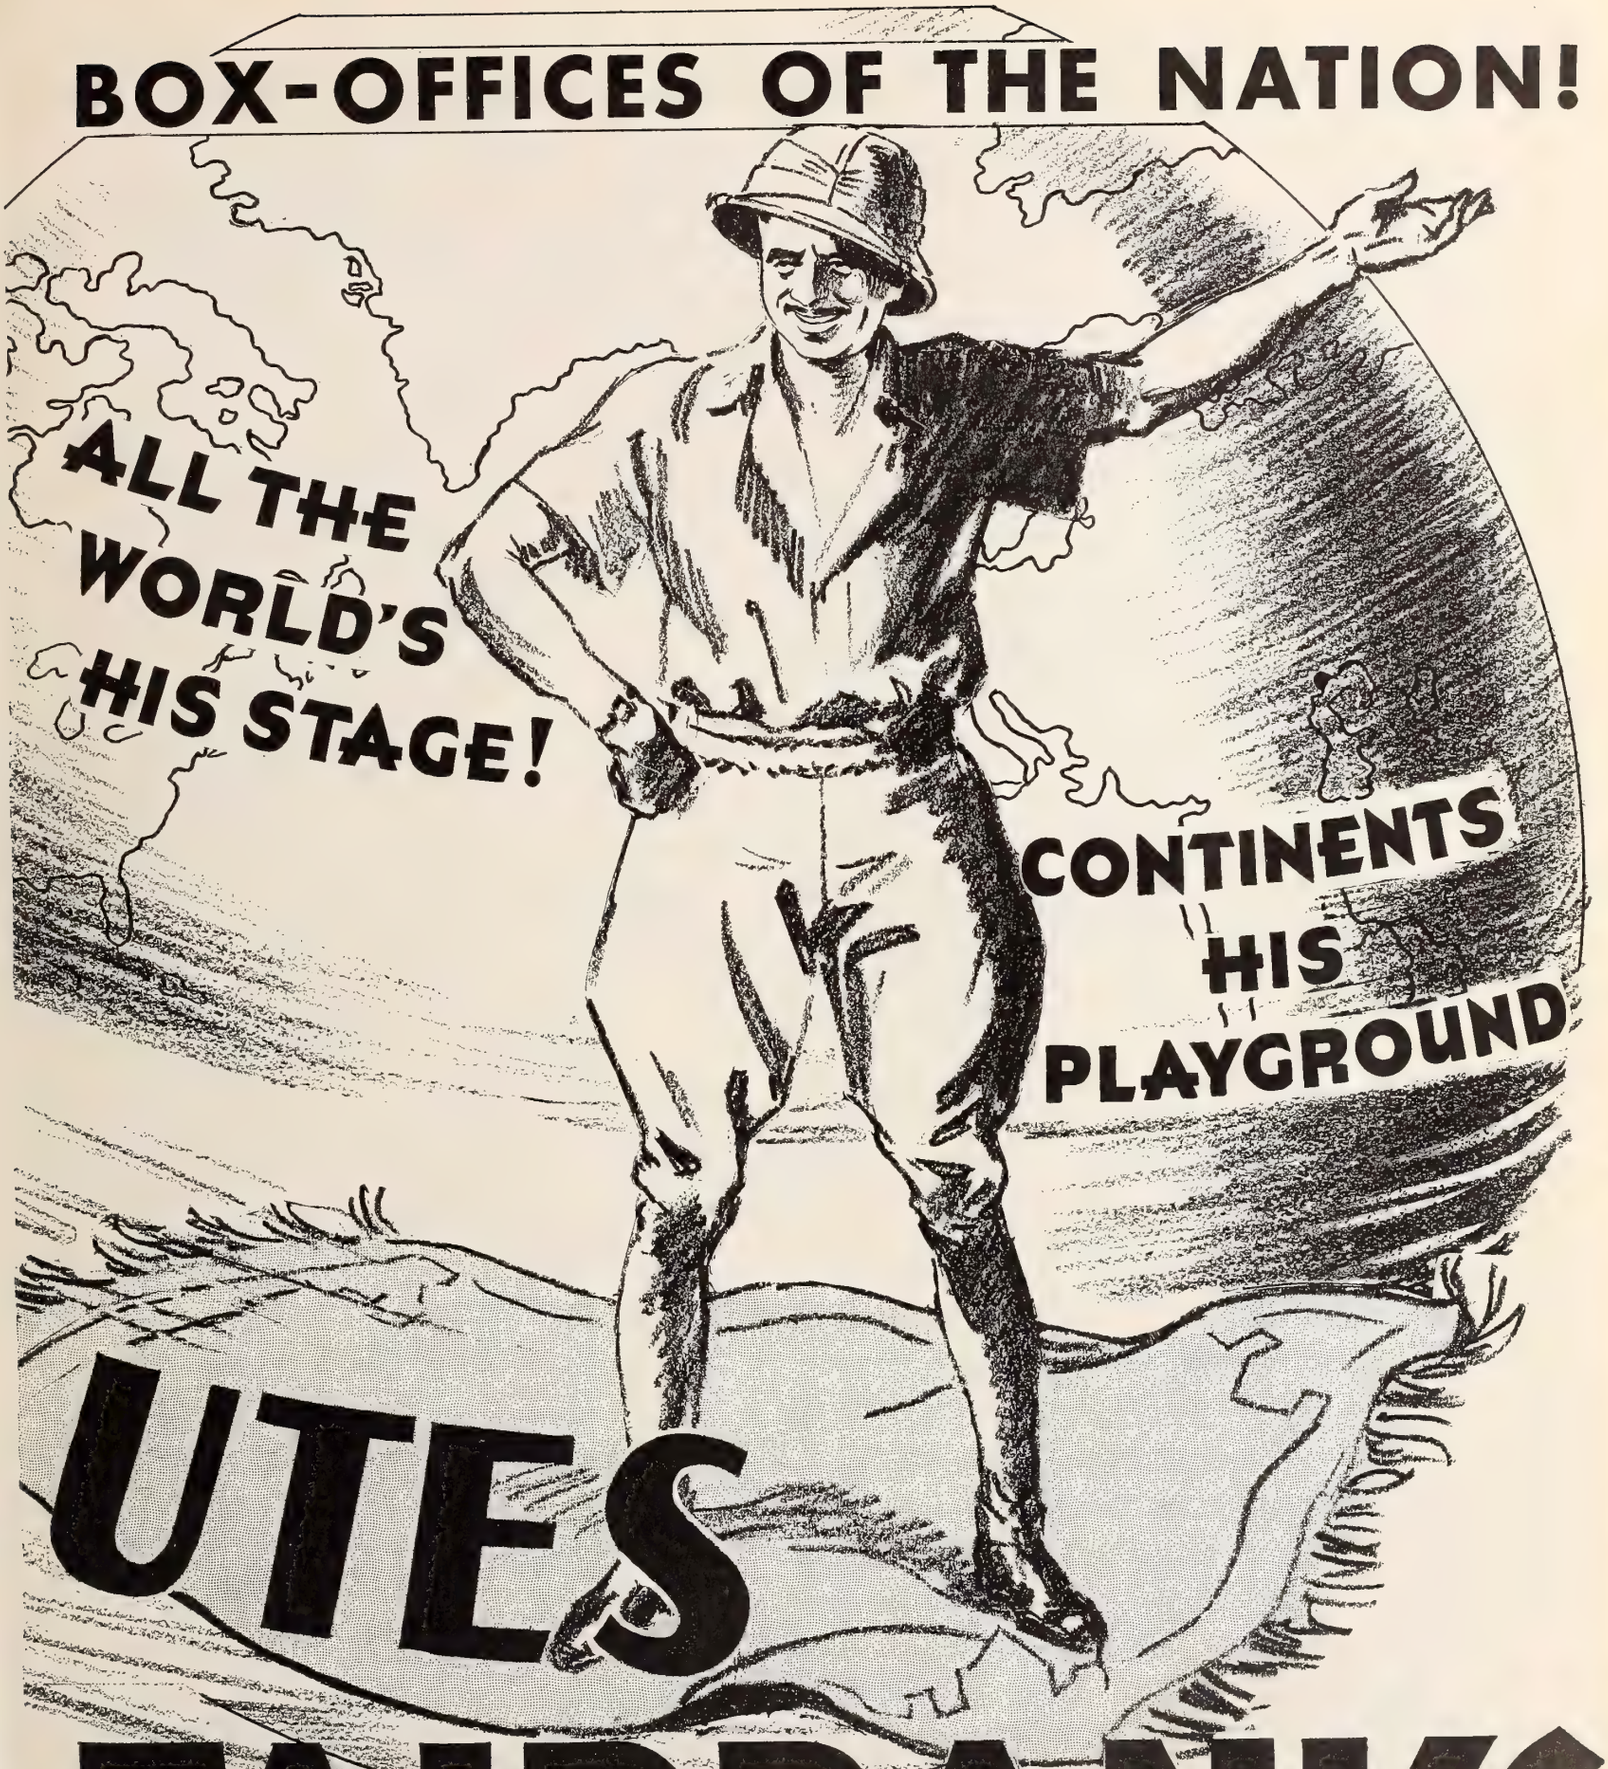
For atmospheric purposes, such as marquee displays, front dressings and newspaper ads, the yarn lends itself admirably, but for "audience" values it is as weak as near-beer. Therefore, its "box office" strength is going to be gauged by the star's popularity in the community where it plays. That may bring them in. As to its "audience" reaction, we doubt whether they will go into ecstasies or rave, but they may be quite satisfied that they have seen Ronald and enjoyed his characterization of the bad man who had to run away from the cops.

Don't tell the kids about it and maybe you'd be better off if you kept it off your Sunday schedules. Try spotting it midweek and then spend a couple of extra dollars convincing the prospective customers that here you have Colman in something entirely new and different. You won't be telling an untruth. (Ain't I the subtle cuss?)

▼

"FRIENDS AND LOVERS" may be a pretty good picture, as quality is measured at the box office, but it proves once more that either Lily Damita is N. G. for pictures or they are picking poor stories for her to work in. She has looks, ought to be able to act, yet all she seems to do is pose before the camera.

So, with that preamble about Lily, forget her in your billing, except for mention, and play up Adolphe Menjou and Erich von Stroheim. They handle their roles to perfection and contribute no little to whatever success the picture can boast of in entertainment value. Frederick Armstrong walked off with the comedy bouquet at the Roxy where we saw this picture. He's funny without half trying and that's why he's so darned good. Too bad his part is so limited.



Without possessing any claim for being a great picture, "Friends and Lovers" is still a pleasant evening's entertainment and will be found satisfactory in all but the smaller communities. There it will find little of interest to the patrons who prefer their plots around things they better understand.

The nature of the plot is a possible angle you can work on. Personally I would stick to Menjou and Von Stroheim. They offer much easier lines of resistance plus a chance to follow out the idea used at the Roxy to merchandise the picture via these two stars and their past performance. Von Stroheim, especially, can provide you with plenty of slants in this direction. Use any of his previous successes as a basis to frame your own build-up for him and the picture. Menjou has several good ones to his credit recently; therefore you can play them up as well.

Not so good for kids or Sundays. But there

SWOOPING DOWN ON THE
AROUND THE WORLD IN 80 MIN
Again Douglas Fairbanks comes through . . . leaping continents, hurdling oceans, romping into the screen arena with a NEW, NOVEL, DARING, innovation in talking picture entertainment. Swing in with this cyclonic pageant of laughs, gags, thrills, romance and adventure. Different from anything you've ever played before and as epoch-making an event as when the silents turn to talkies!
with
DOUGLAS
Another UNITED ARTISTS Box-Office Smash

BOX-OFFICES OF THE NATION!

UTES FAIRBANKS

Backed up with UNITED ARTISTS Exploitation!

is no reason why your audience should not enjoy the picture despite its drawbacks. Backed up with a good surrounding program of entertaining shorts, this feature ought to get over without too much trouble.

CHARLES E. LEWIS.

Tonight Or Never

(United Artists)

Comedy-Drama

(Seen at Hollywood)

Guided by the smart showman, Sam Goldwyn, Gloria Swanson has turned up with a swell screen version of the Belasco stage success, "Tonight or Never." As a romantic comedy it is one of the season's outstanding productions. Gloria never performed to better advantage, never looked better, or wore more gorgeous clothes. The supporting cast could scarcely have been improved.

This is the story of a Hungarian opera singer who has everything to make for success but a soul. Petulant, selfish, superficial, her voice never has achieved the spiritual richness of which it is capable. Realizing finally what she lacks, Gloria sets out to find an adventure in love. Of course, the great lover turns out to be, not the gigolo she suspected him of being, but a prince charming who happens to be agent of New York's Metropolitan Opera in Europe.

Ernest Vajda's thoroughly entertaining screen version of the original play has been handled deftly by Director Mervyn LeRoy. Georgeous Goldwyn settings have been provided by clever Willy Pogany, while the celebrated Madame Chanel has provided the gowns which Miss Swanson knows so well how to wear. Sumptuous really seems to be the word to describe this production. The dialogue sparkles and no phase of it is lost in the mouths of the excellent cast, except perhaps occasionally when laughter of the audience drowns out a quip or two when they pile up thick and fast. Gregg Toland's photography deserves a good hand, too.

This is the screen debut of Melvyn Douglas and a most auspicious one. Douglas played with a skillful sense of comedy and a suave restraint that pointed up gracefully the witty performance of the star. He created the role in New York, opposite his wife, Helen Gahagan. Under personal contract to Goldwyn, he has been loaned to RKO Pathe, where he is now playing opposite Ann Harding.

Alison Skipworth does a delightful job as a grand opera star of former years. Ferdinand Gottschalk as the vocal teacher is particularly ingenious. Robert Gregg, Warburton Gamble and Greta Meyer complete the entourage of the star's household, and each contributes most effectively to the whole. Boris Karloff appears briefly, but effectively.

Count Gloria back into the ring with a brilliant splash.

Produced by Samuel Goldwyn. Distributed by United Artists. Directed by Mervyn LeRoy. From the David Belasco stage play by Lili Hatvany. Adapted by Frederick and Fanny Hatton. Screen play by Ernest Vajda. Settings, Willy Pogany. Photography, Gregg Toland. Edited by Grant Whytock. Sound, Vinton Vernon. Release date December 26, 1931.

CAST

Nella Vago.....Gloria Swanson
Unknown gentleman.....Melvyn Douglas
Rudig.....Ferdinand Gottschalk
Butler.....Robert Greig
Count von Gronac.....Warburton Gamble
The maid.....Greta Mayer
The waiter.....Boris Karloff

Leo Meehan

Her Majesty Love

(First National)

Comedy

(Seen at Hollywood)

Jack Warner and his production forces at First National join the "Make America Laugh" movement with a loud wham in presenting the latest Marilyn Miller starring picture, "Her Majesty Love." When the theatre boys offer the charming Marilyn and Ben Lyon for love interest, together with a comedy quintet consisting of W. C. Fields, Ford Sterling Leon Errol, Clarence Wilson and Chester Conklin, those looking for a chance to forget their troubles for an hour or so ought to respond numerously.

There isn't much to the story, but who's going to care much when Marilyn and Ben are making love, and Fields, Errol, Sterling, Wilson and Conklin are making nonsense? Too, there are a couple of most intriguing musical numbers, played by a fine orchestra, with Don Novis doing the vocal soloing. And how that lad can put the old romance into a ballad.

Bill Fields tops the performances among the five comics. As an ex-vaudevillian and father of the girl, Bill gets a swell opportunity to do his stuff, including just enough of his famous plate-juggling number. Running him a close second is Clarence Wilson, the chap who played the sheriff in "Front Page," who has a nut-cracking number that panics them. Sterling, Errol and Conklin, while their parts are not so fat, contribute effectively to the general hilarity.

William Dieterle's direction brings some new notes to this screen musical comedy business that are likely to boost the popularity of the type. The sets and dressings are gorgeous and the photography particularly noteworthy.

Produced and distributed by Warners. Directed by William Dieterle. From the story by R. Berbrauer and R. Oestereicher. Adaptation by Henry Blanke and Joseph Jackson. Editor, Ralph Dawson. Art director, Jack Okey. Photography, Bob Kurrle. Lyrics by Al Dubin. Release date, December 26, 1931.

CAST

Lia Toerrek ..... Marilyn Miller
Fred von Wellingen..... Ben Lyon
Lia's father .....W. C. Fields
Otmar ..... Ford Sterling
Baron von Schwarzdorf.....Leon Errol
Emil ..... Chester Conklin
Hanneman ..... Harry Stubbs
Aunt Harriette ..... Maude Eburne
Reisenfeld ..... Harry Holman
Factory Secretary.....Ruth Hall
The "third" man.....Wm. Irving
Fred's sister, Elli .....Mae Madison

Leo Meehan

The Speckled Band

(First Division)

Mystery

Raymond Massey, English actor of note, offers his impression of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle's immortal detective character, in "The Speckled Band," one of the Sherlock Holmes stories, which centers about the mysterious death of a young girl and the near death of her sister.

The fact that Massey appears a bit young for the role of the rather elderly appearing Sherlock which Doyle's descriptive pen has indicated to us does not detract from the portrayal. At least, the audience gave every evidence that it did not, since they gave the detective and his clever deductions their rapt attention throughout the film.

The picture was filmed at the English studios of British and Dominion, and is distributed in this country by First Division Exchanges, Inc.

Lynn Harding is amply cruel and terrible in appearance, as the step-father of the two girls, upon whom he is dependent for income, and who takes drastic measures in preventing them from leaving his gloomy and "spooky" country mansion. One of the girls meets a horrible death at night, and we are later informed subtly that the step-father was the perpetrator.

One year later when the sister is about to marry, she has a fear that some misfortune will overtake her, and informs a friend, Dr. Watson, offered by Athole Steward. Sherlock Holmes goes to work in his own inimitable Holmesian manner, succeeds in uncovering the sinister device, a snake with poisonous propensities, with which Harding had disposed of one step-daughter and very nearly did likewise with the other. In the dramatic and most suspensive moment during which the climax comes, the snake is driven back through the wall whence he had been set on his death-dealing way by the step-father, and bites and kills Harding himself.

Good photography was credited by many present with heightening the mysterious atmosphere of the story. The girl was played by Angela Baddeley. The cast was considered to have handled itself with uniform ability, chief honors unquestionably going to the Sherlock of Massey and the step-father of Harding.

Produced by British and Dominions (England). Distributed in the United States by First Division Exchanges, Inc. Directed by Jack Raymond. From the story by Sir Arthur Conan Doyle. Release date, November 6, 1931. Running time, 67 minutes.

CAST

Dr. Rylott .....Lynn Harding
Sherlock Holmes .....Raymond Massey
Helen Stone .....Angela Baddeley
Dr. Watson .....Athole Steward
Mrs. Staunton .....Nancy Price

Frankenstein

(Universal)

Drama

(Seen at Hollywood)

If Universal's production of "Frankenstein" does nothing else it establishes Boris Karloff as the one important candidate who has arisen for the mantle of the late Lon Chaney as a delineator of weird and grotesque roles. Because of his restraint, his intelligent simplicity of gesture, carriage, voice and make-up, Karloff has truly created a Frankenstein monster. Had he yielded to the temptation to melodramatize as the opportunity offered, the character would have been far less formidable, horrible, terrible, and a lot of other "ibles" which might be added. Karloff has done some excellent things in pictures, though usually in minor roles. This was his big opportunity, and whether you like the picture or not you won't deny his efficacy.

"Frankenstein" is a thriller, make no mistake. Women come out trembling, men exhausted. I don't know what it might do to children, but I know I wouldn't want my kids to see it. And I won't forgive Junior Laemmle or James Whale for permitting the Monster to drown a little girl before my very eyes. That job should come out before the picture is released. It is too dreadfully brutal, no matter what the story calls for. It carries gruesomeness and cruelty just a little beyond reason or necessity.

As I have said before, I don't pretend to know what any picture will do at the box office. I certainly do not know what "Frankenstein" will do. But, like every other newspaper man, I know that America is full of people who fight their way into murder trials, dash off to see the scenes of revolting crimes, get up at night to run to fires, buy millions of copies of newspapers to read the life stories of Ruth Judds and Edward Hickmanns. I know there are millions who would use all the influence they could muster to witness a hanging or an electrocution. Almost every mortician can point out a dozen or a score who are professional funeral-goers. Others with a milder form of the sensation-phobia content themselves with visiting cemeteries to read tombstone inscriptions, or regale themselves with ghost stories. And I have a hunch these same people may rush to see "Frankenstein." I have a hunch others may go "just to see if it is as bad as Mrs. Jones said it was." There's that bump, too, in a lot of us.

As a production, it certainly is an adequate screen version of a famous story and a famous play. The camera has afforded almost frankenstein opportunities of emphasizing all the deadly horror of this unique piece of literature. Garrett Fort and Francis Edward Faragoh have considered their medium well in developing the screen treatment. Director James Whale has missed no opportunities to make it precisely what it purports to be. They have been ably assisted by Arthur Edeson's photographic effects and Danny Hall's sets. E. M. Asher produced it for the Laemmles, with Maurice Pivar as editorial supervisor and Richard Schayer as supervising scenarist.

Colin Clive gives a splendid performance as the mentally perverted Frankenstein who creates the Monster. Mae Clarke is effective as the fiance who suffers deeply and finally is the victim of Frankenstein's devotion to his mania. John Boles is adequate as their friend, Victor, and Edward Van Sloan does particularly well

MACK SENNETT BRINGS YOU

A short subject star that blazes on BROADWAY'S BIG SIGNS!

It took a whole building to carry the Paramount Theatre's announcement of the personal appearance of Bing Crosby, Mack Sennett's two-reel comedy star. Known to 50,000,000 persons through the microphone, his name now becomes one of the greatest marquee names in films.

BING CROSBY in "I Surrender Dear"

AT 4 NEW YORK FIRST RUN THEATRES

UNPRECEDENTED SHOWING

RIALTO · RIVOLI · NEW YORK PARAMOUNT · BROOKLYN PARAMOUNT

Nothing like it before. The crooning sensation of the dials brings his music and mirth to the screen and a ready-made audience clamors to the box-office!

New York American says—

"Don't miss Bing Crosby in "I Surrender, Dear" at the Rialto—it's a knockout."

Educational Pictures
"THE SPICE OF THE PROGRAM"

EDUCATIONAL FILM EXCHANGES, Inc., E. W. HAMMONS, President

Member, Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, Inc., Will H. Hays, President

as Frankenstein's medical tutor and friend. The only and welcome comedy relief is afforded by that delightful gentleman, Frederick Kerr, in the role of the Baron Frankenstein.

Produced and distributed by Universal. Directed by James Whale. Screen play by Garrett Ford and Francis Edwards Faragah. Based on the story by Mary W. Shelley. Photographer, Arthur Edeson. Art director, Danny Hall. Release date, November 21, 1931. Running time, 71 minutes.

CAST

Henry Frankenstein.....Colin Clive
Elizabeth ..... Mae Clarke
Victor Moritz..... John Boles
The Monster ..... Boris Karloff
Baron Frankenstein..... Frederick Kerr
Dr. Waldman .....Edward Van Sloan

Leo Meehan

Thirty Days

(Patrician Pictures)

Drama

(Seen at Hollywood)

Patrician Pictures presented the first of its season's program to an audience at the Coast Fairfax last week. Thought well developed by Director Alan Crosland from Hal Conklin's original story adapted by Gertrude Orr, "Thirty Days" presents the adventures of an uptown girl who wakens one morning in jail, rubbing elbows with the "other half." But she has the right sort of stuff in her character and by the time she has finished her 30 days she has learned there is something in life besides self-indulgence and gold.

Maureen O'Sullivan was termed as acquitting herself excellently as the society girl who has to take her medicine. She finds in Kate, a big-hearted downtown girl, a friend who helps her through her humanities. Kate is played by Betty Compson. John Warburton makes a satisfying hero as the benevolent young attorney who does much to correct Maureen's lop-sided view of life. Others in the cast who contribute good performances are Mary Doran, Martha Mattox, Montague Love and Cornelius Keefe. Noted as particularly brilliant and enjoyable was the work of little Wally Albright, a child performer of more than ordinary talent.

Alan Crosland's direction seemed particularly effective in the more tender and subtle moments of the picture, and he has kept it moving at a rapid pace throughout, with a fist fight, a few hysterics and rapid changes of scene which kept the audience in suspense.

Many friends of this young independent concern were on hand to offer their congratulations upon the beginning of its season's program.

Produced and distributed by Patrician Pictures. Producer, Emil Jensen. Directed by Alan Crosland. Original story by Hal Conklin. Adaptation by Gertrude Orr. Additional dialogue by Claire Carvalho. Photographed by Bob Planck. Art director, Jack Schulze.

CAST

Maureen O'Sullivan — John Holland
Betty Compson — Marian Stokes
John Warburton — Grace Valentine
Montague Love — Mildred Golder
Mary Doran — J. Frank Glendon
Cornelius Keefe — Helen Gibson
Martha Mattox — Jayne Kerr
Wally Albright

Peach O'Reno

(Radio)

Comedy

(Seen at Hollywood)

Reno's divorce farce becomes the subject for farcical antics by Wheeler and Woolsey in their latest Radio laugh potion, entitled "Peach O'Reno." It is considerably the best of the recent productions featuring these comics, having some moments which are positively uproarious.

Cast in the roles of Reno's leading bargain rate divorce lawyers, the two are given opportunities to poke plenty of fun at Reno's marital mill, its gambling and its ballyhoo. They are enthusiastically aided and abetted in their job by Zelma O'Neal, Dorothy Lee, Joseph Cawthorn, Sam Hardy, Cora Witherspoon and others.

Particularly funny is the female impersonation—strictly for co-respondent purposes—of Bert Wheeler. Bert has the whole kit and kaboodle of these feminine impersonators lashed to the mast, m'deas! His and Bob Woolsey's dance number during Bert's disguise act made the preview audience almost unruly. Another swell low-comedy (which we confess to liking when it's well done) sequence concerns an affectionate battle and proposal between Woolsey and Zelma O'Neal. There ought to be a law or something to keep that O'Neal girl on the screen more often, and, also to give her stuff which she can do in her own peppy way.

Woolsey, as usual, maintains his Central Avenue sartorial elegance, and his cigar gyrations would continue to be quite funny if he could be persuaded to use them with a little more restraint. Cora Witherspoon and Joe Cawthorn are very good as the couple whose marriage goes on the rocks after 25 years. They do not give Sam Hardy any too much to do, but what he does contributes to the general hilarity. Dorothy Lee is cute.

This picture was made solely for laugh purposes, with Bill Seiter doing a good job on Tim Whelan's story, adapted by Ralph Spence. Max Ree built unusually clever mechanical effects for some of the sets.

Produced and distributed by Radio. Supervised by John E. Burch. Directed by William A. Seiter. From the story by Tim Whelan. Adaptation and dialogue by Ralph Spence. Edited by Jack Kitchin. Photographed by Jack MacKenzie.

CAST

Wattles ..... Bert Wheeler
Swift ..... Robert Woolsey
Prudence ..... Dorothy Lee
Joe Bruno ..... Joseph Cawthorn
Aggie Bruno ..... Cora Witherspoon
Pansy ..... Zelma O'Neal
Judge Jackson .....Sam Hardy
Crosby ..... Mitchell Harris
The Secretary ..... Arthur Hoyt

Leo Meehan

Anybody's Blonde

(Action Pictures)

Drama

Rapid action throughout combined with rather fine performances in general were considered basically responsible for the high dramatic and audience interest of this independent production, third of the season from Action Pictures.

Though the story could not be called exactly new, there are nevertheless several novel twists to the plot structure.

Dorothy Revier plays the lead as the newspaper girl reporter who obtains a leave of absence from her paper and joins a night club chorus girl group, in order to gather evidence against those responsible for the murder of her brother, a boxing champion. In her deliberate connection with the gangsters, she meets the leader, played by Lloyd Whitlock, and succeeds in usurping the affection he holds for Edna Murphy, one of the troupe.

As a consequence of her cleverness in manipulating the situation, the gang leader is brought to book by the police and the mystery of the brother's murder is cleared. Nita Martin, Broadway player, supplies several rather amusing bits of comedy relief from the dramatic situations with her singing.

Richard Miller portrays the tough detective in what was considered a decidedly effective manner, offering prize fights, gang killings and police third-degree methods. Reed Howes plays the contender for the boxing championship, who successfully falls in love with Miss Revier.

Produced by Ralph M. Like for Action Pictures. Directed by Frank Strayer. Story by Betty Burbridge. Supervised by Cliff Broughton. Release date, October 30, 1931. Running time, 59 minutes.

CAST

Janet Reese .....Dorothy Revier
Myrtle ..... Edna Murphy
Dan O'Hara ..... Reed Howes
Steve Crane..... Lloyd Whitlock
The Editor .....Henry B. Walthall

Good Sport

(Fox)

Drama

(Seen at Hollywood)

Virtue is its own reward, but the girl who isn't too fussy gets the diamond bracelets. And if hubby goes philandering off to Europe with a mistress, wifey can assuage her grief by getting engaged to another man, even though he makes her the self-same proposition that caused her to go sour on her husband.

So says the latest Fox production, "Good Sport." Rather a messy lot of stuff, if you ask this reviewer, but possibly there are enough "good sports" who will enjoy screen fare which clinicises this type of moral cancer.

Refreshingly good direction by Kenneth MacKenna, together with some excellent histrionic moments by members of a capable cast, relieve the monotonous plot. Linda Watkins, one of Fox's debutantes of the year, is featured. She acquits herself very satisfactorily. John Boles does creditably with the hero job, a hero who offers an apartment and a bankroll one moment, marriage the next. Allan Dinehart is the naughty husband, Hedda Hopper the wise but tolerant mama. Louise Beavers is particularly clever as the colored maid who tries her best to teach Linda what keeps kept ladies. These latter varieties are portrayed with judicious candor by other members of the cast, which includes Claire Maynard, Ethel Kenyon, Betty Francisco, Sally Blane, Inez Morton, Joan Carr and Betty Allen.

Though well done, and with one eye on the censor for the most part, it is scarcely up to the standard set in recent months by a company which has turned out "Daddy Long Legs," "Merely Mary Ann," "Yellow Ticket," "Ambassador Bill," "Over the Hill," "Cisco Kid," "Transatlantic" and the like.

Produced and distributed by Fox. Directed by Kenneth MacKenna. Screen play by William Hurlbut. Photographed by Charles Clarke. Sound, Alfred Bruzlin. Art director, William Darling. Release date, December 13, 1931.

CAST

Marilyn Parker .....Linda Watkins
Boyce Cameron ..... John Boles
Rex Parker ..... Allan Dinehart
Peggy Burns ..... Greta Nissen
Mrs. Atherton ..... Hedda Hopper
Ginnie ..... Minna Gombell
Queenie ..... Claire Maynard
September ..... Louise Beavers
Marge ..... Sally Blane
Laura ..... Betty Francisco
Loretta ..... Ethel Kenyon
Nita ..... Inez Norton
Violet ..... Joan Carr
Fay ..... Betty Allen

Leo Meehan

The Ruling Voice

(First National)

Drama

Racketeering versus the love of a daughter comprises the theme of conflict in this First National production, favorably received at the Winter Garden on Broadway. Walter Huston, as the father of the "System" as well as of Loretta Young, triumphs over himself in his effort to win back the respect of his daughter, but loses his life at the hands of a victim of the racket.

Huston, in the role of Jack Bannister, the unscrupulous but suave "voice," commanded respect for his portrayal of indomitable control of the ring over whom he lorded, as well as a liking for the light touches of his more whimsical moments. Fast moving dialogue accounted in part for that reaction, combined with the acting ability of a wide range of experience on both the stage and the talking screen.

It's when his daughter returns from finishing school abroad that a new note begins to appear in the ruling voice, a voice heard by recalcitrants awaiting his judgment while its hidden owner views them through a slot in the door. When he candidly tells his daughter the nature of his business and she "disowns" him, he finds that all his so-called power has lost its flavor. He arranges that the daughter be employed by Mary Stanton (Doris Kenyon) as tutoress for her small son.

And now he tries in vain to call off the terrorism instituted to break the campaign begun against him by a group of influential business leaders. He learns from Mrs. Stanton that they are planning to strike him by kidnaping his daughter. And Gloria, the daughter, to save her pupil from any counter-move, brings both the child and her mother to her father's home.

Bannister, with a threat of taking the records to the district attorney, orders off the bombings and burnings. But Snead (Dudley Digges), his closest accomplice, sees it all as treason and treachery and sends a maddened victim of the "System" to Bannister's home on a pretext of

$2.00 SMASH!
S.R.O.
New house records.
Over-flow Crowds.
Broken records!
Road show Winner
Big money
$2.00 smash!
Crowds! Crowds! Crowds!
S.R.O.
Amazing!
Wonderful
Box Office Smash
Long Runs
CARL LAEMMLE presents
A UNIVERSAL PICTURE
FRANKENSTEIN
THE MAN WHO MADE A MONSTER

having him sign a peace agreement. When the man hears Bannister's voice he recognizes "the ruling voice" and kills him.

David Manners, as the fiance of Gloria, supplies with her the incidental love interest in the story.

Story by Rowland V. Lee and Donald W. Lee. Directed by Rowland V. Lee. Dialogue by Byron Morgan. Adaptation by Robert Lord. Cameraman, Sol Polito. Film editor, George Amy.

CAST

Jack Bannister	Walter Huston
Gloria	Loretta Young
Mary Stanton	Doris Kenyon
Dick Cheney	David Manners
Burroughs	John Halldiay
Snead	Dudley Digges
Gregory	Gilbert Emery
Bailey	Willard Robertson
Malcolm Stanton	Douglas Scott

Range Law

(Tiffany)

Western

Ken Maynard, Tiffany's western star, in another hard riding offering, in which Ken, aided and abetted by his beautiful horse, Tarzan, vindicates himself of the charge which had previously lodged him in jail and then made him an escaped convict, and wins the girl, to the discomfiture of the villains.

Frances Dade plays the heroine role as the owner of a ranch, while Frank Mayo and Charles King contrive to be fairly satisfactory heavies. Lafe McKee was considered to have done reasonably well with the role of Frisco, convict friend of Maynard, who becomes his right-hand man in his effort at outwitting the bad men, and comes to his aid in timely fashion in several tight places.

Maynard, escaped from jail, where he had been incarcerated on a trumped up charge of robbery, is on the way to find the crook who caused his arrest. He finds a pair of slippers on the road and seeks the girl who owns them, but the find causes him again to land in jail as an express stage robber.

Again, and this time, with the aid of Frisco, he makes good an escape from his cell, and at the proper moment arrives to prevent the marriage of Mayo and Miss Dade. He kidnaps Miss Dade, and returns to town for unfinished business. In the thick of a fight with Mayo and his henchman, King, things look bad for Maynard, when the girl, who had overheard enough in a mountain camp to prove Ken innocent, arrives with the sheriff and Frisco. The day is saved and Maynard is in a fair way to managing a ranch and taking a wife for the concluding sequence.

Produced and distributed by Tiffany. Directed by Phil Rosen. Produced by Phil Goldstone. Story by Earle Snell. Release date, October 11, 1931. Running time, 63 minutes.

CAST

Hap Conners	Ken Maynard
Ruth Warren	Frances Dade
Blont	Frank Mayo
The Sheriff	Jack Rockwell
Frisco	Lafe McKee
Legal	Charles King

A Private Scandal

(Headline)

Drama

A somewhat different type of story, possessed of real, down-to-earth popular interest, and carrying with it true love interest, plenty of fast action and suspensive drama, was thought by many who sat in on this second of the independent company's current season releases, to be particularly responsible for the rating of fine which was one noticeable comment.

Lloyd Hamilton and Marion Nixon play the opposite leads in a fashion which was termed decidedly capable. Hamilton is a crook, who marries Miss Nixon in order to extricate her from a difficult situation whereby she was being forced into a distasteful marriage.

After their sudden small-town marriage, he takes the girl to New York, where Hamilton leaves her, considering himself not good enough for her under the circumstances and feeling that he has done his best for her in aiding her to escape from an intolerable position. But Miss Nixon has become vastly attracted to the young man who has done the right thing, in a gentlemanly manner. Hamilton leaves in particular because he is thoroughly aware that the police may pick him up at any time.

The balance of the story concerns in vitally living fashion, the manner in which he, realizing how much the attraction is mutual, makes a stern effort to go straight, and, on the other hand, the sacrifices which she makes to assist him in his attempt. This situation provides opportunity for real dramatic action, an opportunity which, it was conceded, was not lost.

The climax comes when the girl, as secretary to the district attorney running for governor, is forced to take down the confession of her husband. Cleverly she holds the confession out of the files and later bargains with the district attorney for her husband's freedom, on the strength of her knowledge of the marriage of the candidate's sister to a crook.

The balance of the cast was thought to have been entirely adequate, with Theodore von Eltz and Walter Hiers doing especially good work.

Produced and distributed by Headline Pictures. Directed by C. Hutchinson. Story and dialogue by John Francis Natteford. Edited by Richard Hughes. Cameramen, Ernie Miller and B. B. Ray. Sound, W. M. Dalgeish. Running time, 72 minutes.

CAST

Mary Gale	Marian Nixon
Daniel Treve	Lloyd Hughes
Rita Grey	Lucille Powers
Matthew Grey	Theodore von Eltz
Honest John	Walter Hiers
Count Raymond d'Alencourt	Fletcher Norton
"Eddie"	Eddie Phillips
"George"	George Wells
Snowflake	Himself

Shanghaied Love

(Columbia)

Melodrama

A melodrama of the high seas of the clipper ship days and one which possesses an assortment of entertainment producing factors, to judge by the reaction of an audience at Loew's New York recently.

There is a goodly portion of comedy well spotted through the film, which extracted a number of hearty laughs from the New York audience. Fred Toomes as the colored boy aboard ship and Lionel Belmore as the big Swede account for the majority of the laughs.

John Cromwell was thought to have turned in a good performance ably supported by Sally Blane, the two providing the romantic interest. Willard Robertson as the wronged father who takes his revenge on the sea captain in the end, and Noah Beery as that domineering and cruel captain, were thought to have carried off chief acting honors, Robertson having done the best piece of work, in the opinion of many in the audience.

Beery had stolen Robertson's wife and daughter, causing the death of the woman and adopting the girl, Miss Blane. He attempts to marry the girl to his first mate, on the Golden Bough, but meets with opposition from Cromwell who has fallen in love with her.

Robertson is later discovered to have boarded the ship before it left port, and after a mutiny at the right moment to save the girl from marrying the mate, Beery is put in chains, the mate is tossed overboard, and the ship is restored to Robertson, to whose daughter it rightfully belongs. Cromwell and the girl conclude the picture in the expected romantic vein.

Produced and distributed by Columbia. Directed by George B. Seitz. Story by Norman Springer. Adaptation and dialogue by Roy Chanslor and Jack Cunningham. Film editor, Gene Milford. Cameraman, Teddy Tetzlaff. Release date, September 20, 1931. Running time, 66 minutes.

CAST

John Shreve	Richard Cromwell
Angus Swope	Noah Beery
Mary	Sally Blane
Newman	Willard Robertson
The Rat	Sidney Bracy
Eric	Dick Alexander
Fitzgibbons	Edwin J. Brady
Rev. Deaken	Erville Alderson
Lynch	Jack Cheatham
The Knitting Swede	Lionel Belmore
Snowflake	Fred Toomes

SHORTS

Voice of Hollywood

(Tiffany)

Good

Of general interest to the run of film patrons is this, number 10 of the series. Various Hollywood personages of importance are introduced at a premiere with Olsen and Johnson giggling the announcement. Then Dorothy Christy as Miss Information tells a few words about Warren Kerrigan and Charles Ray, showing in miniature pictures in which they appeared years ago.—Running time, 9 minutes.

Torchy Passes the Buck

(Educational)

Good

This is the second of the amusing Torchy comedies, with Ray Cooke as the smart and wholly likeable office boy. As usual, Torchy does his good turn, but in his own delightful manner. Able support is rendered by Franklyn Panghorn, Dorothy Dix, Edmund Breese, Morton Drury and Kane Richmond. Cooke has in his own style and it is good.—Running time, 20 minutes.

Two Barks Brothers

(MGM)

Fine

Another of the M-G-M Dogville comedies, and suffice it to say that it rates up to the standard in cleverness and humor of the previous numbers of the same series. A district attorney is framed by the gang element of the city when he attempts to run for re-election. They substitute gin for water in the bottle on the speakers' platform at a rally, and the change in the dog's facial expression is the high spot in the comedy. The finish will bring gales of laughter from any audience, anywhere. —Running time, 17 minutes.

Strange As It Seems

(Universal)

Fair

This number of the series devoted to oddities pictured in color is the first by the noiseless recording method. Though of moderate general interest, it is hardly on a par with previous numbers. Seen are the man and wife to whom have been born five sets of twins, a blind telephone operator, an elephant cracking cocoanuts, salmon catching by hand, a museum of biblical figures made of shells and a bee fancier who puts the insects in his mouth.—Running time, 8 minutes.

Believe It Or Not

(Vitaphone)

Interesting

Number 12 of the Robert L. Ripley series of oddities garnered the world over. The film pictures numerous strange things noticed by the cartoonist on his recent trip abroad, with Ripley acting as guide. Included are an Algerian jail where wives are held for eight cents per day and the home of the sultan, Malai Ismal, who boasted 888 children and 3,000 wives. Other incidents are equally interesting.—Running time, 7 minutes.

Full Coverage

(RKO Pathe)

Funny

Benny Rubin in a really amusing comedy effort, which has numerous laughs well spotted. Benny plays the insurance agent out to garner a high score, bonus and vacation, but ruins his company when he sells policies to cab drivers of two rival companies. Several situations are decidedly funny.—Running time, 18 minutes.

Checking back and Looking Ahead

STARTING six months ago, we've been repeatedly inviting you to "Keep your eyes on Tiffany Pictures." Because Tiffany Pictures are going somewhere. We knew it then. Now you have the evidence by which you, too, may know it.

★ ★ ★

It has often been said that it is in the burning test of depressions that successful enterprises are made. Certainly the steady forward march of Tiffany Pictures in face of this year's trying conditions is an outstanding example of what careful thinking, careful planning, proper man-power, hard work and courage can do.

★ ★ ★

Dependability in delivery; consistency in box-office quality! They tell the story. Such pictures as "Hell Bound," "Women Go On Forever," "Murder at Midnight," "Leftover Ladies" and, coming soon, the greatest of them all, "X Marks the Spot" . . . . . these are the answer!

★ ★ ★

There's box-office power in Tiffany Pictures' Quality Group of features. That's why they're playing first run in every big key center in the country. That's why they're playing with increasing regularity such great circuits as Publix, Warner Bros., RKO, B. & K. Midwest, Universal, Loew's, Fox, Fox-Skouras, Hughes-Franklin. And there's steady business building strength in the KEN MAYNARD and BOB STEELE Westerns.

★ ★ ★

Tiffany Pictures are an outstanding value for showmen. Their performance of the last few months is your insurance. It is good business to sign that contract today.

TIFFANY
PRODUCTIONS, INC.
Distributed by* Sono Art—World Wide

THEATRE RECEIPTS

Theatre receipts from box offices in the key cities over the country for the current week reached a total of $2,229,627, which compares with a total gross for the preceding seven-day period of $2,371,769, a drop for the week of $142,142. However, this decrease to a great extent accounted for by the fact that this week's compilation represents only 28 cities instead of the 29 cities regularly listed. Two new high individual theatre figures were recorded this week and nine new low totals, which compares with four new high totals and six new lows for the previous week.

(Copyright, 1931: Reproduction of material from this department without credit to Motion Picture Herald expressly forbidden)

Theatres			Current Week		Previous Week		High and Low Gross (Tabulation covers period from January, 1931 to date)
			Picture	Gross	Picture	Gross
Albany
Harm-Bleeker ..	2,300	35c-50c	"The Cisco Kid" (Fox) (6 days)	9,460	"Young as You Feel" (Fox) (6 days)	8,350	High 1-24 "Reducing"	$ 18,500
							Low 4-4 "Passion Flower"	6,100
Leland	1,350	25c-35c	"Sob Sister" (Fox) (6 days)	5,100	"The Spider" (Fox) (6 days)	5,500	High 5-2 "Strangers May Kiss"	8,100
							Low 7-11 "Daddy Long Legs"	2,900
Ritz	1,146	25c-35c	"Susan Lenox" (MGM) (6 days)	4,175	"East of Borneo" (U.) (6 days)	4,950	High 10-31 "East of Borneo"	4,950
							Low 6-6 "Party Husband"	3,190
RKO Palace....	4,000	25c-60c	"Spirit of Notre Dame" (U.) (3 days)	10,200	.....		.....
			"Silence" (Para.) (3 days)	9,200
Strand	1,900	35c-50c	"Get Rich Quick Wallingford".... (MGM) (6 days)	6,300	"24 Hours" (Para.) (6 days)	6,140	High 10-24 "Susan Lenox"	10,350
							Low 7-11 "Broadminded"	5,500
Baltimore
Europa	267	25c-50c	"Troika" (Foreign) (6 days)	800	"Fight For the Matterhorn" .... (German) (6 days)	600	.....
Hippodrome	2,250	25c-50c	"The Homicide Squad" (U.) (6 days and Sun. midnite show)	16,700	"Skyline" (Fox) (6 days & Sun. midnite show)	11,500	.....
Keith's	2,500	25c-50c	"Girls About Town" (Para.) (6 days and Sun. midnite show)	5,680	"Expensive Women" (W. B.)..... (6 days & Sun. midnite show)	6,320	High 4-9 "Bachelor Apartment"	16,080
							Low 1-17 "Abraham Lincoln"	4,800
Loew's Century	3,076	25c-60c	"The Beloved Bachelor" (Para.) (6 days)	20,000	"The Road to Reno" (Para.)..... (6 days)	18,500	High 4-11 "Tailor Made Man"	30,000
							Low 3-21 "Conquering Horde"	17,000
Loew's Parkway	987	15c-35c	"Susan Lenox" (MGM) (6 days)	4,200	"The Unholy Garden" (U. A.)..... (6 days)	3,500	High 1-3 "Follow the Leader"	5,500
							Low 1-10 "Lottery Bride"	3,100
Loew's Stanley..	3,532	25c-60c	"The Ruling Voice" (F. N.) (6 days)	17,000	"Sin of Madelon Claudet" (MGM) (6 days)	22,500	High 4-11 "Strangers May Kiss"	33,500
							Low 3-14 "Reaching for the Moon"	15,000
Loew's Valencia	1,487	25c-35c	"Susan Lenox" (MGM) (6 days)	3,500	"The Unholy Garden" (U. A.)... (6 days)	3,000	High 1-3 "Going Wild"	4,500
							Low 6-13 "Too Young to Marry"	2,400
New	1,600	25c-50c	"Ambassador Bill" (Fox) (6 days)	8,000	"The Yellow Ticket" (Fox)..... (6 days)	8,000	High 1-10 "Man Who Came Back"	18,000
							Low 7-11 "Their Mad Moment"	6,000
Rivoli	1,982	20c-40c	"Friends and Lovers" (Radio).... (6 days)	4,500	"Fifty Fathoms Deep" (Col.)..... (6 days)	5,400	High 1-10 "Criminal Code"	10,000
							Low 11-7 "Friends and Lovers"	4,500
Boston
Keith's	2,800	25c-65c	"Platinum Blonde" (Col.)	17,000	"Consolation Marriage" (Radio)...	20,000	High 2-14 "Cimarron"	26,000
							Low 11-7 "Platinum Blonde"	17,000
Keith-Boston ..	2,500	25c-60c	"The Tip Off" (Pathe)	19,000	"Homicide Squad" (U.)	19,000	High 1-10 "Danger Lights"	22,000
							Low 7-18 "Up for Murder"	17,000
Loew's Orpheum	3,100	25c-50c	"Susan Lenox" (MGM)	19,000	"Get Rich Quick Wallingford".... (MGM)	21,000	High 1-24 "Hells Angels"	31,500
							Low 7-11 "Indiscreet"	18,000
Loew's State ..	3,700	25c-50c	"Sin Of Madelon Claudet" (MGM)	24,000	"The Unholy Garden" (U. A.)....	21,500	High 4-11 "City Lights"	25,000
							Low 7-18 "Man in Possession"	19,000
Metropolitan ...	4,350	35c-75c	"The Mad Genius" (W. B.)	37,500	"24 Hours" (Para.)	34,500	High 1-31 "No Limit"	44,300
							Low 7-4 "I Take This Woman"	30,000
Olympia	2,500	25c-50c	"The Cisco Kid" (Fox)	13,000	"The Last Flight" (F. N.).....	15,000	High 1-3 "Blue Angel"	18,000
							Low 2-21 "Sit Tight"	12,000
Scollay Square.	1,800	25c-50c	"Road To Singapore" (W. B.)	12,000	"Bad Girl" (Fox)	15,000	High 1-17 "Right to Love"	25,000
							Low 11-7 "Road to Singapore"	12,000
Uptown	2,000	25c-60c	"The Cisco Kid" (Fox)	12,000	"The Last Flight" (F. N.).....	13,000	High 9-26 "Monkey Business"	15,000
							Low 7-18 "Night Nurse"	11,000
Buffalo
Buffalo	3,500	30c-65c	"Susan Lenox" (MGM)	28,000	"Sob Sister" (Fox)	21,000	High 3-28 "My Past"	39,500
							Low 7-4 "I Take This Woman"	19,000
Century	3,000	25c-35c	"Homicide Squad" (U.)	12,000	"East of Borneo" (U.)	11,400	High 2-14 "Cimarron"	25,600
							Low 4-4 "Mothers Cry"	5,900
Court Street....	1,800	25c	"Riders of the Purple Sage" (Fox) (3 days)	2,000	"The Big Gamble" (Pathe)..... (3 days)	2,100	.....
			"Skyline" (Fox) (4 days)	3,100	"Side Show" (W. B.)..... (4 days)	4,300
Erlinger	1,400	25c-50c	"Die Privatsekretarian" (Capitol)	6,500	"Das Rheinlandsmaedel" (Capitol) (8 days)	6,000	.....
Great Lakes ...	3,000	25c-50c	"Palmy Days" (U. A.)	17,900	"Spirit of Notre Dame" (U.)..... (35c-50c)	19,800	High 8-8 "Politics"	35,100
							Low 9-26 "American Tragedy"	16,000
Hippodrome	2,100	25c-50c	"Smart Woman" (Radio)	20,000	"The Beloved Bachelor" (Para.)...	17,000	High 2-14 "Free Love"	26,300
							Low 7-4 "Six Cylinder Love"	14,800
Hollywood	300	20c-40c	"Mystery Of Life" (U.)	1,900	.....		.....
Lafayette	3,300	25c-35c	"Murder At Midnite" (Tiff.).....	11,000	"Fifty Fathoms Deep" (Col.).....	12,100	High 4-11 "Ten Cents a Dance"	24,100
							Low 8-15 "Viking"	6,700
Charlotte
Broadway	1,167	25c-50c	"The Big Gamble" (Pathe) (3 days)	3,200	"Expensive Women" (W. B.)..... (3 days)	4,000	.....
			"Honor Of The Family" (F. N.) .. (3 days)	3,000	"A Dangerous Affair" (Col.)..... (3 days)	3,500
Carolina	1,441	40c-50c	"Sidewalks Of New York" (MGM) (3 days)	5,500	"Susan Lenox" (MGM)..... (3 days)	7,000	.....
			"Girls About Town" (Para.) .... (3 days)	5,000	"Sob Sister" (Fox)..... (3 days)	5,500

Consider your LAUGH Seekers!!

Your Box-Office Protection Against Harsh Competition

"NECK and NECK"

featuring
GLENN TRYON

as the smart aleck who flirted with the Gods of Chance—and a pretty girl. A rollicking tale full of laughs, action and romance woven around the exciting events at a race track. With Vera Reynolds, Step'n Fetchit and Carroll Nye. Directed by Richard Thorpe.

SONO ART-WORLD WIDE PICTURES INC

A THRILL-O-DRAMA

THEATRE RECEIPTS--CONT'D

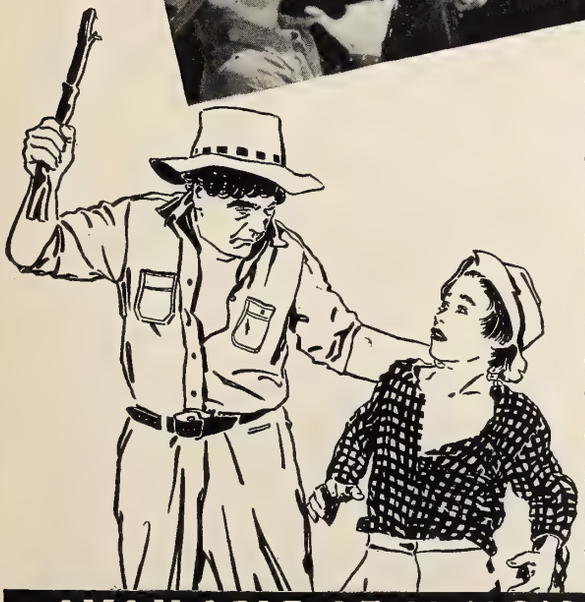
Theatres			Current Week		Previous Week		High and Low Gross (Tabulation covers period from January, 1931 to date)
			Picture	Gross	Picture	Gross
Chicago
Chicago	4,000	35c-85c	"Sin Of Madelon Claudet" (MGM)	44,000	"Get Rich Quick Wallingford".... (MGM)	47,000	High 2-28 "Father's Son"	62,235
McVickers	2,284	35c-85c	"Five Star Final" (F. N.)	23,000	"Alexander Hamilton" (W. B.)... (4 days—2nd week)	9,000	Low 7-18 "Women Love Once"	26,250
Oriental	3,940	35c-85c	"Side Show" (W. B.)	31,000	"Susan Lenox" (MGM)	28,000	High 2-7 "Doorway to Hell"	38,170
Palace	2,509	35c-85c	"Friends and Lovers" (Radio) ..	24,000	"Wicked" (Fox)	27,000	Low 10-24 "Alexander Hamilton"	21,000
Roosevelt	1,591	35c-85c	"The Mad Genius" (W. B.) (2nd week)	17,500	"The Mad Genius" (W. B.) (1st week)	18,500	High 3-7 "My Past"	46,750
State Lake	2,776	35c-85c	"Devotion" (Pathe) (2nd week)	18,000	"Devotion" (Pathe) (1st week)	23,000	Low 6-27 'Party Husband"	19,450
United Artists	1,700	35c-85c	"The Unholy Garden" (U. A.) (5th week)	17,500	"The Unholy Garden" (U. A.) (4th week)	23,000	High 5-2 "Laugh and Get Rich"	30,875
							Low 1-3 "Follow the Leader"	18,600
							High 4-11 "Dishonored"	30,350
							Low 6-6 "Tabu"	10,100
							High 2-14 "Cimarron"	43,100
							Low 7-4 "Transgression"	13,200
							High 3-21 "City Lights"	46,562
							Low 4-25 "Kiki"	20,825
Cincinnati
Erlinger	1,600	30c-50c	"Das Rheinmadel" (Ind.)	3,800
Keith's	1,600	25c-40c	"The Squaw Man" (MGM)	5,000	"Wicked" (Fox)	4,650	High 2-7 "Pay Off"	6,300
RKO Albee	3,300	35c-75c	"The Last Flight" (F. N.)	23,377	"Pardon Us" (MGM)	22,521	Low 8-22 "A Holy Terror"	2,900
RKO Capitol	2,000	30c-50c	"The Beloved Bachelor" (Para.) ..	11,844	"24 Hours" (Para.)	12,520	High 1-3 'Remote Control"	38,321
RKO Family	1,140	15c-25c	"Homicide Squad" (U.) (4 days)	2,665	"Riders of the Purpls Sage" (Fox) (4 days)	2,600	Low 3-7 "Once a Sinner"	20,645
			"Sunset Trail" (Pathe) (3 days)	1,435	"The Mad Parade" (Para.) (3 days)	1,400	High 10-24 "Susan Lenox"	18,661
RKO Lyric	1,400	30c-50c	"Consolation Marriage" (Radio) .. (7 days and Sat. midnite show)	9,855	"Road to Singapore" (W. B.) (7 days and Sat. midnite show)	10,546	Low 8-8 "Hush Money"	8,551
RKO Palace	2,700	30c-50c	"Girls About Town" (Para.) (7 days and Sat. midnite show)	14,129	"The Unholy Garden" (U. A.) (7 days and Sat. midnite show)	13,872	High 2-14 "No Limit" and "Boudoir Diplomat"	4,275
RKO Strand	1,350	25c-40c	"Susan Lenox" (MGM)	4,342	"Smart Woman" (Radio)	4,500	Low 8-22 "Lawless Women" and "Man in Possession"	1,900
Ufa	400	30c-50c	"Die Weisse Hoflle Von Pitz Palu" (Soko) and "D Zug 13" (Ufa)	1,800	"Die Blonde Nachtigal" (Ufa)	1,200	High 2-14 "Reducing"	21,300
							Low 2-7 "Little Caesar"	8,655
							High 8-15 "Politics"	29,500
							Low 7-11 "Chances"	11,517
							High 6-6 "Connecticut Yankee"	5,970
							Low 8-22 'Honeymoon Lane"	2,500
Cleveland
Allen	3,300	25c-50c	"Sin Of Madelon Claudet" (MGM)	21,000	"Susan Lenox" (MGM)	25,000	High 8-8 "Politics"	26,000
Cameo	1,200	25c-40c	"Two Hearts In Waltz Time".... (German)	7,500	"Caught" (Para.)	5,000	Low 4-9 "Ladies Man"	12,000
RKO Hippodrome	3,800	25c-50c	"Platinum Blonde" (Col.)	14,000	"Consolation Marriage" (Radio)...	13,000	High 3-14 "Dracula"	30,000
RKO Palace	3,100	25c-75c	"Reckless Living" (U.)	21,000	"Fanny Foley Herself" (Radio)...	21,000	Low 4-18 "Unfaithful"	10,000
State	3,400	25c-50c	"Get Rich Quick Wallingford".... (MGM)	29,000	"24 Hours" (Para.)	18,000	High 5-2 "Laugh and Get Rich"	40,000
Stillman	1,900	25c	"Murder By The Clock" (Para.)..	6,000	"The Brat" (Fox)	8,000	Low 7-18 "Arizona"	18,000
Warner's Lake	800	25c-50c	"The Ruling Voice" (F. N.)	6,000	"Honor Of The Family" (F. N.)...	3,000	High 11-7 "Get Rich Quick Wallingford"	29,000
							Low 6-20 "Vice Squad"	14,000
							High 10-3 "Five Star Final"	15,000
							Low 7-4 "Big Business Girl"	2,000
Denver
Denver	2,300	25c-65c	"Girls About Town" (Para.)	16,500	"Beloved Bachelor" (Para.)	16,000	High 8-8 "Politics"	25,000
Huff'n's Aladdin	1,500	35c-75c	"The Cisco Kid" (Fox)	9,000	"Pagan Lady" (Col.)	6,000	Low 6-6 "Laughing Sinners"	13,000
Huffman Tabor	1,900	25c-50c	"Sob Sister" (Fox)	9,000	"A Dangerous Affair" (Col.)	9,000	High 4-11 "Connecticut Yankee"	12,000
Paramount	2,000	25c-50c	"Cuban Love Song" (MGM)	12,500	"Road to Reno" (Para.)	10,000	Low 4-9 "Gods Gift to Woman"	4,500
Rialto	1,040	25c-50c	"Get Rich Quick Wallingford".... (MGM)	3,500	"Phantom of Paris" (MGM) (9 days)	6,000	High 3-21 "City Lights"	14,000
							Low 7-4 "Annabelle's Affairs"	7,000
							High 1-10 "Hells Angels"	22,000
							Low 6-27 "Just a Gigolo"	7,500
							High 6-13 "Kiki"	5,500
							Low 9-19 "The Bargain" and "Rango"	2,200
Des Moines
Des Moines	1,600	25c-60c	"Five Star Final" (F. N.)	9,000	"Unholy Garden" (U. A.)	3,700	High 9-26 "Monkey Business"	12,000
Orpheum	2,000	25c-50c	"A Dangerous Affair" (Col.) (4 days)	3,000	"Devotion" (Pathe) (4 days)	1,800	Low 9-12 "American Tragedy"	6,000
			"Smart Women" (Radio) (3 days)	2,500	"Bad Company" (Pathe) (3 days)	600	High 2-14 "Cimarron"	18,000
Paramount	1,700	25c-60c	"Girls About Town" (Para.) (4 days)	6,000	"The Road To Reno" (Para.) (4 days)	6,000	Low 11-7 "Dangerous Affair" and "Smart Money"	5,500
			"Blonde Crazy" (W. B.) (3 days)	6,000	"Honor Of The Family" (F. N.) (3 days)	3,000	Hight 8-29 "Sporting Blood" and "Murder by the Clock"	15,000
Strand	1,100	20c-35c	"The Last Flight" (F. N.) (4 days)	2,400	"Mother's Millions" (U.) (4 days)	2,100	Low 9-12 "Secrets of a Secretary and "Transatlantic"	10,000
			"Penrod and Sam" (F. N.) (3 days)	975	"Shanghied Love" (Col.) (3 days)	900	High 3-21 "Trader Horn"	7,000
							Low 3-28 "Gentleman's Fate" and "Boudoir Diplomat"	1,540
Detroit
Downtown	2,750	25c-50c	"Rebound" (Pathe)	16,000	"Spirit of Notre Dame" (U.) (2nd week)	16,000
Fisher	2,300	25c-50c	"The Mad Genius" (W. B.) (25c-60c)	19,000	"Honor of the Family" (F. N.)..	18,000
Fox	5,000	25c-50c	"Heartbreak" (Fox)	30,000	"The Big Gamble" (Pathe)	32,000
Michigan	2,500	25c-60c	"Girls About Town" (Para.)	26,000	"The Beloved Bachelor" (Para.)..	32,000
Paramount	3,450	25c-60c	"Platinum Blonde" (Col.) (8 days-2nd week)	15,000	"Susan Lenox" (MGM) (5 days—3rd week)	6,000
					"Platinum Blonde" (Col.) (3 days-1st week)	4,000
State	3,000	25c-50c	"Susan Lenox" (MGM)	10,000	"Leftover Ladies" (Tiff.)	9,000
United Artists	2,000	25c-75c	"Unholy Garden" (U. A.) (6 days-2nd week)	7,000	"The Unholy Garden" (U. A.) (1st week)	23,000
			"The Age For Love" (U. A.) (3 days)	4,000

AIMED AT THE HEARTS OF THE KIDS—AND THAT MEANS BOX OFFICE!

ANOTHER

BILL and ANDY

CODY SHUFORD



WESTERN WINNER

LAND OF WANTED MEN

Directed by
HARRY FRASER

How the kids love 'em! They wouldn't miss BILL and ANDY if they had to break a leg to get to a theatre . . and kid patronage means family patronage!

"LAND OF WANTED MEN" gives them clean hair-trigger action, ridin' that makes them hang on to their seats, and daring and drama that sparks with the days of the golden West when a slow draw meant a quick exit.

AVAILABLE AT 33 MONOGRAM EXCHANGES

MONOGRAM PICTURES CORPORATION
723 SEVENTH AVENUE, N. Y. C.

FOREIGN DISTRIBUTORS
RITCHEY EXPORT CORPORATION

(THEATRE RECEIPTS—CONT'D)

Theatres			Current Week		Previous Week		High and Low Gross (Tabulation covers period from January, 1931 to date)
			Picture	Gross	Picture	Gross
Houston
Kirby	1,654	25c-50c	"The Cisco Kid" (Fox)	4,000	"Alexander Hamilton" (W. B.)	4,500	High 3-7 "Abraham Lincoln"	9,500
							Low 8-15 "Old English"	3,200
Loew's State	2,700	25c-50c	"Cuban Love Song" (MGM)	10,000	"Get Rich Quick Wallingford" (MGM)	6,500	High 5-2 "Trader Horn"	19,800
							Low 6-27 "Five and Ten"	5,000
Metropolitan	2,512	25c-50c	"Sob Sister" (Fox)	9,000	"The Unholy Garden" (U. A.)	7,500	High 10-24 "Palmy Days"	14,000
							Low 7-25 "Secret Call"	6,500
RKO Majestic	2,250	25c-50c	"A Dangerous Affair" (Col.)	4,000	"Consolation Marriage" (Radio)	3,200	High 2-14 "Cimarron"	18,000
							Low 10-31 "Consolation Marriage"	3,200
Indianapolis
Apollo	1,100	25c-50c	"The Cisco Kid" (Fox)	5,750	"Sob Sister" (Fox)	4,000	High 6-13 "Daddy Long Legs"	10,000
							Low 7-4 "Annabelle's Affairs"	3,500
Circle	2,600	25c-50c	"The Ruling Voice" (F. N.)	7,000	"Devotion" (Pathe) (9 days)	9,500	High 2-14 "Cimarron"	13,000
							Low 8-22 "Travelling Husbands"	4,000
Indiana	3,300	25c-50c	"Honor Of The Family" (F. N.)	16,000	"24 Hours" (Para.)	18,500	High 1-17 "Her Man"	25,000
							Low 8-8 "Confessions of Co-Ed"	11,500
Lyric	2,000	25c-50c	"Reckless Living" (U.)	9,000	"Fifty Fathoms Deep" (Col.)	8,500	High 1-10 "Under Suspicion"	13,000
							Low 9-12 "East of Borneo"	5,750
Palace	2,800	25c-50c	"The Sin Of Madelon Claudet" (MGM)	8,500	"Sidewalks of New York" (MGM)	7,500	High 5-2 "Trader Horn"	22,000
							Low 10-31 "Sidewalks of New York"	7,500
Kansas City
Liberty	1,200	25c-50c	"The Cisco Kid" (Fox)	6,250	"Honor Of The Family" (F. N.)	4,500
Mainstreet	3,067	35c-60c	"Fifty Fathoms Deep" (Col.)	15,000	"Devotion" (Pathe)	15,000	High 2-14 "Cimarron"	24,750
							Low 1-10 "Criminal Code"	14,500
Midland	4,000	25c-50c	"The Unholy Garden" (U. A.)	16,000	"The Sin Of Madelon Claudet" (MGM)	17,000	High 10-24 "Susan Lenox"	28,130
							Low 5-9 "Quick Millions"	7,500
Newman	2,000	35c-50c	"Platinum Blonde" (Col.) (7 days and Sat. midnite show)	13,750	"Girls About Town" (Para.)	12,500	High 9-26 "Monkey Business"	19,000
							Low 5-16 "Ladies Man"	8,000
Uptown	2,200	25c-50c	"Homicide Squad" (U.)	6,900	"Penrod and Sam" (F. N.)	5,700	High 1-10 "Girl of Golden West"	8,000
							Low 10-10 "Great Lover"	5,100
Milwaukee
Alhambra	2,660	25c-60c	"Get Rich Quick Wallingford" (MGM)	10,500	"East of Borneo" (U.)	9,000
Garden	1,150	25c-60c	"The Unholy Garden" (U. A.) (9 days)	12,800	"Murder at Midnite" (Tiff.) (5 days)	5,000
Palace	2,587	25c-60c	"Monkey Business" (Para.)	11,500	"Bad Girl" (Fox) (2nd week)	8,500
Riverside	2,180	25c-60c	"Consolation Marriage" (Radio)	15,000	"Friends and Lovers" (Radio)	14,000
Strand	1,406	25c-60c	"The Road To Reno" (Para.)	5,000	"Riders of the Purple Sage" (Fox)	6,000
Warner	2,500	25c-60c	"I Like Your Nerve" (F. N.)	15,000	"The Ruling Voice" (W. B.)	12,500
Wisconsin	3,275	25c-65c	"This Modern Age" (MGM)	16,300	"Susan Lenox" (MGM)	15,000
Minneapolis
Aster	812	20c-25c	"The Mad Parade" (Para.)	1,200	"Wicked" (Fox) (20c-35c—3 days)	1,000	High 3-21 "Father's Son"	2,000
					"The Bargain" (F. N.) (4 days)	700	Low 4-18 "Men Call It Love"	900
Lyric	1,238	20c-40c	"Road To Reno" (Para.)	3,000	"Get Rich Quick Wallingford" (MGM)	3,000	High 5-30 "Kiki"	4,000
							Low 1-24 "Men on Call"	1,200
Minnesota	4,000	30c-75c	"24 Hours" (Para.)	21,000	"Road to Singapore" (W. B.)	24,000	High 6-27 "Daddy Long Legs"	32,000
							Low 2-28 "Dance Fools Dance"	18,000
Pantages	1,500	25c-50c	"Street Scene" (U. A.)	6,500	"Palmy Days" (U. A.) (5 days—3rd week)	3,000
RKO Orpheum	2,900	25c-50c	"Spirit Of Notre Dame" (U.)	16,000	"Five Star Final" (F. N.)	17,000	High 2-14 "Cimarron"	30,000
							Low 9-12 "Waterloo Bridge"	12,000
RKO 7th St.	1,300	15c-40c	"Five Star Final" (F. N.) (3 days)	1,200	"Reckless Living" (U.) (3 days)	1,500
			"Shanghied Love" (Col.) (4 days)	1,000	"Gay Diplomat" Radio) (4 days)	1,200
State	2,300	25c-50c	"Alexander Hamilton" (W. B.)	7,500	"Guilty Hands" (MGM)	9,000	High 8-29 "Sporting Blood"	10,000
							Low 14-18 "Body and Soul"	6,000
Montreal
Capitol	2,547	25c-60c	"Spirit Of Notre Dame" (U.) and "The Bargain" (F. N.)	14,000	"Night Nurse" (W. B.) and "I Like Your Nerve" (F. N.)	11,500	High 1-10 "Just Imagine"	18,000
							Low 7-11 "Always Goodbye" and "Annabelle's Affairs"	9,200
Imperial	1,914	15c-40c	"Skyline" (Fox) and "Alias The Bad Man" (Tiff.)	4,500	"High Stakes" (Radio) and "Too Many Cooks" (Radio)	4,300	High 1-17 "Office Wife"	10,000
							Low 6-20 "Single Sin" and "Dawn Trail"	3,000
Loew's	3,115	25c-75c	"Side Show" (W. B.)	14,500	"Phantom Of Paris" (MGM)	14,500	High 1-31 "Derelict"	16,000
							Low 7-18 "Stepping Out"	9,000
Orpheum	1,119	25c-60c	"The Viking" (J. D. Williams)	5,600	"Her Unborn Child" (Windsor)	8,000
Palace	2,600	25c-99c	"Alexander Hamilton" (W. B.)	14,500	"This Modern Age" (MGM)	14,300	High 2-21 "Man Who Came Back"	19,000
							Low 8-1 "Donovan's Kid"	10,500
Princess	2,272	25c-65c	"Palmy Days" (U. A.) (3rd week)	10,000	"Palmy Days" (U. A.) (2nd week)	13,500	High 4-11 "City Lights"	22,500
							Low 7-18 "Colonel's Lady"	7,200
Strand	750	15c-50c	"Guilty Hands" (MGM) and "The Brat" (Fox)	4,200	"Transatlantic" (Fox) and "Magnificent Lie" (Para.)	4,500	High 2-14 "London Calling" and "Sisters"	5,200
							Low 6-27 "East Lynne" and "Can Love Decide"	3,000

(THEATRE RECEIPTS--CONT'D)

Theatres			Current Week		Previous Week		High and Low Gross (Tabulation covers period from January, 1931 to date)
			Picture	Gross	Picture	Gross
New York
Astor	1,120	50c-$2.00	"The Guardsman" (MGM) (9th week)	9,000	"The Guardsman" (MGM) (8th week)	13,189	High 1-3 "New Moon"	23,684
							Low 6-13 "A Free Soul"	20,181
Broadway	2,000	35c-$1.00	"The Tip-Off" (Pathe) (2nd week)	17,902	"The Tip Off" (Pathe) (1st week)	24,201
Capitol	4,700	35c-$1.50	"Sin Of Madelon Claudet" (MGM)	84,234	"Susan Lenox" (MGM) (2nd week)	77,979	High 10-24 "Susan Lenox"	99,741
							Low 3-21 "Great Meadow"	49,789
Embassy	598	25c	All Newsreel	8,637	All Newsreel	8,351	High 1-3 Newsreels	9,727
							Low 7-4 Newsreels	7,085
Hollywood	1,549	50c-$1.00	"The Mad Genius" (W. B.) (2nd week)	18,013	"The Mad Genius" (W. B.) (1st week)	25,321
Mayfair	2,300	35c-85c	"Consolation Marriage" (Radio)	11,000	"Spirit Of Notre Dame" (U.) (2nd week)	17,000	High 2-14 "Millie"	44,200
							Low 11-7 "Consolation Marriage"	11,000
Paramount	3,700	40c-$1.00	"Girls About Town" (Para.)	52,200	"Woman Between" (Radio)	49,900	High 2-7 "Finn and Hattie"	85,900
							Low 10-24 "The Beloved Bachelor"	40,100
Rialto	1,904	40c-$1.00	"Unholy Garden" (U. A.) (2nd week)	33,500	"Palmy Days" (U. A.) (6th week)	12,200	High 3-14 "Dishonored"	58,000
					"Unholy Garden" (U. A.) (5 days)	24,900	Low 6-27 "Dracula" and "Hell's Angels"	4,500
Rivoli	2,103	40c-$1.00	"Monkey Business" (Para.) (5th week)	21,600	"Monkey Business" (Para.) (4th week)	25,900	High 10-17 "Monkey Business"	57,400
							Low 7-11 "Newly Rich"	15,800
Roxy	6,200	50c-$1.50	"The Yellow Ticket" (Fox)	82,100	"The Cisco Kid" (Fox)	69,600	High 1-10 "Man Who Came Back"	130,430
							Low 10-24 "Heartbreak"	50,600
Strand	3,000	35c-85c	"Platinum Blonde" (Col.)	10,702	"Alexander Hamilton" (W. B.)	12,847	High 1-17 "Little Caesar"	74,821
							Low 8-22 "Men Are Like That"	9,274
Warners	1,490	35c-75c	"Fanny Foley Herself" (Radio) (2nd week)	1,546	"Fanny Foley Herself" (Radio) (1st week)	2,540	High 1-3 "Vienese Nights"	16,968
							Low 8-22 "Disraeli," "General Crack" "Noah's Ark," "Weary River," "Son of the Gods," "On With The Show," "Gold Diggers of Broadway"	1,646
Winter Garden	1,493	35c-$1.00	"Five Star Final" (F. N.) (6 days-8th week)	19,951	"Five Star Final" (F. N.) (7th week)	16,672	High 9-19 "Five Star Final"	59,782
			"The Ruling Voice" (F. N.) (1 day)	5,280			Low 6-6 "Maltese Falcon"	16,692
Oklahoma City
Capitol	1,200	10c-50c	"Girls About Town" (Para.)	6,000	"Road to Reno" (Para.)	5,000	High 2-7 "Illicit"	11,000
							Low 6-27 "White Shoulders"	4,000
Criterion	1,700	10c-50c	"Sin Of Madelon Claudet" (MGM)	8,000	"Traveling Husbands" (Radio)	6,000	High 2-21 "Cimarron"	15,500
							Low 8-1 "Magnicent Lie"	5,500
Liberty	1,500	10c-35c	"Bad Company" (Pathe)	3,900	"The Tip Off" (Pathe)	3,800	High 1-24 "Under Suspicion"	7,200
							Low 6-20 "Big Fight" and "Drums of Jeopardy"	900
Mid-West	1,500	10c-50c	"The Cisco Kid" (Fox)	5,600	"Devotion" (Pathe)	5,200	High 9-19 "Young as You Feel"	11,000
							Low 7-4 "Hush Money"	4,000
Warner	1,800	10c-50c	"Honor Of The Family" (F. N.)	6,000	"Wicked" (Fox)	5,600	High 1-3 "Going Wild"	10,500
							Low 10-31 "Wicked"	5,600
Omaha
Orpheum	3,000	25c-60c	"A Dangerous Affair" (Col.)	12,000	"Devotion" (Pathe)	14,000	High 2-14 "Cimarron"	25,550
							Low 6-20 "White Shoulders"	11,500
Paramount	2,900	25c-60c	"Five Star Final" (F.N.)	6,750	"Palmy Days" (U. A.) (25c-50c)	6,500	High 6-20 "Daddy Long Legs"	12,000
							Low 1-31 "Bachelor Father"	6,000
State	1,200	35c	"Riders Of The Purple Sage" (Fox) (15c-35c)	2,500	"I Like Your Nerve" (F. N.) (4 days)	900	High 3-14 "Trader Horn"	10,000
					"Skyline" (Fox) (3 days)	900	Low 9-26 "Tabu" and "Children of Dreams"	1,325
World	2,500	25c-40c	"My Sin" (Para.)	6,300	"The Squaw Man" (MGM)	6,000	High 4-11 "Men Call It Love"	16,000
							Low 8-1 "Women Love Once" and "Secret Call"	5,000
Ottawa
Avalon	990	15c-35c	"Side Show" (W. B.) and "Viennese Nights" (W .B.) (3 days-2nd week)	1,550	"Bad Girl" (Fox) (3 days)	1,850	High 5-30 "Hells Angels" and "Body and Soul"	3,300
					"College Lovers" (F. N.) and "Viennese Nights" (W. B.) (3 days-1st week)	1,800	Low 6-27 "My Past" and "Fifty Million Frenchmen"	1,900
			"Sporting Blood" (MGM) (3 days)	1,450
Capitol	2,592	15c-60c	"Squaw Man" (MGM) (6 days)	8,500	"Pardon Us" (MGM) (6 days)	8,200
Centre	1,142	15c-60c	"Get Rich Quick Wallingford" (MGM) (6 days)	5,500	"Plunder" (British) (6 days)	5,800	High 5-16 "Devil to Pay"	6,300
							Low 1-3 "Sunny"	2,900
Imperial	1,091	10c-40c	"Salvation Nell" (Tiff.) (3 days)	1,600	"Star Witness" (W. B.) (3 days)	1,900	High 5-9 "Trader Horn"	7,000
							Low 8-1 "Speckled Band"	2,300
			"High Stakes" (Radio) (3 days)	1,800	"Traveling Husbands" (Radio) (3 days)	1,500
Regent	1,225	15c-60c	"24 Hours" (Para.) (3 days)	2,300	"Daughter of the Dragon" (Para.) (3 days)	2,800	High 5-30 "Seed"	6,200
							Low 7-1 "Shipmates"	4,200
			"Beloved Bachelor" (Para.) (3 days)	2,600	"Road To Singapore" (W. B.) (3 days)	2,500
Philadelphia
Arcadia	600	50c	"Palmy Days" (U. A.) (6 days)	4,900	"Phantom of Paris" (MGM) (6 days)	2,500	High 1-3 "Laughter"	5,000
							Low 10-31 "Phantom of Paris"	2,500
Earle	2,000	25c-65c	"Expensive Women" (W. B.) (6 days)	13,000	"Honor of the Family" (F. N.) (6 days)	13,500	High 1-3 "Divorce Among Friends"	26,000
							Low 11-7 "Expensive Women"	13,000
Fox	3,000	35c-75c	"Sob Sister" (Fox) (6 days)	22,000	"Riders of the Purple Sage" (Fox) (6 days)	23,000	High 2-7 "Man Who Came Back"	40,000
							Low 10-24 "Skyline"	20,000
Karlton	1,000	40c-50c	"The Mad Parade" (Para.) (6 days)	3,800	"I Like Your Nerve" (F. N.) (6 days)	4,000	High 5-2 "City Lights"	8,000
							Low 3-21 "Resurrection"	3,000
Keith's	1,800	35c-75c	"The Unholy Garden" (U. A.) (6 days)	15,000	"Pardon Us" (MGM) (6 days)	14,000	High 1-3 "Tom Sawyer"	24,000
							Low 8-8 "Woman Between"	7,500
Mastbaum	4,800	35c-75c	"Susan Lenox" (MGM) (6 days—2nd week)	30,000	"Susan Lenox" (MGM) (6 days—1st week)	34,000	High 8-29 "Caught Plastered"	62,000
							Low 10-24 "24 Hours"	28,000
Stanley	3,700	35c-75c	"Smart Woman" (Radio) (6 days)	14,000	"Spirit of Notre Dame" (U.) (6 days—2nd week)	11,000	High 2-14 "Cimarron"	26,000
							Low 7-25 "Rebound"	8,000
Stanton	1,700	25c-65c	"My Sin" (Para.) (4 days—2nd week)	5,000	"My Sin" (Para.) (6 days—1st week)	9,000	High 3-21 "Last Parade"	16,500
							Low 10-10 "Fifty Fathoms Deep"	7,000

(THEATRE RECEIPTS--CONT'D)

Theatres			Current Week		Previous Week		High and Low Gross (Tabulation covers period from January, 1931 to date)
			Picture	Gross	Picture	Gross
Portland, Ore.
Fox Broadway.	1,912	25c-50c	"Cuban Love Song" (MGM)..... (6 days)	4,700	"24 Hours" (Para.)	6,400	High 1-10 "Min and Bill"	21,000
							Low 4-4 "The Prodigal"	3,000
Fox Paramount	3,068	25c-60c	"Get Rich Quick Wallingford".... (MGM)	12,700	"Riders of the Purple Sage" (Fox)	13,600	High 1-3 "Paid"	26,000
							Low 5-23 "Young Sinners"	11,000
Hamrick's Music Box	1,800	25c-35c	"Expensive Women" (W. B.).....	4,800	"Honor of the Family" (F. N.)..	5,600	.....
RKO Orpheum.	1,700	25c-50c	"Devotion" (Pathe)	9,300	"Smart Woman" (Radio)	11,000	High 2-14 "Cimarron"	20,000
							Low 5-23 "Iron Man"	8,500
United Artists..	945	25c-50c	"Unholy Garden" (U. A.).....	4,800	"Palmy Days" (U. A.).....	7,000	High 1-10 "Hells Angels"	12,500
							Low 10-3 "Pagan Lady	3,500
Providence
Loew's State ..	3,800	15c-50c	"Sin Of Madelon Claudet" (MGM)	18,000	"Susan Lenox" (MGM)	20,000	High 2-7 "Insperation"	25,500
							Low 6-27 "Five and Ten"	9,500
Majestic	2,400	15c-50c	"Honor Of The Family" (F. N.) and "The Ruing Voice" (F. N.)	9,000	"Road to Singapore" (W. B.) and "Expensive Women" (W. B.)	8,500	High 3-7 "Little Caesar"	18,000
							Low 4-4 "Love of Aloah" and "Costello Case"	8,000
Paramount	2,300	10c-50c	"Girls About Town" (Para.).....	5,500	"The Beloved Bachelor" (Para.)..	6,500	High 3-14 "Unfaithful"	14,000
							Low 8-8 "Secret Call"	4,500
RKO Albee	2,300	10c-50c	"A Dangerous Affair" (Col.).....	4,000	"Spirit of Notre Dame" (U.).....	10,000	High 1-10 "Criminal Code"	14,000
							Low 7-4 "Sweepstakes"	3,200
RKO Victory ..	1,600	10c-35c	"Murder At Midnite" (Tiff.)..... (3 days)	700	"Reckless Living" (U.) ..... (4 days)	2,000	High 2-14 "Last Parade"	11,000
							Low 10-24 "The Dreyfus Case".....	2,000
St. Paul
Paramount	2,300	25c-50c	"24 Hours" (Para.).....	8,000	"Alexander Hamilton" (W. B.)...	8,500	High 8-22 "Smiling Lieutenant"	12,000
							Low 1-17 "Paid"	7,000
Riviera	1,300	25c-50c	"The Road To Singapore" (W. B.)	4,500	"Sidewalks of New York" (MGM)	5,000	High 9-5 "Huckleberry Finn"	9,000
							Low 1-17 "Just Imagine"	1,500
RKO Orpheum.	2,600	25c-50c	"Spirit Of Notre Dame" (U.).....	15,000	"Five Star Final" (F. N.).....	15,000	High 2-14 "Cimarron"	28,000
							Low 2-21 "Millie"	10,000
RKO President..	1,200	15c-35c	"Five Star Final" (F. N.)..... (3 days)	1,200	"Reckless Living" (U.) ..... (3 days)	1,000	.....
			"Shanghaied Love" (Col.)..... (4 days)	1,000	"Gay Diplomat" (Radio) ..... (4 days)	1,000
Tower	1,000	15c-25c	"Get Rich Quick Wallingford".... (MGM)	2,000	"Skyline" (Fox)	2,000	High 10-3 "Penrod and Sam"	4,000
							Low 1-24 "Along Came Youth"	1,000
San Francisco
El Capitan	3,100	25c-60c	"Guilty Hands" (MGM).....	12,000	"This Modern Age" (MGM).....	13,200	High 8-15 "Daddy Long Legs".....	16,750
							Low 11-7 "Guilty Hands"	12,000
Fox	4,600	35c-60c	"The Yellow Ticket" (Fox).....	34,000	"Heartbreak" (Fox)	32,000	High 1-3 "Lightning"	70,000
							Low 5-30 "Six Cylinder Love"	30,000
Golden Gate	2,800	35c-65c	"Lady From Nowhere" (Security)	13,000	"High Stakes" (Radio).....	14,000	High 7-11 "Lawless Woman"	20,000
							Low 7-4 "Lover Come Back".....	9,500
Orpheum	3,000	25c-50c	"Platinum Blonde" (Col.).....	7,500	"Spirit Of Notre Dame" (U.)..... (2nd week)	10,000	High 2-14 "Cimarron"	20,000
							Low 11-7 "Platinum Blonde".....	7,500
Paramount	2,670	25c-50c	"Girls About Town" (Para.).....	15,000	"Sob Sister" (Fox).....	15,000	High 2-7 "Morocco"	35,000
							Low 7-18 "Women Love Once".....	10,000
United Artists.	1,200	25c-60c	"Palmy Days" (U. A.)..... (3rd week)	7,800	"Palmy Days" (U. A.)..... (2nd week)	11,500	.....
Warfield	2,700	25c-50c	"Get Rich Quick Wallingford".... (MGM)	23,000	"Road To Reno" (Para.).....	19,500	High 3-14 "Parlor, Bedroom and Bath"	28,000
							Low 10-10 "Wicked"	16,000
Warners	1,385	35c-50c	"Five Star Final" (F. N.).....	18,225	"Road To Singapore" (W. B.)....	8,200	High 11-7 "Five Star Final".....	18,825
							Low 8-22 "The Viking"	4,850
Seattle
Blue Mouse	950	25c-75c	"Expensive Women" (W. B.).....	6,500	"Honor of the Family" (F. N.)....	6,500	.....
Fifth Avenue...	2,750	25c-75c	"Get Rich Quick Wallingford".... (MGM)	13,500	"Personal Maid" (Para.)	13,000	High 4-18 "Trader Horn"	17,000
							Low 3-14 "Inspiration" (10 days)	10,000
Liberty	2,000	15c-30c	"In Line Of Duty" (Monogram)..	6,500	"Mother and Son" (Monogram) ..	6,500	High 1-10 "The Lash"	11,500
							Low 5-23 "Lightning Flyer"	5,500
Music Box.....	950	25c-75c	"Unholy Garden" (U. A.)..... (3rd week)	6,000	"Unholy Garden" (U. A.)..... (2nd week)	8,000	High 2-28 "City Lights"	14,000
							Low 3-28 "My Past"	5,500
Paramount	3,150	25c-75c	"The Yellow Ticket" (Fox).....	11,000	"The Road to Reno" (Para.)..... (5 days)	11,000	High 1-10 "Paid"	18,000
							Low 9-19 "Transatlantic"	10,000
RKO Orpheum..	2,650	25c-75c	"A Dangerous Affair" (Col.).....	13,000	"Spirit of Notre Dame" (U.).....	18.000	High 10-31 "Spirit of Notre Dame".....	18,000
							Low 3-21 "Kept Husbands"	10,000
Toronto
Imperial	3,444	15c-75c	"Devotion" (Pathe) ..... (6 days)	18,500	"24 Hours" (Para.)..... (6 days)	16,500	High 9-19 "Merely Mary Ann"	22,000
							Low 6-20 "Always Goodbye"	13,000
Loew's	2,088	15c-75c	"Get Rich Quick Wallingford" ... (MGM) (6 days)	11,500	"Unholy Garden" (U. A.)..... (6 days)	12,500	High 4-18 "City Lights"	22,000
							Low 8-15 "Son of India"	10,500
Shea's	2,600	30c-75c	"The Big Gamble" (Pathe)	15,500	"The Spider" (Fox)..... (6 days)	14,500	High 3-7 "Three French Girls"	16,500
							Low 6-27 "Painted Desert"	10,000
Tivoli	1,600	15c-75c	"Cisco Kid" (Fox) ..... (6 days)	9,500	"An American Tragedy" (Para.).. (6 days)	10,500	High 2-28 "Cimarron"	19,500
							Low 11-7 "Cisco Kid"	9,500
Uptown	3,000	15c-60c	"East Of Borneo" (U.) ..... (6 days)	12,200	"Side Show" (W. B.)..... (6 days)	11,000	High 4-25 "Don't Bet on Women"	14,000
							Low 10-17 "Ten Nights In a Barroom"	8,300

SOUND PRODUCTION

The BLUEBOOK School

By F. H. RICHARDSON

BLUEBOOK SCHOOL QUESTION NO. 104—(A) Tell us how to locate or install a spare RCA exciting lamp. (B) Tell us just in what way it is provided that RCA exciting lamp filaments will always be square with the slit and at the right distance from the optical system condenser. (C) Describe the RCA exciting lamp optical system. (D) What are the dimensions of the light beam when it reaches the sound track?

Answer to Question No. 99

Question No. 99 was: (A) If there be frequent variations in projection speed, what effect will be set up? (B) What is the motor control box and what is its function? (C) May compound or synchronous motors be depended upon to regulate speed of projector motors with sufficient accuracy? Give reasons for your answer. (D) Upon what does the motor control box depend for its action? (E) What is a tuned circuit and what is its action?

Last week I said the answers had fallen off a lot. Well, I'll take it all back. This week they nearly swamped me. Those answering acceptably were as follows, names of men sending superior replies being followed by an asterisk:

▲

C. Rau and S. Evans*, Lester Borst*, Kroll and Van Buskirk*, Dick Jameson, Nic Granby, Herbert Dall, Larry Tipton*, Peter Danielson, George Dakin, G. E. Doe*, John Williams, Bill Doe*, James Devoy, John K. Briggs, W. D. Samuels, C. L. Goldman, Peter Cermak, Robert Banning, Andy F. Boe, Tom Turk*, Harry Lidding, P. L. Kiden, T. Van Vaulkenburg, Wm. D. Hotaling, John Graves, Chas. B. Sommers, Bob Danning, Frank Oliver, Thos. McGruder, N. D. Garling*, P. L. Toeping, F. T. Leroy, Alonzo Zerach, H. D. Cole, Pat O'Brien, Dave Tupton and John Tupton, Andrew Gerard, Lester Daniels, Dan Graves; also these: James Pendone*, H. B. Decker, Dan Boll, Wm. Bogert Alexander Tilson, A. Dexter*, N. D. Garling, Dan J. Emmerson, Henry Edwards*, B. G. Anden, Jack Billings, Bill Doe, R. B. Whitnath, J. H. Day, D. L. Simmons*, S. Kay, H. D. Schofield, Henry Gibson, David Johnson and P. R. Sorenson, D. L. Simmons, Alec Hamdry, Dan Johnson, Tom Hazelton, L. Mooring, Tom Farrow, James Lounsberry, Lorenzo Brown, Another Doe, Bob Allen, Joe Taggart and Sam H. Davis.

There were so many really excellent answers that I made the selection for publication by chance from their number, and Messrs. Rau and Evans won out. They answered as follows:

"(A) . . . If there be frequent variations in projection speed there will be serious distortion of the reproduced sound in the form of varying pitch, which is especially noticeable in music. . . The music will seem to be out of tune and the voices of singers or speakers will seem shaky. . . . A good musical ear will detect changes in pitch produced by a change in speed of only one-half of one per cent; therefore to make sure that a discernible change in pitch never arises, the speed regulating devices for sound projectors are made so that a no greater change in speed than one-fifth of one per cent will occur. . . .

"(B) . . . The motor control box is a metal box in which are arranged a few electrical circuits, consisting of several vacuum tubes, resistances, condensers, inductances, etc. . . . The function of the motor control box is to correct the slightest change in speed of the driving motor; thus the projector is kept constantly at the exact speed of 90 revolutions per minute of its crankshaft.

▲

"(C) . . . Compound wound or synchronous motors cannot be depended upon to regulate the speed of a projection motor closely because of the voltage and frequency fluctuations found in some of the commercial power circuits supplying theatres. . . . However, the RCA have some of their equipments supplied with synchronous motors which have proved satisfactory. . . . These motors are 220 volt, 60 cycle, 3 phase synchronous motors, and are used as standard equipment on P.G.-1, 2, 3, 4, 6, 7, 8, equipments when the proper power is available.

"(D) . . . The motor control box depends for its action upon the principle of the 'tuned' circuit.

"(E) . . . A 'tuned circuit' is a circuit which will permit the passage of alternating current of a certain frequency but will offer high resistance to a current of any other frequency. . . . The frequency to which the circuit is tuned depends upon the values of inductance and capacity in the circuit. . . . Thus, the inductance and capacity values of the tuned circuit in the Western Electric motor control box (706 and 708 types only), are such that the circuit is tuned to a frequency of 720 cycles. . . . A small pilot alternator is located on the motor armature shaft, and when the motor is running at normal speed (so that 90 feet of film pass through the projector each minute) this small alternator produces an alternating current of 720 cycles. When a frequency of 720 cycles is attained, the tuned circuit comes into action and passes current which affects an amplifier tube, which in turn controls the grid bias of two rectifiers. The amount of grid bias supplied to the rectifiers controls the amount of direct current that the rectifiers supply to the motor regulating field of the D. C. box, or the reactor controlling the current through the motor rotor of the A. C. box, and therefore there is no further increase in the speed of the motor. Further refinements are added in the motor control box circuits to eliminate any tendency to momentary unsteadiness of speed.

Note: Let it be clearly understood that the foregoing applies only to the 706 and 708 type boxes, insofar as concerns specific information set forth. However, I believe the same principle applies in the later type boxes.—Editor.

Markets New Safety Device

Roy J. Pomeroy, who operates the Motion Picture Technical Institute, has marketed a new projection safety appliance which prevents projection machine film buckling and also is said to act as a preventive against film fire in the machine.

2,060 Erpi Replacements

Western Electric replacements of other equipments now total 2,060 in theatres throughout the world. Of this total, 1,619 are in the United States and 441 in the foreign field.

WHEN THE SCREEN TEACHES

by
RITA C. McGOLDRICK

A department that has for its definite aims:

1. To encourage children to see the best things of the screen, thereby leaving them less time and money for the poorer kind.
2. To have the entertainment screen contribute directly and constructively to their education.
3. By winning support for high type pictures to offer an incentive to producers to make more of the same kind.

WITH each issue of "School and Screen" we have sought carefully among the current pictures to find suitable product of educational value to children. Some of the months it was lean picking; one had almost to stretch a point. This month we have had no such handicap. So many appropriate pictures have been released that our problem lay in nominating the best. A glance at the accompanying lists will prove conclusively that there are any number of important pictures to satisfy the demands of the most critical audiences.

Since earliest summer we have watched news sheets from the studios reporting the development of pictures in the making and foresaw that a new era in motion picture entertainment had dawned. This was a heartening sign—an encouragement to those of us who sincerely believe that the family should be a definite consideration in the entertainment world. It is a relief to learn that the highly specialized features glorifying the alluring, but unmoral, ladies, and the illicit heroics of the gangsters have been set aside to give place to normal, sane, fresh and cleaner motion picture fare.

In this issue we have selected for your consideration three important pictures to which you need not be ashamed to send your young people. Rather, we are going to be proud to have you encourage school children to see these features which offer so much more than the average show to their development.

Radiance of Simple Goodness

"Way Back Home" is an RKO product featuring Seth Parker and his troupe of the radio in a realistic story of Maine a quarter of a century ago. Seth Parker, who exemplifies the Golden Rule of life in his homely philosophy, his charity, his innate goodness of heart, is an influence upon the community in which he lives. His sane viewpoint is infectious. It makes the small gossip of neighbors, the cruel unkindness of the small town, and the narrow outlook of some of its best citizens, look a little cheap and ridiculous. There is something of radiance about simple goodness and this picture has caught its glow.

Apart from the action of the plot in "Way Back Home," the camera man with an artist's instinct has translated to the screen the spirit of the hills, the drowsiness of noontime in the fields, the charm of the ordinary small farmhouse with its spotless kitchen, which is the heart of the place. There is leisureliness, reality, beauty and unaffected simplicity in this picture. Because the questioned parentage of two young people might be misunderstood by very young children this feature is endorsed for boys and girls of the eighth grade and for all high school and college students.

Fairbanks at Play

Our second selection is Douglas Fairbanks' new picture, "Around the World in Eighty Minutes," which is an amusing and lighthearted lecture travelogue by Mr. Fairbanks, who recounts his experiences on his recent trip around the world. Neither Mr. Fairbanks nor his associates have taken themselves very seriously on this jaunt. They skip from Hawaii to Japan, to the Philippines, to China; they hop over an amusing studio map into Siam and the strangely fascinating countries of the Orient. They play in light comedy vein at the pool which reflects the Taj Mahal, inspect the burning ghats of the Ganges and with a troupe of elephants and native guides have a lark through the jungle. It is perhaps in the jungle scenes that this picture has its best moments, for there is an exciting tiger hunt in which the versatile Mr. Fairbanks succeeds in sending chills down one's spine.

The picture reaches a dramatic conclusion among the fakirs of the bazaars of India, where we see on the screen the incredible rope trick and the vanishing boy. Mr. Fairbanks goes them one better by skipping upon his magic carpet and flying gaily over the ocean, over the towers of New York, the gun shooting of Chicago, back to his native Hollywood.

This is in no way a great picture. It has been made without Hollywood's extravagant accessories, but it is lighthearted entertainment and has much of educational interest for children.

New Type Sports Picture

"Touchdown" is Paramount's contribution to the current football season. The picture, made from the story "Stadium" by Francis Wallace, is something of a departure from the average sports picture. It tells of the adventures of college stars who have won their spurs as coaches. This is a brilliant sports picture with particular entertainment value for men and boys and all lovers of sports.

There are two other pictures meriting choice in this pamphlet but lending themselves with less facility to "School and Screen's" questionnaire. Both are important productions that should not be overlooked by educators interested in this whole project. The first is "Over the Hill," a Fox feature, which dramatizes the old poem by Will Carleton, whose "Over the Hill" was the road to the poorhouse. Fox has given us an appealing and beautiful story, with James Dunn and Sally Eilers in the cast, and Mae Marsh who, as the self-sacrificing, true mother, gives everything she has in her life for her children and is forced finally to travel with hesitating step up the lonely road to the poorhouse. Her one generous son, who by force of bitter circumstances has had to go to Alaska to make his living, returns to learn of her tragedy. His settling of this account with the brother responsible for her humiliation is one of the finest moments in this or any other picture we have seen this year.

"Over the Hill" has probably too much of sadness, too many moments that bring hot tears to one's eyes, to become a great box office success. But it is a picture that every boy or girl over 10 years of age should be earnestly encouraged to see.

Added to this brilliant array of outstanding pictures, RKO Pathe has also contributed in its picture, "Freighters of Destiny," the best Western of the year up to date. It tells the story of the caravans carrying provisions to the isolated desert towns in the late eighties. Its hero is a young Westerner trying to uphold the honorable legend of his father's integrity by making good on the franchise for caravan supplies. He rides a beautifully trained horse, Flash, who acts in the picture with the wisdom of a human being. More notable, perhaps, than the characters in the piece is its exquisite photography.

The Lost Valley has strange rock formation. Its rocks are cathedral-like in their proportions. The bad lands sweep across the screen to the horizon. This locale is distinctly different and more interesting than in any other Western we have seen. Dawn comes over the prairie. The sky is faintly luminous; a little company of fleecy clouds, high above the domes of rock, catch the first beam of the rising sun. They are glorified before the dawn comes. The company of sleeping men in their encampment by a brook are sheltered by old willows whose delicate leafage is etched against the pale sky. The pictorial quality of light and shadow in the willows in this picture, as well as in "Way Back Home," makes one understand why Thoreau and Whistler loved to paint them.

Tom Keene and Barbara Kent are the stars of "Freighters of Destiny." This picture you cannot afford to miss.

Questionnaires have been prepared on "Over the Hill" and "Freighters of Destiny" for theatre managers, teachers and public groups who may care to receive them.

Way Back Home

RKO Radio

Stars: Phillips Lord, Effie Palmer, Frank Albertson, Bette Davis and Frankie Darro.

"Way Back Home" is a story of rural Maine in which Seth Parker and his troupe of the radio are featured. Its simple plot tells the story of Seth and Ma Parker and their great love for a small boy whom they have reared but never legally adopted. After years of silence the boy's worthless father returns to claim him and this situation brings about the suspense and denouement of the plot.

In his daily life Seth Parker lives according to the Golden Rule. His sane philosophy and goodness of heart, his fairness and his wisdom are a controlling influence upon the little town in which he lives. His honest viewpoint is infectious; it puts to shame the town's gossips and the unkindness of the churchgoers who snub a woman whose reputation has been questioned. There is something as refreshing as mountain air in the normal, simple goodness in this picture.

The photographic achievement in "Way Back Home" is exceptional. The camera has caught something of the essence of charm and the quiet beauty that envelops the old farm house.

1. What state does this picture tell about?
2. What do you know of Seth Parker?
3. How many years ago were the events in this picture supposed to have happened?
4. Describe the country surrounding the farmhouse.
5. Name ten things you noticed in the barnyard.
6. Name ten things you noticed about Ma Parker's kitchen.
7. Describe the Parkers' parlor. Note: this room was furnished with exact attention to detail for furniture and ornaments of the period.
8. Describe ten objects in the room which you particularly noticed.
9. Describe Seth Parker's character.
10. What were some of his rules of life?
11. Tell the story of this picture.
12. Describe the barn dance.
13. How many kinds of vehicles did you notice arriving at the barn dance?
14. How many objects hanging on the walls of the barn can you remember?
15. Describe the musicians.
16. Tell a story about the taffy pull.
17. What do you think was the moment of climax in this picture?
18. Describe its most exciting moment.
19. Do you think Frankie Darro is a convincing boy actor?
20. What do you think of the photography of this picture: its lights and shadows, trees and sky effects?

Write a 250-word composition on "The Golden Rule."

Touchdown

Paramount

Stars: Charles Starrett, Peggy Shannon, George Barbier, Richard Arlen, Jack Oakie, Regis Toomey, Howard Jones, Jim Thorpe, Bob Hall, Farrell MacDonald.

In "Touchdown" Paramount has an outstanding sports drama which, without question, will win enthusiastic audiences everywhere during this football season. "Touchdown," after the novel "Stadium" by Francis Wallace, is the story of a group of football stars who graduate to become coaches in various universities. They carry with them the ethics and ideals of the coach who trained them, and these are passed on in turn to the boys that come under their care.

The plot of "Touchdown" concerns itself with the over-reaching ambition of the team's star player who becomes the coach at Mid-Western. Passionately determined that his team win he forgets some of the rules under which he was trained and sacrifices his players to gain his own ends.

"Touchdown" is a masterly lesson in the gallantry of sports and the evils of ambition. The picture is enlivened by some excellent shots of football teams in brilliant action and by the picturesque Tournament of Roses in Pasadena. This is exceptional entertainment for men and boys and, we suspect, for the girls as well, who in the past few years have become more intimately acquainted with football by means of the radio.

1. In what country did football originate?
2. How old is this game among sports?
3. What characteristics do you think a football player should have?
4. Which is the more important, his physical development or his character development?
5. Do you think football is a good thing in college life? Why?
6. Did you like the coach in this picture?
7. Whom is he supposed to represent?
8. Describe his outstanding characteristics.
9. What advice did he give the hero of this picture after the last game?
10. Why did this seem necessary?
11. What is "professionalism" in football?
12. Is this a good or an evil practice?
13. What was the great fault of Dan Curtis?
14. What was his greatest temptation?
15. Describe the stadium at the championship game.
16. Where does the word "stadium" come from?
17. Describe the Tournament of Roses in Pasadena.
18. In what month was this held?
19. What did you consider the moment of climax in this picture?
20. Compare it with other football pictures you have seen.

Write a 250-word composition on "Famous Football Coaches."

Around the World in Eighty Minutes

[With Douglas Fairbanks]

A United Artists Travelogue

This is an amusing and lighthearted lecture travelogue in which the agile Douglas Fairbanks recounts his experiences in his recent trip around the world. The film, in eighty minutes of running time, shows Mr. Fairbanks skipping from country to country, pausing long enough at spectacular spots to record pictures with his sound camera. Neither he nor his associates have taken themselves very seriously on this jaunt. They step from Hawaii to Japan; they show us Yokohama with its primitive rickshas dashing underneath the steel girdered electric elevated railroad, operating in the newest 1931 manner.

From Japan he hops over an amusing studio map into the Philippines, then back to Asia.

1. In what direction did Mr. Fairbanks set out for his trip around the world?
2. Describe the landing at Hawaii.
3. What is a ricksha?
4. What surprising contrast to the ricksha did you notice in Yokohama?
5. What great American game did Mr. Fairbanks play in Japan?
6. Describe the Japanese home.
7. For what outstanding characteristics are the Japanese noted in their homes?
8. What is Fujiyama?
9. Describe it as you saw it in the picture.
10. Describe the river boats of China. Of what wood are they made?
11. Why do so many beggars have to live on river boats?
12. How is rice planted?
13. Describe the factory of Japan shown in this picture.
14. Who was Sun Yat Sen? Describe his tomb.
15. Describe the amusing map Mr. Fairbanks used to show you the countries to which he was going.
16. Where is Angkor? Tell one thing about it.
17. Of what country is Bangkok the capital?
18. Describe six interesting things you saw in Siam:
    1. The porcelain palace
    2. Jungle canal
    3. The sacred White Elephant
    4. The snake farm
    5. Siamese football
    6. The palace of the king
19. Where is the Road to Mandalay?
20. Describe five things of major interest in India:
    1. The Taj Mahal
    2. The banks of the Ganges river
    3. The burning ghats
    4. The royal reception
    5. The leopard and tiger hunt

Write a 250-word composition on the part of this picture you found the most interesting.

WABASH AVENUE

CHICAGO

The Row, which has been fairly tranquil in recent weeks, experienced one of the upheavals peculiar to the industry when Radio and RKO Pathe Exchanges went through the process of merging locally last week. Added to this was the change at the local General Talking Pictures Company offices. All of which kept tongues wagging fast and furiously.

▼

Mike Smith is an exhibitor who spends twenty days out of each month riding in trains. He books and sets dates for 117 houses and last week stopped in Chicago long enough to explain that his string is located in army camps all over the country, operated by the U. S. Army Motion Picture Service.

▼

Norman Moray, sales manager of Vitaphone, was a visitor at the local Warner office.

▼

Opening of the Loop-End theatre marks the return to exhibition activity of Jones, Linick & Schaefer. The Loop-End will feature vaudeville and first-run pictures, with various stars as attractions. Mae Murray appeared in person opening week. She will be followed by Racquel Torres.

▼

Herb Washburn is covering the country in a new car in behalf of Picture Classics. He reports that the first release, "I am from Siam," has been booked by Great States, Schoenstadt's and Lasker Brothers.

▼

Eddie Phelps, former RKO salesman who is ill at Speedway hospital, is yearning for the news and gossip of the Row and would be glad to have any of his old friends drop around to see him.

▼

Ted Meyer, Universal salesman, has been transferred to Kansas City where he takes charge of the Universal branch.

▼

The father of Irving Mack is seriously ill at Michael Reese hospital.

▼

Hank Golson, popular exhibitor, brought a lot of Europe's historic scenery back with him —on film which he exposed to his trusty camera.

▼

Eugene Gilbert, who is producing home talent films for theatre tieups, was in Chicago last week. He will make pictures in cooperation with some of the outlying B & K houses.

▼

Everything augurs for the success of the local campaign for unemployment relief, is the happy word going the rounds. Pledges are already in for one-half of the quota.

▼

Claude Fleming, famous globe trotter associated with Brown-Nagel Productions, producers of Romantic Journeys, paid a flying visit to Chicago where he conferred with Max Stahl, Educational branch manager.

▼

Douglas George, who was formerly with RKO here, is now connected with Warner Bros. at Portsmouth, Ohio.

▼

Chicago was host for a brief time between trains last week to Will Hays and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pettijohn who were en route to the West Coast.

▼

C. C. Wallace, who has been district manager of RKO, is reported assigned to Indianapolis as manager of the branch there.

HOLQUIST

SHORTS ON BROADWAY

Week of November 7

ASTOR
Benares, the Hindu Heaven..MGM
Sharks and Swordfish.....MGM

BEACON
The Smart Set-Up.....Vitaphone
Gypsy Caravan .....Vitaphone

CAPITOL
Pajama Party .....MGM

HOLLYWOOD
Bosco, the Doughboy.....Vitaphone
The Road To Mandalay.....Vitaphone
The Musical Mystery.....Vitaphone

MAYFAIR
Turn of the Tide.....RKO Pathe
Oh, Oh, Cleopatra.....RKO Pathe

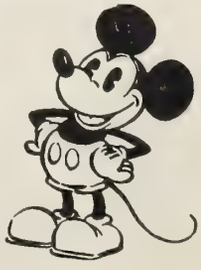
PARAMOUNT
In Again, Out Again.....Paramount
Little Annie Rooney.....Paramount

RIALTO
I Surrender, Dear.....Educational
Jack and the Beanstalk.....Max Fleisher

RIVOLI
You're Driving Me Crazy....Paramount
Penalties .....Tiffany
No More Hookey.....Paramount

ROXY
Barnyard Broadcast .....Columbia
Curiosities No. 228.....Columbia
Screen Snapshots .....Columbia

STRAND
The Naggers' Anniversary....Vitaphone
Unconquered Africa .....Vitaphone
The Wall Street Mystery....Vitaphone



WARNER
In Your Sombrero.....Vitaphone
Travel Hogs .....Vitaphone

WINTER GARDEN
Words and Music.....Vitaphone
The Eyes Have It.....Vitaphone
Believe It Or Not No. I.....Vitaphone
Ya Don't Know What You're Doin' .....Vitaphone

Signed For Washington Role

Clarence Whitehall, Metropolitan Opera baritone, has been signed for the role of George Washington, to whom he bears a close resemblance, in the Vitaphone two-reeler being made for the bi-centennial celebration next year.

Every
MICKEY MOUSE
PLAYS THE ROXY
world's largest theatre in N. Y.
They'll pack your house, too.

NEWS PICTURES

FOX MOVIETONE NEWS—No. 13—President starts Red Cross drive—Prince of Wales presents flag to regiment—Congo caves lure Yankee tourists—Maryland turkeys in for trouble—Australian horses ambitions in jumping—Notre Dame downs Carnegie —Exercises keep waistlines of German soldiers down.

FOX MOVIETONE NEWS — No. 14 — Navy's new queen of air makes debut over New York—Queen Mary's niece weds commoner—Ely Culbertson, bridge expert, discusses married bridge—Mussolini stirs Neapolitans with speech—Author explores wonders of the deep—Kid skaters race in Central Park, New York.

HEARST METROTONE NEWS—No. 212—Metrotone takes you aboard Akron, air queen—British queen sees her niece wed—Gunboat rescues "Robinson Crusoes" from Southern island—Thrilling moments from big games—Naples goes wild on "Mussolini Day"—Hero dogs get their reward in form of medals—Curtain falls on 'chase season in England.

HEARST METROTONE NEWS—No. 213—Massing of colors recalls Armistice—Helene Madison, swim champion, trains in Seattle for Olympics—$250,000 in dope goes up in smoke at New York—Thanksgiving Day proclamation by the President—Metrotone films a real stag party in Munich, Germany—Notre Dame beats Penn at South Bend—Floods imperil Panama Canal.

PARAMOUNT SOUND NEWS—No. 29—World War battle celebrated in Brussels, Belgium—Boy in Kansas City who saved mother from burning building is honored—Glasgow students fight traditional "flour bomb" battle—Senator Capper, Kansas, urges curb on "bears"—Miss Akron of air taking maiden flight—Mat king, Jim Londos, defends title in New York.

PARAMOUNT SOUND NEWS—No. 30 — Mussolini stirs followers with speech at Naples—The years march on for John Philip Sousa—Mable Cody jumps from surfboard to plane in Florida—Maharaja of Burdwan, Indian ruler, in New York—Top Flight sets 1931 earning record for horses with $219,000—Hoover proclaims observance of Thanksgiving—Cadets repulse invasion of Louisiana State.

PATHE NEWS—No. 29—Modern "Crusoes" back after six months on desert island—Skating season nears as hockey stars warm up in Massachusetts—Mighty Akron rides skies as navy's flagship of air—Notre Dame coach compares changes in grid uniforms—Niece of British queen bride of commoner.

PATHE NEWS—No. 30—Pathe News celebrates its 21st birthday—Wrestling sensation, Sammy Stein, reveals complex holds—Lion climbs tree after beefsteak in California—Georgia beats N. Y. U. in gridiron thriller.

UNIVERSAL NEWSPAPER NEWSREEL—No. 91—Sensational grain rise aids jobless in Minneapolis—Marathon winner in France spurns trophy for provision supply—Speed completion of famous Rushmore mountain memorial—News paragraphs—Government takes Mr. Capone for ride to Leavenworth prison—Record crowd sees Trojans defeat Stanford on Coast.

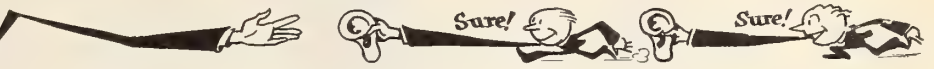
Europe Sets Pace, Says Tobis Agent

Europe and not America is setting the pace in the production of motion pictures, according to David Diamond, in Portland, Ore., general manager of Tobis Forenfilms, Inc., New York, general agents in the United States for the Tonbild Syndikat of Berlin and distributors in this country for many European producers. Diamond was in Portland to arrange showings of his company's pictures.

"Abroad it was realized that the innovation of sound would merely add a new dimension to motion pictures. They never went to the extreme of assuming that dialogue was the most important item and that talking pictures were merely plays projected through a new medium. As a result, the dialogue has been subordinated in the best French and German pictures, and the emphasis has been placed on superlative acting and superlative music.

"Behold the result. Whereas, American films have had to be 'dubbed' or remade in order to be salable abroad, the best European films have been sent all over the world exactly as they were made originally."

MANAGERS' ROUND TABLE CLUB



CHARLES E. "CHICK" LEWIS
Chairman and Editor

An International Association of Showmen Meeting in
MOTION PICTURE HERALD
Every Week—for Mutual Benefit and Progress

CONDUCTED BY AN EXHIBITOR FOR EXHIBITORS

Lend Me Your Ears!

HARPING back to the old argument that if they deliver the pictures we'll deliver box office receipts, we feel that a short résumé of the new season's product would not be amiss.

Catching most of the product for the reviewing section has had me walking on air one moment and the next sunk deep in despair. Because that's the way pictures are coming through this year. Our greatest fear was that they would start shooting through the same class of tripe that featured a good many of last year's palookas. Tongue twisting dialogue and super-sophisticated yarns, both poison at the majority of box offices.

The outlook was certainly stimulating at first, but now, once again we are getting scared. We see too many clucks on the horizon to please our simple tastes and far from enough "down to earth" pictures to overshadow the clucks.

One company in particular is way in the lead with real box office stuff this season and if they can maintain their stride we aer sure to bring home a mighty profitable season, providing of course that you bought them at a cost reasonable enough to leave you the price of a new suit.

After a grand start another company has fallen back to the class of stuff that made their 30-31 product a beautiful flop. Maybe they'll regain their perspective of what the box office wants and forget for a while what the home office and yes-men clap their hands at. Other companies have still plenty to show in the way of consistent winners at the b. o. if they will mean anything this season.

* * *

Reviving our discussion about press books from a few weeks back, we can't resist the temptation to quote from the letter of one of the outstanding advertising and publicity directors in the business. A man who has successfully looked after that phase of theatre operation for many years. Read on:

"The other evening I looked at" . . . . . "and after I left the screening room I felt it was one of the most delightful and entertaining movies that has ever been my pleasure to witness. . . . The next morning, with pleasurable recollections. . . . still fresh in my mind, I secured a press sheet on this picture. . . . honestly, I could have wept. The men who produced it either had not seen the picture or had completely missed fire. The spark of genius so evident in the picture was completely and totally lacking in the advertising.

"I have often wondered how many of the men getting up these press sheets have even sat in a theatre manager's chair. . . . It would seem to me an excellent scheme to station these press-book editors in a theatre in some rural community for about six months so that they could observe the reaction to their medicine."

All of which is darned good logic even if the press-book sausage makers won't agree. It's enough to make one lose interest in many a good picture just to look through the press sheets and especially the terrible ads they expect the average theatre to use. Truly, our correspondent was quite right, the theatre background is most necessary in the making up of press books and the sooner the producers recognize this fact the sooner will they spend their money far more sensibly than it is being spent now for press sheets.

* * *

It is interesting to observe that out of 34 winners and honorable mention in the M-G-M "Politics" contest, 29 are members of the Round Table Club. . . . proving once again that the best showmen in the world are members.

As a matter of fact, in every worth-while move within the industry, whether it be an exploitation contest or any other form of showmanship, Club members always excel and lead the field. We're mighty proud of "our" boys and know they will continue their good work.

* * *

Speaking of the good work accomplished by Club members, we know they will come through again on the "Helping Hand Shows" which will aid the local unemployed, to be staged some time during "National Motion Picture Week," November 18th to 25th.

* * *

Last week's issue of MOTION PICTURE HERALD carried a complete story on how to handle one of these shows and now we are going to sit back and see how many of the boys put over an S. R. O. performance. Remember, it's for your own local unemployment relief. The funds don't leave your own town.

* * *

It's getting real chilly, but for some strange reason we're playing better golf than ever. . . . but try as we do. . . . it's just an impossibility to break that damned hundred. . . . Anyhow. . . . we turned in two above the century. . . . so all is not lost. . . . yet. . . . Wish someone would invite me to Florida for a couple of weeks this winter. . . . Don't wake me up. . . . I'm enjoying the dream. . . .

"CHICK"

LOBBY LAFFS!

By DICK KIRSCHBAUM

AIN'T 'WE' GOT A CINCH—?

Crowther Is Winning Out Against Local Diamond Ball Game

There are other things besides the boll weevil down South to plague Southern business men and among these is what is known as "diamond ball." Not being familiar with this outdoor sport we'll immediately confess ignorance as to detail but from what we can glean from a letter from Ted Crowther, manager of the Cocoanut Grove Theatre, Cocoanut Grove, Fla., it's apparently played at night-time and is something for a theatre manager to take seriously. These leagues are in most cases sponsored by merchants, the American Legion, Boy Scouts and other civic organizations, and to make matters still worse, no admission to the games is charged.

In line with the idea that more flies can be caught with honey than vinegar, Crowther heartily endorsed the league with circulars distributed at the games, the theatre program occupying conspicuous space. Passes were offered for the best pre-season "dope" as to standing at end of the season and guest tickets were also offered members of the winning teams.

That much good-will secured, his next move was to secure permission to post three-sheets in a conspicuous spot in centerfield, broadcasting current show, titles and times of showings. He was also granted permission to park the theatre ballyhoo truck at the entrance to the field, under one of the big floodlights. A boy stood by this truck, handing out programs, circulars, etc., and barking the show at the end of the game.

While complete returns for these efforts cannot be determined at this writing, we are informed that there was a reaction for the better, especially so on rainy nights when the games could not be played. Now that the season is over, it is also noted that many of the players are now numbered among the audiences. In other words, he feels that there will be far less resistance for him to overcome during next season's games, and in case other members are up against these same conditions, it might be well worthwhile to try out the plan of campaign he's passing along. In fact, it might work well with any opposition of a similar nature. The Club is indebted to him for this service and we'll be looking forward to more information on this subject and others.

If You Have River Near Your Town Do What Aldinger Did

If you have a little river near your home town, or any kind of a river which can be seen by a lot of people, you might try a stunt used on "Huckleberry Finn" by H. Aldinger, manager of the Columbus Theatre in Columbus, Neb. It certainly caught the attention of local citizens.

Right in the middle of the stream he anchored a raft, on which was erected a tent with cloth signs advertising the engagement of the picture. The raft was located near a bridge, which carries most of the traffic into Columbus. It was seen by all those who crossed the bridge.

That was a perfect setting for a stunt on "Huck," inasmuch as the story largely deals with the adventures of two boys floating down a river via raft. And most everybody is familiar enough with the popular Twain story to instantly tie-in with the idea. All you need is one of Aldinger's rivers.

Rouda Stimulated Kiddie Club With Big Picnic Party

As a reward to the most faithful members of a "Skippy Club," which was organized some time ago by H. M. Rouda, manager of the Maryland Theatre, Chicago, Ill., about seventy kids were recently given one of the noisiest and happiest times they ever had in their lives. Invitations were mailed out according to an announcement made at a previous Saturday matinee, instructing the kids to assemble at the theatre by 10:30 sharp, but there were many who arrived there at 8 o'clock.

The whole shreiking assembly of boys and girls was packed into two promoted trucks, labeled so as to leave no doubt as to what institution was behind the move, and towed two miles through the streets to the picnic grounds. Game followed game, contest after contest was held and one batch of food after another was consumed. A team of girls was pitted against a team of boys, and don't think the boys didn't get a run for their money. There were three-legged races and sack races, for prizes worth striving for; there were grab bags, and one grand rip-roaring pie eating contest; there was food galore, several of the kids' mothers helping serve the well-filled lunch boxes, drinks and candy. Movies were taken of the events, later developed and shown during the following Saturday matinee.

It's a question at that as to who had the most fun out of the above affair—the kids or Rouda; at any rate, approximately 200 other kids were clamoring for membership in his club the next Saturday. So if you wish to try a booster for your kiddie club and also boost membership, by all means try this Round Tabler's method for it was without doubt a huge success. The accompanying photo shows one of the trucks getting away with its load of kids. That's Rouda himself standing at the side.

CONCERNING SNAP-SHOTS!

Some members of this Club may be at loss to understand why certain snap-shots sent in to illustrate show-stunts do not appear along with stories. In explanation, let us state that in all cases it is because the snap is too indistinct to clearly present detail that would be of service to others.

Not that we are not always glad to receive photos, whether these be indistinct or not, for we can at least get a good idea of what it was all about. But please bear in mind that snaps must be of sufficient sharpness in order to convey detail that can be capitalized upon by other Round Tablers. Thank you.

Dawson Cashing In Shooting Pictures Of Football Games

It pays to have had some experience with a motion picture camera, according to what we hear about Roger Dawson, manager of the Palace Theatre in Milwaukee, Wisc.

It seems that prior to becoming a theatre manager Roger was a camera man with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, and now his training stands him in good need for the excellent shots obtained of local football games. These are screened at the Palace during the Saturday midnight shows (day of game), are featured all week, and then routed over the entire local Fox circuit.

The only cost to theatre for the pictures is for raw stock and developing of film. A tie up with a local newspaper pays traveling expenses, and the stunt is plugged in the news columns, all asked by the paper in return is that the pictures be identified as "Palace-Wisconsin News Football Pictures." In this particular instance the shooting was limited to outstanding games; however, the same idea can be applied to games of lesser importance.

While we have touched on the subject of negative cost for newsreel shots prior to this instance, we will again mention that this should not exceed 8 cents per foot. Cameras suitable for the occasion may be rented for as little as $5.

Evans' Preview And Dinner To Star Was Big Box Office Aid

Presence of Estelle Taylor, a featured player in "Street Scene," gave Harold Evans, manager of Loew's State Theatre in St. Louis, a chance to pull a most effective publicity stunt in connection with the showing of this picture. In addition, a picture contest was arranged with one of the city's leading newspapers.

Invitations were issued to all local critics to attend a preview of the picture and this was followed by a dinner given for Miss Taylor at a popular hotel. This advance publicity built up a lot of interest and from the critics' reviews he selected excerpts for a special trailer used two days before opening.

The picture contest with the newspaper carried an interesting award and was worked in connection with photographing crowds on certain city corners. Pictures were reproduced the following day and those identifying themselves received the awards. This was run three days before and three days during engagement and received a fine publicity break.

Other tie-ups included a deal with the Postal Telegraph Company for placing of life-size cut-outs of messenger boys at various offices; a tie-up with Lux for 300 windows carrying streamers and hand-painted cards tying with picture, and 5,000 hangers placed on all lamp-posts. The lobby was decorated with special marquee cut-outs and attractive one, two and three-sheets.

Taking advantage of a star's presence in his city and arranging a preview and dinner was a bit of fast work on the part of Evans and he is to be commended for his aggressive tactics. It means that this manager was on the alert for any opportunity which would help him add to box-office receipts. Subsequent attendance testified to the efficiency of his campaign.

FOOTBALL SQUAD ENTERTAINED!

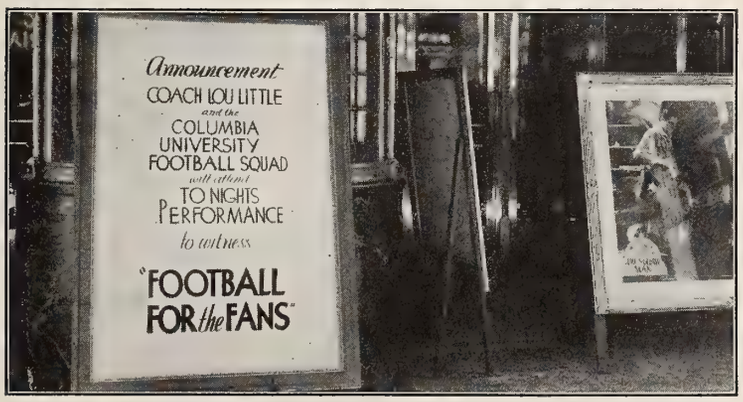


Photo above shows how first of a series of "Football for the Fan" shorts (Tiffany) was plugged at the Capitol Theatre, New York City. The sign in front of the box office announces that Couch Lou Little, of Columbia University, and his entire squad would attend that night's performance. Sporting writers on New York papers were also invited to attend and the affair got a break in next day's papers. An expert recently estimated that ... mid-season Saturday drew 5,000,000 people to slightly over 200 major games.

"The Showman's Calendar"

NOVEMBER

20th	Reginald Denny's Birthday
23rd	Capt. John Ericsson Landed in N. Y. 1837
23rd	Repudiation Day—Maryland
18th-25th	National Motion Picture Week
25th	British Evacuated New York—1783
26th	Thanksgiving Day
26th	Frances Dee's Birthday
29th	Genevieve Tobin's Birthday

DECEMBER

2nd	Monroe Doctrine—1823
3rd	Illinois Admitted to Union—1818
6th	Elissa Landi's Birthday
8th	Eli Whitney's Birthday—1865
10th	Peace with Spain signed at Paris—1898
10th	Victor McLaglen's Birthday
11th	Alfred B. Nobel's Birthday—1833 (Founder of Nobel Prize)
12th	First Marconi Wireless across Atlantic—1901
13th	Henrich Heine (German Poet) Born 1797
13th	Norman Foster's Birthday
16th	Boston Tea Party—1773
16th	John Boles' Birthday
21st	Shortest Day of Year
21st	Pilgrims Landed at Plymouth Rock 1620
24th	Ruth Chatterton's Birthday
25th	Christmas
25th	Washington Crossed the Delaware—1776
27th	Marlene Dietrich's Birthday
28th	Woodrow Wilson's Birthday—(1856)
28th	Lew Ayres' Birthday
29th	Iowa Admitted to Union 1848
31st	New Year's Eve

THE REAL CLUB SPIRIT:
"ALL FOR ONE AND ONE FOR ALL"

Keeping Up With The Times!

By GUY JONES

TREAT 'HER' RIGHT!

Krendel Stimulated His Kiddie Club By Special Inducement

Nothing new about organizing a Safety Club, you'll admit—except maybe the way one is handled—and so we'll tell you all about how one was engineered by Dan E. Krendel, manager of the St. Clair Theatre, Ontario, Canada. This one had tied inducements for the kiddies to attend, in the shape of a popular beverage and special "Just Kids" weeks during the off season for attendance at theatres.

The first Saturday after this "Just Kids' Saturday Matinee Safety Club" was organized, the hottest day Toronto had in several weeks, saw 600 more kiddies in attendance than the previous Saturday. A local drug store and the manufacturers of an Orange Crush drink were tied-up for distribution of bottled drinks at the theatre, these firms standing for three-quarters of the entire cost of drinks, advertising and a special 120-foot trailer. Many adults also came in to get a free drink.

Application forms and membership cards, numbered for punching in the usual style, were printed and passed out along with other circulars listing rules of the organization. As a further bid for popular attendance, August 22 to 29 was designated as "Just Kids' Week," the drug store being tied-up for the issuing of a herald on the picture "Chances," a title tying up neatly with the general scheme.

At a total cost of 35 double passes he also made an advantageous deal with a Kresge store when exploiting "Five and Ten." The manager of the store was sold the idea of enclosing coupons in all packages during run of picture and was also prevailed upon to donate an important window for the display of two cut-outs bearing copy and stills on picture. More than 9,000 of the coupons, giving the holder an opportunity to get a pair of guest tickets, were distributed at the store and as a result the house did a nice three days' business. The store manager was enthusiastic over the deal and has since approached the theatre management to put over another one.

Krendel has to keep stepping on it up in his community for reason that there's plenty of opposition on all sides. But, as he states, a situation like this is supposed to be "the cats" for all showmen as an incentive to keep them on their toes. The truth of this is borne out by the fact that the St. Clair is holding its own. Just as soon as he can find the time, he's going to sit down to his trusty typewriter and knock off an account of some other gags he's been using to put his house over the top.

Special Announcer Employed By Short At A Football Game

Paul Short, manager of the Melba theatre, Dallas, Texas, arranged with a radio station to have a special announcer at the football game between Oklahoma and Texas. This announcer broadcasted from the 50-yard line between halves, all data concerning the showing of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Susan Lenox: Her Fall and Rise."

There were also 50-word announcements over the air daily from that station. Another 50-word announcement was placed in the Dallas Greeters' Guide and a 100-word announcement in the Dallas Hospitality Magazine.

Photographs of Greta Garbo and Clark Gable were given free to each of the first 1,000 ladies who attended the theatre the first day.

For two weeks prior to the play-date, the entire space over the main entrance of the theatre, a space 50 x 10 feet, carried a beautiful display with sateen background of heads of Garbo and Gable. Effective coloring from spotlights caused much comment from patrons. On the mezzanine floor several set pieces were placed to advantage.

Headless Man Gag Helped Smith Sell Joe Brown Picture

It's been some little time since the Club has been informed about what's going on in show-business down in Donoro, Pa., where C. E. Smith controls the destinies of the Harris Theatre, but a little photo on this page will suffice to show that he's still using stunts to help sell his shows. In case the snap-shot does not show up well on account of its smallness, let us state that it's a picture of a man dressed up in a kind of a combination rain-coat-poncho coat, with his face completely hidden from sight. You may see for yourselves that he's carrying what appears to be his head under his right arm. A sign on his back told all the lookers that, "I Laughed My Head Off At Joe E. Brown in 'Broadminded'." Name of theatre and playdates were, of course, part of the copy.

Not new by any means, Smith asserts, but states that this little stunt was one of the best street gags he ever tried. It cost him only four passes and at this rate it ought to prove attractive to many others who wish to inject some novelty into their street advertising. Thanks, C. E., for remembering your Club and don't forget to keep us all posted on your future activities in show-business.

It appears that laughing off some part of one's anatomy has been a popular stunt with a number of showmen, only recently this department having published several other gags along this line.

Colored Paper Hats

Assorted paper party hats. Bright colored bands offer plenty of imprint space. Great for parades, special matinee parties and as throw-aways. These hats are priced for quantity use. Cover the town with them. Every kid that wears a hat is a walking twenty-four sheet for your attractions. Turn these over to your local printer for imprint.

For further information and samples write to Box 502

MANAGERS ROUND TABLE CLUB
1790 Broadway New York, N. Y.

This Essay Gag Was Means Brown Used To Sell 'Squaw Man'

George C. Brown, manager of the Paramount theatre, Kankakee, Ill., arranged with a newspaper for an essay contest which was run for three days in advance of the showing of "The Squaw Man." A prize of $5 was offered for the best essay. Other prizes consisted of 20 pairs of tickets for "The Squaw Man." The topic was: "Should a Man Marry Out of His Race?" Brown was assisted by an M-G-M exploiteer.

A questionnaire contest was also arranged for another paper. Five questions pertaining to the picture were asked each day. Answers were to be found among the classified ads. Ten tickets were awarded each days to the winners.

Two Indians, formerly part of a stage unit, were used as lobby ballyhoo. They also paraded the streets on the day before the picture opened. The Indians attracted much attention.

Window displays in book stores, a drug company, department store and a furniture store were secured and heralds, style stills and bookmarks were used to exploit the picture.

Brooklyn Managers Take Advantage Of Big Football Game

Local theatre managers were on the job recently over in Brooklyn, N. Y., when two strong rival High School football teams clashed in a hard-fought game held at Ebbet's Field.

Hal Salzman, publicity director of the Warner Strand, had his cameraman there to take shots of exciting moments of play, and a half-dozen ushers from as many Fox Theatres in the city were also present with placards announcing that pictures of the game would be shown at each house.

Salzman had two men parade in front of the stands between halves, carrying a big banner announcing exclusive shots and also displaying a cup to be awarded the winning team. Loew's big Kingsway Theatre was also represented, having arranged a 24-sheet some time before start of the game to announce that it, too, would present pictures of the event.

Some 22,000 people attended the game and in these days circulation of a message before that many people isn't anything to be laughed off by theatremen. These showmen were on the job. How about you?

Striking Displays And China Nights Aid Paul Binstock

The last time Club members were acquainted with the activities of Paul Binstock, formerly of the Astoria Grand Theatre, Astoria, L. I., and now in charge of the Fortway Theatre, 68th Street and Fort Hamilton Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y., we presented some illustrated evidence of the artistic foyer and lobby displays being turned out at his house. While not certain, we were under the impression that Binstock did this work himself, but it appears that one of his ushers is responsible for all the modernistic twists given these displays. Not knowing this man's name, no further citations will be bestowed at this writing; but we are reproducing another one of his displays made for "Young As You Feel."

A couple of other snap-shots show displays made for "Miracle Woman" and the occasion of a Friday China Night. The former was apparently a most attractive piece of work, but detail in the snap is not sharp enough to bring out on this page. Neither is the latter, but we can see that the china was artistically arranged in front of a very attractive background especially constructed for the occasion.

Regarding his China Nights, we are informed that Binstock is using these in a very profitable way, tripling his business on these nights as against any previous Friday. All in all, it is evident that he is building up a fine patronage for his house and we will hope that it ever continues on the up-turn through the coming seasons. And that usher of his certainly is a help when it comes to keeping down house overhead. Better watch out, Paul, or some one will kidnap him.

A CHRISTMAS DISPLAY SUGGESTION!

The above display was erected in the lobby of the Publix Theatre in Marion, Ohio, last year, while Art Smith was manager, and because it arrived after the holiday season we filed it away for use this year as one of the many suggestions we are offering for holiday displays, etc.

The treatment, while simple, is certainly effective and was built at a minimum of cost, making it all the more desirable. Fireplace was part of the stage props, or can be painted for a few cents. Andirons were taken from the theatre lounge room fireplace, balance of art and sign work by theatre artist or sign shop doing the theatre's work.

A variation on this particular idea can be achieved by using feature titles as well as stars for the stockings. Other ideas will work right into a display of this sort, and, with the balance of the lobby and foyer appropriately dressed with the usual laurel-holly wreaths and greens makes the entire effect both timely and pleasing, radiating a spirit of good cheer and warmth.

Get on your thinking caps early this year. You have Thanksgiving and then Christmas to think about for the lobby and front dressing. Keep this one handy for reference.

Conery Used Photo Stunt As Means Of Boosting Matinees

To increase attendance of kids at his matinees, Mitchell Conery, manager of the Kingston Theatre, Kingston, Pa., used a couple of stunts with marked success.

He used the photography gag on the line-up when the theatre was about to open, taking photos of the whole gang and later had these developed for display in the lobby for the following matinee. Ten kiddies were chosen and rings placed around their pictures. These ten were granted free admission to the Thursday matinee. During the show, cards were passed out to kids, reading, "This card stamped on five consecutive Thursdays is good for admission the following Thursday."

The practice of photographing people seems to be much in vogue these days as applied to adults and certainly there's no reason why the gag cannot be used where kiddie patronage is concerned. Where it has been overdone, it might be worked again with the youngsters. Thanks, Conery, for the suggestion and tell the Club some more about your work.

FARMS WERE NEVER LIKE THIS!

A fellow might stay down on the farm if farmerettes like these were around. Some carrots and potatoes, what! Believe it or not, N. T. G. of radio and Loew fame has a farm and there he is in the above photo helping his girls distribute product at the stage door of the Stanley Theatre, Jersey City, to needy local families. Cards were mailed to the needy through the Goodwill Industries. The Club is indebted to Burton Hoffman, publicity director of the Stanley, for this contribution.

Old Time Hurdy-Gurdy Helped Abe Sunberg Sell Film

Through an advertisement in a newspaper, an old-time hurdy gurdy, something which has not been seen around Minneapolis for years, was secured for the "Sidewalks of New York" campaign by Abe Sunberg, manager of the State Theatre in that city. Placards were attached to the hurdy gurdy and an Italian, suitably dressed for the occasion, was engaged to push it through the streets of the city. Tunes such as "Sidewalks of New York," "Alexander's Rag-Time Band" and other old favorites were played. This created a lot of excitement and children gathered around wherever it went. Sunberg was assisted by an M-G-M exploiteer.

Arrangements were made with "Liberty Magazine" in Minneapolis, whereby 700 boys carried cards on their bags announcing the picture. Each of the boys was presented with a special ticket to see the film.

For more than two weeks before the picture opened, the "Minneapolis Daily Star" carried large ads of the picture. The paper also gave away a football with each new subscription secured by carriers and Mr. Kueppers, who has charge of advertising for the State theatre, gave away tickets to the successful ones. Some fine window displays on Anita Page were obtained in beauty parlors. Stills from the press book were used.

The very scarcity of the old-time hurdy-gurdy these days got attention on this one and certainly the gag tied in well with the title of the picture, all bearing testimony to the fact that Abe Sunberg is on the job out in his city.

Jack Proctor And A Big Baker Combined To Sell 'Palmy Days'

Taking a tip from campaigns made in the East on "Palmy Days," Jack Proctor, publicity man with the United Artists Theatre in Los Angeles, went to work on the bakeries and succeeded in closing with one of the largest concerns in the city for a complete tie-up. The campaign which followed is said to have been one of the most far-reaching publicity efforts ever noted on the West Coast and resulted in the distribution of more than 300,000 pieces of advertising of one kind or another.

The first gag used was a "Dunkers Club," consisting of the distribution of 100,000 membership cards by the bakery. This was plugged over the company's program on one of the major radio stations, one week in advance and during run of picture.

Housewives were the next objective, a barrage of 100,000 inserts bearing a picture of Cantor and Charlotte Greenwood reaching them in boxes of doughnuts distributed by the baker. Still another 100,000 inserts of Cantor gained city-wide distribution by packing them in loaves of bread.

In addition, the baking company carried full-sheet banners on sides of all its 200 trucks; distributed 1,500 window cards; 1,500 similar cards tying up with bread; 1,000 similar cards for grocery counters, and 2,500 9 x 11 cards in stores tying with doughnuts. The company also contracted for two series of quarter-page ads in six daily papers, giving theatre, picture and playdates about 50 per cent of the space.

Tie-ups were also made with several newspapers which resulted in generous space devoted to "dunking contests" and numerous advance stories, with one paper arranging for distribution of 25,000 heralds plugging the picture on one side and the paper on the other.

All in all, the above campaign stood the theatre but small cost, the bakery paying a high percentage of the costs. Proctor was formerly with M-G-M and Universal, doing special exploitation work and rendered a good account of himself. If he continues his efforts on behalf of the U. A. he will be teamed up with well known Round Tabler Dick Moss, a combination which should step along at a speedy pace. At any rate, we will look forward to hearing from him again.

SPECIALS FOR
The Latest Fall Picture Releases
Fill your seats with original box-office
EXPLOITATION NOVELTIES
Made for Every Picture Produced
Including
PATHE : R-K-O : UNIVERSAL : M-G-M : TIFFANY
SONO-ART : LOEW'S : UNITED ARTISTS
FIRST NATIONAL
and Many Others
For further information and samples write to Box 501,
MANAGERS ROUND TABLE CLUB
1790 Broadway New York, N. Y.

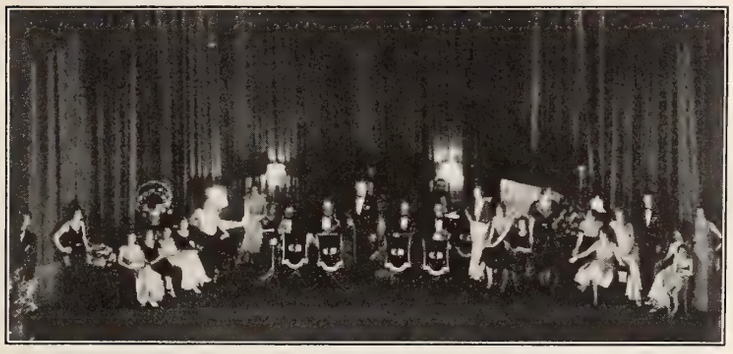
DANCE—TO THE TUNE OF—DOLLARS!

As another good reason why the young folk should patronize the popular Metropolitan Theatre (Publix) in Boston, they offer free dancing every night except Sunday in their large, spacious and sumptous grand lounge.

This unique service has made the Met. the real center for social activities in the Hub city and most any night you can find between three and five hundred couples dancing merrily to the tunes of Sid Reinherz's Metropolitan Collegians.

This particular photo was taken on a Saturday night and shows the imported Hurdy Gurdy which has proven very popular with the young people.

The Boston Met. has produced some mighty grand pace-setters in the way of increasing patronage and goodwill and we would want our members and readers to know that their publicity director, Floyd Bell, has his finger in most of the stunt-pies they bake out there.



Lobby dancing has proven to be a great business booster in many spots; should you decide to try it yourself, just remember that all you need is a section of the lobby or foyer large enough to provide dancing space and a peppy little dance band. Then let your trailers and advertising do the rest.

Cangley Gave His Town Thrill With Fall Fashion Show

The first Fall Fashion Show ever held in the town of Owego, N. Y., was recently staged by Edward J. Cangley, manager of the Tioga Theatre and from all reports the event went over in a great big way. On two successive nights the show drew capacity attendance, positive assurance that another one of its kind will be presented just as soon as the time arrives.

Success of this affair was entirely due to efforts put forth by Cangley, who lined up about ten merchants for the promotion of a co-op ad and direct participation by representatives in the show. He imported a popular out-of-town orchestra and arranged a special program of music, four acts of vaudeville and the feature picture "Sit Tight." Fifteen attractive girls acted as models for the several stores.

Although a photograph taken of girls and orchestra on the stage is a little dull we are reproducing it in order to give you an idea of how the setting was carried out. Every detail of the whole show was supervised by Cangley and he is to be congratulated for making it such a profitable affair. His newspaper gave wholehearted support, as a number of clippings testify. Ed is just another Club member to cash in on one of these shows, particular emphasis being placed on the fact that it was the first one of its kind ever held in the town.

MAGIC TRICKS

A variety of ten (10) different tricks with directions for performing: Coin tricks, card tricks, magic disappearing tricks, etc. All articles, such as coins, cards, etc., necessary to perform the trick, come packed in an envelope on which you can put your theatre imprint. Write to this department for a free sample.

How to Use Them: Hold Saturday "Trick Matinees" and give out a trick to every boy and girl. Get the newspaper to run a "trick department" during the run of your serial and let the paper give the tricks away to every fan who sends in a letter telling why he likes the chapter play.

For further information and samples write to Box 504
MANAGERS ROUND TABLE CLUB
1790 Broadway New York, N. Y.

MAKE THIS A REAL THANKSGIVING
—Food—Clothes—Toys—For the Poor Kiddies!

Don't tell us that you're gonna forget all those poor kiddies in your town this year. Impossible. They're counting on you more than ever to put across that special morning show. You know the kind we mean; the admission price being a can of beans, soup, toys, old garments or anything else for that matter.

Make this the sort of Thanksgiving that the poor youngsters ought to have. Perhaps you are promoter enough to get a couple of hundred baskets of various foods to be distributed via the newspaper and local welfare organizations among the poor. They have a right to be thankful for something even if they're not getting the breaks they deserve.

But, whatever the particular slant you want to inject, DO SOMETHING. Don't let this Thanksgiving Day roll by without some help sponsored by you and your theatre with the local paper and all organizations and merchants lined up solidly behind you.

The most popular, and certainly most appreciated idea, is the Food Matinee or special midnight show. In this way you can be sure of plenty of food-stuff to make up the baskets for distribution the day before Thanksgiving. Anything in the line of food should be the admission, without any limit as to the amount any one person may donate for his or her admission. Potatoes, canned goods, a pound or two of sugar, any vegetable or fruit, in fact anything they will give so long as it's fresh and will help achieve your purpose. Selling the newspaper to help publicize a show of this sort ought to be a cinch in the toughest spot on earth, they all soften up for a gag of this kind.

Get busy. Not too much time left for speculation. Set the date and start the news a-circulating round the town.

Stan McNeil Has A Good Will Canvasser To Sell His Theatre

A new stunt is being pulled up in the community covered by "Stan" McNeill, manager of the Capitol Theatre in Smith Falls, Ontario, Canada. He calls it "Good-will Canvassing." Boiled down to a popular term among business men these days it comes under the head of "contact" work, which is assumed to be a subtle form of salesmanship. At any rate, a vast amount of good is being accomplished for the Capitol through this means and we will present a brief outline of the way it's done.

This "Good Will Canvasser," a girl well up with what's going on in motion picture business, calls at homes during the afternoons. She has "sales personality" and is well informed as to current attractions, popular stars, etc. She talks about the pictures that have played the Capitol; What type of picture is liked best; their favorite stars; what criticism they have to offer as to matters pertaining to theatre and encourages suggestions on how any condition can be improved.

Of course, she has a list of coming attractions and attention is called to one or others that she is sure they will like. Mention is made of the stars appearing in them, always making a note of what date the picture is due at the theatre. Mention is also made of the theatre's value as a town institution, the revenue the government derives from the two cents tax on all adult admissions, and any other point that would serve as sales propaganda.

"Stan" also found time to include a small snap-shop of a raft he rigged up when exploiting "Huckleberry Finn," a cut of which we are reproducing. He has a river near his town, as its name indicates, and a bridge connecting the main highway was located right near where the raft was anchored. This stunt captured plenty of attention because of the heavy traffic at this point.

We are inclined to think that McNeill's "Good-Will Canvasser" plan is a good one. As he points out, it is important to employ the right type of girl. She must be personable, which means that she must be a good mixer, and well informed concerning her work. It must always be kept in mind that her personality will reflect just what kind of a theatre you are running, should you happen to like this idea and proceed to put it into effect. It is our sincere belief that a vast amount of good can be accomplished with such a contact person. If any other Round Tablers try out this scheme, the Club will appreciate hearing about how it works out. As a matter of fact it is entirely in line with what most business institutions are doing these days and what's "good for the goose ought to be good for the gander." The Club is indebted to Mack for sending this along and we will await further reports.

A PAGE OF SHOWMANSHIP!

A. J. Sonosky Presents Some Unique Ideas On Trailer Presentations And Other Stunts

THE following showman-like ideas were submitted to this Club by A. J. Sonosky, manager of the Riviera Theatre in St. Paul, Minn. We don't hear from this member every week but when the spirit does move him to render aid to brother theatre-men he certainly covers some ground. To our way of thinking, there are many valuable suggestions offered in the following paragraphs and readers have his full permission to help themselves to any which may prove profitable. While identified here with certain pictures, his ideas can be easily adapted to many others. He is a great believer in trailers, feeling that these represent a tremendously important selling item. Accordingly, he pays close attention to method of presentation. We will first acquaint you with a few of his stunts along this line:

TRAILER USED ON "BAT WHISPERS"

As the Newsreel closed, all house lights, with the exception of exit lights, were turned out and a slide of "House on Hill" with blue gelatine was thrown on metallic drapes full-flood. A prism wheel and a slide with bats used with green gelatine, superimposed over the before-mentioned slide of house, also full flood. A third slide with the words, "The Bat Whispers," was superimposed over the two previous effects and flashed on and off three times. At the start of the above effects the Non Sync opened with a record, made locally, which started out with a police whistle followed by shrill siren and then the words, "s-s-sh-h-h, 'The Bat Whispers'." At this point, a boy in the pit who took the cue flashed on a ghost mask with green lights. This effect was flashed on and off three times, at the end of which a revolver shot off a .32 blank. At this point, the sound trailer hit the screen with the words, "Hold On To Your Seats." As the trailer hit, flips were dropped over slides of house and bats, metallic curtains opened and house and bat slides formed border on the metallic drapes throughout the trailer, while the film itself was toned with a green gelatine throughout. On both sides of the proscenium was a transparency with cutout bats and cutout letters, "The Bat Whispers," with green lights behind. These transparencies were lit up immediately after the revolver shot at opening of trailer and carried throughout trailer.

For a picture like "The Bat Whispers," where there was a possibility that the women patronage would be negligible, a fortune-teller was placed in the ladies' lounge, who gave a two-minute reading to women patrons. There was a steady stream of women to have their fortunes told. Same stunt was pulled on "My Past," which title tied in perfectly.

"MURDER BY CLOCK" PRESENTATION

At the close of News reel the house, except the exit lights, was completely darkened. A spot thrown through a deep, dark purple glass appeared at the left hand side of the stage and held there for a moment, then, walking into the spot, was seen a skeleton. Skeleton was followed by spot across the stage in front of close-in curtains.

On the top of the organ case there was a prop, with a large clock face and large question mark just below, all in luminous paint. The skeleton came up to clock and moved hand from 5 minutes to 12 to 12 o'clock. During all this time, the Non Sync carried weird effects—groans, storm effect, etc. As soon as clock hand was pushed to 12, Non Sync started to chime off 12 clock strokes. Meanwhile skeleton bent slowly down, and disappeared backwards through the question mark panel which was on the clock. As soon as clock finished striking 12, there were two revolver shots and simultaneously the words, "Murder By the Clock," appeared on the curtain, followed immediately by regular screen trailer. One of the ushers worked the skeleton trick, and did an excellent job. There is no doubt but what this slight bit of production added on to the opening of the trailer was tremendously effective in putting over its message.

A STUNT USED ON "STOLEN HEAVEN"

Preceding the trailer, an usher dressed in tuxedo appeared on the right hand side of the stage, spotted from the booth in amber. His opening words were, "Stop—Hold Your Seats, Everybody"—and he then went into a talk which finally developed into a plug for Nancy Carroll. This talk lasted for about 1 minute and 20 seconds and as his last sentence was concluded the "Starting Next Friday" lead hit the screen, followed by sound trailer. Throughout the sound trailer, a blue gelatine tone and a straw tint was used with a heart slide used on metallic drapes for a border.

ADVANCE DISPLAY ON "SMART MONEY"

For an advance lobby display on this picture a special panel was made bearing the copy, "10 To One You Can't Choose the Fake Bill." Three real $1 bills were placed directly underneath, followed by, "But 100 To One You Will Choose Smart Money for Real Entertainment, etc." This was used with stills from picture and created a lot of attention, everyone having a difference of opinion as to which of the three bills was a fake. A panel of Robinson, Cagney and Knapp was also arranged, with Knapp shown holding a real $1 bill, especially spotted. Many passers-by would stop to feel and examine the bill to see if it was genuine.

Also in connection with the above picture a contest was held in the classified columns of a local daily whereby the serial numbers of 15 one-dollar bills appear each day. Anyone holding the bill with a listed serial number could receive a guest ticket and another dollar bill in exchange by presenting the lucky bill at the box-office. In all, about 100 new dollar bills were distributed two days before showing of picture. Daily mention was made in front page box in the newspaper, giving name of theatre, star and picture title.

RUBBER CHECKS FOR "NO LIMIT"

In connection with this picture checks of very light rubber stock were printed in regular form with reverse side reading, "There Is No Limit To How Far You Could Stretch a Check of This Size Even If It Were Good But There Is No Limit of Fun in No Limit, etc." The face of the check called for payment of $250. These checks cost about 3c. each but a check-up showed that 500 of these gained a wider distribution and more comment than 5,000 heralds under average conditions. A number of the checks were also planted at various luncheons and banquets to be commented on by toastmasters.

AMATEUR PHOTOGRAPHERS' CONTEST

This was run over a period of four weeks, with awards of $70 in gold and theatre tickets for the winning photographs. Snipes advertising the contest were placed in 200 drug store windows with copy reading, "Enter Your Snapshots Now—Riviera Theatre—St. Paul Daily News Amateur Photography Contest—Prizes—Have Your Films Developed here." Over the fourth week period the newspaper carried front page and other stories and pictorial layouts of the first and second prize winners, and other interesting photos submitted by contestants. Each week's prize-winning photos were projected on the screen and a large compo display of all photos was placed in the lobby each week.

WHO ARE YOU? CONTEST

One of the weekly features in a local newspaper is the "Who Are You" contest, whereby a staff cameraman photographs people at random on city streets and publishes their pictures in the Sunday edition. If the individual identifies herself or himself, the theatre donates a guest ticket to the current attraction. Mention is given by the paper in cut-lines under photos of theatre, star's name and current picture.

MAGAZINE TIE-UP

Arrangement was made with local dealer of "Liberty" whereby 10,000 inserted heralds are inserted at given intervals. In reciprocation, his carriers are allowed a free show. At various times, a parade is staged through main streets to theatre, with band at head and cards pinned to magazine bags. At one time, institutional cards were carried by the boys over a period of six weeks. All boys who reached their quota of sales were entitled to admission, about 75 boys being taken care of weekly. On many occasions this has proved a most valuable tie-up.

USHERS LEND A HELPING HAND

From time to time "I Am Your Usher" cards are used, bearing a message from usher to patron with assurance that as he has always been anxious to serve to the best of ability, and now calls attention to the excellence of the next show. These cards are handed out as patron enters theatre with the request, "Please save this card." Actual count revealed that less than 200 out of 5,000 cards were dropped on the floor. At times a contest is worked with these cards, certain identification marks corresponding with others posted in the lobby entitling holder to a guest ticket. The house is never obligated for more than 100 passes.

HE BELIEVES IN PUZZLE CONTESTS

In addition to the above, Sonosky is also a believer in the promotion of various puzzle contests whenever it is possible to obtatin suitable mats for this purpose; otherwise, he creates a contest by merely asking contestants to name the last two pictures in which stars of the current picture appeared. Aim in this direction is to invariably make the contest as simple as possible in order to obtain a maximum of response. These contests are run in from two to five neighborhood newspapers weekly and net the theatre from 10 to 30 inches of publicity, usually front page. And all accomplished with five single passes to the paper.

We believe you will agree that this Round Tabler has been using a variety of stunts to sell his shows and we can also testify to the fact that all of those listed above contributed largely to giving old man Depression a large kick in the pants out his way. And while we are expressing our appreciation to him for sending this material along, may we also tender full thanks to his able publicity manager, Don Alexander, who assists in the matter of making all tie-ups and other selling stunts.

Campbell Believes Newspapers Are Best Way To Reach Public

Along with doing a lot of other things which proclaim him to be an enterprising showman, J. E. Campbell, manager of the Strand Theatre in Long Branch, N. J., is a staunch believer in reaching the general public through the medium of newspapers, whether it be by direct plug for a picture or a story on some institutional activity. As an example of the latter, we have before us a copy of a Long Branch paper in which he was given a front-page break of a three-column photo and a story with a news head.

The above was occasioned by his co-operation with the Long Branch Exchange Club in entertaining 150 children of a near-by home. The outing was accompanied by a Paramount sound truck which added to the kid's enjoyment of the affair by rendering musical selections over its phonograph attachment. All the children participated in the festivities to the extent of their ability, some singing and others doing their stuff before the "mike."

If getting smeared all over the front page isn't getting a fine publicity break, then we'll say nothing further, and it's easy to agree with Campbell that this kind of publicity is a valuable asset to any theatre. Nice work, Julian, and let your fellow showmen know what else you're getting away with down in your town.

Mileage Guessing Gag Was Effective For J. H. Voerster

The mileage-guessing stunt was recently employed with much success by J. H. Voerster, manager of the Douglas Theatre in New man Grove, Neb., and one of this Club's newest members.

He tied up with a local auto dealer and a gas station owner, one supplying a new model of a popular priced line of automobiles and the other five gallons of ethyl gas. The car was placed in front of the theatre, wheels jacked up and gas tanks and speedometer sealed. Cards were printed for the guessers to mark down their estimates, and special heralds were also issued, advertising the event, theatre and current attraction. The car was started at a stated time and ran at the rate of about 20 M.P.H. until the last drop of gas was consumed. Over 800 names were submitted by contestants for the prizes of theatre tickets and articles offered by the auto dealer, thus securing additional business for the theatre and a valuable mailing list.

This mileage guessing stunt is being tried in a number of localities and appears to be popular wherever used, the fact that 800 names were turned in by this small community amply testifying to amount of interest in this instance. It's an easy tie-up to make and if other members of the Club haven't tried it out, take a whack at it and let headquarters know how it was pulled off. The give-aways can be modest or somewhat elaborate, depending on the nature of the tie-up. Thanks, Voerster, for your first contribution and let the Club hear from you regularly.

NEW GAG FOR THEATRE PREMIERE!

When the Warners opened their newest theatre in the city of Hollywood, Los Angeles, Calif., a "sight-seer's bridge" was erected over and across a street running at right angles to the house. The new theatre is called the Western and this picture was taken in daylight the day before opening. Stars passed over the bridge under the glare of sun arcs and the street was thronged with people during the ceremonies. The structure bore a large electric sign which read, "Welcome Warner Bros."

Soffer's 'Box' Gag Was Sensational And The East Side Gaped

Remember the old refrain of that once and still popular ditty, "The Bowery," in which it was pointed out that "they did such things and said such things on the Bowery"? Well, Avenue A and Sixth Street, New York City, isn't such a long way from the Bowery at that, and they still say things and do things down in that neighborhood that might or might not get a hand in other necks of these woods. But down on the lower east side, where Bob Soffer directs the destinies of the Hollywood Theatre, it's another matter. List to this:

Not long ago Bob was playing "Caught Plastered" and his opposition had "Free Soul." It looked like a tough battle might be in the offing, so he thought something sensational ought to be done in the way of advertising. Result: A trip to a near-by undertaker friend for the loan of a "box," which he placed in front of the theatre on two "horses." The sign read: "The Man Inside Died Laughing at 'Caught Plastered.'" Did they look at it? They did! And Soffer states he did good business.

This is not the first time we've had this gag brought to our attention as having attracted a lot of attention on the East Side. Some time ago we recall that J. H. Phillips, manager of the Eagle Theatre, used it in connection with "Dracula"; only J. H. had a skeleton inside his box. Okay, Bob; glad the folk are not squeamish down your way. And pass back our regards to Dave Lustig.

Fox Granada Theatre
Ontario, Cal.

Euclid Ave. at C St. Ph. Ont. 1327

Direction Fox West Coast Theaters
House Staff
John Rantz ... Manager
Jeanette Pifer. ... Cashier
B. C. Moore ..... Doorman
Nadine Kessler. Chief Usherette
Projection and Sound Technicians
C B Wynn, Jr. and T R. Benjamin
Calvert Emmons, M. D. ... House Physician
Matinee Tues. and Thurs. at 2 o'clock
Matinee Saturday at 1 o'clock
Sundays and Holidays continuous from 2:30 till 11 p. m.
Evenings at 7 and 9

Flowers in Foyer by Courtesy of the Armstrong Flower Shop Phone Ont. 102

Warner Baxter —as— "THE CISCO KID"

O. Henry's glamorous border bandit, "The Cisco Kid," lives again! With a price on his head and an army on his trail, he goes his audacious way, robbing the rich, helping the poor, and breaking feminine hearts as he goes.

Warner Baxter, whose splendid work "In Old Arizona," in a similar characterization, elevated him to stardom, again plays the "Cisco Kid," with Edmund Lowe as his nemesis, the cavalry sergeant, and Conchita Montenegro as the Spanish flame.

"The Cisco Kid" will be shown at the Fox Granada theater three days, starting Thursday, November 5-6-7.

Thrift matinee prices will prevail at opening performance of the "Cisco Kid," Thursday, November 5, at 2 p. m.

GRANADA THEATRE
PROGRAM
TWO WEEKS COMMENCING SUNDAY, OCTOBER 25

Sun.-Mon.-Tues. Oct. 25-26-27
Fox Movietone News
"PEARLS AND DEVILFISH"
Deepsea Fishing Sport
AN ORGAN NOVELTY
Zasu Pitts and Thelma Todd in "PAJAMA PARTY"
EDDIE CANTOR
CHARLOTTE GREENWOOD in
"PALMY DAYS"

Wed.-Thurs. Oct. 28-29
Metrotone Sound News
"BEAUTY SECRETS OF HOLLYWOOD"
Chas. "Chic" Sale
in "COWSLIPS"
Buddy Rogers Skeets Gallagher
in "ROAD TO RENO"

Fri.-Sat. Oct. 30-31
Fox Movietone News
A PARAMOUNT SONG CARTOON
Bobby Jones Plays Golf
"THE DRIVER"
Part II "THE VANISHING LEGION"
Chas. Bickford—Rose Hobart
—in—
"East of Borneo"

Sun.-Mon. Nov. 1-2
Fox Movietone News
"OLYMPIC TALENT"
A Sport Short
"100% SERVICE"
A Comic Skit
Charlie Chase in
"SKIP THE MALOO"
GRETA GARBO in
"SUSAN LENOX"
Her Fall and Rise

Tues.-Wed. Nov. 3-4
Metrotone Sound News
Harry Lauder in
"SHE'S MY DAISY"
A Jimmy Gleason Comedy
"SLOW POISON"
William Powell in
"ROAD TO SINGAPORE"

Thurs.-Fri.-Sat. Nov. 5-6-7
Fox Movietone News
"SINGING WATERS"
A Scenic Masterpiece with Music
Clark and McCullough in "FALSE RUMORS"
WARNER BAXTER
and
EDMUND LOWE in
"THE CISCO KID"
Better than "In Old Arizona"

GRETA GARBO in "SUSAN LENOX, HER FALL AND RISE"

Never has Greta Garbo been more fascinating than in "Susan Lenox, Her Rise and Fall," adapted from David Graham Phillips' famous novel of that name. The dramatic regeneration theme is ideally suited to Garbo's talents, and she accomplishes the characterization with distinction.

Clark Gable, popular young leading man, heads a splendid supporting cast including Nell Hamilton, Jean Herscholtz, John Mijan and Ian Keith.

The settings present a wide latitude in situations, locations and emotions. The story opens on a Minnesota farm; moves on to New York via carnival side shows and circus trains. From this point the action is carried to San Francisco, then to the island of Java, where the climax takes place.

"Susan Lenox" comes to the Fox Granada Sunday and Monday, Nov. 1 and 2.

ELECTED BY A MILLION LAUGHS!

Vote-getting and the machinations of political cliques are used to obtain hilarious laughs in Marie Dressler's first picture as a full-fledged star of the screen. This is "Politics," which will be shown Sunday and Monday, Nov. 1 and 2, at the Fox California Theatre. Marie is seen as a feminine candidate for mayor in a small town, with the energetic Polly Moran as her campaign manager. They romp through a series of comical episodes, and amid these, through some dramatic thrills, too, which permits Miss Dressler to display some of the character and dramatic work that won her plaudits in "Anna Christie" and "Min and Bill" along with the straight comedy element. "Cast a vote for comedy and laughs."

A PROGRAMME OF DISTINCTION!

Maybe you won't agree with us, but just the same we feel that there are many outstanding points to this fine theatre house organ turned out by Johnny Rantz, manager of the Fox Granada Theatre in Ontario, Cal.

The important slant is the way he lists his program of attractions for the two week period. Set in clear-face, easily read type, what he wants to stand out, stands out. His reader items about the coming attractions are well handled and regardless of whether they are originals or clipped from the press book, they answer his purpose because they are not slapped in like so much filler. Each reader definitely ties in the play-dates of the particular attraction, making its value count for more than just reader-interest.

The front cover, not shown here, carried a mast head for both the Granada as well as the California Theatre, also under Rantz's management. Two outstanding pictures are plugged on the cover with half page cuts.

The rear page was devoted exclusively to the program of the California Theatre, also under Rantz's management.

THEATRE POSTER ART!

Drawn by Benton L. James

Great! Fine! Keep it up! Real helpful service! That's the reaction from the field on this interesting series of poster art. And even better is the news that several other theatre artists are going to help Benton James in furnishing material for the series.

In this fine poster, James makes the following suggestions as to color scheme and method of treatment: The hat to be done in grays; head, in greens; shading for head, dark yellow; upper background, cream; lower background, yellow orange; lettering—star—black with cream outline; title—blue with orange outline.

If you have your own poster artist, let him project this illustration through his balioptican and trace it to whatever size your frames take and then work out the colors as suggested above. If your art work is done by an outside shop, turn it over to them with the same instructions.

Many theatres have gone in for this sort of work themselves. They purchase an inexpensive projector and break in an usher or some other one of the hired help with a yen for art work; when traced and colors painted in, you can then turn it over to your local sign shop for the necessary lettering. Remember, you can use text matter to please yourself and your own requirements. That part is optional and entirely up to you.

We want to take this means of thanking Benton James for contributing these posters and to assure him that they are being received with a hearty welcome by many managers and artists all over the country. As soon as the other artists start sending in their posters for the series we will be able to give a wider selection and of various types of work. So far the "high light" art work (as this is best known) has been found most attractive for theatre use.

"ALL FOR ONE AND ONE FOR ALL!"

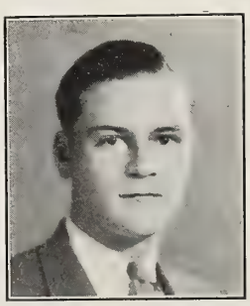
Nick Karl Tied Up With Newspaper To Run Off A Special

For a stunt on "Five Star Final" Nick Karl, manager of the Rialto Theatre, Cuero, Texas, arranged with the local newspaper to run off a special edition of 500 copies of a daily issue for distribution at important street intersections. The special run was handled by yanking out the regular two-column lead story and inserting one covering the theme of the picture, with head in red ink. Five red stars and title of picture were run across the top portion of the page in large type, also in red.

Boys engaged for the occasion stood on the corners yelling "extra" and that they had a final edition. However, they were warned in advance not to take any money from people who stopped to make inquiry as to what the excitement was all about.

As Karl states, there's nothing original in tying up with a newspaper for an imprinted copy of a paper when plugging a picture with a newspaper theme. On the other hand, he argues that this stunt cost him but a trifle more than some herald would have cost, similarly gotten-up. And there's no doubt but that his special edition commanded a greater amount of attention. That this was so is seen in an inquiry made the newspaper by a merchant, who asked what it would charge to pull the same stunt for him. Now that Nick has broken the ice with his first contribution to this department, we'll be on the lookout for others from the same source.

Schaeffer Promoted Big Merchandising Campaign In Jersey



One of the outstanding exploitation stunts recently devised in the Metropolitan district is that which was put through at the Oritani Theatre, in Hackensack, N. J. It was heralded as "A Progressive Merchants' Live and Buy in Hackensack" campaign and was planned by David Schaeffer, promotion man for the Warner theatre chain in the New Jersey zone.

The stunt was one that entailed a great amount of preliminary work and could only be carried out through the co-operation of many merchants. For the purposes of his campaign Schaeffer secured $2,500 worth of merchandise, all of which was given away at the Oritani to the patrons of the house. Distribution was made at each evening showing and on each Saturday afternoon during a period of two weeks. Among the articles given to the lucky ones in the audiences was a Shetland pony and a set of harness; a washing machine, a $150 fur coat and an ironing machine. There was also a large assortment of furniture. Most of the things to be given away are articles that will appeal to people with homes of their own.

Owing to the value of the different articles this stunt attracted a lot of attention and as a result the Oritani did a fine business for the entire two weeks. Both Schaeffer and Manager Charles Mann are to be congratulated for their efficient handling of the campaign and the Club would like to know more about what these two showmen are doing.

ROUND TABLE BIOGRAPHIES

Out of school and out looking for a job, Elmer W. Hecht strayed into the Capitol Theatre in Miami, Fla., and sold the management on the idea that he would make a darn good doorman. He got the job, later on being promoted to the post of chief usher.

Elmer Hecht

He kept on up the line until he was transferred to the Capitol Theatre in Mobile, Ala., in the capacity of assistant manager of this Wolfson-Meyer house, and in August, 1928, he joined the Publix-Saenger organization as assistant manager of the Lyric Theatre in Mobile. In January, 1929, he was made manager of the Empire Theatre in the same city, also a Publix-Saenger house, and remained in this post until January, 1930. He then made arrangements to attend the Seventh Session of the Publix Managers' Training School in New York City, from which he graduated to his present assignment as manager of the Isis Theatre in Pensacola, Fla.

Hecht was born in Overland, Mo., on November 21, 1909 and educated in schools of Overland and Miami. That makes him about 22 years old at this writing and he's been in show business for five years. From all accounts he's in the game for keeps.

P·E·R·S·O·N·A·L·I·T·I·E·S

SHOWMEN NEWSETTES FROM EVERYWHERE

CHARLES A. HAYMAN, director of the Lafayette Theatre, Buffalo, N. Y., has been celebrating First Anniversary of this house under its reduced price policy and has incidentally been creating quite a furor with a series of outspoken ads listed as Fact No. I, etc. Manager George Mackenna is again back on the job here after several days' illness.

* * *

NICK BASIL is the new manager of the Hollywood Theatre, Buffalo, N. Y., a house operated by the Basil Brothers.

* * *

PAUL WYKOFF, formerly manager of Loew's 105th Street Theatre, a suburban house in Cleveland, Ohio, is now in charge of the Princess and Dixie Theatres in Mayfield, Ky.

* * *

F. M. KENDALL, formerly a Warner man in Mayfield, Ky., is now at the helm of the Empress Theatre at Owensboro, Ky., succeeding R. P. Thomas who resigned to enter the advertising business.

* * *

J. C. SHANNON is the new owner of the Maxon Theatre in Portageville, Mo.

* * *

W. M. LIGHT has taken over operation of the Opera House in Chester, Ill. J. W. Schuckert was the former owner.

* * *

J. E. WHITTEN has acquired the Palace Theatre, Mound City, Ill., from the Egyptian Theatre Co.

* * *

M. A. SANOWSKY has purchased the Waverly Theatre, East St. Louis, from G. R. Jackson.

* * *

KAIMAN BROTHERS have increased their theatre holdings in North St. Louis through acquisition of the Excello Theatre.

* * *

FRANK DURKEE, well known circuit theatre executive of Baltimore, Md., has been elected president of a local political organization. His company operates about fifteen theatres.

* * *

GEORGE HANSCOMBE has been appointed manager of the new Arcadia Theatre in Springfield, Ill. This new house belongs to Samuel and Nathan Goldstein and heralds their come-back to show business, they having sold their former holdings in the city to Publix about one year ago.

* * *

MARTY SCHWARTZ, recently appointed managing director of Warners new Western Theatre in Los Angeles, Calif., is expected to pay the New York office a visit in the near future.

* * *

R. S. CAMPBELL has leased the Nomar Theatre in Wichita, Kan. His nephew Horace will do the managing.

* * *

ARTHUR CATLIN is in charge of Loew's Stillman Theatre, Cleveland. This house was recently reopened.

* * *

LINWOOD CURTIS has been appointed manager of the Strand Theatre, Taunton, Mass. He succeeds Al McAvoy who has been transferred to the Attleboro Theatre.

* * *

H. B. RAM has leased the Aiken Opera House, Aiken, S. C. Ram is a former Buffalo, N. Y. man.

* * *

HAROLD DEAN is the new manager of RKO Proctor Theatre, Albany, N. Y. He was the former assistant manager.

TED NICHOLS has hooked up with the Publix-Skouras advertising department in Indianapolis, Ind.

* * *

HARVEY KELLY, assistant manager of the Grand Theatre, Minneapolis, Minn., ran into difficulties recently when he tried to keep order among some disorderly patrons and as a result has been recovering from injuries received during the fracas. He did manage, however, to effect the arrest of one of the thugs.

* * *

HARLEY FREYER recently announced the reopening of the Royal Theatre, Atchison, Kan.

* * *

C. A. NOVAK and his business associate, C. W. Goodell, have leased the Auditorium Theatre, Williamsburg, Kan.

* * *

WILLIAM H. RUDOLPH, formerly of New York, has been appointed resident manager of the newly decorated U. A. Pantages Theatre, Minneapolis, Minn. Harry Buckley, V. P. and G. M. of the company, was on hand for the reopening.

* * *

ART BRUNE has purchased the Star Theatre in Bloomfield, Neb. He and Mrs. Brune have "moved in."

* * *

E. W. PETERSEN has replaced Elliott Bogert as manager of the Neptune Theatre, Seattle, Wash. Elliott has been transferred to Los Angeles.

* * *

W. M. McDONALD, supervising director of the new theatre in Astoria, Ore., has named the house "Viking," as the result of a contest held to supply a name.

* * *

HARRY HUFFMAN has taken over the Rialto Theatre in Denver, Colo. He operates the Aladdin, Tabor and several other houses in the city. The Rialto was formerly a Publix house. It is reported that Publix will seek to establish another theatre in its place.

* * *

JOE MILNER, operator of the State Theatre in Spring Valley, Minn., has purchased the motion picture theatre in Greene, Iowa.

* * *

E. A. OLSON is now in active charge of the Fox Theatre in Idaho Falls, Idaho. It will be recalled that he succeeded C. P. Scates, who won a promotion to management of the two Fox theatres in Pocatello.

* * *

WILL STEEGE, Montana manager for Fox-West Coast Theatres, recently visited Great Falls, Mont., for an inspection of the nearly-completed Fox Theatre.

* * *

FRANK SHOMO has taken over the lease of the Victoria Theatre in Parsons, West Va., from H. L. Bennett.

Items for publication on this page should be addressed to "Chick" Lewis and will be published the week following receipt. Notices of promotions, transfers, change of addresses, and other material of this nature is what we want for our "Personalities" page. The more you send the more interesting will be the page each week.

W. L. AINSWORTH, who operates the Garrick Theatre in Fond du Lac, Wis., is president of a company constructing a new theatre in Shawano, Wis.

* * *

EDWARD BECK is handling publicity for Paramount Theatre, Birmingham, Ala., in place of William Coury, who has been transferred to the management of a Publix house in Knoxville, Tenn.

* * *

EARL CRABB, formerly Northwest division manager of the H-F Circuit, has been transferred to the northern California territory. Fred Mercy replaces Crabb in the N.W. Charlie Koerner, who had the California post, will be located in Texas.

* * *

SAMUEL COFFIN is the new manager of the Saenger Theatre in Pine Bluff, Ark., replacing Oscar Miller. The latter will engage in exploitation work for RKO in Dallas territory.

* * *

M. CARTER has been made manager of the Spreckles Theatre in San Diego, Calif., replacing Roy Reid.

* * *

WALTER CANNING, general manager of the Yamins Circuit, has appointed P. J. O'Brien manager of the Durfee Theatre, Fall River, Mass.

* * *

JOHN DUNIIGAN is in charge of the reopened Greenwich Theatre, East Greenwich, R. I.

* * *

FRANK L. KLEAVER is acting as assistant manager of the Regent Theatre, Grand Rapids, Mich., replacing Bob Cook who has been transferred to an RKO theatre in Springfield, Ill.

* * *

GEORGE REILLY, until recently manager of the Warner Beverley Theatre in Hollywood, Calif., has been placed in charge of the Hollywood, same city. Frank Newman has taken Reilly's former job.

* * *

JACK WILLIAMS has been made manager of the Ridgeway Theatre, Pittsburgh, Pa.

* * *

C. A. FLINCH is the new manager of the Brookville Theatre, Pittsburgh, Pa. He was formerly in charge of the Ridgeway.

* * *

C. F. JOHNSON has returned to the theatre field and has reopened the Flagler Theatre, Miami, Fla.

* * *

C. J. ROSS is the new manager of the New Majestic Theatre, a house recently opened in Melbane, N. C.

* * *

JOHN REISMAN has traded managerial posts with Dave Wells in Minneapolis, Minn. Reisman is now in charge of the Astor and Wells is at the Grand, both Publix theatres.

* * *

E. B. DANIELSON, owner of the Mainstreet Theatre, Russell, Kan., is recuperating from a recent illness.

* * *

JOE CRANE, stage manager of Fox Theatres in Wichita, Kan., would a hunting go and as the result the local boys have been treated to a venison dinner.

* * *

M. W. MATTECHECK has reopened the Rainbow Theatre in McMinnville, Ore.

* * *

FLOYD FITZSIMMONS, of Publix home-office advertising and publicity department, is in Charlottesville, Va., handling the opening of the New Paramount Theatre there, scheduled for November 25th.

MEET GUY JONES THE CARTOONIST!

He's only been contributing his series "Keeping Up With the Times" for a short period, yet, he's getting himself a grand rep, not only for his ability as a cartoonist, but because of the timeliness of each subject.

Somehow, if you sit back and review the pasts of those who mounted to the top of the ladder in showbusiness, you'll also find that they gave everything that they could for the business. Sort of a helping hand idea, but they never really know how much it is appreciated until they have reached the top, then it all comes back and they are tickled pink that they were able to be of assistance in any way.

Guy Jones possesses that same spirit. In between his many other duties, yet at no neglect of his regular job, he turns out the fine series now being featured along with Dick Kirschbaum's cartoons.

We know the future "Keeping Up With Times" contributions will improve as rapidly as Guy gets to know just what the boys like best. Give 'em laughs, Guy, and they'll eat them up.

By the way, Jones is artist, exploitation man and general assistant for T. F. Ware of the Princess Theatre in Cleveland, Tenn.

Doughnut Deal Was Profitable Tie-Up For T. W. Thompson

As a result of this doughnut business which has been putting "Palmy Days" on many parts of this country's map the past few weeks, it was only natural that T. W. Thompson, manager of the Sterling Theatre in Greeley, Colo., should decide to make a call on his local baking concern in an effort to get together on a campaign which would publicize both bakery products and the Cantor film. This is what hapened:

100 slips good for one admission were inserted in doughnuts over a period of five days. These slips were placed in capsules and inserted in the doughnuts after they had cooled off. Copy on the slips of paper read, "Were you surprised? So was the doughnut! Through the courtesy of this bakery, this slip will admit you to see Eddie Cantor, who glorifies the American doughnut in 'Palmy Days,' playing at the Sterling Oct. 4-5-6-7." Five bakery trucks carried 3x6 banners on the tie-up and reaction on this stunt was excellent.

The bakery further co-operated on a bread matinee. Each kiddie buying a 10-cent loaf of bread at this particular bakery was admitted free at the late Monday matinee. The bakery advertised the bread matinee and the newspaper featured a front page story on the stunt.

After the show, a doughnut eating contest was staged with fourteen boys entering the contest. Each boy had two doughnuts which were suspended from a wire across the stage on a string. The stunt is on the order of the old apple eating contest—with the doughnuts almost as hard to eat in this manner as the apples. The bakery also furnished prizes for winners in this eating contest.

Thompson gave a little different twist to his bakery tie-up with the doughnut eating contest and the guest ticket idea and we are obliged to him for sending this contribution along. Practically every campaign on this picture that comes to our attention has some baker slant to it; so if you haven't seen your baker yet, get in touch with him in advance of this picture.

INSERTS

PAPER HATS

TOYS
FAVORS
NOVELTIES
CHINA DOLLS
CELLULOID DOLLS
CARNIVAL GOODS
PRIZE PACKAGE GOODS

For further information write to Box 500
MANAGERS ROUND TABLE CLUB
1790 Broadway
New York, N. Y.

NOISE MAKERS

PREMIUMS

Wood Pinch-Hit For Quint With A Bally To Sell "Dirigible"

While Marshall E. Quint, manager of the Colonia Theatre in Belfast, Me., recently vacationed, his efficient and enterprising advertising man Herman D. Wood, was on the job with a ballyhoo for "Dirigible."

Wood has an excellent opportunity for feeling the public pulse and after noting the amount of interest awakened by making a tie-up with a used car dealer, he grabbed his camera and took some shots so that he might pass along a photo to other members of this Club. Note that the driver of the used truck is dressed as a clown, and that the picture and theatre got a great break in advertising on the promoted vehicle.

Continue the good work, Wood, and the next time you have an opportunity to use your camera on some other stunts, shoot in some points. And tell your boss that we'd be mighty glad to hear from him, too, whenever he can find the time to drop headquarters a line about his end of the business.

Now that a lot of important holidays are just around the corner both of you surely have made plans which will be of interest to your fellow showmen. Drop us a line about what you have in mind.

Martin Using Photo Gag With Very Good Results in Brooklyn

Desire among many patrons of a theatre to secure photographs of popular motion picture players is being capitalized on by J. Martin, manager of the 16th Street Theatre, Brooklyn, N. Y. A print of one we have before us discloses that he has apparently made a tie-up with a neighborhood photographer for a lobby display of star's photos, a notice on reverse side reading, "A Photographic likeness of this star can be had of yourself, cheaply at Blank's Studio." No further detail is presented by Martin, so we are at loss to go into the extent of the tie-up, except to state that the reprint of the star was excellently made.

PAGANS ON BROADWAY!

Above photo shows a stunt worked by Columbia Pictures to exploit "Pagan Lady" along New York City's main stem. A tie-up was made with Domino Sugar for the passing out of samples done up in special folder announcing opening of picture. Note expressions of blase pedestrians as the two show-girls wend their way through Times Square . . . one reading a letter, another with back turned, and still another utterly unconscious of anything going on. Tough spot, Broadway; but the girls worked hard and got the message over. This was one of several stunts used to build up nice returns for the local showing.

Avey's False Teeth Gag A Good One For Use With A Comedy

There have been gags whereby heads have been laughed off and instances of certain ballyhoos explaining how individuals had died from extraordinary hilarity when attending some comedy, but it remained for A. F. Avey, a member of F. D. Nance's Hall Industries Theatre down in Texas to gain publicity on the occasion of a set of false teeth that were laughed out.

Avey manages the Rialto Theatre in Kingsville, Texas, and on the second day of "Pardon Us" he placed a set of false teeth on a lobby bulletin. The teeth were fastened to a card which read, "Found—These Teeth Were Laughed Out During Last Night's Performance—Apparently Unnoticed by the Owner, Who Can Get His Property on Application to the Manager.

A reporter on a local paper found the yarn to his liking and as a result a single-column box appeared in a prominent spot in next day's issue. It was played up from a humorous angle, with mention given to Hall Theatres, the Rialto, the current attraction and Avey. The latter states: "Though it was a small stunt, it caused considerable talk and the following night's trade was increased through its use." He thinks it adaptable to other small towns and is therefore passing it along. Please accept the Club thanks, Avey.

Same Picture Short Distance Away Did Not Phaze Melincoff

Max Melincoff, manager of the Warner Theatre in Lawrence, Mass., was certainly on the job when playing "Spirit of Notre Dame." This same picture was also due to show in Lowell, a town eight miles away, so Max tied-up with a Lowell boy who had been a Notre Dame player, for a personal appearance in Lawrence. And a display ad in a Lowell newspaper called attention to the added attraction.

He has also been taking advantage of public interest in football games. During the time the above picture played this town, he had printed a lot of card programs listing teams engaged in a local gridiron battle. The other half of the program carried copy devoted to picture, theatre and playdates. Still another gag he used was a novelty throw-away in the form of a ticket for a football game. This was so cleverly gotten-up that it looked like the real thing. Maybe we can describe it by contrasting type. Reading downward on ticket the copy was: "The Greatest—FOOTBALL—Picture of All Time—At the Warner Theatre—LAWRENCE—The Spirit of —NOTRE DAME—with Lew Ayres, Frank Carideo." Each dash represents a line of type. The ticket was embossed in the usual style and if you will arrange the copy on such a background it will look like a real ticket. One end of the ticket was headed, "Line-Up Includes," and cast of picture followed in 8 pt. type.

Right on your toes, Max, with some good seasonable gags, we'd say, and we're passing them along to your brother showmen while they're still hot. However, before we sign off let us give this member a big hand for the marvelous break he got in his paper when he planted a story on the late Knute Rockne. Did the paper use it? And how! A whole page with a big two-line streamer head—a huge photo of the celebrated coach. It was a pipin!

BALLOONS

All sizes. All shapes. All colors. Send your specifications to this Dept. Prices include any imprint you desire. They make a wonderful flash when you cover your lobby with them. Limit your imprint to three lines. Don't use too many words.

For further information and samples write to Box 503

MANAGERS ROUND TABLE CLUB
1790 Broadway New York, N. Y.

Ed. Corcoran Broke Keith House Record With Cantor Picture

The "baker" angle prominently figured in a big campaign put over on "Palmy Days" by Ed. F. Corcoran, publicity manager of Keith's Theatre, Philadelphia, Pa., and as a result of his efforts this picture broke the house record on the first two days after opening, grossing a considerable sum over another picture playing this house about one year ago.

A big baking company furnished 10,000 doughnuts for distribution from trucks on the principal downtown thoroughfares and outlying sections of the city on day of opening, each one wrapped in a glassine envelope bearing imprint of playdate. Four attractive young showgirls, dressed in "baker boy" costumes patterned after those worn by ensemble in the picture, passed them out and created a mild sensation at the City Hall when they called at the Mayor's office.

The baking concern also imprinted 50,000 bands which were wrapped around cake and doughnuts packages and distributed through regular delivery service on opening day of picture. The company's vast number of dealers also carried window snipes and the A. & P. stores were also tied in for window displays.

Another large baking company was tie-up for a parade of 200 of its trucks through all principal streets of the city. This took place four days after opening and each truck bore posters of the picture. This company also manufactured 25,000 miniature loaves of bread for the occasion and distributed these during the parade from an open truck.

Other tie-ups which were also of valuable assistance included 100 window displays with Underwood Typewriter Company and distribution of 5,000 special Cantor booklets along with this tie-up; special radio broadcast during "Movie Chat" part of program, at no cost to house; distribution of 250,000 folders in trolleys and taxicabs; a tie-up with the Happiness candy stores for display of stills; and special display of stills in a number of other important retail stores. All this, of course, in addition to a well worked-out newspaper campaign.

The photos reproduced here show how the front of the house was dressed when playing "Street Scene" and a shot of one of the promoted trucks paying a visit to the U. A. exchange on Vine street, a sample of the way "Palmy Days" was ballyhooed all over Philadelphia. This was some campaign put on by Corcoran and we can well believe that the whole town knew that this picture was around. While this was all done on a very large scale, the general scheme can be applied to smaller towns and for this reason Ed is passing the information along for the benefit of other Club members.

Notice to Members:
PLEASE be sure to notify the Chairman of any change of address.
—THANK YOU.

It's Your Own Fault If You're Lonesome!

M. O. LEWIS has charge of the Grand Theatre at Alton, Ill., and he's another Publix man to join this showman's Club. Welcome to the Round Table, Lewis, and may your membership result in the sending in of many a good tip-off on stunts that we can pass along to your host of brother managers. This organization has a strong following out your way and the addition of your name makes it still stronger. Let's hear from you soon.

———Wear Your Club Pin! ! !———

MURLAND W. MUEY runs the Pastime Theatre out in Richmond, Ind., and he not only manages this house but owns it. Now that you are a member of this Club, Muey, come across with some information on what's going on in show business in your community. Get that habit of swapping show stunts with your fellow showmen. We know that this will pay in the long run.

———Wear Your Club Pin! ! !———

WILLIAM H. KOCH manages the Tiffin Theatre in Chicago, Ill. His house is one of the Lynch Theatre Circuit and seats around 2,000. He's another new Round Tabler and we are glad to introduce him to the rest of the boys. Bill, there ought to be plenty of action out your way. Why not tell others about some of those live-wire stunts you are pulling to sell your shows?

———Wear Your Club Pin! ! !———

ALBERT CRITCHLOW has charge of the Temple Theatre, Alton, Ill. With this new member's name added to our list we now have two representatives in Alton and as far as we can see show-business ought to be pretty well covered at this point on the map. We refer to Manager Lewis, Al, of the Grand. So we say to both of you, get busy and shoot along some ideas that other Round Tablers can use to good advantage.

Here's the Blank

Application For Membership In

"MANAGERS' ROUND TABLE CLUB"

Hey, "Chick":

Please enroll me in the Club and send me my framed certificate.

Name .....

Position .....

Theatre .....

Address .....

City .....

State .....

(Mail to Managers' Round Table Club, 1790 Broadway, New York)

JOHN C. FANNING manages the Capitol down in the well known town of Brownsville, Texas. He is one of the many Publix managers belonging to this organization and now that he is enrolled he will have an excellent opportunity to let all the rest of the boys on his circuit know what's going on in the show line in Brownsville. Start the old ball rolling, John, by telling us what you have done so far this season.

———Wear Your Club Pin! ! !———

RUDOLPH A. STIEHLER is located in Evansville, Ill., where he manages the Royal Theatre. He, too, is now listed as a member of this outfit and it will not be long before we'll be getting a slant on what he is doing for this industry. Incidentally, he is another independent theatre man to join the ranks of the greatest Club of showmen in the world.

———Wear Your Club Pin! ! !———

DALE LOOMIS is at the helm of the Roxy Theatre in Peru, Indiana, and the Club welcome is also extended to this new Round Tabler. We note that his house bears the same name as its big brother in New York City and this ought to mean something. So get busy, Dale, and let us all know how show conditions are out your way, and what you are doing to boost box office receipts. Send in some show-tips and we'll see that these are passed along to others.

———Wear Your Club Pin! ! !———

SAM B. SOIBLE has charge of the well known McVicker's Theatre in Chicago, Ill., and he, too, is now a member of this showman's organization. We're glad to introduce you to the rest of the gang, Sam, and hope you will do your part to keep the old ball rolling along. Send along some show-tips that we can broadcast to your fellow showmen.

———Wear Your Club Pin! ! !———

W. H. CLARK is at the helm of the Waipahu Theatre, Waipahu, Oahu, Honolulu, T. H., which, when translated, means that he's following show-business in the most populous Hawaiian island. His house is one of a circuit belonging to the Consolidated Amusement Company, is equipped for sound pictures and most up-to-date in every respect. He is also wearing a Club pin at this writing and we are going to expect some interesting yarns on how shows are put over in his adopted country.

———Wear Your Club Pin! ! !———

W. D. BROWN won his present position as manager of the State Theatre, Ukiah, Calif., through step by step promotion from the ranks. His house is devoted to straight picture policy and is a link in the Hughes-Franklin circuit. Shake hands with rest of this big organization, Brown, and send along some evidence that you intend to become an active Round Tabler.

———Wear Your Club Pin! ! !———

FRED M. ELKINS promises to become a valuable contributor to this department. We have just received his membership application and a note stating that he has been appointed manager of the Carolina and Young's Theatres in Lexington, North Carolina. He has had twenty years experience in this business in different parts of this country, as operator, manager and poster artist and that ought to mean that we are all going to benefit through his affiliation. Shoot along your ideas, Fred, just as soon as you get set at your new stand.

EDWARD LAWRENCE sells shows out in New Market, Iowa, where he has charge of the Community Theatre. His is an independently operated house and 'though small is up-to-date in every respect. We are glad to extend the Club welcome to this new member and hope he will become a regular contributor to this department.

———Wear Your Club Pin! ! !———

E. A. RHOADES, familiarly known out his way as "Dusty," is the manager of the New Grand Theatre in Story City, Iowa, and he, too, is another new member of this fast growing outfit of showmen. His house is another independent to come into our fold and we shall also look forward to further information on show-business from his town. Take a little time off now and then, "Dusty," and let the Club know what's doing.

———Wear Your Club Pin! ! !———

ASHTON RUDD is located down in Frank Boucher's district and manages the Liberty Theatre in Bedford, Virginia. As we list his name among the new members of this organization the thought occurs that this Club must rate at least 100 percent registration in the Boucher zone. A great portion of this honor must go to this well known district manager, whose untiring efforts have done a whole lot to keep this department well represented wherever he may be located.

———Wear Your Club Pin! ! !———

RALPH T. FISHER is the owner-manager of the Maumee Theatre out in Fort Wayne, Ind., and we are mighty glad to list his name as another new member of the Club. He's also an independent theatre-owner and just as soon as he can find the time, we may expect to hear how this Round Tabler is putting over shows for his house. Nobody to stop you, Ralph, in this respect but yourself, so do your bit.

———Wear Your Club Pin! ! !———

HAROLD DORNHECKER was a doorman at Warner's Palace Theatre in Canton, Ohio, only a few months ago and he is now assistant manager of the Alhambra Theatre, same city. We have his application for membership at hand, sponsored by his manager, W. V. Dworski, and are glad to include his name on the roster of this organization. He's only twenty years old and has a good start up the ladder. Let the Club know what you are doing, Harold, to help sell shows at the Alhambra.

———Wear Your Club Pin! ! !———

JEAN TREJET is the assistant manager of the Fortway Theatre in the Fort Hamilton section of Brooklyn, N. Y., where Paul Binstock holds forth as manager. With the able coaching that Binstock is capable of giving, it certainly will not be very long before Trejet will be stepping out for himself. We will look forward to hearing further from both of these Round Tablers.

———Wear Your Club Pin! ! !———

J. S. HOWARD manages the Imperial Theatre down in Greensboro, North Carolina, which, at this season of the year is a darn good place to be. We are also happy to introduce this new member to other Round Tablers and will look forward to hearing what he's doing for the show-world in his home town. Limber up that writing arm, J. S., and shoot along some ideas.

MUSIC AND TALENT

PUBLIX BOOSTS MUSIC STANDARD OVER CIRCUIT AND ADDS PLAYERS

New Stage Policy Adopted at Roxy

Beginning this week, special Roxy theatre singing groups and an augmented list of soloists will take the place of the famous Singing Ensemble, who until now have been called upon to do all classes of choral singing each week. It was felt that the system of having this one group participate in all group singing could not produce the same results that a more specialized one could deliver.

With the change will be effected an increase in size of the ballet corps, featuring ballet dancing more than heretofore.

Vaudeville Plan Seen Successful

Numerous Kansas City and neighboring exhibitors, working on the policy of "giving more for the money," are reported to be quite successful with the addition of vaudeville to the film program.

The Fox Miller in Wichita has added vaudeville three days each week and reorganized its orchestra, and although the "nut" is increased, indications are that the plan will meet with success. Admission prices have not been raised. The Paramount in Joplin, Mo., Publix-Dubinsky house, has started vaudeville on Sunday at the regular 10 and 25 cent admission. Kansas City suburbans have recently been showing one or two acts of vaudeville once or twice a week, apparently with fair success.

Willard Patterson To Handle Warner Circuit Stage Shows

Willard C. Patterson, prominent in the southern exhibition field, has been placed in charge of the de luxe stage programs and vaudeville shows in Warners theatres, by Dan Michaelove, circuit head.

Patterson will assist local managers in the selection of talent and will supervise the staging of presentations. He will also be closely associated with bookings for the circuit nationally.

Wright Named Club Musician

Floyd Wright, organist at the Fox-California theatre, Berkeley, Cal., has been made pianist of the local Kiwanis Club, following the annual election.

DICK BETTS

Here is a good likeness of a young fellow who has a habit of making good in every house in which he is featured at the organ. At present he is at the Capitol theatre, Binghamton, New York, where he was employed as an added attraction. His success was so spontaneous that he has been held over week after week. He not only is being featured at the console but the management has also arranged a tie-up with a local radio station from which he broadcasts each day. Betts was born 26 years ago in Batavia, N. Y., and has been playing organ for the last ten years at the following theatres: Century, Buffalo; Strand, Niagara Falls; Loew's Rochester, Rochester; State, Schenectady; Roger-Sherman, New Haven, and the Palace, Stamford, Conn. He has worked for the Sheas, Comerford, Loew, Warner Brothers and Publix circuits, and has made good in all of them.

Morros Suffers Relapse

Boris Morros, chief of music for Paramount Publix, suffered a relapse when, against orders of his physician, he attended Bing Crosby's opening performance at the New York Paramount. Morros was injured last Wednesday when the taxicab in which he was riding struck an "L" pillar.

Theatre Granted Tax Rebate

The Olympia Theatres, Inc., Boston firm, and its subsidiaries, have been granted a tax rebate of $11,508 for overassessment on its 1923 income.

Edward Paul Makes Shifts As Morros' Agent

Four-Act Vaudeville With Production Overture Is New Policy at Pottsville and Hazelton, Pa.

By ED DAWSON

Publix has undertaken a policy of building up the music organizations in theatres of the circuit outside New York. Orchestras and organists have been added in several situations. In others the standard of the music offerings is being elevated by substituting leaders and members of orchestras of higher caliber. The same improvement has been undertaken in the organ departments of theatres where a change has been considered advisable.

This movement is having the net result of bettering the standard of music given the public, focusing greater attention of the patrons upon the music programs, and giving a break to the musicians themselves.

Boris Morros, head of the music department of Paramount Publix, has appointed Edward Paul, in charge of music activities at the New York Paramount theatre and the Brooklyn Paramount, as his personal representative in the field, to make such alterations as he considers advisable. As this is being written, Paul is in the Pennsylvania district making personal observations and instituting improvements at the Publix houses in Scranton, Wilkes-Barre, Pottsville and Hazelton.

At the Scranton and Wilkes-Barre theatres his activities are in the direction of recasting musician personnel where necessary. At Pottsville and Hazelton, however, the public is being given entertainment it never has had before. Four-act vaudeville together with a production overture is the new policy adopted for the theatres in both cities. There is also a possibility that organists will be added at houses in Wilkes-Barre, Pottsville and Hazelton. Scranton already has this service, with Betty Hammond at the Rialto.

Changes and additions in other cities of the circuit are expected to be the next result of the new Publix policy.

Vaudeville Back at RKO House

Vaudeville has returned to the RKO Majestic, San Antonio, as a result of the settlement of differences between local stage hands and theatre executives. Operators and musicians remain unaffected.

SLICES OF MELLIN

By BOBBY MELLIN
CHICAGO

Eddie Hansen, organist, has just been appointed program manager of radio station WCFL. Eddie is a very capable person and should go a long way in putting this station over. Lots of luck, Eddie. . . . Al Goering, pianist and arranger with Ben Bernie's orchestra, recently composed a beautiful song entitled "One of Us Was Wrong," which is being used by Ben as his theme during radio broadcasts. The lyrics of this song were written by Gus Kahn, America's foremost lyric writer. It is being published by DeSylva, Brown & Henderson, and, according to Joey Stool, Chicago manager, will be one of the outstanding songs of the year. Al is a great musician and a fine fellow, and the writer of this column sincerely hopes that the song will go over with a big bang. . . . Harry Fink has been appointed manager of the Chicago office of Southern Music Company.

▼

With every one complaining about general conditions, there seems to be one orchestra leader who is not doing so bad in the person of George Devron, who opened at the Opera Club only last week. George plays at the Blackstone Hotel for afternoon tea dances, the Stevens Hotel for dinner and the Opera Club for the after-theatre crowds.

▼

Insurance man, amateur boxer and trap drummer are the stages through which Bernie Cummins, orchestra leader at the Congress hotel and heard over KYW, passed before he finally reached the pinnacle of his ambition—his present occupation as dance band batoneer.

Cummins, born in Akron, Ohio, learned to play the piano, violin and drums while in high school. After graduation his dad gave him a job selling insurance, but he preferred music, and when he had the opportunity of supplying the syncopation for a small inn near Cincinnati, he grabbed it and organized a band. Since then he has made fame at the Club Madrid, Philadelphia, the Biltmore hotel, New York, and last year in a record-breaking long engagement at the Hotel New Yorker. Cummins estimates that he knows by sight at least 25,000 people.

Eddie Cantor's dunking campaign is gaining headway, he says. The comedian urges his audience to drive away gloomy thoughts by dunking. "Show me a dunker, and I'll show you a happy man," Cantor declares. "Dunking is no new custom. It dates back to Pharaoh's daughter. Remember she dunked Moses twice in the river Nile, and see how he turned out."

STAGE SHOWS

New York Paradise

Week Ending November 12

"Tiny Town Revue," currently playing this house, was produced by Arthur Knorr, under Mr. Louis K. Sidney's personal supervision, and proved to be an entertaining and novel show. Twelve Chester Hale Girls, beautifully gowned, open the show with a curtain song and dance which served as an introduction. Red Donahue, blackface comedian, using a stooge, dressed as a policeman, and a very well-trained mule presented a routine of laughable comedy, starting the show off well and gaining themselves a good reception.

George Lyons plays popular numbers on a harp, gaining the goodwill of the audience with his fine playing, and then accompanies the Hale girls as they do a neat high-kick dance routine.

Buster Shaver, master of ceremonies of his own aggregation of midgets, first presents each of them and then plays the piano for them as they go through their singing and dancing. His outfit is composed of three boys and three girls, the girls being as beautiful and cute as Dresden China dolls. During a change of costume Shaver tells each of their histories and then does a song and dance with one of the girls. Shaver's normal size accentuates his performers' diminutiveness.

Their next bit is a most interesting sketch in which they impersonate "Skippy," "Sooky" and the rest of the gang. This was their outstanding bit and it received a great reception. The show closed with a full stage scene, in which little Olive, the prima donna and the smallest of the troupe, sang "Mama Inez" and led the Chester Hale Girls and her troupe in a routine reminiscent of the Rhumba.

Milwaukee Wisconsin

Week ending November 5

Fanchon & Marco's "Black and White" Idea opens with a ballet dance by the chorus, while a specialty dancer turns a number of neat tricks and a feminine member of the troupe sings a selection with piano accompaniment.

Clifton & Brent recite and dance in a silly but entertaining manner. They pull a number of stunts which make a hit with the audience and wind up their offering with one member playing the violin.

The chorus' next number finds five of them attired in black and white dresses, while the other five serve as their bustles. The chorus parade about with lorgnettes and are augmented by Dolly Kramer and Rose Glesby, who sing and dance entertainingly.

George Dewey Washington receives heavy applause and offers in his usual commendable style "Wrap Your Troubles in Dreams," "On the Road to Mandalay," "Old Man River" and "Chloe." Perhaps the fact that he will sing just so many songs and no more helps to make people want to hear more from him, but at any rate he is a heavy favorite in Milwaukee.

The last number of the chorus is a fadeout affair with the members in costumes the front of which are of brilliant material and the arms and back of black. They work against a black background and a darkened stage, producing engaging formations.

The finale finds the entire troupe on the stage, including Marie Le Flohic and Margaret Alice Head, doing their stuff in a brief moment before the curtain closes.

Warner House Goes Stock

The Warner in Oklahoma City opens November 9 on a policy of stock company stage plays exclusively, minus any motion pictures. Admission will be $1, 75 and 50 cents.

San Francisco Fox

Week ending November 10

The old saying that fine feathers make fine birds is brought to life in a delightful visual manner in Fanchon & Marco's stage offering, "Fine Feathers." The Sunkist Beauties blossom out as colorful birds of a wide variety and the whole show hinges on the bird motif.

The act opens with stage partly concealed by a filmy screen on which are shown colored pictures of birds in their native haunts, while a singer in the background offers an operatic gem. The stage is lighted gradually and the Sunkist Beauties are revealed on stairs at the rear. They are attired in costumes of brilliantly colored feathers, and a bird headdress, and offer a stately dance.

Edna Covey, Ziegfeld Follies star, burlesque the classical dance in a manner that calls for an encore. Her falls and awkward poses demand real art.

Some of the Sunkist Beauties appear bearing richly decorated frames, which they manipulate to form gates and enclosures, through which others in feathered dress pass in drill formations. A barricade is formed imprisoning Emily, who is stolen by the bad man, Romaine. They offer an adagio marked by unusually clever balancing and this ends by the girl being thrown back into the living enclosure.

The Novelle Brothers, who prove the real hit of the show, do some lively comedy tumbling, playing on violins all the time, and keeping up a steady patter. One finally dresses as a female bird and does a novel whistling turn. The other, dressed as a male bird, answers the call and the two make love in a whistling duet. It is a comedy turn that catches the popular fancy.

A change of scene reveals the Sunkist Beauties attired as parrots, clinging to ladders suspended from the flies. They dance and then bring the ladders to the stage floor and mount them, going through drills and fancy evolutions. The act ends with a whirlwind performance by Arthur La Fleur, who climbs into the flies and does a dizzy whirl, holding on only by his teeth, while the girls maneuver on ladders below.

Hauser Presents Picked Band

Ernest Hauser, musical conductor-composer and violinist, recently presented a concert at the San Pedro Playhouse with a picked band of San Antonio's most skilled musicians. Local critics and music lovers proclaimed this as a "marvelous melody organization." All needed now to make this complete is the stageshows, they agreed.

LEO WEBER
AT THE CONSOLE

R K O
KEITH THEATRE
BOSTON, MASS.
"Presenting a Discriminating Audience with Entertaining Organ Novelties"

STAGE SHOWS

Baltimore Hippodrome

Week ending November 13

The six acts of vaudeville opened with an overture by the orchestra directed by Benjamin Klasmer. The first attraction was tumbling, and high somersault work on spring boards by the Picchianni Troupe, all men, a triple somersault into a chair on shoulders was the finish, and good applause followed. Next came Charles McNally and Company in "Streets of New York," a comedy sketch of a street cleaner, a policeman, boy and girl strollers—essentially a prohibition satire—with some fast tap dancing, acrobatic dancing by the girl and then the girl and boy together, with running applause and laughs. Then followed Morgan and Stone, banjoists, offering "Roll on Mississippi," "I Surrender, Dear," and a medley of operatic melodies with the orchestra joining at the end and then for an encore "Tiger Rag." Aileen Stanley then followed with a repertoire of songs including "Anywhere That You May Go, I'll Be There to Say Hello," "In Love With You It's Me," "Guilty of Dreaming of You," "I'm Taking a Chance on You," and "Just Like Jimmy and Me." She was accompanied by two pianists and in places by the orchestra. Shapiro and O'Malley came on, one playing straight and the other Jewish comedy stuff. Andre Duval and Company started with Hawaiian songs and hula dances and then switched to an artist's studio with the artist singing a tenor solo and then dreaming while three men and girl go into adagio work.

Spokane Fox

Week ending October 30

The glamour of old Spain and the ruthless rule of Russia under Cossacks and the czar form an antithesis that marked the new show as different from the usual run of programs. The Fanchon & Marco stage show, "La Plaza" Idea, has been equaled by few of those units shown here. It is vivid with color, alive with enthusiasm, and sparkles with glowing girls and dancing filled with verve and rhythm. The Gellis Brothers do some amazing acrobatics, aided by a little fellow. Jack Brancel won applause with his two balancing fox terriers. Lucinda and Ricardo, Spanish tango dancers; Skeeter and Ray, burlesque dancers; Nelly Fernandez, beautiful Spanish blonde, and a bevy of smiling senoritas were all good. The costumes are gorgeous, with flashing colors, and Merlin Nagler and his Fox theatre orchestra play with understanding the flashing music that accompanies the castanets and tambourines of the dancers.

RAY TURNER
Guest Organist at the new
PALACE THEATRE
ALBANY, NEW YORK
for
RKO

Philadelphia Fox

Week ending October 30

Fanchon & Marco staged a gorgeous presentation act entitled "Carmenesque," representing different phases of Spanish life.

Irene Bordoni, international stage, screen and radio star, appeared in person and captivated the audience. In her inimitable fashion she sang a parody to the tune of "My Souvenir," followed by "Why Dance," with pantomime and gestures that have made her famous, concluding with her impression of Maurice Chevalier in "Vanities." Miss Bordoni was charmingly attired in palest green with a single red rose at her waist. She is fortunate in having a very capable accompanist who plays with understanding and restraint.

"Carmenesque" was a lively and colorful stage show with several unique features and with the Sunkist Beauties capturing a large share of the honors. A novel feature was the announcing of the acts, in Spanish, by the Three Matadors, with the Three Madrinas interpreting in English. The act opened with a setting representing a gay fiesta in the Pyrenees as the peasants in their gay costumes danced to the stirring strains of "Carmen." The versatility of the Sunkist Beauties was especially noticeable. Balanced on large white spheres and waving red and yellow streamers, they guided the globes about the stage with their feet with amazing dexterity, forming different figures and lining up in drill formation—an extremely difficult feat.

The Matadors in black and white Buster Brown suits did a series of tap dances interspersed with clever comedy that kept the audience in an uproar.

Ray Saxe played various instruments, including a saxophone, two clarinets played simultaneously and a xylophone, followed by acrobatic stunts and juggling.

The Three Matadors and the Three Madrinas announced Rose Valyda, prima donna. A black back drop showed a Spanish senorita with what appeared to be a brilliant scarlet ruffled skirt. The ruffles soon became animated and proved to be formed by the Sunkist Beauties, each holding two large red ruffled silk fans which they waved rhythmically, forming various graceful figures. A girl at the top of the steps descended and gave a remarkable contortionistic dance. The girls formed an arched avenue of red fans as Rose Valyda, a striking brunette, advanced from the wings and sang in an exceedingly deep contralto that was almost a bass.

The comedy of the evening was provided by Melino and Davis, who burlesqued, danced and clowned.

The finale consisted of a bull ring with matadors represented by the Sunkist Beauties on stilts about six feet high. They gave an effective and difficult dance and drill.

Four of Roxy Staff Drafted To Help on Broadway Revues

Four men of the Roxy production staff have been drafted, simultaneously to assist in producing big Broadway revues.

They are Clark Robinson, production director, Russell Markert, James Morcom and Marco Montedoro. Robinson is to do the lighting on "The Laugh Parade," Markert will prepare the dances for "Here Goes the Bride," Marcom has designed the sets for "Nikki," and Montedoro is to prepare the costumes for one of Charles Wagner's early productions.

UP AND DOWN THE ALLEY

HELLO, EVERYBODY!

In a recent issue of this "pillar," I neglected to state the name of a song I had mentioned. . . . To correct my error and satisfy the wild rantings of "The Public Enemy, No. 1" (who is Nathan Feist, prince of good fellows) I hasten to mention the song's title, which is "Charlie Cadet." Let that be a lesson to you, Nat! . . . According to Nat., on account of the depression, the Marie Adams name is now "adam" . . . the "s" being dropped affords a great saving in ink and the "a" being lowercase on account of her being a smallish girl. . . .

* * *

After almost two years of silence, the organ at Warner Bros., Holywood, Hollywood, Cal., has burst into song again. Gaylord Carter, known to radio fans on the West Coast as "The Phantom of the Organ," has been engaged and is doing very nicely. . . . Chauncy Haines, originally a California organist, but who has sought and won laurels in the Middlewest (Chicago in particular) has at last returned to his starting point and is now playing at the U. A. Theatre, Los Angeles, suceeding Gaylord Carter. . . . Eddie Fitch, who for the past two years has been featured in nearly all of the picture houses in Australia, is now a visitor in Hollywood, and informs me that he intends coming East shortly. . . . Leo Weber, formerly of the Publix circuit, has hit his stride and is doing very well at the RKO Keith, Boston. His popularity and good work will soon gain him an important hookup on the air. . . . Ed Taylor is now the organist at the Alabama, Birmingham, with Harold "Dan" Daniels holding the featured spot at the Fox, Green Bay, and Frank Simpson the same at the Warner, Torrington, Conn. . . .

* * *

Charlie Davis, just back from a Paris vacation and chock full of new ideas, reopens at the Brooklyn Paramount as m.c. with the personalities of his old band intact. . . . .The band will be composed of boys from the regular orchestra together with Frankie Parrish, Fritz Morris, Harry (Dizzy) Wilaford and others.

ED. DAWSON

ARLO HULTS

ORGANIST
RKO 86th Street Theatre
NEW YORK CITY

ORGAN SOLOS

ARSENE SIEGEL (Detroit Fisher) with "Evolution of the Waltz," composed and written by Siegel, It gets away from the run-of-the-mine community song slides, and carries the listeners swiftly through different types of waltz numbers. The piece is really a rhapsody on the successful "Why Dance?" Weber's "Invitation to Waltz" is the first selection, played in Siegel's usual fine fingering. Then follow "Amoureuse Waltz," "Nights of Gladness" and "Visions of Salome." Each of these selections is introduced by slides, with changing colors on the curtains and screen providing a harmonious background. As a finish, Siegel plays a parody on "Why Dance?" with trumpet accompaniment on the last chorus. The organ presentation was well received.

PAUL J. MILLER (Gowanda Hollywood) presented a straight concert solo that pleased everyone. Opening with "Wrap Your Troubles in Dreams," played in strict slow tempo time, with a beautiful registration of strings and vox, counter-melodied with tibia, while accompaniment and pedal carried a steady rhythm, This was followed by "One Alone," from "The Desert Song," which he played in ballad style, using blue lighting effects on stage. He closed this fine solo with a special arrangement of "Let's Get Friendly," playing it as a novelty and using only the mutation stops in one chorus with single note melody with flute accompaniment, working it up to full orchestrated stomp for a grand climax. An entertaining solo, with very good applause.

TED MEYN (Jersey City Jersey). This popular organist presented one of the most novel and entertaining production solos of his career at this house. It was called "The Battle of the Ages," and carried as its theme the political battle between the two opponents for election of Governor. Songs were cleverly brought in, the audience singing such songs as "Sweet and Lovely," "Guilty," "Just One More Chance," "Love Letters in the Sand," and "Me," for the finale. For the "action" part of the solo, Meyn used two boys, whose actions and forms were silhouetted on a full stage screen, in sparring movements. Each represented one of the candidates and the volume of singing acted as a guide to their activities. Instead of showing the least partiality for either opponent, Meyn smartly closes the solo by knocking out both with the song "Me," as his own name overshadows the opponents. A peach of a solo and, judging from the applause, one thoroughly enjoyed.

EGON DOUGHERTY (Astoria Triboro) After an absence of three months, the audience is once again being treated to community-singing. It is a wonder to this reviewer how the management kept them in check all this time by not giving them their (apparently) favorite type of entertainment. They proved their appreciation of having Dougherty back and nearly tore down the house with applause when he made his first appearance, and applauded after each song. And sing! This audience seem to be made for an organist featuring singing.

ARLO HULTS (New York 86th) offered the "Wedding of Words and Music," as his current organ solo. This proved to be a clever little novelty, nicely presented and sure-fire entertainment for any audience. Hults opened with a special version explaining the solo, to "Baby's Birthday Party," interpolating Mendelssohn's "Wedding March." All of the audience joined in the singing of the balance of the program, which consisted of "What Is It?" "I Apologize," "Makin' Faces at the Man in the Moon," "Many Happy Returns," and closing with a special version of "Love Letters in the Sand," slides of which were made in the form of letters.

FLOYD WRIGHT (Berkeley California) offers as an organ solo "The Second Hungarian Rhapsody," by Franz Listz. This is presented as with no deviation from the original manuscript. The solo was given much publicity and is attracting many music lovers.

MARLIN (Brooklyn Metropolian) presented a straight singing organ solo which was introduced, orally, by him as "an opportunity for the audience to show their lung power." This they did, with the following songs: "Through With Love," "Roll On, You Mississippi," "Whistling In the Dark," "Love Letters In the Sand," "Can't Stop Me from Loving You," and "Million Dollar Baby." Between numbers, clever gags and special choruses were enjoyed by the audience. Good applause.

OVERTURES

EDWARD PAUL (Brooklyn Paramount) and Orchestra presented a production overture entitled "The Concert," which was one of the most ambitious offered at this house.

Overture opened with Mr. Paul conducting his orchestra of 20 musicians in the playing of Chopin's "Fantasy," after which the stage curtains parted disclosing a Watteau painting of a French Court scene in a huge frame covering nearly all the stage.

The figures take on life, first the violinist who plays the second movement of Mendelssohn's "Concerto," andante movement. Figures again fade into the singing by Miriam Lax, soprano, and chorus of Liszt's "Liebestraum." An orchestra beautifully play "Ronddo-Capriccioso," the David Bines Ballet offer a number before the painting. Harrison and Fisher, adagioists, perform an intricate dance as orchestra play "Waltz" of Chopin. For the finale, the entire ensemble sing "Liebestraum," accompanied by the orchestra. The reaction of the audience to this high class type of overture proved favorable and their applause for the able directing of Mr. Paul proved their appreciation.

FRED SCHMITT (Denver Denver) and his Dever Grand Orchestra, for their current overture, presented one that had a special appeal, with a teachers' convention in town and the football season at its height. They gave a "College Melodies" overture, starting with wellknown national college anthems and finishing with theme songs of state and local colleges. Round after round of applause greeted the orchestra as the names and colors of local schools were flashed on the curtain. Harry Wilson, popular local singer, pleased the audience with the singing of "Sweetheart of Sigma Chi" and the overture was brought to a close with part of the orchestra singing the song of Denver university, accompanied by the other musicians.

AL EVANS (New York Paradise) and His Melody Boys presented "The Melting Pot," an overture made up of songs familiar to locales from the Battery to the Bronx.

Announcements by Con Maffie, house organist, were made indistinct due to some fault of the P. A. system, but to an audience knowing their own city there was little lost by this. The overture itself was ably conducted by Evans and though the orchestra didn't seem to play it as well as when the same overture was caught recently in another house, the audience apparently enjoyed it immensely and their applause was very favorable. Al Evans came in for his own share of applause, after his fine singing of "Cuban Love Song."

LOU FROHMAN (Brooklyn Madison) and the RKOlians presented an overture of Oriental melodies entitled "Singapore Shadows," which was done as advance publicity for next week's feature attraction. The stunt was put over in such an entertaining and showmanly style that the audience were unaware that they were being treated to a dose of publicity. Opening with "Procession of Sardar," and modulating nicely into "Song of India," the orchestra then played "Persian March," "Orientale" from Cesar Cui and brought the overture to a grand climax with "Persian Market."

Frohman is a first-class musician himself and proves his capability by conducting his aggregation in a fine style.

"EDDIE" (Omaha Orpheum) and his RKOlians present the "William Tell" overture this week, and in it feature Francis McGlucken, local high school boy, who pleases with xylophone playing that comes close to professional standards. The music conductor and McGlucken both receive spontaneous response from their local friends.

ORGAN SOLO NOVELTIES
As Presented in Chicago's De-Luxe Theaters
NOW AVAILABLE AT LOW RENTAL RATES from the office of
JIMMIE SAVAGE
(Staff-writer for Publix-Balaban & Katz)
175 N. STATE STREET
CHICAGO

THE RELEASE CHART

Productions are listed according to the names of distributors in order that the exhibitor may have a short-cut toward such information as he may need, as well as information on pictures that are coming. Features which are finished or are in work, but to which release dates have not been assigned, are listed in "Coming Attractions." Running times are those supplied by the distributors. Where they vary, the change is probably due to local censorship deletions. Dates are 1930, unless otherwise specified.

ACTION PICTURES

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Anybody's Blonde	Dorothy Reviere-Edna Murphy	Oct. 30,'31
Chinatown After Dark	Carmel Myers-Rex Lease	Oct. 15,'31	58	Oct. 31,'31
Night Beat	Jack Mulhall-Patsy R. Miller	Nov. 30,'31
Sky Spider, The	Glenn Tryon-Beryl Mercer	Oct. 1,'31	59
Soul of the Slums	Wm. Collier, Jr.-B. Mehaffey	Nov. 15,'31

BIG 4 FILM CORPORATION

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Cyclone Kid	Buzz Barton	Oct. 28,'31	60
Flying Lariats	Wally Wales	Aug. 25,'31	60
Headin' for Trouble	Bob Custer	Sept. 22,'31	60
Hell's Valley	Wally Wales	Mar. 18,'31	60
Riders of the Cactus	Wally Wales	July 7,'31	60	July 25,'31

Coming Feature Attractions

Big City Shadows	6 reels
Blazed Trails	6 reels
Dance Hall Kisses	6 reels
Desert Spawn	6 reels
Devils Decoy	6 reels
Diamond Mystery	6 reels
Guns and Saddles	6 reels
Hard Pan Gulch	6 reels
Highway Raiders	6 reels
Lure of the Range	6 reels
Mark of the Spur	6 reels
Midnight Prowlers	6 reels
Quick Trigger Lee — Bob Custer	6 reels
Railroad Mail Limited	6 reels
Rip Roaring Bronco	6 reels
Rio Grande Raiders	6 reels

COLUMBIA

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Border Law	Buck Jones-L. Tovar	Oct. 15,'31	61
Branded	Buck Jones	Sept. 1,'31	61
Dangerous Affair, A	Holt-Graves-Blane	Sept. 30,'31	77	Sept. 5,'31
Dirigible	Holt-Gray-Wray	Apr. 4,'31	93	Mar. 14,'31
Dreyfus Case, The	Cedric Hardwicke	Aug. 28,'31	92	May 2,'31
Fifty Fathoms Deep	Richard Cromwell-Jack Holt-Loretta Sayers	Aug. 17,'31	70	Sept. 26,'31
Fighting Sheriff, The	Buck Jones-Loretta Sayers	May 15,'31	61
Good Bad Girl, The	Mae Clark-James Hall	May 20,'31	73	May 23,'31
Lover Come Back	Jack Mulhall-C. Cummings-B. Bronson	June 5,'31	63	June 20,'31
Man from Chicago	Bernard Nedell	Mar. 17,'31	65
Men Are Like That (Arizona)	John Wayne-L. La Plante	June 27,'31	67	Aug. 22,'31
Middle Watch, The		Mar. 3,'31	65
Miracle Woman, The	Barbara Stanwyck	July 20,'31	87	Aug. 22,'31
One Way Trail	Tim McCoy	Oct. 15,'31	58	Oct. 31,'31
Pagan Lady	Evelyn Brent-C. Bickford-C. Nagel	Sept. 8,'31	63	Sept. 20,'31
Platinum Blonde	Young-Harlow-R. Williams	Oct. 31,'31	90
Shanghaied Love	R. Cromwell-Blane-N. Beery	Sept. 20,'31	66
Sky Raiders, The	Lloyd Hughes-Marceline Day	May 15,'31	67
Subway Express	Holt-Kelsey-Pringle	May 1,'31	68	May 9,'31
Ten Cents a Dance	Barbara Stanwyck-Cortez	Mar. 6,'31	79	Mar. 18,'31
Texas Ranger, The	Buck Jones	Apr. 10,'31	61	Apr. 25,'31

Coming Feature Attractions

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Blonde Baby	Jean Harlow-Mae Clarke
Deadline	Buck Jones	Dec. 3,'31
Feathered Serpent	Walter Byron-Bette Davis-H. B. Warner
Fighting Marshal, The	Tim McCoy
Final Edition
Forbidden	Barbara Stanwyck - Adolphe Menjou - Ralph Bellamy
Guilty Generation	Leo Carillo-C. Cummings-Leslie Fenton	Dec. 4,'31
Justice Rides Again	Buck Jones
Man Named X, The (Tent.)	Jack Holt - Constance Cummings
Men in Her Life	Lois Moran-Chas. Bickford	Dec. 10,'31
Range Feud	Buck Jones	Dec. 1,'31	56	Oct. 3,'31
Ridin' For Justice	Buck Jones
Shopworn	Barbara Stanwyck
Shot Gun Pass	Tim McCoy
Terror by Night	Wm. Collier, Jr.-Una Merkel			Oct. 17,'31
Unwanted	Lloyd Hughes-Dorothy Sebastian-Ian Keith
Yellow	Jack Holt - Richard Cromwell - John Wayne

CONTINENTAL PICTURES CORP.

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Defenders of the Law	Catherine Dale Owen-Holland-Gleckler	May 1,'31		May 23,'31
Mystery Train, The	N. Stuart-M. Day-H. Hopper	Aug. 1,'31

Coming Feature Attractions

Air Eagles	6 reels
Hellion's Last Cruise, The	6 reels
Rose of Chinatown	6 reels
Streets of Shadows	6 reels

FIRST NATIONAL

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Bargain, The (Reviewed under title "You and I")	Lewis Stone-Doris Kenyon	Sept. 5,'31	70	Apr. 18,'31
Big Business Girl	Loretta Young-Ricardo Cortez	July 4,'31	80	Mar. 14,'31
Broadminded	Joe E. Brown	Aug. 1,'31	72	Apr. 11,'31
Chances	Douglas Fairbanks, Jr.	July 18,'31	72	May 9,'31
Compromised (Reviewed under title "We Three")	Ben Lyon-Rose Hobart	Dec. 5,'31		Sept. 12,'31
Father's Son	Janney-Stone-Rich	Mar. 7,'31	77	Oct. 4
Fireman, Save My Child	Joe E. Brown
Finger Points, The	Bartholmess-Wray	Apr. 11,'31	88	Mar. 21,'31
Five Star Final	Edward G. Robinson	Sept. 26,'31	89	June 27,'31
Honor of the Family	Bebe Daniels	Oct. 17,'31	66	Oct. 24,'31
Hot Heiress, The	Lyon-Munson	Mar. 28,'31	78	Jan. 24,'31
I Like Your Nerve	D. Fairbanks, Jr.-L. Young	Sept. 12,'31	70	Sept. 19,'31
Last Flight	Richard Barthelmess	Aug. 29,'31	77	Sept. 12,'31
Men of the Sky	Irene Delroy-Jack Whiting	June 20,'31	86
Party Husband	Dorothy Mackaill	June 6,'31	68	Apr. 18,'31
Penrod and Sam	Leon Janney	Oct. 3,'31	71	Aug. 29,'31
Reckless Hour	Dorothy Mackaill-Conrad Nagel	Aug. 15,'31	72	May 2,'31
Ruling Voice, The	Huston-Young-Kenyon	Oct. 31,'31	76

Coming Feature Attractions

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Alias the Doctor	Richard Barthelmess
Captain's Wife, The	Lil Dagover - Walter Huston	Jan. 9,'32
Her Majesty, Love	Marilyn Miller-Ben Lyon	Dec. 26,'31
Honorable Mr. Wong	Edw. G. Robinson
Local Boy Makes Good	Joe E. Brown	Nov. 21,'31		Oct. 3,'31
Safe In Hell	Dorothy Mackaill	Dec. 12,'31
Union Depot	D. Fairbanks,Jr.-J. Blondell	Nov. 28,'31

FOX FILMS

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Always Goodbye	Landi-Stone	May 24,'31	60	Apr. 25,'31
Annabelle's Affairs	McLaglen-MacDonald	June 14,'31	75	May 30,'31
Are You There?	Lillie-Garrick	May 3,'31	60	Nov. 29
Bad Girl	James Dunn-Sally Eilers	Sept. 13,'31	88	July 18,'31
Black Camel	Warner Oland-Eilers	June 21,'31	71	May 15,'31
Brat, The	Sally O'Neil-F. Albertson	Sept. 20,'31	67	July 25,'31
Charlie Chan Carries On	Oland-Churchill	Apr. 12,'31	69	Mar. 28,'31
Cisco Kid, The	Baxter-Lowe-Montenegro	Nov. 1,'31	61	Oct. 10,'31
Daddy Long Legs	Gaynor-Baxter	June 7,'31	80	May 23,'31
Doctors' Wives	Baxter-Bennett	Mar. 15,'31	82	Apr. 4,'31
Goldie	Harlow-S. Tracy-W. Hymer	June 28,'31	68	July 11,'31
Heartbreak	C. Farrell-H. Albright	Nov. 8,'31		Oct. 10,'31
Holy Terror, A	George O'Brien-S. Eilers	July 19,'31	53	July 25,'31
Hush Money	J. Bennet - J. Kirkwood-Hardie Albright	July 5,'31	69	June 13,'31
Merely Mary Ann	Gaynor-Farrell	Sept. 6,'31	75	Aug. 1,'31
Mr. Lemon of Orange	Brendel-Dorsay	Mar. 22,'31	67	Mar. 7,'31
Not Exactly Gentlemen	McLaglen-Wray-Cody-Gribbon	Mar. 8,'31	61	Apr. 11,'31
Quick Millions	Tracy-Churchill-Eilers	May 3,'31	70	Apr. 4,'31
Riders of the Purple Sage	G. O'Brien-M. Churchill	Oct. 18,'31	57	Sept. 19,'31
6 Cylinder Love (Reviewed under title "The Minute Man")	Spencer Tracey - Merkel	May 10,'31	70	Apr. 18,'31
Skyline	T. Meighan - H. Albright-Maureen O'Sullivan	Oct. 11,'31	70	Aug. 22,'31
Sob Sister	J. Dunn - Linda Watkins	Oct. 25,'31	71	Sept. 26,'31
Spider, The	Edmund Lowe-Lois Moran	Sept. 27,'31	60	Aug. 22,'31
Spy, The	Hamilton-Johnson	Apr. 26,'31	68
Their Mad Moment	Baxter-Mackaill-Pitts	July 12,'31	57
3 Girls Lost	Wayne-Young	Apr. 19,'31	71	Apr. 18,'31
Transatlantic	Edmund Lowe-Lois Moran	Aug. 30,'31	73	July 18,'31
Wicked	V. McLaglen-Elissa Landi	Oct. 4,'31	55	Aug. 8,'31
Women of All Nations	McLaglen-Lowe-Nissen	May 31,'31	72	May 30,'31
Yellow Ticket, The	Elissa Landi-L. Barrymore	Nov. 15,'31	78	Oct. 17,'31
Young As You Feel	Will Rogers-Dorsay	Aug. 23,'31	78	Apr. 18,'31
Young Sinners	Meighan-Jordan-Kirkwood	May 17,'31	70

Coming Feature Attractions

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Alimony Queens	Baxter-Bennett
Ambassador Bill	Will Rogers	Nov. 22,'31		Oct. 24,'31
Business and Pleasure	Will Rogers-Jetta Goudal
Charlie Chan's Chance	Warner Oland
Circumstances	Violet Heming - Ralph Bellamy
Dance Team	James Dunn - Sally Eilers
Delicious	Gaynor-Farrell	Dec. 27,'31
Devil's Lottery	Sally Eilers - C. Farrell
Disorderly Conduct	Ralph Bellamy-Spencer Tracy
First Cabin	Ralph Morgan-Sally O'Neil
Good Sport	Linda Watkins-John Boles	Dec. 13,'31
Heart Free (Tent.)	Janet Gaynor
Over the Hill	Dunn-Eilers-Marsh-Crandall-Kirkwood-Lane	Nov. 29,'31		Oct. 31,'31
Rainbow Trail	Geo. O'Brien-Cecilia Parker	Jan. 3,'32
She Wanted a Millionaire	J. Bennett-S. Tracy
Stepping Sisters	Louise Dresser - Wm. Collier, Sr.-Minna Gombell
Surrender	Warner Baxter-Lelia Hyams	Dec. 6,'31
Swindle	Spencer Tracy-J. Kirkwood
While Paris Sleeps	McLaglan-Helen Mack
Widow's Might	John Boles
Young America

METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Cuban Love Song, The	L. Tibbett-L. Velez	Oct. 31,'31		Oct. 24,'31
Daybreak	Ramon Novarre	May 2,'31	76	Apr. 18,'31
Five and Ten	Marion Davies	June 13,'31	89	June 13,'31
Free Soul, A	Norma Shearer-Leslie Howard	June 20,'31	92	Apr. 25,'31
Great Lover, The	A. Menjou	July 18,'31	71	July 4,'31
Guardsman, The	Lunt-Fontanne-Z. Pitts	Dec. 19,'31	81	Aug. 8,'31
Guilty Hands	L. Barrymore-M. Evans	Aug. 22,'31	68	July 18,'31
Just a Gigolo (Reviewed under title "Dancing Partner")	William Haines	June 6,'31	67	Apr. 25,'31
Laughing Sinners	J. Crawford-N. Hamilton	May 30,'31	72	June 6,'31

(THE RELEASE CHART--CONT'D)

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Man in Possession, The	Robert Montgomery	July 4,'31	84	June 13,'31
Never the Twain Shall Meet	Montenegro-Smith-Howard	May 16,'31	80	May 30,'31
New Adventures of
Get Rich Quick Wallingford, The	Wm. Haines	Oct. 3,'31	94	Sept. 19,'31
Pardon Us	Laurel-Hardy	Aug. 15,'31	55	Aug. 29,'31
Phantom of Paris, The	John Gilbert-Leila Hyams	Sept. 12,'31	74
Politics	Dressler-Moran	July 25,'31	73	July 4,'31
Secret Six, The	Beery-Harlow	Apr. 18,'31	83	Apr. 25,'31
Son of India	Ramon Novarro	Aug. 1,'31	73	Aug. 1,'31
Sidewalks of New York	Buster Keaton	Sept. 26,'31	71	Aug. 15,'31
Sin of Madelon Claudet, The	Helen Hayes-Lewis Stone	Oct. 24,'31		Oct. 3,'31
	(Reviewed under title "The Lullaby")
Sporting Blood	Clark Gable-M. Evans	Aug. 8,'31	84	July 18,'31
Squaw Man, The	Roland Young-Valez-Baxter	Sept. 5,'31	106
Stepping Out	Denny-Greenwood-Hyams	Apr. 11,'31	73	Mar. 21,'31
Susan Lenox, Her Fall and Rise	Greta Garbo-Clark Gable	Oct. 10,'31		July 18,'31
Tailor Made Man, A	William Haines	Mar. 28,'31	80	Mar. 7,'31
This Modern Age	Jean Crawford	Aug. 29,'31	68	June 13,'31

Coming Feature Attractions

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Boarding School	Madge Evans-Jordan-Page
Champ, The	Wallace Beery-Jackie Cooper	Nov. 7,'31		Oct. 17,'31
Courage	Robert Montgomery
Emma	Marie Dressler	Jan. 2,'32
Family Affair, A	Robert Montgomery
Flying High	Bert Lahr	Nov. 14,'31		Oct. 24,'31
Freaks	Wallace Ford-Leila Hyams
Grand Hotel
Hell Divers	Beery-Rambeau	Dec. 5,'31
Her Cardboard Lover	Buster Keaton
Limpy	Jackie Cooper
Mati Hari	Greta Garbo-R. Navarro	Dec. 26,'31
Polly of the Circus	Marion Davies
Possessed	Joan Crawford-Clark Gable	Nov. 21,'31		Oct. 31,'31
Private Lives	N. Shearer-R. Montgomery	Nov. 28,'31
Sky Scraper	Madge Evans - Robt. Young
Tarzan	Johnny Weismuller - Maureen O'Sullivan
West of Broadway	J. Gilbert-Brendel-L. Moran	Dec. 12,'31		Aug. 22,'31

MONOGRAM PICTURES CORPORATION

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Dugan of the Badlands	Bill Cody	June 27,'31	60	Aug. 8,'31
In Line of Duty	Sue Carol-Noah Beery	Oct. 1,'31	64	Oct. 10,'31
Land of Wanted Men	Bill Cody	Oct. 30,'31
Man from Death Valley, The	Tom Tyler	Sept. 1,'31	62
Montana Kid, The	Bill Cody	Aug. 10,'31	60
Mother and Son	Clara K. Young	Aug. 1,'31	60	Aug. 22,'31
Oklahoma Jim	Bill Cody	Oct. 10,'31	60
Partners of the Trail	Tom Tyler	July 11,'31	64	Sept. 5,'31
Ships of Hate	L. Hughes-D. Sebastian	June 20,'31	65	Aug. 8,'31
Two Fisted Justice	Tom Tyler	Oct. 20,'31	63

Coming Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Forgotten Women	M. Shilling-Rex Bell	Nov. 10,'31	7 reels
Law of the Sea	All Star	Nov. 15,'31	7 reels

PARAMOUNT PUBLIX

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
An American Tragedy	Phillips Holmes-Sylvia Sidney-Frances Dee	Aug. 22,'31	95	June 6,'31
Beloved Bachelor	Paul Lukas-D. Jordan	Oct. 24,'31	74	Oct. 3,'31
Caught	Richard Arlen-L. Dresser	Aug. 8,'31	68	July 4,'31
City Streets	Sylvia Sidney-Gary Cooper	Apr. 18,'31	80	Apr. 11,'31
Confessions of a Co-Ed	P. Holmes-Sylvia Sidney	July 11,'31	75
Daughter of the Dragon	Warner Oland-Anna May Wong	Sept. 5,'31	79	Aug. 8,'31
Dude Ranch, The	Jack Oakie	May 16,'31	67	Apr. 18,'31
Girl Habit, The	Charles Ruggles	June 27,'31	77	July 11,'31
Girls About Town	Kay Francis-L. Tashman	Oct. 3,'31	80	Oct. 17,'31
Gun Smoke	Arlen-Brian	Apr. 11,'31	64	Mar. 14,'31
Honeymoon Lane	Eddie Dowling	July 25,'31	71	July 11,'31
Honor Among Lovers	Colbert-March-Ruggles	Mar. 21,'31	75	Mar. 7,'31
Huckleberry Finn	J. Coogan-Mitzi Green	Aug. 15,'31	80	Aug. 1,'31
I Take This Woman	Gary Cooper-Carole Lombard	June 27,'31	74
Kick In	Clara Bow	May 23,'31	74	Apr. 25,'31
Ladies' Man	Wm. Powell-Kay Francis	May 9,'31	75	Apr. 4,'31
Lawyers' Secret, The	Clive Brook	June 6,'31	63	May 23,'31
Mad Parade	E. Brent-L. Tashman	Oct. 3,'31	64	May 2,'31
Magnificent Lie	Ruth Chatterton	July 25,'31	79	July 25,'31
Man of the World	Wm. Powell-Lombard	Mar. 28,'31	70	Mar. 7,'31
Monkey Business	Four Marx Bros.	Sept. 19,'31	77	Aug. 1,'31
Murder by the Clock	Wm. Boyd-L. Tashman	Aug. 8,'31	74	July 4,'31
My Sin	Tallulah Bankhead-March	Oct. 3,'31	78	Sept. 19,'31
Newly Rich	Mitzi Green-Jackie Searl	June 20,'31	77	June 6,'31
	(Also booked as "Forbidden Adventure")
Night Angel	Nancy Carroll-Fred March	July 18,'31	71	July 11,'31
Once a Lady	Ruth Chatterton	Nov. 7,'31	80	Oct. 17,'31
Personal Maid	Nancy Carroll	Sept. 12,'31	77	Sept. 12,'31
Road to Reno	Charles Rogers	Oct. 17,'31	73	Sept. 5,'31
Secret Call, The	Peggy Shannon-Richard Arlen	July 25,'31	73
Secrets of a Secretary	C. Colbert	Sept. 5,'31	75
Silence	Clive Brook-Peggy Shannon	Aug. 29,'31	68	July 25,'31
Skippy	Mitzi Green-Jackie Searl-Jackie Cooper	Apr. 25,'31	88	Mar. 21,'31
Smiling Lieutenant, The	M. Chevalier-C. Colbert	Aug. 1,'31	89	July 11,'31
Tabu	South Sea Island natives and Chinese half castes	Aug. 1,'31	81	Mar. 21,'31
Tarnished Lady	C. Brook-Tallulah Bankhead	May 2,'31	80	May 9,'31
Touchdown	R. Arlen-C. Starrett-J. Oakie	Nov. 14,'31	77	Oct. 31,'31
Twenty-Four Hours	C. Brook-Kay Francis	Oct. 10,'31	68	Sept. 12,'31
Up Pops the Devil	N. Foster-Carole Lombard	May 30,'31	75
Vice Squad	Lukas-Francis	June 13,'31	70	May 9,'31
Women Love Once	Lucas-Boardman-Tashman	July 4,'31	73	July 4,'31

Coming Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Cheat, The	T. Bankhead	Nov. 28,'31
Confession	C. Colbert-Wm. Boyd	Jan. 23,'32
Dance Palace	Miriam Hopkins-Chas. Rogers
Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde	Fredric March-M. Hopkins	Jan. 2,'32
Evenings for Sale	Paul Lukas
False Madonna, The	Kay Francis-Wm. Boyd	Dec. 5,'31
His Woman	G. Cooper-C. Colbert	Nov. 21,'31
Husband's Holiday	Clive Brook - V. Osborne	Dec. 19,'31
Ladies of the Big House	Sylvia Sidney-Wynne Gibson	Dec. 19,'31
Lives of A. Bengal Lancer, The	Clive Brooks-Phillips Holmes
Man I Killed, The	Lionel Barrymore-Nancy Carrol-Phillips Holmes	Nov. 28,'31
Master Key, The (Tent.)	Frederic March
Miracle Man, The	Gary Cooper - Sylvia Sidney
Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch	All Star
No One Man	R. Arlen-C. Lombard	Jan. 30,'32
One Hour With You	Maurice Chevalier-Jeanette MacDonald-Genevieve Tobin
Rich Man's Folly	G. Bancroft-Kay Francis	Nov. 14,'31
Second Chances	Buddy Rogers Peggy Shannon	Jan. 9,'32
Shanghai Express	Marlene Dietrich-C. Brook	Jan. 16,'32
Ship Shape (Tent.)	Jack Oakie, Mitzi Green, Wynne Gibson
Sky Bride	Carole Lombard-Richd Arlen
Spooky	Jackie Cooper - Robt. Coogan-J. Searl	Dec. 26,'31
Through the Window	G. Bancroft-E. Boardman
Two Kinds of Women	P. Holmes-M. Hopkins
Wayward	Nancy Carroll-Richard Arlen	Jan. 9,'32
Woman Against Woman	Tallulah Bankhead
Working Girls	P. Shannon-S. Erwin-Buddy Rogers	Dec. 12,'31

PEERLESS PRODUCTIONS, INC.

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Lovebound	Marion Nixon - Neil Hamilton - Sally Blane	Dec. 10,'31
Sea Ghost, The	L. La Plante-Alan Hale	Nov. 1,'31
Sporting Chance, The	Wm. Collier, Jr.-Claudia Dell-James Hall	Nov. 21,'31	69	Nov. 7,'31

RKO PATHE

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Bad Company	Helen Twelvetrees	Oct. 2,'31	75	Sept. 12,'31
Beyond Victory	Boyd	Apr. 12,'31	73	Apr. 18,'31
Big Gamble, The	Bill Boyd	Sept. 4,'31	63	Sept. 26,'31
Born to Love	Constance Bennett	Apr. 17,'31	99
Common Law	Constance Bennett	July 24,'31	77	July 25,'31
Devotion	Ann Harding	Sept. 25,'31	84	Sept. 26,'31
Freighters of Destiny	Tom Keene	Oct. 30,'31	60	Oct. 31,'31
Rebound	Ina Claire	Sept. 18,'31	91	June 13,'31
Sundown Trail	Tom Keene-M. Shilling	Sept. 11,'31	55	Oct. 24,'31
Sweepstakes	Eddie Quillan-Marion Nixon	July 19,'31	77	June 13,'31
Tip Off, The	E. Quillan-R. Armstrong	Oct. 16,'31	75	Oct. 31,'31
Woman of Experience	Helen Twelvetrees	Aug. 7,'31	76	Apr. 25,'31

Coming Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Bad Timber	Bill Boyd	Jan. 22,'32
Big Shot, The	Eddie Quillan	Dec. 18,'31
Lady with a Past	Constance Bennett	Nov. 6,'31
Pick Up	Helen Twelvetrees
Prestige	Ann Harding	Dec. 25,'31
Suicide Fleet, The	Boyd-Armstrong-Gleason	Nov. 20,'31
Woman Commands	Pola Negri
Women Need Love	Ann Harding

RKO RADIO PICTURES

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Caught Plastered	Wheeler-Woolsey-D. Lee	Sept. 5,'31	68	June 27,'31
	(Reviewed under the title "Full of Notions")
Consolation Marriage	Irene Dunne-Pat O'Brien	Nov. 7,'31	81	Sept. 5,'31
Donovan's Kid	Richard Dix-Shilling-Sheridan-Jackie Cooper	June 6,'31	77	May 9,'31
Everything's Rosie	Robert Woolsey-Anita Louise	June 13,'31	76	May 2,'31
Fanny Foley Herself	Edna May Oliver	Oct. 10,'31	72	Aug. 15,'31
Friends and Lovers	Lily Damita-Adolph Menjou-Erie Von Stroheim	Oct. 3,'31	68	Aug. 15,'31
Gay Diplomat, The	G. Tobin-B. Compson-I. Lebedeff	Sept. 19,'31	67	Aug. 1,'31
	(Reviewed under the title "Woman Pursued")
High Stakes	Lowell Sherman-Mae Murray	Aug. 18,'31	69	May 9,'31
Lady Refuses, The	Betty Compson-John Darrow	Mar. 8,'31	72
Laugh and Get Rich	Edna May Oliver-Dorothy Lee	Apr. 20,'31	72	Mar. 7,'31
Perfect Alibi	All Star	Apr. 1,'31	76
Public Defender, The	Richard Dix	Aug. 1,'31	70
Runaround, The	Kerr. Prevost, Brian, Hines	Aug. 22,'31	66	May 9,'31
	(Reviewed under the title "Waiting at the Church")
Sin Ship, The	Welhelm-Mary Aster-Ian Keith	Apr. 18,'31	65
Smart Woman	Mary Astor-Rob't Ames	Sept. 26,'31	68	Aug. 1,'31
Three Who Loved	B. Compson-R. Ames-C. Nagel	July 3,'31	78	June 13,'31
Too Many Cooks	Bert Wheeler-Dorothy Lee	July 18,'31	77	Aug. 22,'31
Transgression	Kay Francis-Ricardo Cortez	June 27,'31	69
Traveling Husbands	Evelyn Brent	Aug. 15,'31	74	May 2,'31
White Shoulders	Astor-Cortez-Holt	June 6,'31	81	May 30,'31
W. Plan, The	All Star	Mar. 15,'31	98	Apr. 4,'31
Women Between, The	Lily Damita-Lester Vail	Aug. 8,'31	73	Apr. 25,'31

Coming Feature Attractions

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Are These Our Children?	Eric Linden-Rochelle Hudson-Arlene Judge	Nov. 14,'31	83	Oct. 17,'31
Chi Chi and Her Papas	Lily Damita
Dove, The	Dolores Del Rio-Leo Carillo
Exposed	Mary Aster-Ricardo Cortez
Frontier	Dix-Dunne
Girl Crazy	Wheeler-Lee-Woolsey
Hullabaloo	Irene Dunne-Laurence Oliver
Ladies of the Jury	Edna May Oliver
Lost Squadron, The	Richard Dix
Other Passport, The	Irene Dunne
Peach O' Reno	Woolsey-Wheeler
Secret Service	Dix - Shirley Grey	Nov. 14,'31	68	Oct. 10,'31
Should Wives Work	Mary Astor-Rob't Ames
Way Back Home	Phillips 'Seth Parker" Lord	Nov. 13,'31	81	Oct. 3,'31
	(Reviewed under the title "Other People's Business")

SONO ART-WORLD WIDE

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Air Police	Kenneth Harlan-J. Dunn	Apr. 1,'31	60	Mar. 21,'31
First Aid	Gr. Withers-Marjorie Beebe	July 25,'31	65
Hell Bent for 'Frisco	Delaney-Reynolds	July 10,'31	65	July 18,'31
In Old Cheyenne	Rex Lease-Dorothy Gulliver	May 25,'31	62	June 20,'31
Is There Justice?	Rex Lease, Walthall, Blanche Mehaffey	Oct. 4,'31	62	Oct. 3,'31
Mounted Fury	J. Bowers-Blanche Mehaffey	Dec. 1,'31	65
Neck and Neck	Glenn Tryon-Vera Reynolds	Nov. 4,'31	63	Nov. 7,'31
Symphony in Two Flats	Novello-Logan	Apr. 15,'31	74

STATE RIGHTS

Features

Title	Star	Dist'r	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Alibi	Austin Trever	Gaumont-W & F		74	May 30,'31
Alice in Wonderland	Ruth Gilbert	Unique Foto Film	Sept. 30,'31	55	Sept. 26,'31
Almost a Divorce	Nelson Keys	Gaumont-W & F		60	Sept. 19,'31
Black Coffee	Austin Trevor	Twickenham Films, Ltd.		79	Sept. 12,'31
Cain and Artem	Emil Gall	Sovkino
Calendar, The	Herbert Marshall, Edna Best	Gainsborough-British		78	Nov. 7,'31
Chance of a Night Time	Ralph Lynn	Gaumont-W & F			June 13,'31

(THE RELEASE CHART--CONT'D)

Title	Star	Dist'r	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Convicted	Aileen Pringle	Artclass Pictures	Oct.		3,'31
Das Cabinet Des Dr. Larl Farl		George Schneider
Das Rheinlandmaedel	Greti Berndt	Capitol	Sept. 17,'31	70	Sept. 26,'31
Deadlock	Stewart Rome	Butchers Film Service		85	Sept. 26,'31
Der Grosse Tenor	Emil Jannings	Ufa Film			June 6,'31
Der Liebesexpress	George Alexander	Foreign Talking Pictures	June 15,'31	86
Die Feerster Christl	Irene Eisinger	Trans-Ocean Film		94	July 4,'31
Dolly Gets Ahead	Dolly Haas	Ufa Film	July 17,'31	94	Aug. 1,'31
Express 13	Heinz Koenecke	Ufa	Aug. 7,'31	65	Aug. 22,'31
Flute Concert of Sanssouci	Otto Gebuehr	Ufa	Oct. 16,'31	82	Oct. 24,'31
Enemies of the Law	M. Nolan-J. Walker	Capital Films	July 21,'31	69	July 18,'31
Glamour	Wardour Films	Seymour Hicks		73	July 4,'31
Ghost Train, The	Jack Hulbert	Gainsborough-Gaumont		70	Oct. 10,'31
Great Passion, The	Camilla Horn	Tobis	Oct. 7,'31	90	Oct. 24,'31
Grief Street	Jean Royce	Chesterfield		65	Oct. 24,'31
Hard Hombre	Hoot Gibson	Allied Pictures			Aug. 22,'31
Hindle Wakes	Belle Chrystall	Gaumont-Gainsborough		79	Oct. 10,'31
Hobson's Choice	Viola Lyel	British Int'n'tl.		65	Oct. 24,'31
Inn at the Rhine, The	Kaethe Dorsch	Associated Cinemas of America	Sept. 23,'31	90	Oct. 17,'31
Jew at War, A	Venimin Zuskin	Ukrainfilm		71	Aug. 1,'31
Karamazov	Fritz Kortner	Tobis Forenfilm	Sept. 18,'31	81	Oct. 10,'31
Lawless Woman, The	Vera Reynolds	Chesterfield	June 15,'31	63	July 4,'31
Let's Love and Laugh	Gene Gerrard	Wardour Film		84	May 30,'31
Lightnin' Smith Returns	Buddy Roosevelt	Standard	Aug. 15,'31	59	Aug. 22,'31
Love Storm, The	Fay Compton	British Int'n'tl.	Oct. 16,'31	62	Oct. 24,'31
Love Waltz, The	Willy Fritsch	Ufa Film	May 15,'31
Maciste in Hell	Bartolomeo Pagano	Excelsior Pictures Corp.			July 11,'31
Mad Parade, The	M. Day-L. Fazenda	Liberty Prod.			May 2,'31
Merry Wives of Vienna	Willy Forst	Super Films	July 9,'31	95	July 18,'31
Naples and Sorrento		Italian Star Film Prod.		78
Night Life in Reno	Virginia Valli	Artclass Pictures Corp.			Aug. 8,'31
Night Raid	Albert Prejean	Osso. Films	Nov. 7,'31
No Lady	Lupino Lane	Gaumont-British		72	May 30,'31
Nur Am Rhein	Daisy D'Ora	Foreign Talking Pictures	Oct. 1,'31	85
Pueblo Terrer	Buffalo Bill, Jr.	West Coast Studios	Apr. 15,'31	60	Apr. 11,'31
Puppet, The	Max Hansen			8 reels
Queen of Sparta, The		Italafilm		9 reels
Queen's Necklace		Protex		9 reels
Road to Hell		Public Welfare Films			July 4,'31
Sally in Our Alley	Gracie Fields	Ass. Radio Pictures		77	July 25,'31
Shadow Between, The	Kathleen O'Regan-Godfrey Tearle	British Int'nat'l.		88	Sept. 19,'31
Sherlock Holmes' Fatal Hour	Arthur Wontner	First Division			July 18,'31
Stamboul	Warwick Ward	Paramount		75	Nov. 7,'31
Student's Song of Heidelberg	Willy Forst-Betty Bird	Ufa			Sept. 19,'31
Susanne Macht Ordnung	Truus Van Alten	Foreign Talking Pictures	Oct. 15,'31	82
Ten Nights in a Barroom		Goetz		8 reels
These Charming People	Cyril Maude	Para. Film Service, Ltd.		85	Aug. 8,'31
Three from Filling Station	Willy Fritsch	Ufa		75	July 4,'31
Tilly of Bloomsbury	Sydney Howard	Sterling			May 16,'31
Up for the Cup	John W. Entwhistle	Gaumont-British			Oct. 10,'31
Viking, The	C. Starrett	J. D. Williams		72	June 20,'31
Wild Horse	Hoot Gibson	Allied Pictures			July 11,'31

SERIALS

NAT LEVINE

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Eagle's Shadow, The			12 episodes
Galloping Ghost, The	Harold Red Grange	Sept. 1,'31	12 episodes
Lightning Warrior, The	Rin Tin Tin		12 episodes
Vanishing Legion, The	Harry Carey-Edwin Booth	June 10,'31	12 episodes	July 25,'31

SYNDICATE PICTURES CORPORATION

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Mystery Trooper, The	Robt. Frazer-B. Mehaffy	Apr. 1,'31	10 episodes

UNIVERSAL

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Battling with Buffalo Bill	Tom Tyler-Rex Bell	Nov. 28,'31	12 episodes	Oct. 3,'31
Danger Island	Ken. Harlan-Lulcille Brown	Aug. 24,'31	12 episodes	Aug. 1,'31
Heroes of the Flames	Tim McCoy	Jan. 2,'31	12 episodes
Spell of the Circus	F. Buchman, Jr.-A. Vaughn	Jan. 12,'31	10 episodes

SYNDICATE PICTURES CORPORATION

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
God's Country and the Man	Tom Tyler	May 1,'31	67
Law of the Rio Grande	Bob Custer	July 20,'31	58	Aug. 15,'31
Riders of the North	Bob Custer	Mar. 1,'31	67	Apr. 11,'31
Rider of the Plains, A	Tom Tyler	Apr. 1,'31	61	May 9,'31
Son of the Plains, A	Bob Custer	May 15,'31	60	July 11,'31

TIFFANY

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Alias the Bad Man	Ken Maynard	July 15,'31	66	Aug. 15,'31
Arizona Terror, The	Ken Maynard	Sept. 1,'31	64	Oct. 17,'3
Leftover Ladies	Claudia Dell-M. Rambeau	Oct. 1,'31	70	Oct. 3,'31
Morals for Women	Bessie Love	Oct. 25,'31	70
Murder at Midnite	Alice White-Hale Hamilton	Sept. 1,'31	69	Oct. 10,'31
Near the Trail's End	Bob Steele	Sept. 20,'31	58
Nevada Buckaroo	Bob Steele	Sept. 27,'31	64
Range Law	Ken Maynard	Oct. 11,'31	63
Riding Fool	Bob Steele	May 25,'31	64	June 20,'31
Salvation Nell	Graves-Chandler	July 1,'31	85	July 11,'31
South of Santa Fe	Bob Steele	Sept. 15,'31
Two Gun Man, The	Ken Maynard	May 15,'31	63	June 13,'31
Women Go on Forever	Clara Kimball Young	Aug. 15,'31	78	July 18,'31

Coming Feature Attractions

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Branded Men	Ken Maynard	Nov. 8,'31
Fighting Mad	Ken Maynard	Dec. 6,'31
Hotel Continental		Jan. 17,'32
Last Mile, The		Dec. 13,'31
Luxury Girls		Mar. 30,'32
Race Track	Leo Carrillo	Nov. 1,'31
Riders of the West	Bob Steele
Silent Thunder		Apr. 17,'32
Strangers of the Evening		Apr. 31,'32
Sunset Trail	Ken Maynard	Jan. 3,'32
Those We Love		Feb. 14,'32
X Marks the Spot	Lew Cody-Sally Blane	Dec. 27,'31

UNITED ARTISTS

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Age for Love, The	Billie Dove	Oct. 17,'31	80	Aug. 29,'31
Around the World in Eighty Minutes	Douglas Fairbanks		80	Nov. 7,'31
Corsair	Chester Morris	Oct. 17,'31	75
Front Page	Adolphe Menjou	Apr. 4,'31	90	Mar. 28,'31
Indiscreet	Gloria Swanson	Apr. 25,'31	94	Mar. 14,'31
Palmy Days	Eddie Cantor	Oct. 3,'31	80	Sept. 5,'31
Street Scene	S. Sidney-W. Collier, Jr.	Sept. 5,'31	80	Aug. 22,'31
Unholy Garden, The	Ronald Colman	Oct. 10,'31	75	Aug. 8,'31

Coming Feature Attractions

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Arrowsmith	Ronald Colman	Dec. 26,'31
Cock of the Air	Billie Dove-Chester Morris	Oct. 7,'31
Greeks Had a Word for It	Ina Claire-M. Evans-Blondell	Feb. 13,'31
Kid From Spain, The	Lily Damita - Eddie Cantor
Scarface	Paul Muni	Nov. 28,'31
Sons O' Guns	Lily Damita - Al Jolson
Sky Devils	All Star	Jan. 9,'32
Struggle, The	Zita Johann-Hal Skelly	Nov. 14,'31
Tonight or Never	Gloria Swanson	Dec. 12,'31

UNIVERSAL

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Bad Sister	Nagel-Fox-Davis	Mar. 23,'31	67	Mar. 14,'31
East of Borneo	Rose Hobart-Chas. Bickford	Sept. 15,'31	74	Oct. 3,'31
Ex-Bad Boy	R. Armstrong-Jean Arthur	July 15,'31	60
Graft	Regis Toomey-Sue Carol	Sept. 21,'31	64	Aug. 15,'31
Homicide Squad	L. Carrlo-M. Brian-N. Beery	Sept. 29,'31	69	Aug. 1,'31
Iron Man, The	Lew Ayres	Apr. 30,'31	72	Mar. 28,'31
Lasca of the Rio Grande	Leo Carillo	Nov. 2,'31	65	July 25,'31
Mother's Millions	May Robson	Aug. 15,'31	93	Feb. 28,'31
Mystery of Life	Clarence Darrow	Aug. 3,'31	73	July 11,'31
Reckless Living	Mae Clarke-Norman Foster	Oct. 20,'31	68	Sept. 12,'31
Seed	John Boles-Genevieve Tobin	May 11,'31	97	Apr. 25,'31
Spirit of Notre Dame	Lew Ayres	Oct. 13,'31	78	Sept. 26,'31
Strictly Dishonorable	Paul Lukas-Sidney Fox		81	Nov. 7,'31
Up for Murder	Ayres-Tobin	June 15,'31	70
Waterloo Bridge	Mae Clarke-Kent Douglass	Sept. 1,'31	81	Aug. 8,'31

Coming Feature Attractions

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Back Street	Rose Hobart
Barbary Coast
Blue Blazes
Bullet Proof
Cohens & Kellys in Hollywood	G. Sidney - C. Murray
Destry Rides Again	Tom Mix
Eagles	Lew Ayres
Fate
Frankenstein	Colin Clive-Mae Clarke	Nov. 21,'31
Gallows	Lew Ayres-Rose Hobart
Great Air Robbery
Heaven on Earth	Lew Ayres-Anita Louise	Dec. 12,'31		Oct. 3,'31
House Divided, A	W. Huston-H. Chandler	Nov. 28,'31
Impatient Maiden	Sidney Fox
Lady of Resource	Rose Hobart
Law and Order	Walter Huston-Lois Wilson	Dec. 26,'31
Marriage Interlude	John Boles, Lois Wilson, Sidney Fox
Murders in the Rue Morgue	Bela Lugosi-Sidney Fox
Nice Women	Sidney Fox-Frances Dee	Dec. 5,'31
Oh, Promise Me
Unexpected Father, The	Slim Summerville-Zazu Pitts

WARNER BROTHERS

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Alexander Hamilton	George Arliss	Sept. 12,'31	71	June 13,'31
Beggars Opera, The	Rudolph Forster	June '31	114
Bought!	Constance Bennett-Ben Lyon	Aug. 22,'31	83	July 18,'31
Captain Thunder	F. Wray-V. Varconi	Apr. 26,'31	67	May 16,'31
Children of Dreams	Margot Schilling	July 25,'31	83	July 25,'31
Expensive Women	Dolores Costello	Oct. 24,'31
God's Gift to Women	Fay-LaPlante	Apr. 25,'31	75	Mar. 14,'31
Gold Dust Certle	Winnie Lightner	June 27,'31	68	May 9,'31
Maltese Falcon, The	Bebe Daniels-R. Cortez	June 13,'31	80	Apr. 18,'31
Mad Genius, The	John Barrymore-M. Marsh	Nov. 7,'31	81	Oct. 31,'31
Millionaire, The	George Arliss	May 1,'31	81	Mar. 14,'31
Night Nurse	Barbara Stanwyck	Aug. 8,'31	73	July 25,'31
Public Enemy, The	Harlow-Cagney	May 15,'31	96
Road to Singapore, The	Wm. Powell-M. Marsh-Kenyon	Oct. 10,'31	70	Aug. 1,'31
Side Show	Lightner-Butterworth	Sept. 19,'31	66	July 4,'31
Smart Money	Edw. G. Robinson	July 11,'31	81	May 16,'31
Star Witness, The	Walter Huston	Aug. 22,'31	68	July 25,'31
Svengall	John Barrymore-M. Marsh	May 22,'31	83	May 9,'31

Coming Feature Attractions

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
High Pressure	Wm. Powell - Evelyn Brent
Blonde Crazy	James Cagney-J. Blondell	Nov. 18,'31	75	Aug. 22,'31
Manhattan Parade	W. Lightner-Butterworth
Man Who Played God	George Arliss
Old Man Minick	Charles "Chic" Sale
Shadows on the Wall	Kay Francis	Dec. 12,'31
Taxi!	James Cagney-Loretta Young	Jan. 9,'32
Under Eighteen	Marian Marsh-Anita Page	Dec. 31,'31

(THE RELEASE CHART--CONT'D)

SHORT FILMS

[All dates are 1931 unless otherwise stated]

BIG FOUR

Title	Rel. Date	Minutes Running Time	Reviewed
JAMISON-MURDOCK
Wages of Gin, The	Apr. 28	25

COLUMBIA

Title	Rel. Date	Minutes Running Time	Reviewed
CURIOSITIES
C 220	Mar. 26	1 reel
C 221	May 25	1 reel
C 222	June 25	1 reel
C 223	June 26	1 reel
C 224	Aug. 1	1 reel
C 225	Aug. 29	1 reel
C 226	Sept. 4	1 reel
C 227	Sept. 30	1 reel
C 228	Sept. 30	1 reel
EDDIE BUZZELL SPECIALTIES
Blond Pressure		1 reel
Call of the North		1 reel
Check and Rubber Check	Mar. 13	1 reel
Chris Crossed	Aug. 3	1 reel
I Can't Find a Name for It		9
Kings or Better	May 1	8	May 30
Last of Moe Higgins	May 22	1 reel
Lone Star Stranger	Dec. 27	1 reel	Feb. 7
Red Men Tell No Tales		1 reel
Soldier of Misfortune	Oct. 26	1 reel
Wine, Women But No Song	Feb. 14	1 reel
KRAZY KAT KARTOONS
Bars and Stripes	Oct. 14	1 reel
Disarmament Conference	Apr. 27	1 reel
Soda Poppa	May 29	1 reel
Stork Market, The	July 11	7
Svengarlic	Aug. 3	1 reel
Swiss Movements	Apr. 4	1 reel
Weenie Roast, The	Sept. 14	1 reel
MEDBURY SERIES
Laughing with Medbury in Africa		9	Apr. 25
Laughing with Medbury in Reno	July 6	10
Laughing with Medbury in Turkey	Sept. 7	1 reel	Oct. 17
Laughing with Medbury in Death Valley	Oct. 12	1 reel	Oct. 17
MICKEY MOUSE
Barnyard Broadcast	Oct. 9
Beach Party, The		1 reel
Blue Rhythm	Aug. 18	1 reel
Castaways, The	Apr. 6	1 reel
Delivery Boy	June 15	10	Oct. 24
Fishin' Around	Sept. 14	1 reel
Mickey Steps Out	July 18	7	Oct. 3
Moose Hunt, The	May 8	1 reel	May 30
MONKEYSHINES
Curses! Curses! Curses!	Aug. 20	1 reel
Little Beezer	July 5	8
Monkeydoodles	Oct. 12	1 reel
RAMBLING REPORTER
Father Nile	May 11	1 reel
Jerusalem, City of Peace	May 11	10
Land Nobody Knows	June 27	9
Land of Enchantment	July 31	1 reel
Streets of Cairo	Apr. 14	7	May 30
Vale of Kashmer, The	Aug. 21	1 reel
SCRAPPY CARTOONS
Dog Catcher, The	Oct. 15	1 reel
Chinatown Mystery		1 reel
Little Pest, The	Aug. 15	8
Showing Off		1 reel
Sunday Clothes	Sept. 15	1 reel
What A Boy		1 reel
Yelp Wanted	July 16	1 reel	July 16
SILLY SYMPHONIES
Busy Beavers, The		7
Cat's Nightmare	July 28	8	Oct. 3
China Plate	May 25	8
Clock Shop, The		1 reel
Egyptian Melodies	Aug. 27	1 reel
Fox Hunt, The		1 reel
In the Clock Store	Sept. 30	1 reel
Midnight in a Toy Shop	July 3	1 reel	May 2
Mother Goose Melodies	Apr. 17	1 reel	May 9
Spider and the Fly	Oct. 16	1 reel
Ugly Duckling, The		1 reel

EDUCATIONAL

Title	Rel. Date	Minutes Running Time	Reviewed
ANDY CLYDE COMEDIES
Cannonball, The (Clyde)	Sept. 16	19	Aug. 29
Half Holiday	Dec. 13
Taxi Troubles (Clyde)	Oct. 18	19	Oct. 24
BILL CUNNINGHAM'S SPORTS REVIEWS
Canine Capers	Nov. 15	9
Inside Baseball	Oct. 11	9
No Holds Barred	Sept. 6	9
BURNS, WM. J., DETECTIVE MYSTERIES
Bank Swindle, A	Jan. 18	11
Death House, The	Apr. 12	10
Double Cross	July 5	11
Foiled	July 19
Framed	May 10	10
Mead Trial, The	June 21	10
Ringleader, The	Mar. 15	11	Apr. 11
Starbrite Diamond, The	June 7	11	Oct. 3
Strangler, The	Mar. 29	12	June 6
Trap, The	May 24	11	Aug. 29
Triangle Murder, The	Mar. 1	11	Apr. 11
CAMEO COMEDIES
Honeymoon Trio	Aug. 30	9	Sept. 26
Idle Roomers	Nov. 29	9	Oct. 24
One Quiet Night	Oct. 25	10
Smart Work	Dec. 27
That's My Meat	Oct. 4	11
CANNIBALS OF THE DEEP
Trail of the Swordfish, The	Sept. 6	10	Aug. 29
Wrestling Swordfish	Nov. 8
GAYETY COMEDIES
Foolish Forties (Ford Sterling-June McCloy)	June 28	21	June 6
Fowl Affair, A	Apr. 26	6	Mar. 21
HODGE-PODGE
Highlights of Travel	Sept. 12	10
Jungle Giants	June 21	11
Money Makers of Manhattan	July 19	9
Tidbits	May 24	10	July 11
Vagabond Melodies	Aug. 16	10
Veldt, The	Dec. 20
Wonder Trail, The	Oct. 11	10
IDEAL COMEDIES
Crashing Hollywood (Rita Flynn-Phyllis Crane)	Apr. 5	20	Mar. 21
Lure of Hollywood (Brooks-Chandler)	July 5	20	June 27
Queenie of Hollywood (Flynn-Brooks)	Nov. 8	21
Tamale Vendor, The (Patricola-DeMontez)	Sept. 6	20	Aug. 20
MACK SENNET BREVITIES
Who's Who in the Zoo	Oct. 11	10
World Flier, The	Sept. 13	9	Sept. 26
MACK SENNETT COMEDIES
Albany Branch, The (P. Kelton-T. Dugan)	Aug. 2	6	July 4
Cow Catcher's Daughter (Clyde-Gribbon-Beebe)	May 10	22	Apr. 4
Dog Doctor, The (Clyde-O'Leary-Farley)	Mar. 15	22	Nov. 1
Fainting Lover (Clyde-Boteler-Dent)	Aug. 16	18
Ghost Parade (Clyde-Gribbon-Beebe)	May 24	22	May 2
Great Pie Mystery, The	Oct. 25	22	Nov. 7
Hold 'er Sheriff (Beebe-Murray)	June 7	21
In Conference (Clyde-Gribbon-Wilson)	Apr. 26	21	Apr. 11
Monkey Business in Africa (Clyde-Beebe)	June 21	22	July 4
Movie Town (Sennett-Beebe)	July 5	17
Poker Widows	Sept. 13	19
Slide, Speedy, Slide (D. Pollard-T. Dugan)	July 19	18
Speed (Clyde-Beebe)	Sept. 27	22	Apr. 11
Too Many Husbands (Clyde-Boteler)	Aug. 30	21
MACK SENNETT FEATURETTES
I Surrender Dear (Bing Crosby)	Sept. 13	22
One More Chance (Bing Crosby)	Nov. 15	21
MERMAID COMEDIES
Back Page, The (Chandler-Brooks)	May 24	20	Apr. 11
Once a Hero	Nov. 22	19
Up Pops the Duke (Chandler-Bolton)	Sept. 20	20
Windy Riley Goes Hollywood (Jack Shutta-Louise Brooks)	May 3	21	Apr. 11
ROMANTIC JOURNEYS
Across the Sea	Nov. 1	10
Cross Roads	May 3	11	Apr. 11
Dream World	July 5	9	Aug. 29
Glories of America	Sept. 27
Harem Secrets	Oct. 4	10
Outposts of the Foreign Legion	Oct. 18	10
Peasant's Paradise	Nov. 15	10
TERRY-TOONS
Around the World	Oct. 4	6
Black Spider, The	Nov. 1	6	Oct. 31
Blues	June 28	6	July 4
By the Sea	July 12	6	July 4
Canadian Capers	Aug. 23	6
Champ, The	Sept. 20	6
China	Nov. 15	6	Nov. 7
Clowning	Apr. 5	6	Mar. 28
Day to Live, A	May 31	6
Fireman's Bride, The	May 3	5	Apr. 11
Fried Chicken		7	Oct. 3
Her First Egg	July 26	6
Jazz Mad	Aug. 9	6
Jesse and James	Sept. 6	6	Oct. 3
Jingle Bells	Oct. 18	6	Oct. 24
Sing Sing Song	Apr. 19	8	Mar. 28
Sultan's Cat, The	May 17	6	May 2
2000 B.C.	June 14	6	June 6
TORCHY
Torchy (Ray Cooke-Dorothy Dix)	Oct. 4	22	Oct. 3
Torchy Passes the Buck	Dec. 6
TUXEDO COMEDIES
Bride and Gloomy (Bert Roach-Eleanor Hunt)	Mar. 22	20
Don't Divorce Him (Clyde Cook)	May 31	18	May 2
What a Head (Duffy-Rondell)	July 26	20
VANITY COMEDIES
College Racket (Glenn Tryon)	June 14	20	June 6
Freshman's Finish, The	Sept. 20	22
Girl Rush, The	Oct. 25	21	Oct. 17
Shotgun Wedding, A	Apr. 19	20	Mar. 14

FOX FILMS

Title	Rel. Date	Minutes Running Time	Reviewed
MAGIC CARPET SERIES
1 Giants of the Jungle	Aug. 8	8	May 9
2 Diamonds in the Rough	Aug. 16
3 Wandering Through China	Aug. 23
4 Down to Damascus	Aug. 30	8	May 9
5 The King's Armada	Sept. 6	9	May 9
6 The Wild West of Today	Sept. 13	8	May 9
7 Where East Meets West	Sept. 20
8 Wild Life on the Veldt	Sept. 27	8	May 9
9 Over the Viking Trail	Oct. 4
10 India Today	Oct. 11
11 The Land of the Nile	Oct. 18
12 The Homeland of the Danes	Oct. 25
13 The Kingdom of Sheba	Nov. 1
14 In the South Seas	Nov. 8
15 The Pageant of Siam	Nov. 15	9	May 9
16 Birds of the Sea	Nov. 22
17 When Geisha Girls Get Gay	Nov. 29
18 Paris of the Orient	Dec. 6
19 Happy Days in Tyrol	Dec. 13	8	May 9
20 Paris Nights	Dec. 20	8
21 Fires of Vulcan	Dec. 27	8
22 Stamboul to Bagdad	Jan. 3'32	8
23 The Foreign Legion	Jan. 10,'32	10
24 City of the Clouds	Jan. 17,'32	9
25 In Old Mexico	Jan. 24,'32	8
26 The World at Prayer	Jan. 31,'32	8	May 9

METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER

Title	Rel. Date	Minutes Running Time	Reviewed
BOY FRIENDS, THE
Air Tight	May 9	17	May 2
Call A Cop	Sept. 12	20
Kick Off, The	Dec. 5
Love Fever	Apr. 11	20
Let's Do Things	June 6	27
Mama Loves Papa	Oct. 24	17
BURTON HOLMES
Sultan's Camp of Victory	Feb. 28	10
That Little Bit of Heaven	Feb. 28	10
CHARLEY CHASE
Hasty Marriage	Dec. 19
One of the Smiths	May 23	26
Panic Is On, The	Aug. 15	20	Aug. 15
Rough Seas	Apr. 25	27	June 6
Skip The Maloo	Sept 26	21
What a Bozo	Nov. 7	21
COLORTONE REVUES
Ambitious People	Mar. 21	17
Crazy House	Feb. 7	16	Mar. 14
Devil's Cabaret	Mar. 7	17
Geography Lesson	Mar. 28	17
DOGVILLE
Big Dog House, The	Mar. 14	16	Aug. 8
Love Tails of Morocco	Sept. 5	16	Aug. 15
Trader Hound	Nov. 28
Two Barks Bros.	Oct. 17	17
FISHERMAN'S PARADISE
Fisherman's Paradise	Aug. 15	10
Pearls and Devilfish	Sept. 19	9	Nov. 7
Sharks and Swordfish	Oct. 24
FITZPATRICK TRAVELTALKS
Bali, the Island Paradise	Dec. 5	10
Benares, the Hindu Heaven	Oct. 31	9	Nov. 7
Colorful Jaipur	Mar. 19,'32
Ireland, The Melody Isle	Jan. 9,'32
London, City of Tradition	Feb. 6,'32
Land of the Maharajahs, The	Aug. 22	10
Madeira, a Garden in the Sea	Sept. 26	8	Oct. 3
Tropical Ceylon	Feb. 27,'32
FLIP THE FROG
Jailbirds	Sept. 26	9
Laughing Gas	Mar. 14	7	Mar. 14
Movie Mad	Aug. 29	9
New Car, The	July 25	8
Ragtime Romeo	May 2	8	Sept. 12
Stormy Seas	Aug. 22	9
HARRY LAUDER
I Love a Lassie	Dec. 19	8
Nanny	Nov. 14	8
Roamin' in the Gloamin'	Sept. 5	10	Aug. 15
She's My Daisy	Oct. 10	9	Apr. 11
LAUREL & HARDY
Beau Hunks	Dec. 12	40	Sept. 5
Come Clean	Sept. 19	21
Helpmates	Mar. 5
Laughing Gravy	Apr. 4	21
Our Wife	May 16	21	Apr. 11
One Good Turn	Oct. 31	21
OUR GANG
Bargain Day	May 2	19
Big Ears	Aug. 29	21
Dogs Is Dogs	Nov. 21	21
Fly My Kite	May 30	21
Little Daddy	Mar. 28	21	Mar. 14
Readin' and Writin'	Jan. 2,'32
Shiver My Timbers	Oct. 10	21	Oct. 24
PITTS-TODD
Catch-As-Catch-Can	Aug. 22	20
Pajama Party	Oct. 3	20	Nov. 7
War Mamas	Nov. 14
SPORT CHAMPIONS
Athletic Daze	Mar. 26,'32
Dive In	Feb. 2,'32	10	Oct. 31
Flying Spikes	Apr. 16,'32
Forehand, Backhand, Service (Tilden)	Sept. 5	9	Aug. 15
Olympic Events	Mar. 5,'32
Splash	Oct. 3	10
Tennis Technique (Tilden)	Aug. 29	8	Sept. 5
Timber Toppers	May 7,'32
Volley and Smash (Tilden)	Sept. 12	8	Sept. 5
Wild and Wooly	Nov. 7	9	Sept. 5
Whippet Racing	Dec. 12	9

PARAMOUNT-PUBLIX

Title	Rel. Date	Minutes Running Time	Reviewed
BRUCE NOVELTIES
A Hunting We Did Go	May 16	1 reel
Climate Chasers	July 11	1 reel
My West	Mar. 7	1 reel
Runaway Boys	Jan. 31	1 reel
ONE REEL ACTS
African Dodger, The (Tom Howard)	Apr. 4	10	Mar. 14
All for the Band (Eddie Younger)	Apr. 4		Mar. 14
Beauty Secrets from Hollywood (Technicolor Novelty)	Sept. 5
Beach Nut, The (Herb Williams)	Oct. 3,'32
Cheaper to Rent (Willie West & McGinty)	Sept. 19
Clinching a Sale (Harry Richman)	Apr. 18
Crazy Compositions (Fuzzy Knight)	Apr. 11
Devil Sea (Ethel Merman and Leslie Stowe)	Feb. 28
Fair Ways & Square Ways (Eddie Miller)	May 2
Finn and Caddie (Borrah Minnevitch)	Oct. 17
French Line (Gina Malo)	Jan. 24
Happiness Remedy (Ted Lewis)	Feb. 14
Helping Hand (Solly Ward)	June 27

(THE RELEASE CHART--CONT'D)

Title	Rel. Date	Minutes Running Time	Reviewed
Hudson and Its Moods.... Leslie Stowe-Speed Young	Apr.	11	May 12
I'm Telling You..... Willie and Eugene Howard	Mar.	7
Laugh It Off..... June MacCloy	Feb.	14	May 9
Lesson in Love, A..... Helen Kane	Sept.	26 — 11	Sept. 19
Let's Stay Single..... Frances Williams	Mar.	14
Make Up Your Mind..... Alice Boulden	Jan.	10
Miscast ..... James Kelso-Dolores DeMonde	Mar.	21
More Gas..... Solly Ward	Oct.	24
Moonlight and Romance... Moreno-Martini	Feb.	21
M'Lady ..... Irene Bordoni	Mar.	28
My Wife's Jewelry..... Tom Howard	Aug.	22 — 11	Sept. 12
No More Hookey..... Haig Trio	Aug.	29
Once Over, Light..... Burns and Allen	May	23	May 16
One Big Night..... Ben Blue	Feb	7
One Hundred Percent Service ..... Burns and Allen	Aug.	1 — 10	Sept. 5
Pent House Blues..... Muriel D'Or-Cy Kahn	Feb.	21
Pest, The..... Tom Howard	Mar.	14
Plastered ..... Willie West & McGinty	Nov.	22
Puff Your Blues Away.... Lillian Roth	Oct.	31
Real Estators, The..... Smith & Dale	May	2 — 10	May 23
Simply Killing..... Willie & Eugene Howard	Jan.	31
Tongue Tied..... Lulu McConnell	Dec.	13
Tons of Trouble..... Rudy Miller & Rosie	Jan.	3
Top Notes..... Willy Robyn	Mar.	21	Mar. 14
Tune Detective, The..... Dr. Sigmund Spaeth	Apr.	25	June 13
Two A. M..... Tom Howard	May	2
Via Express..... Tom Howard	July	4 — 10	Oct. 10
PARAMOUNT PICTORIAL
No. 7—Rudy Valee—Lowell Thomas — Marionette Show	Mar.	28 — 1 reel
No. 8—Jesse Crawford-Ruth St. Dennis—Lowell Thomas	Apr.	4 — 1 reel
No. 9—Harmonies of the Harp; Facts and Fancies in sports—Lowell Thomas.	May	2 — 1 reel
No. 10—Lowell Thomas — Golf Chats—Sweet Lady of the Air.....	June	6 — 1 reel
No. 11—Lowell Thomas — Golf Chats—Flo Ziegfeld.	June	27 — 1 reel
No. 12—Michael Fokine — Africa, U.S.A. — Jesse Crawford	July	18 — 1 reel
STARTING AUGUST, 1931
No. 1—Lowell Thomas — Aber Twins — Japanese Goldfish	Aug.	22 — 1 reel
No. 2—Painting with Light—The Dragons of Today — Songs of the Organ	Sept.	26 — 1 reel
No. 3—Lowell Thomas — Something New in Dishes —Behind the Microphone	Oct.	24 — 1 reel
SCREEN SONGS		1 reel
Alexander's Rag Time Band. And the Green Grass Grew All Around.....	May	9 — 30 — 1 reel
Any Little Girl That's a Nice Little Girl.....	Apr.	18 — 1 reel
Betty Co-Ed	Aug.	1 — 1 reel
By the Beautiful Sea.....	Jan.	24 — 1 reel
Gallagher & Shean.....	Aug.	29 — 1 reel
I'd Climb the Highest Mountain	Mar.	7 — 1 reel	June 13
I Wonder Who's Kissing Her Now.....	Feb.	14 — 1 reel
Kitty from Kansas City Rudy Vallee	Oct.	31 — 1 reel
Little Annie Rooney.....	Oct.	10 — 1 reel
My Wife's Gone to the Country	June	13 — 6	Sept. 26
Please Go Way and Let Me Sleep	Jan.	10 — 1 reel
Somebody Stole My Gal..	Mar.	21 — 1 reel
That Old Gang of Mine..	July	11 — 1 reel
You're Driving Me Crazy..	Sept.	19 — 1 reel
SCREEN SOUVENIRS
No. 1—Old Time Novelty..	Aug.	15 — 10	Sept. 26
No. 2—Old Time Novelty..	Sept.	12 — 1 reel
No. 3—Old Time Novelty..	Oct.	10 — 1 reel
PARAMOUNT SOUND NEWS
Two Editions Weekly.....
TALKARTOONS
Bimbo's Express.....	Aug.	22	Sept 12
Bimbo's Initiation.....	July	25 — 1 reel
Bum Bandit, The.....	Apr.	4 — 1 reel
Cow's Husband, The.....	Mar.	14 — 8	Mar. 28
In the Shade of the Old Apple Sauce.....	Oct.	17 — 1 reel
Male Man, The	Apr.	25 — 6	May 23
Minding the Baby.....	Sept.	26 — 1 reel
Silly Scandals.....	May	23 — 1 reel	May 9
Teacher's Pest.....	Feb.	7 — 1 reel
Thee Saps.....	Feb.	21 — 1 reel
Twenty Legs Under the Sea.	June	6 — 8	Oct. 3
TWO REEL COMEDIES
Auto Intoxication..... Ford Sterling	Oct.	17
Big Splash, The..... Weismuller-Kruger	Oct.	17
Broadway Romeo, A..... Jack Benny & Co.	Mar.	28
Bullmania ..... Billy House & Co.	Aug.	15
Cab Waiting..... Jack Benny	June	20 — 17	May 16
Elmer Takes the Air..... Kruger-Assen Jordanoff	July	18	Sept. 12
Fur, Fur, Away..... Smith & Dale	Oct.	3	Sept. 5
Gents of Leisure.....	May	9
Great Pants Mystery..... Chester Conklin Smith & Dale	Feb.	14
Headache, The..... Billy House	Mar.	14	June 13
He Was Her Man..... Gilda Gray	Mar.	25
It Might Be Worse..... George Jessel & Co.	Jan.	3
It Ought to Be a Crime... Ford Sterling	Sept.	12
Lease Breakers, The..... Dane & Arthur	Sept.	5
Love in the Suburbs..... Victor Moore	Jan.	31
Nothing to Declare..... Lulu McConnell	Aug.	8
Out of Bounds..... Billy House	Nov.	14
Retire Inn..... Billy House	Sept.	19
Shove Off ..... Dane & Arthur	Oct.	31 — 2 reels
S.S. Malaria..... Smith & Dale	June	6
Studio Sap..... Chester Conklin	Sept.	28
Socially Correct..... Lulu McConnell	Oct.	10
Summer Daze..... Dane-Arthur (Reviewed under the title "In the Good Old Summer Time.....	Dec.	26
Taxi ..... Chester Conklin	Apr.	11
13th Alarm, The..... Chester Conklin	July	4
Thou Shalt Not..... Billy House	May	23	May 2
What Price Pants..... Smith & Dale	Aug.	22

RKO PATHE SHORT SUBJECTS

Title	Rel. Date	Minutes Running Time	Reviewed
AESOP'S FABLES
Big Game.....	Aug.	3 — 9
Cinderella Blues.....	April	12 — 8	Apr. 11
College Capers.....	Mar.	15 — 1 reel	Mar. 21
Family Shoe, The.....	Sept.	14 — 7	Oct. 10
Fairyland Follies	Sept.	28 — 8	Oct. 31
Fisherman's Luck.....	June	13 — 10	July 4
Fly Guy, The.....	May	10 — 7	June 6
Fly Hi.....	Aug.	31 — 9	Oct. 10
Fun on the Ice.....	July	19 — 8	Aug. 8
Horse Cops	Oct.	12 — 1 reel
Love in a Pond.....	Aug.	17 — 8	Sept. 19
Mad Melody.....	Apr.	26 — 1 reel	May 2
Making 'Em Move.....	July	5 — 9	July 25
Old Hokum Bucket, The..	Mar.	29 — 7	Apr. 4
Pale Face Pup.....	June	22 — 9	July 4
Play Ball.....	May	24 — 10	May 30
BENNY RUBIN COMEDIES
Dumb Dicks.....	Mar.	21,'32 — 2 reels
Full Coverage.....	Nov.	9 — 2 reels
Guests Wanted.....	Jan.	18,'32 — 2 reels
Julius Sizzer.....	Sept.	7 — 20	Sept. 5
Messenger Boy, The.....	June	29 — 22	July 25
Promoter, The	May	30,'32 — 2 reels
CAMPUS COMEDIES
Night Class.....	May	31 — 2 reels.	May 16
Open House.....	Mar.	22 — 20	Apr. 11
CAPITAL COMEDIES
Bare Knees.....	May	8 — 2 reels.	Mar. 7
Half Pint Polly.....	May	3 — 2 reels.
CHECKER COMEDIES
Chasing Trouble.....	Apr.	26 — 2 reels.	May 9
Disappearing Enemies....	Mar.	1 — 2 reels.	Apr. 4
FARRELL GOLF SERIES
Duffer Swings.....	Feb.	22 — 1 reel	Mar. 7
Getting on the Green.....	Mar.	22 — 1 reel	Apr. 11
Under Par.....	Mar.	15 — 1 reel	Mar. 28
Winning Putts.....	Mar.	1 — 1 reel	Apr. 4
FLOYD GIBBONS' SUPREME THRILLS
Turn of the Tide, The....	Sept.	14 — 11	Sept. 26
Woodrow Wilson's Great Decision	Aug.	17 — 11
FOLLY COMEDIES
Gossipy Plumber, The....	May	17 — 2 reels.	May 2
Parents Wanted.....	Mar.	15 — 2 reels.	Apr. 4
FRANK McHUGH COMEDIES
Big Scoop, The.....	Nov.	16 — 2 reels
Hot Spot, The.....	Sept.	14 — 18	Oct. 10
News Hound, The.....	Jan.	25,'32 — 2 reels
That's News to Me.....	July	6 — 20	May 30
GAY GIRL COMEDIES
Easy to Get.....	Dec.	7 — 2 reels
Gigolettes	Apr.	18,'32 — 2 reels
June First.....	July	27 — 20	July 4
Only Men Wanted.....	Feb.	8,'32 — 20
Take 'Em and Shake 'Em..	Sept.	28 — 20
GRANTLAND RICE SPORTLIGHTS
Battling Silver Kings....	July	12 — 11	July 18
Blue Grass Kings.....	June	20 — 1 reel	July 4
Diamond Experts.....	May	17 — 10	May 23
Floating Fun.....	Sept.	7 — 10
Hunting Thrills.....	Apr.	21 — 1 reel	Apr. 11
Manhattan Mariners.....	Aug.	24 — 9	Oct. 24
Olympic Talent.....	Aug.	9 — 8	Sept. 12
Outboard Stunting.....	May	3 — 1 reel	May 31
Pack and Saddle	Oct.	19 — 1 reel
Pigskin Progress.....	Sept.	21 — 9	Oct. 10
Poise	July	27 — 9	Aug. 8
Riders of Riley		1 reel
Sink or Swim.....	Mar.	22 — 9	Mar. 28
Speed Limit.....	Mar.	8 — 1 reel	Mar. 14
Tennis Topnotchers.....	Apr.	4 — 1 reel	June 6
Timing	Oct.	5 — 10
Younger Years.....	June	29 — 10	July 4
Water Bugs.....	June	6 — 10	May 23
KNUTE ROCKNE FOOTBALL SERIES
Backfield Aces.....	Sept.	26 — 1 reel
Flying Feet.....	Sept.	26 — 1 reel
Hidden Ball, The.....	Sept.	26 — 1 reel
Last Yard, The.....	Sept.	26 — 1 reel
Touchdown	Sept.	26 — 1 reel
Two Minutes to Go.....	Sept.	26 — 1 reel
MANHATTAN COMEDIES
Crashing Reno.....	Aug.	24 — 2 reels.	Aug. 8
Frozen Face.....	Apr.	19 — 2 reels.	Apr. 18
Oh, Marry Me.....	Nov.	2 — 2 reels
She Snoops to Conquer....	June	22 — 20	June 20
MASQUERS COMEDIES
Great Junction Hotel, The.	Oct.	26 — 18	Oct. 17
Oh, Oh, Cleopatra.....	Aug.	17 — 22	Aug. 8
Stout Hearts and Willing Hands	June	15 — 20	May 30
Wide Open Spaces.....		2 reels
MELODY COMEDIES
Not So Loud.....	May	3 — 2 reels.	May 2
Twisted Tales.....	Mar.	29 — 22	April 4
MR. AVERAGE MAN COMEDIES (EDGAR KENNEDY)
Bon Voyage.....	Feb.	22,'32 — 2 reels
Camping Out.....	Dec.	14 — 2 reels
Lemon Meringue.....	Aug.	3 — 20	June 6
Mother-in-Law's Day	Apr.	25,'32 — 2 reels
Thanks Again.....	Oct.	5 — 20	Oct. 10
PATHE NEWS Released twice a week
PATHE REVIEW Released once a month
RAINBOW COMEDIES
Against the Rules.....	June	6 — 19	May 23
Three Wise Clucks.....	Apr.	12 — 2 reels.	Apr. 18
RUFFTOWN COMEDIES (JAMES GLEASON)
Battle Royal.....	Feb.	29,'32 — 2 reels
Doomed to Win.....	Dec.	21 — 2 reels
Slow Poison.....	Oct.	19 — 21	Oct. 24
Where Canaries Sing Bass.	Aug.	10 — 18	Sept. 12
TRAVELING MAN COMEDIES (LOUIS JOHN BARTELS)
Beach Pajamas.....	Sept.	21 — 20	Sept. 26
Blondes by Proxy.....	Apr.	11,'32 — 2 reels
Selling Shorts.....	Nov.	30 — 17	Nov. 7
Stop That Run.....	Feb.	1,'32 — 2 reels
That's My Line.....	July	13 — 2 reels
VAGABOND ADVENTURE SERIES
Beneath the Southern Cross.	Aug.	24 — 10
Call of Mohammed.....	Apr.	7 — 1 reel	Apr. 4
Fallen Empire.....	July	27 — 10
Hurricane Island.....	April	21 — 1 reel	Mar. 28
Song of the Voodoo.....		9	Oct. 31
Shadows of the Dragon....	Mar.	8 — 1 reel	Mar. 14
Thom the Unknown.....	Mar.	22 — 1 reel	Apr. 4
Through the Ages		1 reel
Utmost Isle, The.....	Oct.	3 — 11	Oct. 3
WHOOPEE COMEDIES
All Gummed Up.....	May	23 — 2 reels.	May 16
Rough House Rhythm.....	Apr.	5 — 2 reels.	Mar. 14

RKO-RADIO PICTURES

Title	Rel. Date	Minutes Running Time	Reviewed
CHARLES "CHIC" SALE SERIES
County Seat, The.....	Aug.	15 — 20
Cowslips	Sept.	19 — 18
Ex-Rooster
Hurry Call, A.....
Many a Slip
DANE & ARTHUR SERIES
Lime Juice Knights.....	Mar.	22 — 21	Mar. 7
HEADLINER SERIES
House Dick, The..... Jimmy Savo	Oct.	17 — 18
False Roomers..... Clark & McCullough	Oct.	10 — 20
Scratch As Catch Can.... Clark & McCullough	Oct.	24 — 19
Melon Drama, A..... Clark & McCullough	Nov.	6 — 20
Trouble from Abroad..... F. Sterling-L. Littlefield	Aug.	22 — 20	June 20
HUMANETTE SERIES
Humanette No. 8.....	Mar.	22 — 9	Mar. 9
Humanette No. 9.....	Apr.	15 — 9
Humanette No. 10.....	May	1 — 10
Humanette No. 11.....	June	13 — 10
Humanette No. 12.....	July	1 — 10	June 20
LIBERTY SHORT STORIES SERIES
Double Decoy
Ether Talks
Fixed
Round Heels.....
LOUISE FAZENDA SERIES
Blondes Prefer Bonds....	May	15 — 21
Itching Hour, The.....	Feb.	1 — 22
Second Hand Kisses.....	Mar.	29 — 19	Mar. 2
MICKEY McGUIRE SERIES
Mickey's Crusaders.....	Apr.	12 — 19
Mickey's Diplomacy.....	July	15 — 18
Mickey's Rebellion.....	June	27 — 18
Mickey's Stampede.....	Feb.	7 — 19
Mickey's Thrill Hunters...	Sept.	19 — 18
Mickey's Wildcats.....	Sept.	12 — 18
NED SPARKS SERIES
Big Dame Hunting.....
Strife of the Party, The..	Oct.	17 — 16½
Way of All Fish, The....	Aug.	29 — 19	June 13
When Summons Comes.....
NICK & TONY SERIES
He Loved Her Not.....	Jan.	25 — 20
Wife O' Reilly.....	Feb.	25 — 20	Mar. 7
NICK HARRIS DETECTIVE SERIES
Facing the Gallows.....	Sept.	26 — 21
Mystery of Compartment C, The.....	Oct.	31 — 21
NOVELTY
Stung	Nov.	15
ROSCO ATES SERIES
Clean up on the Curb, The.	Sept.	12 — 20	June 13
Gland Parade, The.....	Sept.	26 — 20	Aug. 1
Lone Starved Ranger, The..	Aug.	8 — 20	July 25
Never the Twins Shall Meet
Use Your Noodle.....	Oct.	31 — 20
TOBY THE PUP
Toby in the Circus Times..	Jan.	25 — 7	Mar. 7
Toby in the Brown Derby..	Mar.	22 — 7
Toby Down South.....	Apr.	15 — 7
Toby the Bull Thrower....	June	7 — 7	May 27
She Went for a Tramp....	Mar.	15 — 20
TOM AND JERRY SERIES
Jungle Jam	Nov.	14
Polar Pals.....	Sept.	5 — 7	Sept. 19
Trouble	Oct.	10 — 7
Wot a Night.....	Aug.	1 — 8½

STATE RIGHTS

Title	Rel. Date	Minutes Running Time	Reviewed
FALCON PROD. Knights in Khaki.....		22	May 23
IDEAL
Birds of a Feather.....		8	Apr. 4
In the Good Old Summer-Time		8	Apr. 4
Jerusalem—The Holy City.		10	Sept. 26
Journey Through Germany, A		10	Oct. 3

(THE RELEASE CHART--CONT'D)

Title	Rel. Date	Minutes Running Time	Reviewed
Legend of the Skies		6	Mar. 14
Peculiar Pets		8	Apr. 4
Poem in Stone, A		7	Mar. 14
Sacred Elephants of India		8	Mar. 21
Some Wild Appetites		8	Mar. 21
Spring Is Here		9	Mar. 21
IMPERIAL PICTURES
Isle of Isolation		9	Oct. 10
JUDEA FILMS
Jewish Gypsy
Hymie Jacobson		10	Sept. 26
LOUIS SIMON
Palmy Daze		28	Oct. 24
B. M. POWELL
Harem Scarem		9	Sept. 12
Travelogue
MARY WARNER
Mosel, The — German's River of Enchantment		8
Trier, The Oldest City in Germany		6
TOBIS FORENFILM
Germany in 15 Minutes			Oct. 10
Melodie der Welt		30	Oct. 24
Songs of the Steppes		13	Oct. 10
UFA
Hunting the Carpathian Bear		12	Aug. 1
Secrets of Plant Life		10	Aug. 1
VISUOGRAPHIC
Wings of Tomorrow		10	May 2
WELSHAY
Beauty Secrets from Hollywood— No. 1 (technicolor)			Mar. 14
Old Songs for New		9	Sept. 5
Bob Welsh

SYNDICATE PICTURES CORP.

Title	Rel. Date	Minutes Running Time	Reviewed
ALICE SERIES
Alice Loses Out	Mar. 1	6
Alice Picks the Champ	Mar. 15	6
Alice Plays Cupid	Apr. 1	6
Alice Rattled by Rats	May 1	6
Alice Solves the Puzzle	Apr. 15	6
Alice's Mysterious Mystery	May 15	6

TIFFANY

Title	Rel. Date	Minutes Running Time	Reviewed
FOOTBALL FOR THE FAN SERIES
1—Spring Training	Sept. 26	9	Sept. 5
2—Wedge Play	Oct. 3	9
3—Kicking Game	Oct. 10	11
4—Deception	Oct. 17	10	Oct. 24
5—Forward Pass	Oct. 24	9	Oct. 10
6—Penalties	Oct. 31	11	Oct. 31
TIFANY CHIMP SERIES
6—Chasing Around	Mar. 23	16	Mar. 28
7—Africa Squawks	July 7	18
8—Apeing Hollywood	Aug. 16	21
9—Cinnamon	Sept 27	11
10—Skimpy	Nov. 8
11—The Gland Hotel	Dec. 23
12—Ex-King	Jan. 31,'32
VOICE OF HOLLYWOOD SERIES
Station S-T-A-R
No. 26—Kenneth Harlan	Mar. 2	11	Mar. 28
VOICE OF HOLLYWOOD SERIES (NEW)
John Wayne-Our Gang
No. 1—Lew Ayres	July 5	10	Sept. 5
No. 2—Elliott Nugent	July 19	11
No. 3—Ivan Lebedeff	Aug. 2	11
No. 4—Arthur Lake	Aug. 16	11
No. 5—Olson & Johnson	Aug. 30	10
No. 6—John Boles & Helen Chandler	Sept. 13	9
No. 7—Roscoe Ates	Sept 27	11
No. 8—Monte Blue	Oct. 11	11
No. 9—Pat O'Brien	Oct. 25

UNIVERSAL

Title	Rel. Date	Minutes Running Time	Reviewed
LEATHER PUSHER SERIES
Lady Killer, A, No. 8	Jan. 28	2 reels
Kane Meets Abel, No. 9	Feb. 11	2 reels
The Champion, No. 10	Feb. 25	2 reels
OSWALD CARTOONS
Band Master, The	May 18	6	June 20
Champ, The	July 27	1 reel
Clown, The	Dec. 7	1 reel
Country School, The	May 5	1 reel	May 16
Farmer, The	Mar. 23	1 reel
Fireman, The	Apr. 6	1 reel
Fisherman, The	Nov. 23	1 reel
Hare Mail, The	Nov. 9	1 reel
Hot Feet	Sept. 14	6	Oct. 10
Hunter, The	Oct. 12	6	Oct. 10
In Wonderland	Oct. 26	1 reel
North Woods	June 29	1 reel	July 11
Radio Rhythm	July 27	1 reel	Aug. 15
Shipwreck	Feb. 9	1 reel	Feb. 21
Stone Age, The	July 13	1 reel
Sunny South, The	Apr. 20	1 reel	May 2
RED STAR SERIES
Dangerous Daze	Mar. 11	2 reels	Mar. 14
The Cat's Paw	July 8	2 reels	Apr. 4
Hello Napoleon	June 3	2 reels	July 11
Howdy Mate	July 22	2 reels
It Happened in Hollywood	Feb. 4	2 reels
No Privacy	Apr. 22	2 reels
One Day to Live	Apr. 1	2 reels	Apr. 11
Scared Stiff	May 13	2 reels	May 2
SHADOW DETECTIVE SERIES
No. 1—Burglar to the Rescue	Sept. 7	18	Aug. 15
No. 2—Trapped	Oct. 28	23	Oct. 31
No. 3—Sealed Lips	Nov. 11	17
No. 4—House of Mystery	Dec. 16	2 reels
SIDNEY-MURRAY COMEDIES
All Excited	Mar. 25	2 reels	Feb. 28
Divorce a la Carte	Apr. 15	2 reels	Mar. 14
Butter in Yegg Man	May 6	2 reels	Apr. 11
Hot and Bothered	Mar. 4	2 reels
..in Old Mazuma	Jan. 1	2 reels
Models and Wives	Nov. 25	20
Stay Out, The	May 5	2 reels
SLIM SUMMERVILLES
Arabian Knights	Apr. 8	2 reels	May 28
Bless the Ladies	Dec. 9	2 reels
Hello Russia	Jan. 17	2 reels	Dec. 20
Here's Luck	May 20	2 reels	May 2
Hotter Than Haiti	Nov. 11	22
Let's Play	Apr. 29	2 reels	Aug. 8
Parisian Galeties	June 17	2 reels	Aug. 8
SPORTS REELS
Backfield Plays Notre Dame Football	Sept. 28	1 reel
Carry On	Oct. 5	1 reel
Notre Dame Football Developing a Football Team	Nov. 2	10
Pop Warner Football Famous Plays	Sept. 21	1 reel
Notre Dame Football Football Forty Years Ago	Nov. 9	9	Oct. 24
Pop Warner Football Offensive System	Sept. 14	1 reel
Notre Dame Football Shifts	Sept. 7	1 reel
Notre Dame Football Soccer	Nov. 16	1 reel
Pop Warner Football Trick Plays	Oct. 26	11
Pop Warner Football
STRANGE AS IT SEEMS SERIES
No. 8—Novelty	Apr. 13	1 reel	Apr. 11
No. 9—Novelty	May 11	1 reel	July 4
No. 10—Novelty	June 8	10	July 11
No. 11—Novelty	July 6	1 reel
No. 12—Novelty	Aug. 31	9	Aug. 29
No. 13—Novelty	Sept. 15	9	Oct. 10
No. 14—Novelty	Oct. 12	1 reel
No. 15—Novelty	Nov. 16	1 reel
No. 16—Novelty	Dec. 14	1 reel
UNIVERSAL COMEDIES (1931-32 SEASON)
An Apple a Day	Sept. 30	2 reels
Lloyd Hamilton
Bless the Ladies	Dec. 29	2 reels
Summerville
Fast and Furious	Oct. 14	19	Oct. 3
Daphne Pollard
Don Brodie
First to Fight	Sept. 2	4 reels	Aug. 8
Summerville
Hotter Than Haiti	Nov. 11	2 reels
Summerville
Models and Wives	Nov. 25	2 reels
Sidney-Murray
One Hundred Dollars	Sept. 16	2 reels	Aug. 29
Chas. Lawrence
Out Stepping	Oct. 28	16	Nov. 7
Running Hollywood		2 reels

VITAPHONE SHORTS

Title	Rel. Date	Minutes Running Time	Reviewed
ADVENTURES IN AFRICA
No. 1—Into the Unknown		2 reels	June 6
No. 2—An African Boma		2 reels	July 25
No. 3—The Lion Hunt		2 reels	July 25
No. 4—Spears of Death		2 reels
No. 5—Trails of the Hunted		2 reels
No. 6—The Buffalo Stampede		9	Aug. 15
No. 7—The Witch Doctor's Magic		14	Aug. 22
No. 8—Flaming Jungles		2 reels
No. 9—Dangerous Trails		15	Sept. 19
No. 10—Maneaters		2 reels
No. 11—Beast of the Wilderness		15	Nov. 7
No. 12—Unconquered Africa		2 reels
BELIEVE IT OR NOT—ROBERT L. RIPLEY
No. 8		9	May 23
No. 9		1 reel	July 18
No. 10		1 reel
No. 11		1 reel
No. 12		1 reel
NEW SERIES
No. 1		1 reel
No. 2		1 reel
BIG STAR COMEDIES
No. 1—Lucky 13		2 reels
Thelma White and Fanny Watson
No. 2—The Smart Set-Up		2 reels
Walter O'Keefe
No. 3—Of All People		2 reels
Thelma White and Fanny Watson
No. 4—Relativity and Relatives		2 reels
Dr. Rockwell
No. 5—Her Wedding Night-Mare		2 reels
Thelma White and Fanny Watson
BOOTH TARKINGTON SERIES
No. 1—Snakes Alive		1 reel
Billy Hayes-Bobby Jordan
No. 2—Batter Up		1 reel
Billy Hayes-Bobby Jordan
BROADWAY BREVITIES SERIES
No. 1—The Musical Mystery		18
Janet Reade-Albertina Rasch Girls
No. 2—Words and Music		2 reels
Ruth Etting
No. 3—Footlights		2 reels
HOW I PLAY GOLF—BOBBY JONES
No. 1—The Putter		1 reel	Apr. 25
No. 2—Chip Shots		1 reel	Apr. 25
No. 3—The Niblick		1 reel	Apr. 25
No. 4—The Mashie Niblick		1 reel
No. 5—The Medium Irons		1 reel
No. 6—The Big Irons		1 reel	July 18
No. 7—The Spoon		1 reel	Aug. 8
No. 8—The Brassie		9	Aug. 22
No. 9—The Driver		1 reel
No. 10—Trouble Shots		1 reel
No. 11—Practice Shots		1 reel
No. 12—A Complete Round of Golf		10	Oct. 31
LOONEY TUNES SERIES SONG CARTOONS
No. 9—Dumb Patrol		1 reel	Mar. 28
No. 10—Yodeling Yokels		1 reel
No. 11—Bosko's Holiday		1 reel	May 9
No. 12—Trees Knees		1 reel
NEW SERIES
No. 1—Bosko's Shipwrecked		1 reel
No. 2—Bosko, The Dough boy		1 reel
No. 3—Bosko's Soda Fountain		1 reel
No. 4—Rosko's Fox Hunt		1 reel
MELODY MASTER SERIES
No. 1—The "Big House" Party		1 reel
Earl Carpenter's Gang
No. 2—A Havana Cocktail		1 reel	Apr. 25
Castro's Cuban Band
No. 3—Darn Tootin'		1 reel
Rudy Weidoeft
MERRY MELODIES SONG CARTOONS
No. 1—Smile, Darn Ya, Smile		1 reel
No. 2—One More Time		1 reel
No. 3—Ya Don't Know What You're Doin'		1 reel
No. 4—Hittin' the Trail for Hallelujah Land		1 reel
THE NAGGERS SERIES MR. AND MRS. JACK NORWORTH
The Naggers at the Dentist		1 reel	May 2
The Naggers at the Races		1 reel	Aug. 15
The Naggers at the Ringside		1 reel	May 16
The Naggers' Housewarming		8	Sept. 5
The Naggers in the Subway		11	Aug. 8
NEW SERIES
The Naggers' Anniversary		1 reel
The Naggers at the Opera		1 reel
NOVELTIES
Bigger They Are, The Primo Carnero		2 reels
Gypsy Caravan Martinelli		1 reel
Handy Guy, The Earl Sande		2 reels
Rhythms of a Big City		1 reel
A Trip to Tibet Scenic		1 reel
ONE REEL COMEDIES
Baby Face Victor Moore
Gold-Digging Gentlemen Al Klein-Joan Abbott			Aug. 22
Grand Dame, The Patsy Kelly			May 9
I'll Fix It Kent-Lake			May 28
Lodge Night Phillips-Cox			May 16
Maid to Order Eleanor Shaler-Bob Lynn			May 2
Military Post, The Roberto Guzman
Milky Way, The Neely Edwards			July 18
No-Account, The Hardie-Hutchison
No Privacy Lloyd Hamilton			May 2
No Questions Asked Little Billy
Number Please Shella Barret			Mar. 31
Purely An Accident Brown-Kearns			May 16
Sitting Pretty Joe Phillips-Ruth Donnely			May 9
Sky High Janet Reade-Dudley Clements			Mar. 28
Squaring the Triangle Donald Brian
Strong Arm, The Harrington-O'Neil
Twixt Love and Duty Howard-Graham			May 2
ORGAN SONG-NATAS
For You Organ-Vocal		1 reel
Just a Gigolo Organ-Vocal		1 reel	Aug. 15
Say a Little Prayer for Me Organ-Vocal		1 reel
When Your Lover Has Gone Organ-Vocal		1 reel
JOE PENNER COMEDIES
Gangway		2 reels	Aug. 15
Moving In		2 reels
Rough Sailing		16
Sax Appeal		1 reel	Aug. 1
A Stuttering Romance		1 reel
Where Men Are Men		2 reels
PEPPER POT SERIES
No. 1—The Eyes Have It Edgar Bergen
No. 2—Thrills of Yesterday
No. 3—Hot News Margie Marjorie Beebe
No. 4—Free and Easy Edgar Bergen
SPORTSLANTS SERIES—TED HUSING
No. 1		1 reel	Oct. 24
No. 2		1 reel	Sept 26
No. 3		1 reel
S. S. VAN DINE MYSTERY SERIES
No. 1—The Clyde Mystery Donald Meek-John Hamilton		21	Oct. 31
No. 2—The Wall Street Mystery Donald Meek-John Hamilton		2 reels
No. 3—The Week-End Mystery Donald Meek-John Hamilton-Jane Winton		2 reels
TWO REEL COMEDIES
Gigolo Racket, The Helen Morgan		20	Aug. 1
Meal Ticket, The Jack Pearl			June 13
23 Skidoo Lew Fields			May 2
Freshman Love Ruth Etting
Old Lace Ruth Etting
Dandy and the Belle, The Frank McGlynn, Jr.-Mary Murray
For Two Cents De Wolf Hopper			June 6
Good Mourning Eddie Foy-Dressler-White			Sept. 5
Last Straw, The Romney Brent			May 2
Partners Billy Gaxton			Apr. 4
Silent Partner, The Billy Gaxton			Aug. 15
WAYNE AND WHITE COMEDIES
Good Pie Forever Billy Wayne-Thelma White		1 reel	Aug. 8
In Your Sombrero Billy Wayne		1 reel
Inventor, The Billy Wayne-Thelma White		1 reel	May 16
Taking Chances Billy Wayne-Thelma White		1 reel	May 9
With Pleasure Billy Wayne		1 reel	May 2
WORLD TRAVEL TALKS—E. M. NEWMAN
No. 1—Little Journeys to Great Masters		1 reel
No. 2—Southern India		1 reel
No. 3—Road to Mandalay		1 reel
No. 4—Mediterranean Byways		1 reel

J. C. Jenkins—His Colyum

Spokane, Wash.

DEAR HERALD:

We tramped this town over today and the only theatremen we could find were Phil Pieremyer of the Unique theatre and Ray Grombacher of the Liberty, Audian, Granada and Post Street theatres.

The Unique recently has been remodeled and redecorated, and presents a unique appearance, indeed. Pieremeyer says he plays third-run pictures partly because he can't get them sooner and partly from choice. He says business isn't what it used to be, but it could be worse.

Grombacher gave us a pretty thorough synopsis of the picture business from its beginning through the present time. In citing the reason for the slump in theatre attendance he compares the pictures of the present day with those of five and six years ago and gives it as his belief that pictures as a whole never have been produced with as little regard for their box office appeal as they are being produced today. He cited a number of the socalled "box office successes" in New York as being responsible for the frigid atmosphere around the box offices of Spokane.

It is always a delight to visit Grombacher, for he has a fund of information worth listening to.

New Fox Beautiful

Fox recently opened the new Fox theatre here in Spokane. It's a thing of beauty, but our guess is that it will be a headache forever, for this town was a long ways overseated before this house was built. The new Fox is supposed to be the last word in theatre beauty and we were told that it has been enjoying good business ever since its opening, which is nothing unusual for new theatres, but there will come a time when the glamour and newness will be worn off and then it will be "just another theatre" where pictures count and not plush upholstery. We understand this theatre cost close to a million dollars, which is quite a lot of dough in 1931 if you want our opinion. It has the name "FOX" in a varicolored revolving sign that is beautiful and can be seen from almost any section of town. Maybe that was the main reason for building the theatre. If it was, it's a success, but we are wondering who is going to pay the interest on that million-dollar investment, or will there be any interest paid?

We have been visiting our old friend, Professor G. L. Scott, for a couple of days. Prof. is the director of music in the Hillyard high school, directs the Elks' band and an orchestra, and teaches the young hopefuls how to play "me, me, ra, do" on the piano and to sing "Go and tell Aunt Rhody that her old gray goose is dead." The Prof. carries a gun with him and every time he hears one of his pupils play a jazz selection he shoots him on the spot, and that's why jazz is becoming so unpopular here in Spokane. Every instructor in music ought to carry a gun.

Some years back Prof. stuck his number elevens under our wife's table for a couple of years and yelled for more sowbelly and beans. Today he very frequently dines at Davenport's cafe and orders lobster and shrimp salad. That's what comes from living in the city, but he's the same old Prof. and that's all that counts with us. May his shadow never grow less.

▼

We saw a sign in a store window today which read, "Ladies' Ready-to-Wear Clothes." That's what we have been insisting on for years, and we are glad to know that they are finally coming to it.

▼

Chelan, Wash.

This town is located at the lower end of Chelan Lake and it is said that this lake is the most beautiful body of water in the world.

We saw only part of this lake and that was by twilight as we drove into town, but our guess is that the guy who first made that statement never saw Lake Crescent out in the Olympic Mountains. That's the lake that all countries tried to pattern after, but failed. Switzerland tried to imitate Lake Crescent, but made a flop of it with Lake Geneva.

Lake Chelan is undoubtedly a beautiful stretch of water. It is said to be about three miles wide by 60 miles long and is surrounded by mountains, and it heads right up in the glaciers where there is perpetual snow and ice.

The town of Chelan is a right lively looking place, which is dependent to quite an extent upon fruit and tourists. During the winter season we dare say they will have plenty of time to play checkers and bridge.

The Ruby theatre is a mighty keen showhouse for a town located away off here in the mountains, and it is presided over by Miss Kelsey, who impressed us as a delightful lady and a thorough theatre woman as well. If she doesn't make the Ruby pay it will be no use for any one else to attempt it. We are invited to stop on our way back through here tomorrow and meet Miss Kelsey's mother, which we certainly will be pleased to do.

▼

A telegram from home advises us that there has been an addition to our mongrel family at the ratio of 7 to 1. Anybody want a pup?

▼

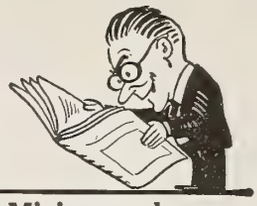
Wenatchee, Wash.

When we drove through this state two years ago there was a guy by the name of A. H. McDermott at Omak who put up a squawk because we didn't drive up there and see him, although it was 150 miles off our road. This time we went up there and when we got there we found that he had sold his theatre and gone to Neppel, Wash., but luckily he happened to be in town when we got there. He introduced us to his wife, who was formerly Miss Dillon of O'Neill, Neb., one of the suburbs of our home town, and of course we had quite a gabfest talking about the crookedness of people back there that we both knew. Mac was just leaving for Neppel on the stage and we persuaded him to ride with us as far as Wenatchee.

At Omak we met Mr. Cleland, who operates the Gem theatres. Cleland has had a great deal of experience in the picture business, having been a film salesman for a number of years, and he can now appreciate just what brought on those terrific headaches with theatremen when he gave them "the very lowest minimum price" of his pictures. From our conversation with Cleland, and from the looks of the Gem theatre front, we are of the opinion that Omak has a real theatre manager and there would seem to be no call for another theatre in Omak.

Two Fox Theatres

Last night we called on Charlie Grieme, who owns the Vitaphone and Mission theatres. Charlie is one of those regular boys you love to meet and never forget, and what do you think he did? He sent a box of Delicious apples down to the garage and had them put in our car, and now you know what kind of a guy Charlie is, and we believe he is even better than that. He was playing "Alexander Hamilton" with George Arliss and had a very good business for a picture of that time in a town full of transient apple pickers. Usually "heavy stuff" isn't so good for this class of patronage. We want to thank Charlie, not only for the apples, but for giving us as much of his time as he did. Hereafter whenever we see a big red apple we are going to think of Charlie and Wenatchee.



Fox has two theatres here, the Fox Libertl and the Rialto. Herb Sabottka is the manager and a most delightful gentleman to meet. Like all other theatremen we have met, he attributes the lack of patronage to theatres to two causes, general depression and weak service, although he thinks that the depression is the major cause. Apple harvest time is the theatre harvest time for Wenatchee and we judge the boys are making the most of it.

Messrs. Brinkerhoff and Martin, who operate the Paramount theatre at Okanogan, gave us a mighty pleasant welcome and the half hour we spent with them was altogether too short. Some time we want to go back there when the salmon are running in the Okanogan river and get us a long-handled pitchfork and wade right in and pick out some big ones. These boys told us that they are so thick in that river that they crowd each other out on the bank. Now it's Elmer Gaily's turn.

We cross the Cascades today and go down the western slope. Let's hope we don't find any snow in the passes.

J. C. JENKINS,
The HERALD Man

CLASSIFIED Advertising

Ten cents per word, payable in advance. Minimum charge, $1.00. Copy and checks should be addressed Classified Ad Dept., Motion Picture Herald, 1790 Broadway, New York, N. Y.

The Recognized National Classified Advertising Medium

Mail Order Bargains

PROSPERITY HANGS AROUND THIS CORNER—HERE'S WHY—REAL VALUES ALWAYS IN NEW EQUIPMENT: Webster 250 type Amplifiers, $29.75; Forest 15 amp. Rectifiers, $59.50; Double Bearing Intermittent Movements for Simplex, $69.75; Film Splicers, $4.95; Plush Drapery Material, sq. yd. 77¢; Standard Make Lenses, $12.75; G. E. Mazda Lamphouses with Regulators, $97.50; Bench Rewinders 2000' reel, per set $5.97; Special Theatre Carpet, 69½¢ per yd.; Carpet Cushion or Acoustical Felt, 27½¢ sq. yd.; Automatic Reflector Arc Lamps, $139.90; Carbons, 25% discount; Automatic Changeovers, per set, $39.85; Photocells, all types, each $12.95; Da-Tone Sound Screens, 39¢ sq. ft.; Silver Sound Screens, 54¢ sq. ft.; Beaded Sound Screens, 59¢ sq. ft.; All AC Portable Sound-on-Film, $796.60; Superior Projectors, late model with Rear Shutters, $475.00. Many other bargains in new equipment. S.O.S. CORP., Dept. EH, 1600 Broadway, New York City. Cable Address, "SOSOUND," New York.

STANDARD GENUINE SOUND PRODUCTS AT WHOLESALE—Everything shipped direct from factory: Samson No. 19 Amplifiers, $55.00; Silver Marshall No. 692, $90.00; Genuine Racon Horns, complete with Unit, Transformer and Exciter, $98.00; 30 ampere Rectifiers complete with tubes, $85.00; Da-Tone Sound Screens, 38c square foot; Exciter Lamps, 98c; Rectifiers for sound-on-film, eliminates storage batteries, $45.00. Write us your needs. THEATRE SOUND SERVICE, 130 S. Clinton Avenue, Rochester, New York.

Theatres For Sale Or Rent

FOR SALE: Theatre, town 5,000, extraordinary bargain for quick disposal. Address Box No. 75, Motion Picture Herald, 1790 Broadway, New York.

Chairs For Sale

1,250 HIGH GRADE SPRING CONSTRUCTED CHAIRS: Full upholstered backs, covered in green Velour; Spring Seats covered in imitation Spanish leather. 600 Heywood-Wakefield panel back chairs, spring seats newly upholstered and covered in green imitation Spanish leather. Reasonable prices. Write to ILLINOIS THEATRE EQUIPMENT COMPANY, 1150 South Michigan Avenue. Chicago, Illinois.

700 USED HARDWOOD PORTABLE CHAIRS in sections of two. 1,400 Upholstered Chairs, backs fully covered in red Velour; seats covered in imitation Spanish leather—$2.00 each. 700 Leather Upholstered Chairs, heavy panel backs covered in red imitation leather—$2.25 each. Five-ply veneer chairs, 90c each, in any quantity. 400 Heywood-Wakefield upholstered panel back, squab seat covered in brown imitation leather—$2.25 each. ILLINOIS THEATRE EQUIPMENT COMPANY, 1150 South Michigan Avenue. Chicago, Illinois.

BIG BARGAIN in used Opera Chairs, 600 upholstered, 800 veneer. Address Movie Supply Co., 844 Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Illinois.

Theatres Wanted

WITHIN 400 miles of New York. Very limited capital available. Address Box No. 80, Motion Picture Herald, 1790 Broadway, New York, N. Y.

Theatre Training Schools

THEATRE EMPLOYEES—Learn modern theatre management and theatre advertising. Approved and specialized home-study training for theatre employees. The Institute's training leads to better positions. Free particulars. Address THEATRE MANAGERS INSTITUTE, 325 Washington Street, Elmira, New York.

Sound Equipment Bargains

THE LAST WORD IN SOUND ON FILM AT A REMARKABLY LOW PRICE—FOR $395.00 YOU GET—two S. O. S. Sound Heads complete with genuine Jenkins Telephoto Cells; Licensed True Tone Optical Systems; G. E. Exciter Lamps; All Drive Attachments; Operadio Combination AC Power Supply including Head Amplifier; A and B Battery Eliminator, Sound-on-Film Fader, all in one unit; Wright-DeCoster Stage Speaker; Dynamic Booth Monitor, or choice of two special G. E. Constant Motors instead. ALLOWANCE MADE FOR DISC EQUIPMENT. Sound Heads less Amplification and Speakers, $247.50 pair complete. Address S. O. S. CORP., Dept. E-H, 1600 Broadway, New York City. Cable Address, "SOSOUND," New York.

Equipment Wanted

WILL PAY best prices for Simplex and Powers projectors and mechanisms, Reflector Arc Lamps, Motor Generators, Rectifiers, Lenses, Spotlights, Ticket Registers, Electric Fans, Talkie Equipment. Address P. O. Box 2042, DeSoto Station, Memphis, Tenn.

HIGHEST PRICES paid for Simplex Projectors or Mechanisms only. Address Box No. 24, Motion Picture Herald, 1790 Broadway, New York City.

HIGHEST PRICES paid for used opera chairs, projection machines, etc. Address Movie Supply Co., 844 Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Illinois.

CASH PAID FOR OLD SIMPLEX PROJECTORS OR MECHANISMS. PEERLESS or Strong Reflector Arc Lamps. Will buy equipment in any condition. Pay highest prices. Address Amusement Supply Co., Inc., 630 Ninth Ave., New York, N. Y.

Position Wanted

OPERATOR for eleven years, like to make a change account of health. California or New Mexico preferred. Can operate any sound projector. References, married, age 26. Address K. Tiffany, Angola, Indiana.

PROJECTIONIST wishes position, ten years actual experience, experienced with sound equipment, will locate anywhere. Address Harold Pope, Dierks, Ark.

Projector Repairing

BEST SHOP for repairing projection machines. Prompt service, reasonable prices. Address Movie Supply Co., 844 Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Illinois.

SKILLED MECHANICS, specialized tools, and a shop equipped for but one purpose can offer you nothing but the best in repair work. That is what I have, and I can offer you the best in the overhauling of your motion picture machinery equipment. One of the oldest repair men in the territory, and serving some of the largest houses. Relief equipment furnished free. For results bring your work to Joseph Spratler, 12-14 E. Ninth Street, Chicago, Illinois.

Help Wanted

PROJECTIONISTS, ELECTRICIANS, SOUND ENGINEERS: We want one good, live representative in each locality selling our line to small Theatres and Non-theatrical Institutions. Big money in it for you. No investment required. Sales ability is your best reference. Write for details. Box 81, Motion Picture Herald, 1790 Broadway, New York, N. Y.

Equipment for Sale

WORLD'S LARGEST CLEARING HOUSE OF USED EQUIPMENT—VALUES GALORE:—Rebuilt Ticket Machines, Four Unit, $79.50; Five Unit, $94.75; Choice of 5,000 Upholstered Chairs, 75¢ up; Super Mellaphone Turntables, each $39.75; AC Film Speed Indicators, $7.50; Simplex Mazda Lamphouses, $39.75; Guaranteed Rebuilt Simplex Mechanisms, $197.50; Rebuilt Powers 6B Mechanisms, $59.50; Lenses, all sizes, $9.75; Sound Mixer, $3.95; Samson, Webster, Silver-Marshall Amplifiers, other makes, $12.50 up; Double Turntable Non-Sync Outfits, $35.00; Automatic Reflector Arcs, $69.75. We buy or trade anything—WHAT HAVE YOU? Write for list. S.O.S. CORP., Dept. U, 1600 Broadway, New York City. Cable Address, "SOSOUND" New York.

TWO Guaranteed Rebuilt Simplex Projectors at Big Bargain. Address P. O. Box 2042, Desoto Station, Memphis, Tenn.

SAMSON No. 19 Amplifier with Tubes, $45.00. Wright DeCoster Speaker, $15.00. Condition perfect. Address P. O. Box 2042, DeSoto Station, Memphis, Tenn.

THEATRE EQUIPMENT, new and used. Opera chairs, projectors, screens, generators, rectifiers, reflecting arc lamps, etc. Write for bargain list and catalog. Address Movie Supply Co., 844 Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Illinois.

FOR SALE — ATTENTION INDEPENDENT DEALERS: Simplex large and small magazine rollers, and Asbestos Heat Shields, made of the best grade heat resisting material. Write for prices. Address Joe Spratler, 12-14 East Ninth Street, Chicago, Illinois.

BIG BARGAINS — Rebuilt Simplex Motor Driven Machines with type "S" Lamp Houses, with late type Flat Belt friction drive Speed Controls, $300.00 each. Rebuilt Powers 6B Motor Driven Machine, $235.00 each. DeLuxe Motiograph Machine, $250.00 each. Big Stock of Exhaust and Oscillating Fans for DC and AC current. Generators, all makes, ticket selling machines, film containers, etc., all at bargain prices for immediate shipment. Write: ILLINOIS THEATRE EQUIPMENT COMPANY, 1150 South Michigan Avenue. Chicago, Illinois.

FOR SALE—2 Late Model Peerless Reflector Arc Lamps, like new, $130.00 each; 2 Simplex Projectors, perfect condition, $195.00 each; Hertner Generator, complete, $150.00. Address Box No. 485, Rochester, New York.

FOR SALE—2 New Type Peerless Lamps. 1 MP 25-25 Forest Rectifier. Used six months. Cost $611.00. Make me an offer, cash. Address William M. Voigt, Mgr., Town Hall Theatre, Bainbridge, N. Y.

2 PEERLESS reflector arcs, $95 each. 2 Morelite reflector arcs, $100 each. New rheostats 30-50 amps, $30; others 15-30 amps $15. Everything guaranteed perfect condition like new. Fenyvessy Strand Theatre, Rochester, New York.

1-REBUILT Simplex Machine, with double bearing intermittent movement, rear shutter, and five-point pedestal, $350.00 cash. Address Box No. 82, Motion Picture Herald, 1790 Broadway, New York, N. Y.

SEVERAL PAIRS of used half size lenses, $25.00 per pair. Address Box No. 83, Motion Picture Herald, 1790 Broadway, New York, N. Y.

For Sale

POP CORN—Guaranteed South American Variety. New Crop. Unusually large popping volume. Excellent Quality. 100 pound bag $7.50. Address Douglas Co., Box D7631, Kansas City, Mo.

EVERYBODY BENEFITS . . .

. . . by the introduction of Eastman Super-sensitive Panchromatic Negative. Actor, director, camera man, laboratory worker, exhibitor, audience . . . right down the line, definite and substantial advantages are derived from this major improvement of 1931. And the producers and exhibitors in whose pictures it is used benefit most of all . . . in better photography and better pictures in general. Eastman Kodak Company, Rochester, New York. (J. E. Brulatour, Inc., Distributors, New York, Chicago, Hollywood.)

EASTMAN SUPER-SENSITIVE
Panchromatic Negative, Type 2

Paramount Proudly Presents
Two Screen Favorites . . .

★

GARY COOPER

★

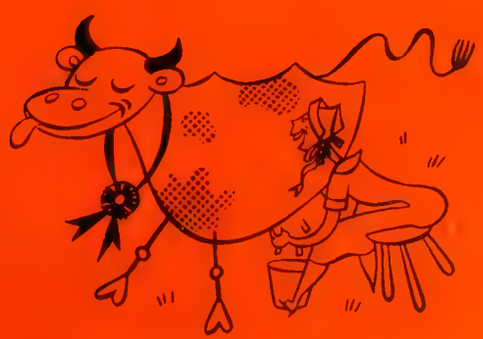
CLAUDETTE COLBERT

in

"HIS WOMAN"

● Preview audiences emphatically tagged this one "sure hit". Modeled for the women; with an appeal for all fans in any locality. Cooper is excellent. Colbert has her most appealing role, and there's a darling baby that takes them plenty! Screen it! Book it! Gather in the profits! Directed by Edward Sloman. From "The Sentimentalist" by Dale Collins.

PARAMOUNT



MOTION PICTURE HERALD

A CONSOLIDATION OF EXHIBITORS HERALD-WORLD AND MOTION PICTURE NEWS bankers' week

RKO "TELLS ALL"

NEW FOX HEAD

In Two Sections—Section One

SEE STORY ON PAGE 11

Vol. 105, No. 8 Entered as second-class matter, January 12, 1931, at the Post Office at New York, N. Y., under the act of March 3, 1879. Published Weekly by Quigley Publishing Co., Inc., at 1790 Broadway, New York. Subscription, $5.00 a year. Single copies, 25 cents. November 21, 1931

BIG!

See pages 30-31

Held Over 2nd Week
New York Paramount!

PARAMOUNT'S

timely hit with

Richard Arlen, Peggy Shannon, Jack Oakie, Regis Toomey, Charles Starrett. Directed by Norman McLeod.

"TOUCHDOWN!"

ASK M-G-M!

NOTE: Write to M-G-M Ad Dept., 1540 Broadway, N.Y.C., for these mats available at nominal cost. Actual sizes are indicated at the bottom of each ad.

These are the ads that told New York about "The Champ". Not since "The Big Parade" such business. Standees at every show!

AD Nº 1

3 COL X 290 LINES

AD Nº 2

WALLACE BEERY, JACKIE COOPER, directed by KING VIDOR in the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Talkie, destined to be the greatest success of 1931.

ASTOR TONIGHT 8:40 Twice Daily Thereafter

3 COL X 95 LINES

AD Nº 3

★★★★ "The Champ' makes a 4 star goal. Not in the history of talkies was weeping so profuse and so enjoyable. The amazing talents of little Jackie Cooper with the superb histrionics of big Wallace Beery in a graceful, passionate, heart-rending, warmly human story by Frances Marion, directed masterfully by King Vidor. It's a winnah! And how! There's a conclusion so touching, so full of the emotion which tugs at one's heart that men, women and children alike are caught in the kerchief-act as director King Vidor gives us a supremely spectacular climax." —Irene Thirer, Daily News

"The Champ is eminently worth seeing." —Thornton Delehanty, Eve. Post

"Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer has asked us its advertisements for a word to describe the picture. The picture is Jackie Cooper and every superlative in the dictionary would be needed to do justice to the nine-year-old child who can make you cry, laugh or just sit spell-bound. A grand picture." —Rose Pelswick, Eve. Journal

"Jackie Cooper, unquestionably the most talented child actor this reviewer has ever seen in celluloid, with Wallace Beery give dramatic entertainment of a sort that should keep the lines at the box office." —Julia Shawell, Eve. Graphic

"Young Jackie Cooper proves by one of the finest and most knowingly sensitive portrayals of the recent cinema that he is an actor of genuine and definite distinction. 'The Champ' is so tenderly and knowingly played by Mr. Beery and young Coopes that proest as you may against its frank attacks on your tear ducts, you can hardly escape a share of its undeniable poignancy." —Richard Watts, Jr., Herald-Tribune

"When Wallace Beery and little Jackie Cooper appear in the same picture the combination should be enough to create an irresistible event in the cinema. 'The Champ' is even better than that because King Vidor has directed it. It gets you. Entertaining from beginning to end, excellently played and directed, it deserves a long run." —William Boehnel, World-Telegram

"It is unquestionably box office. It brings Skippy' Cooper back to us. It brings Wallace Beery back to us. King Vidor is the director. It is warming and engaging. For acting, it is unbeatable. Jackie Cooper rings as true as a bell. You'll watch 'The Champ' from a ringside seat." —John S. Cohen, Jr., Sun.

"A terrific wallop right to the heart—that's 'The Champ', the Metro masterpiece of entertainment that won film-fame last night while the first night audience voiced its acclaim in tears and cheers. Simply superb in every department. 'The Champ's' a winner from every angle." —Regina Crewe, N. Y. American

ASTOR B'WAY and 45th STREET

Twice Daily 2:30—8:30. Three Times Sundays and Holidays 3—6—8:30. Matinees (except Saturday) 50c to $1. Evenings 50c to $2.00. All Seats Reserved.

3 COL X 190 LINES

AD Nº 4

Out of the music studios of California has come a talking picture so thrilling, so majestically moving that true immortality awaits it. This boy, who had such an abiding faith in the fallen idol, his father! How he will win your heart as he fights his father's fight, a laugh on his lips but a pang in his young heart! Wallace Beery—never before so wonderful! Jackie Cooper—the boy star with heaven in his face! King Vidor—directing each golden moment with superb artistry. No wonder "The Champ" takes its place among the screen's mightiest!

WALLACE BEERY
JACKIE COOPER

ASTOR WORLD PREMIERE
TOMORROW NIGHT at 8:40, Twice Daily Thereafter
SEATS ON SALE AT THE BOX-OFFICE, BROADWAY & 45th STREET

3 COL X 190 LINES

AD Nº 5

3 COL X 255 LINES

AD Nº 6

This boy, who had such abiding faith in the fallen idol, his father! How he will win your heart as he fights his father's fight, a laugh on his lips but a pang in his young heart! Truly "The Champ" takes its place among the screen's mightiest!

From "The Big Parade" to "Street Scene" the name of King Vidor has meant unfailing directorial perfection, the warm human touch, the keen feeling for dramatic thrill. You will judge his new work for yourself. We believe it is his greatest METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER proud of its recent offerings, "The Guardsman", "A Free Soul", "Susan Lenox," and "The Sin of Madelon Claudet" is most proud of its newest talkie, "The Champ."

5 COL X 145 LINES

AD Nº 7

3 COL X 150 LINES

AD Nº 8

3 COL X 140 LINES

AD Nº 9

3 COL X 100 LINES

THE OLD FIGHTIN'
SHOWMEN WHO SAY
"SHOW ME!"

WILL TORPEDO ALL YOUR PAST RECORDS!

BILL BOYD · ROBERT ARMSTRONG
JAMES GLEASON
GINGER ROGERS · HARRY BANNISTER
Directed by Albert Rogell
Story by Commander Herbert A. Jones
Scenario by Lew Lipton
A CHARLES R. ROGERS PRODUCTION
HARRY JOE BROWN, ASSOCIATE PRODUCER

SUICIDE

OPENS TO-DAY

COCK ANSWERS

Today, as never before, you need big pictures. Today, as never before, big pictures respond to big advertising. Today, as never before, you should cash in the last dollar of big profits.

SUICIDE FLEET is BIG. It's in a class with "Cimarron", "Hell's Angels", "All Quiet", "The Big Parade", etc.

RKO PATHÉ is ready to help you put over Suicide Fleet with a bombardment of smash advertising.

SUICIDE FLEET warrants smash he-man advertising. Let 'er rip! SUICIDE FLEET will torpedo all your past records!

A. P. Waxman

Advertising Counsel
RKO PATHÉ

FLEET

RKO PATHÉ

IN 51 KEY CITIES!

"One of the finest produced pictures Hollywood has given us!"

says Santa Ana Register

Wildly enthusiastic Santa Ana, Cal., preview audience indicates great box office bet for you.

SURRENDER

with

WARNER BAXTER

LEILA HYAMS

RALPH BELLAMY

C. Aubrey Smith, Alexander Kirkland

William Pawley, Howard Phillips

From the novel "Axelle" by Pierre Benoit

Directed by WILLIAM K. HOWARD

Coming Up:

GOOD SPORT
Linda Watkins, John Boles

OVER THE HILL
James Dunn, Sally Eilers, Mae Marsh

Going Over:

WILL ROGERS
Ambassador Bill

THE YELLOW TICKET
Lionel Barrymore, Elissa Landi

YOU'VE GOT TO RECKON WITH FOX FOR PROFIT THIS YEAR

NOV 20 1931 ©CIB 134665

MOTION PICTURE HERALD

Vol. 105, No. 8 November 21, 1931

Sell 'Em While They're Hot!

MOTION PICTURE fame, which means screen merchandise, used to be a warm, steady, enduring glow. For more than ten years for each of them Charles Chaplin and Mary Pickford were the most famous persons in the world and on the screen stood at a stellar height that was unapproached. Today screen fame comes in hot flashes, like summer lightning. Many causes contribute to this condition. Distribution is more rapid in every field of communication. Printing is better, faster, cheaper. The press is more diligent and swifter. The radio has entered as a factor. Cycles in taste and waves of trend which in 1915 crossed the country in a year, or in terms of months at the fastest, now express themselves almost simultaneously from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

To be sure there is not now and never will again be such screen fame as Miss Pickford and Mr. Chaplin enjoyed at the zenith of their careers. They achieved screen circulation and reiterative appearances in terms that the industry cannot today approach. Both these players worked for considerable periods in one and two reel products, issued sometimes at the rate of one a week, and ever at short intervals. Theatres played daily changes of program. Pickfords and Chaplins were not periodic releases, they were continuous flows of personality product. In 1917-18 there were no less than four thousand lawful prints of Chaplin comedies in distribution in the United States, and no one can estimate how many bootleg pirate prints were issued. Screen fame and merchandising values then were cumulative, and cumulative over a period of years. Today the tendency is to hatch screen sensations today, to see them feathered out and flying tomorrow and the next day in an obscure process of moulting.

Public taste has always been that way, always eager for the new, the fresh, or the seemingly new and fresh, and always with appetite enough to keep up with the increasing speed of delivery.

The motion picture audience is young and youth cares not a merry hoot about tradition. For the controlling fraction of the audience of the screen the World War is a dim historical matter, and this is, we know, quite another world now.

A case illustrative of how a success can come flashing out of the sky now is afforded apparently in the box office figures and runs reported on the Radio Seth Parker picture. A year ago the screen world did not know there was a Seth Parker, mostly it found out only last week

The moral of all this is that competition being what it is and the audience being what it is, selling has now a much faster, more intense labor of responsibility to the industry. Never before have good selling, good advertising, swiftly and strikingly executed, been so much needed. The only time to sell a motion picture these days is now. Tomorrow it will not be merchandise and the other fellow will be selling his.

The best accountancy in the industry today amortizes negatives in a mere fraction of the period allotted in earlier years. Selling opportunity automatically amortizes itself just a little bit faster than that.

This goes for producer, distributor and exhibitor alike.

▲ ▲ ▲

"Keep Moving!"

BUSINESS being what it is, or what it is not, certain observations about the conduct of the American dollar are of special interest in this cash-at-the-box-office industry. Normally we do a total business in these somewhat United States of from eighty to ninety billion dollars a year, and it is done with about five billions of cash, the total of money in circulation, or alleged circulation, according to the currency experts. This means that in normal times, if there are normal times, each dollar turns over about seventeen times a year, or does $17 worth of business. That is why the economic and financial authorities have been proclaiming so loudly against the hoarding of money. A few weeks ago, before the formation of the National Credit Corporation, it was estimated that a billion dollars had been withdrawn from banks to be buried in the backyard or put into safety deposit boxes. The statisticians figure that $17,000,000 worth of business means about four million jobs, and if one hoards and keeps idle $235 he is keeping someone out of a year's work. Certainly money is not spent at the box office, and the more business that goes on up and down the street the more will be done by the theatre, too.

▲ ▲ ▲

Eighteen Versions

THE literary press is somewhat agog over the publication in England of a book made up of eighteen versions of the same short story. One Mr. John Fothergill wrote out a plot of seven lines and one and a half dozen writers set about amplifying it, each in his own manner. The resulting "Fothergill Omnibus" is out with a considerable diversity of writers, among them Rebecca West, Miss Margaret Kennedy and Gilbert K. Chesterton. It would seem to us of the motion picture world that this technique is rather rubbing it in. The screen has been accused of doing that very thing for these many years. Can it be that the art of the printed word would endeavor to make for itself a triumph of the same formula of the screen's weakness?

MOTION PICTURE HERALD MARTIN QUIGLEY, Editor-in-Chief and Publisher

Incorporating EXHIBITOR'S HERALD, founded 1915; MOTION PICTURE NEWS, founded 1913; MOVING PICTURE WORLD, founded 1907; MOTOGRAPHY, founded 1909; THE FILM INDEX, founded 1906. Published every Friday by QUIGLEY PUBLISHING COMPANY, 1790 Broadway, New York City. Telephone CIrcle 7-3100. Martin Quigley, Editor-in-Chief and Publisher; Colvin Brown, Vice-President and General Manager; Terry Ramsaye, Editor; Ernest A. Rovelstad, Managing Editor; Chicago office, 407 South Dearborn street, Edwin S. Clifford, manager; Hollywood office, Pacific States Life Building, Leo Meehan, manager; London office, Faraday House, 8-10 Charing Cross Road, London, W.C. 2, W. H. Mooring, representative. Member Audit Bureau of Circulations. All contents copyrighted 1931 by Quigley Publishing Company. All editorial and business correspondence should be addressed to the New York office. BETTER THEATRES (with which THE SHOWMAN is incorporated), devoted to the construction, equipment and operation of theatres, is published every fourth week as section 2 of MOTION PICTURE HERALD. Other Quigley Publications: MOTION PICTURE DAILY, THE HOLLYWOOD HERALD, THE MOTION PICTURE ALMANAC, published annually, and THE CHICAGOAN.

WHAT THE PRESS SAYS

"SAVIOR-ELECT"

THE CINEMA editor of TIME, the newsmagazine, goes for the RKO-Selznick story in a big way, making elaborate observation, comment and deductions, including these:

Hollywood producers were frankly frightened in 1929, when Radio Corp. of America entered the cinema industry by buying 118 Keith-Albee and Orpheum theatres, the producing facilities of Film Booking Corp., and organizing RKO. Their consternation seemed to have a reasonable basis. The new company had a directorate sufficiently powerful to rock any industry. David Sarnoff, head of Radio Corp., was chairman; other directors were General Electric's Owen D. Young, Publicist Herbert Bayard Swope, Bankers Arthur Lehman and Elisha Walker, President Merlin H. Aylesworth of National Broadcasting Co., Major General James G. Harbord, retired, Drygoods Tycoon Cornelius M. Bliss. President Hiram Brown was head of U. S. Leather Co. RKO was capitalized for $20,000,000. Behind it were all the resources of Radio Corporation of America, all Radio's affiliated companies for producing mechanical amusement—National Broadcasting Company, RCA Photophone, RCA Victor, RCA Radiotrons, Radio Music Publishing Company.

* * * * * *

The move which RKO made last week to extricate itself from a humiliating and costly situation, while it may again make RKO an important factor in Hollywood, must have greatly tickled the producers who were most worried two years ago. For RKO's savior-elect, David Selznick, son of Louis J. Selznick, the jeweler who stampeded the cinema from 1916 to 1919, is definitely a scion of the peculiar hierarchy which always has controlled the cinema industry and, it now begins to seem, always will.

* * * * * *

* * * Knowing observers last week suspected that the competition from RKO which Hollywood had foreseen with so much consternation two years ago, might now be forthcoming, not from a directorate of bankers, but from a clever member of Hollywood's own inner, more odd than vicious, circle.

▼

TOOTHPICKS!

THE DAILY NEWS of NEW YORK contributes importantly to the cheer of the nation and the current literature of the cinema in an editorial about the author of one of the season's outstanding pictures, in the following limpid words:

Theodore Dreiser, whose "An American Tragedy" found the capitalist system to blame when a young "worker" gets a girl in "trouble" and murders her to get out of it, goes investigating in Kentucky to get some more lowdown on capitalism, and is indicted on a charge of misconduct with a girl in a hotel room.

After Mr. Dreiser's alleged visitor is alleged to have entered Mr. Dreiser's alleged hotel bedroom, some party within is alleged to have locked the door behind. Then rural defenders of capitalism proceeded to use toothpicks propped against the door to obtain evidence. The toothpicks were not disturbed between 11 P. M. and 7 A. M. No doubt we'll be seeing a lot of toothpicks in the cinema dramas during the coming year.

We don't see why Mr. Dreiser should be indignant over the episode. A gentleman of his age and figure shouldn't take such charges as an insult. He should take them as a compliment.

Another "American Tragedy"

Newport News, Va., Nov. 1.—Theodere Dreiser today gave for publication a signed statement in which he flatly denied the charge of adultery brought against him in Bell County, Ky.

He offered "reassurance" that he was "incapable" of committing the offense with which he has been charged.

"Who's Who in America" records that Mr. Dreiser was born in Indiana in 1871.

This Week

Dollar problems beset industry; RKO in dilemma; New Fox chief — Page 9

Copy for Customer—Not Boss, Kenneth Collins tells Terry Ramsaye — Page 11

Awaited rewriting of anti-trust law would affect film mergers — Page 10

Most trade leaders denounce double featuring as a menace — Page 13

100,000,000 in United States read adventure stories — Page 20

Box Office Champions for October — Page 28

FEATURES

Editorial — Page 7

What the Press Says — Page 8

The Camera Reports — Page 15

J. C. Jenkins—His Colyum — Page 57

Your Public, by Rita C. McGoldrick — Page 58

DEPARTMENTS

Box Office Receipts — Page 39

Chicago — Page 54

Passing in Review — Page 48

Managers Round Table — Page 59

Short Features — Page 54

Music and Talent — Page 73

Sound Reproduction — Page 55

Productions in Work — Page 56

The Release Chart — Page 76

Classified Advertising — Page 82

REDEEMED!

THE HERALD-TRIBUNE of NEW YORK is editorially quite happy over the fact that the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences of that sometimes naughty-bad Hollywood has chosen to give its special honors to the perennial Marie Dressler, remarking:

The award of the Motion Picture Academy for the actress giving the best performance of the year on the silver screen has gone to an oldtimer, and there is something about the selection of Marie Dressler for this honor which tends to show that, for all its brashness, modernity and instability of affections, there is a little redeeming sentimentality in the motion picture world, after all.

Had the award been given to the screen actress of the most ultimate moment, whose ardent charms were bruited in the white lights of Broadway, whose fan mail staggered Hollywood facilities of delivery and whose face was a familiar feature of the boulevards of all the world, there would be no cause for comment. But when the judges selected an actress who for forty-seven years has given pleasure and amusement to millions, and whose screen career has dated from the earliest youth of the industry, there was indicated an unsuspected graciousness and appreciation behind the platinum blond exterior of Hollywood.

▼

VOICES

THE TIMES of NEW YORK in a news story records some painful and lofty opinions expressed by Mr. Hamlin Garland, the famed author and critic, who appears to have heard some unpleasant sounds somewhere. The TIMES says:

"American English" was defended against the strictures of British critics yesterday by Hamlin Garland, American novelist, in awarding the medal of the American Academy of Arts and Letters for good diction over the radio to John W. Holbrook, announcer for the National Broadcasting Company.

Mr. Garland conceded that "most of the Hollywood voices are dreadful" and sympathized with Stanley Baldwin's humorous proposal to erect a tariff barrier against their infliction through the talking pictures, but said also that we might well raise a tariff wall against certain types of English speech.

"We are not proud of our strident, bumptious, ignorant actors and our ballyhoo orators," said Mr. Garland, "but, on the other hand, I am sure that Mr. Baldwin (the former British Prime Minister) would not endorse certain cockney actors and orators who come to us as representatives of cultivated London. As we welcome the English of Sir Oliver Lodge, Forbes Robertson and Ramsay MacDonald, so I am sure that Mr. Baldwin does not object to the English of Walter Hampden, Ruth Draper and Otis Skinner.

DOLLAR PROBLEMS BESET INDUSTRY; RKO IN DILEMMA: NEW FOX CHIEF

by TERRY RAMSAYE

The gravitational forces of economic adjustment variously expressing themselves in changes all over the world map of business this week found expression in the motion picture industry in two sharply defined manifestations; first and most spectacularly in the announcement of a new "last hope" financing plan for the Radio Corporation of America's current experiment in the cinema, curiously staged and dramatized; and secondly in the announcement of the election of a new president, representing the Chase National Bank, for the much discussed Fox organization. Meanwhile in the Paramount-Publix sector, made exciting last week by changes in the directorate, the report was all quiet, with some minor tensions in the atmosphere. This was distinctly "bankers' week" in movieland.

In the expressions of the week one finds many manifestations of the fact that the motion picture has been woven deeply into the world's commercial fabric. In today's moves and problems in this industry the motion picture can no longer consider itself alone. Motion picture conferences now must take measure of foreign finance, the pound sterling, the wheat crop in Russia and Australia, the war situation in the Far East and complexities of things that in the dear old early days were of no moment to the youthful motion picture which was not yet big business.

Interestingly enough the motion picture industry's problems which used to be just pictures are now all dollars and debentures and such items as never appear on the screen at all. The ills of the industry are now being treated by dollar experts for dollar symptoms, whereas once upon a time a motion picture company's problem was motion pictures. It is perhaps germane to observe that today and now the only companies not deep in the throes of what we lightly call "readjustment" are those skillful enough, or fortunate enough, to have pictures of box office merit. There are those who may see in this the working out of the same economic law under which various enterprises achieved positions of greatness in the amusement world. A pungent observation of the day is that the motion picture business is just now very largely business and very little picture. There must ever be big money and big business in the motion picture industry, but, some way, they must find it possible for there to be also pictures. Some twelve or thirteen thousand theatres in these United States expect and will some way get motion pictures. They will, eventually, be made by showmen.

TINKER HEADS FOX; CLARKE IS CHAIRMAN

Edward R. Tinker, New York banker, was elected president of Fox Film Corporation, succeeding Harley L. Clarke, at the regular monthly meeting of Fox directors in New York on Tuesday. Clarke, who relinquishes the Fox presidency after less than 20 months' occupancy of the office, became chairman of the board of directors.

Tinker's election culminated many weeks of negotiations and planning on the part of Clarke and Chase banking interests, who mutually sought a successor to the post. Clarke, whose outside interests are of proportions which command a large part of his time, has long desired to relinquish the Fox presidency. Chase, whose Fox interests are said to approximate $110,000,000, has sought administrative control of the company, and the selection of Tinker, a former Chase executive, and now president of the Interstate Equities Corporation, met with their complete approval.

Clarke remains as a power in Fox affairs since, in addition to his chairmanship of the board, he continues as president of General Theatres Equipment Corporation, the parent holding company for Fox Film and subsidiaries. Moreover, Clarke and Tinker are business intimates and are said to be in complete accord on

(Continued on page 14)

RADIO'S PICTURE UNIT IS AT FINANCIAL CRISIS

BY JAMES CUNNINGHAM

This week, after something less than three years of adventures in movieland, as producers, distributors and exhibitors, the Radio Corporation of America's picture concern, Radio-Keith-Orpheum Corporation, arrived at a financial crisis with dramatic abruptness.

The situation also has been met with a remarkably dramatic candor, unparalleled in the history of motion picture finance, with an open audience to the business and lay press of New York, held Tuesday afternoon, with no questions barred or evaded.

A new chapter in the intricate story of the invasion of the motion picture by the great electrical interests, and with those interests, great banks, too, is about to develop, probably with eventuations far beyond today's surface indications.

The career of Radio-Keith-Orpheum in motion pictures has been influenced so unfavorably by economic storms, blowing from within and without the company, according to B. B. Kahane, RKO's general counsel, as to now place in jeopardy the entire structure unless stockholders ratify at a meeting on December 10 a plan to raise $11,600,000 in new funds which are said to be

(Continued on page 24)

AWAITED REWRITING OF ANTITRUST LAW WOULD AFFECT FILM MERGERS

Removing Uncertainties Would be Objective

Possible Seat Tax Only Other Legislation Move Expected to Concern Picture Industry

By FRANCIS L. BURT

Antitrust legislation during the coming session of Congress, directed primarily at the conservation of natural resources, may have a profound effect upon mergers in the motion picture industry, several of which during the past two or three years have been blocked by opposition of the Department of Justice.

The Sherman antitrust act, enacted 40 years ago, is declared by many to be so antiquated in many of its provisions as to fail lamentably to deal with present conditions. Any consideration of its amendment during the session must inevitably include changes to deal with matters which during the past two years have been subject to much criticism.

Doubt Change of Principles

There is no evidence that any effort will be made to change the basic principles of the antitrust statute, prohibiting combinations in restraint of trade or the creation of dangerous monopolies, but in addition to the legalization of agreements for the curtailment of production of oil, coal, timber and other natural resources, an attempt is expected to be made to re-write the bill so as to remove some of the uncertainties which now surround mergers in other industries.

The attitude of the Department of Justice toward revision of the law so far has been noncommittal, the Attorney General taking the attitude that it is his duty solely to enforce the laws as they may exist, but it is anticipated that he may have something to say regarding the matter in his annual report to be submitted to the President next month.

There is little probability that the coming session of Congress will enact much in the way of film legislation. The political situation and the pressure of other matters of far greater importance will serve to push motion picture bills into the background.

Ticket Tax Move Expected

Appropriations for conduct of the federal departments during the coming fiscal year, the administration's program for economic rehabilitation, including new banking legislation for domestic purposes and formal approval of the one year's suspension of debt payments; tax legislation, which will probably include an impost on admission tickets; tariff discussions and other matters of like import will take up most of the session's time.

Legislation amending the copyright laws, which failed of passage last session, is expected to be reintroduced, but, being of highly controversial nature, it is not probable that any determined effort will be made to obtain its adoption before next year.

Wall Street Bit Off Too Much in Trying To Run Film, Says United Press Writer

Wall Street bit off more than it could digest when it undertook control of the motion picture business "without a knowledge of showmanship," says Otto Sturm of the United Press in an article for Tuesday release in he newspapers served by that press association. The article is as follows:

"With another of the country's largest amusement enterprises reported on the brink of receivership, Broadway was of the opinion today that the Wizards of Wall Street bit off considerably more than they could chew, when they tried to run the motion picture business.

"Without a knowledge of that showmanship essential to the successful management of cinema enterprises, film circles said, the bankers behind the major producing companies became increasingly dictatorial not only in their legitimate financial sphere but to the point where they demanded and received a leading voice in the production, distribution, and other strictly cinematic phases of the business.

"Motion picture men of long standing in the industry were dropped when leading Wall Street interests entered the business in a big way about the time that William Fox was forced to relinquish control of his huge Fox Film Corporation. They were replaced by appointees of the bankers, who, however wise in the ways of finance, did not have the imagination, art and general showmanship necessary to fill the places of the somewhat extravagant but highly successful picture men that they replaced.

"The inevitable result, it was said, was the run of inferior pictures that has cluttered up the film exchanges in the last couple of years. Outstanding film successes have grown few and far apart, it was pointed out, and when they did appear were invariably the product of organizations whose bankers gave them carte blanche in the matter of producing pictures.

"As a result of the deteriorating quality of the Hollywood output the box-office revenues fell off. The business depression, according to Broadway, was a minor influence in this respect, as the industry's earnings record for 1930 proved that, given the right kind of pictures, the public will flock to the 'movies' in spite of and perhaps because of hard times."

Radio City House For Pictures Only

The 3,600-seat theatre in Radio City in New York will be a straight picture house, with the Music Hall, which will seat more than 6,000, devoted to the stage element, S. L. (Roxy) Rothafel, who will be managing director of the two houses, said Wednesday at a luncheon to celebrate the start of construction on Radio City. The Sixth Avenue Association was host.

"Showmanship," Roxy told his hearers, "is nothing more nor less than applied psychology and judicious extravagance." Human nature, he said, is the same the civilized world over, only "it is wrapped up in different packages." He did not find much in his trip abroad which will help in the Radio City theatres, he declared, but expressed gratification that European showmen are applying American stagecraft.

Senator Walters, of RKO, representing Hiram Brown, president, who is now in Hollywood, headed a group of RKO, RCA and RKO Pathe executives who were present at the luncheon. M. H. Aylesworth, president of National Broadcasting Company, an RCA affiliate, acted as toastmaster. Merle Crowell, of the Metropolitan Square Corporation, spoke of Radio City and its effect on the cultural life of the city and nation, his talk being rather an interpretation of the project as a whole, than a discussion of its physical aspects.

Radio Patents Suits Vs. RCA Dismissed

Equity suits brought against Radio Corporation of America in federal court at Wilmington, Delaware, by DeForest Radio, Poughkeepsie Gold Seal and Gold Seal Electric, were dismissed on Wednesday by Judge John P. Nields, who so ordered upon stipulation of all parties.

Nields last January refused to issue a preliminary injunction upon the motion of plaintiffs, but also refused to dismiss suits on a motion of RCA counsel. Refusal to grant a preliminary injunction was upheld by the U. S. circuit court of appeals.

"COPY FOR CUSTOMER—NOT BOSS"

Motion Picture Takes Itself Too Seriously, Says Kenneth Collins, Macy Publicity Head

By TERRY RAMSAYE

New York's most conspicuously successful advertiser and merchandiser thinks that the motion picture industry in its advertising efforts takes itself far too seriously, all the way from producer to exhibitor.

This authoritative expert uses large spaces to say lightsome things. He has a basic policy of being serious, but pleasantly serious, about things that people have to buy, and more blithe and merry about those things they do not have to have, like a noodle cutter, a baby's rattle—or even a motion picture. He is sure that the motion picture might be much more effectively sold.

This young man is a thoroughly normal, alert, curious person—and yet—he admits, observes, in the five years of the sound picture the industry has not yet sold to him one picture for one admission price. He, in other words, has not seen a talking picture in the theatre.

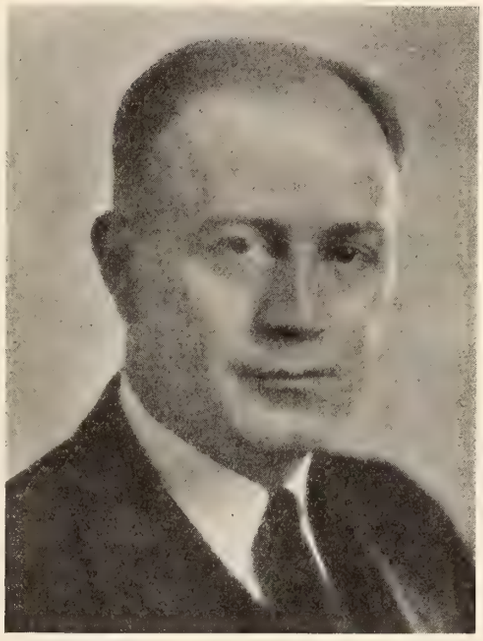
He came very near going to the Cohan theatre on Broadway to see Charles Chaplin in "City Lights," and did not quite make it. It is, however, his recollection that he got that buying impulse from a critic's page, or a news column. He does not remember seeing any advertising.

This challenging and interesting person is Mr. Kenneth Collins, executive vice president and director of publicity of R. H. Macy & Company, conducting a great New York department store.

▼

Macy's advertising under the Collins administration has come to command national and international attention in the general merchandising field, and even the singularly insulated motion picture industry centering in Broadway has become aware of him.

Right down into and through the doldrums of trade which we call "the depression," Mr. Collins has been forthrightly selling, selling, selling. He has kept the corners of his mouth and Macy's gross turned up.



To movieland there is a hint of miracle in that.

Further, each morning's paper in the metropolitan area of New York carries not only news about Macy merchandise, but cheerful news, always offered with a smile and sometimes a giggle or even a belly-laugh.

Every now and then Mr. Collins' name has come up in those long coffee-and-cigaret sessions at the Motion Picture club, always along with questions. "How does he do it?" "How the hell does he get away with it?" "How does he keep it up?"

Having a notion or two about this young man, and recalling that even though he had not yet bought a seat for a talking picture, he did once sit, without apparent suffering, through two hours of my own sound product, I ventured this week, for the first time in some five years, into a department store, Macy's, to make inquiry in behalf of our art and industry.

And Mr. Collins sits at the birthplace of the screen, which began its career at Koster & Bials on the site of Macy's store one April night, thirty-five years ago.

KENNETH COLLINS is thirty-three years old, and married. There is a little Kenneth, Jr., three years old. The Collins home is a pent house in walking distance from Macy's in the winter and a far from abandoned farm in Connecticut in the outdoor season. ¶ Mr. Collins was born in St. Paul. He took an A.B. at the University of Washington, and an A.M. at Harvard. He has been an Episcopal minister, a teacher of English and a wartime aviator. He just happened into advertising and his first job at Macy's paid him $90 a week. He now has a salary of $60,000 a year and a stock participation arrangement on which he can expect to retire with a million in ten years, and maybe two millions if business should get back to the pre-slump level. He is the best showman in the world of merchandise selling. ¶ Mr. Collins' greatest attainment was in selling his employers, R. H. Macy & Company. The rest has been easy. It took the same daring on the part of Jesse Straus to put Collins and his policy in charge, as Collins expresses in copy.

"Yes—I've heard about the movies," Mr. Collins admitted. "In fact I heard a story about the business the other day. It seems that someone had the nerve to ask Mr. ..... how business was, and he answered 'Colossal, colossal, in fact if it keeps improving it will be good in a month'."

Mr. Collins is a good-natured, quietly smiling person, established well above the noise of the street, in a little square, green walled office, mostly bookshelves, with three doors, two of which lead into the room and are rather busy with the sort of traffic that runs around an idea factory.

"Once upon a time three little boys sat around a cracker crate in their cave, playing at playing poker.

" 'I'll bet a million dollars,' Jimmy announced.

" 'See you and raise you two billion,' Billy decided.

" 'See you both and raise you a quintillion,' Bobbie flung at them.

" 'Take the pot, you educated son-of-a-gun,' Billy screamed, and ran out of the game."

That, in its delicate way, suggests to Mr. Collins the working psychology of motion picture advertising as he has encountered it.

A vigorous and gusty young woman burst into the office, with a smile of apology at the interruption, and presented a sketch and a catch line.

My eye skimmed along the shelves back of his desk just to gather what he might think worth having about an office, or what might just float in there. I inventoried two "New Yorker Albums," "The Psychology of Happiness," by the volatile Dr. Walter B. Pitkin of Columbia, and erstwhile scenario writer, Van Loon's "The Story of the Bible," and diverse volumes of fact and fancy, grave and gay, but no fiction.

▼

Mr. Collins was giving the submitted copy a swift appraisal, with a grin, so it was O. K.

It was a vertical three-columns of newspaper space devoted to selling bedroom furniture, but headed with a drawing of a cow and the display line, "The Cream of the Flock," that being followed immediately by these irrelevant words: "We know cows come in herds, not flocks, but we are talking about furniture, not cows. . . ."

It is the kind of an advertisement that makes the old-timers in the department stores shake their heads and wonder why the management of Macy's lets this young fellow buy white space to advertise cows—but his perfect defense is the gross.

"We were talking about movie advertising," he resumed. "I've wondered sometimes how it would be if someone would write a picture advertisement reading like this:

> This production didn't cost a lot of money, and no records were broken while we were making it, but when we brought it to the home office and screened it three men and two girls fell out of their seats. None was injured, and they all stayed to see it through. In fact, they seemed to like it rather well. Perhaps you would enjoy it, too.

So, it appears, Mr. Collins has a sharp

(Continued on next page)

You Can Hold Back Horse That's Running Away, Collins Points Out

(Continued from preceding page)

sense of contrast. I wonder if he will ever see a motion picture advertisement which makes itself conspicuous by its modesty of phrase and display.

Mr. Collins' copy importantly uses white space. The technique of the mail order journals and the patent medicine advertisers, who crowd their space with black reverse etchings and John Hancock boldface type, does not apply to his notion of creating an atmosphere of quality or an impulse for possession around Macy merchandise. He is also, as clearly evidenced by his copy, an exponent of the notion of "one idea—one advertisement." There is no splitting of messages, in a space saving effort to tell two stories at the price of one.

"I suspect," observed Mr. Collins, "from looking at the copy, that the motion picture tends to take itself very seriously indeed. That may be very well, but it is not important to the customers. They have a desire to be happy, and they are ready and eager to buy only when they are happy. When a woman comes to Macy's to buy a gown, that is an event, a gala event. We try to make it that and keep the mood."

▼

The talk turned to the production of copy and the problems of copy writers.

"The advertising agency enjoys some advantages as opposed to the company's own advertising department, in most instances," Mr. Collins remarked.

"The home office advertising department has to produce copy to suit the boss, always. Sometimes the agency does not have to.

"It ought not be necessary to say so, but the advertising to be of value must be written for the customer.

"We write copy at Macy's for the customer exclusively. It does not all please me personally. I often have arguments with my assistants—and I have some prima donnas in the department, too—and if they persist most frequently I give in and let the copy go. When it is good enough for them to fight for it, it is usually good enough to print."

Mr. Collins stood up and made a gesture of distance. "The customer, you know, is 'way off there, in a home, in Flatbush, in Jersey, in Westchester. She is not here over a desk mulling over merchandising problems. She thinks in terms of her own wants, not in terms of business.

"When I took this post at Macy's I had that idea very firmly in mind. I asked Mr. Jesse Straus, our chief, to agree not to look at any Macy advertisement until it appeared in the papers, and then to discuss it with me privately, if something needed to be said about it, for one year. The agreement has been kept."

▼

On one phase of advertising activity Mr. Collins was most emphatic. "It takes brains," he exclaimed, "to spend money on advertising and get something for it. I know of one department store in New York which spends about $875,000 a year on advertising and employs an advertising manager at $70 a week. They are not getting an $875,000 advertising job, they are getting a seventy dollar job."

"Why, in this department here I have several bright young women who earn salaries running into five figures."

Mr. Collins believes in women copy writers in businesses where women do the important proportion of the buying—it's eighty-five per cent at Macy's. Also he wants his writing women to be temperamental and enthusiastic.

"You can hold back a horse that's running away, but you can't make time with a nag of no pep and spirit."

In the battery of thirty-five writing prima donnas at Macy's many are married women.

"I like them with families," observed Collins. "The more babies they have the better they write about infant's wear and merchandise for the youngster."

Mr. Collins is proud of those bright young women, too, including the one who coined the line "It's smart to be thrifty."

"I saw an Atlantic and Pacific advertisement the other day that tickled me right through," related Mr. Collins in a moment of glee. "I picked up the telephone and called them up to say it was the best chain store advertisement I'd ever seen. And what do you imagine they told me? They said, 'Yes, we think it's great—it was written by one of your girls,—she's working nights for us'."

Sees Independents Aided by Mergers

"The present merging and realigning of major company structure leaves the independents greatly strengthened and holding the determining role in the industry's position for the current year," according to John R. Freuler, president of Big 4.

"During the past two years the entire independent setup has been completely revised. Today independents are on a firm foundation; they have attained sound equality and are now well organized and well stabilized."

M.C. Levee Appoints Academy Executive Group from Board

M. C. Levee, president of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences in Hollywood, has appointed an executive committee from the board of directors, one member representing each of the five Academy branches.

The committee includes: Conrad Nagel, actor; Frank Lloyd, director; Irving G. Thalberg, producer; Nugent H. Slaughter, technician; Waldemar Young, writer.

Awarded Three Sound Patents

Roy J. Pomeroy, film director, has been advised from Washington that three patents on sound recording and reproduction have been awarded him. The inventions are designed to correct theatre acoustics and remove background noises.

New Cooperative in England Facing Fight with Renters

(By Cable From London)

Formation of Film Industries Cooperative Society to purchase pictures for independent exhibitors promises to bring fireworks in the industry in Britain. Indications now are that opposition to booking combines by the Kinematograph Renters Society is stiffening.

The next thing awaited is the introduction of legal and political influence. The new cooperative sees no reason why independents should be discriminated against. The independent exhibitors say they are forced to pay 40 to 50 per cent of their grosses for pictures under percentage deals while circuits, because of their massed buying power, reduce this to 15 to 20 per cent.

A. S. Comyns Carr, one of the organizers of the cooperative, with Will Evans, Major A. J. Gale, W. H. McDonald, Sir Jordan Craigh and A. T. Bennett, says:

"A war of attrition is going on between American producers and British exhibitors. If the process continues indefinitely the cinema industry here will be under complete control of a small group of American producing companies. The only remedy is for independent exhibitors to stand together and obtain films on a cooperative basis."

Independents are flocking to the combine in large numbers and the situation is regarded as one of the utmost gravity in British film affairs.—W. H. M.

First House With Reversed Floor Is Built In New York

J. W. Springer, owner of a group of upper Manhattan theatres, is building another at Broadway and 95th street, which will be the first to utilize the reversed floor introduced at the last two meetings of the SMPE by its originator, Ben Schlanger, New York architect.

The house, seating 300, will have an unusual modified stadium seating arrangement. Architects are R. Irrera and Schlanger. Novel lighting and acoustical treatment features the house. Original plans called for rear projection, but a way was found to take full advantage of space conditions and still use standard projection, with an angle of less than one degree.

Hays Returns from Coast Sunday

Will H. Hays, president of the MPPDA, will arrive in New York on Sunday or Monday from Hollywood, where he conferred with producer members of the association. In mid-December, Hays will be guest of honor at the annual banquet of the Boston Chamber of Commerce. Hays' speech will be a highlight of the meeting and will be broadcast over a national radio hookup.

Universal Signs Rene Clair

Rene Clair, director of several French films, has signed a contract in Paris with Universal to direct one film. He and Meerson, art director, will go to Hollywood, returning in March to resume his Tobis contract.

MOST TRADE LEADERS DENOUNCE DOUBLE FEATURING AS A MENACE

Leaders' Views On Double Bills

Abram F. Myers, president and general counsel, Allied States Association: The practice is a malignant disease and its harmful effects are visited on all branches.

Ned E. Depinet, general western sales manager, Radio Pictures and RKO Pathe: It is an evil to producers, distributors and exhibitors alike.

Aaron Saperstein, president, Allied Theatres of Illinois: It is bound to bring on another disease of an even more serious nature—price cutting.

Lew Pizor, president, M P T O of Eastern Pennsylvania, Southern New Jersey and Delaware: It threatens to injure the quality of all product, and will increase operating costs while reducing gross admissions.

Al Lichtman, vice president and general manager of distribution, United Artists: It produces a shortage of product . . . increases playing time for bad pictures, but not for good pictures, and eventually hurts grosses. . . .

E. W. Hammons, president, Educational Pictures: The double feature practice is absolutely suicidal. It can offer no lasting benefit to either producer, distributor or exhibitor. As the short subject is the first portion of the standard program to feel the effects of double featuring, the short subject sales of all companies have been affected very seriously.

Col. H. A. Cole, president, Allied Theatre Owners of Texas: A rotten practice that will eventually drive both exhibitor and distributor out of business.

Sidney Wilmer, Wilmer & Vincent Corp., eastern exhibitors: We believe them to be an evil and a very great evil.

M. J. O'Toole, secretary, MPTOA: Double features confuse audiences—like too many rings in a circus.

Norman Moray, general sales manager, Vitaphone: It would require asbestos sheets to print what I really think of it.

Felix Feist, general sales manager, MGM: In a way, double features may be a benefit to producers and distributors. The practice increases playing time.

John R. Freuler, president, Big 4 Film Corp.: In houses unfitted to high overheads in flesh entertainment it offers variations that should prove diverting and profit-producing.

M. E. Comerford, eastern states exhibitor: There can be few people more opposed to the double feature policy than I. It is bad theatre policy.

Joseph E. Weber, president, American Federation of Musicians: It makes for more tedious programs and, in the long run, adds nothing to grosses.

Automatic House a Success

The small automatic theatre has a special intimate appeal that in the Studio theatre in Hollywood, at least, is promising profits for this type. This is revealed by Harold B. Franklin of the Hughes-Franklin circuits, operators of the studio, in an article in this issue's Better Theatres. Franklin further states that the two requisites of success for the automatic theatre is its location in a busy section, and a policy sharply adapted to that location. If he had to plan the Studio over again, he declares, he would add one or two hundred seats. The Studio seats 300.

Practically every phase of construction and operation of the new type of small theatre, whether automatic or otherwise, is dealt with in this issue's Better Theatres, which is the 1931 Fall Buyers Number, containing the industry's theatre equipment directories—The Equipment Index, Who's Who and Theatre Supply Dealers.

Flinn, Lally Lose Appeal From Film Storing Conviction

Convictions of John C. Flinn and Henry F. Lally, former Pathe executives, for unlawful storage of film were upheld by the Court of Appeals at Albany, N. Y., this week.

Flinn and Lally were convicted of violating the New York film storage ordinances, following the Pathe Studio fire of December 11, 1929, in New York. An appeal was made by attorneys for the convicted film men, who contended that the prosecution had failed to show that the film was actually stored at the studio and not taken there just prior to the fire. The convictions carry a fine of $500 or six months in jail. They are, of course, entirely unrelated to the indictments for manslaughter returned against Flinn and Lally as a result of the same studio disaster.

Plan Crime Prevention Film

The executive committee of the Citizens' Committee for Crime Prevention in San Francisco plans to sponsor a motion picture designed to show how criminals operate and what the public can do to aid the authorities in combating them. Definite plans concerning the production of the film have not been arranged as yet.

Definite Following Won In "Bargain" Instinct

Practice Variously Blamed to Block Booking, Extended Production and Lower Quality

This is the second of two articles on double featuring, presenting the results of a comprehensive study by Motion Picture Herald of the policy and its effects on all branches.

Last week's article considered the extent to which the policy has been extended nationally. This final article treats further of the effects—actual and probable—of continued, wide scale use of the practice, and presents opinions held by representative figures in various fields of the industry.

Charges that the double feature practice, believed by numerous leaders to be one of the most serious problems confronting the industry today, was forced on exhibitors by block booking, the extended protection granted first-run, and the reduced quality and length of considerable feature product turned out in the past 18 months, are made by central figures.

Block bookings, some of these men declare, contributed to the practice by forcing exhibitors to overbuy, leaving double featuring as the only method of using up their product commitments. Lengthy first-run protection, it is charged, created "unfair" competitive situations which subsequent-runs believed could be offset only by double featuring; while product of short running time or inferior quality, many exhibitors felt, comprised an unsatisfactory program when used alone. In consequence, standard, or quality, programs gave way to quantity programs. The contagiousness of the practice, coupled with the general business conditions, contributes to its spread.

Minority Forces General Use

Evidence that a minority of theatres in many communities has been able to force the majority to adopt the double feature practice unwillingly was also uncovered.

With the notable exceptions of New England states and Montreal, where the practice appears to have been accepted as standard theatre policy, all other sections where the practice is widespread find a numerical balance of theatres adopting double featuring as a defensive measure after the introduction of the policy into a community by a minority group of theatres. In several cities where this situation has been found to exist, as few as 15 per cent of the theatres in an entire community have been able to force

(Continued on page 32)

TINKER HEADS FOX; CLARKE CHAIRMAN

FOX PRESIDENT

ACME

EDWARD R. TINKER

(Continued from page 9)

matters of company policy. Tinker went on the Fox board as a Clarke nominee.

No radical changes in either organization or operations of Fox Film are foreseen by Fox executives as a result of Tinker's election. General opinion within the organization is that Clarke policies will be continued with but little change.

Official statements discounting the probability of vital changes were made after conferences with Tinker immediately following his election, and came in answer to revived reports that a Fox-Loew merger was made more imminent by the development and that prominent company executives were slated to go as a result. Tinker's election was described by the purveyors of these rumors as a prelude to these happenings and it was said that on their consummation Tinker would relinquish the Fox presidency to another. According to the reports, the new Fox president consented to his election only with the understanding that he was to occupy the post temporarily; ostensibly to accomplish the aforementioned objectives.

"No member of the Fox organization is working on the assumption that Tinker's administration will be a temporary one," said one Fox executive.

Doubt Fox-Loew Merger

This same inside spokesman scouted the idea of a Fox-Loew merger being imminent with Tinker being succeeded by an executive from within the industry immediately after the completion of the reported merger. Sidney Kent of Paramount and Nicholas Schenck of M-G-M had been mentioned as probable successors to the post in such an eventuality.

"The idea of a Fox-Loew merger," said the executive, "is no nearer to realization than it ever was and, in fact, as an idea it has been almost definitely abandoned. There are obvious advantages which make such a move desirable if it were legally possible, but at the present time the possibility is still as remote as ever. Attorneys have worked on such a plan for years without coming any nearer to a merger solution which would satisfy federal authorities. They are still working, but with less hope each year."

Both Quoted in Statement

Harley Clarke expressed his personal satisfaction over Tinker's election in a statement issued immediately after the board meeting had been terminated.

"I have been hoping for some time," said Clarke, "that Mr. Tinker would undertake this responsibility and am delighted he has now accepted it. He comes to the corporation with a long experience in banking and business management. His election is a part of the consistent effort of the board of directors to strengthen management personnel and has the approval of the company's bankers. In accepting the presidency, Mr. Tinker continues his connection with the Interstate Equities Corporation, which company has participated in all the recent financing of the Fox Film Corporation."

Tinker, upon taking over his new office, said: "I have been interested in the affairs of the Fox Film Corporation for some time. Mr. Clarke and I have been friends for many years and my relations with the bankers for the company have been equally cordial. I am looking forward to the renewal of pleasant relationships with old friends and associates."

In the course of its news account of the election of Mr. Tinker, the New York Times remarked:

> "Among the rumors that were widely discussed in motion picture circles was one that Mr. Tinker's election meant the return of William Fox, who founded the company, to a position of actual management in the company. The reasoning in connection with it was that new money for working capital was needed by the company and that Mr. Fox was the only person who was known to have money who would be interested in investing further in the company. Neither the assertion that the company required further working capital nor the theory that Mr. Fox had entered into the negotiations which resulted in the election of the new president received any confirmation."

Tinker, who became a member of the Fox directorate as a Clarke nominee at the company's 1930 annual meeting, has been engaged in financial work for more than 30 years, and is a director of more than 35 banking, manufacturing, mercantile, railway and oil corporations. He was born at North Adams, Mass., March 10, 1878, and after being graduated from Williams College, he entered the employ of Edward Sweet & Co., New York bankers, as a clerk. He later was employed by Vermilye & Co. and William A. Read & Co. in various capacities. In 1907, he became a member of the firm of Rhoades & Co., and in 1912 was made a vice-president of Chase National Bank, in which capacity he remained until 1920. He was president of Chase Securities Corporation from 1920 to 1925. For the following two years he was chairman of the executive committee of the Chase National Bank and Chase Securities Corporation. He has been president of the Interstate Equities Corporation since 1927.

BOARD CHAIRMAN

HARLEY L. CLARKE

MGM Product In Warner Theatres

MGM and the Warner Theatre circuit signed contracts early this week calling for the playing of all MGM product, including features, shorts and the Hearst Metrotone newsreel, in the Warner houses.

Clayton Bond of Warners handled that side of the negotiations and William F. Rodgers for MGM. The deal concerns those Warner houses which have not already bought M-G-M product.

Massachusetts Exhibitor Unit Elects Chiefs at Annual Meet

The Allied Theatre Owners of Massachusetts, at its annual meeting at the Hotel Bradford in Boston on Tuesday, elected: George A. Giles, president; Joseph H. Brennan, vice-president; Stanley Sumner, treasurer; James J. McGuinness.

Directors named, in addition to the officers were: M. J. Mullin, G. Ralph Branton, E. A. Cuddy, Harry McDonald, Victor J. Morris, R. A. Somerby, F. R. Plimpton, James J. Doyle, I. J. Hoffman, C. G. Barrett, Hershel Stuart, Thomas Meehan, John J. Ford, W. B. Littlefield.

THE CAMERA REPORTS

COOPERATION. Mary Pickford presents Mr. Hoover with the first ticket to the industry's benefit shows for the unemployed, now under way. (Photo copyright International News.)

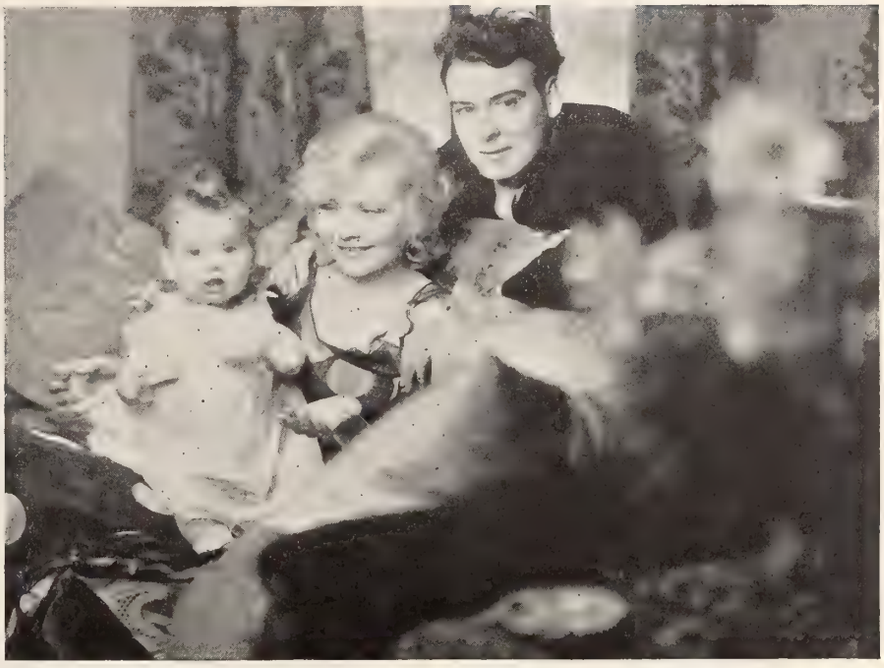
KING AND QUEEN. Marie Dressler, winner of the actress award of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, receives the gold statuette from Norma Shearer, for her work in MGM's "Min and Bill." Lionel Barrymore (right), won the actor award by his portrayal in MGM's "A Free Soul." At the left is George Arliss, also a former winner of Academy honors. (Acme photo.)

THE BIG SCENE. Every inch of space of Stage No. 4 of the Warner-First National Coast studios was required for this interior set for the forthcoming First National production, "Union Depot," in which Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., and Joan Blondell star. The resultant space is given as 240 feet long, 137 feet wide and 39 feet high.

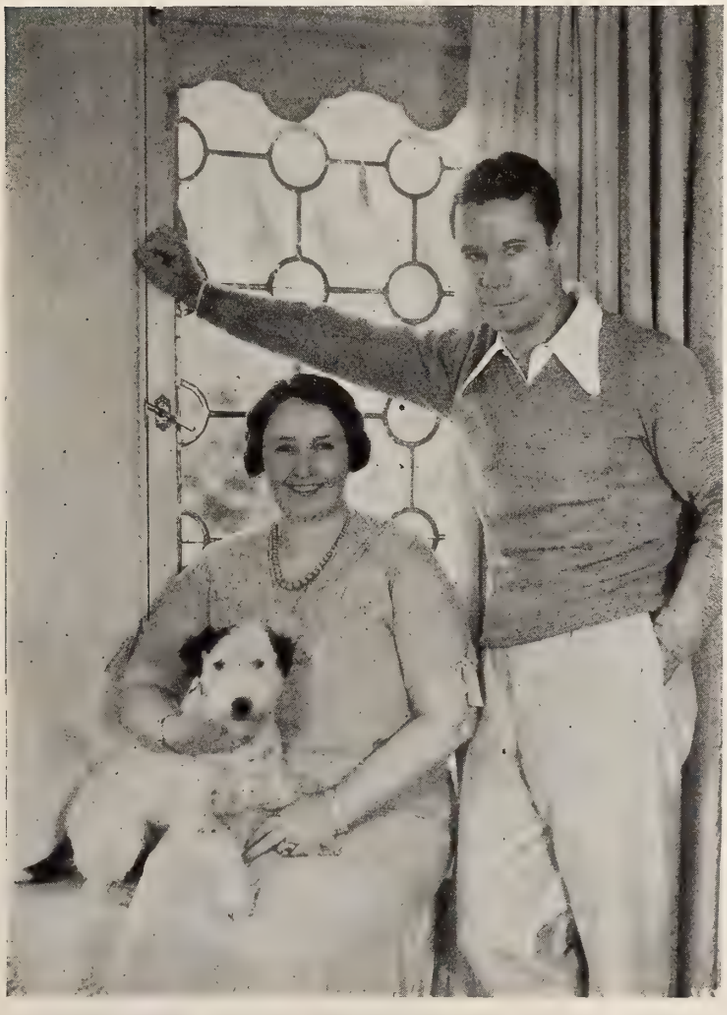
BOTH COMING STARS. There's Ruth Hall, Warner Brothers player —and there's the turkey. It won't be long now, as someone has said.

CAMERA EAGLE'S NEST. A. P. Alexander, Fox Movietone News cameraman in Seattle, perches his equipment in a precarious spot to get some novel shots of Uncle Sam's latest bombing planes. Oscar Darling, sound man, is standing on the wing. Leave it to the cameramen to meet the test of their ingenuity. The picture's the thing.

HUMPTY DUMPTY? No, Shirley Chambers, one of the newcomers in pictures, is instead on the rise in public favor. She is in Marilyn Miller's "Her Majesty, Love," a First National production.



THREE YOUNGSTERS. Dickie Moore and Georgie Ernest are trying to surround Elak, but it's a pretty difficult task because the dog weighs more than the two lads together. They're under contract to Warner-First National. It was a show for South California pets and their owners.



COMEDY FOOTBALL. Fraser MacLeod has done football publicity and backs it up with participation in the game. Geneva Mitchell and MacLeod appear in Mack Sennett's "All-American Drawback," an Educational release. And it's a comedy, naturally.

RISING. Wallace Ford, juvenile, was lent to Tiffany Productions by MGM for the role of the star reporter in "X Marks the Spot," Ford played in the Los Angeles version of "Bad Girl." Thence to the screen.

DOMESTIC. Evelyn Rosetta is the name of the center of attraction, and she's all interested in the camera. Which she comes by quite naturally. The parents, to whom a cameraman is scarcely a man of wonders, are Nils Asther, MGM featured player, and the former Vivian Duncan of the Duncan Sisters, stage and screen stars.

HOME, JOE. In the home of Joe E. Brown and Mrs. Brown after a busy day at the First National studio where the comedian starred in "Local Boy Makes Good." And of course we mustn't forget to mention the pet of the family. The home is as cheery as one would expect.

YOU CAN LEAD———. But Bobby "Wheezer" Hutchins of Hal Roach's Our Gang seems to have gone the adage one better. Of course Rossika is a trained and blooded Arabian mare. She's from the W. K. Kellogg stables near Pomona, Cal. The Our Gang comedies are MGM releases.

CANAVAN RAPS FAULT FINDERS IN INDUSTRY

Says Checkup Among Patrons Shows Feeling of Satisfaction for Present Crop of Pictures

"Radicals" and chronic fault-finders within the motion picture industry are vigorously denounced by William Canavan, president of the I. A. T. S. E. and M. P. Operators, in an exclusive statement to MOTION PICTURE HERALD.

"For some time past," Canavan stated, "it has been all too apparent that throughout the entire industry statements are being broadcast to the effect that our present motion picture productions are inferior to those produced in the past. Some have gone even to the length of declaring them to be very inferior.

Incalculable Harm, He Says

"These wild statements, which have no real foundation in fact, have worked incalculable harm to the industry. Making such statements publicly would be very questionable practice, even had they some grounding in truth, since they cannot possibly accomplish any useful purpose.

"Recently a very careful checkup was made with a view of obtaining first-hand knowledge of theatre patron reaction to present-day pictures. This check-up was made personally among people who are regular motion picture theatre patrons. The result indicated a feeling of general satisfaction on the part of the public. Movie fans, almost without exception, voiced the opinion that present productions are not only giving satisfaction, but are in fact excellent.

"It would really seem that the time has arrived when what we may term the production inferiority complex should be taken to a very dark closet, laid carefully away on the very topmost shelf thereof, and that hereafter in its place, full credit, pressed down and running over, should be given the industry for its really splendid work.

350 Features a Big Task

"This really would seem a wiser course than the one that has been pursued, which tends to discouragement and to minimize the tremendous efforts our scientists, engineers and producers have put forth, and to discourage attendance at motion picture theatres; for that last is one inevitable result of the course now being pursued. A better course would be to exchange our hammer for a good, loud horn.

"The motion picture is faced with the titanic task of producing in excess of 350 feature productions each year, which is an effort demanding an absolute maximum both of energy and skill on the part of all units of the present organization. The task of production in excess of one feature picture per week by each of the major studios is a feat equaled in magnitude by but very few if any of our great industries.

"In the very nature of things it cannot of course be expected that every one of this great number of productions, or even indeed that half of the total, will be what might be justly termed entirely satisfactory. In the main, however, the industry should realize splendid results have been attained.

Price War in Brooklyn

A price-cutting war is on in Brooklyn and is being accompanied by wholesale spread of the double feature policy.

The price war was instigated when the Elton theatre was taken over by Rachmil and Katz who inaugurated a double feature policy at a 10 and 15-cent scale. Loew's 46th Street theatre promptly replaced vaudeville with double features and cut prices from 25-50-75 to 15-25.

Exhibitors in the zone of the two theatres were forced to follow suit and a spread of double featuring at generally lower admissions resulted.

Brandt's Windsor theatre, in the Bronx, New York, adopted a double feature policy at 10 cents admission and a similar price cutting war is feared there.

Maxwell De-merging British First National From Pathe

Early this month the First National organization in England will de-merge from the Pathe interests incorporated about four and half years ago.

John Maxwell of British International holds the principal Pathe interests in England and he is setting it up as a separate renting entity to distribute some of his Elstree product. J. C. Jones, formerly secretary of the old Pathe British concern, and since in an executive position with M-G-M, is appointed managing director of the newly organized concern which will trade as Pathe Productions, Ltd. One of the first films to be presented by Pathe as a single entity will be the Monckton Hoffe play, "Many Waters," recently filmed by the John Thorpe independent unit affiliated with the British International lot, of which Thorpe was formerly general manager.—W. H. M.

Theatre Gains in Good Will; Offers House Use to Church

Frisch and Rinzler, operating a group of theatres in Brooklyn and Queens donated the use of their Lefferts theatre, in Queens to a neighboring church congregation when a disastrous fire completely destroyed the church building. Monty MacLevy acted for the company in arranging the matter.

A decided amount of good will was created for the theatre by the accommodation, expressed in the form of numerous letters and telephone calls which are said to have come into the theatre.

Freuler in Chicago

John R. Freuler, president of Big 4, is in Chicago conferring with B. N. Judells, Inc., new distributors for the independent product in that territory.

Develops Camera To Follow Moves Of Actor on Set

Dr. O. A. Peters, California inventor, has developed a "Psychephone," an arrangement whereby the camera is mounted on a movable platform equipped with a universal joint standard, so that the camera may be propelled about the set by a "prop" boy, and may be adjusted to any angle desired.

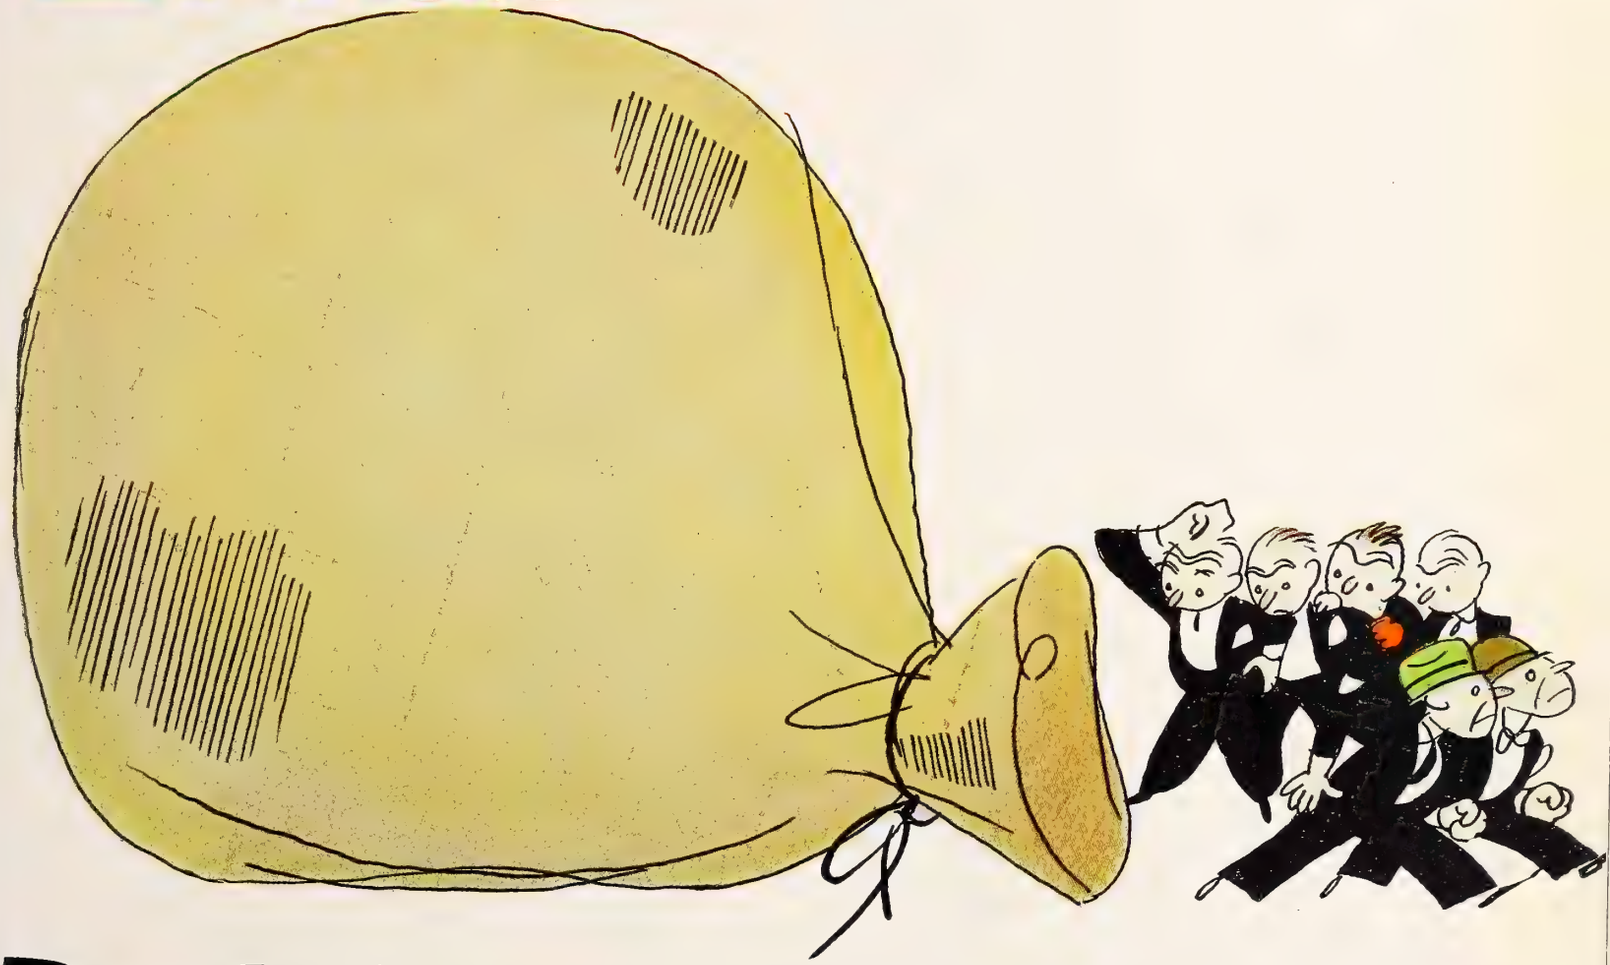
The picture, under this arrangement, it is said, is shot from the same point of view as one of the characters, and the camera has to duplicate every movement that this character may make. For example, it is pointed out, if the character were to get up and walk to the door, the camera must rise, turn and move by steps to the door, photographing just what the person may see on the way.

Advantages claimed by Dr. Peters for his apparatus include the shooting of the pictures silent and dubbing in the dialogue later; improved realism, since the audience more readily identifies itself with a character; and opportunity for unusual camera angles.

Sign Leases for Radio City Space

RCA Photophone has leased space in one of the buildings to be included in the new Radio City now in the course of construction in New York between Fifth and Sixth avenues. In the same building will be National Broadcasting Company, with offices between the third and sixth floors, and broadcasting studios on all floors from the fist to the twelfth, inclusive. RCA Photophone will have offices and studios on nine floors, from the third to the eleventh.

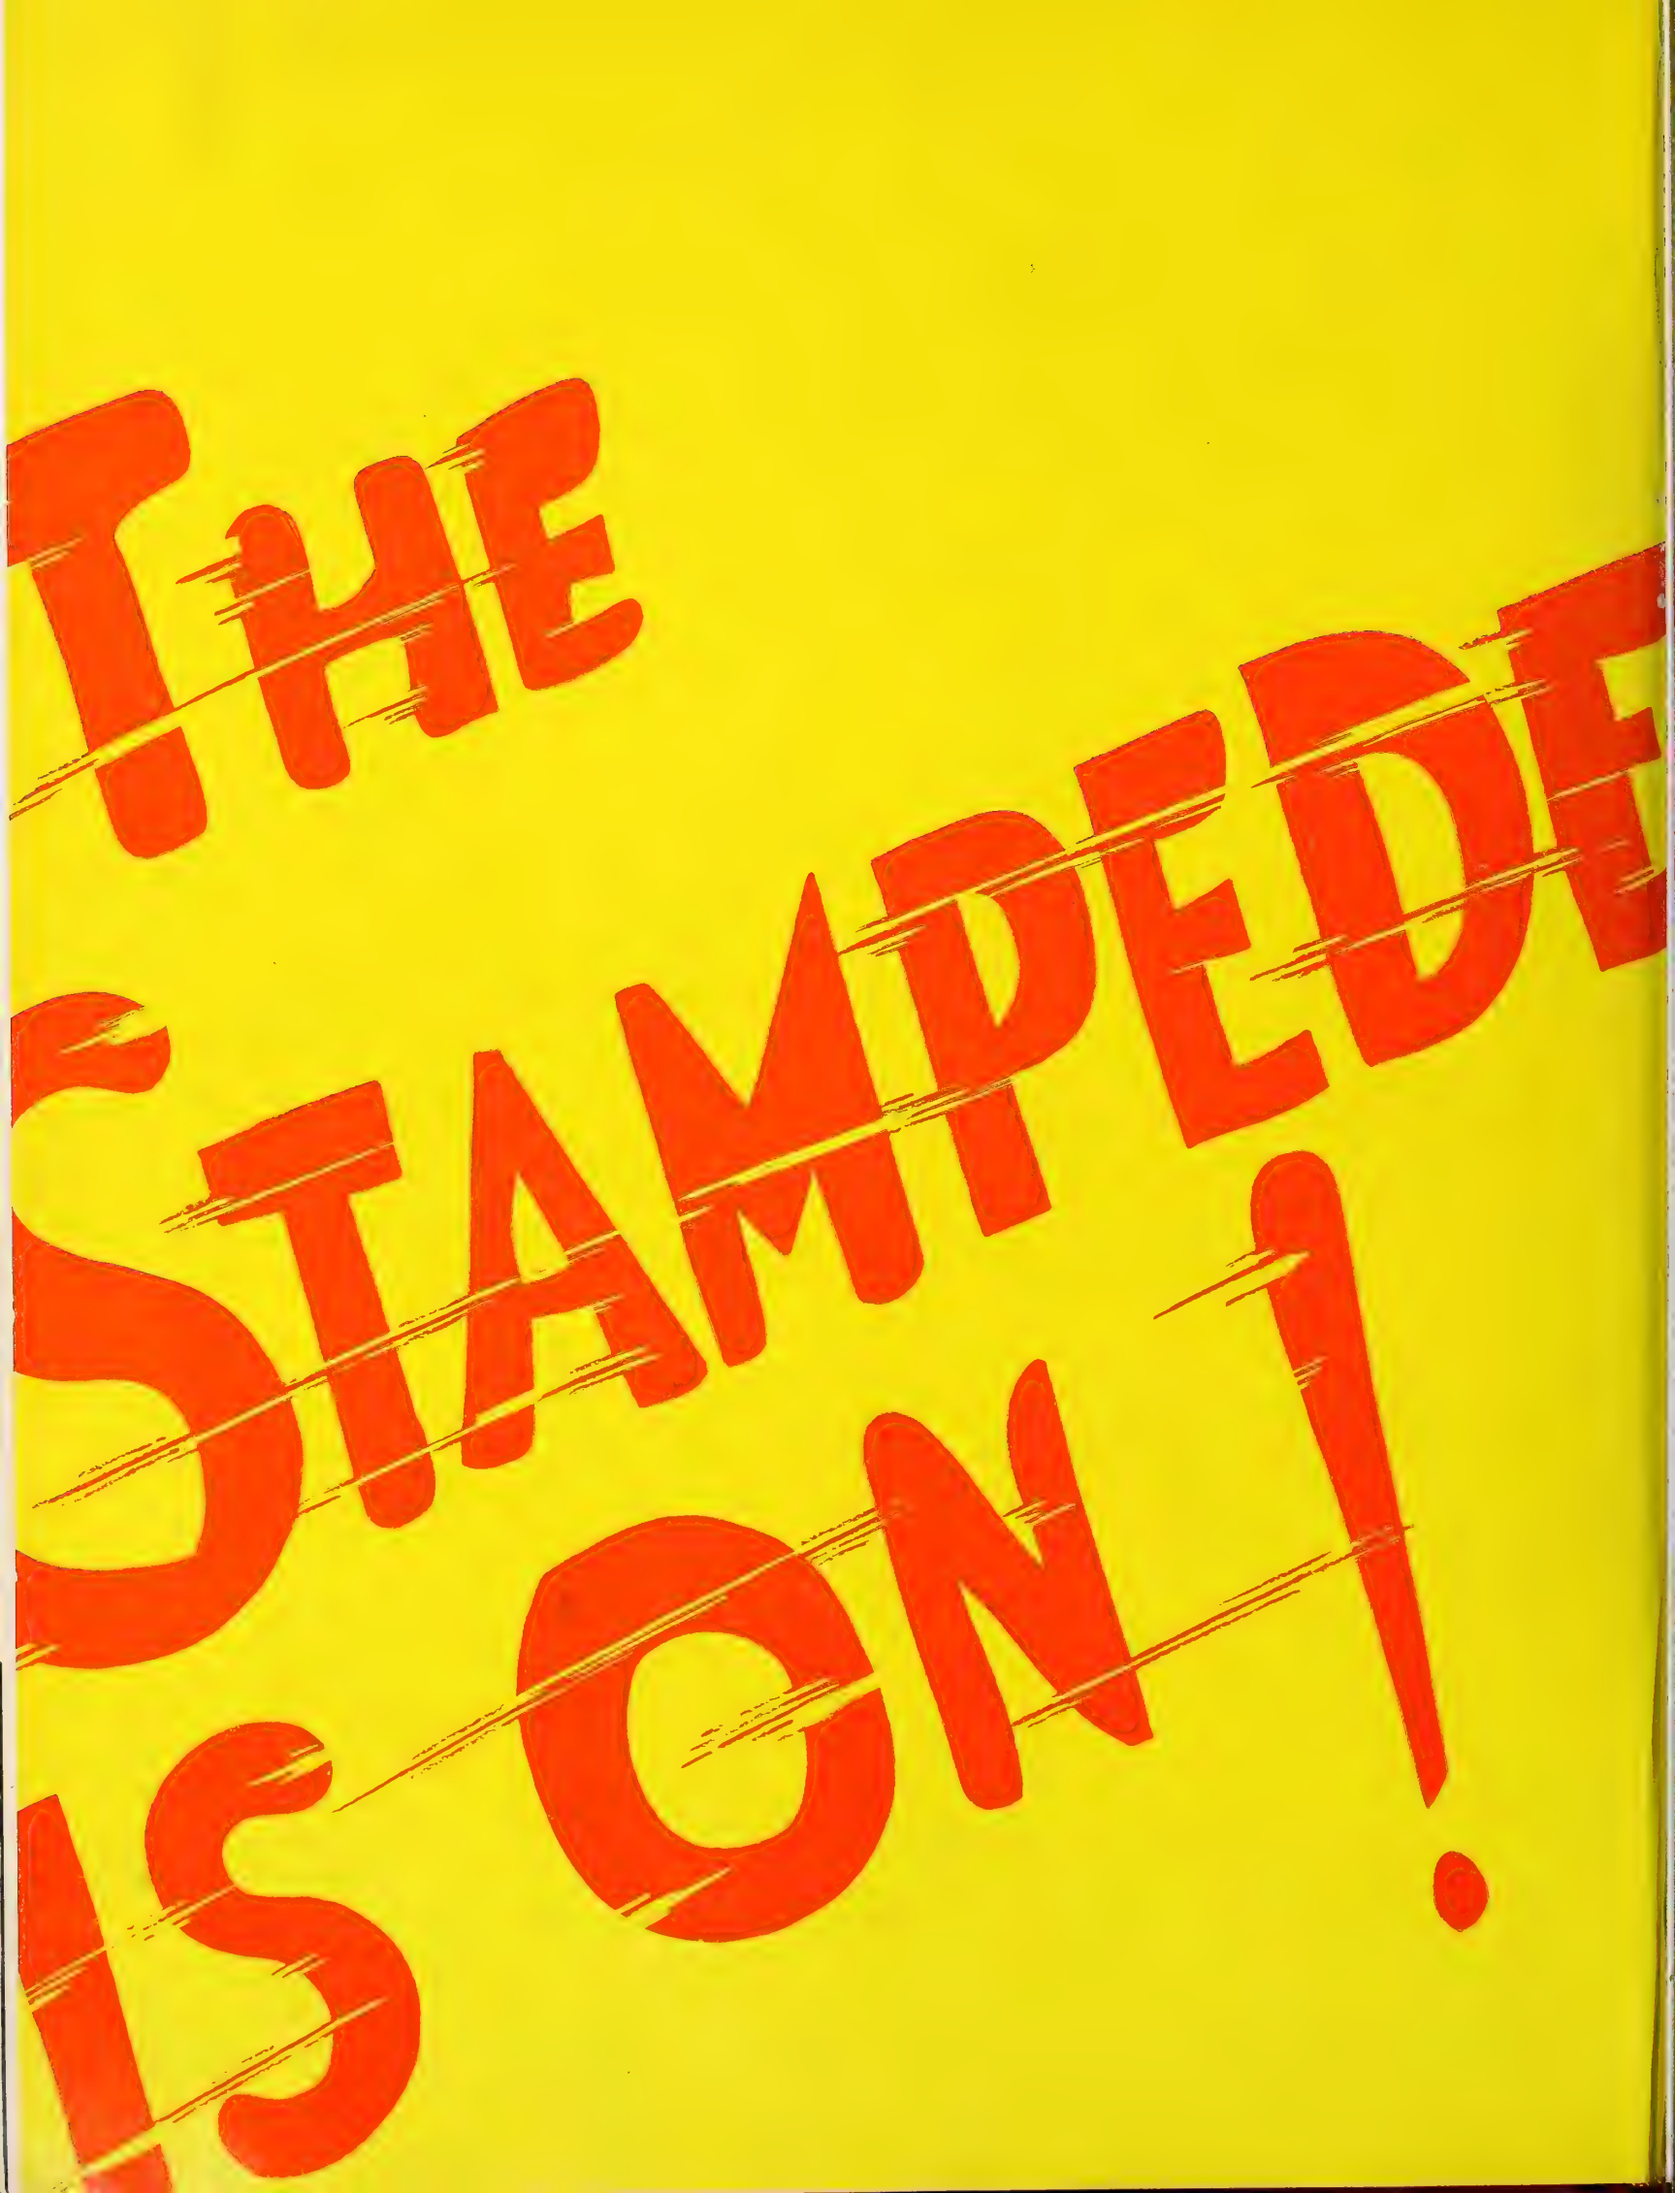
Leases for the largest amount of office space ever rented in a single transaction, calling for more than 1,000,000 square feet of floor space, were signed by four corporation heads and Colonel Arthur Woods, president of the Metropolitan Square Corporation, holding company for John D. Rockefeller, Jr. The four heads were David Sarnoff, RCA; Hiram S. Brown, RKO; Merlin H. Aylesworth, NBC and Alexander E. Reoch, vice president of RCA Photophone, Inc.



Heavy Campaign Planned On "X Marks the Spot"

A comprehensive exploitation and publicity campaign is planned by Tiffany on "X Marks the Spot," newspaper story just completed at Hollywood. A special 10-page tabloid press book and herald are now being completed, and newspaper tieups are being effected and exploitation stunts worked out.

Midwesco Closes Two Houses



Fox Midwesco has closed the Strand and Colonial theatres in Green Bay, Wis., because they are operating at a loss. Green Bay, as a result, has only two open houses, Fox and Orpheum, latter an independent.

OH! SEE THE BAG!

Don't you get left hold-ing it or you'll get the horse laugh in the end! WAKE UP and see what's happening—

THE STAMPEDE IS ON!

*5,422

*as of October 24th, 1931

SHOWMEN

(and as we go to press this number is swamped under a floo.. of additional contracts, ever increasing, a veritable deluge, an unprecedented landslide)

ARE ASSURED OF M-G-M's GREAT PRODUCT

Just to give you a general idea of WHO'S M-G-M IN YOUR TERRITORY—LOOK FOR YOUR NEIGHBOR

(Listed by M-G-M Branch Territories)

ALBANY
Albany, N. Y.
(HARMANUS HALL, LELAND —Chris Buckley)
Schenectady, N. Y.
(STATE—W. A. Shirley
Proctor's-RKO
Fieber & Shea
Publix
Fox
Meyer Schine

BOSTON
Publix
Maine & New Hampshire Circuit
Fall River, Wass.
(DURFEE; CAPITOL, EMPIRE—Nathan Yamins)
Lawrence, Mass
(MODERN—Dineen Bros.)
Fox
Phil Smith Circuit
Loew

BUFFALO
Binghamton, N. Y.
(RIVIERA, STRAND; CAPITOL, BINGHAMTON—Cohn & Comerford)
Elmira, N. Y.
(CAPITOL—N. Dipson)
Ithaca, N. Y.
(CRESCENT, STATE, STRAND —Bernstein Bros.)
Fox
Publix
Fieber & Shea
Meyer Schine
Loew

CINCINNATI
Charleston, W. Va.
(CAPITOL—Chas. Midelburg)
Fieber & Shea
Meyer Schine
Huntington, W. Va.
(KEITH ALBEE, PORHEUM—A. B. Hyman)
Publix
R. K. O.
Loew

CLEVELAND
E. Liverpool, O.
(CERAMIC—Wm. Tallman)
Massillon, O.
(GRAND—Wm. Skirboll)
Steubenville, O.
(GRAND—J. R. Biggio & Sons)
Publix
Fieber & Shea
Lima, O.
(QUILNA — Quilna Theatres Co.)
Loew

DETROIT
Butterfield Circuit
Publix
Wyandotte, Mich
(MAJESTIC—Wyandotte Theatres Corp.)

NEW HAVEN
Stamford, Conn.
(STAMFORD—Weiss Amuse. Co.)
Johnson Circuit
Middletown, Conn.
(MIDDLESEX—A. J. Vanni)
Jacobson Circuit
Fox
Publix

NEW JERSEY
Bayonne, N. J.
(LYCEUM—Lyceum Ent.)
Skouras Bros.
Publix
R. K. O.
Arthur Rapp Circuit
Bloomfield, Montclair, Caldwell, New Jersey
Kridell
MAYFAIR, Newark
PALACE, Orange
Loew

NEW YORK
Skouras Bros.
Rinsler & Frisch
Sol Brill Circuit
Rudolph Sanders
A. H. Schwartz
Harry Siegal
Loew

CHARLOTTE
Publix
Publix-Kincey
Wilmington, N. C.
(CAROLINA, ROYAL Geo. Bailey)
New Bern, N. C.
(MASONIC—O. A. Kafer)
Gastonia, N. C.
(WEBB—J. E. Webb)
Elizabeth City, N. C.
(CAROLINA; ALKREMA—Carolina Amuse. Co.)

PHILADELPHIA
Wilmer & Vincent
Publix
Chamberlain Circuit
Lancaster, Pa.
(COLONIAL—Al Boyd)
Atlantic City, N. J.
(CAPITOL; VETNOR—Mort Lewis)
J. Berman Theatres
Loew

PITTSBURGH
Wilmer & Vincent
Fieber & Shea
Wheeling, W. Va.
(COURT CAPITOL—N. Dipson)
Clarksburg, W. Va.
(ROBINSON GRAND—Claude Robinson)
Publix
Beaver Falls, Pa.
(RIALTO—S. Hanauer)
Loew

WASHINGTON
Publix
Cumberland, Md.
(CAPITOL—Grace M. Fisher)
Baltimore, Md.
(BRODIE——Jos. Brodie)
Baltimore, Md.
(J. L. ROME THEATRES)
Danville, Va.
(UNIVERSAL PICTURES)
Petersburg, Va.
(PALACE—Sycamore Amuse. Co.)
Loew

ATLANTA
Loew's Theatres
Atlanta, Ga. Nashville, Tenn
Publix
E. J. Sparks Enterprises
Arthur Lucas
Sudekum Circuit
Manning & Wink Circuit.

NEW ORLEANS
Frank De Grauw
LUTCHER THEATRE
Lutcher, La.
Frank De Grauw
METAIRIE RIDGE THEATRE
Metairie Ridge, La.
Publix Saenger
Affiliated Theatres, Inc.
(E. V. Richards)
United Theatres
R. L. Bailey
BAILEY THEATRES
Minden, La. Bunkie, La
Ferriday, La. Oakdale, La
Opelouses, La. Winnfield, La

"AND I'M PROUD TO HAVE MY SHOWS IN THEIR HANDS!"

DALLAS
Loew's Houston
Publix
Publix-Dent
Hughes Franklin
Jefferson Amusement Co.
East Texas Theatres, Inc.

OKLAHOMA CITY
J. H. Cooper
CRITERION—CAPITOL—
OKLA. CITY
Ralph Talbot
Tulsa, Okla.
Publix
Griffith Bros.
J. B. Terry Circuit
Fred B. Pickerel
Ponca City

MEMPHIS
Loew's Theatre, Memphis
Publix
Robb & Rowley
M. A. Lightman Circuit
Chas. F. Boyd Circuit
Sidney M. Nutt
PRINCESS or CENTRAL THEATRE, Hot Springs, Ark.

OMAHA
O. C. Johnson
RIVOLI THEATRE,
Fall City, Iowa
W. J. Seydlitz
OVERLAND THEATRE
Nebraska City
Monsky Brothers Theatres
Harry Goldberg Circuit
Publix

DENVER
H. A. Goodridge
OGDEN THEATRE,
Denver, Colo.
Everett Cole
RIALTO THEATRE
Alamosa, Colo.
E. M. Ward
PHILCO THEATRE
Silver City, N. M
M. Ostenburg, Jr.
EGYPTIAN THEATRE
Scottsbluff, Nebr
Fox West Coast
Publix

KANSAS CITY
Loew
George W. Woolridge
TOURNEY THEATRE
McPherson, Kansas
R. Winship
MAJESTIC THEATRE
Phillipsburg, Kansas

Booth & Baughm
OPERA HOUSE, Richhill, Mo
Fox West Coast
Publix

ST. LOUIS
Loew
L. Ansell
RITZ THEATRE, St. Louis, Mo
Best Amusement Co.
HOLLYWOOD & EMBASSY
THEATRES
St. Louis, Mo.
Price Theatres Company
Hannibal, Mo.
College Theatre Co., Inc.
COLLEGE THEATRES
Columbia, Mo.
George H. Karsch
LEAD BELT AMUSEMENT CO

DES MOINES
John H. McClay
GRAND THEATRE
Dubuque, Iowa
Tom Arthur
CECIL THEATRE
Mason City, Iowa
L. Parrett
STRAND THEATRE
Creston, Iowa
Ludy Bosten
UPTOWN THEATRE
Muscatine, Iowa
A. H. Blank Theatres
Publix

CHICAGO
H. Schoenstadt & Sons
Chicago, Ill.
Jacob Lasker & Sons
Chicago, Ill.
F. W. Brockell's Midwest
Theatres Corporation
Chicago, Ill.
Simansky & Miller
Chicago, Ill.
Essaness Theatres
Chicago, Ill.
B. A. Lucas Circuit
Fred B. Swanson Circuit
Polka Brothers Circuit
Sam Meyers
THEATRO DEL LAGO
Wilmette, Ill
W. J. Fluegel
PEKIN THEATRE, Pekin, Ill
Publix
Fox Circuit
Warner Circuit

MINNEAPOLIS
Hans. J. Peterson
OPERA HOUSE or STATE
THEATRE, Jamestown, N. D

Jerry Hines
ALO THEATRE
Pipestone, Minn
Henry J. Ludcke
LUDCKE THEATRE
St. Peter, Minn
Ben Friedman--
Albert Lea Theatre Corp.
BROADWAY or RIVOLI
THEATRE, Albert Lea, Minn
Anderson & Anderson
STATE THEATRE
Detroit Lakes, Minn
G. E. Miner
MAJESTIC THEATRE
Rice Lake, Wisc
J. E. Hipple
BIJOU THEATRE, Pierre, S. D
Geo. M. Johnson
AUDITORIUM or METRO
THEATRE, Red Wing, Minn
Publix

MILWAUKEE
Land O'Lakes Theatres, Inc.
CAPITOL THEATRE
Manitowoc, Wisc.
J. P. Adler
ADLER or RELDA THEATRE
Marshfield, Wisc.
Reuben Rosenblatt
STATE THEATRE
Rhinelander, Wisc.
E. F. Cuddihy, Jr.
CALUMET THEATRE
Calumet Theatre
Reuben Rosenblatt
LLOYD'S ORPHEUM THEA
Hancock, Mich.,
Al Picker
IRONWOOD or REX THEATRE
Ironwood, Mich.
Fox Midwesco
R. K. O. Circuit

INDIANAPOLIS
Publix
Loew's
R. K. O. Circuit
Fourth Avenue Amusement
Company
Lafayette Logansport
Terre Haute Louisville
Miami Theatre Corp.
ROXY THEATRE, Peru, Ind
Sparta Realty Company
ROXY THEATRE, Frankfort, Ind
Kokomo Amusement Co.
INDIANA THEATRE
Kokomo, Ind
R. R. Bair Circuit
Indianapolis, Ind.

F. J. Rembusch
Enterprises
Columbus, Ind. Elwood, Ind.
Martinsville, Ind. Franklin, Ind.
Mallers Enterprises
Theatre Corp.
Portland, Ind. Warsaw, Ind
Bluffton, Ind. Fort, Wayne Ind
Carey & Alexander Circuit
Lebanon, Ind.
Monticello, Ind.
Attica, Ind. Rockville, Ind

SALT LAKE CITY
Harris Voeller Theatres, Inc.
Demordaunt & Drennan
C. W. Echardt
MARLOW AND ANTLERS
THEATRES, Helena, Mont
E. P. White
STRAND THEATRE,
Livingston, Mont.
A. M. Russell
RIALTO THEATRE,
Bozeman, Mont.
W. Boedecker
ELLEN THEATRE
Bozeman, Mont.
Mike Nielsen
GRAND THEATRE,
Logan, Utah
B. G. Thatcher
CAPITOL THEATRE,
Logan, Utah
W. H. Knutsen
ORPHEUM THEATRE
Livingston, Mont.
Publix
Fox West Coast

PORTLAND
Coos Bay Amusement Co.
Marshfield, Oregon
Baker Theatres, Inc.
Baker, Oregon
Columbia Theatre Company
Longview, Wash.
Valley Amusement Company
HOLLYWOOD THEATRE
Salem, Ore.
Umpqua Amusement Co.
Roseburg, Ore.
Fox West Coast
Warner's Circuit
Grants Pass Amusement Co.
Grants Pass, Ore

SEATTLE
R. K. O.
ORPHEUM THEATRE
Spokane, Wash
Liberty Theatre Co.
—A. B. Binnard
LIBERTY THEATRE
Lewiston, Idaho

A. E. Lathrop
EMPRESS THEATRE
Cordova, Alaska
P. W. Struppler
CORDOVA AND GRANT
THEATRES, Pullman, Wash
E. A. Halberg
OLYMPIAN THEATRE
Port Angeles, Washington
Embassy Theatre Company
EMBASSY THEATRE
Seattle, Washington
Fox West Coast
Hughes-Franklin

LOS ANGELES
A. F. Ahrens
CABRILLO THEATRE
San Diego, Calif.
L. E. Cohen
BROADWAY THEATRE
Los Angeles, Calif
Circle Theatres, Ltd.
STRAND THEATRE
Los Angeles, Calif
Circle Theatres, Ltd.
RIALTO THEATRE
So. Pasadena, Calif
Hansen & Strong
SYMPHONY THEATRE
Compton, Calif.
William Nagle
EL MORRO THEATRE
Gallup, New Mexico
Fox West Coast
Warner Circuit
Publix
Hughes-Franklin

SAN FRANCISCO
National Theatres
H. W. Poole
Golden State Circuit
Hughes Franklin Circuit
Fox West Coast

THEY SIGNED M-G-M CONTRACTS BECAUSE—

After looking over the entire field and judging the outlook of 1931-'32 on the basis of past performances and future possibilities, showmen have again come to the conclusion—

THERE'S NO SUBSTITUTE FOR M-G-M PRODUCT!

THE BUTCHER, THE BAKER
THE CANDLE-STICK MAKER—
They're all on the way to your house!
together with the landlord, the tailor,
the garage-man AND THEY'VE ALL GOT BILLS, BILLS, BILLS!

"LISTEN PAPA—"

When MAMA asks for

MAZUMEH

in the coming cold winter—are you going to tell her that you didn't happen to pick the pictures that pay?

—OR are you going to tell her to go out and get that new fur coat—

BECAUSE you used YOUR HEAD!

(when you go on to the next page, please don't interrupt Garbo and Gable)

NORMA SHEARER alone!

or ROBERT MONTGOMERY alone!

Two preview showings of FLYING HIGH with BERT LAHR (America's most imitated comedian) on opposite shores of this country! One in Hollywood, one in Yonkers, N. Y. And at each preview, absolute panic of laughs! The Hollywood Reporter said:

"How that audience yelled. It was a riot. We have never heard such loud or prolonged laughter. Bert Lahr won his audience immediately. He panicked them. They will want plenty more of him. Get the banners out for FLYING HIGH!"

But NORMA SHEARER AND ROBERT MONTGOMERY TOGETHER in the great stage success

PRIVATE LIVES

Imagine!

(tut-tut—You ain't seen nothing yet! Go on—)

WALLACE BEERY

ALONE ON YOUR MARQUEE—SWELL!

JACKIE COOPER

ALONE IN ELECTRICS—GRAND!

WALLACE BEERY
JACKIE COOPER
IN THE CHAMP

put them both TOGETHER and you've got—

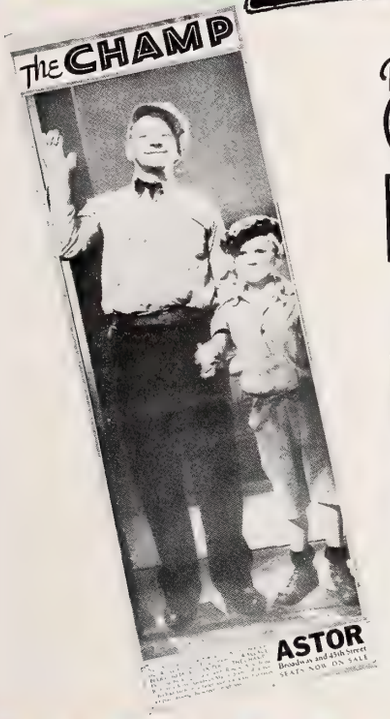
"THE CHAMP". Mere words are too feeble to do it justice. Your own eyes filled with tears, your own heart gripped with emotion will be the soothsayers, to tell you that there has come to the screens of the world one of the greatest motion pictures ever created by the genius of man! That boy Jackie Cooper, with Heaven in his face—that man Wallace Beery, as "The Champ" a fallen idol trying with one last desperate effort to be a hero to his believing boy—how they will stab at your heart! It is King Vidor's masterpiece, and it is M-G-M's crowning glory!



—therefore we proudly announce

BROADWAY'S NEW $2 ASTOR SUCCESS!

"The Champ" is the talk of New York, as we go to press!

M-G-M dominates Broadway with its road-shows! Alone on the Great White Way, M-G-M is the only picture company which week-after-week, year-after-year presents $2-calibre productions for the metropolis. As well as for those thousands of visitors from your city and every city in America who return to their homes with the renewed conviction that the Screen Leader is M-G-M!

Out of the magic studios of California has come a talking picture so thrilling, so majestically moving that true immortality awaits it. This boy, who had such an abiding faith in the fallen idol, his father! How he will win your heart as he fights his father's fight, a laugh on his lips but a pang in his young heart! Wallace Beery—never before so wonderful! Jackie Cooper—the boy star with heaven in his face! King Vidor—directing each golden moment with superb artistry. No wonder "The Champ" takes its place among the screen's mightiest!

ASTOR WORLD PREMIERE
Next Monday, NOV. 9th, at 8:40, Twice Daily Thereafter
SEATS ON SALE AT THE BOX-OFFICE. BROADWAY & 45th STREET

Here are a few of the New York ads

REMEMBER THESE ARE JUST THE BEGINNING OF A LONG YEAR!

—and here's another sweet morsel!

Joan Crawford at the top of her popularity!

Clark Gable, fresh from his triumph with Greta Garbo in "Susan Lenox"

Just prior to going to press! The print of "Possessed" arrives from California. It is screened in the M-G-M projection room. We have heard about its thunderous reception at Glendale, Cal. in preview. We expect something unusual. We sit enthralled! Here is a picture to challenge the electric reception of Garbo-Gable in "Susan Lenox." Here is Joan Crawford more exotically beautiful than you've ever seen her. Here is Crawford in the arms of Gable in a picture that will headline the box-office reports. Watch!

"JUST A MOMENT, PLEASE!"

I want to announce the WINNERS of M-G-M's PRIZE CONTEST for the best campaigns on "Politics"

FIRST PRIZE
$50 won by
JOHN F. MALOY
State Theatre
Altoona, Pa.

SECOND PRIZE
$30 won by
MORRIS ROSENTHAL
Capitol Theatre
Wilkes Barre, Pa.

SECOND PRIZE
$30 won by
JAMES H. McKOY
Olympia Theatre
Miami, Fla.

THIRD PRIZE
$20 won by
HARRY F. SHAW
Loew's State Theatre
Syracuse, N.Y.

THIRD PRIZE
$20 won by
S. S. SOLOMON
Paramount Theatre
Youngstown, Ohio

HONORABLE MENTION

Clarence Laws
Fox California Theatre, San Francisco, Cal.
Ellis Brodie, Paramount Thea. Haverhill, Mass.
F. L. Willis
Metropolitan Theatre, Winnipeg, Canada
Joe Crivello, New Capitol Thea. Litchfield, Ill.
W. C. Burnett, Loew's Theatre, Dayton, Ohio
Matt Press, Saenger Theatre, Hattiesburg, Miss.
R. C. Gary, Paramount Theatre, Omaha, Nebr.
George Sharp,
Fox Wilson Theatre, Fresno, California
Wallie Cauldwell
Loew's Valentine Theatre, Toledo, Ohio
W. A. Clark, Penn Theatre, Pittsburg, Pa.
Richard L. Moss, Orange Thea. Orange, Cal.
Walter Flugel, Pekin Theatre, Pekin, Ill.
J. A. Simons
Loew's Rochester Theatre, Rochester, N. Y.
Joseph A. Di Pesa & Victor J. Morris
Loew's Columbia Theatre, Boston, Mass.
Jerry O' Connell & M. A. Malaney
Loew's Allen Theatre, Cleveland, Ohio
J. T. Avery, Palace Theatre, Petersburg, Va.
Fred Perry, Capitol Theatre, Binghamton, N. Y.
George A. Jones, State Thea. Providence, R. I.
James F. Lundy,
Columbia Theatre, Washington, D. C.

NOTE: Originally only one 2nd and 3rd prize was offered. But the campaigns were so good these were doubled.

L. D. Glinner
Olympia Thea. Chelsea, Mass.
H. Gabrilove
B'way Thea. Newburg, N. Y.
E. H. Brient
Loew's Thea. Richmond, Va.
E. G. Swanson
Webb Thea. Savannah, Ill.
Frank Cohnen
Loop Thea. Chippewa, Wis.
John Dippman
Lindo Thea. Freeport, Ill.
W. S. Canning
Durfee Thea. Fall River, Mass
W. P. Wilson,
Capitol, Edmonton, Canada

Remember "The Pagan Love Song"?

LEO'S SINGING A NEW TUNE NOW- it's

The CUBAN LOVE SONG

LAWRENCE TIBBETT
—a revelation! Swell!
LUPE VELEZ—hot!
JIMMY DURANTE
—funnier than in "Wallingford"
And ERNEST TORRENCE!
Some Cast! Some Show!

WEREN'T WE RIGHT

calling all these grand pictures THE CROWNING GLORY OF METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER?

M-G-M 1931-32

We're proud of every one of them, but especially we're proud of

When you play "The Guardsman" you become the most important theatre man in your city.

Alfred LUNT
Lynn FONTANNE
IN The GUARDSMAN

DIRECT TO YOU FROM ITS BRILLIANT $2 ASTOR RUN—

Three months of outstanding approval by Broadway. Ask M-G-M for the peppy ads that sold the sparkling romantic angles! Here's a drama that's daringly different in its love theme; in addition it's the kind of picture that stamps your house as the leading show-shop in town!

—and are we excited!

You'll be, too, LOOK!→

(continued—and we know you'll go on to read the rest of the good news—)

EXTRA!

Marie Dressler, Lionel Barrymore Elected!

As we go to press, the Annual Awards of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences are in. It was the honor of M-G-M to again occupy the limelight of the Industry's most important selections. The vote for the year's best performance by an actor and actress, both went to M-G-M, Lionel Barrymore and Marie Dressler being crowned King and Queen of motion pictures!

SH-SH!

Secret activities at M-G-M's Studio

some of which you've heard rumored, because everybody in picture biz wants to know what new tricks that old devil Leo is up to—BUT

HERE ARE FACTS!

WALLACE BEERY and CLARK GABLE are completing production on their long awaited "HELL DIVERS". "Is it to be another 'Trader Horn' for box-offices?" asks the industry. The early reports of this Giant Picture, produced in co-operation with the U. S. Navy are so good, we're sitting with fingers crossed. We know it's great—we think even we will be surprised at the final wonder show! George "Big House" Hill directing.

"GOD BLESS MARIE DRESSLER!"

She's brought more joy to human folk, she's touched our hearts with such kindly grace that we, as her producers, stand with the American public in appreciative respect at her talents. Marie Dressler is now working in "EMMA" a powerful heart story written especially for her by Frances Marion, author of "The Champ". Clarence Brown directing!

GRETA GARBO with RAMON NOVARRO

in the most glamorous of all woman spy stories, the true-life drama of MATA HARI. What a vehicle for the One and Only Greta Garbo. Coming directly after her whirlwind triumph in "Susan Lenox", you can imagine for yourself what this show will do. Again M-G-M doubles your profit by repeating the Garbo-Gable idea with Garbo-Novarro.

WHO WILL PLAY IN "GRAND HOTEL"?

Scarcely a day passes but some new dispatch from Hollywood newspaper correspondents is spread across America giving the latest guess about who will play in "Grand Hotel". Thus far, the guess has been Greta Garbo, Clark Gable, John Gilbert, Joan Crawford, all starred together. The cast is not set yet, but nevertheless "GRAND HOTEL" is getting the biggest advance plug any picture ever got.

JOHN BARRYMORE and LIONEL BARRYMORE

The wizardry of M-G-M showmanship continues merrily with the signing of John Barrymore to be co-starred with Lionel Barrymore. Imagine! The two famous Barrymores together. "Arsene Lupin" is being considered as the vehicle and what a drama for America's idols.

I COULD GO ON FOREVER telling you about the wonders of M-G-M's plans for '31-32—

REMEMBER that M-G-M
WAS a life-saver to
MANY houses this year!
FORTIFY your investment
WITH the best product
YOU can get for '31-'32!

(Turn one more page, please)

If Papa loves Mama-Papa will buy M-G-M Pictures!

ASIDES & INTERLUDES

By JAMES CUNNINGHAM

A CERTAIN group of psychologists and "trend-studiers," who for the present must remain unnamed, will soon offer proof of the fact that the motion picture industry always operates between four and six years behind the times with regards public taste.

An exhaustive study of American literature covering trends of the past 30 years will be the basis of proof, which when submitted for the enlightment of Hollywood studio moguls, and others responsible for selecting screen material, will reveal the very interesting fact that sex themes passed out of date back in 1926!

▼

Roxy's dignity was also hurt when he slipped from his chair and fell to the floor last week at a meeting of the unemployment committee at the Hays office.

▼

A few weeks ago there appeared on this page the following paragraph:

"Study closely the current workings of principal companies because from them is now being written motion picture history!"

One week later there came the announcement of the entrance into Paramount of new interests in the person of John (taxicab) Hertz; William (chewing gum) Wrigley, and Albert (advertising agency) Lasker.

Next came word from RKO that stockholders must approve of a refinancing plan, which is expected to give majority control to RCA, or take the consequences of receivership.

This week Harley L. Clarke stepped down as president of the Fox companies, in favor of Edward R. Tinker, Chase banking interests effecting the change and voting chairmanship of the board to Clarke.

Round four is in the offing.

▼

Unknown to a certain theatrical publication it recently was used as a pawn by a national distributor which planted a story to worry another company with which it was trying to work a deal.

▼

A newsman entered a home office to interview an important official with regards reorganization of the company's financial and personnel structures.

After submitting his name to the boss, a secretary returned with the information that "Mr. so-and-so is sorry that he cannot see you. He's in conference."

"Conference, hell," chirped the reporter, "he's in confusion!"

▼

A note from Walter Winchell tells us that our recent paragraph on his weekly salary is at least a little wet. Winchell gets $1,000 per for his New York Mirror column, 50 per cent of the gross syndicate rights sold by King Features and $1,000 weekly from radio broadcasts.

"So there, M.P.H.," says Walt, "and good wishes!"

Good wishes to you, Mr. Winchell, and a Merry Christmas.

▼

Foreign managers of American companies already have plenty to worry about, but none of their problems to date will cause as much concern as the new tax of between 25 and 33⅓ per cent which, it is expected, will be levied on films imported into Great Britain when a new tariff law becomes effective soon.

▼

Pat Powers is looking for the "guy" who started that rumor mentioning his affiliation with a minority group of stockholders which is fighting RKO on its refinancing plans. Powers denies that he's the white-haired boy who is backing the RKO antagonists.

WHEN "Tin Pan Alley" moved to Hollywood, Jimmy Hanley went along. Practically all the songsters have since returned to Broadway, a few of them wealthy, many broke. Hanley was slated for the ax, too, until from some mysterious source at the home office there came instructions to give Jimmy a brand new contract, with salary as was. Here's how it happened:

Seven years ago an important banker found himself possessed with an uncontrollable "yen" to write songs, and accordingly teamed with Jimmy Hanley in authoring several popular numbers. The pair became pals, but, somehow, drifted apart later.

At this point a blackout suspends action, continuing until a few months ago when a group of bankers, of which our song writer financier is a member, became heavily interested in an important film corporation. The inevitable reorganization placed our banker friend in the film company as a vice-president representing the money group. The rest is obvious.

▼

One-fourth of the current operating budget assessed members of the MPPDA has been returned by Will Hays, president. The saving is being made from general overhead and was not taken from the salary of Mr. Hays, as had been erroneously reported, nor from the pay checks of any staff employees or executives.

▼

Bing Crosby's future in theatricals will, we fear, find the crooner chained closely to a radio "mike."

He appears currently at the Paramount theatre in New York in a stage revue, which booking is made possible through the influence which Bill Paley has at Paramount. Paramount owns 50 per cent of Paley's Columbia Broadcasting System, and Bing is Paley's "pet" of the ether waves.

Microphones attached to a public address system, some hidden and others not, are used to lift Bing's crooning from an almost inaudible weakness to the required strength needed for stage work.

▼

Miss Betty Snyder, one of the staff editors of the Baltimore Sun, came to town this week to "learn the answers to a lot of movie questions that are constantly being asked by fans." And almost in the next breath Betty told us that she reads this column "with commendable regularity," which we don't believe because if this were so, we are sure Miss Snyder would not have had to come all the way to New York to "learn the answers to a lot of movie questions" in the first place. (ADVT.)

▼

Erpi and RCA are having a difficult time in their expensive and extensive attempts to break open the nontheatrical field.

Both organizations should be happy to hear that John Bull practically subsidizes the educational screen in England, offering 130 subjects to an immediate guaranteed distribution of 500 schools, and practically every teaching institution in the Kingdom regularly receives printed literature on visual education.

▼

"Bad Girl" (Fox) has been rolling up grosses of sizable proportions, but its success has not, as is generally believed, been aided by widespread sales and distribution of the book.

Someone started a rumor crediting the novel with being a "best seller" and no doubt this fact bore some weight in influencing its purchase by Fox, but the truth of the matter is that less than 30,000 copies have been sold which, as any publisher will tell you, is far from "best seller" sales.

WALTER WINCHELL, in a recent radio broadcast, told all about how Eddie Dowling had introduced John Raskob to Al Smith and how, as the result of that introduction and the subsequent acquaintanceship, Raskob became the chairman of the Democratic National Committee and how the Empire State Building came out of the association.

Winchell's broadcast was a great tribute to the popular young actor, but since it was made Dowling has been deluged with hundreds of letters, most of which want him to arrange meetings with Raskob or Smith.

A few people outside of the "Tiger Room" crowd know what an important part Eddie Dowling played in the 1928 Democratic National Campaign and only a few now know how close he is to Governor Roosevelt in his pre-convention presidential plans.

▼

We take it from a story in Motion Picture Daily that Charlie Kurtzman plans a trip West. Says the Daily:

"Charles Kurtzman's resignation from the Roxy, New York, was brought about by a desire to RETURN TO THE COAST. He * * * has had a yen to RETURN TO THE COAST and Mrs. Kurtzman * * * wants to RETURN TO THE COAST.

"Edgar Waite of the same theatre leaves that post when Kurtzman DEPARTS FOR THE WEST."

▼

When President Hoover was presented at the Capitol the other day with the first two tickets to the industry's monster benefit performance for the nation's unemployed, he was told by Mary Pickford that 20,000 theatres throughout the country would back the program.

For the sake of accuracy, Miss Pickford, may we point out the fact that there are NOT 20,000 theatres in the United States! And United Artists' executives should know better, too, because a home office statement mentioning Mary's good-will gesture to the President likewise makes much of the same total.

Never in the history of this business have there been 20,000 theatres simultaneously in operation. In pre-silent days, there may have been 20,000 "accounts" listed on the books of all distributors, but these included several thousands of local War Veterans' auditoriums, lodge halls, churches, club houses, etc., which occasionally screened films, but which discontinued screenings upon the inception of sound.

▼

Pare Lorentz, picture critic of Judge, humor magazine, will criticize no more—at least for Judge readers. He suddenly and dramatically resigned last weekend. Many in the film business will remember him for his severely critical cusses of pictures and picture people.

Frederick James Smith, editor of New Movie Magazine, is also looking for a new berth following a tilt with the high powers over editorial policies. Smith may find his way to Jimmy Quirk's Photoplay staff again—he has played two or three engagements there already.

▼

A lesson for advertising chiefs in what appears to be a new technique in copy phraseology is related from Hollywood by Joe Poland, who tells us of an advertisement published recently in a trade publication which describes a new feature in this manner:

"Gorgeous costumes of untold value! . . . Adjectives can give justice and anything that is said about it is less!"

HUNDRED MILLIONS READ ADVENTURE

Tremendous Field of Patronage Is Available for Motion Pictures Made of Adventure and Mystery

One hundred million readers of adventure and mystery stories in the United States provide a tremendous field of patronage for the motion picture built upon those themes.

Every one likes to read of adventure. That opinion is shared alike by authorities in the book, magazine and newspaper publishing industries.

A comprehensive analysis by Motion Picture Herald also revealed the following facts:

Western adventure stories are coming back.

Interest in adventure and mystery stories has shown a vast increase since the World War.

Between 20 and 25 magazines in the national field are devoted exclusively to adventure themes.

Juvenile reader interest is primarily in adventure subjects, whether realistically or fancifully treated.

Readers of mystery stories have increased one hundredfold in the last fifteen years.

"It is my impression that approximately every one likes to read a good detective story," said Edward H. Dodd, president of Dodd, Mead and Company. "There are 100 times as many readers of adventure and mystery as 15 years ago, more than 10 times as many as 10 years back.

"An interesting phase is the fact that the good detective story appeals to the intellectual class of minds. For example, President Wilson amused himself by reading detective stories. I find the same thing true among my friends. They read them for pure relaxation. It becomes a sort of game.

Enormous Trend Cited

"The trend toward the reading of these types of fiction has been enormous. Fifteen years ago there was comparatively only a handful of detective stories in book form and the sales were small. So widespread has the interest grown that I would say that the distribution of the S. S. Van Dine and Agatha Christie books is greater than was that of Conan Doyle's when they first appeared. Of course, it would be impossible to compare the circulations now because the Conan Doyle books were not copyrighted and there were many kinds of editions."

Mr. Dodd observed that book publishers "find it very difficult to sell to motion picture producers." For this he saw no apparent explanation, with the possible exception of producer policy of employing well known writers to do originals for the screen. This, however, would not explain the case of widely circulated and undeniably successful novels which present excellent screen material.

"All want adventure, in their reading if they are not fortunate enough to have it in their own lives," said Miss Johnston, who as chief of central circulation at the New York Public Library has at her finger tips the data as to what New York reads and desires to read. Miss Johnston's figures show that for 1930 the total number of books circulated was 11,684,160, with the fiction books reaching the figure 6,610,993. The New York Public Library serves the three boroughs Manhattan, Bronx and Richmond, and the totals covered all branches in those boroughs.

It is in the branch libraries that fiction circulation leads. Miss Johnston estimated the proportion in the branches as two to one in favor of fiction.

"We find that the adventure story is more enduring in popularity than is the mystery story. In the field of the juvenile reader I would say that the trend of reader interest is toward the adventure type. In some neighborhoods sports stories would have special appeal for the boys, in others the adventure and so-called gang story. Special care in selection is taken with regard to these. We find also that in certain distinctly foreign settlements the children do more reading than their parents. Of course, the reason for this is that through the schools and other contacts the children have learned to read books and stories in English."

"I believe we're underestimating the public interest in good books and pictures," Miss Johnston added. She recalled that a producer once had told her that the makers of pictures figured that they had to plan a production for an average of the 12-year-old's intelligence. She commented on this that the reaction of even the 12-year-old to some pictures might be surprising. She emphasized that this was not said in disparagement, but solely in the interest of high standards.

Estimates as to the total number of readers of adventure and mystery stories varied among the many executives to whom the question was presented. The several fields of books, magazines and newspapers all are factors—newspapers because of the increased use of serial publication of novels, among which the adventure and mystery stories have a very important ranking.

As to books:

"My own guess," writes Maxwell Aley in The Publishers' Weekly, "would be that publishers and booksellers can count on a million habitual book buyers, a million more occasional buyers, and beyond that a vague but large number who buy one or two books a year."

What They Read

Aley, who at one time was fiction editor of Woman's Home Companion and now is literary adviser of Bobbs-Merrill Company, estimates there are 40,000,000 subscribers to daily newspapers, more than 30,000,000 subscribers to magazines, 20,000,000 borrowers from public libraries and between three and five million borrowers from the 14,500 rental libraries.

In the foregoing classification there, of course, is a large amount of overlapping. Approaching the problem from another viewpoint, Aley cites the following from the 1920 census (the 1930 census figures not being available as yet for such a comparison):

There were 82,731,315 persons above 10 years of age, of whom 4,931,905 were illiterate, leaving 77,799,410 who could read and write. "It seems conservative," he adds, "to say that we have 90,000,000 literates in the United States at the present time."

Nor does this figure take separately into consideration the field of the child story for the ages below 10 years. All executives

What They Say:—

"There are one hundred times as many readers of adventure and mystery as fifteen years ago, more than ten times as many as ten years ago."—Edward H. Dodd, president, Dodd, Mead and Company.

"All want adventure, in their reading if they are not fortunate enough to have it in their own lives."—Miss Esther Johnston, director, circulation department, New York Public Library.

There are more than 40,000,000 subscribers to daily newspapers, 30,000,000 to magazines, 20,000,000 borrowers from public libraries, and 3,000,000 to 5,000,000 borrowers from the 14,500 rental libraries. —Maxwell Aley, literary adviser, Bobbs-Merrill Company.

"There is still a demand for good mystery stories."—Ray Long, chairman, Ray Long & Richard R. Smith, Inc., publishers.

"There will always be a class that wants adventure and mystery stories regardless of the trend of reading of any particular time." —B. A. Hostage, treasurer, Womrath Rental Library.

"Western adventure stories are coming back into popularity."—Frederick T. Yates, publicity, Brentano's, New York.

"Interest in the adventure and mystery story—and mostly the mystery story—has been growing since the World War."—Robert Coles, assistant executive secretary, American Book Publishers Association.

"There is always a great demand for the mystery novel and the book of adventure." —Miss Frances Phillips, William Morrow Company.

INCREASE HUNDRED FOLD IN 15 YEARS

(Continued from preceding page)

interviewed in the HERALD analysis agreed that adventure, whether realistic or fanciful, comprised practically 100 per cent of the themes for children's tales. Miss Frances Phillips, a director of William Morrow Company, book publishers, noted the fact of a great amount of child interest in writings about the things that surround him, such as ferryboats and skyscrapers.

Aley points out that the Hoover Committee on Child Welfare reported 35,000,000 normal children in the United States, 3,000,000 of them "specially gifted."

"Among the magazines with big circulations, the women's group has exerted the greatest influence in making readers of books," says Aley. And in this field it is noted that the printing of adventure and mystery stories has shown a definite increase. He cites the serializing of Edna Ferber's "So Big," "Show Boat" and "Cimarron" in Woman's Home Companion, with its two and a half million circulation.

The 1931 edition of N. W. Ayer & Sons' Directory of Newspapers and Periodicals gives the following ABC figures of circulation: Women's Group (all carrying stories), 13,965,419; General Weeklies (The Saturday Evening Post, Collier's Weekly, Liberty), 7,596,761; Popular General Monthlies (The American Magazine, Cosmopolitan, Red Book), 4,508,230; The "Quality" Group (occasionally carrying fiction), 386,336; a total of 26,456,746 subscribers.

12 to 15 Million All-Fiction

Of the all-fiction and "confessional" magazines the total circulation is estimated by Aley at twelve to fifteen millions for 1930, with 3,858,961 for the Macfadden group, 1,147,580 for the nine magazines in the Street and Smith "combination," 479,576 for the Munsey "combination" and 813,413 for the Fiction House group.

Returning to the women's group, a fact of particular significance to the motion picture producer is the development which has made them family magazines rather than women's magazines alone. "Tests made by their subscription departments indicate that the men of the family read them—that probably 25 per cent of their readers, if not of their subscribers, are men," says Aley.

Furthermore, computation of the actual readers of magazines varies, as compared with actual subscriptions. Aley conservatively says only that "one magazine is read by more than one person."

Others estimate the number at three or more. The same range is given for book circulation. In the field of the magazine alone, then, computing three readers to one purchased copy would give a total of 90,000,000 readers. Aley says of the 70,000,000 newspaper and magazine circulation that the number of readers is at least 25 per cent higher.

Besides the publication field in all its ramifications the radio also presents an important aspect of public interest in the adventure and mystery story. Of increasing range and time allotment are the programs concentered exclusively upon the telling of stories within these classifications. The increase in number of programs of this type is directly connected with the subject of publications, in that reading interest is promoted and directed toward these channels.

Still a Demand, Says Ray Long

"Producers have done a good job, for the most part, on mysteries," said Ray Long, who in his wide experience as editor of Cosmopolitan and until recently president of Hearst International Publications, has published more fiction in the last dozen years from which pictures later were made than probably any other editor of a popular fiction magazine. "The Van Dine stories, in particular, were well handled. Sound, of course, has contributed vitally to mystery productions. There is still a demand for good mystery stories."

Francis Ludlow, editor of The Retail Bookseller, published by the Baker & Taylor Company, book publishers, pointed out the popularity of the adventure and mystery stories in book form. He said that purchases of books of these types indicated that the total for 1931 would maintain an even pace with last year, though it would be spread out among more books because of the huge output in this field due to the popularity achieved in the past few years.

An analysis of The Stock Checkup List, "a tabulation of the books in greatest demand at the time of compilation," showed that one-third of the books listed were distinctly within the adventure and mystery groups. Study of the list in September's issue brought the same conclusion as for July.

Shows in Book Rentals

"There always will be a class that wants adventure and mystery stories regardless of the trend of reading of any particular time," said B. A. Hostage, treasurer of the Womrath Rental Library, largest of its kind in the country.

Hostage placed the romantic novel first in popular preference as denoted by rentals. At the same time it was agreed that adventure, at least incidents of adventure, are a factor in the novel of this classification. He quoted the sales manager of the library organization as placing the exclusively adventure and mystery type of book as 25 to 30 per cent of all fiction in rental popularity.

"Western adventure stories are coming back into popularity," said Frederick T. Yates of the publicity department of Brentano's, one of the leading book retailing companies of the United States.

"There are still people who read a mystery story a night," he declared, "though the mystery rage is falling off." He pointed out that the interest shifts with the appearance of an outstanding book in any particular field and with seasons.

"The average life of mystery stories, from the standpoint of quick sale, is shorter than for other types of fiction," Yates said. "For the average mystery it is one and one-half to two months. For fiction in general it is not over a season, a well known British critic said, but for the better type I would say it is more than two years.

"From a geographical and racial standpoint, it is likely that in New York and the larger Eastern cities the more sophisticated type of story is the more popular. Probably in the Middlewest a translation of a good German writer would sell well, and in the Northwest the work of outstanding Scandinavian authors."

Yates said the mystery story market is spread out more widely now, with the huge number of writers of that school, and for that reason Brentano's buys in smaller quantities.

Interest Growing Since War

There are 20 to 25 magazines in the national field that are devoted solely to adventure stories, said an executive of American News Company, one of the largest companies dealing in magazine circulation as well as organizer of 10,000 private circulating libraries. The executive, who asked that his name be withheld because his comment represented individual opinion not based upon any particular survey, called attention to the fact that "all read magazines, while not all can afford to buy books." Comparative estimates, he said, were difficult because of the falling off in newsstand circulation of magazines due to the general economic situation. He made one exception, however. Women's magazines have not shown the drop registered in other publications' circulations, he declared. These women's magazines, he said, are of a "very high order and with the highest priced writers." In this connection, Aley raised the question whether it is not true that women, after all, are the nation's readers.

"Interest in the adventure and mystery story—and mostly the mystery story—has been growing since the World War," according to Robert Coles, assistant executive secretary of American Book Publishers' Association. Coles would not attempt to estimate the total market for such writings, but did emphasize the huge growth of the circulating libraries and their contribution to development of the reading public.

One definite indication of the trend, as cited by Miss Phillips of William Morrow Company, was the selection by the Associated Press of Charles C. Booth's "The Gold Bullets" for serial publication, the first time that news service had adopted a novel for syndicating. That was a year and a half ago.

"There are a good many mystery stories on the market and they have done very well," Miss Phillips said.

"Mystery stories sell faster than other types of fiction. A mystery story, if it catches on, goes right away. The average life of such a story, that is, the period of volume sale, is six months to a year. Our plan now is to issue one mystery story a month, in order not to overdo.

"There is always a great demand for the mystery novel and the book of adventure."

"ALL QUIET" AWARDED MEDAL BY PHOTOPLAY

Allied Suspends Kinograms Reel After 3 Months

Kinograms Newsreel, sponsored by Allied States exhibitors, has been suspended after less than three months of production due to inability to obtain suitable advertising for screen presentation. The newsreel will be revived, the producers of Kinograms announce, whenever a suitable volume of acceptable advertising becomes available.

Under Allied State's contract with Kinograms, Allied theatres booked the newsreel with the proceeds from rentals apportioned to Allied national and unit treasuries. Advertising income was divided between the producers of the reel and Allied's national treasury. In addition, Educational was paid a fee for physical distribution of the reel. Lack of acceptable advertising cut off the principal source of income for all agencies and resulted in making the project too burdensome for both the producers and Allied.

Exercise of Allied's right to pass on all advertising in advance of its acceptance by Kinograms resulted in cancellation of the bulk of available material and finally led to suspension of the reel.

Radio Commission To Decide Local vs. Chain Unit Status

The Federal Radio Commission at Washington is expected this week to decide the important question as to whether radio audiences in the future will receive programs from local stations or over nationwide chains.

The issue is involved in the application of the Columbia Broadcasting Company for authority to build a "booster" or amplifying station in Washington as an outlet for WABC in New York. The application is being fought by station WOL of Washington.

Niblo Signed to Direct 3 Hakim Will Make for MGM

Erik Hakim, in London, has signed Fred Niblo, American director, to direct the three features he is scheduled to make for MGM. Niblo, in Hollywood, leaves immediately for England.

The signing is seen as pointing to practically certain American release for the films, and as one of the most important moves in recent British production.

Consolidated Preferred Dividend

The regular quarterly dividend of 50 cents on the preferred was voted at a meeting of the board of directors of Consolidated Film Industries this week. The dividend is payable January 2, 1932, to all stockholders of record December 10.

Quirk Presents Medal to Laemmle; Fourth Honor for Film Which Took Academy 1930 Prize

"All Quiet on the Western Front," Universal's Academy Award winner in 1930, has been awarded also the Photoplay Magazine Medal, as the best production of 1930.

James Quirk, editor of Photoplay, this week presented to Carl Laemmle, Universal president, at the home office, the solid gold insignia of the award. Inscribed on the reverse side is the legend: "Presented to Universal Pictures Corporation by Photoplay Magazine for the production, 'All Quiet on the Western Front,' the Best Photoplay of the Year 1930."

This is noted as the fourth symbol of merit accorded the Universal film, based on the Erich Remarque story of German soldiers in the Great War. Plans have been made by various organizations to show the film on Armistice Day of 1932, 1936 and 1940. Universal has agreed to keep the negative and prints necessary for these showings in good condition. Arrangements for these showings were made through the National Student Federation of the United States. The Magazine conducts a voting contest over a number of months and awards the prize a full year after the release.

Opera Shorts on Educational List

Grand opera condensed from three and five hours to 18 minutes of actual "meat" is the latest thing musically to come out of Hollywood, according to Kendall-de Vally Operalogues, which organization has completed the first of six two-reel opera shorts for Educational release.

Antoine de Vally, a Belgian opera tenor and impresario, is originator of the idea, which was tried out on the stage of the Fox theatre in San Francisco. H. Kendall is a capitalist and business man. Charles Fallon, for years in French opera management, is technical director. Lou Seiler is screen director.

The first production, "Vendetta" (Vengeance)—suggested by Mascagni's "Cavalleria Rusticana"—begins at the end of the opera instead of the start(!)—the entire production is musically inverted.

The series will be in English with the Japanese opera soprano, Sugi Machi, featured. Madam Machi has been signed for "The Mikado." In addition to this and "Cavalleria," others will be "Martha," "Faust," "Il Trovatore" and "Lakme." These will be synchronized in French, Italian, Spanish and German.

Joe Brandt Back in New York

Joe Brandt, Columbia Pictures president, arrived in New York on Tuesday from the Coast. He was accompanied by Sam J. Briskin, Columbia unit producer.

The Presentation

James R. Quirk, editor of Photoplay Magazine, presents the Photoplay Medal to Carl Laemmle.

Royal Studios Formed at Jersey

Negotiations having been completed with Lowell V. Calvert, manager of recording operations, for installation of RCA Photophone sound recording equipment, production activities will begin on December 1 at the Royal Studios, Grantwood, N. J.

The Royal has a main stage 96 feet by 65 feet by 26 feet high, a small stage 64 feet by 36 feet high, completely equipped carpenter shop, dressing rooms, cutting rooms, projection rooms, two scoring rooms and a television stage. The company has acquired an RCA Photophone truck and equipment for location work.

Andrew J. Brislin, president of Royal, was for many years identified in an executive capacity with Westinghouse Air Brake. He is secretary and trustee of the East New York Savings Bank and treasurer of Empire Title & Guarantee, both of Brooklyn. Leo Beck, chief engineer of Claud Neon Lights, is vice-president; Cornelius A. Brislin, trustee of the Richmond Hill Savings Bank, treasurer, and John Brislin, Jr., vice-president of the Brislin Lumber Co., Inc., is secretary.

Carl Laemmle Returns to Coast

Carl Laemmle has completed his business trip to New York and returns to California on Thursday for the winter. He will be accompanied west by Paul Kohner, who arrived on Tuesday on the Europa, after a two months' trip in London, Paris, Berlin and Vienna. Kohner is an associate producer at Universal City.

While in Europe Kohner signed Dr. Arnold Fanck, producer-director of "White Hell of Pitz Palu" and other productions. Dr. Fanck is writing his own story and will arrive in this country about February 1 with cameramen and several Alpine climbers.

The live-wire West Coast service magazine "Here's How" shows how to take advantage of these new sensational short subjects—

A SUCCESS STORY!

PETE SMITH inaugurated a new idea in short subjects only a few months ago. Given the interesting photographic material in M-G-M's SPORTS CHAMPIONS and FISHERMAN'S PARADISE series, he provided a freshness and sparkle by way of presentation and dialogue which have brought these shorts overnight fame. We urge every exhibitor in America to book these shorts at once. They are a riot wherever played, and it should be your aim to be among the first to recognize their importance for your town. ASK (as usual) METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER!

RKO IN DILEMMA OVER REFINANCING

(Continued from page 9)

needed to meet present and future obligations and to provide for operating expenses of Radio and RKO Pathe. RKO has volunteered or offered to underwrite the issue.

The new plan for refinancing was submitted to stockholders in a letter dispatched from headquarters in New York last week in which was officially made known a fact which has been common knowledge within the industry for some little time: that RKO and its picture affiliates have been in a difficult financial position since September 1, of this year.

The proposed plan in effect is a reorganization of the capital structure of RKO, with a scaling down of holdings of stockholders to one-fourth of present holdings. Stockholders who subscribe to the new issue of debentures will receive three-fourths of a share of new stock for each share now held and will then have the same number of shares in the company as before.

Would Increase RCA Holdings

Radio-Keith-Orpheum at present has outstanding 2,328,250 shares of Class A stock, and 500,000 shares of Class B held by Radio Corporation which were issued, according to Kahane, to RCA in exchange for licenses to use RCA Photophone equipment and various Radio cooperations. In the new capital structure there will be issued 582,065 shares of new stock in exchange for the 2,328,250 shares of old stock; 125,000 going to RCA in exchange for its 500,000 shares of B and 1,740,000 to stockholders who subscribe to the debentures, in the ratio of three-quarters of a share for each share of old stock now held.

Debentures and common stock not subscribed to by stockholders will be purchased by Radio Corporation on the same terms as described. This would increase the holdings of RCA in the company from a minority control to what may develop into majority ownership. This fact found unfavorable reaction when a group of minority "A" stockholders, under leadership of one Joseph Jordan of Forest Hills, Long Island, and Ray Bolton, press agent and secretary, of New York, formed an RKO Stockholders' Protective Committee on Monday, retaining the law firm of Emerson & Sperling as counsel to fight what the committee terms is a move on the part of RKO officials to "stampede" the "A" stockholders into paying "an involuntary assessment of $5 per share," which is the cost of the debentures, or failing to do this lose an equity of three-fourths of a share of present holdings, and thereby give to RCA the opportunity of obtaining at low cost the major control of the company.

Committee Planned Fight

The committee drew plans to fight adoption of the plan and authored statements belittling the statement as presented by RKO executives that RKO must inevitably face receivership if the plan is defeated on December 10. The protective committee stated that the plan was in effect a move to give RCA control of a company having assets of $127,414,981, by underwriting the $11,600,000 issue.

RKO officials who were left in charge of engineering the new refinancing scheme by President Hiram Brown, after Brown suddenly departed for Hollywood to assist in reorganizing studio forces, on Tuesday invited all New York financial editors and trade paper representatives to RKO headquarters where the RKO version of the plan was presented.

Accordingly, Mr. Kahane, general counsel, summoned the press and a meeting was arranged for in Mr. Kahane's office.

Where Pathe Deal Was Closed

It was in this same high vaulted and oak paneled room, with its stained glass windows and cathedral atmosphere, high up in the Palace theatre building, where one midnight eleven months ago RKO and Pathe Exchange, Inc., closed the transaction by which the production machinery, players and various Pathe assets passed to the Radio group for some four and a half millions in cash and notes.

Mr. Kahane and Herman Zohbel, treasurer of RKO, sat in the press session as parallel spokesmen. Mr. Siegel, a representative of Lehman Brothers, sat in the meeting as an observer.

The newspaper response to the announcement of the meeting was prompt and remarkably complete. Thirty reporters and financial writers trooped into the meeting, a significant recognition of the importance of the motion picture and of the Radio Corporation's part in the present plays on the checkerboard of amusement world finance. It was such a gathering as might have been had a few years ago only for a vital announcement from the House of Morgan or United States Steel. Today the motion picture is a part of the big news of Wall street.

Kahane Surprisingly Frank

Eugene Clifford of the New York Times fired the opening question, followed by Louis A. Fink of Wall Street Journal, and then came queries, some pertinent, many impertinent, from a cub of the Herald Tribune, Don Hancock of Film Daily, a financial statistical expert sent by Standard Statistics, Charles Hynes of Motion Picture Daily, a Hearst representative, Lou Guimond representing the London trade press, James Cunningham of MOTION PICTURE HERALD, and a dozen others.

Kahane stood up under the heavy barrage and shot back surprisingly frank statements, each made "with an honest desire to tell all." The picture of RKO's current financial and corporate structure was painted dark and when the news men departed they took away with them the conviction that stockholders must approve of the new plan, or the company ends its present ownership after December 10, when the bankers now holding outstanding obligations will be asked, according to Kahane, to "protect" their interests—"which means receivership."

Cites Economic Handicaps

Kahane began the news session by tracing the history of the company during which he pointed out the various unfavorably reactionary economic handicaps which have befallen its operation.

"Up to and including May of 1930, RKO boasted of an average daily bank balance of $800,000. Little did we think then, that economic conditions and business activities within the company would make it so difficult for us in May and again in September of 1931 to secure financing," said Kahane.

"In September," Kahane stated, "we foresaw a slump in grosses to the point that a $4,000,000 loan by January 2 was seen necessary to the company's continued operation. This loan, with other notes which will fall due later, made imperative a reconstruction of the company's financial structure. For many months we had been attempting to interest various banking institutions in a refinancing program."

Kahane, apparently, was leading up to RCA's entrance as underwriter of the refinancing program. Answering reporters he denied that RCA "stole" the underwriting privilege, which he declared was no privilege after all, nor did RCA intend to "steal" RKO through purchase of unsubscribed debentures and stock of the new issue, which it is privileged to acquire as underwriters under the terms of the new plan.

"RCA would doubtless welcome a more favorable plan to stockholders than the one now offered, which is to our mind the only way out," Kahane said.

A reporter at this point asked Mr. Kahane if it were not true that "reduction of the equity of stockholders by 75 per cent meant that the 75 per cent would be handed to Radio Corporation of America on a silver platter." Kahane denied that the company has any such purpose in view.

During the session with reporters it was indicated as likely that the current feature program of RKO Pathe is its last. It was said to be probable that upon completion of the 1931-32 feature group, there will be a single schedule for RKO and RKO Pathe, similar to the Warner-First National procedures. If so, about 42 features will make up the initial release schedule of the combined group, for 1931-32.

Kahane told the press representatives that RCA will probably withdraw its refinancing support if the plan is turned down by stockholders at the December 10th meeting.

The stock holdings of Radio Corporation in RKO include 9 per cent of the A in addition to the entire 500,000 issue of B, which gives to RCA 25 per cent voting power. This figure is said to be surprisingly low in view of Radio's predominating spirit in the RKO set-up, which was thought to have been backed by a voting power estimated to reach as high as 40 per cent.

$1,000,000 Temporarily Advanced

Kahane observed that if the stockholders accepted the plan they would then have the alternative of subscribing to the debentures or failing that to gain from the remaining 25 per cent of their holdings a probably much greater value than their present holdings could amount to under a receivership.

RCA already has temporarily advanced $1,000,000 at 6 per cent pending adoption of the plan.

RCA's purchase of 200,116 shares of A stock, made in 1929 and 1930 when the stock was offered to stockholders, cost RCA between $30 and $35 per share.

Operating costs of the present combined structure of RKO, and amortization of debts outstanding, runs between $3,000,000 and $4,500,000 monthly, Zohbel said, dependent upon the amount of notes due in the respective months.

There are at present 26,000 stockholders on the books of the corporation, including dozens of brokerage houses, each listed as one, but which hold over 1,000,000 shares in "street names," indicating, said Kahane, a total of between 30,000 and 40,000 stockholders.

Stockholder Not Obligated

Voting for the plan does not obligate a stockholder to purchase the debentures, Kahane informed the press audience in reply to queries which he said have been received from dozens of stockholders. Several thousand proxies voting "yes" on the new plan already have been received at the home office.

There is nothing known about the strength of the new minority protective committee, nor of whom it represents, although both Kahane and Minority Attorney Sperling denied rumors that Pat Powers or J. P. Kennedy was interested in it.

Powers is known to have called upon RKO officials early this week in an attempt to trace down the source of reports which credited him with backing the minority group.

Doubt Receivership

In important financial circles it was observed on Wednesday that it is hardly possible that the Radio Corporation will permit a receivership. Another way out will be decided upon if necessary, insiders feel, but control, of course, would go to RCA. In the same circles it was felt that the minority group would be unable to interest a banking house in a new plan.

A Wall Street report yesterday had it that Sidney R. Kent, vice president in charge of sales for Paramount Publix, was considering resigning from that company to go to RKO. When asked about this rumor, Kahane said: "It's the first I have heard of such a report; I know nothing about it."

Radio Corporation, under ordinary circumstances, could scarcely afford to underwrite the new debentures. On December 31, 1930, it had a net working capital of but $36,354,605, which is not so large for a $170,000,000 concern. Of this, approximately $20,000,000 was in cash. It owed General Electric and Westinghouse more than $18,000,000 and if they endeavored to collect on a moment's notice it might embarrass Radio. It is felt, however, that these companies would be inclined to be lenient with a concern in which they have such a large interest, so it would seem that RCA is on fairly safe ground in making the proposal to underwrite RKO.

No Dividends on Class A

Since incorporation in 1928 RKO has paid no dividends on the Class A shares. Class B shares are not entitled to dividends. Although in liquidation Class A is entitled to all tangible assets, both classes of stock share equally in intangible assets. The A and B shares have cumulative voting power, each shareholder being entitled to as many votes as the total number of shares held, multiplied by the number of directors to be elected.

In the meantime, distribution and production units of the combined Radio and

RADIO AND PATHE TO DELIVER '31-'32 FILMS

RKO Pathe divisions continued to work out the physical amalgamation started two weeks ago when Selznick was placed in charge of production, with his aides including Joseph I. Schnitzer, in charge of business affairs at the Hollywood studio; Charles R. Rogers, handling RKO Pathe production, and William LeBaron supervising a four-picture unit. Hiram Brown's trip to the Coast, away from all the din and roar of refinancing problems, is expected to bring about many important changes in the new production administration.

Le Baron Denies Resignation

Reports this week again mentioned Le Baron's resignation, which he denied to MOTION PICTURE HERALD in a wire from Hollywood which said: "No truth in the report that I will resign. I am tremendously pleased with the new setup and welcome the opportunity to make five or six big pictures next year." Le Baron will make "Girl Crazy" as his first.

It is freely admitted that wholesale slashes throughout the entire production forces will be forthcoming within two weeks, probably beginning with Brown's arrival on the Coast late this week.

The ax began to fall on Monday when Harry Hoyt, Radio director-writer, was asked to resign. Following came the resignations of Miles Connelly, producer; Tim Whelan, writer, and Joseph Miles, all from the roster of the "Rooster." The next group, likewise from Pathe, included Anthony Coldeway, writer; Paul Stein, director; Charles Whittaker and Graham John, both writers.

Physical Merging December 15

Physical merging of the RKO and RKO Pathe lots will begin on December 15. In cases where a player or director refuses a salary cut the regulation notice of dismissal will be forthcoming. The combined unit is "knee deep" in personnel and RKO officials believe it will be an easy matter to make eliminations.

On the other hand, many performers and other professionals of the production force will be relieved immediately by new recruits to the Radio lot. The move toward this end was started this week with the signing of John Barrymore as a key star of the new program.

Herman Mankiewicz, author, dialogue writer and scenarist, was given a new contract; likewise Pandro Berman, associate Radio producer, who becomes Selznick's assistant. Berman will be active in the amalgamation of studio properties and production staffs.

New contracts this week were given to Norman McLeod, director, and Jane Murfin, scenarist.

Elimination of one set of exchanges, saving $2,000,000 annually, and numerous salesmen and managers has started the distributing phase of the new combination on the road to "bigger and better" sales drives under Lee Marcus, assisted by Ned Depinet, handling the entire West, and Charlie Rosenzweig, in charge of Eastern territory.

There Will Be No "Foolish" Economies Sacrificing Quality Or Efficiency, Declares Marcus

Despite the turmoil of the week on Wall Street and along Broadway over RKO's plan for refinancing, the operations of the company's motion picture subsidiaries, RKO Radio Pictures and RKO Pathe, are essentially unaffected.

Lee Marcus, general manager of the operations of the combined film companies, spoke confidently and frankly of the company's plans in an interview this week.

The studio readjustments resultant from the recent appointment of David Selznick have been effected. The sales departments of Radio and Pathe have been combined. The physical distribution facilities of the two companies are being rapidly thrown together.

Will Deliver 1931-32 Program

Important among the things he said was the statement that RKO Radio and RKO Pathe would complete and deliver the 1931-32 production programs outlined at the beginning of the season and that there would be no "foolish" economies sacrificing either negative quality or distribution efficiency.

The difficulties of normal operations in the midst of the turmoil of refinancing and the difficulties of consolidating were recognized by Marcus in his statement, but he said that these had been considerably overcome by the enthusiasm with which Seth Parker's "Way Back Home" and Pathe's "Suicide Fleet" had been received and the highly favorable advance reports from Hollywood on "The Dove."

"Only five of Pathe's major productions remain to be made," said Marcus, enumerating two Hardings, two Bennetts and a Twelvetrees. "These are all box-office pictures on which it will be impossible to effect any material economies, as any attempt to do so would result in endangering the quality of the productions. Pictures apart from these will be of less importance and of smaller cost."

Not Sacrificing Quality

Marcus declared emphatically that there was "no indication and no desire" on the part of the company to sacrifice quality to cost in completing its production schedule. He added that no curtailment of production would be made in the original programs of both Radio Pictures and RKO Pathe.

"Nothing in the present situation will interfere with production and release," said Marcus. "Each company will complete its full production schedule as originally announced."

"The best talent and general facilities of both studios are now mutually available," he said. "This in itself will do much to produce general improvements in forthcoming pictures. In addition, the best productions of both studios are yet to come. The cumulative effect of their release through one distributing organization, in a steady stream, will benefit gross business immediately. Moreover, the merger will result in vital savings on operations."

Hess Files Suits Against Churchman and Pete Harrison

A second libel action was filed this week by Gabriel L. Hess, general counsel for the MPPDA, asking $150,000 damages of The Churchman, national religious publication. Hess several days ago filed a similar suit against Pete Harrison, publisher of Harrison's Reports, a trade pamphlet. Both actions are based on publication of statements that Hess, Adolph Zukor, Will Hays and C. C. Pettijohn had been indicted for conspiracy to restrain competition in Ontario during the recent Canadian government combines investigation. The suit against Harrison also asks damages of $150,000.

Hess' action against The Churchman, a weekly magazine published in New York, which describes itself as the "oldest religious journal in the English speaking world," is based on an editorial article in the November 14 issue which repeats the statements concerning the indictments of the executives which first appeared in Harrison's Reports. Hess said that The Churchman's editorial was "even more libelous than Harrison's," and that it contained additional injurious material.

In both suits, which were filed in New York county court, Hess denies that any of those mentioned in the articles had been indicted and contends that his reputation as an attorney has been injured to the extent specified in the suits.

It is understood that the complainant has in his possession numerous articles published by both organs which will be introduced in court for the purpose of showing malice on the part of both defendants over a long period. Guy Emery Shipley is editor of The Churchman, which has been exceptionally critical of industry affairs for years.

Harrison's Reports published a retraction of its original statement this week, in which it was explained that the statements on which Hess' suit is based were published without malicious intent and on a report which later proved to be erroneous.

Hess declared that the retraction "merely aggravates the situation and in no way affects the original damage or liability."

Phillips and Nizer, attorneys for Hess, said that both actions are "personal to Mr. Hess and have no reference whatever to his position as general attorney for the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America."

To Modernize All English Equipment

RCA Photophone has inaugurated a plan in England whereby theatre sound equipment which has in a sense become obsolete, is to be brought up to date with a view to reducing operating cost and raising the standard of sound reproduction in theatres. A similar plan has been in effect in the United States for about one year. The modernization of English equipment will be completed at a minimum cost to the exhibitor.

New Jersey Exhibitors Plan To Have Offices In New York

Allied Theatre Owners of New Jersey has launched a new "finance plan" for the setting up of offices in New York. All members are expected to contribute to the fund. The unit also plans to retain a legal advisor on an annual basis.

Sidney Samuelson, addressing a bulletin to members, said: "When the gloom enveloping this business is dispelled, the independent exhibitors will be stronger than ever."

Kansas City Fight With Union is Key To Fox Settlement

The truce between the Operators' union and Fox Theatre interests enters its second week with settlement at Kansas City imminent. The Fox union difficulties were an outgrowth of the Kansas City exhibitors' fight for one man in the booth and led to a strike order being issued against all Fox Theatres by William Canavan, president of the IATSE. The order was rescinded, however, on the eve of its becoming effective, a week ago.

Harry Arthur, general manager of Fox Theatre interests, is in Kansas City this week and will attempt to effect a settlement of the situation there. W. H. Lollier, Fox representative in charge of labor negotiations, whose presence in Kansas City was vigorously objected to by the operators' local there, has been recalled. Lollier was described by union representatives as "an agitator imported to stir up trouble."

Canavan issued a statement in New York this week in which he said an understanding had been reached with Fox and that an early settlement of the "lockout" of operators at 10 Fox Midwest houses in Kansas City suburbs was expected.

Talking Film Proves Guilt Of a Bootlegger in Court

Talking motion pictures proved their worth in Kansas City this week when eight reels shown in federal court forced a plea of guilty from Joe Pasano, alias Joe Pete, as head of a group of rum runners, and caused a sentence of two years and $10,000 fine.

Federal agents, more than a year ago, took the films, with sound, when they secreted themselves with a camera in a wooded spot close to the hangout of the bootleggers. The case was the first in which dry agents had used motion pictures and was pronounced a great success.

Technical Awards To Erpi, RCA, DuPont, Eastman, RKO

The Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences has announced awards for the past year for the best scientific or technical achievement, as follows: Noise reduction recording equipment, Erpi; RCA Photophone and RCA Radio Pictures together.

For super-sensitive panchromatic film, duPont and Eastman Kodak; honorable mention went to Fox Film for synchro-projection composite photography.

Loew, MGM Employees Give Part of Salaries For Relief

Following the suggestion of Nicholas M. Schenck, president, employees of Loew's and Metro studios and exchanges are contributing one-seventh of a week's salary to the Loew-Metro Unemployment Fund. The money contributed will go directly to unemployment relief committees in various cities in which Loew's theatres and M-G-M studios and exchanges are located.

"Judge a picture by the company it keeps"

OF COURSE IT'S A FITZPATRICK TRAVELTALK

with "The Champ" at the $2 Astor!

When the time came to pick a fitting accompanying program for the $2 presentation of "The Champ" at the Astor Theatre, the short subject chosen was a Fitzpatrick Traveltalk "Colorful Jaipur."

The especial merit of Fitzpatrick Traveltalks, which sets them apart from all other travel films, is that not only are they $2 Road-show class, but they pack thrills that make them welcome entertainment everywhere.

FITZPATRICK TRAVELTALKS are the pride of METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER

BOX OFFICE CHAMPIONS FOR OCTOBER

Interest aroused by MOTION PICTURE HERALD'S presentation of the BOX OFFICE CHAMPIONS of 1930-31 now leads to a monthly presentation of the six best box office performers elected in the same manner, by the dollar verdict of the consumers. The rating is on the calendar month, which may debar some few pictures of excellent performance, starting too late or finishing too early in their first run careers. The list for October, presented here, is as diverse as the array of last season's champions. In the order of their box office records, the leaders for the month were Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Susan Lenox: Her Fall and Rise," Universal's "The Spirit of Notre Dame," United Artists' "Palmy Days," First National's "Five-Star Final," Paramount's "Monkey Business" and Warner Brothers' "Alexander Hamilton."

THE SPIRIT OF NOTRE DAME

UNIVERSAL

Directed by Russell Mack. Art director, Danny Hall. Adaptation by Richard Schayer. Cinematographer, George Robinson. Cast: Lew Ayres, Wm. Bakewell, Andy Devine. Harry Barris, Sally Blane, Adam Walsh, Frank Carideo. Released October 13. 1931.

PALMY DAYS

UNITED ARTISTS

Story and dialogue by Eddie Cantor, Morris Ryskind and David Freedman. Directed by Edward Sutherland. Continuity by Keene Thompson. Cinematographer, Gregg Toland. Cast: Eddie Cantor, Charlotte Greenwood, Spencer Charters, Barbara Weeks, George Raft, Charles B. Middleton. Released September 26. 1931.

SUSAN LENOX

M-G-M

From the novel by David Graham Phillips. Directed by Robert Z. Leonard. Adaptation and continuity by Wanda Tuchock. Dialogue by Zelda Sears and Edith Fitzgerald. Stars: Greta Garbo, Clark Gable, John Miljan, Helene Millard, Jean Hersholt, Cecil Cunningham, Alan Hale, Hale Hamilton. Released August 29, 1931.

FIVE STAR FINAL

FIRST NATIONAL

From original play by Byron Morgan. Directed by Mervyn LeRoy. Art director, Jack Okey. Adaptation by Robert Lord. Cinematographer, Sol Polito. Cast: Edward G. Robinson, Marion Marsh, Ona Munson, H. B. Warner, Frances Starr. Released September 26, 1931.

MONKEY BUSINESS

PARAMOUNT

Screen story by S. J. Perelman and Will B. Johnstone. Directed by Norman McLeod. Chinematographer, Arthur Todd. Additional dialogue by Arthur Sheekman. Cast: Four Marx Brothers, Thelma Todd, Ruth Hall, Tom Kennedy. Released September 26, 1931.

ALEXANDER HAMILTON

WARNER BROTHERS

Based on play by George Arliss and Mary Hamlin. Directed by John Adolphi. Adaptation and dialogue by Julian Josephson and Maude Howell. Cinematographer, James Van Trees. Cast: George Arliss, Doris Kenyon, Dudley Digges, Alan Mowbray, June Collyer, Montagu Love, Ralf Harolde. Released September 12, 1931.

Held Over for Second Week at N.Y. Paramount!

"TOUCHDOWN!"

RICHARD ARLEN—PEGGY SHANNON—JACK OAKIE
REGIS TOOMEY—CHAS. STARRETT

From Francis Wallace's Novel "Stadium"
Directed by Norman McLeod

NATIONAL MOTION PICTURE WEEK · NOV. 18th to 25th · give him a lift · FOR LOCAL UNEMPLOYMENT RELIEF

CHEERING throngs at weekly change N. Y. Paramount demand second week of "TOUCHDOWN". The grandest entertainment to reach movie screens in months. Everywhere it's a box-office hit! Thrilling, exciting, romantic! Just what the fans are crying for! Good old S. R. O. days if you play with PARAMOUNT.

Swell Entertainment!
The finest football film ever made! —Chester B. Bahn, Syracuse Herald
One of the outstanding football pictures of all times! N.Y. World-Telegram
Funny!
Stark Realism!
You could show "TOUCHDOWN!" during Christmas week or dog days of July and it still would be a great, stirring picture! —Kansas City Star
"Touchdown!" is fan entertainment worth an hour of anyone's time! —N. Y. Telegraph
What a Story!
Everything a popular entertainment needs. Oakie comes into his own again. —New York Sun
Certainly the best of the photoplays dealing with football. An earnest and intelligent film. —N. Y. Herald-Tribune

PARAMOUNT

MINORITIES FORCE SPREAD OF POLICY

(Continued from page 13)

the remaining 85 per cent to adopt the double bill defensively and unwillingly.

Chicago provides a notable example. Of that city's 200 double featuring theatres, not more than 30 or 35 are maintaining the policy by choice. The remainder, according to independent and circuit theatre leaders, are not only willing but anxious to abolish the practice, but are unable to do so until it has been eliminated from the Publix-Balaban & Katz theatres, which command the competitive situation there and in which the policy is being voluntarily maintained.

A similar situation has been revealed at Providence, Rhode Island, where the Fay theatres are reported to be unwillingly engaged in the practice. At the offices of M. E. Comerford, in New York, partner in the Fay enterprises, it was said that double featuring competition in Rhode Island, together with the large number of feature of running time of one hour or less, forces the Fay houses to maintain the policy despite the fact that the management is anxious to abolish the practice.

Similar situations have been reported in other hotbeds of double featuring, notably New York, Cleveland and Northern California.

Has Definite Following

However, regardless of their personal opinions of the policy and in spite of whatever local situation has been brought about by the practice, exhibitors everywhere freely admit that double featuring has a definite following in every community. It appeals, they say, to the "bargain" instinct of the public, particularly in these days.

Several impressive examples of this definite audience appeal of double features are afforded. In a single Chicago neighborhood, an audience poll on double featuring was taken by two competing theatres, one of which had used the policy for some time while the other never had. The poll had been occasioned by a falling off in attendance at both theatres. The results showed that an overwhelming majority of the patronage at both houses favored continuance of the policy already in vogue at each. This vote was taken to indicate that double features command as definite an audience as single features.

Numerous other audience polls in Chicago and other double feature centers produced the same results, indicating there is considerable box office justification for adoption of the policy, particularly in overseated neighborhoods and cities. In overseated situations, many exhibitors declare, the policy not only is justified, but under certain protection circumstances might prove a real benefit to trade.

The "protection circumstances" which would justify the practice were said to be restricting double featuring to subsequent-runs. Thus, the definite patronage commanded by double features would be served without placing an unfair competitive weapon in the hands of the theatre management. In overseated situations, it was pointed out, this might act as a general benefit to trade by retaining for the subsequent-run the definite, additional double feature patronage, whereas patronage would not be sufficient to support two houses competing on either a simultaneous double or single feature policy.

Efforts so to regulate double featuring are being made in several sections where the practice has grown to large proportions. Among these are Cleveland and Northern California, where first-runs and, in several instances, subsequent runs, are not permitted to double feature. The method appears to be generally satisfactory to the local exhibition field and also minimizes the dangers to production and distribution activities which are believed to be attendant upon unregulated and widespread use of the policy.

An effort was made to relegate double featuring to the tenth week of general release in Chicago at the uniform zoning conference held there 16 months ago. Oddly, the independent theatre owners of that city, who now stand most firmly opposed to double featuring, were responsible for the rejection of this plan. It's rejection since has made it possible for B & K to inaugurate the policy in 20-odd pre-release de luxe theatres, and now leaves the subsequent-run independent houses suing—along with competing circuit houses—for relief. The proposed Chicago plan would have relegated double featuring to approximately four months after first-run.

Chicago independents were the first to introduce the practice into that city. When petitioned by the circuits to abolish or regulate it, they turned the same deaf ear that now is being turned to the pleas of the independents by B & K.

Inauguration of the practice by Chicago independents is generally accredited to what is described there as the "lengthy and, in some cases, unfair protection accorded circuit first-runs in Chicago." This explanation is shared by circuit operators there.

James E. Coston, Chicago district manager of Warner Theatres, presents his belief that "double featuring was brought on a great deal by the unfair and unethical long protection demanded of the subsequent-runs by the priority-run houses, which also have a selection of all the product plus stage shows."

Coston adds that the Warner Theatres in Chicago were forced to adopt the policy when it became general throughout the city.

"The reaction of the public," he says, "is that, although they patronize the theatres showing double features, instead of going to the theatres two or three times each week, they now go only once."

Coston believes that, while the practice may "temporarily benefit some of the distributors, as they now have a wider distribution of product, in time it will affect almost all the big producers as it is humanly impossible to produce pictures in quantity and still concentrate on quality."

He reports that the practice has already brought about a shortage of product in Chicago; that it has hurt distributors' gross rentals by reducing the sale of short subjects to a great extent and by bringing about "slight" reductions in film rentals; that it has adversely affected theatre admissions, "particularly at those small houses in the zones of the de luxe theatres which are double featuring, as the small theatres are unable to compete with them"; that, due to the length of the show, "which makes it prohibitive to exhibit any more than two features and a newsreel, it has eliminated all music, including organists and stage shows" from the theatres; and that he believes the practice is on the increase, impelled by an economic situation which forces theatres either to reduce admissions or to devise another means of stimulating business.

High Overhead a Factor

Coston contends that high overhead limits the extent of admission reductions possible, so that most theatres instead will turn to double featuring. It is here, apparently, that the dangerous aspect of the policy lies.

The practice is most often introduced by the small theatre, on which the competitive pressure is greatest. "It increases business for a while," says Coston, but eventually it is adopted by still other theatres which have remarked the business stimulus at one house or a small group of theatres. Eventually, the large priority-run theatres inaugurate the practice; the smaller theatres, unable to compete, cease to be benefited, but are still unable to drop the practice for fear of suffering even greater losses. The practice is then established on city-wide scale, and in volume of this kind soon visits its dangerous influence on other branches of the industry in the form of lowered rentals, product shortages which influence the quality of future productions, serious loss of short subject sales, and what is generally described as "an intangible cheapening of motion pictures and the theatre."

Coston believes that "to completely eliminate double features at the present time would mean a drastic reduction in admission prices, as the public in its present frame of mind shops for quantity as well as for quality."

Correspondingly emphatic opinions on the practice are voiced by Abram F. Myers, president and general counsel, Allied States Association, who says that "to exhibit two feature pictures for the price of one, except under the whiplash of competition, is plain stupidity. The practice may stimulate business temporarily (I have no proof of this), but in the long run the result is greatly to increase the cost of doing business without a corresponding increase in patronage."

"The practice," says Myers, "tends to cheap-

Cut Budgets for Shorts

Lowered rentals from short subjects due largely to the increases in double featuring throughout the country are forcing producers to pare production budgets on the shorts accordingly.

Production of Laurel-Hardy comedies, which ordinarily cost in the neighborhood of $55,000, probably will be pared to $40,000, in keeping with corresponding reductions in rentals. Other Hal Roach two-reel comedies likely will be kept within a $30,000 production budget. In this category will probably be Charlie Chase comedies, Our Gang and Boy Friends.

Other producers of shorts also are reported lopping off production costs, with the average being spent for a two-reeler now around $25,000, or about $10,000 under similar appropriations of a year ago.

FOUND BENEFICIAL IN FEW SITUATIONS

(Continued from preceding page)

en and degrade the business. It robs the movies of the glamour that has been their chief appeal. It is a contagious disease which spreads like wildfire, carrying other evils in its train. It will inevitably result in triple featuring, price wars and other insane practices. This is not wild speculation but the expression of a settled opinion based on numerous conferences with Allied leaders in the field."

Myers charges that where, as in Chicago, the practice is employed by both the large chain and small independent houses, it becomes unfair competition.

"The large chain houses," he says, "with enormous seating capacity, and with only one change a week, can keep their audiences entertained for three hours or more and still not be at the mercy of the exchanges. The small house, with six changes a week, required by competitive conditions to double feature, is up against it for product."

Sees Shortage Inevitable

Myers, like others, believes that product shortages are inevitable wherever the practice is engaged in to any extent, and that eventual lowering of the quality of product must follow. "It will greatly increase the demand for cheap pictures," he says, "and I think all will agree that nothing should be done to stimulate the production of that grade of films. It has already forced the showing of bad pictures which otherwise would go unbought or unshown."

Myers also believes that the practice was first adopted by subsequent-runs to offset the lengthy protection of first-runs, their choice of product, and for economic reasons. "First-runs are now resorting to it as a means of bolstering their business during the depression," he says.

Myers sees a further harmful influence on production in that the practice "tends to shorten the length of features. Any trend having to do with the mere length or shortness of a picture is bound to affect its quality. Good pictures cannot be made by the yard."

Some Allied Favor Twin Bills

From his discussions with Allied leaders Myers has come to the conclusion that the practice has had little if any effect on total admissions. He is also of the opinion that the trend of double featuring is toward an increase, and realizes that where these increases are among Allied exhibitors his views and theirs clash uncompromisingly.

"I realize," he says, "that (in my views on double featuring) I am out of line with the views of some Allied members. I am confident, however, that they are a minority and I feel that they are mistaken."

Myers recalls that Allied, with the aid of Sidney Kent, of Paramount, was instrumental in checking the practice when it threatened to become general in Detroit. He indicates that cooperation of the sort may accomplish a similar result in Chicago, "where," he says, "conditions are probably worse than in any other city."

"Chicago presents an opportunity to inaugurate a great reform in a very auspicious way," Myers says, "and I am appealing to the industry to join with us in accomplishing it."

Ned E. Depinet, western sales manager, Radio Pictures and RKO Pathe, sees a serious shortage of product threatened if the practice increases throughout the country, and, following such shortage, a product of lowered quality forthcoming.

He sees in it an evil to all branches of the industry which has decreased distributors' gross rentals and, he believes, probably increases patronage only temporarily. He believes that the outcome would be to make features shorter and decrease the number of short subjects produced. The trend, Depinet says he is "afraid," is toward an increase in double featuring.

Concluding, he says: "I consider double featuring a bad and dangerous practice and hope that all the constructive forces of the industry will use their influence to stop the practice."

Plan Four-Reelers

Hal Roach and other producers of short subjects are reported ready with plans for a series of three and four-reel "shorts" to be included in next year's production plans in order to offset further loss of playing time to double featuring theatres.

The move, it is believed, will be followed by all major producers of short subjects, which have been suffering loss of rentals with the spread of the double feature policy. It is pointed out that the three and four-reelers, running 35 to 45 minutes, could be sold in place of a second feature and, at the same time, would leave a place on programs for single reel subjects.

Production plans of this kind would materially reduce the number of short subjects to be made next year and anticipate a further spread of the double feature practice.

Benefit "In a Way"—Feist

Felix Feist, general sales manager, MGM, believes that the practice is a benefit to producers and distributors "in a way"—to use his own words. In spite of this opinion, he declares it to be his belief that the practice ultimately will bring a shortage of product and will lower the quality of productions. He also points out that it has hurt both the playing time and gross rentals of short subjects.

Feist does not believe that the length of features will be affected but, rather, that shorts will be made longer, possibly supplanting the second feature eventually. In his opinion the trend of double featuring is toward an increase.

Feist's opinion that the practice is a benefit to producers and distributors appears to be based on the fact that it increases playing time for product. The opinion appears to be at odds with MGM's policy to discourage double featuring, as announced at the company's national sales convention in Chicago this year by Feist himself. Moreover, it does not appear to be consistent with Metro's method of selling "Trader Horn" this year. The company sold the picture on a special contract which prohibited its being used on a double feature bill.

Acute Problem Says Lichtman

Al Lichtman, vice president and general manager of distribution, United Artists, sees an acute rental problem developing for distributors.

"Double featuring," he says, "has caused a material shrinkage in gross rentals in every situation where the practice is widespread because exhibitors there are endeavoring to buy two pictures for the price of one, in some instances paying less for two than they formerly paid for one." Lichtman sees in this a danger to the quality of future productions.

"If, through this practice, the returns to the producer and distributor continues to shrink," he says, "it will undoubtedly eventually force a lowering of the standard of pictures."

Lichtman believes that the practice results in a shortage of good product and that the shortage will become more acute in time; he believes that it increases gross admissions only temporarily, only while the practice remains a novelty, and that it eventually will hurt grosses even on good pictures, "because the policy usually makes for a bad show." He also believes that the practice increases playing time for bad pictures but not for good ones, and that it in time will reduce the length of features.

In Lichtman's opinion the practice is on the increase.

Varies Programs, Says Freuler

John R. Freuler, president of Big 4, sees in the policy "a new hope for the industry, pointing the way toward variety programs at low overhead and at a time when the industry stands in need of novel offerings."

Freuler believes that the short subject portion of the program should be retained in addition to the double feature. He thinks that this will be accomplished in time and will result in no change in the position of the short subject producer.

Norman Moray, Vitaphone sales manager, while condemning the policy in no uncertain terms, declares that only in Chicago has the sale of short subjects been seriously affected by the practice. He says the market for two-reel subjects is the first to be affected by double featuring, but that good, single reel subjects with an outstanding name are little affected. Illustrating, he said that Vitaphone had increased its sales in the New England territory this year by more than 100 per cent, accomplished largely through circuit bookings of the Bobby Jones series.

Adverse Opinions Predominate

Scores of opinions from distributor and exhibitor leaders follow the same lines of thought. An impartial invitation to comment on the practice was extended in each case to officials in all divisions of the industry, but the response revealed an overwhelming number of adverse opinions. In spite of this, however, it appears certain that there are individual theatre situations which could not survive on any other policy, and that there are entire communities engaged in the practice to the satisfaction of all in those communities.

In conclusion, and according to the evidence gathered, it appears that, locally or individually followed, the practice may be both satisfactory and, even, beneficial. However, according to the expressed conviction of leaders in the trade, there are obvious and undeniable dangers attendant upon a widespread or unregulated use of the policy, and these are dangers which would adversely affect all branches of the industry. Due to the contagiousness of the policy, the factors which cause it to envelope entire communities and regions once it has been introduced, these ultimate dangers are made more immediate and the practice, even in its present status, becomes a vital problem.

Gifford Urges Public to Attend Benefits in Motion Picture Week

The motion picture industry, with the gratis cooperation of both the National Broadcasting Company and Columbia Broadcasting Company offered on Sunday evening, November 15, a nation-wide program from New York, Chicago, Los Angeles and Seattle, introducing National Motion Picture Week, November 18 to 25, when thousands of theatres the country over will give the entire proceeds of benefit performances to the cause of unemployment relief.

Walter S. Gifford, director of the President's Organization on Unemployment Relief, issued a statement to the press of the nation on Tuesday concerning Motion Picture Week, in which he said, in urging attendance at the theatres during the benefit performances: "The benefit shows that will be given during the week represent the united effort of the motion picture industry throughout the country in making a practical contribution to the relief cause, and it is hoped that the proceeds will add substantially to the funds that are being raised by the local unemployment relief agencies. It is a splendid service in behalf of a great humane cause and it deserves public encouragement and patronage."

Will H. Hays made the principal address during the Sunday broadcast. The chief of the MPPDA said in part: "The certainty of our future would make cowardice out of hesitancy now. Today the necessities are recognized and with that knowledge the discharge of immediate responsibilities is certain. It will be a prelude to basic economic readjustments which must come and which will go far toward preventing the recurrence of present conditions. Meanwhile this our chore shall be performed. Six million out of work men will be fed and clothed and put to work . . . their spirit will be maintained, their pride preserved, their courage bolstered, their patriotism justified. We shall give them food for faith and by our performance again justify the reason for America."

In addition to the address of Hays, D. W. Griffith made a stirring appeal, and numerous stars, from the various cities, did their part, introduced in New York by S. L. (Roxy) Rothafel and in Los Angeles by Conrad Nagel. Douglas Fairbanks, Nancy Carroll, William Boyd, Bebe Daniels, Tom Mix, Irene Dunne, George Arliss, Maurice Chevalier, Jeanette MacDonald, Lionel Barrymore, Marie Dressler, Seth Parker, Ben Bernie and orchestra, Paul Whiteman and his orchestra, and Erno Rapee, all joined in the broadcast. To conclude, from New York, Morton Downey, Harry Richman, Eddie Cantor and George Jessel rendered songs, comedy and voiced appeal.

Already set are 1,052 theatres in the Metropolitan New York area, of which 599 are in New York City. Broadway houses have set Monday, November 23, as the date for midnight performances.

Half-Submerged Polar Submarine No Place for Timid Cameraman

Especially So When Rudder Had Broken Off, Says John Dored, Paramount Man With Wilkins

Taking pictures through a four-inch window of a submarine half-submerged in the ice of the God-forgotten wastes of the Arctic Circle may be interesting, but not necessarily happily so when all on board realized that the rudderless subsea craft might not be able to fight its way back to the surface. And that was not the only experience reported to the home office by John Dored, Paramount Sound News cameraman, who accompanied Sir Hubert Wilkins in his unsuccessful dash to the North Pole aboard the Nautilus.

"When the Nautilus reached Bergen, Norway, coming from England," wrote Dored, "I was surprised as I prepared to join her to see on her bridge several men who looked like negroes. They were absolutely black. But soon I found out they were perfectly good white men. They had simply become so black from naptha fuel smoke, oil, grease and the terrible living conditions.

"From Bergen to Spitzbergen there was still a possibility of sleeping on the bunk undressed, but from Spitzbergen to the polar ice and back, during a period of three weeks, undressing for sleep became impossible, due to the very low temperature on board. Due to condensation, water was dripping everywhere and on everything from the submarine's ceiling.

"Very soon after we reached the ice edge, the pipe of our fresh water supply froze and thereafter we were forced to use water out of the fuel tank. This tank had been painted with tar which had not dried before the trip, so the water from it stank.

"On our passage from Tromsoe to Spitzbergen we ran into a storm and our Nautilus rolled with a 47 degree side declination. Everything was thrown about the place from one side to the other. During the night, in order not to fall out of my top bunk, I had to put my belt around my neck and fasten it to a pipe. I also had to hold on with both hands or risk hanging myself if the lower part of my body slipped down. Fortunately I am not subject to sea sickness. Otherwise the suffering would have been terrible.

The First Dive

"But there were pleasant things, too. They were the interest for the outcome, the everchanging sights of the Arctic, the charming people on board, with everybody a friend, from Wilkins to the mess boy. Music was provided by our gramophone. On hard days Captain Danenhower served to everybody a cup of rum to keep our lungs warm. In spare moments we enjoyed ourselves with a game of rummy.

"The most serious and interesting moment was the one when Capt. Danenhower gave the command to get ready for our first dive under the ice. I am sure everybody felt that they might never come up and see the world again. This was due to the fact that the Nautilus had lost her diving rudder on the very first day of our contact with the ice. From that moment the ship had to be regarded not as a submarine but as an ordinary surface vessel. All she could do, and even then only with great risk, was to make an awash dive, that is, submerge halfway only. Wilkins allowed this maneuver three times for the sake of the pictures. He and myself had a hard job persuading the captain to make that awash dive.

"When the dive began I took my station in the escape hatch at the eye port—a round window of about four inches in diameter. Through this port I could see what was going on outside and through it I took pictures while submerged. The big drawback was that I was not able to see at the same time I was photographing, the eye port being entirely occupied by the camera.

An Unforgettable Sight

"The sight of the Polar ice, as viewed from underneath the water, is unforgettable. The everchanging ice formations, their coloring from pure white to bluish deep green, with a dim background, gave an impression of unreal dreamland.

"After making several dives and realizing that we could not reach the Pole without a rudder, we left the pack-ice and were under way back to Spitzbergen. In the open sea we encountered three floating icebergs and finally ran into a heavy storm. The periscope being frozen in and ice-covered long ago, we could see nothing outside and went blind for 24 hours in a storm and iceberg-ridden sea."

Fairbanks Sails to Film the Far East; Mary to Hollywood

Douglas Fairbanks left on Tuesday for the Far East to film a feature similar to his latest "Around the World in Eighty Minutes." Robert Fairbanks, his brothers; Lewis Milestone, director and "Chick" Lewis, production manager and a technical staff accompanied him. He will film Switzerland, Siberia, Manchuria and Mongolia. Half of the product may be in color.

Mary Pickford left Wednesday for Hollywood to set plans for her next film, an original designed to bring children back to the theatre. Fairbanks will be gone about two months, leaving for Central and South America in the late spring.

American Record Acquires Brunswick Radio-Record Unit

American Record Company this week acquired the Brunswick radio and record division of Warner Brothers. American Record is an operating unit of Consolidated Film Industries. It is understood that the new owner will start production of prologue and organlogue records for theatres.

The Brunswick division, which manufactures and sells talking machines, phonograph records and radio receiving sets, was acquired in 1930 by Warner Brothers at a reported purchase price of $5,000,000.

The recent Warner financial statement for the fiscal year showed a loss of $2,399,-161.88 from operations of the radio, record and music divisions, a special writedown of $3,373,368.53 in respect of inventories and accounts receivable of the radio and record division, and charges of $2,475,515.82 made direct during the year to surplus representing a special writedown of the plant and equipment of the radio and record division and loss on other capital assets.

Declares Our Films Give a "Distorted View" To Others

Dr. Stephen P. Duggan of the Carnegie Foundation, in an address at the opening of the World Affairs Institute at White Plains, N. Y., this week deplored the motion pictures which are going into foreign countries of gangsters and "showing the alleged night life and cowboy scenes of the country."

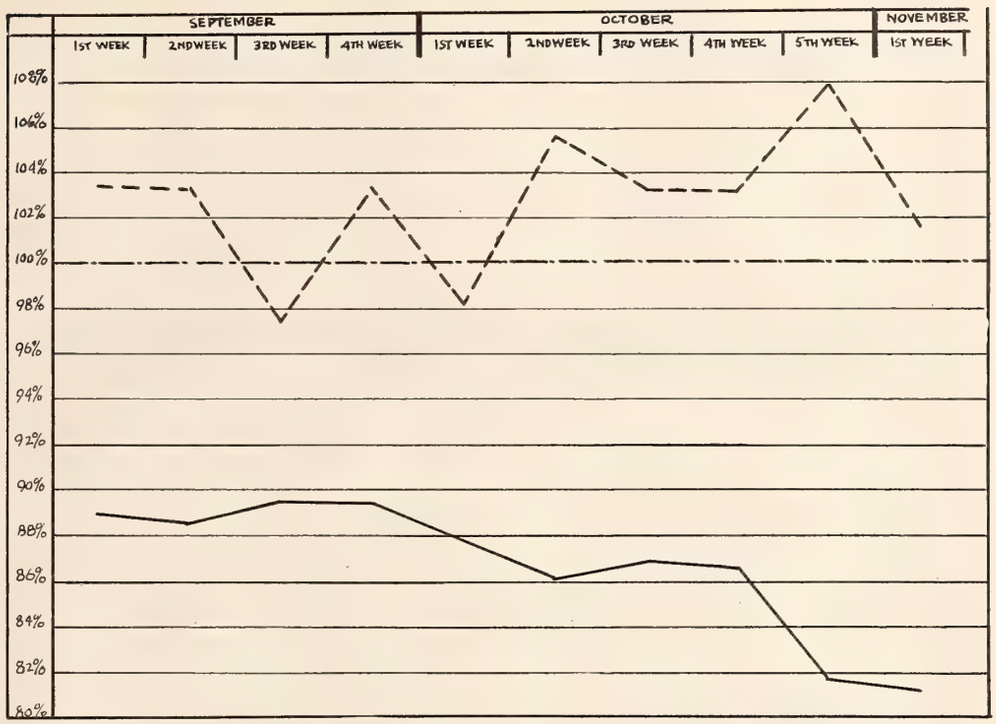
He conceded that films "are excellent mediums for spreading information," but said such films as he described as objectionable gave a "distorted view of Americans" and left "an almost permanent impression on the minds of people in other countries."

Schenck Laughs at Rumor Goldwyn May Go With MGM

Nicholas M. Schenck, in New York, laughed when the Coast rumor to the effect that Sam Goldwyn may join M-G-M was repeated to him at the home office.

His characterization of the report was: "One hundred per cent wrong. Not even the slightest suggestion of such a thing."

Schwartzes Take Two More



Abe and Jules Schwartz, owners of the Park and Utopia at Painesville, Ohio, and who are forming a circuit, have taken over the Ohio and State from Jay Guthrie at Uhrichville, Ohio.

Named Production Manager

Carl Grosswendt has been appointed production manager of the Pacent Electric Company, Inc., by Louis G. Pacent, president.

Sophie Tucker Makes Radio Debut

Sophie Tucker, star of stage and screen, makes her debut over the air on WEAF on Thursday evening.

This chart shows a comparison of box office receipts for ten weeks in September, October and November, this year and last. The evenly broken line (- - - - - - - - -) represents receipts for the ten weeks in 1930. The unbroken line (————————) represents receipts for the same period in 1931. The unevenly broken line (— · — · —) 100% represents average box office receipts during 1930.

MANY NEW DEVICES FOR SOUND IN FIELD

Four Reproducers, Two Recorders, Two Volume Controls, Arc and Projection Lamps, Metal Screen

Four new types of sound reproducers, two recorders and two sound volume controls, new arc and projection lamps and a metal screen are included in the current crop of motion picture equipment which has emerged from the laboratories of engineers and technicians and been made available for marketing.

A young Frenchman, Rene Nublat, at Paris, claims to have invented a device which permits of instantaneous recording of sound on film. Nublat says that his process will save large sums to producers. It records mechanically, aided by a new type of electrical apparatus.

Publix Address Service, equipment manufacturers, will market the "Paseo," junior and senior portable sound-on-film reproducers.

Universal Sound System (not connected with the Universal Film Company) has made available for houses seating between 250 and 5,000 a new sound-on-film reproducing unit which will be marketed direct from the Universal plant at Philadelphia.

Blue Seal Products of Brooklyn is making in two models a new type of carbon arc lamp working on 110 volts a. c. One model, it is claimed, gives light of an equivalent of two 1,000-watt incandescent bulbs, operating at from 10 to 12 amperes, while the second gives the equivalent to 3,500-watt and operates at 18 amperes, both on a. c. and d. c., it is said.

From Germany comes word of a new recorder, the Braun System, manufacturers of which promise minimum costs of operation. This device is said to be particularly adaptable to needs of small producers. It requires but one-tenth watt for operation, say the makers.

Essannay Electric Manufacturing Company of Chicago offers a new "Strong Remote Volume Control," for RCA equipment. By operation of a pushbutton, the device will regulate sound volume control instantly, the company says.

Whiting & Davis, maker of women's metallic handbags, claims to have perfected a process for manufacturing an all-metal screen made on the same principle as mesh bags, with millions of little aluminum squares linked together so that the whole fabric is flexible.

Eugene S. Halford, New Orleans, has received a patent on the Rototone, which, he says, automatically controls sound volume on recorders and reproducers.

A. E. Morrison & Sons, Ltd., of Leicester, England, announces a new type of reproducer for theatres seating up to 500. No batteries are used.

A new G-E Mazda projection lamp of 300 watts which, it is said, does not require any form of lamp resistance, will be marketed for use in Victor nontheatrical projectors.

SETH P
SMASH TEST S

HELD-OVER WASHINGTON
SHOW WORLD'S BEST ST
PROVIDENCE..DES MOINES
RECORD GATE!...YEAR'S SUPREME NOVELTY

FEATURE ATTRACTION! CRITICS RAVE! OLD FOLK AND YOUNG FLOCK TO SEE THE NEW COLOSSUS OF RADIO..."20th CEN-TURY MIRACLE MAN IN A WORLD TURNED UPSIDE DOWN"
WATCH FOR EXHIBITION AND PROMOTION PLANS

ARKER IN SIX POTS...

AND HOUSTON!...TOPS
ANDARD ATTRACTIONS IN ..BOSTON..OMAHA..WITH

RKO Radio PICTURES

SETH PARKER

AND HIS JONESPORT NEIGHBORS IN THE

SMASH MELODRAMA "WAY BACK HOME"

NAIL IT AND LUBRICATE THOSE TURNSTILES!

What, No Theatre? It's No Place For Store Then, Say Merchants

Milwaukee Has Communities Where Tradesmen Prosper Because They Have Managers' Cooperation

A modernistic display room recently was erected on Milwaukee's north side by the Wisconsin Ice & Coal Company. Only a few doors from the show rooms, the concern erected a modern roller rink and dance hall, which is brightly lighted and equipped with a huge electric sign.

"I consider the location for our showroom here as good as any in downtown Milwaukee east of the river," one of the officials of the concern said. "East of the river downtown there are no theatres and as a result you won't find many people window shopping in the evening. Here, located on a car line, hundreds of people are attracted to the roller rink and cannot help but be attracted to our showrooms."

No Theatre Dissension!

It is in this light that many business men regard the theatre. Not only is this true of the downtown houses, but the community theatres as well. There are communities in Milwaukee where the merchants have prospered and cooperated because of a theatre and there are just as many others where dissension and poor cooperation have been prevalent because there was no theatre or at the very best only a small rundown house.

Theatres have been particularly anxious to extend cooperation in community movements in Milwaukee during the past year. Perhaps it is an outgrowth of the policy adopted by the managements of both the Fox and Warner circuits, who have been laying stress upon the desirability of their managers participating in the activities of their community. In numerous instances managers of community theatres in Milwaukee are members of their advancement association, some even holding offices in these associations. For example, Louis Orlove, manager of Fox's Uptown, is second vice-president of the North Avenue Advancement Association.

The merchant today is thinking more strongly in terms of cooperation than he has in many a moon. The enterprising theatre manager has something to offer which the merchant is not capable of obtaining without the theatre's assistance. The theatre knows how to advertise and publicize itself, and by cooperating with the theatre the merchant has benefited accordingly.

Merchandise Awards Available

Formerly the theatre manager was obliged to purchase his own gift offers. Today, with the cooperation of the community merchants, capable at the same time of arousing a greater public interest, he promotes merchandise awards, which results in advertising for the merchant and also pleases the public. At the same time the theatre benefits at no cost to itself.

Treasure Hunts, Better Times Weeks, advancement association theatre parties and the like have been promoted by Milwaukee community managers with good success. Only recently two south side Milwaukee houses, the Riviera and the Kosciuszko, members of the Warner circuit, cooperated in an event which continued for a week. Twenty-two merchants participated, each paying $4.50 for window cards, banners, newspaper advertisement and screen trailer, in addition to donating two prizes valued at not less than $5 apiece. The coupons they presented with each 50 cent purchase or each 50 cents applied against an outstanding account.

It marked the first time that they had cooperated with their theatres in this manner. They were delighted with the results, and were anxious to know when the theatre would stage a similar movement. Ted Stanford and Phil Kielpinski are managers of the Riviera and Kosciuszko, respectively.

Theatre Parties Successful

Orlove was instrumental in staging two thearte parties on successive Saturday nights at the Uptown with the cooperation of the North Avenue Advancement Association, prizes donated by the merchants being given away at each party. Fox Midwesco has been particularly active in supporting a program of this kind for its managers. Its Uptown theatre, at the time Stanley Gross and Wallace James were managers, was partly responsible for the formation of the Upper East Side Advancement Association, and today the association is still functioning with Joseph Kinsky, the present manager, taking an active part in it.

The Warner Wisconsin theatres likewise are cooperating with their community merchants and both circuits are following this procedure not only in Milwaukee neighborhood houses but in theatres in other cities in the state as well. Skeptical at first, the merchant of today is learning that the theatre manager is shooting straight and that his efforts are for the mutual benefit of all concerned.

German Industry In Seasonal Revival, But Attendance Off

The film business in Berlin has experienced its usual seasonal revival in all branches, according to the report of Trade Commissioner George R. Canty at Paris. Attendance, however, has fallen somewhat below previous years by reason of economic stress.

Studios are generally busy, but distributors in Germany report the liquidation of many previous contracts, reorganization and failure of theatres as a source of unsatisfactory financial return.

Constance Bennett To Wed

Constance Bennett and Henry James La Bailly, Marquis de la Falaise de la Coudraye, have filed intention to wed in Los Angeles. The marriage is expected to take place on November 22.

New Union Organized

The United Projectionists' Union of America, newly formed organization in Pennsylvania, with headquarters in Philadelphia, has 40 members, and expects shortly to receive a charter from the state.

How It's Done in Chicago

Herewith are typical programs shown at double featuring houses in Chicago. All theatres listed, with the exception of the independent Palace, are in the pre-release protection classification, and play from three to seven weeks ahead of the first general release theatres. The preponderance of Publix-Balaban & Katz theatres, which double feature throughout the pre-release classification, is illustrated in these random selections of programs the week of November 1.

TERMINAL (Fox)
Pagan Lady
Confessions of Co-Ed

SENATE (Publix-B. & K.)
Last Flight
The Spider

CENTRAL PARK (Publix-B. & K.)
Guilty Hands
Mad Parade

NORSHORE (Publix-B. & K.)
American Tragedy
The Bargain

AVALON (Warners)
Honor of Family
Road to Singapore

CAPITOL & HARDING (Warners and Publix-B. & K.)
Sidewalks of N. Y.
Street Scene

PALACE (Independent)
Daughter of the Dragon
Merely Mary Ann

MARYLAND (Publix-B. & K.)
Star Witness
Pagan Lady

GROVE (Warner)
Star Witness
The Spider

SHERIDAN (Fox)
Caught Plastered
Shanghaid Love

GRANADA & MARBORO (Publix-B. & K.)
Road to Singapore
Sidewalks of N. Y.

STRATFORD (Warner)
Bad Girl
The Bargain

New York, Chicago SMPE Sections Elect Officers

The Society of Motion Picture Engineers' New York and Chicago sections have elected officers for the ensuing year. In New York officers are: P. H. Evans, Warners, chairman; Donald E. Hyndman, Eastman Kodak, secretary-treasurer; managers, M. C. Batsel, RCA Photophone and J. L. Spence, Akeley Camera.

In Chicago new officers are: R. Fawn Mitchell, chairman; Burton W. Depue, secretary; governors, Robert P. Burns and Oscar B. Depue.

Cameraman Films Lake Placid

Charles Cajiano, motion picture photographer, has made a film, titled "High Spots in New York," which will be released shortly. Numerous of the sequences, taken from the air, show scenes in and around Lake Placid.

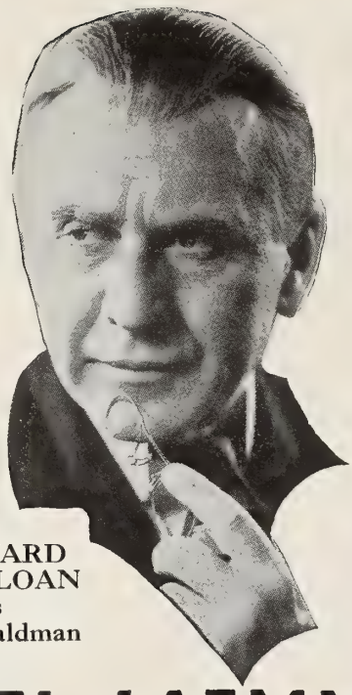
Franklin Takes Another

J. J. Franklin has added a theatre in National City, suburbs of San Diego, to the Franklin circuit. Roy Reid, manager of the Spreckles in San Diego, first Franklin theatre in the district, will supervise the new house.

Tiffany Adds Two Westerns

Tiffany has added two Ken Maynard westerns to its 1931-32 schedule. They will be first-run specials, as a result of the growing popularity of outdoor films. The first of the two will be "The Texas Gunfighter," original by Ben Cohn.

THEATRE RECEIPTS



Theatre receipts in the MOTION PICTURE HERALD'S weekly compilation for the current calendar week ending November 14, reached a total gross of $2,333,693, a gain over the previous calendar week, ended November 7, of $104,000, the preceding week's total figure having been $2,229,627 for 28 cities. Three new high individual theatre totals and 11 new lows were recorded for the current week, which compares with two new high and nine new low individual figures from the previous seven-day period.

(Copyright, 1931: Reproduction of material from this department without credit to Motion Picture Herald expressly forbidden)

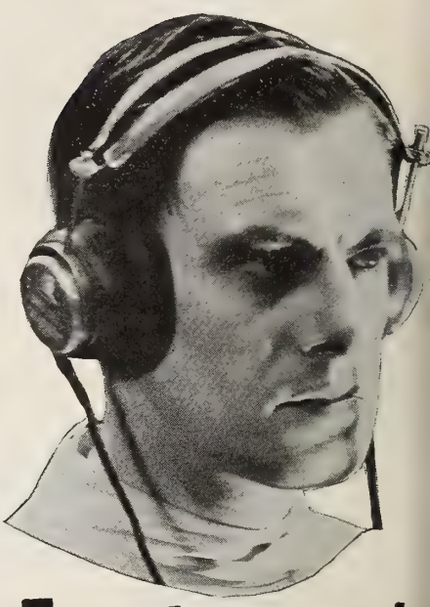
Theatres			Current Week		Previous Week		High and Low Gross (Tabulation covers period from January, 1931 to date)
			Picture	Gross	Picture	Gross
Albany
Harm-Bleeker ..	2,300	35c-50c	"The Yellow Ticket" (Fox) ..... (6 days)	9,700	"The Cisco Kid" (Fox)..... (6 days)	9,460	High 1-24 "Reducing"	$ 18,500
							Low 4-4 "Passion Flower"	6,100
Leland	1,350	25c-35c	"The Squaw Man" (MGM)..... (6 days)	6,340	"Sob Sister" (Fox)..... (6 days)	5,100	High 5-2 "Strangers May Kiss"	8,100
							Low 7-11 "Daddy Long Legs"	2,900
Ritz	1,146	25c-35c	"The Beloved Bachelor" (Para.).. (6 days)	3,900	"Susan Lenox" (MGM)..... (6 days)	4,175	High 10-31 "East of Borneo".....	4,950
							Low 6-6 "Party Husband".....	3,190
RKO Palace....	4,000	25c-60c	"A Dangerous Affair" (Col.) ..... (25c-50c-3 days)	9,250	"Spirit of Notre Dame" (U.)..... (3 days)	10,200	.....
			"Once A Lady" (Para.) ..... (3 days)	9,700	"Silence" (Para.) ..... (3 days)	9,200
Strand	1,900	35c-50c	"The Ruling Voice" (F.N.)..... (6 days)	6,100	"Get Rich Quick Wallingford".... (MGM) (6 days)	6,300	High 10-24 "Susan Lenox".....	10,350
							Low 7-11 "Broadminded"	5,500
Baltimore
Europa	267	25c-50c	"Karamazov" (Tobis) ..... (6 days)	1,300	"Troika" (Foreign) ..... (6 days)	800	.....
Hippodrome	2,250	25c-50c	"Leftover Ladies" (Tiff.)..... (6 days and Sun. midnite show)	14,500	"The Homicide Squad" (U.) ..... (6 days and Sun. midnite show)	16,700	.....
Keith's	2,500	25c-50c	"Once A Lady" (Para.) ..... (6 days and Sun. midnite show)	6,320	"Girls About Town" (Para.) ..... (6 days and Sun. midnite show)	5,680	High 4-9 "Bachelor Apartment"	16,080
							Low 1-17 "Abraham Lincoln"	4,800
Loew's Century	3,076	25c-60c	"Honor of the Family" (F. N.).... (6 days)	18,000	"The Beloved Bachelor" (Para.) (6 days)	20,000	High 4-11 "Tailor Made Man".....	30,000
							Low 3-21 "Conquering Horde"	17,000
Loew's Parkway	987	15c-35c	"Sin of Madelon Claudet" (MGM) (6 days)	5,000	"Susan Lenox" (MGM) ..... (6 days)	4,200	High 1-3 "Follow the Leader"	5,500
							Low 1-10 "Lottery Bride"	3,100
Loew's Stanley..	3,532	25c-60c	"The Cuban Love Song" (MGM) .. and "Beau Hunks" (MGM) (4 days)	14,000	"The Ruling Voice" (F. N.) ..... (6 days)	17,000	High 4-11 "Strangers May Kiss"	33,500
							Low 3-14 "Reaching for the Moon".....	15,000
Loew's Valencia	1,487	25c-35c	"Sin of Madelon Claudet" (MGM) (6 days)	3,800	"Susan Lenox" (MGM) ..... (6 days)	3,500	High 1-3 "Going Wild"	4,500
							Low 6-13 "Too Young to Marry"	2,400
New	1,600	25c-50c	"Heartbreak" (Fox) ..... (5 days)	7,500	"Ambassador Bill" (Fox) ..... (6 days)	8,000	High 1-10 "Man Who Came Back"	18,000
							Low 7-11 "Their Mad Moment"	6,000
Rivoli	1,982	20c-40c	"Bad Company" (Pathe) ..... (6 days)	3,000	"Friends and Lovers" (Radio).... (6 days)	4,500	High 1-10 "Criminal Code".....	10,000
							Low 11-14 "Bad Company"	3,000
Boston
Keith's	2,800	25c-65c	"Way Back Home" (Radio).....	20,000	"Platinum Blonde" (Col.)	17,000	High 2-14 "Cimarron"	26,000
							Low 11-7 "Platinum Blonde"	17,000
Keith-Boston ..	2,500	25c-60c	"Secret Service" (Radio)	19,500	"The Tip Off" (Pathe)	19,000	High 1-10 "Danger Lights"	22,000
							Low 7-18 "Up for Murder"	17,000
Loew's Orpheum	3,100	25c-50c	"Unholy Garden" (U. A.)	21,000	"Susan Lenox" (MGM).....	19,000	High 1-24 "Hells Angels"	31,500
							Low 7-11 "Indiscreet"	18,000
Loew's State ..	3,700	25c-50c	"The Guardsman" (MGM).....	20,000	"Sin Of Madelon Claudet" (MGM)	24,000	High 4-11 "City Lights"	25,000
							Low 7-18 "Man in Possession"	19,000
Metropolitan ...	4,350	35c-75c	"Girls About Town" (Para.)	33,000	"The Mad Genius" (W. B.)	37,500	High 1-31 "No Limit"	44,500
							Low 7-4 "I Take This Woman"	30,000
Olympia	2,500	25c-50c	"Yellow Ticket" (Fox)	12,000	"The Cisco Kid" (Fox)	13,000	High 1-3 "Blue Angel".....	18,000
							Low 11-14 "Yellow Ticket"	12,000
Scollay Square.	1,800	25c-50c	"The Cisco Kid" (Fox)	11,000	"Road To Singapore" (W. B.)	12,000	High 1-17 "Right to Love"	25,000
							Low 11-14 "The Cisco Kid"	11,000
Uptown	2,000	25c-60c	"Yellow Ticket" (Fox)	11,000	"The Cisco Kid" (Fox)	12,000	High 9-26 "Monkey Business"	15,000
							Low 11-14 "Yellow Ticket"	11,000
Buffalo
Buffalo	3,500	30c-65c	"Once A Lady" (Para.).....	25,000	"Susan Lenox" (MGM).....	28,000	High 3-28 "My Past"	39,500
							Low 7-4 "I Take This Woman"	19,000
Century	3,000	25c-35c	"The Ruling Voice" (F. N.)	7,000	"Homicide Squad" (U.).....	12,000	High 2-14 "Cimarron"	25,600
							Low 4-4 "Mothers Cry"	5,900
Court Street....	1,800	25c	"The Bargain" (F. N.)..... (3 days)	1,900	"Riders of the Purple Sage" (Fox) (3 days)	2,000	.....
			"Expensive Women" (W. B.)..... (4 days)	2,100	"Skyline" (Fox) ..... (4 days)	3,100
Great Lakes ...	3,000	25c-50c	"Five Star Final" (F. N.)	16,800	"Palmy Days" (U. A.).....	17,900	High 8-8 "Politics"	35,100
							Low 9-26 "American Tragedy"	16,000
Hippodrome	2,100	25c-50c	"Heartbreak" (Fox)	15,900	"Smart Woman" (Radio).....	20,000	High 2-14 "Free Love"	26,300
							Low 7-4 "Six Cylinder Love"	14,800
Hollywood	300	20c-40c	"Mystery of Life" (U.) ..... (2nd week)	1,700	"Mystery Of Life" (U.)..... (1st week)	1,900	.....
Lafayette	3,300	25c-35c	"Gay Diplomat" (Radio)	7,400	"Murder At Midnite" (Tiff.).....	11,000	High 4-11 "Ten Cents a Dance"	24,100
							Low 8-15 "Viking"	6,700
Charlotte
Broadway	1,167	25c-50c	"Platinum Blonde" (Col.) ..... (3 days)	3,500	"The Big Gamble" (Pathe) ..... (3 days)	3,200	.....
			"The Ruling Voice" (F. N.) ..... (3 days)	3,000	"Honor Of The Family" (F. N.) .. (3 days)	3,000
Carolina	1,441	40c-50c	"Sin of Madelon Claudet" (MGM) (3 days)	4,500	"Sidewalks Of New York" (MGM) (3 days)	5,500	....
			"Once A Lady" (Para.) ..... (3 days)	6,000	"Girls About Town" (Para.) .... (3 days)	5,000



BORIS KARLOFF
as the Monster

EDWARD VAN SLOAN
as
Dr. Waldman

COLIN CLIVE
as Frankenstein

HELP THE UNEMPLOYED!

CARL LAEMMLE presents

FRANKENSTEIN

no man has ever seen his like...

Directed by JAMES WHALE

Produced by Carl Laemmle, Jr.
from the story by Mary Wollstonecraft Shelley . . . Adapted by John L. Balderston from Peggy Webling's play.

. if you've got the monster you've

MAE CLARKE
as the bride of Frankenstein

DWIGHT FRYE
as the Dwarf

JOHN BOLES
as the other man

he UNIVERSAL SUPER ATTRACTION

EINSTEIN

no woman's kiss has touched his lips!

EIN

hat Frankenstein made got the thriller of the year !!!

[THEATRE RECEIPTS--CONT'D]

Theatres			Current Week		Previous Week		High and Low Gross (Tabulation covers period from January, 1931 to date)
			Picture	Gross	Picture	Gross
Chicago
Chicago	4,000	35c-85c	"Once A Lady" (Para.)	45,000	"Sin Of Madelon Claudet" (MGM)	44,000	High 2-28 "Father's Son"	62,235
McVickers	2,285	35c-85c	"Five Star Final" (F. N.) (45c-80c-2nd week)	24,000	"Five Star Final" (F. N.) (1st week)	23,000	Low 7-18 "Women Love Once"	26,250
Oriental	3,940	35c-85c	"Platinum Blonde" (Col.)	28,000	"Side Show" (W. B.)	31,000	High 2-7 "Doorway to Hell"	38,170
Palace	2,509	35c-85c	"Heartbreak" (Fox)	25,000	"Friends and Lovers" (Radio)	24,000	Low 10-24 "Alexander Hamilton"	21,000
Roosevelt	1,591	35c-85c	"The Cisco Kid" (Fox)	25,000	"The Mad Genius" (W. B.) (2nd week)	17,500	High 3-7 "My Past"	46,750
State Lake	2,776	35c-85c	"A Dangerous Affair" (Col.)	21,000	"Devotion" (Pathe) (2nd week)	18,000	Low 6-27 "Party Husband"	19,450
United Artists	1,700	35c-85c	"The Age For Love" (U. A.)	13,500	"The Unholy Garden" (U. A.) (5th week)	17,500	High 5-2 "Laugh and Get Rich"	30,875
							Low 1-3 "Follow the Leader"	18,600
							High 4-11 "Dishonored"	30,350
							Low 6-6 "Tabu"	10,100
							High 2-14 "Cimarron"	43,100
							Low 7-4 "Transgression"	13,280
							High 3-21 "City Lights"	46,562
							Low 11-14 "Age For Love"	13,500
Cincinnati
Keith's	1,600	25c-40c	"Sidewalks of New York" (MGM)	8,500	"The Squaw Man" (MGM)	5,000	High 11-14 "Sidewalks of New York"	8,500
RKO Albee	3,300	35c-75c	"The Spider" (Fox)	35,000	"The Last Flight" (F. N.)	23,377	Low 8-22 "A Holy Terror"	2,900
RKO Capitol	2,000	30c-50c	"The Yellow Ticket" (Fox)	10,196	"The Beloved Bachelor" (Para.)	11,844	High 11-14 "The Spider"	35,000
RKO Family	1,140	15c-25c	"The Tip Off" (Pathe) (4 days)	2,730	"Homicide Squad" (U.) (4 days)	2,665	Low 3-7 "Once a Sinner"	20,645
			"Reckless Living" (U.) (3 days)	1,470	"Sunset Trail" (Pathe) (3 days)	1,435	High 10-24 "Susan Lenox"	18,661
RKO Lyric	1,400	30c-50c	"Sin of Madelon Claudet" (MGM) (7 days and Sat. midnite show)	16,088	"Consolation Marriage" (Radio) (7 days and Sat. midnite show)	9,855	Low 8-8 "Hush Money"	8,551
RKO Palace	2,700	30c-50c	"Once A Lady" (Para.) (7 days and Sat. midnite show)	13,380	"Girls About Town" (Para.) (7 days and Sat. midnite show)	14,129	High 2-14 "No Limit" and "Boudoir Diplomat"	4,275
RKO Strand	1,350	25c-40c	"Rebound" (Pathe) (35c-40c)	4,200	"Susan Lenox" (MGM)	4,342	Low 8-22 "Lawless Women" and "Man in Possession"	1,900
Ufa	400	30c-50c	"Flotenkonzert Von Sanssouci" (Ufa)	1,900	"Die Weisse Hoflle Von Pitz Palu" (Soko) and "D Zug 13" (Ufa)	1,800	High 2-14 "Reducing"	21,300
							Low 2-7 "Little Caesar"	8,655
							High 8-15 "Politics"	29,500
							Low 7-11 "Chances"	11,517
							High 6-6 "Connecticut Yankee"	5,970
							Low 8-22 "Honeymoon Lane"	2,500
Cleveland
Allen	3,300	25c-50c	"Yellow Ticket" (Fox)	19,000	"Sin Of Madelon Claudet" (MGM)	21,000	High 8-8 "Politics"	26,000
Cameo	1,200	25c-40c	"Two Hearts in Waltz Time" (German) (2nd week)	6,800	"Two Hearts In Waltz Time" (German) (1st week)	7,500	Low 4-9 "Ladies Man"	12,000
RKO Hippodrome	3,800	25c-50c	"Once A Lady" (Para.)	13,500	"Platinum Blonde" (Col.)	14,000
RKO Palace	3,100	25c-75c	"Bad Company" (Pathe)	22,000	"Reckless Living" (U.)	21,000	High 3-14 "Dracula"	30,000
State	3,400	25c-50c	"My Sin" (Para.)	24,000	"Get Rich Quick Wallingford" (MGM)	29,000	Low 4-18 "Unfaithful"	10,000
Stillman	1,900	25c	"Sob Sister" (Fox)	6,500	"Murder By The Clock" (Para.)	6,000	High 5-2 "Laugh and Get Rich"	40,000
Warner's Lake	800	25c-50c	"Expensive Women" (W. B.) (6 days)	3,200	"The Ruling Voice" (F. N.)	6,000	Low 7-18 "Arizona"	18,000
							High 11-7 "Get Rich Quick Wallingford"	29,000
							Low 6-20 "Vice Squad"	14,000
							High 10-3 "Five Star Final"	15,000
							Low 7-4 "Big Business Girl"	2,000
Denver
Denver	2,300	25c-65c	"Once A Lady" (Para.)	17,500	"Girls About Town" (Para.)	16,500	High 8-8 "Politics"	25,000
Huff'n's Aladdin	1,500	35c-75c	"Platinum Blonde" (Col.)	6,000	"The Cisco Kid" (Fox)	9,000	Low 6-6 "Laughing Sinners"	13,000
Huffman's Tabor	1,900	25c-50c	"The Mad Genius" (W. B.)	8,500	"Sob Sister" (Fox)	9,000	High 4-11 "Connecticut Yankee"	12,000
Paramount	2,000	25c-50c	"Touchdown" (Para.)	12,500	"Cuban Love Song" (MGM)	12,500	Low 4-9 "Gods Gift to Woman"	4,500
Rialto	1,040	25c-50c	"Caught Plastered" (Radio)	3,750	"Get Rich Quick Wallingford" (MGM)	3,500	High 3-21 "City Lights"	14,000
							Low 7-4 "Annabelle's Affairs"	7,000
							High 1-10 "Hells Angels"	22,000
							Low 6-27 "Just a Gigolo"	7,500
							High 6-13 "Kiki"	5,500
							Low 9-19 "The Bargain" and "Rango"	2,200
Des Moines
Des Moines	1,600	25c-60c	"Once A Lady" (Para.)	8,000	"Five Star Final" (F. N.)	9,000	High 9-26 "Monkey Business"	12,000
Orpheum	2,000	25c-50c	"Way Back Home" (Radio)	12,000	"A Dangerous Affair" (Col.) (4 days)	3,000	Low 9-12 "American Tragedy"	6,000
					"Smart Women" (Radio) (3 days)	2,500	High 2-14 "Cimarron"	18,000
Paramount	1,700	25c-60c	"Sob Sister" (Fox) (4 days)	8,000	"Girls About Town" (Para.) (4 days)	6,000	Low 11-7 "Dangerous Affair" and "Smart Money"	5,500
			"Road To Singapore" (W. B.) (3 days)	6,000	"Blonde Crazy" (W. B.) (3 days)	6,000	High 8-29 "Sporting Blood" and "Murder by the Clock"	15,000
Strand	1,100	25c-35c	"Star Witness" (W. B.) (4 days)	2,050	"The Last Flight" (F. N.) (4 days)	2,400	Low 9-12 "Secrets of a Secretary" and "Transatlantic"	10,000
			"Heartbreak" (Fox) (3 days)	1,275	"Penrod and Sam" (F. N.) (3 days)	975	High 3-21 "Trader Horn"	7,000
							Low 3-28 "Gentleman's Fate" and "Boudoir Diplomat"	1,540
Detroit
Downtown	2,750	25c-50c	"A Dangerous Affair" (Col.)	16,000	"Rebound" (Pathe)	16,000
Fisher	2,300	25c-60c	"Cuban Love Song" (MGM)	19,000	"The Mad Genius" (W. B.)	19,000
Fox	5,000	25c-50c	"Friends and Lovers" (Radio)	25,000	"Heartbreak" (Fox)	30,000
Michigan	2,500	25c-60c	"Once A Lady" (Para.)	27,000	"Girls About Town" (Para.)	26,000
Paramount	3,450	25c-60c	"Sin Of Madelon Claudet" (MGM)	25,000	"Platinum Blonde" (Col.) (8 days-2nd week)	15,000
State	3,000	25c-50c	"Platinum Blonde" (Col.)	10,000	"Susan Lenox" (MGM)	10,000
United Artists	2,000	25c-75c	"Age For Love" (U. A.) (9 days-2nd week)	9,000	"Unholy Garden" (U. A.) (6 days-2nd week)	7,000
					"Age For Love" (U. A.) (3 days-1st week)	4,000
Hollywood
Egyptian	1,800	10c-65c	"Ambassador Bill" (Fox) (3 days)	4,570	"Yellow Ticket" (Fox) (2nd week)	4,752	High 7-31 "Trader Horn"	36,000
Pan. Hollywood	3,000	35c-65c	"Smiling Lieutenant" (Para.) (5 days)	8,622	"Monkey Business" (Para.)	8,123	Low 10-31 "Yellow Ticket"	9,000
W. B. Hollywood	3,000	35c-50c	"Blonde Crazy" (W. B.)	10,500	"Honor of the Family" (F. N.)	7,000	High 1-10 "Sin Takes a Holiday"	19,000
							Low 11-7 "Monkey Business"	8,123
							High 2-7 "Little Caesar"	30,000
							Low 11-7 "Honor of the Family"	7,000

VITAPHONE SHORTS

too, give you "MORE THAN YOUR CONTRACT CALLS FOR"

LOONEY TUNES

Funniest cartoon comedies on the screen. 13 1-Reel knockouts starring BOSKO.

TED HUSING'S "SPORT SLANTS"

"...makes 8 minutes of interesting sock material."—Variety

13 1-Reel Action Shorts

S. S. VAN DINE'S MYSTERY SERIES

"Splendid...Vitaphone has something in this group of shorts."
—Motion Picture Herald

"According to the way it was received by an audience at the Warner Theatre in New York, the series has a future before it."
—Film Daily

Series of 12 2-Reelers

RUTH ETTING

The Broadway Nightingale in a series of 4 2-Reel

BROADWAY BREVITIES

"Okay comedy with music...lines really funny."—Film Daily

"...has strong build-up through production. Plot brings out numerous laughs...Not to be ignored by best of houses."—Variety

BOOTH

TARKINGTON'S

JUVENILE COMEDIES
(13 1-Reelers)

"Very good...amusing dialogue makes for very good juvenile entertainment."
—Motion Picture Herald

MERRIE MELODIES

13 1-REEL SONG CARTOONS

"Fine...an excellent example of the song cartoon."—Film Daily

13 1-REEL ROBERT L.

RIPLEY "BELIEVE IT OR NOT"

"Very interesting...The material is certainly fascinating."—Film Daily

"...makes interesting material for quality houses."—Variety

"...It's program material no one will turn away from."—Variety

THELMA FANNY

WHITE & WATSON "GIRL FRIENDS"

Comedies (6 2-Reelers)

"Good comedy...the subject should go over nicely with almost any clientele."—Film Daily

"Was liked by an audience at the N. Y. Strand."—Motion Picture Herald

Series of 6 2-Reel

BIG STAR COMEDIES

starring

* Phil Baker
* Dr. Rockwell
* Fred and Adele Astaire
* Walter O'Keefe
* Harry Richman
* Wm. and Joe Mandell

E. M. NEWMAN "TRAVEL TALKS"

"Good Travelogue...an engrossing reel."—Film Daily

"Good...both interesting and instructive."—Film Daily

No matter what type of feature you play there's a

VITAPHONE SHORT

to make it better!

See your

WARNER BROS. exchange

NOW!

Yes, Sir, VITAPHONE is delivering in a BIG WAY!.....

[THEATRE RECEIPTS--CONT'D]

Theatres			Current Week		Previous Week		High and Low Gross (Tabulation covers period from January, 1931 to date)
			Picture	Gross	Picture	Gross
Houston
Kirby	1,654	25c-50c	"Road To Singapore" (W. B.)	4,200	"The Cisco Kid" (Fox)	4,000	High 3-7 "Abraham Lincoln"	9,500
							Low 8-15 "Old English"	3,200
Loew's State	2,700	25c-50c	"The Guardsman" (MGM)	7,000	"Cuban Love Song" (MGM)	10,000	High 5-2 "Trader Horn"	19,800
							Low 6-27 "Five and Ten"	5,000
Metropolitan	2,512	25c-50c	"Once A Lady" (Para.)	7,600	"Sob Sister" (Fox)	9,000	High 10-24 "Palmy Days"	14,000
							Low 7-25 "Secret Call"	6,500
RKO Majestic	2,250	25c-50c	"Way Back Home" (Radio)	10,000	"A Dangerous Affair" (Col.)	4,000	High 2-14 "Cimarron"	18,000
							Low 10-31 "Consolation Marriage"	3,200
Indianapolis
Apollo	1,100	25c-50c	"Mad Genius" (W. B.)	5,700	"The Cisco Kid" (Fox)	5,750	High 6-13 "Daddy Long Legs"	10,000
							Low 7-4 "Annabelle's Affairs"	3,500
Circle	2,600	25c-50c	"Once A Lady" (Para.)	7,000	"The Ruling Voice" (F. N.)	7,000	High 2-14 "Cimarron"	13,000
							Low 8-22 "Travelling Husbands"	4,000
Indiana	3,300	25c-50c	"Platinum Blonde" (Col.)	18,000	"Honor Of The Family" (F. N.)	16,000	High 1-17 "Her Man"	25,000
							Low 8-8 "Confessions of Co-Ed"	11,500
Lyric	2,000	25c-50c	"Heartbreak" (Fox)	8,000	"Reckless Living" (U.)	9,000	High 1-10 "Under Suspicion"	13,000
							Low 9-12 "East of Borneo"	5,750
Palace	2,800	25c-50c	"Unholy Garden" (U.A.)	7,250	"The Sin Of Madelon Claudet" (MGM)	8,500	High 5-2 "Trader Horn"	22,000
							Low 11-14 "Unholy Garden"	7,250
Kansas City
Liberty	1,200	25c-50c	"Local Boy Makes Good" (F. N.)	5,000	"The Cisco Kid" (Fox)	6,250
Mainstreet	3,067	35c-60c	"Consolation Marriage" (Radio)	15,000	"Fifty Fathoms Deep" (Col.)	15,000	High 2-14 "Cimarron"	24,750
							Low 1-10 "Criminal Code"	14,500
Midland	4,000	25c-50c	"The Guardsman" (MGM)	16,200	"The Unholy Garden" (U. A.)	16,000	High 10-24 "Susan Lenox"	28,130
							Low 5-9 "Quick Millions"	7,500
Newman	2,000	35c-50c	"Once A Lady" (Para.)	15,000	"Platinum Blonde" (Col.) (7 days and Sat. midnite show)	13,750	High 9-26 "Monkey Business"	19,000
							Low 5-16 "Ladies Man"	8,000
Uptown	2,200	25c-50c	"Mad Parade" (Para.)	5,400	"Homicide Squad" (U.)	6,900	High 1-10 "Girl of Golden West"	8,000
							Low 10-10 "Great Lover"	5,100
Los Angeles
Carthay Circle	1,650	75c-$1.50	"Strictly Dishonorable" (U.) (4 days)	4,798			High 3-21 "Strangers May Kiss" (5 days)	28,000
							Low 10-24 "Consolation Marriage" ($5 Premiere)	8,500
Fox Criterion	1,652	35c-65c	"Ambassador Bill" (Fox) (3 days)	7,448	"Yellow Ticket" (Fox) (2nd week)	4,914	High 5-9 "Secret Six"	27,000
							Low 1-31 "Royal Family Bway"	7,000
International	2,000	25c-50c	"Derelict" (Para.)	3,200	"La Luces De Buenos Aires" (Para.)	3,500	High 1-10 "El Hombre Malo"	8,000
							Low 3-28 "La Fruta Amerga"	3,000
Loew's State	2,418	35c-65c	"Riders of the Pudple Sage" (Fox)	26,000	"The Sin Of Madelon Claudet"	18,601	High 10-24 "Susan Lenox"	39,000
							Low 8-8 "Hush Money"	15,000
Los Angeles	2,100	25c-65c	"Convicted" (Artclass)	9,500	"Skyline" (Fox) (MGM)	8,500	High 2-7 "City Lights"	48,000
							Low 4-8 "Among the Married"	5,000
Orpheum	2,750	35c-65c	"Platinum Blonde" (Col.)	6,500	"Spirit of Notre Dame" (U.) (3rd week)	9,000	High 2-14 "Cimarron" (5 days)	32,000
							Low 11-14 "Platinum Blonde"	6,500
Paramount	3,596	35c-65c	"Once A Lady" (Para.)	24,000	"Girls About Town" (Para.)	18,000	High 10-31 "Beloved Bachelor"	41,000
							Low 7-11 "Girl Habit"	10,000
RKO	2,700	35c-65c	"Woman of Experience" (Pathe)	17,500	"Pagan Lady" (Col.)	14,000	High 10-31 "Homicide Squad"	18,000
							Low 8-1 "Arizona"	11,000
United Artists	2,100	35c-65c	"Unholy Garden" (U. A.) (2nd week)	8,500	"Unholy Garden" (U. A.) (1st week)	16,200	High 9-26 "Monkey Business"	32,000
							Low 8-1 "Honeymoon Lane"	4,500
W. B. Downtown	2,400	35c-50c	"Blonde Crazy" (W. B.)	12,000	"Alexander Hamilton" (W. B.)	7,800	High 2-7 "Little Caesar"	27,000
							Low 10-10 "I Like Your Nerve"	7,000
W. B. Western	2,400	50c-75c	"Five Star Final" (F. N.) (2nd week)	19,000	"Five Star Final" (F. N.) (1st week)	19,000
Milwaukee
Alhambra	2,660	25c-60c	"Reckless Living" (U.) (25c-50c)	8,000	"Get Rich Quick Wallingford" (MGM)	10,500
Garden	1,150	25c-60c	"Sherlock Holmes' Fatal Hour" (First Division) (15c-50c)	8,000	"The Unholy Garden" (U. A.) (9 days)	12,800
Palace	2,587	25c-60c	"Monkey Business" (Para.) (2nd week)	8,200	"Monkey Business" (Para.) (1st week)	11,500
Riverside	2,180	25c-60c	"Secret Service" (Radio)	14,000	"Consolation Marriage" (Radio)	15,000
Strand	1,406	25c-60c	"Sidewalks of New York" (MGM) (25c-50c)	6,900	"The Road To Reno" (Para.)	5,000
Warner	2,500	25c-60c	"The Mad Genius" (W. B.)	12,000	"I Like Your Nerve" (F. N.)	15,000
Wisconsin	3,275	25c-65c	"The Cisco Kid" (Fox) (25c-60c)	13,500	"This Modern Age" (MGM)	16,300
Minneapolis
Aster	812	20c-25c	"The Dreyfus Case" (Col.)	1,750	"The Mad Parade" (Para.)	1,200	High 3-21 "Father's Son"	2,000
							Low 4-18 "Men Call It Love"	900
Lyric	1,238	20c-40c	"The Beloved Bachelor" (Para.)	3,000	"Road To Reno" (Para.)	3,000	High 5-30 "Kiki"	4,000
							Low 1-24 "Men on Call"	1,200
Minnesota	4,000	30c-75c	"Once A Lady" (Para.)	21,000	"24 Hours" (Para.)	21,000	High 6-27 "Daddy Long Legs"	32,000
							Low 2-28 "Dance Fools Dance"	18,000
Pantages	1,500	25c-50c	"Street Scene" (U. A.) (2nd week)	4,600	"Street Scene" (U. A.) (1st week)	6,500
RKO Orpheum	2,900	25c-50c	"Platinum Blonde" (Col.)	15,500	"Spirit Of Notre Dame" (U.)	16,000	High 2-14 "Cimarron"	30,000
							Low 9-12 "Waterloo Bridge"	12,000
RKO 7th St.	1,300	15c-40c	"Spirit of Notre Dame" (U.) (3 days)	1,200	"Five Star Final" (F. N.) (3 days)	1,200
			"The Tip-Off" (Pathe) (4 days)	1,200	"Shanghied Love" (Col.) (4 days)	1,000
State	2,300	25c-50c	"Cuban Love Song" (MGM)	9,500	"Alexander Hamilton" (W. B.)	7,500	High 8-29 "Sporting Blood"	10,000
							Low 14-18 "Body and Soul"	6,000
Montreal
Capitol	2,547	25c-60c	"24 Hours" (Para.) and "Personal Maid" (Para.)	12,500	"Spirit Of Notre Dame" (U.) and "The Bargain" (F. N.)	14,000	High 1-10 "Just Imagine"	18,000
							Low 7-11 "Always Goodbye" and "Annabelle's Affairs"	9,200
Imperial	1,914	15c-40c	"Gay Diplomat" (Radio) and "Lasca of the Rio Grande" (U.)	4,900	"Skyline" (Fox) and "Alias The Bad Man" (Tiff.)	4,500	High 1-17 "Office Wife"	10,000
							Low 6-20 "Single Sin" and "Dawn Trail"	3,000
Loew's	3,115	25c-75c	"The Spider" (Fox)	14,500	"Side Show" (W. B.)	14,500	High 1-31 "Derelict"	16,000
							Low 7-18 "Stepping Out"	9,000

Wise Showmen Can

READ BETWEEN THE LINES

"AROUND THE

WORLD IN

80 MINUTES

WITH DOUGLAS

FAIRBANKS"

Another from* UNITED ARTISTS! *The Leader!

[THEATRE RECEIPTS--CONT'D]

Theatres			Current Week		Previous Week		High and Low Gross (Tabulation covers period from January, 1931 to date)
			Picture	Gross	Picture	Gross
Montreal (Cont'd)
Orpheum	1,119	25c-50c	"Front Page" (U. A.)	4,900	"The Viking" (J. D. Williams)	5,600
Palace	2,600	25c-99c	"My Sin" (Para.)	16,000	"Alexander Hamilton" (W. B.)	14,500	High 2-21 "Man Who Came Back"	19,000
							Low 8-1 "Donovan's Kid"	10,500
Princess	2,272	25c-65c	"The Miracle Woman" (Col.)	10,500	"Palmy Days" (U. A.) (3rd week)	10,000	High 4-11 "City Lights"	22,500
							Low 7-18 "Colonel's Lady"	7,200
Strand	750	15c-50c	"Silence" (Para.) and "The Girl Habit" (Para.)	4,700	"Guilty Hands" (MGM) and "The Brat" (Fox)	4,200	High 2-14 "London Calling" and "Sisters"	5,200
							Low 6-27 "East Lynne and "Can Love Decide"	3,000
New York
Astor	1,120	50c-$2.00	"The Champ" (MGM)	18,759	"The Guardsman" (MGM) (9th week)	9,000	High 1-3 "New Moon"	23,684
							Low 11-14 "The Champ"	18,759
Broadway	2,000	35c-$1.00	"Leftover Ladies" (Tiff.)	17,940	"The Tip-Off" (Pathe) (2nd week)	17,902
Capitol	4,700	35c-$1.50	"Sin of Madelon Claudet" (MGM) (2nd week)	58,617	"Sin Of Madelon Claudet" (MGM) (1st week)	84,234	High 10-24 "Susan Lenox"	99,741
							Low 3-21 "Great Meadow"	49,789
Embassy	598	25c	All Newsreel	8,585	All Newsreel	8,637	High 1-3 Newsreels	9,727
							Low 7-4 Newsreels	7,085
Hollywood	1,549	50c-$1.00	"The Mad Genius (W. B.) (3rd week)	12,721	"The Mad Genius" (W. B.) (2nd week)	18,013
Mayfair	2,300	35c-85c	"Bad Company" (Pathe)	16,750	"Consolation Marriage" (Radio)	11,000
Paramount	3,700	40c-$1.00	"Once A Lady" (Para.)	62,200	"Girls About Town" (Para.)	52,200	High 2-14 "Millie"	44,200
							Low 11-7 "Consolation Marriage"	11,000
Rialto	1,904	40c-$1.00	"Unholy Garden" (U. A.) (3rd week)	19,300	"Unholy Garden" (U. A.) (2nd week)	33,500	High 2-7 "Finn and Hattie"	85,900
							Low 10-24 "The Beloved Bachelor"	40,100
							High 3-14 "Dishonored"	58,000
							Low 6-27 "Dracula" and "Hell's Angels"	4,500
Rivoli	2,103	40c-$1.00	"Monkey Business" (Para.) (6th week)	14,200	"Monkey Business" (Para.) (5th week)	21,600	High 10-17 "Monkey Business"	57,400
							Low 7-11 "Newly Rich"	15,800
Roxy	6,200	50c-$1.50	"Friends and Lovers" (Radio)	54,600	"The Yellow Ticket" (Fox)	82,100	High 1-10 "Man Who Came Back"	130,430
							Low 10-24 "Heartbreak"	50,600
Strand	3,000	35c-85c	"Compromised" (F. N.)	11,451	"Platinum Blonde" (Col.)	10,702	High 1-17 "Little Caesar"	74,821
							Low 8-22 "Men Are Like That"	9,274
Warners	1,490	35c-75c	"The Speckled Band" (First Division)	8,511	"Fanny Foley Herself" (Radio) (2nd week)	1,546	High 1-3 "Vienese Nights"	16,968
							Low 8-22 "Disraeli," "General Crack" "Noah's Ark," "Weary River," "Son of the Gods," "On With The Show," "Gold Diggers of Broadway"	1,646
Winter Garden	1,493	35c-$1.00	"The Ruling Voice" (F. N.) (2nd week)	21,472	"Five Star Final" (F. N.) (6 days-8th week)	19,951	High 9-19 "Five Star Final"	59,782
					"The Ruling Voice" (F. N.) (1 day-1st week)	5,280	Low 6-6 "Maltese Falcon"	16,692
Oklahoma City
Capitol	1,200	10c-50c	"Once A Lady" (Para.)	7,000	"Girls About Town" (Para.)	6,000	High 2-7 "Illicit"	11,000
							Low 6-27 "White Shoulders"	4,000
Criterion	1,700	10c-50c	"Blonde Crazy" (W. B.)	7,200	"Sin Of Madelon Claudet" (MGM)	8,000	High 2-21 "Cimarron"	15,500
							Low 8-1 "Magnicent Lie"	5,500
Liberty	1,500	10c-35c	"Riders of the Purple Sage" (Fox) (5 days)	3,300	"Bad Company" (Pathe)	3,900	High 1-24 "Under Suspicion"	7,200
							Low 6-20 "Big Fight" and "Drums of Jeopardy"	900
Mid-West	1,500	10c-50c	"A Dangerous Affair" (Col.) (6 days)	5,000	"The Cisco Kid" (Fox)	5,600	High 9-19 "Young as You Feel"	11,000
							Low 7-4 "Hush Money"	4,000
Omaha
Orpheum	3,000	25c-60c	"Way Back Home" (Radio)	16,500	"A Dangerous Affair" (Col.)	12,000	High 2-14 "Cimarron"	25,550
							Low 6-20 "White Shoulders"	11,500
Paramount	2,900	25c-60c	"Alexander Hamilton" (W. B.)	7,000	"Five Star Final" (F.N.)	6,750	High 6-20 "Daddy Long Legs"	12,000
							Low 1-31 "Bachelor Father"	6,000
State	1,200	15c-35c	"The Spider" (Fox)	2,850	"Riders Of The Purple Sage" (Fox)	2,500	High 3-14 "Trader Horn"	10,000
							Low 9-26 "Tabu" and "Children of Dreams"	1,325
World	2,500	25c-40c	"24 Hours" (Para.)	6,350	"My Sin" (Para.)	6,300	High 4-11 "Men Call It Love"	16,000
							Low 8-1 "Women Love Once" and "Secret Call"	5,000
Ottawa
Avalon	990	15c-35c	"Song O' My Heart" (Fox) (3 days)	1,650	"Side Show" (W. B.) and "Viennese Nights" (W .B.) (3 days-2nd week)	1,550	High 5-30 "Hells Angels" and "Body and Soul"	3,300
			"Five Star Final" (F. N.) (3 days)	1,550			Low 6-27 "My Past" and "Fifty Million Frenchmen"	1,900
					"Sporting Blood" (MGM) (3 days)	1,450
Capitol	2,592	15c-60c	"My Sin" (Para.) (6 days)	10,000	"Squaw Man" (MGM) (6 days)	8,500
Centre	1,142	15c-60c	"Palmy Days" (U. A.) (6 days)	6,000	"Get Rich Quick Wallingford" (MGM) (6 days)	5,500	High 5-16 "Devil to Pay' "	6,300
							Low 1-3 "Sunny"	2,900
Imperial	1,091	10c-40c	"Murder At Midnite" (Tiff.) (3 days)	1,400	"Salvation Nell" (Tiff.) (3 days)	1,600	High 5-9 "Trader Horn"	7,000
							Low 8-1 "Speckled Band"	2,300
			"Five and Ten" (MGM) (3 days)	1,700	"High Stakes" (Radio) (3 days)	1,800
Regent	1,225	15c-60c	"Tell England" (British) (6 days)	5,300	"24 Hours" (Para.) (3 days)	2,300	High 5-30 "Seed"	6,200
							Low 7-1 "Shipmates"	4,200
					"Beloved Bachelor" (Para.) (3 days)	2,600
Philadelphia
Arcadia	600	50c	"Palmy Days" (U. A.) (6 days-2nd week)	3,600	"Palmy Days" (U. A.) (6 days-1st week)	4,900	High 1-3 "Laughter"	5,000
							Low 10-31 "Phantom of Paris"	2,500
Boyd	2,400	35c-75c	"Sin of Madelon Claudet" (MGM) (6 days)	23,000
Earle	2,000	25c-65c	"A Dangerous Affair" (Col.) (6 days)	13,000	"Expensive Women" (W. B.) (6 days)	13,000	High 1-3 "Divorce Among Friends"	26,000
							Low 11-14 "A Dangerous Affair"	13,000
Fox	3,000	35c-75c	"The Cisco Kid" (Fox) (6 days)	25,000	"Sob Sister" (Fox) (6 days)	22,000	High 2-7 "Man Who Came Back"	40,000
							Low 10-24 "Skyline"	20,000

[THEATRE RECEIPTS--CONT'D]

Theatres			Current Week		Previous Week		High and Low Gross (Tabulation covers period from January, 1931 to date)
			Picture	Gross	Picture	Gross
Philadelphia (Cont'd)
Karlton	1,000	40c-50c	"Susan Lenox" (MGM) (6 days)	5,500	"The Mad Parade" (Para.) (6 days)	3,800	High 5-2 "City Lights"	8,000
							Low 3-21 "Resurrection"	3,000
Keith's	1,800	35c-75c	"The Guardsman" (MGM) (6 days)	18,500	"The Unholy Garden" (U. A.) (6 days)	15,000	High 1-3 "Tom Sawyer"	24,000
							Low 8-8 "Woman Between"	7,500
Stanley	3,700	35c-75c	"Five Star Final" (F. N.) (6 days)	23,000	"Smart Woman" (Radio) (6 days)	14,000	High 2-14 "Cimarron"	26,000
							Low 7-25 "Rebound"	8,000
Stanton	1,700	25c-65c	"The Ruling Voice" (F. N.) (8 days)	10,000	"My Sin" (Para.) (4 days—2nd week)	5,000	High 3-21 "Last Parade"	16,500
							Low 10-10 "Fifty Fathoms Deep"	7,000
Portland, Ore.
Fox Broadway	1,912	25c-50c	"The Yellow Ticket" (Fox)	6,300	"Cuban Love Song" (MGM) (6 days)	4,700	High 1-10 "Min and Bill"	21,000
							Low 4-4 "The Prodigal"	3,000
Fox Paramount	3,068	25c-60c	"Once A Lady" (Para.)	13,200	"Get Rich Quick Wallingford" (MGM)	12,700	High 1-3 "Paid"	26,000
							Low 5-23 "Young Sinners"	11,000
Hamrick's Music Box	1,800	25c-35c	"The Ruling Voice" (F. N.)	4,200	"Expensive Women" (W. B.)	4,800
RKO Orpheum	1,700	25c-50c	"A Dangerous Affair" (Col.)	10,400	"Devotion" (Pathe)	9,300	High 2-14 "Cimarron"	20,000
							Low 5-23 "Iron Man"	8,500
United Artists	945	25c-50c	"Age For Love" (U. A.)	4,000	"Unholy Garden" (U. A.)	4,800	High 1-10 "Hells Angels"	12,500
							Low 10-3 "Pagan Lady"	3,500
Providence
Loew's State	3,800	15c-50c	"Flying High" (MGM)	16,000	"Sin Of Madelon Claudet" (MGM)	18,000	High 2-7 "Insperation"	25,500
							Low 6-27 "Five and Ten"	9,500
Majestic	2,400	15c-50c	"The Cisco Kid" (Fox) and "Sob Sister" (Fox)	10,000	"Honor Of The Family" (F. N.) and "The Ruling Voice" (F. N.)	9,000	High 3-7 "Little Caesar"	18,000
							Low 4-4 "Love of Aloah" and "Costello Case"	8,000
Paramount	2,300	10c-50c	"Once A Lady" (Para.)	7,000	"Girls About Town" (Para.)	5,500	High 3-14 "Unfaithful"	14,000
							Low 8-8 "Secret Call"	4,500
RKO Albee	2,300	10c-50c	"Way Back Home" (Radio)	9,500	"A Dangerous Affair" (Col.)	4,000	High 1-10 "Criminal Code"	14,000
							Low 7-4 "Sweepstakes"	3,200
RKO Victory	1,600	10c-35c	"Leftover Ladies" (Tiff.) (4 days)	900	"Murder At Midnite" (Tiff.) (3 days)	700	High 2-14 "Last Parade"	11,000
							Low 10-24 "The Dreyfus Case"	2,000
St. Paul
Paramount	2,300	25c-50c	"Cuban Love Song" (MGM)	9,000	"24 Hours" (Para.)	8,000	High 8-22 "Smiling Lieutenant"	12,000
							Low 1-17 "Paid"	7,000
Riviera	1,300	25c-50c	"The Cisco Kid" (Fox)	5,500	"The Road To Singapore" (W. B.)	4,500	High 9-5 "Huckleberry Finn"	9,000
							Low 1-17 "Just Imagine"	1,500
RKO Orpheum	2,600	25c-50c	"Platinum Blonde" (Col.)	13,500	"Spirit Of Notre Dame" (U.)	15,000	High 2-14 "Cimarron"	28,000
							Low 2-21 "Millie"	10,000
RKO President	1,200	15c-35c	"Spirit of Notre Dame" (U.) (3 days)	1,100	"Five Star Final" (F. N.) (3 days)	1,200
			"The Tip-Off" (Pathe) (4 days)	1,000	"Shanghaied Love" (Col.) (4 days)	1,000
Tower	1,000	15c-25c	"Guilty Hands" (MGM)	2,100	"Get Rich Quick Wallingford" (MGM)	2,000	High 10-3 "Penrod and Sam"	4,000
							Low 1-24 "Along Came Youth"	1,000
San Francisco
El Capitan	3,100	25c-60c	"Merely Mary Ann" (Fox)	12,800	"Guilty Hands" (MGM)	12,000	High 8-15 "Daddy Long Legs"	16,750
							Low 11-7 "Guilty Hands"	12,000
Fox	4,600	35c-60c	"Cuban Love Song" (MGM)	35,000	"The Yellow Ticket" (Fox)	34,000	High 1-3 "Lightning"	70,000
							Low 5-30 "Six Cylinder Love"	30,000
Golden Gate	2,800	35c-65c	"The Big Gamble" (Pathe)	14,000	"Lady From Nowhere" (Security)	13,000	High 7-11 "Lawless Woman"	20,000
							Low 7-4 "Lover Come Back"	9,500
Orpheum	3,000	25c-50c	"Consolation Marriage" (Radio)	5,000	"Platinum Blonde" (Col.)	7,500	High 2-14 "Cimarron"	20,000
							Low 11-14 "Consolation Marriage"	5,000
Paramount	2,670	25c-50c	"Once A Lady" (Para.)	15,500	"Girls About Town" (Para.)	15,000	High 2-7 "Morocco"	35,000
							Low 7-18 "Women Love Once"	10,000
United Artists	1,200	25c-60c	"Unholy Garden" (U. A.)	10,500	"Palmy Days" (U. A.) (3rd week)	7,800
Warfield	2,700	25c-50c	"Touchdown" (Para.)	20,500	"Get Rich Quick Wallingford" (MGM)	23,000	High 3-14 "Parlor, Bedroom and Bath"	28,000
							Low 10-10 "Wicked"	16,000
Warners	1,385	35c-50c	"Five Star Final" (F. N.) (2nd week)	10,600	"Five Star Final" (F. N.) (1st week)	18,225	High 11-7 "Five Star Final"	18,825
							Low 8-22 "The Viking"	4,850
Seattle
Blue Mouse	950	25c-75c	"Platinum Blonde" (Col.)	8,500	"Expensive Women" (W. B.)	6,500
Fifth Avenue	2,750	25c-75c	"Once A Lady" (Para.)	13,000	"Get Rich Quick Wallingford" (MGM)	13,500	High 4-18 "Trader Horn"	17,000
							Low 3-14 "Inspiration" (10 days)	10,000
Liberty	2,000	15c-30c	"Convicted" (Artclass) and "I Surrender Dear" (Edu.)	7,000	"In Line Of Duty" (Monogram)	6,500	High 1-10 "The Lash"	11,500
							Low 5-23 "Lightning Flyer"	5,500
Music Box	950	25c-75c	"The Mad Genius" (W. B.)	7,000	"Unholy Garden" (U. A.) (3rd week)	6,000	High 2-28 "City Lights"	14,000
							Low 3-28 "My Past"	5,500
Paramount	3,150	25c-75c	"Cuban Love Song" (MGM)	11,500	"The Yellow Ticket" (Fox)	11,000	High 1-10 "Paid"	18,000
							Low 9-19 "Transatlantic"	10,000
RKO Orpheum	2,650	25c-75c	"Consolation Marriage" (Radio)	13,500	"A Dangerous Affair" (Col.)	13,000	High 10-31 "Spirit of Notre Dame"	18,000
							Low 3-21 "Kept Husbands"	10,000
Toronto
Imperial	3,444	15c-75c	"Beloved Bachelor" (Para.) (6 days)	20,500	"Devotion" (Pathe) (6 days)	18,500	High 9-19 "Merely Mary Ann"	22,000
							Low 6-20 "Always Goodbye"	13,000
Loew's	2,088	15c-75c	"The Guardsman" (MGM) (6 days)	12,000	"Get Rich Quick Wallingford" (MGM) (6 days)	11,500	High 4-18 "City Lights"	22,000
							Low 8-15 "Son of India"	10,500
Shea's	2,600	30c-75c	"Skyline" (Fox) (6 days)	16,500	"The Big Gamble" (Pathe) (6 days)	15,500	High 11-14 "Skyline"	16,500
							Low 6-27 "Painted Desert"	10,000
Tivoli	1,600	15c-75c	"The Mad Genius" (W. B.) (6 days)	7,500	"Cisco Kid" (Fox) (6 days)	9,500	High 2-28 "Cimarron"	19,500
							Low 11-14 "The Mad Genius"	7,500
Uptown	3,000	15c-60c	"Spirit of Notre Dame" (U.) (6 days)	12,500	"East Of Borneo" (U.) (6 days)	12,200	High 4-25 "Don't Bet on Women"	14,000
							Low 10-17 "Ten Nights In a Barroom"	8,300

PASSING IN REVIEW

The department endeavors to set forth two lines of material of service to the exhibitor—first a showman's evaluations of the oustanding pictures—second, reviews of information

"TOUCHDOWN." If Paramount can keep feeding us pictures like this, both our theatres and Paramount will enjoy a large, healthy measure of profitable business. Packed with every necessary element of entertainment, it is going to race down the home stretch to the tune of S.R.O. as sure as you're a foot high.

If you can spot it while football is still the topic of the day, then the title is surefire "box-office"; after the fans stop talking about the gridiron, you'll have to push it a little more. But it IS a whale of a picture and one that should start them talking about it from the very first show. As for its "audience" value, don't worry about it one bit. They'll like it enough to go out cheering.

Here is a picture that can be backed with one of those campaigns that tends to create and build up interest and then pack them in. Kids and adults will go for it equally as strong. Maybe some of the youngsters will find their faith in certain football stars a little dimmed because of the suspicion that they were subsidized, but they'll forget all about that in the course of the picture's progress.

Everyone in the cast does a peach of a performance with Jack Oakie running away with the comedy slants, but you'll like him better in this than in some of his past starring role. Proving that he can help make a picture even if he can't always carry an entire picture.

For the full cast, credits and other necessary dope, just turn to the informative review carried in the HERALD of October 31. Then get your dates set and go out to break a record or two. Sell it with all the enthusiasm and pep that you have and let them know that they're in for a grand show at your theatre. Any day of the week is O.K. and if you've got a local team in your town, make them guests of honor for the opening night. Let them bring a band and perhaps you can sell them on the idea of marching to the theatre. But no matter how you go about it, make the showing of this picture a gala engagement for your house. This picture will do more for Paramount's prestige than anything they have offered so far this season. In other words; they score a peach of a touchdown with "Touchdown."

▼

"PHANTOM OF PARIS" is no doubt the best thing that Gilbert has had since the talking picture made its debut, and although some of the newspaper critics keep harping at the shortcomings of his recording voice, we're happy to announce that it is plenty good enough for any spot, Times Square included.

Our own reaction seems to be that much more could have been made from this story, but somewhere or other they lost a lot of its entertaining slants. But don't take that to mean that this is a poor picture. We found it interesting and really absorbing in some spots. The kids may feel bad because Gilbert stops doing the disappearing act after the opening shots. But the adults will feel quite satisfied.

The title possesses plenty of fine "box-office" angles, and backed up by a good campaign should bring out enough patrons to count up at the end of the run to real money. "Audience" appeal should be OK for the majority of spots throughout the country where they are not inclined to pick their entertainment to pieces to see what makes the wheels go 'round.

Not too good for kids but can get by for Sunday if you prefer to use it on that day. Just make up your mind to play up the thousand and one angles suggested by this b.o. title and we feel safe in saying that it will create the interest you desire in your community. Gilbert's past flops make it rather risky to throw the full burden on his shoulders, so while giving him top billing you might just as well play up the several others in the cast who really rate billing. But stick to that title while you are framing your selling campaign; it will get you far more dough than any other slant you can inject.

For novel exploitation, few pictures offer the possibilities of this one. So get out your "bag of tricks" and go to work. There's some money in this picture and the showman who gets the most out of it is the man who knows how to play upon the imagination of his particular community.

▼

"ARE THESE OUR CHILDREN" is a fairy tale pure and simple. If anyone actually believes for one moment that such things are typical of present day life as it is lived among the high school boys and girls of this country, then they are laboring under an illusion.

The production clearly demonstrates the oft-used expression that it takes more than a well directed or well acted picture to constitute a perfect evening's entertainment and the most that can be said about it, so far as its actual value at the box office is concerned, is that it possesses plenty of working material for any livewire showman to go out and sell.

The title, at first glance, carries a wallop that ought to get far above par at the b.o. Naturally, it is chockfull of magnetism for most spots because it strikes home. But the theatre that really turns them away for the run of the picture will be the house where a showman knows how to take a title like this and sell it for all it's worth without creating adverse sentiment among some of the long-nosed keepers of the town's morals.

As for its "audience" strength, it is absorbing entertainment from start to finish, but bordering on the morbid side, especially towards the finish where the author and director seemed determined to out-Dreiser the "American Tragedy." Yep, the young hero, hardly out of high school, gets the chair.

While one must watch his advertising carefully to avoid pitfalls, we advise that he stick to "preaching the moral of clean living for our growing generation if they would avoid the fate of the boys and girls in the picture." That may silence the few who would hold that such a picture is bad for the community.

It would be best to play away from kids and Sunday. It's an adult story in my estimation and adults alone will reap the full benefit of its entertaining angles. Bringing the youngsters into your advertising may prove a boomerang. But you're the best judge of your own situation, so be guided accordingly. Just remember, —getting drunk and killing an old friend of the family is not considered exactly uplifting.

Try to get a look at this picture before you start your brain a-working on a campaign; it will help tremendous in framing it along lines best suited to your theatre and patronage. At any rate, don't get too excited about it, it's far from being an "epic," or any other worn-out phrase that this industry loves to tack onto anything that comes along.

▼

"AMBASSADOR BILL" being a Will Rogers picture means that you must sell the star as the chief stock in trade that you are offering when it plays your house. Aside from Rogers this picture has little to boast about. And even Rogers' wit and wisecracks are going to find the sledding tough with the many spots where subtle humor flies thick and fast. Maybe they won't get all the fun out of the dialogue, but if they go for the star in a big way they may be satisfied with the show.

The boy king of this mythical kingdom is nothing to brag about and may not rate so hot with the kids in your town, but with all other slants, including a couple of revolutions, it might get over OK.

The title has no particular "box office" strength; whatever power may lie in that direction must be solely through the way you sell Rogers along with it. A well-planned campaign is very essential and one that will not give them any too much to look for in the way of amusement.

As for its "audience" pull, we doubt whether they will go into ecstasies over it. The plot is rather weak and the entire picture is not particularly well done in any direction.

It is suitable for youngsters and Sunday showings if you want it for those reasons, but the most important thought we can attempt to plant in your minds is to get behind it. This one needs plenty of help if it is going to bring anything like a decent return to your box office. We're hoping that your customers are nice Rogers fans; if they are, then you won't be too sorry that you're playing it.

CHARLES E. LEWIS.

Arrowsmith

(United Artists)

Drama

(Seen at Hollywood)

Samuel Goldwyn's screen version of Sinclair Lewis' novel "Arrowsmith" is one of the most unusual attractions of the season. Its star, Ronald Colman, gives one of the most sincere and convincing performances of his distinguished career. He is supported by an extraordinarily capable cast, members of which obviously became deeply imbued with the spirit and purpose of the story and hence gave to it a noteworthy realism of presentation.

"Arrowsmith" as a novel, like most of the works of Sinclair Lewis, enjoyed wide popularity. Whether its appeal to motion picture audiences will be broad enough to make it a general success is quite another question. It is a serious psychological treatise concerning the scientific mind. It pokes sharp satire at the allegedly ballyhoo methods of great endowed medical research foundations. An attempt is made to point out what happens when scientific empiricism hears the wail of human suffering. It dwells at times upon the microscopic studies of tiny but deadly germs. Again it deals quite intimately with the weaknesses and the strength of the human heart. It points up the tolls and the rewards of personal sacrifice.

To many minds which, even occasionally, are actually devoted to thought, these earnestly done studies will prove entertaining and interesting. To the minds who prefer to turn on the radio and listen to a broadcast phonograph recording of "The Peanut Vendor" the reaction is not likely to be especially enthusiastic. It took nerve to invest a large sum of money in the making of this psychoanalytical study of the scientist and his problems. It will be interesting to observe the response of the public.

Undoubtedly the great popularity of Ronald Colman will have an important bearing upon the results. And in this he does such splendid, sincere work that he is certain to win high praise. Helen Hayes, as his wife, is another in the distinguished cast who make of "Arrowsmith" a particularly high grade production. Two other sterling performances are also given by A. E. Anson as the venerable scientist, Doctor Gottlieb, and by Richard Bennett as the crusading Doctor Sondelius.

With uniform excellence other roles are played by Alan Hale, Alec Frances, Claude King, Beulah Bondi, Myrna Loy, Russell Hopton, DeWitt Jennings, Bert Roach, John Qualen, Adele Watson, David Landau, Lumsden Hare and Clarence Brooks, truly an unusual cast of players.

The adaptation was done by Sidney Howard and the direction by John Ford, both of whom deserve praise because they dealt with the subject understandingly and with appropriate dignity.

Produced by Samuel Goldwyn, for release by United Artists. Directed by John Ford. From the novel by Sinclair Lewis. Adapted by Sidney Howard. Edited by Hugh Bennett. Photography by Ray June. Settings by Richard Day. Release date, December 26, 1931.

CAST

Dr. Martin Arrowsmith	Ronald Colman
Leora	Helen Hayes
Dr. Gottlieb	A. E. Anson
Sondelrus	Richard Bennett
Dr. Tubbs	Claude King
Mrs. Tozer	Beulah Bondi
Joyce Lanyon	Myrna Loy
Dr. Terry Wickett	Russell Hopton
Mr. Tozer	De Witt Jennings
Bert Tozer	Bert Roach
Henry Novak	John Qualen
Mrs. Novak	Adele Watson
Sir Robert Fairland	Lumsden Hare
Oliver Marchand	Clarence Brooks

Leo Meehan

Expensive Women

(Warner Brothers)

Romance

The beauty of Dolores Costello, back on the screen after an absence of almost two years, vied with her soft yet distinct screen voice in winning and holding the interest of the audience at the Strand on Broadway at the opening of her latest picture.

Miss Costello plays a somewhat different role in this production. Here we have her as a wealthy modern girl whose two successive infatuations stir up trouble a-plenty, whereupon she learns that in the first instance it was true love, and returns to him.

Three men are in love with her, a situation which provides for many complications. There is the young composer played by William Warren, rapidly winning his spurs in talking pictures since his comparatively recent entry from the New York stage. There is Anthony Bushell, Oxford graduate who left the stage for a part in Warners' "Disraeli" in 1929. And there is Joe Donahue, who accompanied "Sunny" from the musical comedy stage to screen.

Miss Costello, as Constance Newton, is captivated by Neil Hartley (William Warren), musical genius, but later becomes infatuated with Arthur Raymond (Anthony Bushell). Raymond's determination to divorce his wife is beaten down by the stern dominance of his father and Connie promises to give him up. Bobby Brandon (Joe Donahue), at a convival New Year's Eve party, threatens to tell the guests and Arthur kills him. Connie says she will take the blame, and Arthur's father, played by H. B. Warner, successfully applies his talents as a criminal attorney and wins her freedom by "proving" that Brandon took his own life. This was a deviation of plot that carried its element of suspense.

Connie realizes that her love is all for Neil and she goes to become his wife.

Release date October 24. Running time, 63 minutes. Author, Wilson Collison. Adaptation and dialogue by Harvey Thew and Arthur Caesar. Director, Hobert Henley. Cameraman, William Rees. Film editor, Desmond O'Brian.

CAST

Constance Newton	Dolores Costello
Neil Hartley	William Warren
Arthur Raymond	Anthony Bushell
Bobby Brandon	Joe Donahue
Melville Raymond	H. B. Warner
Young Man	Allan Lane
Young Man	Morgan Wallace
Molly Lane	Polly Walters
Irene	Mae Madison
Martha	Adele Watson
George Allison	William House

The Phantom of Paris

(MGM)

Dramatic Mystery

John Gilbert, star particularly of the silent days of the motion picture, here comes to the screen with what may well be called a new voice, one which is powerful, versatile and effective. He offers a characterization of Cheri-Bibi, famous French conjurer, in the screen adaptation of the Gaston Leroux story of that name, and one which was sufficiently strong, it readily appeared, to engage the full attention of a large audience at the New York Capitol.

Gilbert was given, in the opinion of those present, able support, particularly in the persons of Leila Hyams as the wealthy girl who falls in love with Bibi; Lewis Stone as the detective who believes Bibi guilty of the murder; Jean Hersholt, old friend and teacher in mysticism of Bibi. The balance of the cast was termed entirely adequate.

Bibi, after taking Paris by storm with his powers of escape from irons, handcuffs and the like, is refused permission by the father of Miss Hyams to marry her. The father at the same time discovers certain facts about the life of the Marquis to whom the girl is engaged. Shortly after Bibi leaves the room, during a party at the girl's mansion home, the father is found dead in his wheel chair.

Costaud, detective, who had been outwitted by Bibi on the stage, directs the evidence toward the conjurer and Bibi is thrown into the death cell. But, as expected, in his strange way, he makes good his escape, goes to the chamber of the Marquis, now the girl's husband, and forces a confession from him. But the Marquis, dying, passes away before the confession can be taken. Bibi takes the body to a doctor friend, and there has his own countenance transformed into that of the dead Marquis. Away for six months, he returns to take up his home where the Marquis left off.

Costaud suspects, and forces Bibi to confess that he is not the Marquis. Bibi, however, has already succeeded, through his disguise, in extracting what amounts to a confession from the Marquis' lover, who is an attendant in the house, and at the last moment, through a ruse, traps the girl into an admission of the dead Marquis' guilt.

Bibi and the girl are reunited to conclude the film, which was thought an able adaptation.

Produced and distributed by M-G-M. Directed by John S. Robertson. From the story, "Cheri-Bibi," by Gaston Leroux. Continuity by Bess Meredyth. Dialogue by Edwin Justus Mayer and John Meehan. Photography, Oliver T. Marsh. Edited by Jack Ogilvie. Release date, September 12, 1931. Running time, 74 minutes.

CAST

Cheri-Bibi	John Gilbert
Cecile	Leila Hyams
Costaud	Lewis Stone
Herman	Jean Hersholt
Bourrelier	C. Aubrey Smith
Vera	Natalie Moorhead
Marquis du Touchais	Ian Keith
Dr. Gorin	Alfred Hickman

The Great Gay Road

(Butchers)

Weak British Plot

Tom Gallon's story of the rich man's prodigal son with a call for the "great open road" offers prospects of a motion picture of more vital screen purpose than Sinclair Hill has achieved with it.

Direction has been concentrated upon a form of symbolism which, if aimed at obscuring inherent weaknesses, has merely served to exaggerate them. A rich old father has turned his only son adrift 20 years before the story opens; he has repented long since and through the years has kept a burning lamp by the open window inviting the prodigal to return. When finally he does return the old father fails to identify him, but having been convinced he lavishes kindness upon him.

But wander lust has eaten into the young man's system, and after a time he goes off again to join a traveling fairground company. He is traced by his father's ward (central figure in the vague love interest) and returns a second time, only to be denounced by an ex-army officer friend of his father as an imposter. Challenged by the old man as to whether or not he is really the son who left home over 20 years ago, he replies, "No, sir," and again takes his departure. The girl again traces him to his fairground lair, but this time because he realizes that she does not really reciprocate his love he decides to keep up the deception and pass out of his father's life as the imposter and army deserter for which he was branded by the old army officer.

Too much insistence is placed upon the fairground scenes, and the principal characterization takes on unreality because Stewart Home as the prodigal son never for one moment yields polish to the rugged environment of his self-chosen countryside. There is, too, constantly present incongruity of perfect accent and unshaven beard, or of wanderlust and immaculate dinner jacket. Although this is a serious attempt to live up to recent Butcher achievements, it fails to rise to the level and can scarcely make the grade in America.

Produced by Butchers Film Service. Directed by Sinclair Hill. Scenario by Leslie Howard Gordon. Recording Visatone (Marconi British). Running time, 90 minutes.

CAST

"Guv-nor" (the prodigal)	Stewart Rome
Crook Perkins	Frank Stanmore
Nancy	Pat Paterson
Sir Crispen (the father)	Arthur Hardy
Colonel Trigg	Frederick Lloyd

Wm. H. Mooring

Michael and Mary

(Gaumont-Gainsborough)

Drama

(Seen at London)

Here is a clear indication that Britain can take a deep sociological theme, build up a powerful story, and tell it with a frank directness and an absence of tosh sentiment, making for a great film. It is a gem with which to adorn the string of recent pictures from the Gaumont subsidiaries. Victor Saville, whose prestige leaped on his recent achievement with "Hindle Wakes," has added to his laurels.

For America not only the strength of the story and the direction, but the acting, and the definite stellar appeal of this one should presage success. For the name parts of Michael and Mary are interpreted beautifully by Edna Best and Herbert Marshall.

Tale begins away back in the Boer war of 1898-1901. The girl Mary is married to a scoundrel, who deserts her penniless in London. She meets Michael in the British Museum, a friendship springs up, and they take up separate quarters at the same address. Scandal tongues force them to put up the conventional signs of respectability, and they pretend to be married—in fact, to placate the gossips, rather than their own consciences, they commit bigamy.

Because they feel that their son may not share their views upon the all sufficiency of real love, they tell both him and his sweetheart the whole truth. The son listens, and then, influenced by the terrific example of devotion versus decree which his parents have set him, assures them that he is content. His sweetheart shares his views and the happiness of Michael and Mary is complete.

The beauty of the moral is put over without the slightest effort, or attempt to preach. It is just a fragrantly sincere story of two people whose love for each other was supreme to them: lack of ecclesiastical benedictions, even the thought of illegitimacy as the world regards it, were swept into insignificance by the greater and grander things. Yet in the end there was justification as well as justice. Marshall has never been better: the transformation in Edna Best (to mark the passing of time) is remarkably well done, and the acting of Frank Lawton and Elizabeth Allan, as the two youngsters, is well up to standard. Supporting players, notably D. A. Clarke-Smith as the husband blackmailer, never present one single weakness. Here is another film which will help America to forget the bad British productions it has been asked to make room for in the past.

Produced by Gainsborough Productions. Distributed by Gaumont-Ideal. Directed by Victor Saville. Scenario, Angus MacPhail. Photography, Lesie Rowson. Running time, 85 minutes. Recording, RCA.

CAST

Mary Rowe ..... Edna Best
Michael Rowe ..... Herbert Marshall
David ..... Frank Lawton
Romo ..... Elizabeth Allan
Price ..... D. A. Clarke-Smith
Tullivant ..... Ben Field
Mrs. Tullivant ..... Margaret Yards
Violet Cunliffe ..... Sunday Wilshin

Wm. H. Mooring

Morals for Women

(Tiffany)
Drama

Bessie Love and Conway Tearle share the lead in this Tiffany dramatic effort concerning the girl who is more than a secretary to her employer, comes to a realization of the wrong she is doing through the intervention of an old flame, and finally straightens herself out with her small-town family and the world, not to mention the man who loves her.

An audience at the Moss Broadway seemed to find the film of interest and it was generally agreed the performances of the featured players were capable and intelligent.

When John Holland, old friend of Miss Love, suddenly appears on the scene, the secretary extraordinary becomes in a measure conscious stricken, gives up her work and her boss, and returns to the old home in the small town, where she is greeted affectionately, but where she finds numerous hands outstretched for one reason or another. Her young brother, David Rollins, defends her honor from the remarks of a boy he meets at a dance, and the result is the necessity of $1,000 to keep the brother from jail.

Seeing no other way out, the girl returns to her boss and job, sacrificing Holland by the action. Holland had meanwhile returned from a trip, and seeking Miss Love at her office, meets Tearle. He discovers that the girl is no longer his in any sense of the term and stages a punishment for her by taking Holland to the party at Miss Love's apartment, which is being given that night. Unexpectedly and adding immeasurably to the girl's discomfiture, her parents, one of whom, played by Edmund Breese, is in a perpetual state of intoxication, suddenly arrive at her apartment. An amusing incident takes place when the mother, before the arrival of the girl, serves the guests with lemonade.

Holland leaves the apartment, and Miss Love gives up the city, boss and the rest, returning with her parents to the small town home. More or less as expected, Holland arrives for the concluding sequence and the two are united.

Breese gives what little comedy turns are imparted to the effort to offset the rather unrelieved drama.

Produced and distributed by Tiffany. Directed by Mort Blumenstock. Produced by Phil Goldstone. Story by Frances Hyland. Release date, October 25, 1931. Running time, 70 minutes.

CAST

Helen Hutson ..... Bessie Love
Van Dyne ..... Conway Tearle
Paul Cooper ..... John Holland
Flora ..... Natalie Moorhead
Mrs. Hutson ..... Emma Dunn
Lorraine Hutson ..... June Clyde
Mr. Hutson ..... Edmund Breese
Bill Hutson ..... David Rollins
Claudia ..... Lina Basquette
Maybelle ..... Virginia Lee Corbin

Hughes Featured

In a review of "A Private Scandal," Headline feature picture, in the issue of November 14, Lloyd Hamilton was named as the leading player, opposite Marion Nixon, instead of Lloyd Hughes, who actually played the role.

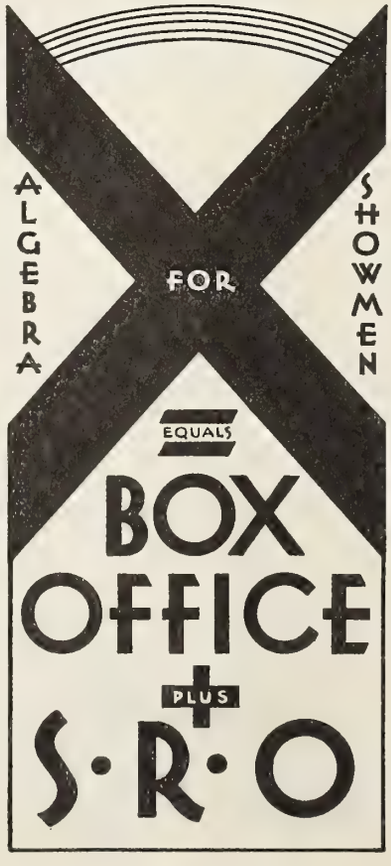
Carnival

(Gaumont)
Drama

(Seen in London)

This story, filmed by the British company Alliance just 10 years ago, proved one of the greatest successes of the silent screen. This new talk version, produced on far more lavish lines, will surely make a still bigger mark.

Matheson Lang, who played the chief role in the silent film, is again the star, but he is played with Joseph Schildkraut in the role which Ivor Novello filled, and Dorothy Bouchier in that played by Hylda Bayley. Herbert Wilcox takes Miss Bouchier after a string of more or less mediocre pictures, and turns her into a thing of beauty and vivacity; this one shows it can be done, and that some British producers are alive to the vital necessity for creating stars if they are to sell in America. Lang is Lang all through the picture, but his work will be appreciated by admirers of the old school of histrionics. Schildkraut of "Showboat" and lesser fame should help the film over in the States. Spectacular scenes presenting a Venetian Carnival are exquisitely handled, and with the exception of the early sequences, there is an easy zip about the whole thing.



Story will be recollected as one of jealousy and flirtation. Silvio Steno, an elderly husband and actor, is devoted to his young actress wife, Simonetta and their son, Nino. Simonetta is a flippant flirtatious thing and has a slight though innocent affair with Count Andrea, with whom she goes against her husband's wishes, to the Carnival in Venice. Fanned by the suggestions of certain friends, the jealousy of the husband grows in intensity, till one evening, when he and his wife are playing the killing scene in Shakespeare's "Othello," he actually tries seriously to strangle her. His nerve fails, however, and he collapses, the performance being abandoned in confusion. There are explanations and protestations of innocence on the part of the wife and reconciliation follows.

Produced by British and Dominions Films. Distributed by Gaumont-W and F. Directed by Herbert Wilcox. Adaptation and dialogue by Donald Macardle. Photography, F. A. Young. Edited by P. Maclean Rogers. Recorded on Western Electric.

CAST

Silvio Steno ..... Matheson Lang
Count Andrea ..... Joseph Schildkraut
Simonetta Steno ..... Dorothy Bouchier
Italia ..... Lilian Braithwaite
Nella ..... Kay Hammond
Lelio ..... Brian Buchel
Nino ..... Dickie Edwards

W. H. Mooring

Branded

(Columbia)
Western

Buck Jones was accorded an excellent reception, attesting to his popularity, when this latest western was shown at Loew's New York recently. The crowded house gave the film its undivided attention during the suspense sequences and gave vent to uproarious laughter when John Oscar, playing the Swede partner of Jones and the comedy role, went through a few of his amusing antics.

Though the story holds pretty well to the accepted and usual formula of western film yarns, the audience at the New York gave every evidence of the fact that the picture was at least vastly entertaining.

Jones as Tom Dale, falls heir to a stretch of land, which is of importance, since cattle must pass over this strip to be routed in the general direction they must take. Dale cuts off the land to outsiders and thereby makes an enemy of Lou Preston, played by Ethel Kenyon, who owns the adjoining ranch. Al Smith, playing Miss Kenyon's foreman, frames Dale as a cattle rustler, but Jones vindicates himself and makes things more than a little difficult for the villains of the piece.

The two owners and the two ranches are brought together to end the film. Hard riding, shooting and real rough and tumble scraps with plenty of action, were chiefly responsible for the high degree of entertainment as indicated by the audience reaction.

Produced and distributed by Columbia. Directed by D. Ross Lederman. Story by Randall Faye. Adaptation and dialogue by Randall Faye. Assistant director, Mack Wright. Film editor, Gene Milford. Cameramen, Benjamin Kline, Elmer Dyer. Sound, George Cooper. Release date, September 1, 1931. Running time, 61 minutes.

CAST

Tom Dale ..... Buck Jones
Lou ..... Ethel Kenyon
Starett ..... Wallace MacDonald
First Sheriff ..... Philo McCullough
Moore ..... Al Smith
Swede ..... John Oscar
Tex ..... Bob Kortman
Second Sheriff ..... Fred Burns

Splinters in the Navy

Gaumont-W and F
Comedy

(Seen in London)

This one comes from the Twickenham Studios operated by Julius Hagen on independent lines. The fact that it is sold to the Gaumont subsidiary for distribution says something, though not as much as the film itself, which is among the niftiest comedies turned out this side of the Atlantic.

It exploits the famous and effeminate British concert party started as a war-time entertainment joke, and carried on with success ever since—the "Splinters." These boys first broke into celluloid with British and Dominions and figured in one of the first talkers made here. This time they are among the navy. The Admiral of the Fleet has just announced his belated engagement, and the boys of the lower deck get Lew Lake playing his "Splinters" company in the home port, to stage a show on board in honor of their chief. In the blending of incidents of routine aboard, and the high jinks of the gala night, a fair ripple of comedy is kept up, with at times touches of real brilliance in the translation of gags. Sydney Howard as the most slothful sailor in the British navy is about as funny as he ever can be, and in a boxing bout staged by the ship's company as a counter attraction to the "Splinters" special show, he is a wow.

There is room for cutting here and there to sharpen up the action, but any United States distributor would find it easy to adjust to American tastes. Chief strength of the picture lies in its originality, and in the skillful creation by Walter Forde—best of British comedy directors—of convincing atmosphere. Scenes aboard a warship are realistic enough, and the sailors are mainly true to type. There is no attempt whatever at propaganda, so the picture is unlimited in appeal. Whether or not the "Splinters" female impersonators mean anything outside Britain doesn't matter much: the comedy should get it over anywhere. Photography and settings are first rate, and the whole thing is done on a big scale, with good tunes and songs from the "Splinters" company.

Produced by Twickenham Studios, Ltd. Distributed by Gaumont-W. and F. Directed by Walter Forde. Story by H. Fowler Mear. Art director, James Carter. Sound, Baynham Honri. Running time, 77 minutes.

CAST

Sailor Joe Crabbs.....Sydney Howard
Sailor Bill Mivvens.....Frederick Bentley
Sailor Spike Higgins.....Alf Goddard
Lottie ..... Helena Pickard
Mabel ..... Paddy Browne
Admiral ..... Rupert Lister
Lew Lake, Hal Jones, Reg Stone, Wilfred Temple.....“Splinters” chorus

Wm. H. Mooring

SHORTS

Bosco's Soda Fountain
(Vitaphone)
Fast Comedy

Bosco has a lively time at and away from his soda fountain in this cartoon. When the little imp of a piano pupil doesn't like the vanilla ice cream cone and throws it into Bosco's face, the pursuit is on. Bosco meets one reverse when the youngster swings on the pendulum of the clock and administers a vigorous kick on the return swing. He also takes a bumping ride down the banister when the "villain" pulls off the rail.—Running time, 7 minutes.

Voice of Hollywood
(Tiffany)
Good

Number eight of the series, with Monte Blue featured as the guest announcer. The Wampas Baby Stars are seen, in all their budding ability, which is of some account, and their unusual pulchritude, which is of more account, at least as far as the effectiveness of this particular short is concerned.—Running time, 7 minutes.

Land of the Shalimar
(Capital)
Travel

Were there nothing else commendatory about this picture there would be praise enough in the fact that the music accompaniment has been sufficiently subdued as to perform the background duties to which it is dedicated. Too often in short features the music is projected at such volume as not only to subordinate the picture or at least nullify it, but also to drown out the dialogue. Not so in this production, which treats of the princedom of Kashmir in India, and the Taj Mahal. The freshest bits, however, are of the pottery making.—Running time, 17 minutes.

Words and Music
(Vitaphone)
Good Singing

A considerable sketch has been built around the singing of two songs by Ruth Etting, supported by Don Tomkins, but the singing by the Ziegfeld Follies star is the picture. In the round of the music companies in search for new songs, Miss Etting first finds "Falling in Love." Then comes the bit of story, with the young composer seeking a buyer in order that he may marry his sweetheart, the offer of Miss Etting's accompanist to "collaborate" which really means the stealing of the song, "Now That You're Gone," and the final discovery of the scheme.—Running time, 17 minutes.

Out Where the West Begins
(Picture Classics)
Novel

Something rather novel in travelogue subjects. The number features a trip to the Canadian Rockies, being characterized by numerous beautiful scenic effects and unusual photography. In accompaniment, a quartette sings a song based on the Harold McCracken poem which suggested the short's title. This is the first of a series of six "Musical Poems" which this company is making.—Running time, 8 minutes.

Skimpy
(Tiffany)
Fair

This is hardly up to the usual standard of the previous Tiffany Chimp comedies, lacking in addition to the novelty of the idea, a sufficiently clever story to be really amusing. There are not many laughs in the number.—Running time, 18 minutes.

Canine Capers
(Educational)
Fine

Numerous varieties of dogs are here pictured, with accompanying interesting comment by Bill Cunningham, Boston Post sports editor. Sport lovers and any one who likes the likeable animals will enjoy this number without reservation. A fine finish is provided with a whippet race.—Running time, 9 minutes.

Of All People
(Vitaphone)
Buoyant

Thelma White and Fanny Watson keep the ball rolling in this comedy, which concerns the efforts of the buxom telephone girl to take Cupid by the wings and pin him down. The millionaire whom she shanghais to her home for the surprisingest dinner he ever had, with TNT cocktails and farflung pies, almost pays $50,000 for the experience, but at the trial the forceful Juliet's papa spoils it all with his plea for "justice."—Running time, 22 minutes.

Jailbirds
(MGM)
Clever

A Flip the Frog cartoon number, which is very clever of its kind, which offsets the fact that the laughs in the piece are not too plentiful. It burlesques a prison break, with the guard finally succeeding in bringing back his man. Synchronization of musical score and sound effects is unusually good.—Running time, 9 minutes.

Believe It Or Not
(Vitaphone)
Interesting

Robert L. Ripley in this issue takes us to Africa and to the Holy Land. We see the veiled Tuaregs, fierce robbers of the desert, a famous mosque in Algeria, a waterfall with a constantly increasing drop caused by the mineral residue, the building struck by a shell from the deck of the Breslau, "the first shot fired in the World War," the "Nilometer," with its markings to gauge the tax rate according to the amount of water available for irrigation, the first "tabloid," with an entire wall used as the paper stock for the inscriptions from the reign of Rameses III, the tree of Abraham, the olive tree in the Garden of Gethsemane where Jesus had his great hour of trial, and finally scenes of Morocco.—Running time, 8 minutes.

Oh! Marry Me
(RKO Pathe)
Slapstick

Daphne Pollard in another of her comedy efforts, and of course, slapstick from the word go. Jimmy Finlayson and Dot Farley are leading the support. Trying to win her neighbor, Daphne drives his cab for him for a day, and does numerous stunts with the car. Dot Farley is a rival for the hand of Finlayson and finally wins him, but Daphne is hardly sorry, when she hears the commotion just after the marriage.—Running time, 18 minutes.

Outposts of the Foreign Legion
(Educational)
Interesting

Claude Fleming travels with the audience to Morocco in this number of the series, showing them what the Multicolor camera has seen on the way, in natural colors, which turns out to be decidedly effective. Native customs and people are of interest, but the Legion posts with their unusual characters are the best bits in the short.—Running time, 10 minutes.

Sealed Lips
(Universal)
Real Action

This is the third of the Shadow Detective series and, if action means anything, here it is. Three murders in the first reel start things moving. There are plenty of thrills, but as in the previous numbers, the story loses out because of the shadow figure which imposes itself at regular intervals throughout the short to declaim in a throaty tone a warning against crime, pointing the end as the gallows, jail and death.—Running time, 17 minutes.

One Good Turn
(MGM)
Rather Weak

Despite the two able comedians, Laurel and Hardy, who attempt the amusing things in this Hal Roach comedy effort, the story is too weak to make it a really amusing number. The situations are old and the pace not very fast. The gags, too, are hardly up to the standard expected in an effort from this pair of comedy lights. A rather unfortunate lapse from a usual standard.—Running time, 21 minutes.

Lucky 13
(Vitaphone)
Amusing

Fanny Watson and Thelma White in the first of a new comedy series, the "Girl Friend." The short, found amusing by an audience at the New York Strand, concerns a cross-country automobile race in which the girls enter, when the sweetheart of one of them falls ill. The pair win the tournament when an escaped lunatic takes possession and drives the car into first place, of course in reckless and hair-raising fashion.—Running time, 21 minutes.

STRICTER CENSORSHIP IS FACED BY BRITONS

Committee May Add to Nationalism —Premier Betrays Fears of Too Sudden Recourse to Tariffs

By WM. H. MOORING, London

A move started by the late home secretary, the Rt. Hon. J. R. Clynes, to clean up the British film censorship, has resulted in the appointment of a consultative committee representative of municipal authorities, to cooperate with the existing British Board of Film Censors with a view to reconciling on a broad basis the decisions of the censor and the separate views of local licensing bodies.

Hitherto it has often been the case that films not passed by the British Board of Film Censors—a non-statutory institution—have been passed in some localities by the licensing justices, and rejected in others. Now, to make for uniformity, the new committee will assist the Censor.

It can only be regarded as a retrograde move as far as the promotion of a progressive censorship code is concerned. For the new committee will bring to bear on the censor an influence which is not altogether sympathetic to the cinema as an institution, and which may harden tendencies already too marked, of tinging the censorship with nationalistic color.

Matters are also likely to prove unwieldy in the hands of so large a company.

The New Cabinet

The return to Parliament of such a colossal conservative majority has provided the prime minister with a heap of trouble. His House of Commons shows a crushing majority in favor of the whole-hog policy of protection, though among his ministers there is a strong element of Liberalism, which though partially converted to a fiscal turn towards tariffs, is still far from convinced that indiscriminate application of this remedy is in the interests of the nation.

The prime minister has betrayed his fears of a too sudden recourse to tariffs, by selecting Walter Runciman, former free trader and now lukewarm protectionist, to act as president of the Board of Trade, in place of Cunliffe Lister, acknowledged tariffist with definitely anti-foregn instincts. Cunliffe Lister was responsible for the introduction of the Films Act (Quota) in the last Conservative Government.

Government on Educationals

The Empire Marketing Board has just compiled a catalogue of over 130 films of varying lengths for showing in schools. They are available free of charge and are intended as a preliminary test, which will be followed by a more wholesale onslaught if things work right.

Another Price Breaker

Will Evans, just appointed joint managing director of Moss Empire Circuit—with forty-odd halls and others to add—will give another headache to distributors here. He will rank third biggest chain in the country, and those who dealt with him as chief of the Gaumont concern will appreciate best his system of film booking.

Simon Rowson, managing director of Ideal Films (Gaumont-British) and a leading film trade economist, commenting on an article in MOTION PICTURE HERALD of September 26 wherein "Analyst" discussed the general effect upon America's film earnings, of the British abandonment of the Gold Standard, says in his opinion the writer was "unduly optimistic." "His suggestion that the decrease in U. S. film earnings in Britain will result in a drop of only 1¼ per cent of her total income is rather 'bullish'," said Mr. Rowson. "I say without fear of contradiction that it will mean a drop of at least 10 per cent and may mean as much as 15 per cent. Taking America's earnings here as roughly £6,000,000 to £7,000,000 per year, it will mean a drop of roughly six to seven million dollars."

This will have the definite and almost immediate effect of losing the British market entirely to the cheaper American productions which will not now earn sufficient to warrant selling.

Rowson for Reciprocity

Then there is the further possibility of an imports tariff, which would have to be a specific one and not ad valorem. Such a tariff would operate also to the detriment of the cheaper pictures which would have to bear as much tax as the more expensive productions.

"I am certain that at this juncture a reciprocal trading agreement between the producer-distributors of America, and the producer-distributors of Britain would do far more to help forward the motion picture industry operating in the English speaking markets, than a policy of tariffs," Mr. Rowson added.

He agrees, however, that reciprocity—and quickly—is the only probable alternative to the imposition of an imports tariff on films. Every indication is that the free trade group will be in a heavy minority in the next House of Commons, and the Government will be committed to a tariff policy. Remembering that Britain hitherto has stood by the free trade principle, it might be as well to ponder the possibility that a "new fiscal toy" of the kind about to be introduced into the political nursery may very well come in for pretty heavy usage in its earliest days.

MGM British Production Plan

Plans for British productions to be sponsored by M-G-M take the form of an initial schedule of three to be produced by Eric Hakim, who made "The Outsider," now taken for American release by Metro. He is to start at once, his first subject being "Two White Arms," a play by Harold Dearden, which is to be written for the screen by Paul Schofield of "Beau Geste" fame.

Eric Hakim is a theatre owner with a great ambition to make fine films. His first attempt, "The Outsider," to be seen in U. S. A. shortly, gives certain indications he may succeed. He is backed by the Rothschild family, but in these three pictures he has a 70 per cent guarantee from M-G-M right away.

SIGNED . . .

Fox

David Howard, contract as director. . . . John Boles, Claire Maynard, Edward Crandall, Raul Roulien in "Widow's Might," Kenneth MacKenna, direction. . . . Ralph Bellamy, Violet Heming, Victor McLaglen, Alexander Kirkland, Robert Mindin in "Circumstance," William Cameron Menzies, direction. . . . Victor McLaglen, Helen Mack, Lucille LaVerne, William Bakewell, Claire Maynard, Rita LaRoy, Jack LaRue, Paul Porcasi, Eddie Dillon, Maurice Black, Dot Farley in "While Paris Sleeps," Allan Dwan, direction. . . . James Dunn, Sally Eilers, Ralph Morgan; Claire Maynard, Edward Crandall, Nora Lane, Charles Williams in "Dance Team," Sidney Lanfield, direction. . . . Warner Oland, H. B. Warner, Alexander Kirkland, James Kirkwood, Ann Dvorak in "Charlie Chan's Chance." . . .

MGM

Wallace Ford, Leila Hyams, Henry Victor, Harry Earles in "Freaks," Tod Browning, direction. . . . Walter Huston, Jean Harlow in "City Sentinel," Charles Brabin, direction. . . . Roland Young, Robert Montgomery, Madge Evans in "Courage," Robert Z. Leonard, direction. . . . Marion Davies in "Polly of the Circus," Al Santell, direction. . . . Johnny Weissmuller, Doris Lloyd, Maureen O'Sullivan in "Tarzan," W. S. VanDyke, direction. . . .

Paramount

Stephen Roberts, new contract, director. . . . Arthur Kober, new contract, writer. . . . Frances Starr in "Second Chances." . . . Raul Lukas, Carole Lombard, Juliette Compton, Frances Moffett, Marjorie Gateson, George Barbier, Arthur Pierson in "No One Man," Lloyd Corrigan, direction, from Rupert Hughes' novel. . . . Stuart Erwin, Stanley Fields, Miriam Hopkins, Phillips Holmes, Wynne Gibson, Irving Pichel in "Two Kinds of Women," William C. DeMille, direction; Benjamin Glazer, adaptation.

Radio

Suzanne Fleming, long-term contract. . . . Richard Dix, Art Goebel, Frank Clarke, Leo Nomis, Arnold Grey, Arthur Housman, Erich von Stroheim, Joel McCrea, Eric Linden, Paul Hurst in "The Lost Squadron," Paul Sloane, direction. . . .

RKO Pathe

Constance Bennett, Myrna Kennedy, David Manners, Astrid Allwyn in "Lady With a Past," Edward H. Griffith, direction. . . . Nancy Drexel in "Partners," Fred Allen, direction. . . . Ann Harding in "District Nurse," from Faith Baldwin's new novel. . . . Reginald Owen, Pola Negri in "A Woman Commands." . . . Bill Boyd, Hobart Bosworth, Fred Kohler, Harry Sweet, Edgar Kennedy, Joe Marba, Ed Chandler in "Bad Timber." . . . Ann Harding, Ian McLaren, Adolphe Menjou, Melvyn Douglas, Guy Bates Post in "Prestige," Tay Garnett, direction. . . .

Kentucky High Court Reverses Decision In Local Sunday Law

The court of appeals at Frankfort, Ky., has reversed decision of a lower court which convicted the Strand Amusement Company of operating film houses in Owensboro on Sunday. The case is one of the most important and hard fought in the state courts in years.

The fight has been going on now for two years, during which numerous arrests were made and fines imposed. A special ordinance was passed in Owensboro which would prevent utility companies from furnishing water and power to firms violating the alleged Sunday closing law.

BOOK REVIEWS

Projecting Sound Pictures, by Aaron Nadell. New York: McGraw-Hill. 265 pp. $2.50.

Any treatise on sound written at this stage of its usage enjoys distinct advantages, and they are at once apparent in this volume on reproduction in the theatre. The author, in this case himself a projection and sound engineer working within the commercial theatre, can safely take for granted the projectionist's knowledge of equipment variations and simple mechanical details, and go directly to the principles of sound, subjectively and in practical application.

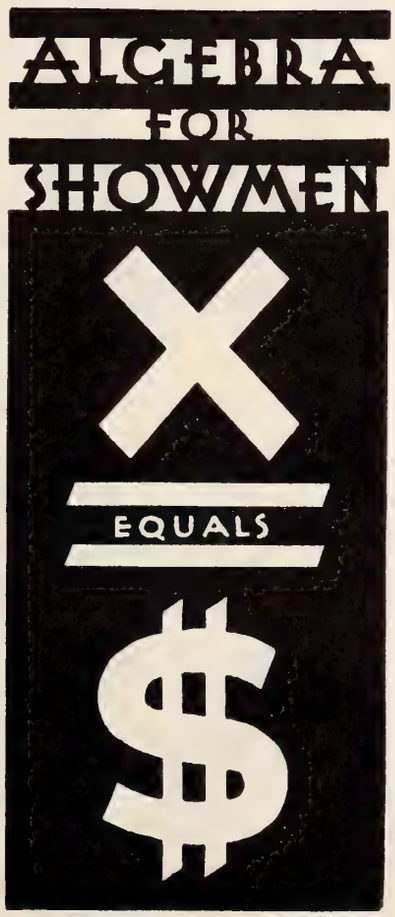
In providing the theatre man with a suitable textbook on this rather mystic intruder upon the less subtle affairs of motion picture exhibition, the problem is always present as to how theory and practice, principles and function, should be adjusted to each other. Part of this problem has been derived from the wide variation in the amount of basic knowledge possessed by those concerned with reproduction, and part from deficiencies in the authors themselves, some lacking practical experience, others being poorly versed in theory.

Pleasing Approach to Problem

The present volume's approach to this problem results in what the reader probably will find to be one of its most pleasing characteristics. The novice, of course, can scarcely be expected to cope with the treatment employed, since acquaintance with the general mechanical nature of sound equipment in general and with simple practical electricity is assumed. But even in the discussions of theoretical photoelectrics and electrodynamics, the method of presentation is attuned to both the average projectionist and the manager who has concerned himself to some extent with the processes of the projection room.

At the same time, the range of material, including both principles and functions, elicits the interest of the more advanced projectionist even though he no longer requires the elementary and analogous style to which the author has painstakingly resorted. Indeed, it is quite probable that while he need not be asked to stand to one side and "watch" sound pass in order to appreciate its condensations and rarefactions, or to consider a freed electron as "leaving home," he yet will get a clearer picture than he may have had of what is actually going on under his poor worldly vision as he goes about his daily business in the projection room.

A Practical Feature



This primer-like "description" of principles, moreover, is really but a phase of the discussion on practice, and both principles and practice are treated integrally. Rejecting the method whereby intangible fundamentals are presented first, dissociated from operation, the author closely follows his presentation of the laws behind the processes with what happens, or may happen, in the processes themselves. And here lies one of the most practical features of the book: When what may happen would mean trouble, that trouble and its detection is immediately pointed out, and its cure prescribed. Each division of the discussion, therefore, possesses a high degree of unity, which makes the reader's "picture of the situation" very complete as he proceeds.

In arrangement, the author goes from the general to the particular. Reversing chronology, he begins with sound-on-film reproduction, and, as with all other divisions, the discussion is complete even at the expense of minor repetitions elsewhere.

In addition, there are two chapters dealing directly with the care of sound equipment, precautions that may prevent trouble, and methods for tracing trouble. These discussions are highly practicable and are immediately accessible augmentations to instruction and advice given in the exposition of processes. The author will be thanked many times for going still further in this direction by supplying two special indices, one called a "trouble index," the other a "precaution index," both listing types of reproduction faults by their common names with the numbers of all pages on which they are in any way discussed.

There is, in addition, a subject index, a chapter touching upon the more casual considerations in acoustics, another on motors, generators and speed control, and another on symbols used in technical drawings that the more ambitious will find much use for.

Illustrations are profuse and directly associated with the text. Halftone reproductions of actual photographs outnumber the diagrams, but since they are themselves rendered somewhat diagrammatic by inscriptions naming the part shown, they are probably as effective, while of course they have the merit of being more graphic.

PLAGIARISM: The Art of Literary Stealing. By Maurice Salzman, attorney of California. Parker, Stone and Baird Co., Los Angeles, Cal. Price $2.50.

For several centuries the case against plagiarism has been simmering in the pot. Now, it has boiled over. At the psychological moment a book on the subject is fresh off the presses with a full degree of information on a puzzling subject. Maurice Salzman, with a legal mind, and an eye on the motion picture problem of copyright and legal protection, has compiled a book which has several definitely informative chapters. It is more of a compilation than an original work of fresh viewpoint, and for this, the author may be more or less excused. The subject he had to deal with is necessarily one to which the case in point is important.

Foreword by Rupert Hughes

The book is prefaced by a foreword by Rupert Hughes, in which the capital I looms, perhaps, too largely. But Mr. Hughes has been a target, and expresses himself with righteous indignation. The chapters following contain really valuable information reflecting wide and thorough research, but the essential facts are sandwiched in between so many and varied cases that one wishes for the literary agility of a mountain goat, to leap from peak to peak.

To every person engaged in creative writing, or to those who in any way contribute to the published word, this book is of sufficient importance to merit possession and thoughtful reading. The author definitely outlines the Copyright Law of America and the difficulties attendant on International Copyright. He goes to considerable trouble to trace the ultimate source of the word "plagiarism," making it easy to understand the present confusion in the courts in legally defining it. This confusion, not unlike the vagaries of the several states on censorship, varies with each presiding justice, and in every locality.

Draws Distinctions

The author draws a distinction between "conscious" and "unconscious" plagiarism and the interpretations of the law on infringement and possession, quoting the lawsuits that famous authors and the leading motion picture producers have had to face with grave worry. Among the many who have suffered from the plagiarism charge have been Fannie Hurst, Ben Ames Williams, Clyde Fitch, Cecil DeMille, Albert Einstein, Theodore Thomas, David Belasco, Peter B. Kyne, Zona Gale, Eugene O'Neill, Theodore Dreiser, Harold Lloyd and Charles Chaplin. The details of these cases make interesting and frequently surprising reading.

"Plagiarism: The Art of Literary Stealing" has much to commend it, particularly to every writer connected with the making of motion pictures, for they, because of the money value the motion picture industry places upon originality and plot, are the fairest targets for literary sniping.—R. C. McG.

WABASH AVENUE

CHICAGO

Carl Lesserman, who has been assistant to the western sales manager of Warner Brothers, is making Chicago his headquarters again. Mr. Lesserman has been named district manager with jurisdiction over seven offices.

▼

Physical distribution of the special emergency relief fund reel sponsored by the Hays office is being handled in Chicago through United Artists. Exhibitors who desire to run this film may obtain it there. Other plans under consideration as the local industry's part in relief work include two hours of show prior to the usual opening time on November 21, the proceeds to go to the fund. This arrangement, it is said, meets with the approval of the majority of theatre owners.

▼

Word comes to us that Phil Baker, who used to do a swell job selling Universal product in Chicago and, as a consequence, won himself the post of Detroit branch manager, has again been promoted.

▼

Johnny Mednikow, whose reputation as a live-wire is too well established to need further mention, breezed into Chicago last week after an absence of some six weeks in the Badger state on the Master Art organlogue. And he put the film, which is a single reeler designed to give patrons a chance to exercise their vocal cords in community singing to organ music, right on Milwaukee's main stem—at the Alhambra.

▼

Jerry Abrams will open his own exchange here with a lineup of independent productions that include Buffalo Bill Westerns and Sherlock Holmes tales and M. H. Hoffman's pictures.

▼

The Avon theatre is about to pass into new ownership and it is reported that Aaron Saperstein will be the new sponsor of this house.

▼

Over at National Screen Service we are sure of an unfailing news item for this "colyum." It is that Hal Young spent the week-end in St. Louis or Indianapolis or Detroit or somewhere. Indefatigable worker that he is, Young has figured out a program of week-end trips to the company's branch offices, thus finishing up the week with a 1,000 per cent batting average against old man work. Last week-end it was Omaha and Lincoln, Neb., for Hal.

▼

D. R. Hochreich, general sales manager of General Talking Pictures Corporation, is in Chicago in connection with increased sales activity on the company's equipment.

▼

Invitations were being mailed, as this was written, for a special midnight showing at United Artists theatre last Tuesday of the film which Douglas Fairbanks made on his world tour, "Around the World in Eighty Minutes," or "Around the World with Douglas Fairbanks," as the invitations labeled it. If you attended this showing we venture the suggestion that you will be interested in reading the comments on it by Mr. Terry Ramsaye which appeared in last week's MOTION PICTURE HERALD.

▼

Felix Feist, sales manager of Metro, held a meeting here of branch managers and salesmen from Milwaukee, Indianapolis and Minneapolis.

▼

Frank Mellinger, well known in Chicago and owner of the Varsity theatre, Champaign, Ill., passed away last week. Operation of the theatre will be continued by his widow.

HOLQUIST

SHORTS ON BROADWAY

Week of November 14

ASTOR
- Sharks and Swordfish ..... MGM
- Jaipur ..... MGM

CAPITOL
- Come Clean ..... MGM

HOLLYWOOD
- Bosco, the Doughboy ..... Vitaphone
- The Road to Mandalay ..... Vitaphone
- The Musical Mystery ..... Vitaphone

MAYFAIR
- Jungle Jam ..... RKO Radio
- Mellon Drama ..... RKO Radio

PARAMOUNT
- You're Driving Me Crazy ..... Paramount
- Retire Inn ..... Paramount

RIALTO
- I Surrender Dear ..... Educational
- Jack and the Beanstalk ..... Paramount

RIVOLI
- Screen Souvenirs ..... Paramount
- I Surrender Dear ..... Educational
- Busy Red Riding Hood ..... Paramount

ROXY
- The Clock Shop ..... Columbia

STRAND
- Of All People ..... Vitaphone
- Bosko's Soda Fountain ..... Vitaphone

WARNER

WINTER GARDEN
- Words and Music ..... Vitaphone
- The Eyes Have It ..... Vitaphone
- Believe It Or Not No. 1 ..... Vitaphone
- Ya Don't Know What You're Doin' ..... Vitaphone

NEWS PICTURES

FOX MOVIETONE NEWS—No. 15—President proclaims Thanksgiving Day—Notre Dame still on top—Chinese attempt to take life of boy emperor—New York police on dope crusade—British wrestlers get rough—War flags wave on New York's Fifth Avenue.

FOX MOVIETONE NEWS—No. 16—Naval inquiry upholds President Hoover—John N. Garner, Texas Democrat, may lead House of Representatives—President Hoover honors war heroes—China and Japan approach war in Manchuria—Royalty launch ocean liner in Italy.

HEARST METROTONE NEWS—No. 214—President Hoover dedicates capital war memorial—Skiing season opens in London—Royal launching for giant Italian liner—Here's John N. Garner, possible leader of the House—English show newest in swimming tanks—Thrills from the big games—War flames in Manchuria.

PARAMOUNT SOUND NEWS—No. 31—New amphibious tanks for British Army tested in England—Modern Crusoes return after six months on desert island—Red Grange shows orphan youngsters how he does it on the gridiron—McDonald government wins in England—President Hoover upheld on navy stand—Paramount pictures longest flight, from United States to Africa.

PARAMOUNT SOUND NEWS—No. 32—Test water skis on the ocean at Miami, Fla.—Grandi, Italian foreign minister, interviewed as he leaves Italy to visit President Hoover—Hotel Exposition in New York a pastry paradise for youngsters—15,000 attend Canada's first Armistice Day ceremonies—President Hoover dedicates District of Columbia war memorial—New keepers set out to relieve watchmen at English lighthouse—Notre Dame again wins as Navy falls, 20-0.

PATHE NEWS—No. 32—27,000 men back at work in Pennsylvania coal mine—Grandi of Italy greets American people—Girl messengers use roller skates in New York Western Union headquarters—Typical Chinese and Japanese leaders discuss Far East situation—12-year-old Washington girl recovering after imprisonment in closet four years—Sing Sing football team defeats Naval Militia.

UNIVERSAL NEWSPAPER NEWSREEL—No. 90—Immigration chiefs deport trainload of undesirable aliens—California city's water supply in peril as vandals destroy aqueduct—Royal family sees wedding of Queen Mary's niece—News Paragraphs—Frenzied Naples crowds hail Duce's message—Akron makes flight as navy airship queen.

UNIVERSAL NEWSPAPER NEWSREEL—No. 92—Royal pomp marks launching of new Italian liner—Complete world's largest arch span connecting New Jersey and Staten Island—Schools close in Ohio to enable children to aid in grape harvest—News paragraphs—Crew escapes as fog sends ship on rocks off California coast—Nation honors war heroes in Armistice Day rites.

UNIVERSAL NEWSPAPER NEWSREEL—No. 93—Grandi guarded by army of police on visit to United States—$12,000,000 bonfire of bills marks adoption of silver standard by Mexico—Ice hockey fans hail opening of new season—News paragraphs—Rumanian royal family joins nation in honoring Queen Mother Marie on birthday—Sing Sing football team beats Naval Militia, 33-0.

Smirnov Succeeds Monosson As President of Amkino Co.

V. F. Smirnov, formerly in charge of the Moscow studios of Soyuzkino, the United Motion Picture Industry of the Soviet Union, has been elected president of the Amkino Corporation, Soyuzkino representatives in this country.

Smirnov succeeds L. I. Monosson, who, continuing his connection with the Russian film industry, has left for Russia and the Moscow studios. Smirnov stated he had selected a number of outstanding features for early release in the United States. He sees Russian production rapidly on the increase.

Hughes-Franklin Promotes Three to Head Divisions

Hughes-Franklin has appointed Charles Koerner as personal representative to Harold B. Franklin; Earl Crabb has been promoted to division manager in northern California, and Junior Mercy to division manager in Washington-Oregon.

Koerner, in addition to the work as Franklin's representative, has been promoted to handle the Texas division as associate division manager.

SOUND REPRODUCTION

The BLUEBOOK School

By F. H. RICHARDSON

BLUEBOOK SCHOOL QUESTION NO. 105—What is the exact width of the RCA sound track? (B) To what extent does the light beam overlap the edges of the sound track? (C) What will happen if the light beam be out of position and what should the projectionist do if he suspects the exciting lamp light beam to be out of position or out of proper adjustment? (D) Presuming you have RCA Photophone equipment. Suppose the sound has been quite satisfactory both as to volume and clarity, but that gradually there comes a volume drop and the sound lacks the clarity it had before, with conversation not so understandable and music not so clear. Name the various things you would examine before calling in the service engineer.

Answer to Question No. 100

The question was: (A) "What is the first requirement in stabilizing motor speed? (B) By means of what device is a motor enabled to govern its own speed? (C) Describe the action of the speed governing motor."

The following made good in their replies: S. Evans and C. Rau, Lester Borst, Van Buskirk and Kroll, G. E. Doe, Bill Doe, Alex Kransonberg, T. Van Vaulkenburg, Richard Singleton, Larry Tipton, D. L. Warren, Dick Porter, Henry B. Coates, Harry Davidson, Tom Hazleton, Dan F. Grant, N. D. Garling, H. D. Taylor, Dave Tillson, D. L. Simmons, A. F. Boe, John Williams, James Devoy, L. T. Samuels, Alonzo Zerach, Thos. McGruder, Wm. Peck, Pat O'Brien, H. D. Schofield, Henry Edwards, Dan Graves, Andy Lyttle, S. Kay, Ben Granby, Peter Cermak, James Pendone, James Ledbetter, Wm. Broadbent, Frank D. Kenso, Frank Oliver, K. L. Knight, Philip C. Gardener, Dan H. Grant, H. B. Becker, Dave Lode, Wm. Bogert, Chas. G. Dale, Alec Gibson, R. B. Whitnath, M. Daniels, John Wentworth, Andrew Davis, Frank Tollman, John Williams, Ced Thompson, Dave Bittdol, Andy Bailey, Dave Rousche, T. Davis, R. G. Pinson, Frank Henderson, George T. Fridale, H. Henry Pattor, R. King, F. U. Doyle, Richard S. Gregeson, H. R. Wright, J. Davis and Tom Little, Pat O'Mally and Joseph Sanberg.

A goodly list, from which the following deserve special mention for the excellence of their replies: Messrs. Evans and Rau, Lester Borst, Van Buskirk and Kroll, Ben Edwards, G. E. Doe, Bill Doe, T. Van Vaulkenberg, Dave Bittdol, Wm. Peck and Dave Lode.

I have concluded that while all the above named answers are essentially equal in the matter of correctness, the answer of G. E. Doe is a bit the best in the matter of its setting forth. Doe says:

"(A) In the stabilization of motor speed the first requirement is that the control box must be automatically 'advised' or 'informed' of the fact that a change in speed has occurred at the instant it begins to occur. In other words, the control box must be 'told' to function the very instant the motor speed starts to change.

"(B) Remembering that electrical action is practically instantaneous, it has been so arranged that the required 'telling' is accomplished by a small A. C. generator, which is mounted on the armature shaft of the motor to be governed.

"(C) The action is as follows: The small A. C. generator generates an A. C. current the frequency of which will, of course, be exactly proportional to the speed of the generator; hence, also to the speed of the motor it is to govern. Now, if the motor (projector motor) be running at the standard speed of 1,200 R. P. M., then the small generator will produce exactly 720 cycle current, and since what is termed the 'critical frequency' of the tuned circuit in the motor control box is 720 cycles, it follows that only a 720-cycle current can pass through, or at least a current of no greater cycle than 720 can pass; hence the instant the speed increases the current is automatically shut off until it is reduced to 720, whereupon the current again is passed through, and the speed of the driving motor is thus maintained at exactly 1,200 R.P.M.

"When the motor is started the tuned circuit does not operate until the standard speed is reached; hence the motor will take full current until it reaches the 720-cycle stage."

A BEAUTIFUL PROJECTOR

General Manager Green, of the International Projector Corporation, has just displayed to your editor one of the cleverest pieces of mechanism imaginable. Really, looking at the darned thing, I am rather astounded with the completeness of it, considering its size. It is a 16-mm. projector in a really beautiful carrying case 15 inches high, 12 inches wide by 7 inches deep.

Any one desiring to project pictures opens the right-hand door, which folds back out of the way, leaving the mechanism free for threading. He then—get this; it is clever—swings the two reel carriers forward so that they automatically lock into position. They are driven by small spring belts and their placement into working position takes about two seconds, or even less than that. The sprocket idlers look mighty efficient and are simplicity personified. There is a speed governor, and merely by moving a switch you may project a still picture, run your motion picture backwards or run it forwards. They even have the loop sizes routed into the frame and the routes painted white. Gentlemen, the thing is clever; there's no getting away from it. I compliment Green, the International Projector Corporation and whoever it was who designed this particular piece of equipment. The light source is 6 to 8 volt, 50 watt.

Incidentally, I might add that Green projected a picture for me with this outfit. It was broad daylight—about noon—and the picture showed up right good, and that's going some with a 50-watt lamp.

Going Broadway One Better

Last week the M-G-M production titled "The Champ" opened at the Astor theatre on the Great White Way. The Astor had a sign of but two words, "The Champ," in which the official inspector told me there were either 15,000 or 16,000 15-watt lamps. He could not remember which it was, but, after all, what did a mere thousand lamps amount to, for that was only a beginning. Across the street was a huge truck in which were mounted three huge 325,000,000 candlepower search lamps.

The sign letters "CHAMP" were 10 feet high. The form of each letter was so wide that 10 lamps in a string were required to reach across.

PRODUCTIONS IN WORK

TITLE	WRITER AND DIRECTOR	CAST	STAGE OF PRODUCTION
COLUMBIA
"The Feathered Serpent"	Story by Edgar Wallace. Director: Roy William Neill.	H. B. Warner, Walter Byron, Bette Davis, Natalie Moorhead.	Finishing
Untitled (secret service story)	Story by Jo Swerling. Director: John Francis Dillon.	Jack Holt, Constance Cummings, Boris Karloff.	Starting
"Final Edition" (Tent.)	Director: Howard Higgin.	Pat O'Brien, Mae Clarke, Mary Doran.	Starting
FOX
"While Paris Sleeps"	Director: Seymour Felix.	Howard Phillips, Stanley Smith, Ferdinand Munier.	Shooting
"Circumstances"	Story by Alfred Soutar. Director: William C. Menzies.	Linda Watkins, Alexander Kirkland.	Shooting
"Stepping Sisters"	Story by Howard Comstock. Director: Seymour Felix.	Louise Dresser.	Shooting
"Dance Team"	Story by Sarah Addington. Director: Sidney Lanfield.	James Dunn, Sally Eilers.	Shooting
METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER
"Emma"	Original by Frances Marios. Director: Clarence Brown.	Marie Dressler, Richard Cromwell, Jean Hersholt, Barbara Kent.	Shooting
"Mata Hari"	Screenplay by Benjamin Glazer and Leo Birinsky. Director George Fitzmaurice.	Greta Garbo, Ramon Novarro, Lionel Barrymore, Lewis Stone.	Shooting
"Tarzan"	Original story by Edgar Rice Burroughs. Director: W. S. Van Dyke.	Johnny Weismuller, Neil Hamilton, Maureen O'Sullivan.	Shooting
"Courage"	Original story by Frederick Lonsdale. Director: Robert Z. Leonard.	Robert Montgomery, Madge Evans, Reginald Denny, Roland Young.	Shooting
"City Sentinels"	Original story by W. R. Burnett. Director: Charles Brabin.	Walter Huston, Jean Harlow.	Shooting
"Freaks"	Director: Tod Browning.	Leila Hyams, Wallace Ford.	Shooting
MONOGRAM PICTURES
"The Law of the Sea"	Director: Otto Brower.	William Farnum, Sally Blane, Rex Bell, Ralph Ince.	Shooting
"Galloping Thru"	Story by Wellyn Totman. Director: Lloyd Nosler.	Tom Tyler, Betty Mack, Stanley Blystone.	Shooting
"The Ghost City"	Story, adaptation and direction by Harry Fraser.	Bill Cody, Andy Shuford	Starting
PARAMOUNT
"Ladies Of The Big House"	Original by Ernest Booth. Director: Louis Gasnier.	Sylvia Sidney.	Shooting
"Second Chances"	Original story by Lewis Beach.	Charles Rogers, Richard Bennett, Peggy Shannon, Charlie Ruggles.	Shooting
"Sooky	Original by Percy Crosby. Director: Norman Taurog.	Jackie Cooper, Robert Coogan.	Shooting
"One Hour With You"	Story by Lothar Goldschmidt. Director: George Cukor.	Maurice Chevalier, Jeanette McDonald, Genevieve Tobin, Charlie Ruggles, Roland Young.	Shooting
"Two Kinds Of Women"	Story by Robert E. Sherwood. Director: W. C. DeMille.	Miriam Hopkins, Phillips Holmes.	Shooting
"No One Man"	Story by Rupert Hughes. Director: Lloyd Corrigan.	Carole Lombard, Allan Vincent, Arthur Pierson.	Shooting
"Shanghai Express"	Story by Harry Hervey. Director: Josef von Sternberg.	Marlene Dietrich, Clive Brook, Anna May Wong, Warner Oland.	Shooting
RKO-PATHE
"Bad Timber"	Story by Marion Jackson and Don Ryan. Director: Albert Rogell.	Bill Boyd, Ginger Rogers, Fred Kohler, Hobart Bosworth.	Shooting
"Lady With A Past"	From novel by Harriet Henry. Director: Edward H. Griffith.	Constance Bennett, David Manners, Myrna Kennedy.	Shooting
"Prestige"	Story by Harry Hervey. Director: Tay Garnett.	Ann Harding, Melvyn Douglas.	Shooting
RKO-RADIO
"Ladies of the Jury"	Play by Frederick Ballard. Director: Lowell Sherman.	Edna May Oliver, Jill Esmond, Rosco Ates, Lita Chevret.	Shooting
TIFFANY
"Texas Gun Fighter"	Story by Ben Cohn. Director: Phil Rosen.	Ken Maynard.	Starting
UNIVERSAL
"Destry Rides Again"	Story by Max Brand. Director: Ernest Frank.	Tom Mix.	Starting
WARNER-FIRST NATIONAL
"Honorable Mr. Wong"	Play by David Belasco and Achmed Abdullah. Director: Wm. A. Wellmann.	Edward G. Robinson, Loretta Young, Dudley Digges, Leslie Fenton.	Shooting
"Union Depot"	Adapted by Kenyon Nicholson. Director: Alfred E. Green.	Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., Joan Blondell, Mary Doran	Shooting
WARNER BROTHERS
"High Pressure"	Unpublished novel by S. J. Peters. Director: Mervyn LeRoy.	William Powell, Evelyn Brent, Evelyn Knapp, John Wray.	Shooting

J. C. Jenkins—His Colyum

Seattle, Wash.

DEAR HERALD:

It was a great day for Seattle in two ways: it was "Umbrella Day" and there was the annual football contest between Washington and California. Ordinarily they have to call out the reserves to keep us away from a college football game, but the weather man and three bucks a ticket kept us inside right up next to the radio. Yet, a pouring down rain didn't dampen the ardor of 30,000 fans. The game resulted in 0 to 0, which wasn't much of a game as we used to understand games back in the days when we used to play baseball. In those days the more scores they made the better they thought the game was.

We remember one game between the Publicans and Sinners which went down in history as the greatest game ever played. We played with the Sinners. Old Cincinnatis was in the box, Noah was behind the bat, Nero held down first base and we played shortstop. It was a terrific contest and Marc Antony, as umpire, had his hands full trying to keep the boys out of slugging matches. The score stood 196 runs for the Publicans and 87 for the Sinners. In the ninth inning it took us three days to get those durn Publicans out. Old Cincinnatis made one wild pitch and the ball went clear over Noah's head and out into a cow pasture and hit an old cow on the jaw and that was what started lumpjaw in cattle. If it had hit a Republican there's no telling what it would have started.

Fishing on Football Field

We didn't see that game yesterday, but from the way it poured down rain we will betcha that the referee had to use a submarine to get down to the boy under the pile who was carrying the ball. The city of Seattle ought to pass an ordinance prohibiting commercial fishing on the football field during the football season.

They will tell you out here in Seattle what a wonderful climate they have, and they have. When it starts raining you wonder when it is going to quit. When the women want to do the family wash they put the clothes to soak over night in fog and they hang the clothes out in the rain to dry. They have found that there is more moisture in the fog than there is in the rain, and they will tell you that the rain won't wet you; we tried it and found that that statement is a lot of bologna. To hear these Seattle folks talk about their wonderful climate you would think that the most of 'em came from Los Angeles. If we ever see the sun again we are going to give three cheers for Nebraska.

Salesmen Sprout Fins

Today we called on some of the exchange boys, and, like other exchange boys we have met, we found them to be a mighty swell bunch of fellows except that these boys are all web-footed and have started to sprout fins and there is no way of telling yet whether they will develop into silver salmon or Elkhorn river carp. They feed largely on contracts.

Mr. Wingham, manager for M-G-M, gave us a very pleasant conference and some valuable information regarding conditions on this western coast. His opinion is that this depression has started to give way to better conditions and that by spring the coast country will be well back to normal.

The Secret Comes Out

When we went into the Universal office and introduced ourself to Mr. L. A. Samuelson, the assistant manager, a guy who was seated at another desk, and whom we had never seen before, got up and came over to us and said: "Get up off that chair; I'm going to kick the whey out of you," and we replied, "Well, brother, there have been whole families tried that; how large is your family?" and he replied, "I have been looking for you for four years. You came into my theatre at Macon, Mo., four years ago and I happened to be out at the time and you didn't wait for me, and now, by gosh, I'm going to get even with you." Then we said to Samuelson, "Say, is this baby out on parole or have they put him in yet"? Well, anyhow, G. C. Craddock is now selling film for Universal, which no doubt accounts for why Universal service is so well represented in this Puget Sound country.

Samuelson tells us that he came from Oakland, Neb., which is another suburb of our home town. We asked him if he knew Micky Larson, who operates the theatre there, and he said he surely did. He said, "Micky and I have gone up to Nels Benson's apartment many times and helped Nels move his piano and cook stove and Nels always served it in a long-handle brass kettle." Yeah, we have helped Nels move that piano and cook stove ourself; in fact, we wouldn't mind lifting on that piano right now.

How the Tide Works

About 10 minutes ago there was a hole in the clouds about the size of a silver dollar and we caught a glimpse of the sun, but now it is pouring down rain again. It started raining as soon as we crossed the Cascades about 10 days ago and hasn't let up yet. If the sun would come out and shine for two hours these Seattle folks would start talking about the terrible drouth of the fall of 1931.

They tell us that the tide here in the Sound is influenced by the moon, but that's all applesauce. The moon don't have a durn thing to do with it. We've got it all figured out, and it's this way. The rain starts pouring down in Seattle on the east side of the Sound and the water piles up and rushes to the west side, then it cuts loose over on the west side and the water rushes back, and that's what causes the tide. It's just as plain as the nose on a Republican politician. This moon stuff is all balogna. The only influence the moon has on anything is when you are out in the park with a red-headed nurse. If this rain keeps up for a few more days we are going to load April Shower on a scow and get a tug to tow us around the Sound to call on the boys.

Here in the room where we are writing there is a plant they call "Wandering Jew" and its roots feed entirely on water. That name is a misnomer. Who ever heard of a Jew living on water; he wouldn't even try to walk on it. This being Tuesday, we are going to hang our clothes out in the rain and try to get 'em dried out for Sunday. Out here you are supposed to wear something on Sunday. We can see no reason for continuing this any further. If you can, please wire us pre-paid. Oregon will be next, which will be tough on Oregon.

J. C. JENKINS,
The HERALD Man

YOUR PUBLIC

by RITA C. McGOLDRICK

THANKSGIVING, more than any other holiday, is distinctively American. The Pilgrims, in a year that most normal persons would have labeled as a period of depression, found in their daily lives, in the coming of crops, the temporary protection from Indians, the golden beauty of the fall, enough things to be grateful for. It did not matter too much to them that the bleak winter ahead would hold unbearable hardships; that the primeval forest that surrounded them had to be invaded for fuel and food; that every small trip from beyond the boundaries of their enclosure might mean death. These things were discounted. The grain was already cut, and it had been a rich harvest. There was wild fowl in the woods and flocks of wild turkeys. And so they set a day aside for festivities, and marked it as a day upon their calendar for formal Thanksgiving.

There is Thanksgiving in the air, and while through this current period of national readjustment to another plane of living, American optimism has suffered a bad snubbing, its pride is reasserting itself and there is something courageous in the cheerful acceptance of its difficulties.

Since earliest summer the result of this national characteristic has been making itself felt. The words "depression" and "optimism" have swapped places. There are better times around the corner. There are seasonal holidays ahead that are good for the show business. There are any number of excellent pictures, finished and ready for your programs, that should eliminate most of the complaints about the quality of product. It looks as if the box office is going to have something to be thankful for.

Thanksgiving Programs

Smart theatre men anticipate public holidays by ordering appropriate programs for these occasions in advance. Thanksgiving offers a particular opportunity for every theatre manager to reach out to the representative citizens in his community. Guests of honor might include the club women interested in sponsoring Junior Shows and School and Screen Clubs, Better Films Committee, Daughters of American Colonists, members of the Society of New England Women, and leaders of club groups concerned with civic betterment. A feature Thanksgiving program is a suitable background for speeches by city officials, local educators, authors or historians. And there is no other time of the year that lends itself more gracefully to artistic lobby decoration. Autumn grains, shocks of dried corn, pumpkins, and bittersweet, the last of the tangled grape vines, and the late fall flowers, represent the season of the harvest and the Land of Plenty.

Thanksgiving week offers inexhaustible opportunities for special features for children. It would be a significant and important gesture to have a special children's matinee to which each child would be required to bring canned goods for local families in distress, and clean, good clothing to be distributed among local charitable organizations. In every school at this time of the year the children are dramatizing the holiday. School teachers doubtless would welcome an invitation to have these carefully prepared pageants, songs and tableaux presented in a larger way to the community. They might also be invited to submit the three best essays on Thanksgiving written by the school children, these to be awarded special prizes at the Junior Show. This type of activity is more far-reaching than a simple business proposition for the theatre man. It links him in a definite manner with the best interests of the patrons whom he serves.

Suitable short feature that may be ordered from exchanges in time for the holidays are:

1. "The Pilgrims" (Chronicles of America Series) RKO-Pathe, 3 reels.
2. "The Puritan" (Chronicles of America Series) RKO-Pathe, 3 reels.
3. "Turkey for Two," RKO-Pathe, 2 reels.
4. "Autumn" (Silly Symphony) Col., 1 reel.
5. "Cold Turkey" (Oswald Cartoon) Univ. 1 reel.
6. "Thanksgiving Day," Fitzpatrick Holiday Shorts. All Star 1 reel.

▼

School and Screen Profits

The definite practicability of the "School and Screen" plan for connecting the schools in a constructive way with the motion picture house has proved itself in a dozen places during the past week. Reports from widely separated localities bring interesting details of club and school groups that have accepted MOTION PICTURE HERALD's service and are developing it intensively among their young people.

One of the most interesting of these reports has come from Greencastle, Ind., where Mrs. Fred Lucas, of the active Indiana Endorsers of Photoplays organizations, experimented with "School and Screen" when Warner Brothers' "Alexander Hamilton" was scheduled for that city. The theatre manager to whom she brought her suggestion saw new possibilities for winning support for the picture. He agreed to follow through with her plan. The "School and Screen" questionnaires were mailed to every school in the county and prizes offered for the three best essays. The result was a little breathtaking. The schools marshaled the students to the Granada theatre where the picture was showing. One county teacher brought his seventh and eighth grades en masse. The essays poured in to the surprised sponsors of the project, who found it difficult to determine the three prizes winners out of the eighty best manuscripts. The Daily Banner carried the story in a double column spread on the first page and printed the three winning essays in full.

Mrs. Lucas, writing of the undertaking to this department, says: "Please accept our earnest thanks for the extra copies of 'School and Screen' sent to us special delivery from your office. The picture 'Alexander Hamilton' because of this activity was a great success. The theatre management was well pleased and the teachers are unanimous in declaring this to be a truly worthwhile work."

Are you, Mr. Exhibitor, making the best use you can of "School and Screen"?

The Junior Show

Hand in hand with "School and Screen," MOTION PICTURE HERALD's Junior Show plan is opening the door to new enthusiasm in many places. Within the past week letters have come to this department announcing the formation of new Junior Motion Picture clubs and asking for helpful details for their organization and plan of operation.

The New York State Federation of Women's Clubs, through its local branches in Port Chester, N. Y., and Canton, N. Y., are undertaking the Junior Show as a new work. The chairman, Mrs. Herbert L. Wallace, writes:

"Your Junior Show reprints have been sent to our various chairmen, who will work with their special exhibitors to put on Junior Matinees. We will send you the names of the principals of the various schools in these territories to whom we wish the 'School and Screen' service to go."

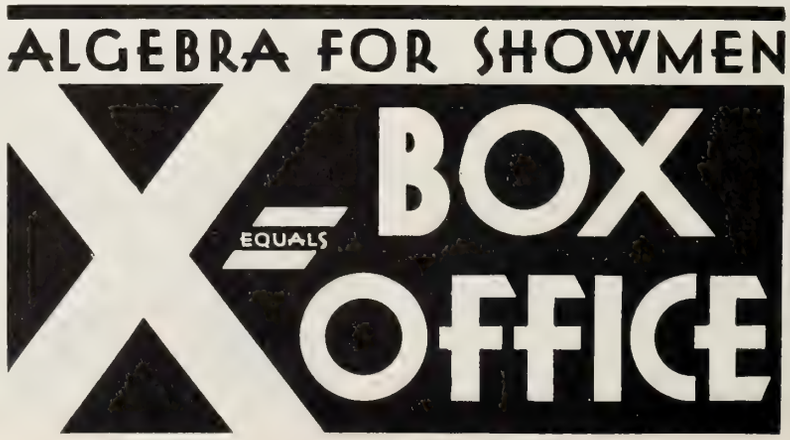
The Mothers' Union, Canadian Dominion Council:

"School and Screen" is invaluable. We have passed it on to the minister of education and all others holding important positions in our city schools."

The Study Club of Americus, Georgia:

"Our Study Club is sponsoring a series of pictures which we shall select from your 'School and Screen' service. We are arranging to distribute the questionnaires through all of our public schools, and the club will offer a prize for the best paper on each picture."

This Department Offers You



A selection of the month's best pictures. . . . A HERALD Service.
Report of Weekly Radio Broadcast on News and Notes of the Studios, and a Review of the Week's Best Pictures. . . .
Helpful Literature for Those Making Public Addresses. . . .
A Motion Picture Study Program.

SCHOOL AND SCREEN

a monthly service for schools and theatremen.

Letters of Introduction to Club Leaders in Your Locality.
Detailed Information on the Formation and Development of Junior Motion Picture Clubs.

A postal card will bring you any one, or all, of these pamphlets without cost.

MANAGERS' ROUND TABLE CLUB

CHARLES E. "CHICK" LEWIS
Chairman and Editor

An International Association of Showmen Meeting in
MOTION PICTURE HERALD
Every Week—for Mutual Benefit and Progress

CONDUCTED BY AN EXHIBITOR FOR EXHIBITORS

Rx—ONE DOSE OF CASTOR OIL!

IT is decidedly unfair to blame present unbusiness-like conditions in theatre operation and management on the popular alibi, depression. Long before this "hard-times" talk started the same evils, the same inefficient supervision and the same poor showmanship which is traceable to many so-called executives and home offices, were being practiced on as large, or even larger scale than today.

Blaming it on depression is merely a lame excuse to cover up what is very difficult to find a sensible excuse for; namely, budget slashing, reducing salaries, curtailing the mananger's activities and authority, and unfair firing of manpower.

While it is true to a certain extent that many managers find their local conditions far from pleasing, we can really rejoice and say that it's an ill wind that does not blow some good. This especially applies to those spots where the newspapers have become so damned hard-boiled that it's getting to be almost impossible to sell them an idea or a co-operative tie-up, even when they benefit by it too. Since so many theatres must depend on their local papers for support in putting over any kind of a campaign, they feel that their style is being cramped.

But not the live-wire showman who is abreast of the times and always bringing home the bacon. He'll swallow hard and turn his talents into another direction, making the newspaper just supplementary to his campaign. Not that it is always desirable to handle things along such lines, but if they won't work with you then it's up to you to find ways and means of continuing to keep your house clicking.

The best way out is Exploitation. Exploitation created to fit the particular picture you have to sell, and the kind of merchandising that will command as much, or possibly more attention than the newspaper way.

Poor newspaper cooperation compels us, by sheer necessity, to open up new lines of thought, so that we can constantly keep our attractions and theatres before the community. Possibly, as an adjunct to your form of exploitation, you may seize upon the rarely used ballyhoo idea. Don't assume that this form of show selling is old-fashioned. If we would all become a little more old-fashioned our theatres might be much better off financially. It's not a question of being modern or antique; it's merely a question of getting business and successfully doing so via the most practical means at our disposal. If it must be exploitation, ballyhoo, outdoor advertising, or a hundred and one other forms, then there's the handwriting on the wall. Take the best way out or pass out of the picture yourself because this industry has no use for clucks.

In past years it was this writer's privilege to visit many smaller towns and cities within a radius of four hundred miles or more of New York. One thing that impressed us was the many forms of show-selling being used by showmen, who in those days were not walking around with their hats on in preparation for an unexpected let-out.

Go through many of those towns and cities today and you'll wonder what the devil's the matter with the local manager. Aside from his regular newsaper advertising, his week-in-and-week-out stuff, he's doing nothing else. Talk to him and you get a most assorted variety of excuses for this condition. The dead-heads, bosses' relations and plain incompetents will tell you that circuit operation has definitely established the fact that to pull "stunts," along the lines of ballyhooing or novel exploitation, is not only unproductive of business but actually bad for the house.

Then talk to those who ought to be up and doing things and they'll start off to blame it on the depression. They must keep the expenses down to the lowest cost. Everything has been pruned and apparently their own sense of showmanship was no exception to the pruning process.

In such situations the business is decidedly off; rarely a line at the b. o. even when the outstanding pictures are being shown; front, lobby and general appearance of the theatre reflecting the "save-a-penny" idea, and a feeling around the theatre that all is not bright and prosperous. And to think that we are in the famous business of "make believe".

On the other hand, look over the spots where high-powered showmanship is still the keynote of theatre operation and show-selling and it's an entirely different story. Something going on all the time, newspaper contests, outside tie-ups, unique ballyhoos, interest-provoking exploitation, etc., etc. If the picture is anything above par you'll find the house doing a prosperous business. Brightness and comfort permeate the entire theatre from top to bottom, inside and out. Everybody around the house has a smile and a cheerful "how'dy" for the patron. Why not; business has been pretty good and it was not necessary to cut salaries. They have good reasons to smile.

It's long past the time for foolish economies, let's get back to the type of showmanship that packed our theatres in years gone by; let's make our theatre the bright spot of the town, the most comfortable retreat in the entire community, the place where the people like to frequent. Dig up some of that pep you used to be famous for, and if nothing else will get this "depression" bunk out of your system, try an extra large dose of castor oil.

"CHICK"

LOBBY LAFFS!

By DICK KIRSCHBAUM

THE PATRON IS ALWAYS—WRONG!

Bill Adams Did Not Forget Theatre When At Detroit Meeting

Even when not engaged in active theatre duties a good showman carries on, and that's just what Bill Adams did when bosses Eddie Anson and Harold Stoneman allowed him time off to attend the American Legion Convention recently held in Detroit. Incidentally, Bill manages the Colonial Theatre in Brockton, Mass., one of the Interstate group, and also finds time to act as publicity manager of the local Legion post's drum corps.

While in Detroit, he not only covered the convention for the Brockton newspaper by shooting in special dispatches but made arrangements to have about two hundred and fifty feet of film taken of the local gang on parade. A photo of the drum corps also crashed the front page of the local paper and the special film was run all of the following week.

That was a neat job you did, Bill, taking everything into consideration. Certainly, your newspaper appreciated the service you gave it and there can be no doubt but that local interest in the special film ran high. But then this Round Tabler is always doing something which reflects his worth as a good showman. Not long ago a lady was seized with an attack of illness while attending a performance at the Colonial and Bill had her taken home in his own car. He followed this favor up by forwarding two passes for another showing of the same picture and as a result of these courtesies received a letter of appreciation which beyond question will reap a future reward.

We also note that the editorial page of his paper continues to carry in a special column noteworthy mention of a current attraction from time to time. This column is conducted by a member of the newspaper's staff and the value of such notices are hard to estimate in dollars and cents. From time to time we have mentioned names of Club members who are successfully conducting movie columns for their local newspapers. These consist of notes of interest to the average fan, and the occasion often is presented when a smart manager can work in some valuable publicity on a current attraction, if not made too pointed.

A Few Gags Pulled By Moss Before He Left For Hollywood

As we write of Richard Moss he is no longer manager of the Orange Theatre in Orange, Calif., but has won a promotion to the important post of manager of the United Artists Theatre in Los Angeles. While we have not been able to get a line on his activities with the new job, at least we can acquaint you with a few gags he engineered prior to leaving his old stand.

What appears to be one of his outstanding ads followed a week's business last season when the Orange played to 9,023 people, more than the population of the city. So Moss proceeded to tell the folk about this with a large ad headed, "Let's Make History." Facts and some institutional copy were then recorded and he asked the readers to help him break this record. Then he gave a line up of the week's program.

When playing "The Black Camel" he enlisted help from the youngsters to plug this picture. Circulars were printed and ruled for 20 signatures and a note at the bottom stated that the boy or girl returning the full quota of names would be allowed to see one full performance free.

Other efforts included the issue of a small card on "Broadminded" to the effect that the theatre would be glad to see that buttons were sewed on after they were popped off laughing at the show; and special post cards mailed to members of the Mickey Mouse Club on the occasion of a Big Frolic. Pie-eating contests, a spelling bee, stage entertainment, valuable prizes and an especially arranged program were some of the treats in store for the kiddies.

That the newspaper boys and many citizens of his old town were sorry to see Moss leave there can be no doubt, if we are to pass judgment on some warm-hearted write-ups we have at hand. But this was to be expected for we've had occasion to follow this Round Tabler's activities for a long time. We'll tell you a lot more about him just as soon as he gets set in his new location.

His successor at the Orange is G. B. Pantages, reputed an up-and-doing showman, and we will also hope to hear what he is doing to fill Dick's old job.

Cliff Morrow Used Home-Made Robot To Sell His Pictures

Step right up, gentlemen, and meet one of the seven wonders of the world—at least one of the seven in Decatur, Ill. It's a mechanical man, called "Yodelling Si," and Cliff Morrow, owner-manager of Morrow's Theatre, has been using him with great success as a ballyhoo for his theatre. "Si" was constructed by a local man from parts of an old radio set and other electrical accessories.

By an ingenious remote control system this robot is made to sing hill-billy songs to the accompaniment of a guitar, his head moving naturally from side to side as his lips move in perfect time with every word. Even the eyes are made to roll at the touch of a control button. By use of a "mike" his operator makes him carry on a conversation with the assembled listeners. A hidden pick-up "mike" beneath his shirt carries replies back to the operator through a set of headphones, making possible some startling comedy situations.

During his 13 years as an exhibitor, Morrow states that the above bally attracted more attention and caused more comment than any he ever used, and he's used a lot of them. Now, this idea is a mighty good one, but just how others are going to cash in on it, we don't know. Not knowing the plans of "Si's" owner, the only suggestion we can make is that it might be made a regional undertaking by making arrangements to route the contrivance over a certain territory. Maybe others in Cliff's section of the country can get together with him if they are interested. This is his first contribution to Club pages and we'll be looking for some more.

Notice to Members:
Please be sure to notify the Chairman of any change of address.
—THANK YOU.

Brake Had Entire Newspaper Working To Sell A Picture

Practically every important department of a local newspaper cooperated with Paul Brake, manager of the Strand Theatre in Battle Creek, Mich., when he played "The Spider." Three tie-ups with the paper were made, one with the regular advertising department, another with the classified page and still another with the circulation department.

Note the reproduction of the full-page ad that was promoted by Brake and the paper's advertising manager. It hits the eye, doesn't it? And fits in well with the theme of the picture with its different kind of layout? You may see for yourselves that a series of mats were cast for use with each ad, each mat getting over a forceful message. The missing letter gag was used as the bait for guest tickets. Over 500 answers were made up and used for a lobby display and the contest netted the theatre two stories in the paper.

The automobile license number gag was used to promote the tie-up on the classified page, four numbers appearing daily and scattered among the many ads. This is being used as a regular feature at the present time and nets the theatre considerable free space. The numbers are changed each day and copy changed once a week.

The deal with the circulation department gives the theatre a two or three-column scene mat free of charge. In return, the theatre gives a Monday night pass to each carrier boy who brings in two new subscribers to the paper. The boys also distributed a matter of 5,000 special "Spider" heralds and talked up the picture when they made collections for the papers.

A new serial was being started at the time the above campaign was made and the schools were plugged by means of the "crew" system. Small crews were formed at each school, each with a crew manager, and serial handbills passed out to all school children. Some of the bills were good for a guest ticket so most of the children saved them until the following Friday. The boys in charge of distribution were rewarded with a pass.

The other photo shows a beaver-board front made for "Spider" which attracted its share of attention. Note the art work of a spider and the web effect around entrance to lobby. When screening this picture it was also found that green gelatin paper, in front of lens, greatly contributed to the effectiveness of the weird and dramatic scenes. The house was darkened when using the green gelatin.

Newspaper clippings testify to the support given Brake by his newspaper friends and we can well believe that everyone concerned was satisfied with the way the whole campaign turned out. It certainly amounted to the enlistment of thorough co-operation and bears out just what can be accomplished when a paper stands shoulder to shoulder with a theatre manager.

——ALWAYS WEAR YOUR CLUB PIN!——

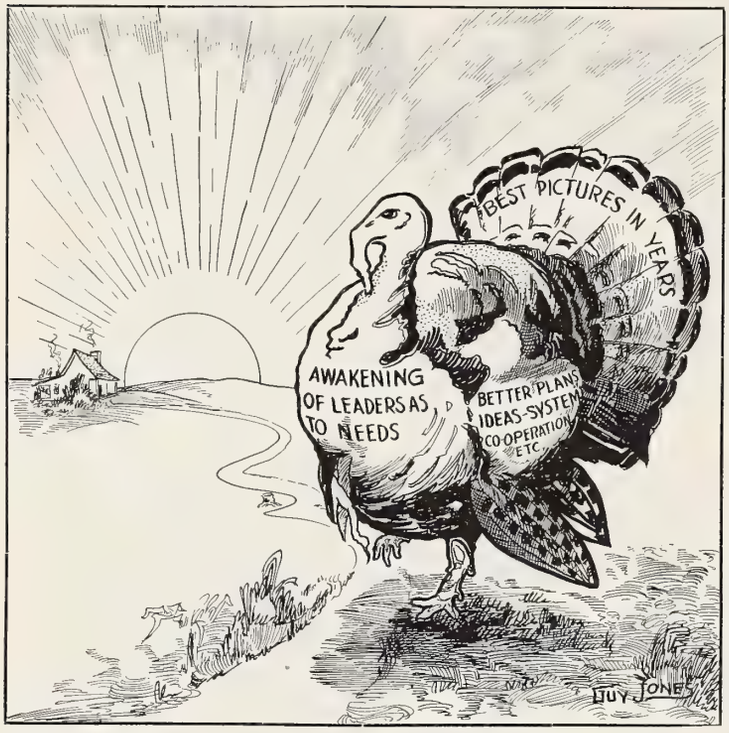
"The Showman's Calendar"

DECEMBER

2nd	Monroe Doctrine—1823
3rd	Illinois Admitted to Union—1818
6th	Elissa Landi's Birthday
8th	Eli Whitney's Birthday—1865
10th	Peace with Spain signed at Paris—1898
10th	Victor McLaglen's Birthday
11th	Alfred B. Nobel's Birthday—1833 (Founder of Nobel Prize)
12th	First Marconi Wireless across Atlantic—1901
13th	Henrich Heine (German Poet) Born 1797
13th	Norman Foster's Birthday
16th	Boston Tea Party—1773
16th	John Boles' Birthday
21st	Shortest Day of Year
21st	Pilgrims Landed at Plymouth Rock 1620
24th	Ruth Chatterton's Birthday
25th	Christmas
25th	Washington Crossed the Delaware —1776
27th	Marlene Dietrich's Birthday
28th	Woodrow Wilson's Birthday—(1856)
28th	Lew Ayres' Birthday
29th	Iowa Admitted to Union 1848
31st	New Year's Eve

Brown Catering To Local Interest In Seagoing Community

Down in that sea-going port of Sheepshead Bay, Brooklyn, N. Y., Maurice Brown is still carrying-on with the Sheldon Theatre and using a variety of gags calculated to whet the amusement appetites of those salty folk dwelling along this well known water front.



When playing "Transatlantic" he issued a "passenger ticket" with copy reading: "Smallest Cost for the Grandest Pleasure Tour on the Fastest, Longest and Most Thrilling Ride on the Screen with Transatlantic. Get on Board at the Sheldon Theatre." The stub read: "Notice! Passengers Not Familiar with the Location of the Dock—(Address of theatre followed)."

Brown is also using the familiar "Yo-Yo's" to stimulate kiddie attendance. He staged a contest among the youngsters and issued coupons in advance that entitled the holders of five of them to a free Yo-Yo.

We were mighty glad to hear from Maurice again and hope that he will continue to keep headquarters informed on what's doing in show-business in his neighborhood. There's plenty of competition down his way and he has to step on it all the time to get the desired results.

Keeping Up With The Times!

By GUY JONES

SOMETHING TO BE THANKFUL FOR!

Thomas Constructed Atmospheric Display For Under-Sea Film

A novel lobby display was used to exploit "Twenty Fathoms Deep" by E. W. Thomas, manager of the Arcadia Theatre, Savannah, Ga. He secured a piece of unbleached cotton cloth, such as bought wholesale by the bolt, and stretched it on a 24-sheet frame. This was sized with whiting and cut-outs from a twenty-four sheet were pasted on the cloth. The theatre poster artist then added an undersea background. The accompanying photo will show how it was hung in the lobby.

For additional atmosphere, a real diving suit was obtained from a local firm and inside this was stuffed an old Santa Claus left over from last Xmas. This, and all other accessories to the diving suit, was arranged underneath the twenty-four. A ballyhoo truck was used for outside work and it also carried out the same undersea atmosphere. Various pictures, depicting the general scheme, were painted on cloth stretched on frames and attached to the sides of the truck.

We have several snap-shots of the above display on hand but these are too weak for reproduction; in fact, it is our hope that readers will be able to discern details in the one that appears above. However, it made a colorful stunt and attracted attention from many people, and Thomas has passed the idea along for other Round Tablers.

Old Straw Hat Gag Successfully Used By John L. Mitchell

Here's a stunt used a short time ago by John L. Mitchell, manager of the Genessee Theatre, Waukegan, Ill., which, while unseasonable right at this particular time, can be filed away for promotion either next Spring or Fall.

It has to do with straw hats in this instance but there's no apparent reason why the same idea couldn't be applied to the old felt hat as well. Take a look at the reproduced ad and you will note that he, the newspaper and several stores conspired to rid Waukegan citizens of their old straw hats, about the time when one is supposed to get rid of a straw hat. One old hat and one paid admission entitled anyone to two paid admissions to the theatre on the occasion of "Transatlantic." Arrangement with the paper provided that the theatre secure gratis space on any future picture to equal the number of free admissions. The stunt went over big and received a front page plug in the paper. It will be repeated again next year.

BELIEVE IT OR NOT

YOUR OLD STRAW HAT

Is Good For a Free Admission To The Genesee

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 18th FROM 1 To 6 P. M. The Genesee Theatre Will Admit Any Adult or Child To Its Famous Show S. S. Transatlantic. All You Do is Bring a Man's STRAW HAT and Pay For One Admission and Get Two Paid Admissions.

GLOBE STORE FOR MEN

Snap Into A Mallory "Snap" Brim

$5 and $6

GENESSEE

FRIDAY AND SATURDAY

S. S. Transatlantic

STYLECRAFT

Featherweight Hats for 'In Between-Seasons'

$3.50 and $5

GOLDSTEIN

211 WASHINGTON STREET

DURKIN & DURKIN

The Lowest Price in 10 Years

$7—$7.50—$10

WIRES

CLIFF EVANS the Hatter

The picture "This Modern Age" also proved a natural for a cooperative page among local merchants in his town. A portion of Joan Crawford's picture was included in each ad and fifty guest tickets were offered to those who sent in the neatest and most novel replies. The theatre also received gratis space on this stunt and several good news stories.

Mickey Mouse shows are also being successfully plugged at the Genessee and a tear sheet shows a three-column photo of the first party of the new season, when over 1,500 kids gathered outside the theatre to await opening of the show. The club is sponsored by another local paper and is proving a big hit with the youngsters.

That hat gag of Mitchell's is certainly interesting and particularly adaptable for straw hats for reason that these do not hold up as well as others; hence, few of them are in condition to be carried over from one season to another. You may judge for yourselves as to whether hat merchants will be receptive to a merchandising move of this kind. And it was a smart move to provide for future free space. Accept the Club's appreciation, John, for passing this one along and don't forget to send your fellow showmen some others.

AND NOW—RANGERS' CLUB FOR KIDS!

One of the most carefully thought-out plans for kiddie business builders is the recently conceived Buck Jones Rangers' Club being formed throughout the country as a means of attracting the younger as well as the older children and keeping them interested.

One fault advanced by the critics of the present type of kid clubs in theatres is the rapid loss of interest on the part of the member-kiddies after a short time. The trouble seems to be in the inability of the club to retain the enthusiasm of its large membership with the inevitable result that they drift away and the club gradually falls to pieces.

In this Rangers' Club idea, they have worked out an exceptionally fine layout which takes in everything the manager ought to know about, forming one of the units and then maintaining interest among the members by reason of the many ideas injected into it.

Showmen who are seeking some way to keep their present kiddie clubs intact might find it to their advantage to drop a line to Hal Hodes at Columbia's home office. He told us a bit about the idea and it impressed us.

THAT NEW YEAR'S EVE SHOW!

Regardless of all this talk about tough times, the smart showman who gets behind a peppy New Year's Eve show and ballyhoos it properly will get himself a sell-out and a healthy return at the b.o.

Make this year's show a gala event in your community. Sell it as the Big Whoopee Party of the holiday season. Surround it with enough novelty and wise cracks so as to create the necessary interest on the part of your patrons.

But, by all means, stage a midnight show, adding some vaudeville if practical, and give the natives something to celebrate about.

'Twould Be Tragedy For You To Miss A Co-Op Hammell Used

We don't remember running across a co-op ad on "American Tragedy" before this instance and will have to credit its source to Alvin M. Hammell, manager of the Capitol Theatre in Frankfort, Ky. The accompanying reproduction is self-explanatory so it will not be necessary to go into any detail, except to state that it is further evidence of the adaptability of titles to merchandising tie-ups between theatres and local stores. It will be obvious to any reader that the theatre and title of picture certainly received a great big break in this full page ad, and all at no cost to the theatre. However, he did spend $25 for the sending of 500 bona-fide telegrams with a Hollywood date line, advising a selected list of citizens not to miss the picture. This was put over with Postal and the wire was signed, Paramount Pictures Corp.

In connection with showings of "Caught Plastered," he made a deal with a local drug store which resulted in the issue of a mighty neat herald, to our way of thinking. It can't very well be reproduced but we can let you know what copy was used. The top of the herald carried two sketched heads of the two comedians in the picture and copy read, "Can you imagine Wheeler and Woolsey as the proprietors of Averill's Drug Store? Well, rest assured that we are not turning it over to their tender care.—However, we want you to see how these two-fisted, hard-riding, knock 'em dead drugstore cowboys run a modern drug store.—This is real rich comedy.—The screens mirthful maniacs will fill your prescription with the laugh tonic of a life-time.—And do they sell lemon sodas? And—oh, yes! We almost forgot—Beginning Monday, the week before the big show, we are going to sell the best lemon-ice cream soda with whipped cream for 10 cents.—Remember, the best ever—one dime.—And see 'Caught Plastered.'—Signed, Tom, Mace and Frank."

The above was done in hand-printed mimeograph style and while we have not paragraphed the copy nor attempted to emphasize certain parts with caps or italics, this was done and we'll leave it to your own imagination. Incidentally, at the termination of "Caught Plastered," a card was handed to each patron as they left the theatre. Copy read, "If you didn't get 137½ laughs out of this picture—you've been cheated. But just wait until you see Winnie Lightner—in 'Side Show'—with Charles Butterworth—Capitol—Wed. and Thurs."

Hammell not only has charge of the Capitol Theatre in his town but manages the Grand as well. At the same time, in return for the tips that others have given him through these pages, he finds time to send along some for his fellow showmen to use. That's the real Club spirit, Al, and this organization appreciates your efforts in its behalf. Keep up the good work.

Why THE LEADERS LIKE THE Cutawl

LEADING theatre exploitation men, who consistently put across their programs to "stand out" business, have found in the Cutawl just what they need! It permits them to give full expression to their clever ideas. With it they produce spectacular, eye-catching, business-getting cut-out displays—silhouettes, backgrounds, intricate decorations—stunts that would be impossible or too costly without the Cutawl. With this inexpensive, simple-to-operate, wonder-working machine, you, too, can establish a record for turning out profitable program publicity at surprisingly low cost.

TEN-DAY TRIAL

SMALL MONTHLY PAYMENTS

Try a Cutawl for TEN DAYS on your work and see how well YOU'LL LIKE IT! No obligation—no risk. Easy payments if you want to keep it. Send the Coupon—NOW!

Want a Copy?

of this Book of Clever Ideas. Suggestions you will find useful in your work. Contains 96 original cut-out designs and 70 full-page actual photographs of prize winning displays. Size 8¾ x 10¾. Introductory price, $2.50 a copy, postpaid. Order yours at once.

INTERNATIONAL REGISTER CO.
21 S. THROOP ST., CHICAGO, ILL.

11-21-31

INTERNATIONAL REGISTER CO.,
21 S. Throop Street, Chicago, Ill.

Gentlemen: Please send further description of the Cutawl. Also let me know how we may secure one on TEN-DAY TRIAL.

My Name .....
Theatre .....
Address .....
City .....
State .....

☐ We also want full details of your Easy Payment Plan.

Send me postpaid at once the way checked below, a copy of the book, "Cutawl Designs" described in your advertisement.

☐ Enclosed herewith $2.50 (money order or check)

☐ Send C. O. D. for $2.50

Christmas Suggestions!

Many Worth-While Chances for the Live-Wire Showman to Spread Yuletide Cheer!

The various suggestions incorporated on these two pages are intended primarily to guide the showman who is willing and anxious to make the Christmas Holiday season an outstanding event for his theatre and community. Read them all over carefully, some will just fit your particular locality, others can be slightly altered or revamped to suit individual requirements; at any rate, we feel certain that some of the ideas set forth here are worthy of your serious consideration. Whatever you do this Christmas should be published on the Club pages for the benefit of your many brother members and showmen; send us all the details, together with photos and tear sheets.

ENTERTAINING ORPHANS

A stunt that builds plenty of good-will for the theatre, gets oodles of newspaper space, and gives the theatre many handy contacts for later use, is the charity free show given on some morning or afternoon the week before Xmas. This is an off week and generally there are plenty of empty seats during the matinees.

FIRST contact your managing editor of the best newspaper in your town, explain that you would like to entertain all the orphans, members of needy institutions and kids that can't afford to pay, some afternoon (or if you prefer a special morning show). The newspaper should sponsor the show as then you'll be sure of plenty of publicity.

NEXT arrange with bus companies or an automobile agency to furnish the transportation, promising them a publicity break out of it.

THEN contact grocery stores, candy manufacturers and an ice cream manufacturer to donate their goods. The candy man probably will have lots of Xmas candy left and be glad to get rid of it. Again your newspaper contact will come in handy as you can promise all these dealers newspaper publicity for their generosity.

If you find that there is no suitable show booked during the week that will serve for this purpose better book a special show for a morning, rather than take a chance and be criticized.

It should be kept in mind that although these Orphan Shows are meant to be solely for the entertainment and pleasure of the kiddies from the institutions, it can also be stamped indelibly on the minds of your public that the theatre is performing a noteworthy bit of community good-will. To reap the full benefit of your efforts, the local pape rought to carry a special front page article by a capable local writer describing, in full, how the kids were handled, what they saw, how they enjoyed the show, and how they reacted to it.

A Santa Claus alongside that tree always goes great with the youngsters; try it yourself and maybe you can amplify the idea with some inexpensive novelty or toy on specified matinees. Well worth your consideration.

CHRISTMAS CHILD MOVEMENT

The Palace Theatre, Dallas in 1926 conducted a "Christmas Child" movement that resulted in untold institutional value to the theatre.

The successful staging of this stunt requires unusual local, newspaper and theatre cooperation. Managers are warned not to undertake this campaign unless full-hearted cooperation can be obtained.

THE PLAN

Through the newspaper, with the theatre sponsoring the plan, the people of your city are urged to adopt children of widows, orphans and the needy for the winter. Permanent adoption should not be mentioned, although this resulted in some cases as there might be some criticism of "exploiting" children.

WHAT TO DO

Visit prominent local women such as the heads of your Women's Clubs, Welfare Organizations, Charities, etc., explain your plan and then pick out the children you wish to find homes for.

Publish their pictures in the newspaper, run them on the screen if you can afford to pay for local movies. The type of copy to use in the newspaper will be found on the following pages.

Limit the inquiries of people desiring to aid the children to letters only.

In Dallas the first child was placed in a home in less than 24 hours after the publicity broke.

The newspaper gave the idea generous publicity, and also split the cost of photos, moving picture film, etc., with the theatre.

TRAILER FOR "CHRISTMAS-CHILD" MOVEMENT

The "Christmas-Child"

(Flash)
There are children to whom this Christmas may mean much—or little.
There are homes in which this Christmas will mean much—or little.
To make this Christmas the greatest of all for some homes and to make some dependent or orphan child very, very happy is the object of the "Christmas-Child" movement.
(Flash)
The Palace-Times-Herald co-operation have fostered this movement to seek out certain children of this city who need a home, love and care through this coming winter.
Each "Christmas-Child" will bring love and happiness to the hearts and home that opens up to it.
(Flash)
If yours is a home that will lack the happy laugh of a child, the patter of little feet this Christmas and through the months of this winter you may be able to make this the happiest Christmas that has ever come and gone in your life—and, may be the one to make this "Christmas-Child" happy.
(Flash)
This is Geraldine—
(Run about ten feet of your picture of child).
(Change daily—picture and story).
"I want a doll and scooter," Geraldine is writing to Santa Claus; but the little, six-year-old, red-haired, blue-eyed girl has no home for Santa to come to unless some Dallas family will take her and give her a home for this winter.
(Run about eight or ten feet of child's picture.)
(Flash)
Each day the Times Herald and the Palace Theatre will tell the story and show the picture of a "Christmas-Child."
Those who may be interested in making this a wonderful Christmas for themselves and for some child may address by letter only.

TOY MATINEES

Another good-will builder is the toy matinee. 2 weeks before Xmas on a Saturday Tie-up with your local newspaper for free publicity. Admission price to be a toy, new or old with the understanding that the toys will be distributed to the poor on Xmas Eve. The toys when collected, are sorted and any that need repairing can be fixed by Boy Scouts, Fireman, etc. It is best to let the Red Cross, Salvation Army or some such organization do the distributing.

Sometimes these toys are distributed at the theatre during the special show given to Orphans, etc. If you plan to work both the Toy Matinee and Orphan Show, get someone to dress as Santa Claus and distribute the toys from the stage.

Another variation of the Toy Matinee is to use bread, potatoes or other food for admission and distribute baskets of food to the needy.

The Club pages have carried, not only during the Christmas season, but all year 'round, stories and photos of some marvelously successful food and vegetable shows. Full details on how they were handled will be found in the stories and can be easily followed by those who feel inclined to duplicate such special shows.

HOLIDAY DRESS

In addition to the brief note regarding the Holiday dressing of your theatre, inside and out, we want to further emphasize this slant because it is a not expensive, yet effective medium to spread the feeling of good cheer during the holiday season. But we suggest that you break no speed records to decorate your house. Over-emphasis may react badly in calling your patron's attention to the Christmas season long before they should become so conscious of it. Thereby, possibly, keeping them thinking more about shopping and presents than theatres and movies.

We believe that the dressing of a theatre should be left until one week before Christmas.

In adding a holiday dress to your newspaper ads, it is best used only the day immediately preceding Christmas and for the week following. Various forms can be used by going through the mat service your newspaper uses.

To Brighten Up The B. O.!

Tender the Season's Greetings via a Series of Seasonable Stunts to Fit the Occasion!

The week before Christmas, generally a poor week in the theatre, can be made to return, in publicity and good-will much of the actual loss of business in dollars and cents. In some cases, local bookings or the addition of a stage attraction for the week, will boost business. Local revues, staged by dancing teachers, booking of "Revival Pictures" as added attractions each night, extra shorts or novelties can be sold and will undoubtedly increase your business somewhat. The following article contains a list of tried publicity ideas that is bound to react favorably to your theatre if properly carried out.

COOPERATIVE WINDOW CARDS

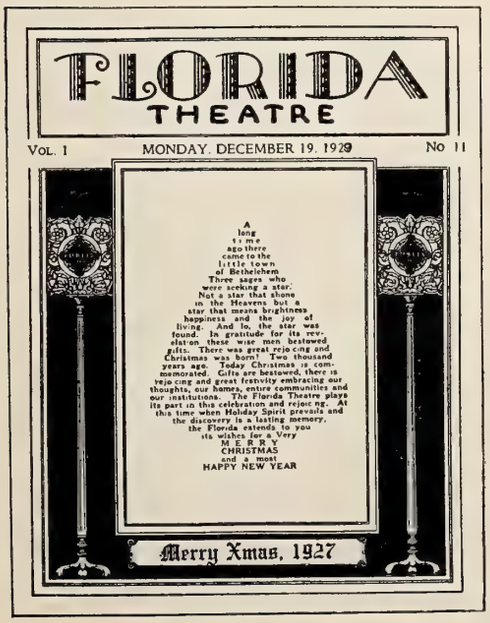
Contact your Chamber of Commerce or local Business League. Tell them you'll print up cards reading SHOP EARLY THEN VISIT THE SOANDSO THEATRE and give them to all the dealers if they'll put them in their windows. In these times they should go for it in a big way even though the theatre is mentioned. In the Bronx and Brooklyn this idea was used to good results last year, and New York stores are considered tougher than the average.

DECORATIONS

The live theatre manager decorates his theatre lobby, marquee, foyer and theatre stage.

POSTERS

Use red and green for backgrounds Xmas Week, with gold and silver lettering to pep the displays up. Theatres that can't afford real decorations can at least use still boards or posters in the form of a Christmas Tree.



Smilax, evergreen and pine bows can be placed around posters. Many box-offices can be covered with artificial snow, tinsel, etc. A wreath of holly hung in the box-office heightens the effect.

MARQUEE

Some marquees are built so that large Christmas trees can be mounted on them. At night, with colored lights, they attract attention and add a live effect to the theatre front.

Wreaths should be hung from marquee. Many pleasing effects can be achieved by the alert manager who wants to keep the appearance of his theatre according to the holiday spirit.

Briefly mentioned elsewhere in the article, this is one of the methods suggested for your program cover during the Christmas Week. You can have your printer set it like this or in old English type face with a short, but friendly greeting.

FREE CHECKING OF PACKAGES

Many Xmas shoppers would like to rest after shopping by seeing your show but find their packages in the way. Make arrangements with department stores so that anyone who wishes may check their parcels at the store and then pick them up at the theatre after the show. All you need is a special ticket, to be given to the customer at the store. Package is then delivered to theatre, and patron presents her check to the usher on duty at the check-room when ready to leave. In Memphis this tie-up was worked with great success.

A dressed tree in your lobby or foyer is bound to radiate the real spirit of the Yuletide. Take advantage of this economical method of giving your house the holiday warmth.

LOCAL POST-OFFICE AND FREE WRAPPING

In Tampa, Florida, last year arrangements were made to establish a sub-post office in the lobby of the theatre. Wrapping paper and string were promoted from a department store. Newspaper publicity was given and many people were brought to the theatre, some going in after they had mailed their gifts.

MAIL EARLY

If you play stage shows take a picture of some of the artists mailing their Xmas packages early. Any newspaper will run this. If you play straight pictures use your ushers, projectionists or other employees.

DEPARTMENT STORE TIE-UP

There is generally one department store in every town that features a real Santa Claus. The store builds up this feature by having Santa Claus parade when he arrives in town. In Harrisburgh the theatre cashed in on this publicity by giving a free show to all the kiddies they could accommodate. Se reproduction of the ad on the next page.

THEATRE STAGE

It is a simple matter to arrange an atmospheric setting around the screen that will not detract from the picture. The most common used is the placing of Xmas trees on each side of the stage. Trim the trees with tinsel, glass ornaments and plenty of lights. During intermission and trailers light them up.

NEW LICENSE PLATES

Another method to cash in with timely news is to photograph your stage star or, in the case of a straight picture house, some employee getting the new year's license plates.

NEWSPAPER ADS

On Christmas Day decorate your ad in holiday style. A heading such as "Complete your Christmas Day enjoyment and see, etc." gets over the thought.

TRAILERS

Add the holiday atmosphere to your trailer. Announce your shows with a title like, "WHO SAYS THERE IS NO SANTA CLAUS?" Just look at the great feature picture coming Christmas Week, etc.

HOUSE PROGRAM

An old gag, but one that is always effective, is the setting up of copy on the front page of your house organ in the form of a Christmas Tree. See illustration for the effect you get.

MAILING LIST

If you have a mailing list why not send each party a Christmas Card. The thought will be appreciated by your patrons.

CHRISTMAS CARDS

Besides mailing cards during the holiday season, it has also been found a good angle to have the ushers hand them out during the week of Christmas incorporating some worthwhile institutional slants about your house. This has been overlooked by many showmen but represents one of the real good chances to broadcast some pointers about the theatre that you have often wanted to stress but could find no good way to do so.

Christmas cards are inexpensive, use them to good advantage.

Alongside of the tree, or in a separate spot, can be placed the toys and other presents for that orphan's show or needy relief which most theatres generally promote for the Christmas season. If minor repairs are necessary, have them made right in the lobby where they can be seen.

THEATRE POSTER ART!

Drawn by Benton L. James

We liked the way that Artist James handled this fine face of Joan Crawford, particularly the soft lines rather than the usual hard, jazz-looking heads that most artists seem to go in for on this star.

Made up in various sizes, there is no reason why it can't be used over and over again with the changing of the title lettering. Ditto for an enlargement for cut-out purposes. We assume that most live-theatres are now equipped with a Cut-awl or whatever those things are called that do the cutting around for cut-outs.

To get the best idea of what a finished poster of this kind will look like, stand about five feet from this reproduction and look it over. You will then get the real effect of this high-light poster art. We have tried to make these reproductions clear enough so that you can project it on to poster board, or whatever material you use, and trace it. Selecting the colors will be a simple matter for any good artist. Incidentally, when selecting the spot where you want to use a head of this kind, you can change the proportions of the poster size to suit your individual requirements. The letters, for example, can be spotted to the side of the head if you happen to have a wide board to fill. This type of work is elastic and can be made to suit any condition or kind of frame.

Benton James has certainly proven his ability to turn out exceptionally fine posters for the Missouri Theatre, and those who have found his suggestions and posters helpful for their own use should keep in mind that he has taken on himself a pretty big job when it comes to making up one of these every week in his spare time. That's why we want other poster artists to contribute to the series.

"KASH-IN"
with
"KASHIN'S BOX OFFICE STIMULANTS"
FOR SAMPLES AND FOR FURTHER INFORMATION, WRITE TO 320 FIFTH AVENUE M. A. KASHIN NEW YORK, N. Y.

Canned Goods Mat A Seasonable Stunt Pulled By Guthrie

Since Jay H. Guthrie has become manager of both State and Ohio Theatres in Uhrichsville, Ohio, he has had his hands full promoting a variety of stunts to increase box-office receipts at these houses, among which was the handling of a "canned-goods matinee" and a campaign on "Dirigible."

Note the photo of the bally he used to publicize the picture. It was a cardboard model of a dirigible mounted on a truck and this was routed through all principal streets. Another small dirigible was attached underneath the marquee, with one-sheets over the top. Both displays attracted a lot of attention, especially so in view of the new Navy dirigible "Akron" making flights over this territory at this particular time.

We also have a small snap-shot taken of a display of canned goods stacked in the theatre lobby as the result of holding a matinee when these articles were used to gain admission. There's no use trying to reproduce this as it will not show the 200 or more cans and several bushels of potatoes that were brought in. This is the second matinee of this kind put over by Guthrie and was more liberally patronized than the first.

His matinees for the relief of the poor are particularly applicable at this season and no doubt many other managers will be remainded of their part in putting over such campaigns by this suggestion from Guthrie. As soon as this Round Tabler can find the time, we'll be looking for information about what else he is doing to sell shows for his two houses.

Classified Ad Tie Effective B. O. Aid For John C. Rundell

The gag of scattering names of local citizens through a number of ads in some issue of the town newspaper and directing attention to these through the donation of guest tickets to those whose names appear, has been an effective means of building up interest in current attractions for John C. Rundell, manager of the Kaufman Theatre, Montpelier, Ohio.

He thoroughly believes in the practice of keeping on the best possible terms with his editor-friend and the above is one way he goes about this. Any way you look at this stunt, it becomes an affair of mutual benefit. The theatre gets a worth-while reader on the stunt; the merchants benefit through the extra attention directed to his ad, and the paper reaps its reward through cementing its relationship with a source of advertising. And all at a cost of a few passes, noticeably given to women in most of the ads.

Without a doubt Rundell has solved one of the simpler rules of theatre merchandising when it is admitted that the good will of a newspaper is one of the best assets a showman can possess. This practice is making money for him and it cannot fail to do likewise for others.

ROUND TABLE BIOGRAPHIES

Reared among a family of showmen it was quite natural for Jack Reis to follow in the footsteps of his illustrious Uncle Charles, who several years ago held important managerial posts along New York City's main stem and headed a chain of theatres in upper New York State.

Jack Reis

Jack was born in New York City on November 16, 1906, and educated in local schools. He entered show business at the age of 16 years, starting as usher and following general theatre routine work until promoted to his present post as assistant manager of the Fox-Kingsbridge Theatre, New York, under the supervision of that experienced showman, W. F. Brock. Incidentally, Reiss also acts as treasurer of this house.

During the time spent in show-business, he has worked for the circuits of Grobe and Knobel, Lee Ochs and the Fox Theatre Corporation. He is twenty-five years old at this writing and is so fascinated by the game he's in that there is apparently no intention of ever leaving it for some other field.

A Critic's Preview Was Advance Stunt Used By Al Lashway

As a means of stirring up advance interest in "American Tragedy," Al Lashway, manager of the Paramount Theatre in Lynn, Mass., tied-up with the local evening newspaper for a critics' contest. Preview tickets were especially prepared for this occasion and distributed among 150 readers of the paper. A prize of $25 in gold was offered for the most comprehensive review of the picture.

In order to enter the contest it was necessary to write a letter to the contest editor of the paper, advancing a reason why the writer thought he or she eligible as a reviewer. As the reviewers were accepted their names were published in different issues of the paper. Nearly 200 people attended the special screening of the picture and a committee composed of Lashway and the managing editor of the paper picked the winner. Needless to state, the paper gave splendid support to the stunt right up to the day of screening. Picture and name of the winner was announced by a large two-column cut of Lashway presenting the prize to the lady who won it. A story carried the full review.

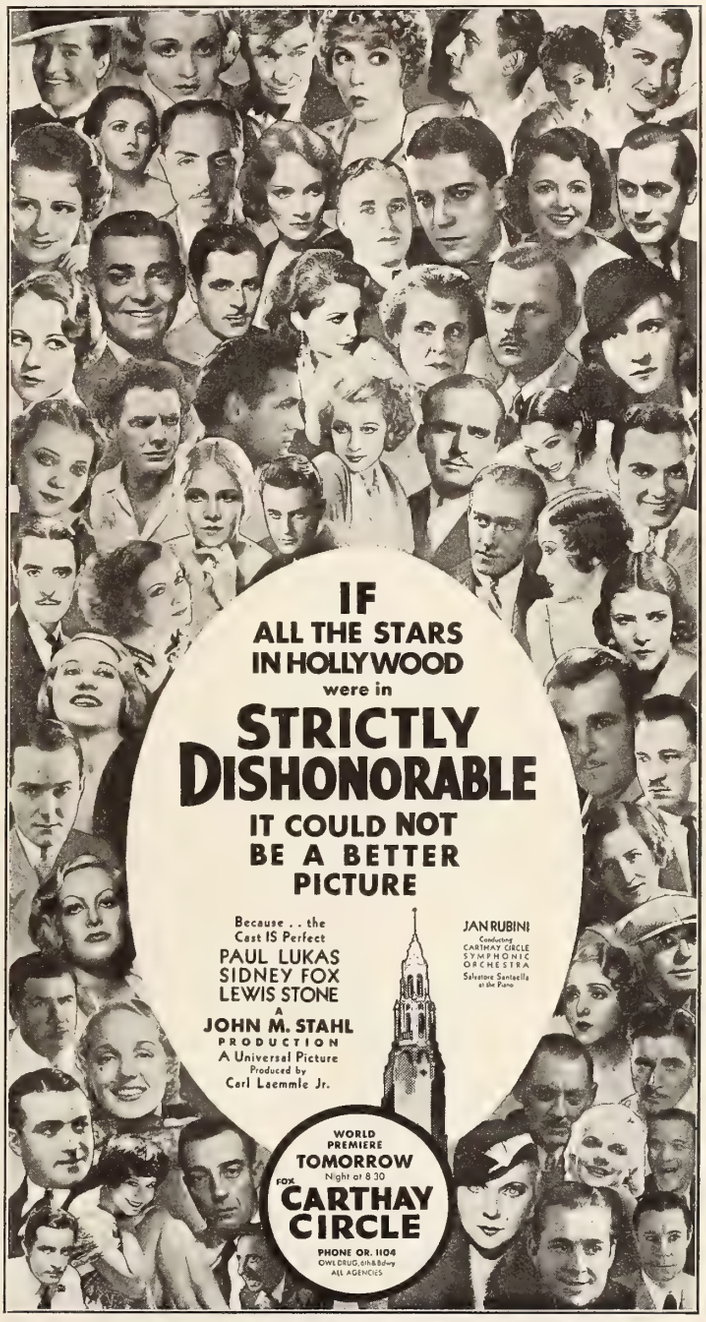
The above has proven a popular means of exploiting this picture, according to observations of this department, in that it not only works up worthwhile advance interest but is another link in building a more intimate relationship between theatre and public. Many a citizen likes to advance an opinion on questions of the day (look over any "vox pop" section of any paper) and this provides an opportunity.

Salzman Promoted Several Costless Stunts For Strand

The last time we heard about Hal Salzman, publicity director of the Strand Theatre, Brooklyn, he had just finished putting over a mammoth 12th Anniversary campaign for manager, W. J. McLaughlin. You will recall that theatre executives and a lot of important city officials were present when a huge cake, presented by a local baking concern, was hacked to pieces in the Strand lobby.

Since he told all Brooklyn that the house was 12 years old, Salzman has been engaged with other show-selling gags, among which was the promotion of "Yo-Yo Week." The manufacturer of this well known toy supplied the theatre with hundreds of the 25 cent article and 25,000 heralds to advertise the stunt. They also arranged for window displays in five prominent stores and loaned the national Yo-Yo Champion to make personal appearances throughout the campaign. In addition, the company paid for a full page in the leading newspaper, with space for the Strand organist "Singing Bill," playing a yo-yo at the organ. All newspapers carried stories and pictures of the event. Slides, explaining the toy, were also supplied to the theatre.

Hal Salzman



It is not recalled that safety razor blades had any bearing on the theme of "Road to Singapore" but it is a fact that Salzman engineered a deal whereby a large quantity of blades were packed in envelopes carrying imprint of theatre, picture and playdates, and passed out to patrons in advance of showing. Needless to state, this was done at no cost to the Strand.

Another costless piece of advertising that he manipulated, was accomplished on strength of the fact that Brooklyn boasts a bank by name of Alexander Hamilton Savings Bank. What could be more apparent than this bank's responsibility for the cost and distribution of a neat little pamphlet advertising the bank and picture? And even a Sweet Shoppe was tied in for a share by giving it a break on inside pages.

When the "Dreyfus Case" was due, every rabbi in town was mailed a guest invitation to view the picture. After attending the showing, they went back to the temples and preached about the case to their congregations. Postcards were also mailed to lawyers; clubs, institutions and high schools were contacted, and special stories were carried in all English and Jewish papers and other periodicals of wide circulation in town.

From the above, you will gather that Salzman and McLaughlin are keeping the name of their house before the public from one picture to the next with methods of exploitation that cost next to nothing; and that sort of stuff surely counts these days. Keep the old ball rolling, Hal, and don't forget to acquaint us with other activities.

HERE'S ONE FROM WHITBECK!

Just to prove that he can still lead the parade when it comes to anything like a "different" newspaper ad, Frank Whitbeck (good old Whitey) comes through with this one for Universal's opening out on the coast.

Long, long ago we made a statement that Frank had no equal in his line; we're not a bit afraid to repeat it. He can find the "selling" slant in the toughest piece of fillum ever conceived by the moguls of Movie City.

Almost seems like old times to reproduce a Whitbeck ad on the Round Table pages. Let's hope there will be plenty more of them in the immediate future. They always command a great amount of respect and attention and this one should be no exception to that rule. Incidentally (this is for the men who must create newspaper advertising) do you believe that Frank did the right thing when he advertised this picture along these lines? Come on you Jameyson's, Sturdevant's, Gauntlett's, Holt's, and all others interested in such discussions. Tell us your opinions and how you would act if you were in Frank's boots. (Those dainty 16½ slippers.)

"ALL FOR ONE AND ONE FOR ALL!"

NOVELTIES AND TOYS!

"Giveaways" for the kids have never been more useful than this season, if the opinion of many showmen all over the country count. This information was gleaned from much of the Club's correspondence, in which the managers discuss the value of giving the youngsters some sort of inexpensive toy or novelty. If it ties in with some current picture or serial, all the better.

At this particular time of the year, theatres all over the country are on the lookout for novelties, etc., for the holidays. Each year we receive hundreds of requests for information along these lines and for the use of Club members in need of such aid, we have a complete file of all manufacturers and dealers handling material of this kind.

If you will address your inquiries to Club headquarters we will be delighted to furnish you with a list of companies where you may be able to secure just what you require at prices within reason. This service is for both members and readers of the Club pages. If not a member of the Club, you are asked to use your theatre's letterhead when writing so that we can guard against catalogue bugs who are generally a source of annoyance in scouting around for this type of literature. Also, please specify your position.

Corbin Made A Big Circular Tie With Local Book Dealer

How to secure free printing and distribution of a large number of hand-bills at no cost to theatre was recently demonstrated when R. Corbin, manager of the Fisher Theatre, Detroit, and his assistant, G. Kearney, made a tie-up with a prominent book store for the handling of 10,000 copies of a bill advertising theatre and store.

The bills were handed out to patrons as they left the theatre and inserted in all books in the circulating library at the store. Mailing lists of both store and theatre were also used. The store plugged its first anniversary and the theatre sold "Road to Reno." Space on bill was evenly divided between the two. Copy was featured with give-away of contract bridge score pads for the week and a number of paragraphs carrying notes of interest to film fans.

We'll have to give credit to these two enterprising showmen for securing extensive circulation of a message at no cost to their house —and stunts like these certainly count these days. Knowing that both Corbin and Kearney will continue to get results out their way, we'll await the next word concerning their activities.

BALLOONS

All sizes. All shapes. All colors. Send your specifications to this Dept. Prices include any imprint you desire. They make a wonderful flash when you cover your lobby with them. Limit your imprint to three lines. Don't use too many words.

For further information and samples write to Box 503

MANAGERS' ROUND TABLE CLUB
1790 Broadway New York, N. Y.

Beauty Shop Revue Was A Stimulator For P. D. Bloomberg

Extra publicity and marked increase in box office receipts on the weakest days of the week was obtained by P. D. Bloomburg, manager of the Paramount Theatre in Salem, Mass., through the promotion of a Beauty Shoppe Revue, a stunt that was put over at no other cost to theatre than time for stage hands and a few incidental items.

He contacted a local beauty shop, its proprietor having received considerable publicity at an international convention held in New York City, and arranged to promote enough modern beauty shop equipment to furnish a good-sized parlor in the theatre lobby. This was set up in a special booth, constructed at no cost to theatre by a local builder. The accompanying photo will show the attractiveness of the trellis, effect, etc.

Three days in advance of the Revue, the shop Professor gave free demonstrations as well as free samples of beautifying creams, etc., to the women patrons, resulting in effective advance publicity at no cost. For the Revues, the services of twenty very good amateur performers were promoted from a local dancing school. Included among this talent were ten line girls, comedy acts and an excellent trio. Traveling expenses served to promote additional services of a local tenor and master of ceremonies. A special platform was built on the stage with a revolving base, the set representing a picture frame with a background of black velour. As the platform revolved, a girl demonstrated the latest hair-dressing styles.

The newspaper cooperated by giving a generous amount of publicity for the event and a ballyhoo truck, with loud speaker system, was also promoted for the making of announcements and the playing of records. Evening gowns were obtained through a tie-up with a local merchant and the services of models were obtained.

This stunt worked out very successfully for Bloomberg and he is enthusiastically passing it along for other Club members to try, should conditions warrant it. As he states, it's something which can be put over at a minimum of expense to theatre and is a sure-fire stimulator for the box-office.

BIRTHDAY GREETINGS

William Walter Artz
E. E. Bair
Billings Booth
Melvin E. Bourassa
Charles P. Carroll
Erving B. Conant
Maurice M. Corkery
M. A. Cowles
Phillip Engel
Joseph Enos
Tillie Freedman
Donald N. Fuller
William M. Glackin
Elmer W. Hecht
Elmer Holmberg
Milton F. Honeck
Murray Lafayette
Harold Lloyd
Mac M. Carthy
Edward J. Mooney
Lafayette Moore
Julius Myska
Jack Reis
Harry Schwartz
Flynn Stubblefield
Rheinold Wallach
Lonnie Avery Wallis
Charles F. Weisbecker, Sr.
Ned Wright
Robert Zellin

Another group of Newspaper Ads from Smart Showmen!

MEMPHIS

LAST TIMES MONDAY
Dedicated to the Memory of Football's Greatest Idol KNUTE ROCKNE
A UNIVERSAL PICTURE
LEW AYRES in The SPIRIT of NOTRE DAME
With SALLY BLANE, WILLIAM BAKEWELL, J. Farrell MacDonald
THE ORIGINAL "FOUR HORSEMEN" Miller • Crowley • Stuhldreher • Leyden
FRANK CARIDEO
BUCKY O'CONNOR
Football's Greatest Romantic Story!
At 12:05—2:40—5:15—7:50—9:45
Pathe News Comedy
Starts TUESDAY
INA CLAIRE
She Charmed you in "THE ROYAL FAMILY" from the stage success by Donald Ogden Stewart with ROBERT AMES
MYRNA LOY, HEDDA HOPPER
RKO-Pathe Picture
"REBOUND"
25¢ TILL 6:30
RKO ORPHEUM

CLEVELAND

WARNER BROS. VARIETY · LAKE · UPTOWN
Who is he? What is he?
When This Voice Commands—The World Obeys!
THE RULING VOICE
with WALTER HUSTON
DORIS KENYON, GRETA YOUNG
Added: Ruth Etting
No Eye Has Seen Him—But

RKO REGENT
TODAY—LAST TIMES TUESDAY
A throbbing and romantic love story of the devotion that lies in every woman's heart.
Ann HARDING in "Devotion" with LESLIE HOWARD
The screen's leading actress outdoes her emotional triumphs in "Holiday" and "East Lynne."
FEATURETTES
"Great Junction Hotel"
With EDWARD EVERETT HORTON
PATHE NEWS
ORGANLOG
WED.
GEORGE ARLISS
in
"Alexander Hamilton"

GRAND RAPIDS

KEITH'S THEATRE OF THE STARS
Now! Continuous from 2:30
RONALD COLMAN
in
"THE UNHOLY GARDEN"
"OUR GANG COMEDY"
"BIG EARS"
Other Big-Little Features
25c, 35c—2:30 to 5 P. M.
25c, 35c, & 50c 5 to 6 P. M.
25c, 50c & 75c after 6 P. M.
Kids, 15c to 6 P. M.
Fri.—Alfred Lunt Lynn Fontanne in The Guardsman
ORPHEUM SHOW PLACE

ATLANTA

Heaven hasn't a star!
Big Enough, Nor Bright Enough to Compare With This New M-G-M Scintillating Romantic Personality —A "Find"
HELEN HAYES
Whom You Probably Never Heard of Before
Whose Every Gesture . . Slightest Intonation of Voice . . Everything She Does . . You'll Never Forget . . She's Empress of Artistry and Emotion!
—in—
• THE SIN OF • MADELON • CLAUDET •
Presented With a Distinguished Cast
LEWIS STONE, NEIL HAMILTON
JEAN HERSHOLT, MARIE PREVOST
CLIFF EDWARDS
Fanchon & Marco's Stage Show
"NORTH-SOUTH EAST-WEST"
JACK WALDRON & MISS HARRIETT
ELVIRA TANZI, ALENN DALE
HELEN O'SHEA, TOGA THE DOG
SUNKIST ENSEMBLE
Smilin' Al Evans, Enrico Leide
OUR GANG IN M-G-M COMEDY
SILLY SYMPHONY CARTOON
Football Thrills "PRECISION"
Fox Movietone News
First Saturday "Cisco Kid" Warner Baxter, Edmund Lowe
FOX

GRAND RAPIDS

STILLMAN
GO TO THE CROWDS
OPEN at 11 A.M.
HERE ARE THRILLS!
Out of the dark they leap at you — in the mystery house where murder clicks with the clock!
MURDER BY THE CLOCK
with
WM. BOYD
LILYAN TASHMAN
Comedy "SOB SISTER"
STARTS 25¢ TILL 6:30

PHILA.

MELBA Now 2 to 3 P. M. 35c
COME TO EARLY SHOWS
FUNNIER THAN ANYTHING BEFORE IT. ASK THE THOUSANDS WHO SAW IT.
The Laugh Wallop! Buster KEATON in SIDEWALKS OF NEW YORK
With ANITA PAGE—CLIFF EDWARDS
BOBBY JONES in "THE BRASSIE"
PLUS PARAMOUNT NEWS OTHER FEATURES
NEXT FRIDAY
GRETA GARBO with CLARK GABLE in "SUSAN LENOX"
(HER FALL AND RISE)

CLEVELAND

STARTS TO DAY
"MURDER AT MIDNIGHT"
with
AILEEN PRINGLE
HALE HAMILTON
ALICE WHITE
Doors Open Today at 2:30 P. M.
Scott Darling Incredible Mystery Story Wherein an Ignorant Parlor Game Develops Into a Series of Inexplicable Crimes
Pathe News
Benny Rubin Comedy
"Football Thrills" Sport Subject
"THRIFT PRICES"
RKO VICTORY

PROVIDENCE

DALLAS

Today Until 2 P. M. 25c
FOX'S MAIN STREET THEATER
Today After 2 P. M. 40c
JAMES DUNN . . the boy who made good in his first picture, "Bad Girl" . . smashes into the headlines.
"You run to the phone in the midst of a kiss . . some day you'll let it ring!"
SOB SISTER
TWO Big Feature Pictures with JAMES DUNN
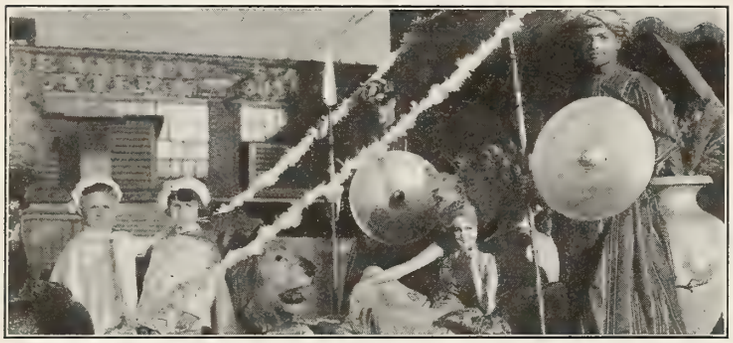
LINDA WATKINS
Molly O'Day
Minna Gombell
Howard Phillips
Added Feature EVELYN BRENT in "TRAVELING HUSBANDS"
Brisk! Tense! Exciting!

SPRINGFIELD

NEW ORLEANS

She Was Made for Love — She Sought Love in Spite of Convention!
WILLIAM POWELL
In His Most Sensational Triumph!
'THE ROAD TO SINGAPORE'
A Warner Picture with Doris Kenyon—Marion Marsh
On Screen at 1:15 3:40 6:05 8:30 10 P. M.
On Stage at 1:00 4:10 7:20 10:30 P. M.
"VARIETIES"
A Lane Vanderlip Production
SULLY & THOMAS
THEODORE, VIOLELLA
BARNES, DOYE & SLIPP
FOUR ACES AND A QUEEN
Added Feature LAUREL-HARDY "Come Clean"
Krazy Kat Cartoon
Metrotone News
Doors Open 10:15 A. M.
LOEW'S STATE
Till 1 35c
Next Week—Helen Hayes in "LULLABY"



CINCINNATI

B. F. KEITH'S WALNUT ST. ABOVE 5TH
All Seats 25¢ Until 1 P. M.
AFTER 1 P.M. Orchestra 40¢ Balcony 25¢
CHILDREN 15¢ ANY WAYS
Truth Lied! Justice Blundered!
And an innocent man's love, loyalty and honor were stained with shame!
At Last—The Real Facts of the Trial That Shook the World.
The DREYFUS CASE
A Columbia Picture
with CEDRIC HARDWICKE—BEATRIX THOMSON
Added Attractions: HY. C. GEIS at Organ. Krazy Kat Cartoon, Metrotone Sound News.
Beg. SAT. OCT. 17
"HONOR of the FAMILY" With BEBE DANIELS

Night Pageant Was Chance For Lykes To Gain Publicity

A neighborhood association out in that section of Cleveland, Ohio, where J. E. Lykes manages Loew's Park Theatre, recently held a night pageant that was viewed by over 50,000 people. This was a cooperative stunt staged by neighborhood merchants and by stimulating interest through the give-away of a long list of articles ranging from a permanent wave to a new automobile, it was the hope of the sponsors that all concerned would share in a revival of spirited buying on part of the public.

As far as the Park's end of the pageant was concerned, no attempt was made to tie-up directly with any picture, but the theatre was represented in the big parade with a most attractive float, a photo of which we are reproducing on this page. The only reference made to the current attraction appeared on an auto, promoted from a local agency in connection with "This Modern Age." The high light of the event, an automobile, was given away at the theatre on a Saturday night.

The entire festival, from a business standpoint, was a great success. It created a lot of interest in the whole neighborhood and put everyone in a more optimistic mood. The theatre benefited through good will and institutional publicity and entire cost of the float, including signs, costumes, decorations, flares and driver did not exceed $40. The truck and props were promoted from a local auto dealer.

Lykes is one of the Club's new members and he starts the ball rolling by sending in the above. There's plenty of competition out in his neighborhood and he has to step on it to get his share of the business. But this sort of a condition is usually a great stimulator of show-selling ideas and it is our prediction that everyone concerned with this organization will be the gainer through this manager's recent affiliation.

ROUND TABLE CLUB EMBLEM PIN!!!

Use This Blank:

Managers' Round Table Club
MOTION PICTURE HERALD
1790 Broadway, New York

Kindly send me, postpaid, ... Club pins, for which I enclose payment at $1.00 per pin.

Name of Member .....

Theatre .....

Address .....

City ..... State .....

Colored Paper Hats

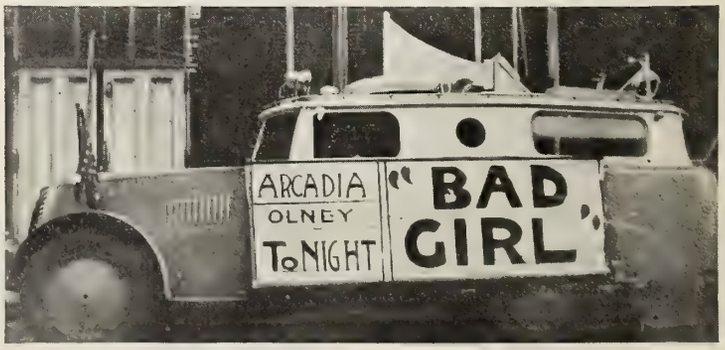
Assorted paper party hats. Bright colored bands offer plenty of imprint space. Great for parades, special matinee parties and as throw-aways. These hats are priced for quantity use. Cover the town with them. Every kid that wears a hat is a walking twenty-four sheet for your attractions. Turn these over to your local printer for imprint.

For further information and samples write to Box 502

MANAGERS' ROUND TABLE CLUB
1790 Broadway New York, N. Y.

Thomason Made Tie With Local Bakery To Plug A Picture

Whether you may be hooking up with some big bread and doughnut concern for a campaign on the current Cantor opus or just trying to plug an every-day attraction, it's a good idea to cultivate acquaintance with your baker, according to a slant we've been able to get on the activities of W. F. Thomason, manager of the Carolina Theatre in Burlington, N. C.



The deal he made with the baker secured an 8 x 10-inch ad in the newspaper, at least 50 per cent of it devoted to theatre copy. The name of the baker, in this instance one of five letters, furnished the gag for guest tickets. Notices were inserted in loaves of bread, each carrying one of the letters, and a complete set of the baker's name.

Bread, as you all know, gets a wide family circulation and we've had other occasions to record that this gag has proven a popular one with a number of Round Tablers. Thanks to Thomason for the reminder and we'll hope to hear from him again.

Auto Designed As Yacht Got Results For Phillip Reade

A motorized contraption classified as a "land yacht" made a great hit out in Olney, Ill., where Phil Reade owns and operates the Arcadia and Elks Theatres. He used this ballyhoo for the Arcadia when playing "Bad Girl" and routed it all over his city and through the smaller towns adjacent to Olney. It attracted a great deal of attention.

We are reproducing a photo of the above ballyhoo and you will not have any difficulty in noting the banner used to advertise the picture. Naturally, there wasn't any significance between picture and bally, the novelty lying in the strange design of the auto.

And after all, what is a bally? Something to attract attention and get over a message, you'll all agree; and that's exactly what Reade accomplished. There must be a lot more going on in show-business out his way and so we'll anticipate hearing further from this Round Tabler.

Jerry Parker Using Variety of Stunts To Boost Attendance

A variety of show-selling stunts are being pulled by Jerry Parker, manager of the Palace Theatre in Torrington, Conn., to step up trade in his house, among which are "whoopee nights" of a different kind, gift nites, a real live kiddie club and cooperative ad pages sponsored by the local newspaper and merchants.

Take his gift nites for instance. which have proved a most popular medium for increasing trade of both theatre and merchant. The photo on this page shows a corner in the foyer where the many different articles donated by the merchants were put on display. The gifts include articles ranging in value from sweaters and breakfast sets to a ton of coal, according to listings on a full-page co-op we have before us.

Another photo shows some of the gang of kiddies gathered in front of the Palace at the close of one of his Kiddie Club Saturday matinees. He has issued both heralds and membership cards for these events and in case anyone is in doubt about what copy should appear on the cards here it is: (Front of card) "Palace Theatre Kiddie Club. No. 0001. Palace Theatre, Torrington, Conn. (Affiliated with the National Organization. This Certifies That .....Is a Member In Good Standing of the Local Chapter No. 846 of the Warner Bros. Palace Theatre Kiddie Club. Signed.....Pres. of the Local Chapter." (Reverse side) Rules and Regulations of Members: 1. You must be present at all meetings. 2. You have promised to be a good boy (or girl) . . . at home and . . . in school. 3. Dues are 10 cents a week. . . . BUT Remember That This Entitles You To See The Greatest Shows in Torrington. 4. This card also entitles you to enter all contests and parties that will be held from time to time."

Concerning the "Whoopee Nites," these are run along the lines of a home town vaudeville show and have proven another popular means of attracting a large number of patrons on Thursday nights. The small photo illustrates a couple of the ushers dressed as cowboys for one of these occasions when "Wild Horse" was showing. The boys passed out cards advertising "Whoopee Night" and other copy stated "I Lost My Horse But I'll Get To The Palace Theatre In Time To See Hoot Gibson In 'Wild Horse'." The balance of program was also given space, likewise attention was called to a certain identification mark on the card.

Other recent activities of Parker's include an advertising tie-up with a local jeweler when playing "Murder by the Clock," whereby merchant offered special allowance for trade-in watches and guest tickets; a classified ad page tie-up with a newspaper, with free tickets offered those residents whose names were scattered through the classified columns; and a special appeal to "Mothers With Kiddies In School" carried on back of program. This went on to state that while the kids were safe in school it was time to take a good rest from strenuous care given them during vacation time and that there was no better place than the Palace to relax, etc.

As the above testifies, Jerry Parker is very much on the job; but he has to be for there's plenty of competition over his way.

BOOK COVERS GOOD SCHOOL TIE-UP!

An excellent way to crash tough schools is to offer to supply them with covers for the children's text books. As you know, practically every school requires that kiddies keep their school books covered and clean. These covers are available through several companies who specialize in this sort of stuff, and besides being practical for the purpose also carry institutional or current theatre copy when furnished by the local playhouse.

Book covers carrying your theatre's ad for the entire school year at a cost of next to nothing is mighty good advertising in our estimation and ought to be utilized wherever possible. These books are always in use and when lying around the house can be seen by the grown-ups of the family as a sort of reminder that your theatre may have a picture they want to see.

Many showmen will welcome some sort of suggestion that would open the schools to them and here is the first step you can take in cementing a lasting friendship with the local educational authorities.

Information pertaining to stock book covers, including prices and type of imprints, is available to accredited members of the Club upon writing to headquarters.

GOOD NEWS
FOR TIRED BOX OFFICES

Magic Matinees

Kids of all ages are fascinated by magic. Every kid loves to work out a problem. Magic puzzles and tricks satisfy this desire.

How To Use Them: Hold "Magic Matinees" and give out a trick to every boy and girl. Get the newspaper to run a "trick department" during the run of your serial and let the paper give the tricks away to every fan who sends in a letter telling why he likes the chapter play.

For further information and samples write to

Box 504

Managers Round Table Club

1790 Broadway New York, N. Y.

MEET MORE NEW ROUND TABLERS!

JAMES G. FAIR manages the Elite Theatre in Laurens, Iowa. He, too, is in line for introduction to the several thousand members of this Club and we are glad to have him with us. While his theatre is a small one, it is up-to-date in every respect and Fair is equipped to give his patrons the best in entertainment. With this in mind, we'll expect some interesting contributions from this new Round Tabler.

———Wear Your Club Pin! ! !———

L. HAYES GARBARINO has charge of the Liberty Theatre in the city of Donora, Pa., and he is also a new member of the Round Table. He admits having followed this department for a long time and that the show-selling gags sent in by other Club members have helped him over many a rough spot. He states that he will now try to reciprocate by sending along some worthwhile stunt at the very first opportunity. That's the proper spirit, Garbarino, and we'll be looking forward to your next communication.

———Wear Your Club Pin! ! !———

R. F. KEHRBERG is a new Club member who is the manager of the Iowa Theatre in Shelton, Ia. He operates a 700-seat house and is independent of any circuit affiliations. We are also glad to extend the usual welcome to this Round Tabler and hope that he will be able to find time to send along some show tips for his fellow showmen to use.

———Wear Your Club Pin! ! !———

LESTER FRUCHT has the job of assisting Martin Messinger with the management of the Tremont Theatre in New York City. He has only been with this theatre for a few weeks but his boss states that he has already demonstrated that it will not be long before he will be ready to assume full responsibility of some theatre. And with Messinger's able coaching, we'll back up that statement. Now that you've become a Round Tabler, Lester, drop us a line now and then.

Here's the Blank

Application For Membership In

"MANAGERS' ROUND TABLE CLUB"

Hey, "Chick":

Please enroll me in the Club and send me my framed certificate.

Name .....

Position .....

Theatre .....

Address .....

City .....

State .....

(Mail to Managers' Round Table Club, 1790 Broadway, New York)

C. R. COONS is another owner-manager to join the ranks of this great organization of show men and he's located out in Seymour, Iowa, where he operates the Lyric Theatre. It is a pleasure to list his name on the ever-growing Club roster and we are going to look forward to a little story on how he sells shows in his community. Don't neglect to keep in touch with your fellow members, Coons, and headquarters will see that your information is passed along.

———Wear Your Club Pin! ! !———

M. P. JACKSON is located down in Macon, Georgia, where he manages the Douglas Theatre. He is also a new Club member in line for introduction to the rest of the gang and he may be sure that there is a welcome place at the Table for him. Tell the other boys what you are doing in the way of showmanship, Jackson, and the way to do this is too shoot along some ideas to headquarters.

———Wear Your Club Pin! ! !———

MELVIN F. MORRISON manages the Rialto Theatre over in the well known city of Brockton, Mass. He's another Publix man to hook up with this outfit and we're glad to have him with us. With both Morrison and Bill Adams rooting for the Club over in their town, we may expect to keep well posted on what's going on in show-business in Brockton.

———Wear Your Club Pin! ! !———

PAUL F. GOOD is the manager of the Community Theatre out in Plainfield, Iowa, and the Club welcome is also extended to this new representative from the Middle West. His is an independently operated house and now that he's in this organization the rest of the gang may count on receiving some dope on the way shows are sold out in his town.

———Wear Your Club Pin! ! !———

FRED FORD is still another Publix manager to become enrolled in this organization and now he, too, will have an excellent opportunity to swap show-selling tips with the host of brother managers this Club boasts. He's in charge of the Saenger Theatre down in Shreveport, La., a good live show town, and we will anticipate some interesting contribution from this source. Shoot your ideas along, Fred, and we'll do the rest.

———Wear Your Club Pin! ! !———

ARTHUR J. KEENAN is another Publix manager to join this organization and he manages the Park Theatre in Bangor, Maine. We are indebted to his many brother managers on his circuit for a wealth of information on how shows are put over and we hope that Keenan will help carry on the good work. He is in charge of a fine house and located in a good show city, so we'll look forward to receiving some live show-tips from this new Club member.

———Where Your Club Pin! ! !———

JACK M. NORRIS has the job of assisting Sam Soible with the management of McVicker's Theatre in Chicago, Ill. He has been at this house since last January and same there from the Tower Theatre, same city, where he also acted as assistant manager. In addition, he has filled the post of treasurer at the Norshore, Uptown, Tivoli theatres in Chicago. Prior to these jobs he was doorman at the Oriental Theatre. With all this wealth of experience to draw upon, we're sure that Norris will carry on.

ROY L. KALVER is the manager of the Paramount Theatre, the big publix extended run house in Detroit, Mich. It is a pleasure to record that Kalver has become a member of this organization and we believe that he will have some very interesting campaign experiences to contribute to this department. Let us have some of your ideas on the subject of show-selling, Roy, and we'll shoot them along to your fellow showmen.

———Where Your Club Pin! ! !———

BEN JACOBSON, along with his brothers and sisters, operates the Dixie Theatre down in Louisville, Ky. Ben is the advertising manager and we're glad to introduce him as one of our new members. He has benefited by keeping in touch with this department in the past and now proposed to become an active member by making some contributions of his own. Go to it, Ben—we'll be awaiting your next communication.

———Where Your Club Pin! ! !———

SAM HAMMOND, another new Round Tabler is a Publix man and in charge of the Strand Theatre in Anderson, S. C. The Club welcomes him into this organization of showmen and hopes that he, too, will endeavor to keep his brother members informed on his methods of exploiting shows. So get busy Sam, and shoot along some dope on show-business down your way.

———Where Your Club Pin! ! !———

T. R. KING manages the Rialto Theatre at High Point, N. C. His house in one of the Publix chain of theatres and he's another one of these enterprising managers to become affiliated with the Round Table Club. We are indeed glad to enroll his name on the Club roster and hope he will strive to keep to the same standard set by the many Publix men belonging to this organization. We'll be awaiting that batch of show-tips, T. R., so shoot them along.

———Where Your Club Pin! ! !———

LEO B. SALKIN is the manager of Oriental Theatre, a big Publix-Balaban & Katz house in Chicago, Ill. It is also our pleasure to record that he, too, is a new member in line for introduction to the big army of showmen in this organization and we're going to expect some mighty interesting information from Salkin just as soon as he can find the time to send it along. You will meet many members of the gang out your way Leo, so pass along our best wishes to them all when you meet.

———Where Your Club Pin! ! !———

MILLARD BRAND is another assistant manager to become a member of this outfit and he, too, is proposed by William Exton. Millard helps sell shows at the Wysor-Grand Theatre in Muncie, Ind., and is a running mate of Howard Webster's, another new member. We will expect to hear what Millard is doing in show-business.

———Where Your Club Pin! ! !———

HOWARD WEBSTER is the assistant manager of the Rivoli Theatre in Muncie, Ind., and he has been sponsored for membership in this Club of showmen by William Exton. Shake hands with the rest of the boys, Howard, and let us all know what part you are playing to keep the Rivoli in the black.

MUSIC AND TALENT

STAGE SHOWS

New York Paramount

Week ending November 19

This is the second week of Bing Crosby's engagement here, and though he is not an apparent box-office draw as yet he is entertaining. The stage-show in which he is featured is a Boris Petroff production entitled "Stardust," and is produced in seven beautiful scenes.

The Harriet Hoctor Ballet of 16 nice-looking and accomplished dancers opens with a well-performed routine as Crosby sings "Shine On, Harvest Moon," from the wings. After this he enters and sings "Good Night Sweetheart," as the girls assemble around him. As a special attraction (for Friday only) Richard Arlen and Regis Toomey, stars of the week's feature picture, appear in person and after being introduced by Crosby, who acts as m.c. throughout the show, enter to a real ovation. After their departure, Armida, beautiful little Spanish girl, sings a song about "buying cigarettes," as she goes through the audience and distributes cigs. Armida's voice is rather weak for a house as large as this and from the good hand her dancing got, she would do better by giving more dancing than singing. A most entertaining and novel ballet routine was next presented by Harriet Hoctor and her girls. Miss Hoctor is the personification of grace and her dancing is beautifully done. The audience showed their appreciation of real dancing. In the next scene Crosby sang "I Apologize" and "Call Me Darling," to Armida. The Mills Brothers, four colored boys who have gained fame over the air, stopped the show cold with their pleasing harmonizing. They were forced to encore twice. Paul Hakon did well with his Russian dancing routine. The closing scene is beautifully laid out and in it Bing Crosby sings "Stardust," as the ballet ensemble offers a sprightly dance. Miss Hoctor also does a ballet routine in this scene that is outstanding.

Baltimore Hippodrome

Week ending November 20

As the overture, under the direction of Benjamin Klasmer, was finished, the Rose Kress Trio of roller skaters came on and went through their routine of acrobatic stunts and dances on skates. Next came Alfred Latell, in his bulldog costume, in comedy work with a girl partner who did some tap work. Then followed DiVito, Denny and Company—three men and a girl—in a comedy hokum act with tumbling, falls, and general slapstick. Tommy and Betty Wonder came next, with their songs and dances—"I'm Keeping Company," "St. Louis Blues," "Come On and Let's Get Friendly."

Frances Arms next gave a cycle of songs, some of them character stories to music—"It's the Girl," "Let Him Ramble, Let Him Roam," "Shine On Harvest Moon." Then followed a demonstration of Sanabria Giant Television with an announcer explaining the mechanism. Projection and receiving sets were on the stage, with a ten-foot square screen in the center high up. Reproduction was weak, like a blurred photograph.

Calloway in Talkartoon

Cab Calloway and his band will be featured in a Paramount Talkartoon number scheduled for release February 6. Title will be "Minnie the Moocher."

EGON DOUGHERTY

This is the young fellow who is responsible for making the phrase "Sing With Dougherty" the byword of patrons of Loew's Triboro theatre, Astoria, Long Island. He was born in San Antonio, which accounts for his slow drawl, and received his education in schools of that city. He has been an organist for the past 10 years and has played in many cities between San Antonio and New York. In the past two years he has been featured organist in two of Loew's deluxers, the Paradise and Valencia, and is now in their newest and largest vaudeville house. Dougherty is a quiet, unassuming fellow, rather hard to become acquainted with. After getting past that outer shell, however, he is "regular," and a staunch friend.

NBC Celebrates 5th Birthday Of Inaugural Program Nov. 15

The National Broadcasting Company celebrated its fifth birthday as a radio broadcasting company, the inaugural program having been broadcast on November 15, 1926. Today's potential audience, states a report, is 51,000,000, as compared to the 10,000,000 in 1926.

Annually, continues the report, NBC spends more than $10,000,000 for talent; 37,000 miles of special telephone lines link the 82 stations in the NBC group and in the New York division alone more than 30,000 programs are transmitted in one year.

Trying Vaude With Films

Warner theatres in Sheboygan, Racine and Kenosha, Wis., have added Sunday vaudeville shows to their regular film attractions. The policy will be tried for a month, and if successful, may be extended to three days each week.

STAGE SHOWS

Cincinnati Albee

Week Ending November 13

With the Four Marx brothers in person occupying the normal running time of two acts the current bill consists of four instead of the customary five acts. Despite the appearance of the Marxmen, who are pulling down the highest salary which RKO has ever paid a vaudeville act, the front show is a darb. Credit be to the bookers for not lowering the quality thereof.

Gloria Lee and the Harris Twins open in one with vocal and dance numbers, nicely put over. Then a two-piano specialty is done by the boys, who also do additional vocalizing and hoofing, permitting Gloria to make her change. She appears semi-nude for a classical dance with contortions, the latter seeming to be just about the apex of achievement. Another song and soft shoe dance by the twins permit the lithe young woman to change for an acrobatic dance, accompanied by the boys on the two grands, and the orchestra. An excellent turn throughout.

Billy May starts out with what promises to be an ordinary routine of club juggling, assisted by a plant in front box, who razzes and wisecracks, later working from the stage to interrupt with clowning. May's subsequent juggling of clubs, balls and other articles is a sensation. His ball juggling while standing on his head is especially clever.

Summers and Hunt present a boob number in which conversation and smart patter predominate. The act builds up effectively, and audience reaction increases in proportion.

The Four Marx Brothers, closing the show, simply bowl 'em over. In fact, the applause started when the act was announced, and even before the funsters appeared. They are using practically the same material that constituted the Napoleon scene in the musical comedy revue, "I'll Say She Is," when they played the Casino in New York in 1924. Of course, Harpo and Chico do their harp and piano numbers. Harpo also tickles the ivories, and Zeppo does a bit of vocalizing through a megaphone. Needless to say, the act is one big series of wisecracking and buffoonery, but what a wow it is. The boys are packing the house from pit to dome at every show, and promise to break the house record. They have a hard time getting away at the finish.

New Orleans Saenger

Week ending November 12

Perhaps the most striking remembrance of the World War was portrayed by Lou Forbes and His Music in a setting entitled "Memories of France," with the stirring tunes of fifteen years ago. A setting depicting the flash of cannons, the roar of the heavy guns, the tread of heavy feet, the rumbling of the gun carriages, and tableaux completed one of the most clever ten-minute productions seen on the Saenger stage.

However, in all tragedy there must be a vein of comedy, which was supplied liberally by Louis Prima, who in white face but a la Louis Armstrong (he of the dusky hue), rendered their "Sleepy Time Down South" to many encores. That boy is surely good, and got some mighty hands.

Herbie plays "Song Hits of Recent Years" and does it well.

STAGE SHOWS

Denver Denver

Week ending November 11

"Greetings," Fanchon & Marco Idea, is one of their presentations that carries the title idea clear through to the end. There are birthday, Valentine, Easter, Hallowe'en and Christmas greetings, and the idea is one of the prettiest ever presented on the Denver stage.

Del Chain takes the part of the postman, dressed in bright blue uniform, and acts as master of ceremonies—and incidentally wows the house. The first drop shows huge pictures of pen and ink and writing paper, with greetings written on it. The line appears in long white dresses and Dorothy Theims sings a couple of "songs of your dreams," while a young couple act out the love scenes. Then comes a song about the four-year groupings of a youngster's life, each being pantomimed by a girl dressed to look the part. Four girls are dressed to represent fourth of a birthday cake, and when they back up to each other and the candles are lighted, the effect is keen. Jimmy Clemons starts his act with a stagger or two, interrupting the master of ceremonies for the entry, and finishes with an eccentric dance. The Easter section shows a huge Easter basket filled with lilies, which when turned show the line dressed in spring-like drapes. This number is their best dance ensemble, sort of a Grecian dance. Looking like a couple of Hindus if they had worn turbans instead of clown hats, Buster and Brown do their monkey act followed by some fast dancing. A huge old-fashioned valentine is used for the setting of the Valentine Greeting, with girls dressed in lacy clothes. Dorothy Theims sings a Valentine Day song and the rector steps through the heart in the valentine and marries the loving young couple. The final flash at the end of the Christmas Greeting is the most artistic and beautiful. The curtain goes up with Dorothy Theims singing "Holy Night" and with the line dressed symbolical of Christmas. Four of the girls each carry a section of the Christmas tree. At first each looks like a separate decoration, but when they get together and the lights are turned on the effect is magnificent.

San Antonio Majestic

Week ending November 11

Vaudeville in all of its glory came back to the RKO after several months of a straight picture policy. For the opening week the management had two huge arc lights hanging on the marquee.

In the first act were Ed and Jenny Rooney, billed as "The Pair Up in the Air," starting things off with thrillers on a trapeze. They offered several new ideas.

Jack North followed and kept the audience laughing with his wisecracks. He also did several song numbers on the banjo, among them "I'm the Silent Partner of the Three," "Nothing Happens" and some neat parodies.

Next came "The Three Georgia Crackers," Anne, Judy and Zeke, a corking fine takeoff on The Weavers. They did "Waiting for the Wagon" and "Saint Louis Blues" with Judy giving an excellent amount of yodels for good measure. She also sang "I Ain't Got Nobody," with Annie and Zeke coming in on several musical instruments. Let's have more of these rube acts and not so much dancing, as the folks out front seem to like that better.

The closing number brought out the Lee Twins with their company of six well trained steppers. The Twins did very well with "She Likes What I Like," and the costumes and dance presentation were fairly pleasing. The six femmes gave a good pantomime fantasy. The Sisters then pranced forth again and sung "Two Hearts Beat," both in English and German. The girls do some clever footwork.

Milwaukee Wisconsin

Week ending November 12

Fanchon & Marco's "Gay Vienna" Idea opens with Emma Woodland and Roy Smoot, vocalists, attired in royal costumes and within the cutout of a heart, singing "Two Hearts in Waltz Time." They give way to the Carla Torney dancers, in Bohemian dress, who do their stuff before a background comprising a large clock through the face of which can be seen a young man and woman dancing a waltz.

Rena and Rathburn mimic two inebriates and roll and twist about the stage in a lively manner. They have plenty of pep and click in good style.

Duci De Karekjarto, internationally known violinist, renders a difficult musical selection in an excellent fashion before a background in which the chorus is grouped about tables attired in red military costumes . "The Old Refrain" is played by the violinist and sung by one of the troupe.

The Carla Torney dancers next go through their dance routine to "Won't We Make a Happy Pair," and then give way to the Gaulsmith Brothers, who engage in plenty of comedy with their French poodle.

The finale finds the chorus attired in delicate green gowns and carrying large plumes. They form a number of attractive designs and dance in a fetching manner to "In Vienna," which is sung by Emma Woodland and Roy Smoot.

Sophie Tucker on Air

Sophie Tucker appeared as guest artist during a radio broadcast with Rudy Vallee and his Connecticut Yankees, Wednesday, November 19.

To Mark Fifth Birthday

The Paramount in New York will celebrate its fifth anniversary during the week beginning Friday, November 20. Bing Crosby will be featured in the elaborate stage presentation.

Roxy Singing Group To Tour

The Hall Johnson Colored Singers, a group of 32 mixed voices, now featured at the New York Roxy, will leave on a concert tour at the conclusion of the present engagement.

RKO House Drops Orchestra

The RKO Orpheum in San Francisco has dropped a 14-piece orchestra, running films only. The RKO Orpheum in Oakland has replaced Owen Sweeten's 14-piece orchestra with Nick Stuallari's band.

CHARLES B. STEIN
MASTER OF CEREMONIES
AND MUSICAL DIRECTOR
. . . .
Now Featured at the RIDGEWOOD THEATRE
BROOKLYN, NEW YORK
Under Contract With
FANCHON & MARCO
Personal Direction—PHIL BLUM

UP AND DOWN THE ALLEY

HELLO EVERYBODY

Hey—do you realize it's just five weeks 'til Xmas. . . . Wow, how time do fly. . . . You're probably saying "Who cares" . . . well, I second it. . . . To get to business, the lates news is that . . . "Bing" Crosby has all the flappers in this part of the country storming the doors of the local Paramount. . . . Will Hoffman is leading the orchestra for the morning Radio exercises over station WRNY and also plays an organ concert daily over WMCA. . . . Dick Betts is playing a week at the Lyric, Endicott, N. Y. . . . Ken Wright, organist at Lloyd's State, Rhinelander, Wis., pulled a Hallowe'en stunt, all dressed up as a skeleton, that still has the town talking. . . . The Mickey Mouse Club Organist, Art Hile, II, at one of the theatres in Bellingham, Wash., is 12 years old and is the son of Art Hile, manager of the Fox Film company's interest in that territory. . . .

* * *

Julietta Novis, singing "For You," and Leah Ray Hubbard, singing "Can't Get Mississippi off My Mind," won first and second prizes, respectively, in a contest held recently in Los Angeles to determine the best radio voices in that city. . . . Both of the artists are associated with station KFWB, Warner Brothers' coast broadcasting outlet. . . . And the songs are published by M. Witmark & Sons, thus giving Warners a clean sweep in the show contest. . . . Feist has a brand new waltz number that is a honey. . . . It is called "Save the Last Dance for Me." My old friends Walter Hirsch and Frank Magine are the writers. "Good Night Sweetheart," Robbin's current hit, is the "Song favorite of the King and Queen of England." . . . Robbin's procured the song and Rudy Vallee wrote the American version and is also using it as his theme song in his Pennsylvania hotel broadcasts. . . . Remick's modern version of "A jug of wine, a loaf of bread and thou," namely; "A Hot Dog, a Blanket and You," is a timely football song by J. Fred Coots and Charlie Newman. . . . The song carries an appropriate subtitle, "A Collegiate Nightmare." . . . Paul Jonas is now head of the Professional and Radio departments of Edward B. Marks. . . .

* * *

Sam Jack Kaufman, master of ceremonies for Fox theatres, who just closed at the Brooklyn Fox and has the distinction of having played that house for seven months continuously, has just opened at the L. A. Fox. . . . Ann Melodie is the new organist at the Lynchburg (Miss.) Paramount. J. Wesley Lord, wellknown through the Middlewest and the South, is at present featured organist at the new Fox-Westwood in L. A. . . . Clarence Leverenz, organist at the State-Kalamazoo is guest organist for one week at the Riviera, Saginaw. . . . Bill Meeder, who has been pretty sick for the past month, is again up and doing things. . . . Bill is organist at the RKO Richmond Hill, Long Island, and while he has been ill, Ken Widenor has taken his place. . . . Herb Kern is now at the Fox, Phoenix, Ariz. . . .

S'long. Ed Dawson

Freed Is Made Divisional Director at Cincinnati

Sam Freed, Jr., who recently was transferred from the New York Hippodrome pit to take charge of the orchestra at the RKO Albee, Cincinnati, has been made divisional musical director. He is succeeded in the Albee by Hal Saunders, previously playing in New York and the South.

ORGAN SOLOS

TED CRAWFORD (Santa Barbara Granada) recently presented an outstanding organ solo, called "The Phantom Organ." This novelty has been done by many organists but it is the first time this reviewer has seen or heard it done in just this way. Solo opened with a strong spot on the console, a slide on the screen announcing the title, but no organist at the keys. Seemingly, the organ started to play "When the Organ Played at Twilight," and kept it up until Crawford entered and took up the melody, finishing it with a big climax. He followed with "In a Monastery Garden," playing it in a first-class manner in concert style. He closed the solo with a singing chorus of the first named number which the entire audience joined in singing. (The playing of the organ without an organist was accomplished by using a record made by Jesse Crawford, and played on the non-sync. device in the booth over the house horns.) Ted is very popular at this house and his novelties have never failed to please in the year he has been there.

BETTYE LEE TAYLOR (Schenectady RKO Proctors), who is billed as "Queen of Harmony," presented a special organ solo entitled "Schoolology," a cleverly worked out and presented community sing, made up especially for the Teachers Convention held in that city.

Miss Taylor orally explained the solo and "taught" the "pupils" their "lessons" by having them sing each "study." She opened with "I Wanna Sing" and followed with the rollcall, sung to the tune "Collegiate." The English lesson was taught with words all starting in the letter "S." This was done to the tune "Under Your Window Tonight." The solo closed with a "Singing lesson" for which the audience sang "It's the Girl," and "Moon Comes Over the Mountain." The house was packed with school teachers, the show caught, and their appreciation and enjoyment was shown by the fine applause given Miss Taylor.

JOHN GART (Brooklyn 46th St.) presented an up-to-the-minute and pleasingly entertaining organ solo entitled "Flying High." Opening with a special lyric to "99 Out of 100," as airplane effects were heard, the "trip to the moon" started. At this time, the song sung by the audience was "Makin' Faces at the Man In the Moon." For the "visit to Mars," "Stardust" was played and sung. A timely lyric about "Lindy" was then sung to "Japanese Sandman," with special lyrics about the "Graf Zep" to the tune, "Augustine," following. "Keep Your Sunny Side Up" was sung for closing as a film of planes in action was flashed on the screen. This was a thoroughly enjoyable solo.

CON MAFFIE (New York Paradise) offered an organ songfest that earned him favor with the local patrons. He played both the Fordham and New York University school songs, and dedicated two or three more to the gridiron warriors. Following this he gave "Advice to the Lovelorn," answering the questions with popular songs and then introducing a local girl, Vera Thielman, who does very well in singing "Why Can't We Be Sweethearts Once Again." Con harmonizes with her and then has the audience sing a special version to "Through with Love." The solo was very well presented, and applause at the finish was very good.

REX KOURY (Troy RKO Proctor's 4th St.) offered a complete vaudeville show in one of his most recent organ solos and did exceptionally well with it, stopping the show at several performances. He called the novelty "Vaudeville a la Rex Koury," and opened with an introductory slide as he played "Voice of the RKO." After this, an imitation of the orchestra, playing their overture, was offered and then takeoffs on four vaudeville acts. The solo was smartly presented. Many of the audience voiced their opinion that this was one of the best solos this organist has offered.

WALTER ANDERSON (Brooklyn Madison) recently presented a song-fest entitled "Sense and Nonsense," which proved enjoyable to the audience and had them singing throughout. Opening with a special arrangement of "Happy Returns," which one of the boys in the orchestra sang very well, "Andy" played "Sweet and Lovely," with special lyrics taken from sayings on radio programs, "Through with Love," and in closing "In My Arms." Andy is a personable and likeable chap.

OVERTURES

LOU FORBES (New Orleans Saenger) and his musicians present a varied program. It is a bit out of the ordinary, in substitution for the absence of a stage show. With adequate lighting effects, the orchestra under Forbes plays "Il Guarany," the strings and basses having their hands full. Gordon Kirsch is featured next in "Flapperette," a solo on the xylophone. He draws a big hand. For a closing number, Forbes dons the black robe of a judge and proceeds to lead a trial, using his musicians as the cast. The comedy is injected by several members of the orchestra.

EDDIE PERRIGIO (Omaha Orpheum) and his RKO-lians used "Memories of Armistice Day" as the theme of a novelty medley. First there is the call to arms and strains from the "Mademoiselle of Armentieres." Then the martial rhythm to typify the march down Broadway. When the Armistice is declared, says the legend on the screen, the doughboy hopes that at home they are "Keep(ing) the Home Fires Burning." From this tune the orchestra shifts to "Home, Again," and upon the screen is the Statue of Liberty. As a finale, with the American flag fluttering lively in the breeze —screen presentation—the orchestra swings into a lively "Stars and Stripes Forever."

ABE LYMAN (Brooklyn Fox) and His Orchestra, who not only work on the stage but in the pit as well, prove conclusively to the patrons that they are accomplished musicians. This week their overture consisted of a medley of popular numbers, with different groups and singles doing solo bits. Lyman is already quite popular here and his work is very well liked.

RUBINOFF (New York Paramount) and the Paramount Orchestra presented another of his popular overtures, this one being "Irving Berlin Hits." Some of Berlin's most popular numbers were played by the orchestra, Rubinoff, himself, offering a very well played violin solo of "Reaching for the Moon," and getting a good reception.

The earnestness with which this great and dynamic leader works is apparent at every performance. This and his real showmanship have made him famous.

HERMIE KING (Oakland Fox) and the Fox Theatre Orchestra presented a novelty during the third birthday anniversary celebration of the theatre. Instead of offering this before the stage show it was put on in the middle of the show and from the stage. A member of the orchestra sang an original song about the theatre, its birthday and how happy the employees were to see such crowds. He also sang "Many Happy Returns of the Day." The musical numbers included such favorites as "Jungle Bells" and the "Bells of St. Marys," with these airs also played on electric bells and others of a wide variety.

BEN NELSON (Flushing Keith's) and His RKOlians dedicated their overture to "Armistice Day," playing American and Allied songs popular at that time. A trio of singers, made up from the orchestra, harmonized well with "Keep the Home Fires Burning," and recieved good applause. Overture closed with a slide chorus of the National Anthem which the audience joined in singing. The overture was well presented.

STAN MEYERS (Detroit Fox) features light operatic tunes as the overture by the Jazzmonic Rhythm Kings. "Romberg Rhaphodies" is the title, taking melodies from "Desert Song," "Student Prince" and "My Maryland." The individual numbers played include "The Riff Song," "Serenade," "Deep in My Heart," "One Alone," "Drinking Song" and "Your Land and My Land." As offered by this organization of musicians, the overture is nearly perfect. During the rendition of "Deep in My Heart," Meyers and Mendez offer an instrumental duet. Meyers playing sax and Mendez the cornet. Max Leib, a clever violinist, is featured in a solo during the playing of "Serenade," with a violin sextet joining in on the finish. An overture well planned and delightfully executed.

YASHA BUNCHUK (New York Capitol) and the Capitol Grand Orchestra presented an overture specially compiled by himself and entitled "Endowments." Opening with words on film, explaining the endowment funds started by wealthy people or left by famous musicians, Bunchuk offers his tribute to the old masters with an overture, which features each with a photo, the title of the composition and the writer's name. Opening with "Poor Butterfly," by Puccini, the leader then conducted the orchestra in the following compositions: Verdi's "Anvil Chorus," Foster's "Old Kentucky Home," Beethoven's "Turkish March," Wagner's "Evening Star" and Weber's "Invitation to the Dance." Enhancing the program were scrim playlets in which the Chester Hale girls participated. The overture was very well played and ably presented though it proved lengthy.

THE RELEASE CHART

Productions are listed according to the names of distributors in order that the exhibitor may have a short-cut toward such information as he may need, as well as information on pictures that are coming. Features which are finished or are in work, but to which release dates have not been assigned, are listed in "Coming Attractions." Running times are those supplies by the distributors. Where they vary, the change is probably due to local censorship deletions. Dates are 1931, unless otherwise specified.

ACTION PICTURES

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Anybody's Blonde	Dorothy Reviere-Edna Murphy	Oct. 30	59	Nov. 14
Chinatown After Dark	Carmel Myers-Rex Lease	Oct. 15	58	Oct. 31
Night Beat	Jack Mulhall-Patsy R. Miller	Nov. 30
Sky Spider, The	Glenn Tryon-Beryl Mercer	Oct. 1	59
Soul of the Slums	Wm. Collier, Jr.-B. Mehaffey	Nov. 15

BIG 4 FILM CORPORATION

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Cyclone Kid	Bud Barton	Oct. 28	60
Flying Lariats	Wally Wales	Aug. 25	60
Headin' for Trouble	Bob Custer	Sept. 22	60
Hell's Valley	Wally Wales	Mar. 18	60
Riders of the Cactus	Wally Wales	July 7	60	July 25

Coming Feature Attractions

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Big City Shadows			6 reels
Blazed Trails			6 reels
Dance Hall Kisses			6 reels
Desert Spawn			6 reels
Devils Decoy			6 reels
Diamond Mystery			6 reels
Guns and Saddles			6 reels
Highway Raiders			6 reels
Human Targets			6 reels
Lure of the Range			6 reels
Mark of the Spur			6 reels
Midnight Prowlers			6 reels
Quick Trigger Lee	Bob Custer		6 reels
Railroad Mail Limited			6 reels
Rip Roaring Bronco			6 reels
Rio Grande Raiders			6 reels

COLUMBIA

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Border Law	Buck Jones-L. Tovar	Oct. 15	61
Branded	Buck Jones	Sept. 1	61
Dangerous Affair, A	Holt-Graves-Blane	Sept. 30	77	Sept. 5
Dirigible	Holt-Gray-Wray	Apr. 4	93	Mar. 14
Dreyfus Case, The	Cedric Hardwicke	Aug. 28	92	May 2
Fifty Fathoms Deep	Richard Cromwell-Jack Holt-Loretta Sayers	Aug. 17	70	Sept. 26
Fighting Sheriff, The	Buck Jones-Loretta Sayers	May 15	61
Good Bad Girl, The	Mae Clark-James Hall	May 20	73	May 23
Lover Come Back	Jack Mulhall-C. Cummings-B. Bronson	June 5	63	June 20
Man from Chicago	Bernard Nedell	Mar. 17	65
Men Are Like That..(Arizona)	John Wayne-L. La Plante	June 27	67	Aug. 22
Middle Watch, The		Mar. 3	65
Miracle Woman, The	Barbar Stanwyck	July 20	87	Aug. 22
One Way Trail	Tim McCoy	Oct. 15	58	Oct. 31
Pagan Lady	Evelyn Brent-C. Bickford-C. Nagel	Sept. 8	63	Sept. 26
Platinum Blonde	Young-Harlow-R. Williams	Oct. 31	90
Shanghaied Love	R. Cromwell-Blane-N. Beery	Sept. 20	66	Nov. 14
Sky Raiders, The	Lloyd Hughes-Marceline Day	May 15	67
Subway Express	Holt-Kelsey-Pringle	May 1	68	May 9
Ten Cents a Dance	Barbara Stanwyck-Cortez	Mar. 6	79	Mar. 19
Texas Ranger, The	Buck Jones	Apr. 10	61	Apr. 25

Coming Feature Attractions

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Blonde Baby	Jean Harlow-Mae Clarke
Deadline	Buck Jones	Dec. 3
Deceiver, The	Lloyd Hughes-Dorothy Sebastian-Ian Keith
Fathered Serpent	Walter Byron-Bette Davis-H. B. Warner
Fighting Marshal, The	Tim McCoy
Final Edition
Forbidden	Barbara Stanwyck - Adolphe Menjou - Ralph Bellamy
Guilty Generation	Leo Carillo-C. Cummings-Leslie Fenton	Dec. 4
Justice Rides Again	Buck Jones
Men in Her Life	Lois Moran-Chas. Bickford	Dec. 10
Range Feud	Buck Jones	Dec. 1	56	Oct. 3
Ridin' For Justice	Buck Jones
Shopworn	Barbara Stanwyck
Shot Gun Pass	Tim McCoy
Terror by Night	Wm. Collier, Jr.-Una Merkel			Oct. 17
(Untitled)	Jack Holt - Constance Cummings
Yellow	Jack Holt - Richard Cromwell - John Wayne

CONTINENTAL PICTURES CORP.

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Defenders of the Law	Catherine Dale Owen-Holland-Gleckler	May 1		May 23
Mystery Train, The	N. Stuart-M. Day-H. Hopper	Aug. 1

Coming Feature Attractions

Star	Title	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Air Eagles			6 reels
Hellion's Last Cruise, The			6 reels
Rose of Chinatown			6 reels
Streets of Shadows			6 reels

FIRST NATIONAL

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Bargain, The	Lewis Stone-Doris Kenyon (Reviewed under title "You and I")	Sept. 5	70	Apr. 18
Big Business Girl	Loretta Young-Ricardo Cortez	July 4	80	Mar. 14
Broadminded	Joe E. Brown	Aug. 1	72	Apr. 11
Chances	Douglas Fairbanks, Jr.	July 18	72	May 9
Compromised	Ben Lyon-Rose Hobart (Reviewedd under the title "We Three")	Dec. 5		Sept. 12
Finger Points, The	Barthelmess-Wray	Apr. 11	88	Mar. 21
Five Star Final	Edward G. Robinson	Sept. 26	89	June 27
Honor of the Family	Bebe Daniels	Oct. 17	66	Oct. 24
Hot Heiress, The	Lyon-Munson	Mar. 28	78	Jan. 24
I Like Your Nerve	D. Fairbanks, Jr.-L. Young	Sept. 12	70	Sept. 19
Last Flight	Richard Barthelmess	Aug. 29	77	Sept. 12
Men of the Sky	Irene Delroy-Jack Whiting	June 20	88
Party Husband	Dorothy Mackaill	June 6	68	Apr. 18
Penrod and Sam	Leon Janney	Oct. 3	71	Aug. 29
Reckless Hour	Dorothy Mackaill-Conrad Nagel	Aug. 15	72	May 2
Ruling Voice, The	Huston-Young-Kenyon	Oct. 31	76	Nov. 14

Coming Feature Attractions

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Alias the Doctor	Richard Barthelmess
Captain's Wife, The	Lil Dagover-Walter Huston	Jan. 9,'32
Fireman, Save My Child	Joe E. Brown
Her Majesty, Love	Marilyn Miller-Ben Lyon	Dec. 26		Nov. 14
Honorable Mr. Wong	Edw. G. Robinson
Local Boy Makes Good	Joe E. Brown	Nov. 21		Oct. 3
Safe In Hell	Dorothy Mackaill	Dec. 12
Union Depot	D. Fairbanks,Jr.-J. Blondell	Nov. 28

FOX FILMS

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Always Goodbye	Landi-Stone	May 24	60	Apr. 25
Ambassador Bill	Will Rogers	Nov. 22		Oct. 24
Annabelle's Affairs	McLaglen-MacDonald	June 14	75	May 30
Bad Girl	James Dunn-Sally Eilers	Sept. 13	88	July 18
Black Camel	Warner Oland-Eilers	June 21	71	May 15
Brat, The	Sally O'Neil-F. Albertson	Sept. 20	67	July 25
Charlie Chan Carries On	Oland-Churchill	Apr. 12	69	Mar. 28
Cisco Kid, The	Baxter-Lowe-Montenegro	Nov. 1	61	Oct. 10
Daddy Long Legs	Gaynor-Baxter	June 7	80	May 23
Doctors' Wives	Baxter-Bennett	Mar. 15	82	Apr. 4
Goldie	Harlow-S. Tracy-W. Hymer	June 28	68	July 11
Heartbreak	C. Farrell-H. Albright	Nov. 8		Oct. 10
Holy Terror, A	George O'Brien-S. Eilers	July 19	53	July 25
Hush Money	J. Bennet - J. Kirkwood-Hardie Allbright	July 5	69	June 13
Merely Mary Ann	Gaynor-Farrell	Sept. 6	75	Aug. 1
Mr. Lemon of Orange	Brendel-Dorsay	Mar. 22	67	Mar. 7
Not Exactly Gentlemen	McLaglen-Wray-Cody-Gribbon	Mar. 8	61	Apr. 11
Over the Hill	Dunn-Eilers-Marsh-Crandall-Kirkwood-Lane	Nov. 29	89	Oct. 31
Quick Millions	Tracy-Churchill-Eilers	May 3	70	Apr. 4
Riders of the Purple Sage	G. O'Brien-M. Churchill	Oct. 18	57	Sept. 19
6 Cylinder Love	Spencer Tracey - Merkel (Reviewed under title "The Minute Man")	May 10	70	Apr. 18
Skyline	T. Meighan - H. Albright-Maureen O'Sullivan	Oct. 11	70	Aug. 22
Sob Sister	J. Dunn - Linda Watkins	Oct. 25	71	Sept. 26
Spider, The	Edmund Lowe-Lois Moran	Sept. 27	60	Aug. 22
Spy, The	Hamilton-Johnson	Apr. 26	68
Their Mad Moment	Baxter-Mackaill-Pitts	July 12	57
3 Girls Lost	Wayne-Young	Apr. 19	71	Apr. 18
Transatlantic	Edmund Lowe-Lois Moran	Aug. 30	73	July 18
Wicked	V. McLaglen-Elissa Landi	Oct. 4	55	Aug. 8
Women of All Nations	McLaglen-Lowe-Nissen	May 31	72	May 30
Yellow Ticket, The	Elissa Landi-L. Barrymore	Nov. 15	76	Oct. 17
Young As You Feel	Will Rogers-Dorsay	Aug. 23	78	Apr. 18
Young Sinners	Meighan-Jordan-Kirkwood	May 17	70

Coming Feature Attractions

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Alimony	Baxeter-Bennett
Business and Pleasure	Will Rogers-Jetta Goudal
Charlie Chan's Chance	Warner Oland-Marian Nixon-Ralph Morgan
Circumstance	Violet Heming - Ralph Bellamy
Dance Team	James Dunn - Sally Eilers
Delicious	Gaynor-Farrell	Dec. 27
Devil's Lottery	Sally Eilers - C. Farrell
Disorderly Conduct	Ralph Bellamy-Spencer Tracy
First Cabin	Ralph Morgan-Sally O'Neil
Good Sport	Linda Watkins-John Boles	Dec. 13		Nov. 14
Heart Free(Tent.)	Janet Gaynor
Rainbow Trail	Geo. O'Brien-Cecilia Parker	Jan. 3,'32
She Wanted a Millionaire	J. Bennett-S. Tracy
Stepping Sisters	Louise Dresser - Wm. Collier, Sr.-Minna Gombell
Surrender	Warner Baxter-Leila Hyams	Dec. 6
Swindle	Spencer Tracy-J. Kirkwood
While Paris Sleeps	McLaglen-Helen Mack
Widow's Might	John Boles
Young America

METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Champ, The	Wallace Beery-Jackie Cooper	Dec. 5		Oct. 17
Cuban Love Song, The	L. Tibbett-L. Velez	Oct. 31		Oct. 24
Daybreak	Ramon Novarro	May 2	76	Apr. 18
Five and Ten	Marion Davies	June 13	89	June 13
Free Soul, A	Norma Shearer-Leslie Howard	June 20	92	Apr. 25
Great Lover, The	A. Menjou	July 18	71	July 4

(THE RELEASE CHART--CONT'D)

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Guardsman, The	Lunt-Fontaine-Z. Pitts	Nov. 7	81	Aug. 8
Guilty Hands	L. Barrymore-M. Evans	Aug. 22	68	July 18
Just a Gigolo	William Haines	June 6	67	Apr. 25
(Reviewed under title "The Lullaby")
Laughing Sinners	J. Crawford-N. Hamilton	May 30	72	June 6
Man in Possession, The	Robert Montgomery	July 4	84	June 13
Never the Twain Shall Meet	Montenegro-Smith-Howard	May 16	80	May 30
New Adventures of Get Rich Quick Wallingford, The	Wm. Haines	Oct. 3	94	Sept. 19
Pardon Us	Laurel-Hardy	Aug. 15	55	Aug. 29
Phantom of Paris, The	John Gilbert-Leila Hyams	Sept. 12	74
Politics	Dressler-Moran	July 25	73	July 4
Polly of the Circus	Marion Davies
Possessed	Joan Crawford-Clark Gable	Nov. 21		Oct. 31
Private Lives	N. Shearer-R. Montgomery	Nov. 28
Secret Six, The	Beery-Harlow	Apr. 18	83	Apr. 25
Son of India	Ramon Novarro	Aug. 1	73	Aug. 1
Sidewalks of New York	Buster Keaton	Sept. 26	71	Aug. 15
Sin of Madelon Claudet, The	Helen Haves-Lewis Stone	Oct. 24		Oct. 3
(Reviewed under title "Dancing Partner")
Sporting Blood	Clark Gable-M. Evans	Aug. 8	84	July 18
Squaw Man, The	Roland Young-Velez-Baxter	Sept. 5	06
Stepping Out	Denny-Greenwood-Hyams	Apr. 11	73	Mar. 21
Susan Lenox, Her Fall and Rise	Greta Garbo-Clark Gable	Oct. 10		July 18
Tailor Made Man, A	William Haines	Mar. 28	80	Mar. 7
This Modern Age	Joan Crawford	Aug. 29	68	June 13

Coming Feature Attractions

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Ben Hur	Ramon Navarro-May McAvoy (Re-issue - Synchronized)	Dec. 19
Boarding School	Madge Evans-Jordan-Page
City Sentinels	Walter Huston-Jean Harlow
Courage	Robert Montgomery
Emma	Maria Dressler	Jan. 2,'32
Family Affair, A	Robert Montgomery
Flying High	Bert Lahr	Nov. 14		Oct. 24
Freaks	Wallace Ford-Leila Hyams
Grand Hotel
Hell Divers	Beery-Rambeau	Dec. 5
Her Cardboard Lover	Buster Keaton
Limpy	Jackie Cooper
Mati Hari	Greta Garbo-R. Navarro	Dec. 26
Sky Scraper	Madge Evans - Rbt. Young
Tarzan	Johnny Weismuller - Maureen O'Sullivan
West of Broadway	J. Gilbert-Brendel-L. Moran	Dec. 12		Aug. 22

MONOGRAM PICTURES CORPORATION

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Dugan of the Badlands	Bill Cody	June 27	60	Aug. 8
In Line of Duty	Sue Carol-Noah Beery	Oct. 1	64	Oct. 10
Land of Wanted Men	Bill Cody	Oct. 30	62
Man from Death Valley, The	Tom Tyler	Sept. 1	62
Montana Kid, The	Bill Cody	Aug. 10	60
Mother and Son	Clara K. Young	Aug. 1	60	Aug. 22
Oklahoma Jim	Bill Cody	Oct. 10	60
Partners of the Trail	Tom Tyler	July 11	64	Sept. 5
Ships of Hate	L. Hughes-D. Sebastian	June 20	65	Aug. 8
Two Fisted Justice	Tom Tyler	Oct. 20	63

Coming Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Forgotten Women	M. Shilling-Rex Bell	Dec. 1	7 reels
Galloping Thru	Tom Tyler	Dec. 5	6 reels
Ghost City	Cody-Shuford	Dec. 10	6 reels
Law of the Sea,	All Star	Dec. 1	6 reels

PARAMOUNT PUBLIX

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
An American Tragedy	Phillips Holmes-Sylvia Sidney-Frances Dee	Aug. 22	95	June 6
Beloved Bachelor	Paul Lukas-D. Jordan	Oct. 24	74	Oct. 3
Caught	Richard Arlen-L. Dresser	Aug. 8	68	July 4
City Streets	Sylvia Sidney-Gary Cooper	Apr. 18	80	Apr. 11
Confession of a Co-Ed	P. Holmes-Sylvia Sidney	July 11	75
Daughter of the Dragon	Warner Oland-Anna May Wong	Sept. 5	79	Aug. 8
Dude Ranch, The	Jack Oakie	May 16	67	Apr. 18
Girl Habit, The	Charles Ruggles	June 27	77	July 11
Girls About Town	Kay Francis-L. Tashman	Oct. 3	80	Oct. 17
Gun Smoke	Arlen-Brian	Apr. 11	64	Mar. 14
Honeymoon Lane	Eddie Dowling	July 25	71	July 11
Honor Among Lovers	Colbert-March-Ruggles	Mar. 21	75	Mar. 7
Huckleberry Finn	J. Coogan-Mitzi Green	Aug. 15	80	Aug. 1
I Take This Woman	Gary Cooper-Carole Lombard	June 27	74
Kick In	Clara Bow	May 23	74	Apr. 25
Ladies' Man	Wm. Powell-Kay Francis	May 9	75	Apr. 4
Lawyers' Secret, The	Clive Brook	June 6	63	May 23
Mad Parade	E. Brent-L. Tashman	Oct. 3	64	May 2
Magnificent Lie	Ruth Chatterton	July 25	79	July 25
Man of the World	Wm. Powell-Lombard	Mar. 28	70	Mar. 7
Monkey Business	Four Marx Bros.	Sept. 19	77	Aug. 1
Murder by the Clock	Wm. Boyd-L. Tashman	Aug. 8	74	July 4
My Sin	Tallulah Bankhead-March	Oct. 3	78	Sept. 19
Newly Rich	Mitzi Green-Jackie Searl	June 20	77	June 6
(Also booked as "Forbidden Advenure")
Night Angel	Nancy Carroll-Fred March	July 18	71	July 11
Once a Lady	Ruth Chatterton	Nov. 7	80	Oct. 17
Personal Maid	Nancy Carroll	Sept. 12	77	Sept. 12
Road to Rome	Charles Rogers	Oct. 17	73	Sept. 5
Secret Call, The	Peggy Shannon-Richard Arlen	July 25	73
Secrets of a Secretary	C. Colbert	Sept. 5	75
Silence	Clive Brook-Peggy Shannon	Aug. 29	68	July 25
Skippy	Mitzi Green-Jackie Searl-Jackie Cooper	Apr. 25	88	Mar. 21
Smiling Lieutenant, The	M. Chevalier-C. Colbert	Aug. 1	89	July 11
Tabu	South Sea Island natives and Chinese half castes	Aug. 1	81	Mar. 21
Tarnished Lady	C. Brook-Tallulah Bankhead	May 2	80	May 9
Touchdown	R. Arlen-C. Starrett-J. Oakie	Nov. 14	77	Oct. 31
Twenty-Four Hours	C. Brook-Kay Francis	Oct. 10	68	Sept. 12
Up Pops the Devil	N. Foster-Carole Lombard	May 30	75
Vice Squad	Lukas-Francis	June 13	70	May 9
Women Love Once	Lucas-Boardman-Tashman	July 4	73	July 4

Coming Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Cheat, The	T. Bankhead	Nov. 28
Confession	C. Colbert-Wm. Boyd	Jan. 23,'32
Dance Palace	Miriam Hopkins-Chas. Rogers
Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde	Fredric March-M. Hopkins	Jan. 2,'32
False Madonna, The	Kay Francis-Wm. Boyd	Dec. 5
His Woman	G. Cooper-C. Colbert	Nov. 21
Husband's Holiday	Clive Brook-V. Osborne	Dec. 19
Ladies of the Big House	Sylvia Sidney-Wynne Gibson	Dec. 19
Lives of A Bengal Lancer, The	Clive Brook-Phillips Holmes
Man I Killed, The	Lionel Barrymore-Nancy Carroll-Philips Holmes	Nov. 28
Master Key, The (Tent.)	Frederic March
Miracle Man, The	Gary Cooper - Sylvia Sidney
Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch	All Star
No One Man	R. Arlen-C. Lombard	Jan. 30,'32
One Hour With You	Maurice Chevalier-Jeanette MacDonald-Genevieve Tobin
Rich Man's Folly	G. Bancroft-Kay Francis	Nov. 14
Second Chances	Buddy Rogers-Peggy Shannon	Jan. 9,'32
Shanghai Express	Marlene Dietrich-C. Brook-Carole Lombard-Rich'd Arlen	Jan. 16,'32
Sky Bride	Jackie Cooper - Robt. Coogan-J. Searl	Dec. 26
Sooky	G. Bancroft-E. Boardman
Through the Window	P. Holmes-M. Hopkins
Two Kinds of Women	Nancy Carroll-Richard Arlen	Jan. 9,'32
Wayward	Tallulah Bankhead
Woman Against Woman	P. Shannon-S. Erwin-
Working Girls	Buddy Rogers	Dec. 12

PEERLESS PRODUCTIONS, INC.

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Lovebound	Marion Nixon - Neil Hamilton - Sally Blane	Dec. 10
Sea Ghost, The	L. La Plante-Alan Hale	Nov. 1
Sporting Chance, The	Wm. Collier, Jr. - Claudia Dell-James Hall	Nov. 21	69	Nov. 7

RKO PATHE

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Bad Company	Helen Twelvetrees	Oct. 2	75	Sept. 12
Beyond Victory	Boyd	Apr. 12	73	Apr. 18
Big Gamble, The	Bill Boyd	Sept. 4	63	Sept. 26
Born to Love	Constance Bennett	Apr. 17	99
Common Law	Constance Bennett	July 24	77	July 25
Devotion	Ann Harding	Sept. 5	84	Sept. 26
Freighters of Destiny	Tom Keene	Oct. 30	60	Oct. 31
Rebound	Ina Claire	Sept. 18	91	June 13
Sundown Trail	Tom Keene-M. Shilling	Sept. 11	55	Oct. 24
Sweepstakes	Eddie Quillan-Marion Nixon	July 10	77	June 13
Tip Off, The	E. Quillan-R. Armstrong	Oct. 16	75	Oct. 31
Woman of Experience	Heeln Twelvetrees	Aug. 7	76	Apr. 25

Coming Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Bad Timber	Bill Boyd	Jan. 22,'32
Big Shot, The	Eddie Quillan	Dec. 18
Lady with a Past	Constance Bennett	Nov. '6
Pick Up	Helen Twelvetrees
Prestige	Ann Harding	Dec. 25
Suicide Fleet, The	Boyd-Armstrong-Gleason	Nov. 20
Woman Commands	Pola Negri
Women Need Love	Ann Harding

RKO RADIO PICTURES

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Are These Our Children?	Eric Linden-Rochelle Hudson-Arlene Judge	Nov. 14	83	Oct. 17
Caught Plastered	Wheeler-Woolsey-D. Lee	Sept. 5	68	June 27
(Reviewed under the title "Full of Notions")
Consolation Marriage	Irene Dunne-Pat O'Brien	Nov. 7	81	Sept. 5
Donovan's Kid	Richard Dix-Shilling-Sheridan-Jackie Cooper	June 6	77	May 9
Everything's Rosie	Robert Woolsey-Anita Louise	June 13	76	May 9
Fanny Foley Herself	Edna May Oliver	Oct. 10	72	Aug. 15
Friends and Lovers	Lily Damita-Adolph Menjou-Eric Von Stroheim	Oct. 3	68	Aug. 15
Gay Diplomat, The	G. Tobin-B. Compson-I. Lebedeff	Sept. 19	67	Aug. 1
(Reviewed under the title "Woman Pursued")
High Stakes	Lowell Sherman-Mae Murray	Aug. 18	69	May 9
Lady Refuses, The	Betty Compson-John Darrow	Mar. 8	72
Laugh and Get Rich	Edna May Oliver-Dorothy Lee	Apr. 20	72	Mar. 7
Perfect Alibi	All Star	Apr. 1	76
Public Defender, The	Richard Dix	Aug. 1	70
Runaround, The	Kerr, Provost, Brian, Hines	Aug. 22	66	May 9
(Reviewed under the title "Waiting at the Church")
Sin Ship, The	Wolheim-Mary Astor-Ian Keith	Apr. 18	65
Smart Woman	Mary Astor-Rob't Ames	Sept. 26	68	Aug. 1
Three Who Loved	B. Compson-R. Ames-C. Nagel	July 3	78	June 13
Too Many Cooks	Bert Wheeler-Dorothy Lee	July 18	77	Aug. 22
Transgression	Kay Francis-Ricardo Cortez	June 27	69
Traveling Husbands	Evelyn Brent	Aug. 15	74	May 2
White Shoulders	Astor-Cortez Holt	June 6	81	May 30
W. Plan, The	All Star	Mar. 15	98	Apr. 4
Women Between, The	Lily Damita-Lester Vail	Aug. 8	73	Apr. 25

Coming Feature Attractions

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Bird of Paradise	Dolores Del Rio
Dove, The	Dolores Del Rio-Leo Carillo
Exposed	Mary Astor-Ricardo Cortez
Frontier	Dix-Dunne
Girl Crazy	Wheeler-Lee-Woolsey
Ladies of the Jury	Edna May Oliver
Peach O' Reno	Woolsey-Wheeler			Nov. 14
Secret Service	Dix-Shirley Grey	Nov. 14	68	Oct. 10
Way Back Home	Phillips "Seth Parker" Lord	Nov. 13	81	Oct. 3
(Reviewed under the title "Other People's Business")

SONO ART-WORLD WIDE

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Air Police	Kenneth Harlan-J. Dunn	Apr. 1	60	Mar. 21
First Aid	Gr. Withers-Marjorie Beebe	July 25	65
Hell Bent for 'Frisco	Delaney-Reynolds	July 10	65	July 18
In Old Cheyenne	Rex Lease-Dorothy Gulliver	May 25	62	June 20
Is There Justice?	Rex Lease, Walthall, Blanche Mehaffey	Oct. 4	62	Oct. 3
Mounted Fury	J. Bowers-Blanche Mehaffey	Dec. 1	65
Neck and Neck	Glenn Tryon-Vera Reynolds	Nov. 4	63	Nov. 7
Symphony in Two Flats	Novello-Logan	Apr. 15	74

STATE RIGHTS

Features

Title	Star	Dist'r	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Alibi	Austin Trever	Gaumont-W & F		74	May 30
Alice in Wonderland	Ruth Gilbert	Unique Foto Film	Sept. 30	55	Sept. 26
Almost a Divorce	Nelson Keys	Gaumont-W & F		60	Sept. 19
Black Coffee	Austin Trever	Twickenham Films, Ltd.		79	Sept. 12
Cain and Artem	Emil Gall	Sovinko

(THE RELEASE CHART--CONT'D)

Title	Star	Dist'r	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Calendar, The	Herbert Marshall, Edna Best	Gaumont-W & F
Chance of a Night Time	Ralph Lynn	Gaumont-W & F		78	Nov. 7
Convicted	Aileen Pringle	Artclass Pictures			June 13
Das Cabinet Des Dr. Lari Fari		George Schneider			Oct. 3
Das Rheinlandmaedel	Greti Berndt	Capitol	Sept. 17	70	Sept. 26
Deadlock	Stewart Rome	Butchers Film Service		85	Sept. 26
Der Grosse Tenor	Emil Jannings	Ufa Film			June 6
Der Liebesexpress	George Alexander	Foreign Talking Pictures	June 15	86
Die Foerster Christi	Irene Elsinger	Trans-Ocean Film		94	July 5
Dolly Gets Ahead	Dolly Haas	Ufa Film	July 17	94	Aug. 1
Express 13	Heinz Koenecke	Ufa	Aug. 7	65	Aug. 22
Flute Concert of Sanssouci	Otto Gebuehr	Ufa	Oct. 16	82	Oct. 24
Enemies of the Law	Mr. Nolan-J. Walker	Capital Films	July 21	69	July 18
Glamour	Wardour Films	Seymour Hicks		73	July 4
Ghost Train, The	Jack Hulbert	Gainsborough-Gaumont		70	Oct. 10
Great Passion, The	Camilla Horn	Tobis	Oct. 7	90	Oct. 24
Grief Street	Jean Royce	Chesterfield		65	Oct. 24
Hard Hombre	Hoot Gibson	Allied Pictures			Aug. 22
Hindle Wakes	Belle Chrystall	Gaumont-Gainsborough		79	Oct. 10
Hobson's Choice	Viola Lyel	British Int'n't'l		65	Oct. 24
Inn at the Rhine, The	Kaethe Dorsch	Associated Cinemas of America	Sept. 23	90	Oct. 17
Jew at War, A	Venimin Zuskin	Ukrainfilm		71	Aug. 1
Karamazov	Fritz Kortner	Tobis Forenfilm	Sept. 18	81	Oct. 10
Lawless Woman, The	Vera Reynolds	Chesterfield	June 15	63	July 4
Let's Love and Laugh	Gene Gerrard	Wardour Film		84	May 30
Lightnin' Smith Returns	Buddy Roosevelt	Standard	Aug. 15	59	Aug. 22
Love Storm, The	Fay Compton	British Int'n't'l	Oct. 16	62	Oct. 24
Love Waltz, The	Willy Fritsch	Ufa Film	May 15
Maciste in Hell	Bartolomeo Pagano	Excelsior Pictures Corp.			July 11
Mad Parade, The	M. Day-L. Fazenda	Liberty Prod.			May 2
Merry Wives of Vienna	Willy Forst	Super Films	July 9	95	July 18
Naples and Sorrento		Italian Star Film Prod.		78
Night Life in Reno	Virginia Valli	Artclass Pictures Corp.			Aug. 8
Night Raid	Albert Prejean	Osso. Films	Nov. 7		Nov. 7
No Lady	Lupino Lane	Gaumont-British		72	May 30
Nur Am Rhein	Daisy D'Ora	Foreign Talking Pictures	Oct. 1	85
Private Scandal, A	Marian Nixon-Lloyd Hughes	Headline Pic.		72	Nov. 14
Pueblo Terror	Buffalo Bill, Jr.	West Coast Studios	Apr. 15	60	Apr. 11
Puppet, The	Max Hansen			8 reels
Queen of Sparta, The		Italafilm		9 reels
Queen's Necklace		Protex		9 reels
Road to Hell		Public Welfare Films			July 4
Sally in Our Alley	Gracie Fields	Asso. Radio Pictures		77	July 25
Shadow Between, The	Kathleen O'Regan-Godfrey Tearle	British Int'n't'l		88	Sept. 19
Sherlock Holmes' Fatal Hour	Arthur Wontner	First Division			July 18
Speckled Band, The	Lynn Harding	First Division	Nov. 6	67	Nov. 14
Stamboul	Warwick Ward	Paramount-British		75	Nov. 7
Student's Song of Heidelberg	Willy Forst-Betty Bird	Ufa			Sept. 19
Susanne Macht Ordnung	Truus Van Alten	Foreign Talking Pictures	Oct. 15	32
Ten Nights in a Barroom		Goetz		8 reels
These Charming People	Cyril Maude	Para. Film Service, Ltd.		85	Aug. 8
Three from Filling Station	Willy Fritsch	Ufa		75	July 4
Thirty Days	M. O'Sullivan-Betty Compson	Patrician Pic.	Nov. 14
Tilly of Bloomsbury	Sydney Howard	Sterling			May 16
Up for the Cup	John W. Entwhistle	Gaumont-British			Oct. 10
Viking, The	C. Starrett	J. D. Williams		72	June 20
Wild Horse	Hoot Gibson	Allied Pictures			July 11
Women Men Marry	Harlan-Blaine	Headline Pic.		69	Mar. 7

SERIALS

NAT LEVINE

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Eagle's Shadow, The			12 episodes
Galloping Ghost, The	Harold Red Grange	Sept. 1	12 episodes
Lightning Warrior, The	Rin Tin Tin		12 episodes
Vanished Legion, The	Harry Carey-Edwin Booth	June 10	12 episodes	July 25

SYNDICATE PICTURES CORPORATION

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Mystery Trooper, The	Robt. Frazer-B. Mehaffy	Apr. 1	10 episodes

UNIVERSAL

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Battling with Buffalo Bill	Tom Tyler-Rex Bell	Nov. 28	12 episodes	Oct. 3
Danger Island	Ken. Harlan-Luicille Brown	Aug. 24	12 episodes	Aug. 1
Heroes of the Flames	Tim McCoy	June 2	12 episodes
Spell of the Circus	F. Bushman, Jr.-A. Vaughn	Jan. 12	10 episodes

SYNDICATE PICTURES CORPORATION

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
God's Country and the Man	Tom Tyler	May 1	67
Law of the Rio Grande	Bob Custer	July 20	58	Aug. 18
Riders of the North	Bob Custer	Mar. 1	67	Apr. 11
Rider of the Plains, A	Tom Tyler	Apr. 1	61	May 9
Son of the Plains, A	Bob Custer	May 15	60	July 11

TIFFANY

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Alias the Band Man	Ken Maynard	July 15	66	Aug. 15
Arizona Terror, The	Ken Maynard	Sept. 1	64	Oct. 17
Leftover Ladies	Claudia Dell-M. Rambeau	Oct. 1	70	Oct. 3
Morals for Women	Bessie Love	Oct. 25
Murder at Midnite	Alice White-Hale Hamilton	Sept. 1	69	Oct. 10
Near the Trail's End	Bob Steele	Sept. 20
Nevada Buckaroo	Bob Steele	Sept. 27
Range Law	Ken Maynard	Oct. 11	63	Nov. 14
Riding Fool	Bob Steele	May 25	64	June 20
Salvation Nell	Graves-Chandler	July 1	85	July 11
South of Santa Fe	Bob Steele	Sept. 15
Two Gun Man, The	Ken Maynard	May 15	63	June 13
Women Go on Forever	Clara Kimball Young	Aug. 15	78	July 18

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Coming Feature Attractions
Branded Men	Ken Maynard	Nov. 8
Fighting Mad	Ken Maynard	Dec. 6
Hotel Continental		Jan. 17,'32
Last Mile, The		Dec. 13
Luxury Girls		Mar. 30,'32
Race Track	Lee Carrillo	Nov. 1
Riders of the West	Bob Steele
Silent Thunder		Apr. 17,'32
Strangers of the Evening		Apr. 31,'32
Sunset Trail	Ken Maynard	Jan. 3,'32
Those We Love		Feb. 14,'32
X Marks the Spot	Lew Cody-Sally Blane	Dec. 27

UNITED ARTISTS

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Age for Love, The	Billie Dove	Oct. 17	80	Aug. 29
Around the World in Eighty Minutes	Douglas Fairbanks	Nov. 28	80	Nov. 7
Cock of the Air	Billie Dove-Chester Morris	Oct. 7
Corsair	Chester Morris	Dec. 19	75
Front Page	Adolphe Menjou	Apr. 4	90	Mar. 28
Indiscreet	Gloria Swanson	Apr. 25	94	Mar. 14
Palmy Days	Eddie Cantor	Oct. 3	80	Sept. 5
Street Scene	S. Sidney-W. Collier, Jr.	Sept. 5	80	Aug. 22
Unholy Garden, The	Ronald Colman	Oct. 10	75	Aug. 8

Coming Feature Attractions

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Arrowsmith	Ronald Colman	Dec. 26
Greeks Had a Word for It	Ina Claire-M. Evans-Blondell	Feb. 13
Kid From Spain, The	Lily Damita-Eddie Cantor
Scarface	Paul Muni	Nov. 28
Sons O' Guns	Lily Damita-Al Jolson
Sky Devils	All Star	Jan. 9,'32
Struggle, The	Zita Johann-Hal Skelly	Nov. 14
Tonight or Never	Gloria Swanson	Dec. 26		Nov. 14

UNIVERSAL

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Bad Sister	Nagel-Fox-Davis	Mar. 23	67	Mar. 14
East of Borneo	Rose Hobart-Chas. Bickford	Sept. 15	74	Oct. 3
Ex-Bad Boy	R. Armstrong-Jean Arthur	July 15	66
Graft	Regis Toomey-Sue Carol	Sept. 21	54	Aug. 15
Homicide Squad	L. Carrillo-M. Brian-N. Beery	Sept. 29	69	Aug. 1
Iron Man, The	Lew Ayres	Apr. 30	72	Mar. 28
Lasca of the Rio Grande	Leo Carillo	Nov. 2	65	July 25
Mother's Millions	May Robson	Aug. 15	93	Feb. 28
Mystery of Life	Clarence Darrow	Aug. 3	73	July 11
Reckless Living	Mae Clarke-Norman Foster	Oct. 20	68	Sept. 12
Seed	John Boles-Genevieve Tebin	May 11	97	Apr. 25
Spirit of Notre Dame	Lew Ayres	Oct. 13	79	Sept. 26
Strictly Dishonorable	Paul Lukas-Sidney Fox	Jan. 1,'32	91	Nov. 7
Up for Murder	Ayres-Tobin	June 15	70
Waterloo Bridge	Mae Clarke-Kent Douglass	Sept. 1	81	Aug. 8

Coming Feature Attractions

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Back Street	Rose Hobart
Barbary Coast
Blue Blazes
Bullet Proof
Cohens & Kellys in Hollywood	G. Sidney-C. Murray
Destry Rides Again	Tom Mix
Eagles	Lew Ayres
Fate
Frankenstein	Colin Clive-Mae Clarke	Nov. 21	71	Nov. 14
Gallows	Lew Ayres-Rose Hobart
Great Air Robbery
Heaven on Earth	Lew Ayres-Anita Louise	Dec. 12		Oct. 3
House Divided, A	W. Huston-H. Chandler	Nov. 28
Impatient Maiden	Sidney Fox
Lady of Resource	Rose Hobart
Law and Order	Walter Huston-Lois Wilson	Dec. 26
Marriage Interlude	John Boles, Lois Wilson, Sidney Fox
Murders in the Rue Morgue	Bela Lugosi-Sidney Fox
Nice Women	Sidney Fox-Frances Dee	Dec. 5
Oh, Promise Me
Unexpected Father, The	Slim Summerville-Zazu Pitts

WARNER BROTHERS

Features

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
Alexander Hamilton	George Arliss	Sept. 12	71	June 13
Beggars Opera, The	Rudolph Forster	June	14
Bought!	Constance Bennett-Ben Lyon	Aug. 22	83	July 18
Captain Thunder	F. Wray-V. Varconi	Apr. 26	67	May 16
Children of Dreams	Marget Schilling	July 25	83	July 25
Expensive Women	Dolores Costello	Oct. 24
God's Gift to Women	Fay-LaPlante	Apr. 25	75	Mar. 14
Gold Dust Gertie	Winnie Lightner	June 27	68	May 9
Maltese Falcon, The	Bebe Daniels-R. Cortez	June 13	80	Apr. 18
Mad Genius, The	John Barrymore-M. Marsh	Nov. 7	81	Oct. 31
Millionaire, The	George Arliss	May 1	81	Mar. 14
Night Nurse	Barbara Stanwyck	Aug. 8	73	July 25
Public Enemy, The	Harlow-Cagney	May 15	96
Road to Singapore, The	Wm. Powell-M. Marsh-Kenyon	Oct. 10	70	Aug. 1
Side Show	Lightner-Butterworth	Sept. 19	66	July 4
Smart Money	Edw. G. Robinson	July 11	81	May 16
Star Witness, The	Walter Huston	Aug. 22	68	July 25
Svengali	John Barrymore-M. Marsh	May 22	83	May 9

Coming Feature Attractions

Title	Star	Rel. Date	Running Time Minutes	Reviewed
High Pressure	Wm. Powell-Evelyn Brent
Blonde Crazy	James Cagney-J. Blondell	Nov. 18	75	Aug. 22
Manhattan Parade	W. Lightner-Butterworth
Man Who Played God	George Arliss
Old Man Minick	Charles "Chic" Sale
Shadows on the Wall	Kay Francis	Dec. 12
Taxi!	James Cagney-Loretta Young	Jan. 9,'32
Under Eighteen	Marian Marsh-Anita Page	Dec. 31

(THE RELEASE CHART--CONT'D)

SHORT FILMS

[All dates are 1931 unless otherwise stated]

BIG FOUR

Title	Rel. Date	Minutes Running Time	Reviewed
JAMISON-MURDOCK
Wages of Gin, The	Apr. 28	25

COLUMBIA

Title	Rel. Date	Minutes Running Time	Reviewed
CURIOSITIES
C 220	Mar. 26	1 reel
C 221	May 25	1 reel
C 222	June 25	1 reel
C 223	June 26	1 reel
C 224	Aug. 1	1 reel
C 225	Aug. 29	1 reel
C 226	Sept. 4	1 reel
C 227	Sept. 30	1 reel
C 228	Sept. 30	1 reel
EDDIE BUZZELL SPECIALTIES
Blond Pressure		1 reel
Call of the North		1 reel
Check and Rubber Check	Mar. 13	1 reel
Chris Crossed	Aug. 3	1 reel
I Can't Find a Name for It		9
Kings or Better	May 1	8	May 30
Last of Mee Higgins	May 22	1 reel
Lone Star Stranger	Dec. 27	1 reel	Feb. 7
Red Men Tell No Tales		1 reel
Soldiers of Misfortune	Oct. 26	1 reel
Wine, Women But No Song	Feb. 14	1 reel
KRAZY KAT KARTOONS
Bars and Stripes	Oct. 14	1 reel
Disarmament Conference	Apr. 27	1 reel
Hash House Blues		1 reel
Piano Mover
Restless Sax, The
Soda Poppa	May 29	1 reel
Stork Market, The	July 11	7
Svengarlic	Aug. 3	1 reel
Swiss Movements	Apr. 4	1 reel
Weenie Roast, The	Sept. 14	1 reel
MEDBURY SERIES
Laughing with Medbury in Africa		9	Apr. 25
Laughing with Medbury in Reno	July 6	10
Laughing with Medbury in Turkey	Sept. 7	1 reel	Oct. 17
Laughing with Medbury in Death Valley	Oct. 12	1 reel	Oct. 17
MICKEY MOUSE
Barnyard Broadcast	Oct. 9
Beach Party, The		1 reel
Blue Rhythm	Aug. 18	1 reel
Castaways, The	Apr. 6	1 reel
Delivery Boy	June 15	10	Oct. 24
Fishin' Around	Sept. 14	1 reel
Mickey Steps Out	July 16	7	Oct. 3
Moose Hunt, The	May 8	1 reel	May 30
MONKEYSHINES
Curses! Curses! Curses!	Aug. 20	1 reel
Little Beezer	July 5	8
Monkeydoodles	Oct. 12	1 reel
RAMBLING REPORTER
Father Nile	May 11	1 reel
Jerusalem, City of Peace	May 11	10
Land Nobody Knows	June 27	9
Land of Enchantment	July 31	1 reel
Streets of Cairo	Apr. 14	7	May 30
Vale of Kashmer, The	Aug. 21	1 reel
SCRAPPY CARTOONS
Dog Catcher, The	Oct. 15	1 reel
Chinatown Mystery		1 reel
Little Pest, The	Aug. 15	8
Showing Off		1 reel
Sunday Clothes	Sept. 15	1 reel
What A Boy		1 reel
Yelp Wanted	July 16	1 reel	July 16
SILLY SYMPHONIES
Busy Beavers, The		7
Cat's Nightmare	July 28	8	Oct. 8
China Plate	May 25	8
Clock Shop, The		1 reel
Egyptian Melodies	Aug. 27	1 reel
Fox Hunt, The		1 reel
In the Clock Store	Sept. 30	1 reel
Midnight in a Toy Shop	July 3	1 reel	May 2
Mother Goose Melodies	Apr. 17	1 reel	May 9
Spider and the Fly	Oct. 16	1 reel
Ugly Duckling, The		1 reel

EDUCATIONAL

Title	Rel. Date	Minutes Running Time	Reviewed
ANDY CLYDE COMEDIES
Cannonball, The (Clyde)	Sept. 16	19	Aug. 29
Half Holiday	Dec. 13
Shopping With Wifie
Taxi Troubles (Clyde)	Oct. 18	19	Oct. 24
BILL CUNNINGHAM'S SPORTS REVIEWS
Canine Capers	Nov. 15	9
Inside Baseball	Oct. 11	9
No Holds Barred	Sept. 6	9
BURNS, WM. J., DETECTIVE MYSTERIES
Anthony Case, The	Aug. 2
Death House, The	Apr. 12	10
Double Cross	July 5	11
Foiled	July 19
Framed	May 10	10
Mead Trial, The	June 21	10
Ringleader, The	Mar. 15	11	Apr. 11
Starbrite Diamond, The	June 7	11	Oct. 3
Strangler, The	Mar. 29	12	June 6
Trap, The	May 24	11	Aug. 29
Triangle Murder, The	Mar. 1	11	Apr. 11
CAMEO COMEDIES
Honeymoon Trio	Aug. 30	9	Sept. 26
Idle Roomers	Nov. 29	9	Oct. 24
One Quiet Night	Oct. 25	10
Smart Work	Dec. 27
That's My Meat	Oct. 4	11
CANNIBALS OF THE DEEP
Trail of the Swordfish, The	Sept. 6	10	Aug. 29
Wrestling Swordfish	Nov. 8	8
GAYETY COMEDIES
Foolish Forties (Ford Sterling-June McCloy)	June 28	21	June 6
Fowl Affair, A	Apr. 26	6	Mar. 21
HODGE-PODGE
Highlights of Travel	Sept. 12	10
Jungle Giants	June 21	11
Money Makers of Manhattan	July 19	9
Tidbits	May 24	10	July 11
Vagabond Melodies	Aug. 16	10
Veidt, The	Dec. 20
Wonder Trail, The	Oct. 11	10
IDEAL COMEDIES
Crashing Hollywood (Rita Flynn-Phyllis Crane)	Apr. 5	20	Mar. 21
Lure of Hollywood (Brooks-Chandler)	July 5	20	June 27
Queenie of Hollywood (Flynn-Brooks)	Nov. 8	21
Tamale Vendor, The (Patricola-DeMontez)	Sept. 6	20	Aug. 20
MACK SENNET BREVITIES
Who's Who in the Zoo	Oct. 11	10
World Flier, The	Sept. 13	9	Sept. 26
MACK SENNETT COMEDIES
Albany Branch, The (P. Kelton-T. Dugan)	Aug. 2	6	July 4
Cow Catcher's Daughter (Clyde-Gribbon-Beebe)	May 10	22	Apr. 4
Dog Doctor, The (Clyde-O'Leary-Farley)	Mar. 15	22	Nov. 1
Fainting Lover (Clyde-Boteler-Dent)	Aug. 16	18
Ghost Parade (Clyde-Gribbon-Beebe)	May 24	22	May 2
Great Pie Mystery, The	Oct. 25	22	Nov. 7
Hold 'er Sheriff (Beebe-Murray)	June 7	21
In Conference (Clyde-Gribbon-Wilson)	Apr. 26	21	Apr. 11
Monkey Business in Africa (Clyde-Beebe)	June 21	22	July 4
Movie Town (Sennett-Beebe)	July 5	17
Poker Widows	Sept. 13	19
Slide, Speedy, Slide (D. Pollard-T. Dugan)	July 19	18
Speed (Clyde-Beebe)	Sept. 27	22	Apr. 11
Too Many Husbands (Clyde-Boteler)	Aug. 30	21
MACK SENNETT FEATURETTES
I Surrender Dear (Bing Crosby)	Sept. 13	22
One More Chance (Bing Crosby)	Nov. 15	21
MERMAID COMEDIES
Back Page, The (Chandler-Brooks)	May 24	20	Apr. 11
Once a Hero	Nov. 22	19
Up Pops the Duke (Chandler-Bolton)	Sept. 20	20
Windy Riley Goes Hollywood (Jack Shutta-Louise Brooks)	May 3	21	Apr. 11
ROMANTIC JOURNEYS
Across the Sea	Dec. 13	10
Cross Roads	May 3	11	Apr. 11
Dream World	July 5	9	Aug. 29
Glories of America	Sept. 27
Harem Secrets	Oct. 4	10
Outposts of the Foreign Legion	Oct. 18	10
Peasant's Paradise	Nov. 15	10
TERRY-TOONS
Around the World	Oct. 4	6
Black Spider, The	Nov. 1	6	Oct. 31
Blues	June 28	6	July 4
By the Sea	July 12	6	July 4
Canadian Capers	Aug. 23	6
Champ, The	Sept. 20	6
China	Nov. 15	6	Nov. 7
Clowning	Apr. 5	6	Mar. 28
Day to Live, A	May 31	6
Fireman's Bride, The	May 3	5	Apr. 11
Fried Chicken		7	Oct. 3
Her First Egg	July 26	6
Jazz Mad	Aug. 9	6
Jesse and James	Sept. 6	6	Oct. 3
Jingle Bells	Oct. 18	6	Oct. 24
Lorelei, The
Sing Sing Song	Apr. 19	8	Mar. 28
Sultan's Cat, The	May 17	6	May 2
2000 B.C.	June 14	6	June 6
TORCHY
Torchy (Ray Cooke-Dorothy Dix)	Oct. 4	22	Oct. 3
Torchy Passes the Buck	Dec. 6	22	Nov. 14
TUXEDO COMEDIES
Bride and Gloomy (Bert Roach-Eleanor Hunt)	Mar. 22	20
Don't Divorce Him (Clyde Cook)	May 31	18	May 2
What a Head (Duffy-Rondell)	July 26	20
VANITY COMEDIES
College Racket (Glenn Tryon)	June 14	20	June 6
Freshman's Finish, The	Sept. 20	22
Girl Rush, The	Oct. 25	21	Oct. 17
Shotgun Wedding, A	Apr. 19	20	Mar. 14

FOX FILMS

Title	Rel. Date	Minutes Running Time	Reviewed
MAGIC CARPET SERIES
1 Giants of the Jungle	Aug. 8	8	May 9
2 Diamonds in the Rough	Aug. 16
3 Wandering Through China	Aug. 23
4 Down to Damascus	Aug. 30	8	May 9
5 The King's Armada	Sept. 6	9	May 9
6 The Wild West of Today	Sept. 13	8	May 9
7 Where East Meets West	Sept. 20
8 Wild Life on the Veldt	Sept. 27	8	May 9
9 Over the Viking Trail	Oct. 4
10 India Today	Oct. 11
11 The Land of the Nile	Oct. 18
12 The Homeland of the Danes	Oct. 25
13 The Kingdom of Sheba	Nov. 1
14 In the South Seas	Nov. 8
15 The Pageant of Siam	Nov. 15	9	May 9
16 Birds of the Sea	Nov. 22
17 When Geisha Girls Get Gay	Nov. 29
18 Paris of the Orient	Dec. 6
19 Happy Days in Tyrol	Dec. 13	8	May 9
20 Paris Nights	Dec. 20	8
21 Fires of Vulcan	Dec. 27	8
22 Stamboul to Bagdad	Jan. 3'32	8
23 The Foreign Legion	Jan. 10,'32	10
24 Spreewald Folk	Jan. 17,'32	9
25 Over the Yukon Trail	Jan. 24,'32	8
26 The World at Prayer	Jan. 31,'32	8	May 9

METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER

Title	Rel. Date	Minutes Running Time	Reviewed
BOY FRIENDS, THE
Air Tight	May 9	17	May 2
Call A Cop	Sept. 12	20
Kick Off, The	Dec. 5
Love Fever	Apr. 11	20
Let's Do Things	June 6	27
Mama Loves Papa	Oct. 24	17
BURTON HOLMES
Busy Barcelona	Apr. 11
Sultan's Camp of Victory	Feb. 28	10
That Little Bit of Heaven	Mar. 21	10
CHARLEY CHASE
Hasty Marriage	Dec. 19
One of the Smiths	May 23	26
Panic Is On, The	Aug. 15	20	Aug. 15
Rough Seas	Apr. 25	27	June 6
Skip The Maloe	Sept 26	21
What a Boze	Nov. 7	21
COLORTONE REVUES
Ambitious People	Mar. 21	17
Crazy House	Feb. 7	16	Mar. 14
Devil's Cabaret	Mar. 7	17
Geography Lesson	Mar. 28	17
DOGVILLE
Big Dog House, The	Mar. 14	16	Aug. 8
Love Tails of Morocco	Sept. 5	16	Aug. 15
Trader Hound	Nov. 28
Two Barks Bros.	Oct. 17	17	Nov. 14
FISHERMAN'S PARADISE
Fisherman's Paradise	Aug. 15	10
Pearls and Devilfish	Sept. 19	9	Nov. 7
Sharks and Swordfish	Oct. 24
FITZPATRICK TRAVELTALKS
Bali, the Island Paradise	Dec. 5	10
Benares, the Hindu Heaven	Oct. 31	9	Nov. 7
Colorful Jaipur	Mar. 19,'32
Ireland, The Melody Isle	Jan. 9,'32
London, City of Tradition	Feb. 6,'32
Land of the Maharajahs, The	Aug. 22	10
Madeira, a Garden in the Sea	Sept. 26	8	Oct. 3
Tropical Ceylon	Feb. 27,'32
FLIP THE FROG
Jailbirds	Sept. 26	9
Laughing Gas	Mar. 14	7	Mar. 14
Movie Mad	Aug. 29	9
New Car, The	July 25	8
Ragtime Romeo	May 2	8	Sept. 12
Stormy Seas	Aug. 22	9
HARRY LAUDER
I Love a Lassie	Dec. 19	8
Nanny	Nov. 14	8
Roamin' in the Gloamin'	Sept. 5	10	Aug. 15
She's My Daisy	Oct. 10	9	Apr. 11
LAUREL & HARDY
Any Old Port	Jan. 23,'32
Beau Hunks	Dec. 12	40	Sept. 5
Come Clean	Sept. 19	21
Helpmates	Mar. 5
Laughing Gravy	Apr. 4	21
Our Wife	May 16	21	Apr. 11
One Good Turn	Oct. 31	21
OUR GANG
Bargain Day	May 2	19
Big Ears	Aug. 29	21
Dogs Is Dogs	Nov. 21	21
Fly My Kite	May 30	21
Little Daddy	Mar. 28	21	Mar. 14
Readin' and Writin'	Jan. 2,'32
Shiver My Timbers	Oct. 10	21	Oct. 24
PITTS-TODD
Catch-As-Catch-Can	Aug. 22	20
Pajama Party	Oct. 3	20	Nov. 7
War Mamas	Nov. 14
SPORT CHAMPIONS
Athletic Daze	Mar. 26,'32
Dive In	Feb. 2,'32	10	Oct. 31
Flying Spikes	Apr. 16,'32
Forehand, Backhand, Service (Tilden)	Sept. 5	9	Aug. 15
Lesson In Golf, A	Jan. 16,'32	10
Olympic Events	Mar. 5,'32
Splash	Oct. 3	10
Tennis Technique (Tilden)	Aug. 29	8	Sept. 5
Timber Toppers	May 7,'32
Volley and Smash (Tilden)	Sept. 12	8	Sept. 5
Wild and Wooly	Nov. 7	9	Sept. 5
Whippet Racing	Dec. 12	9

PARAMOUNT-PUBLIX

Title	Rel. Date	Minutes Running Time	Reviewed
BRUCE NOVELTIES
A Hunting We Did Go	May 16	1 reel
Climate Chasers	July 11	1 reel
My West	Mar. 7	1 reel
Runaway Boys	Jan. 31	1 reel
ONE REEL ACTS
African Dodger, The (Tom Howard)	Apr. 4	10	Mar. 14
All for the Band (Eddie Younger)	Apr. 4		Mar. 14
Beauty Secrets from Hollywood (Technicolor Novelty)	Sept. 5
Beach Nut, The (Herb Williams)	Oct. 3,'32
Cheaper to Rent (Willie West & McGinty)	Sept. 19
Clinching a Sale (Harry Richman)	Apr. 18
Crazy Compositions (Fuzzy Knight)	Apr. 11
Fair Ways & Square Ways (Eddie Miller)	May 2
Finn and Caddie (Borrah Minnevitch)	Oct. 17
French Line (Gina Malo)	Jan. 24
Happiness Remedy (Ted Lewis)	Feb. 14
Helping Hand (Solly Ward)	June 27

(THE RELEASE CHART--CONT'D)

Title	Rel. Date	Minutes Running Time	Reviewed
Hudson and Its Moods.... Leslie Stowe-Speed Young	Apr.	11	May 12
I'm Telling You..... Willie and Eugene Howard	Mar.	7
Jazz Reporters ..... Charles Davis & Gang
Laugh It Off..... June MacCloy	Feb.	14	May 9
Lesson in Love, A..... Helen Kane	Sept.	26 ... 11	Sept. 19
Let's Stay Single..... Frances Williams	Mar.	14
Miscast ..... James Kelso-Dolores DeMonde	Mar.	21
More Gas..... Solly Ward	Oct.	24
M'Lady ..... Irene Bordoni	Mar.	28
My Wife's Jewelry..... Tom Howard	Aug.	22 ... 11	Sept. 12
No More Hookey..... Haig Trio	Aug.	29
Once Over, Light..... Burns and Allen	May	23	May 16
One Big Night..... Ben Blue	Feb	7
One Hundred Percent Service ..... Burns and Allen	Aug.	1 ... 10	Sept. 5
Pair of French Heels, A.. Mitchell & Durant	Nov.	14
Pent House Blues..... Muriel D'Or-Cy Kahn	Feb.	21
Pest, The..... Tom Howard	Mar.	14
Plastered ..... Willie West & McGinty	Nov.	22
Puff Your Blues Away.... Lillian Roth	Oct.	31
Real Estators, The..... Smith & Dale	May	2 ... 10	May 23
Roaming ..... Ethel Merman	Nov.	28
Tongue Tied..... Lulu McConnell	Dec.	13
Top Notes..... Willy Robyn	Mar.	21	Mar. 14
Tune Detective, The..... Dr. Sigmund Spaeth	Apr.	25	June 13
Two A. M..... Tom Howard	May	2
Via Express..... Tom Howard	July	4 ... 10	Oct. 10
PARAMOUNT PICTORIAL
No. 7—Rudy Valee—Lowell Thomas — Marionette Show	Mar.	28	1 reel
No. 8—Jesse Crawford. Ruth St. Dennis—Lowell Thomas	Apr.	4	1 reel
No. 9—Harmonies of the Harp; Facts and Fancies in sports—Lowell Thomas.	May	2	1 reel
No. 10—Lowell Thomas — Golf Chats—Sweet Lady of the Air.....	June	6	1 reel
No. 11—Lowell Thomas — Golf Chats—Flo Ziegfeld.	June	27	1 reel
No. 12—Michael Fokine — Africa, U.S.A. — Jesse Crawford	July	18	1 reel
STARTING AUGUST, 1931
No. 1—Lowell Thomas — Aber Twins — Japanese Goldfish	Aug.	22	1 reel
No. 2—Painting with Light—The Dragons of Today — Songs of the Organ	Sept.	26	1 reel
No. 3—Lowell Thomas — Something New in Dishes —Behind the Microphone	Oct.	24	1 reel
No. 4—Reef Builders of the Tropics — Marionette Show—Ann Leaf at the Organ	Nov.	28	1 reel
SCREEN SONGS			1 reel
Alexander's Rag Time Band.	May	9
And the Green Grass Grew All Around.....	May	30	1 reel
Any Little Girl That's a Nice Little Girl.....	Apr.	18	1 reel
Betty Co-Ed	Aug.	1	1 reel
By the Light of the Silvery Moon	Nov.	14	1 reel
Gallagher & Shean.....	Aug.	29	1 reel
I'd Climb the Highest Mountain	Mar.	7	1 reel..June 13
Kitty from Kansas City Rudy Vallee	Oct.	31	1 reel
Little Annie Rooney.....	Oct.	10	1 reel
My Wife's Gone to the Country	June	13	6 ... Sept. 26
Please Go Way and Let Me Sleep	Jan.	10	1 reel
Somebody Stole My Gal..	Mar.	21	1 reel
That Old Gang of Mine...	July	11	1 reel
You're Driving Me Crazy..	Sept.	19	1 reel
SCREEN SOUVENIRS
No. 1—Old Time Novelty..	Aug.	15 ... 10	Sept. 26
No. 2—Old Time Novelty..	Sept.	12	1 reel
No. 3—Old Time Novelty..	Oct.	10	1 reel
No. 4—Old Time Novelty..	Nov.	7	1 reel
PARAMOUNT SOUND NEWS
Two Editions Weekly.....
TALKARTOONS
Bimbo's Express.....	Aug.	22	Sept 12
Bimbo's Initiation.....	July	25	1 reel
Bum Bandit, The.....	Apr.	4	1 reel
Cow's Husband, The.....	Mar.	14 ... 8	Mar. 28
In the Shade of the Old Apple Sauce.....	Oct.	17	1 reel
Jack and the Beanstalk.....			1 reel
Male Man, The	Apr.	25 ... 6	May 23
Mask-a-Raid	Nov.	7	1 reel
Minding the Baby.....	Sept.	26	1 reel
Silly Scandals.....	May	23	1 reel..May 9
Teacher's Pest.....	Feb.	7	1 reel
Thee Saps.....	Feb.	21	1 reel
Twenty Legs Under the Sea.	June	6 ... 8	Oct. 3
TWO REEL COMEDIES
Auto Intoxication..... Ford Sterling	Oct.	17
Big Splash, The..... Weismuller-Kruger	Oct.	17
Broadway Romeo, A..... Jack Benny & Co.	Mar.	28
Bullmania ..... Billy House & Co.	Aug.	15
Cab Waiting..... Jack Benny	June	20 ... 17	May 16
Elmer Takes the Air..... Kruger-Assen Jordanoff	July	18	Sept. 12
Fur, Fur, Away..... Smith & Dale	Oct.	3	Sept. 5
Gents of Leisure.....	May	9
Great Pants Mystery..... Smith & Dale	Feb.	14
Headache, The..... Billy House	Mar.	14	June 13
He Was Her Man..... Gilda Gray	Mar.	25
It Ought to Be a Crime... Ford Sterling	Sept.	12
Lease Breakers, The..... Dane & Arthur	Sept.	5
Mile Iren, The Great..... Al St. John	Nov.	7 ... 2 reels
Nothing to Declare..... Lulu McConnell	Aug.	8
Out of Bounds..... Billy House	Nov.	14
Retire Inn..... Billy House	Sept.	19
Shove Off ..... Dane & Arthur	Oct.	31 ... 2 reels
S.S. Malaria..... Smith & Dale	June	6
Studio Sap..... Chester Conklin	Sept.	28
Socially Correct..... Lulu McConnell	Oct.	10
Summer Daze..... Dane-Arthur (Reviewed under the title "In the Good Old Summer Time.....	Dec.	26
Taxi ..... Chester Conklin	Apr.	11
13th Alarm, The..... Chester Conklin	July	4
Thou Shalt Not..... Billy House	May	23 ...	May 2
What Price Pants..... Smith & Dale	Aug.	22
Where East Meets Vest... Smith & Dale	Nov.	28

RKO PATHE SHORT SUBJECTS

Title	Rel. Date	Minutes Running Time	Reviewed
AESOP'S FABLES
Big Game.....	Aug.	3 ... 9
Cinderella Blues.....	April	12 ... 8	Apr. 11
College Capers.....	Mar.	15 ... 1 reel	Mar. 21
Family Shoe, The.....	Sept.	14 ... 7	Oct. 10
Fairyland Follies	Sept.	28 ... 8	Oct. 31
Fisherman's Luck.....	June	13 ... 10	July 4
Fly Guy, The.....	May	10 ... 7	June 6
Fly Hi.....	Aug.	31 ... 9	Oct. 10
Fun on the Ice.....	July	19 ... 8	Aug. 8
Horse Cops	Oct.	12 ... 1 reel
Love In a Pond.....	Aug.	17 ... 8	Sept. 19
Mad Melody.....	Apr.	26 ... 1 reel	May 2
Making 'Em Move.....	July	5 ... 9	July 25
Old Hokum Bucket, The..	Mar.	29 ... 7	Apr. 4
Pale Face Pup.....	June	22 ... 9	July 4
Play Ball.....	May	24 ... 10	May 30
BENNY RUBIN COMEDIES
Dumb Dicks.....	Mar.	21,'32 .... 2 reels
Full Coverage.....	Nov.	9 ... 18	Nov. 14
Guests Wanted.....	Jan.	18,'32 .... 2 reels
Julius Sizzer.....	Sept.	7 ... 20	Sept. 5
Messenger Boy, The.....	June	29 ... 22	July 25
Promoter, The	May	30,'32 .... 2 reels
CAMPUS COMEDIES
Night Class.....	May	31 ... 2 reels	May 16
Open House.....	Mar.	22 ... 20	Apr. 11
CAPITAL COMEDIES
Bare Knees.....	May	8 ... 2 reels	Mar. 7
Half Pint Polly.....	May	3 ... 2 reels
CHECKER COMEDIES
Chasing Trouble.....	Apr.	26 ... 2 reels	May 9
Disappearing Enemies....	Mar.	1 ... 2 reels	Apr. 4
FARRELL GOLF SERIES
Duffer Swings.....	Feb.	22 ... 1 reel	Mar. 7
Getting on the Green.....	Mar.	22 ... 1 reel	Apr. 11
Under Par.....	Mar.	15 ... 1 reel	Mar. 28
Winning Putts.....	Mar.	1 ... 1 reel	Apr. 4
FLOYD GIBBONS' SUPREME THRILLS
Turn of the Tide, The....	Sept.	14 ... 11	Sept. 26
Woodrow Wilson's Great Decision	Aug.	17 ... 11
FOLLY COMEDIES
Gossipy Plumber, The....	May	17 ... 2 reels	May 2
Parents Wanted.....	Mar.	15 ... 2 reels	Apr. 4
FRANK McHUGH COMEDIES
Big Scoop, The.....	Nov.	16 ... 2 reels
Hot Spot, The.....	Sept.	14 ... 18	Oct. 10
News Hound, The.....	Jan.	25,'32 .... 2 reels
That's News to Me.....	July	6 ... 20	May 30
GAY GIRL COMEDIES
Easy to Get.....	Dec.	7 ... 2 reels
Gigolettes	Apr.	18,'32 .... 2 reels
June First.....	July	27 ... 20	July 4
Only Men Wanted.....	Feb.	8,'32 20
Take 'Em and Shake 'Em..	Sept.	28 ... 20
GRANTLAND RICE SPORTLIGHTS
Battling Silver Kings....	July	12 ... 11	July 18
Blue Grass Kings.....	June	20 ... 1 reel	July 4
Diamond Experts.....	May	17 ... 10	May 23
Floating Fun.....	Sept.	7 ... 10
Hunting Thrills.....	Apr.	21 ... 1 reel	Apr. 11
Manhattan Mariners.....	Aug.	24 ... 9	Oct. 24
Olympic Talent.....	Aug.	9 ... 8	Sept. 12
Outboard Stunting.....	May	3 ... 1 reel	May 31
Pack and Saddle	Oct.	19 ... 1 reel
Pigskin Progress.....	Sept.	21 ... 9	Oct. 10
Poise	July	27 ... 9	Aug. 8
Riders of Riley		1 reel
Sink or Swim.....	Mar.	22 ... 9	Mar. 28
Speed Limit.....	Mar.	8 ... 1 reel	Mar. 14
Tennis Topnotchers.....	Apr.	4 ... 1 reel	June 6
Timing	Oct.	5 ... 10
Younger Years.....	June	29 ... 10	July 4
Water Bugs.....	June	6 ... 10	May 23
KNUTE ROCKNE FOOTBALL SERIES
Backfield Aces.....	Sept.	26 ... 1 reel
Flying Feet.....	Sept.	26 ... 1 reel
Hidden Ball, The.....	Sept.	26 ... 1 reel
Last Yard, The.....	Sept.	26 ... 1 reel
Touchdown	Sept.	26 ... 1 reel
Two Minutes to Go.....	Sept.	26 ... 1 reel
MANHATTAN COMEDIES
Crashing Reno.....	Aug.	24 ... 2 reels	Aug. 8
Frozen Face.....	Apr.	19 ... 2 reels	Apr. 18
Oh, Marry Me.....	Nov.	2 ... 2 reels
She Snoops to Conquer....	June	22 ... 20	June 20
MASQUERS COMEDIES
Great Junction Hotel, The.	Oct.	26 ... 18	Oct. 17
Oh, Oh, Cleopatra.....	Aug.	17 ... 22	Aug. 8
Stout Hearts and Willing Hands	June	15 ... 20	May 30
Wide Open Spaces.....		2 reels
MELODY COMEDIES
Not So Loud.....	May	3 ... 2 reels	May 2
Twisted Tales.....	Mar.	29 ... 22	April 4
MR. AVERAGE MAN COMEDIES (EDGAR KENNEDY)
Bon Voyage.....	Feb.	22,'32 .... 2 reels
Camping Out.....	Dec.	14 ... 2 reels
Lemon Meringue.....	Aug.	3 ... 20	June 6
Mother-in-Law's Day	Apr.	25,'32 .... 2 reels
Thanks Again.....	Oct.	5 ... 20	Oct. 10
PATHE NEWS Released twice a week
PATHE REVIEW Released once a month
RAINBOW COMEDIES
Against the Rules.....	June	6 ... 19	May 23
Three Wise Clucks.....	Apr.	12 ... 2 reels	Apr. 18
RUFFTOWN COMEDIES (JAMES GLEASON)
Battle Royal.....	Feb.	29,'32 .... 2 reels
Doomed to Win.....	Dec.	21 ... 2 reels
Slow Poison.....	Oct.	19 ... 21	Oct. 24
Where Canaries Sing Bass.	Aug.	10 ... 18	Sept. 12
TRAVELING MAN COMEDIES (LOUIS JOHN BARTELS)
Beach Pajamas.....	Sept.	21 ... 20	Sept. 26
Blondes by Proxy.....	Apr.	11,'32 .... 2 reels
Selling Shorts.....	Nov.	30 ... 17	Nov. 7
Stop That Run.....	Feb.	1,'32 .... 2 reels
That's My Line.....	July	13 ... 2 reels
VAGABOND ADVENTURE SERIES
Beneath the Southern Cross.	Aug.	24 ... 10
Call of Mohammed.....	Apr.	7 ... 1 reel	Apr. 4
Fallen Empire.....	July	27 ... 10
Hurricane Island.....	April	21 ... 1 reel	Mar. 28
Song of the Voodoo.....		9 ...	Oct. 31
Shadows of the Dragon....	Mar.	8 ... 1 reel	Mar. 14
Thom the Unknown.....	Mar.	22 ... 1 reel	Apr. 4
Through the Ages		1 reel
Utmost Isle, The.....	Oct.	3 ... 11	Oct. 3
WHOOPEE COMEDIES
All Gummed Up.....	May	23 ... 2 reels	May 16
Rough House Rhythm.....	Apr.	5 ... 2 reels	Mar. 14

RKO-RADIO PICTURES

Title	Rel. Date	Minutes Running Time	Reviewed
CHARLES "CHIC" SALE SERIES
County Seat, The.....	Aug.	15 ... 20
Cowslips	Sept.	19 ... 18
Ex-Rooster
Hurry Call, A.....
Many a Sip
DANE & ARTHUR SERIES
Lime Juice Knights.....	Mar.	22 ... 21	Mar. 7
HEADLINER SERIES
House Dick, The..... Jimmy Savo	Oct.	17 ... 18
False Roomers..... Clark & McCullough	Oct.	10 ... 20
Scratch As Catch Can.... Clark & McCullough	Oct.	24 ... 19
Melon Drama, A..... Clark & McCullough	Nov.	8 ... 20
Trouble from Abroad..... F. Sterling-L. Littlefield	Aug.	22 ... 20	June 20
HUMANETTE SERIES
Humanette No. 8.....	Mar.	22 ... 9	Mar. 9
Humanette No. 9.....	Apr.	15 ... 9
Humanette No. 10.....	May	1 ... 10
Humanette No. 11.....	June	13 ... 10
Humanette No. 12.....	July	1 ... 10	June 20
LIBERTY SHORT STORIES SERIES
Double Decoy
Ether Talks
Fixed
Round Heels.....
LOUISE FAZENDA SERIES
Blondes Prefer Bonds....	May	15 ... 21
Itching Hour, The.....	Feb.	1 ... 22
Second Hand Kisses.....	Mar.	29 ... 19	Mar. 2
MICKEY McGUIRE SERIES
Mickey's Crusaders.....	Apr.	12 ... 19
Mickey's Diplomacy.....	July	15 ... 18
Mickey's Rebellion.....	June	27 ... 18
Mickey's Stampede.....	Feb.	7 ... 19
Mickey's Thrill Hunters...	Sept.	19 ... 18
Mickey's Wildcats.....	Sept.	12 ... 18
NED SPARKS SERIES
Big Dame Hunting.....
Strife of the Party, The..	Oct.	17 ... 16½
Way of All Fish, The....	Aug.	29 ... 19	June 13
When Summons Comes.....
NICK & TONY SERIES
Wife O' Reilly.....	Feb.	25 ... 20	Mar. 7
NICK HARRIS DETECTIVE SERIES
Facing the Gallows.....	Sept.	26 ... 21
Mystery of Compartment C, The.....	Oct.	31 ... 21
Swift Justice
NOVELTY
Stung	Nov.	15
ROSCO ATES SERIES
Clean up on the Curb, The.	Sept.	12 ... 20	June 13
Gland Parade, The.....	Sept.	26 ... 20	Aug. 1
Lone Starved Ranger, The..	Aug.	8 ... 20	July 25
Never the Twins Shall Meet
Use Your Noodle.....	Oct.	31 ... 20
TOBY THE PUP
Toby in the Circus Times..	Jan.	25 ... 7	Mar. 7
Toby in the Brown Derby..	Mar.	22 ... 7
Toby Down South.....	Apr.	15 ... 7
Toby the Bull Thrower....	June	7 ... 7	May 27
She Went for a Tramp....	Mar.	15 ... 20
TOM AND JERRY SERIES
Jungle Jam	Nov.	14
Polar Pals.....	Sept.	5 ... 7	Sept. 19
Trouble	Oct.	10 ... 7
Wot a Night.....	Aug.	1 ... 8½

STATE RIGHTS

Title	Rel. Date	Minutes Running Time	Reviewed
FALCON PROD.
Knights in Khaki.....		22	May 23
IDEAL
Birds of a Feather.....		8	Apr. 4
In the Good Old Summer-Time		8	Apr. 4
Jerusalem—The Holy City.		10	Sept. 26
Journey Through Germany, A		10	Oct. 3
Legend of the Skies.....		6	Mar. 14
Peculiar Pets		8	Apr. 4

(THE RELEASE CHART--CONT'D)

Title	Rel. Date	Minutes Running Time	Reviewed
Poem in Stone, A		7	Mar. 14
Sacred Elephants of India		8	Mar. 21
Some Wild Appetites		8	Mar. 21
Spring Is Here		9	Mar. 21
IMPERIAL PICTURES
Isle of Isolation		9	Oct. 10
JUDEA FILMS
Jewish Gypsy
Hymie Jacobson		10	Sept. 26
LOUIS SIMON
Palmy Daze		28	Oct. 24
B. M. POWELL
Harem Scarem		9	Sept. 12
Travelogue
MARY WARNER
Mosel, The — German's River of Enchantment		8
Trier, The Oldest City in Germany		6
TOBIS FORENFILM
Germany in 15 Minutes			Oct. 10
Melodie der Welt		30	Oct. 24
Songs of the Steppes		13	Oct. 10
UFA
Hunting the Carpathian Bear		12	Aug. 1
Secrets of Plant Life		10	Aug. 1
VISUOGRAPHIC
Wings of Tomorrow		10	May 2
WELSHAY
Beauty Secrets from Hollywood— No. 1 (technicolor)			Mar. 14
Old Songs for New — Bob Welsh		9	Sept. 5

SYNDICATE PICTURES CORP.

Title	Rel. Date	Minutes Running Time	Reviewed
ALICE SERIES
Alice Loses Out	Mar. 1	6
Alice Picks the Champ	Mar. 15	6
Alice Plays Cupid	Apr. 1	6
Alice Rattled by Rats	May 1	6
Alice Solves the Puzzle	Apr. 15	6
Alice's Mysterious Mystery	May 15	6

TIFFANY

Title	Rel. Date	Minutes Running Time	Reviewed
FOOTBALL FOR THE FAN SERIES
1—Spring Training	Sept. 26	9	Sept. 5
2—Wedge Play	Oct. 3	9
3—Kicking Game	Oct. 10	11
4—Deception	Oct. 17	10	Oct. 24
5—Forward Pass	Oct. 24	9	Oct. 10
6—Penalties	Oct. 31	11	Oct. 31
TIFANY CHIMP SERIES
6—Chasing Around	Mar. 23	16	Mar. 28
7—Africa Squawks	July 7	18
8—Apeing Hollywood	Aug. 16	21
9—Cinnamon	Sept 27	11
10—Skimpy	Nov. 8
11—The Gland Hotel	Dec. 23
12—Ex-King	Jan. 31,'32
VOICE OF HOLLYWOOD SERIES
Station S-T-A-R
No. 26—Kenneth Harlan	Mar. 2	11	Mar. 28
VOICE OF HOLLYWOOD SERIES (NEW)
John Wayne-Our Gang
No. 1—Lew Ayres	July 5	10	Sept. 5
No. 2—Elliott Nugent	July 19	11
No. 3—Ivan Lebedeff	Aug. 2	11
No. 4—Arthur Lake	Aug. 16	11
No. 5—Olson & Johnson	Aug. 30	10	Nov. 14
No. 6—John Boles & Helen Chandler	Sept. 13	9
No. 7—Roscoe Ates	Sept 27	11
No. 8—Monte Blue	Oct. 11	11
No. 9—Pat O'Brien	Oct. 25

UNIVERSAL

Title	Rel. Date	Minutes Running Time	Reviewed
OSWALD CARTOONS
Band Master, The	May 18	6	June 20
Champ, The	July 27	1 reel
Clown, The	Dec. 7	1 reel
Country School, The	May 5	1 reel	May 16
Farmer, The	Mar. 23	1 reel
Fireman, The	Apr. 6	1 reel
Fisherman, The	Dec. 7	1 reel
Hare Mail, The	Nov. 30	1 reel
Hot Feet	Sept. 14	6	Oct. 10
Hunter, The	Oct. 12	6	Oct. 10
In Wonderland	Oct. 26	1 reel
North Woods	June 29	1 reel	July 11
Radio Rhythm	July 27	1 reel	Aug. 15
Shipwreck	Feb. 9	1 reel	Feb. 21
Stone Age, The	July 13	1 reel
Sunny South, The	Apr. 20	1 reel	May 2
Trolley Troubles	Nov. 23	1 reel
RED STAR SERIES
Dangerous Daze	Mar. 11	2 reels	Mar. 14
The Cat's Paw	July 8	2 reels	Apr. 4
Hello Napoleon	June 3	2 reels	July 11
Howdy Mate	July 22	2 reels
It Happened in Hollywood	Feb. 4	2 reels
No Privacy	Apr. 22	2 reels
One Day to Live	Apr. 1	2 reels	Apr. 11
Scared Stiff	May 13	2 reels	May 2
SHADOW DETECTIVE SERIES
No. 1—Burglar to the Rescue	Sept. 7	18	Aug. 15
No. 2—Trapped	Oct. 28	23	Oct. 31
No. 3—Sealed Lips	Nov. 11	17
No. 4—House of Mystery	Dec. 16	2 reels
SIDNEY-MURRAY COMEDIES
All Excited	Mar. 25	2 reels	Feb. 28
Divorce a la Carte	Apr. 15	2 reels	Mar. 14
Butter In Yegg Man	May 6	2 reels	Apr. 11
Hot and Bothered	Mar. 4	2 reels
In Old Mazuma	Jan. 1	2 reels
Models and Wives	Nov. 25	20
Stay Out, The	May 5	2 reels
SLIM SUMMERVILLES
Arabian Knights	Apr. 8	2 reels	May 28
Bless the Ladies	Dec. 9	2 reels
Hello Russia	Jan. 17	2 reels	Dec. 20
Here's Luck	May 20	2 reels	May 2
Hotter Than Haiti	Nov. 11	22
Let's Play	Apr. 29	2 reels	Aug. 8
Parisian Galeties	June 17	2 reels	Aug. 8
SPORTS REELS
Barkfield Plays — Notre Dame Football	Sept. 28	1 reel
Carry On — Notre Dame Football	Oct. 5	1 reel
Developing a Football Team — Pop Warner Football	Nov. 2	10
Famous Plays — Notre Dame Football	Sept. 21	1 reel
Football Forty Years Ago	Nov. 9	9	Oct. 24
Pop Warner Football
Offensive System — Notre Dame Football	Sept. 14	1 reel
Shifts — Notre Dame Football	Sept. 7	1 reel
Soccer	Nov. 16	1 reel
Pop Warner Football
Trick Plays	Oct. 26	11
Pop Warner Football
STRANGE AS IT SEEMS SERIES
No. 8—Novelty	Apr. 13	1 reel	Apr. 11
No. 9—Novelty	May 11	1 reel	July 4
No. 10—Novelty	June 8	10	July 11
No. 11—Novelty	July 6	1 reel
No. 12—Novelty	Aug. 31	9	Aug. 29
No. 13—Novelty	Sept. 15	9	Oct. 10
No. 14—Novelty	Oct. 12	1 reel
No. 15—Novelty	Nov. 16	1 reel
No. 16—Novelty	Dec. 14	1 reel
UNIVERSAL COMEDIES (1931-32 SEASON)
An Apple a Day — Lloyd Hamilton	Sept. 30	2 reels
Bless the Ladies — Summerville	Dec. 9	2 reels
Fast and Furious — Daphne Pollard, Don Brodie	Oct. 14	19	Oct. 3
First to Fight — Summerville	Sept. 2	4 reels	Aug. 8
Hollywood Halfbacks	Dec. 23	2 reels
Hotter Than Haiti — Summerville	Nov. 11	2 reels
Models and Wives — Sidney-Murray	Nov. 25	2 reels
One Hundred Dollars — Chas. Lawrence	Sept. 16	2 reels	Aug. 29
Out Stepping	Oct. 28	16	Nov. 7
Peekin' in Pekin — Summerville	Jan. 1,32	2 reels
Running Hollywood		2 reels
Sold at Auction — Daphne Pollard	Jan 15,'32

VITAPHONE SHORTS

Title	Rel. Date	Minutes Running Time	Reviewed
ADVENTURES IN AFRICA
No. 1—Into the Unknown		2 reels	June 6
No. 2—An African Boma		2 reels	July 25
No. 3—The Lion Hunt		2 reels	July 25
No. 4—Spears of Death		2 reels
No. 5—Trails of the Hunted		2 reels
No. 6—The Buffalo Stampede		9	Aug. 15
No. 7—The Witch Doctor's Magic		14	Aug. 22
No. 8—Flaming Jungles		2 reels
No. 9—Dangerous Trails		15	Sept. 19
No. 10—Maneaters		2 reels
No. 11—Beast of the Wilderness		15	Nov. 7
No. 12—Unconquered Africa		2 reels
BELIEVE IT OR NOT— ROBERT L. RIPLEY
No. 8		9	May 23
No. 9		1 reel	July 18
No. 10		1 reel
No. 11		1 reel
No. 12		7	Nov. 14
NEW SERIES
No. 1		1 reel
No. 2		1 reel
No. 3		1 reel
BIG STAR COMEDIES
No. 1—Lucky 13 — Thelma White and Fanny Watson		2 reels
No. 2—The Smart Set-Up — Walter O'Keefe		2 reels
No. 3—Of All People — Thelma White and Fanny Watson		2 reels
No. 4—Relativity and Relatives — Dr. Rockwell		2 reels
No. 5—Her Wedding Night-Mare — Thelma White and Fanny Watson		2 reels
BOOTH TARKINGTON SERIES
No. 1—Snakes Alive — Billy Hayes-Bobby Jordan		1 reel
No. 2—Batter Up — Billy Hayes-Bobby Jordan		1 reel
BROADWAY BREVITIES SERIES
No. 1—The Musical Mystery — Janet Reade-Albertina Rasch Girls		18
No. 2—Words and Music — Ruth Etting		2 reels
No. 3—Footlights		2 reels
HOW I PLAY GOLF— BOBBY JONES
No. 1—The Putter		1 reel	Apr. 25
No. 2—Chip Shots		1 reel	Apr. 25
No. 3—The Niblick		1 reel	Apr. 25
No. 4—The Mashie Niblick		1 reel
No. 5—The Medium Irons		1 reel
No. 6—The Big Irons		1 reel	July 18
No. 7—The Spoon		1 reel	Aug. 8
No. 8—The Brassie		9	Aug. 22
No. 9—The Driver		1 reel
No. 10—Trouble Shots		1 reel
No. 11—Practice Shots		1 reel
No. 12—A Complete Round of Golf		10	Oct. 31
LOONEY TUNES SERIES SONG CARTOONS
No. 9—Dumb Patrol		1 reel	Mar. 28
No. 10—Yodeling Yokels		1 reel
No. 11—Bosko's Holiday		1 reel	May 9
No. 12—Trees Knees		1 reel
NEW SERIES
No. 1—Bosko's Shipwrecked		1 reel
No. 2—Bosko, The Dough boy		1 reel
No. 3—Bosko's Soda Fountain		1 reel
No. 4—Bosko's Fox Hunt		1 reel
MELODY MASTER SERIES
No. 1—The "Big House" Party — Earl Carpenter's Gang		1 reel
No. 2—A Havana Cocktail — Castro's Cuban Band		1 reel	Apr. 25
No. 3—Darn Tootin' — Rudy Weidoeft		1 reel
MERRY MELODIES SONG CARTOONS
No. 1—Smile, Darn Ya, Smile		1 reel
No. 2—One More Time		1 reel
No. 3—Ya Don't Know What You're Doin'		1 reel
No. 4—Hittin' the Trail for Hallelujah Land		1 reel
THE NAGGERS SERIES MR. AND MRS. JACK NORWORTH
The Naggers at the Dentist		1 reel	May 2
The Naggers at the Races		1 reel	Aug. 15
The Naggers at the Ringside		1 reel	May 16
The Naggers' Housewarming		8	Sept. 5
The Naggers in the Subway		11	Aug. 8
NEW SERIES
The Naggers' Anniversary		1 reel
The Naggers at the Opera		1 reel
NOVELTIES
Bigger They Are, The — Primo Carnero		2 reels
Gypsy Caravan — Martinelli		1 reel
Handy Guy, The — Earl Sande		2 reels
Rhythms of a Big City		1 reel
A Trip to Tibet — Scenic		1 reel
ONE REEL COMEDIES
Baby Face — Victor Moore
Gold-Digging Gentlemen — Al Klein-Joan Abbott			Aug. 22
Grand Dame, The — Patsy Kelly			May 9
I'll Fix It — Kent-Lake			May 28
Lodge Night — Phillips-Cox			May 16
Maid to Order — Eleanor Shaler-Bob Lynn			May 2
Military Post, The — Roberto Guzman
Milky Way, The — Neely Edwards			July 18
No-Account, The — Hardie-Hutchison
No Privacy — Lloyd Hamilton			May 2
No Questions Asked — Little Billy
Number Please — Sheila Barret			Mar. 31
Purely An Accident — Brown-Kearns			May 16
Sitting Pretty — Joe Phillips-Ruth Donnely			May 9
Sky High — Janet Reade-Dudley Clements			Mar. 28
Squaring the Triangle — Donald Brian
Strong Arm, The — Harrington-O'Neil
Twixt Love and Duty — Howard-Graham			May 2
ORGAN SONG-NATAS
For You — Organ-Vocal		1 reel
Just a Gigolo — Organ-Vocal		1 reel	Aug. 15
Say a Little Prayer for Me — Organ-Vocal		1 reel
When Your Lover Has Gone — Organ-Vocal		1 reel
JOE PENNER COMEDIES
Gangway		2 reels	Aug. 15
Moving In		2 reels
Rough Sailing		16
Sax Appeal		1 reel	Aug. 1
A Stuttering Romance		1 reel
Where Men Are Men		2 reels
PEPPER POT SERIES
No. 1—The Eyes Have It — Edgar Bergen
No. 2—Thrills of Yesterday
No. 3—Hot News Margie — Marjorie Beebe
No. 4—Free and Easy — Edgar Bergen
SPORTSLANTS SERIES— TED HUSING
No. 1		1 reel	Oct. 24
No. 2		1 reel	Sept 26
No. 3		1 reel
S. S. VAN DINE MYSTERY SERIES
No. 1—The Clyde Mystery — Donald Meek-John Hamilton		21	Oct. 31
No. 2—The Wall Street Mystery — Donald Meek-John Hamilton		2 reels
No. 3—The Week-End Mystery — Donald Meek-John Hamilton-Jane Winton		2 reels
TWO REEL COMEDIES
Gigolo Racket, The — Helen Morgan		20	Aug. 1
Meal Ticket, The — Jack Pearl			June 13
23 Skidoo — Lew Fields			May 2
Freshman Love — Ruth Etting
Old Lace — Ruth Etting
Dandy and the Belle, The — Frank McGlynn, Jr.-Mary Murray
For Two Cents — De Wolf Hopper			June 6
Good Mourning — Eddie Foy-Dressler-White			Sept. 5
Last Straw, The — Romney Brent			May 2
Partners — Billy Gaxton			Apr. 4
Silent Partner, The — Billy Gaxton			Aug. 15
WAYNE AND WHITE COMEDIES
Good Pie Forever — Billy Wayne-Thelma White		1 reel	Aug. 8
In Your Sombrero — Billy Wayne		1 reel
Inventor, The — Billy Wayne-Thelma White		1 reel	May 16
Taking Chances — Billy Wayne-Thelma White		1 reel	May 9
With Pleasure — Billy Wayne		1 reel	May 2
WORLD TRAVEL TALKS— E. M. NEWMAN
No. 1—Little Journeys to Great Masters		1 reel
No. 2—Southern India		1 reel
No. 3—Road to Mandalay		1 reel
No. 4—Mediterranean Byways		1 reel

CLASSIFIED Advertising

Ten cents per word, payable in advance. Minimum charge, $1.00. Copy and checks should be addressed Classified Ad Dept., Motion Picture Herald, 1790 Broadway, New York, N. Y.

The Recognized National Classified Advertising Medium

Mail Order Bargains

PROSPERITY HANGS AROUND THIS CORNER —HERE'S WHY—REAL VALUES ALWAYS IN NEW EQUIPMENT: Webster 250 type Amplifiers, $29.75; Forest 15 amp. Rectifiers, $59.50; Double Bearing Intermittent Movements for Simplex, $69.75; Film Splicers, $4.95; Plush Drapery Material, sq. yd. 77¢; Standard Make Lenses, $12.75; G. E. Mazda Lamphouses with Regulators, $97.50; Bench Rewinders 2000′ reel, per set $5.97; Special Theatre Carpet, 69½¢ per yd.; Carpet Cushion or Acoustical Felt, 27½¢ sq. yd.; Automatic Reflector Arc Lamps, $139.90; Carbons, 25% discount; Automatic Changeovers, per set, $39.85; Photocells, all types, each $12.95; Da-Tone Sound Screens, 39¢ sq. ft.; Silver Sound Screens, 54¢ sq. ft.; Beaded Sound Screens, 59¢ sq. ft.; All AC Portable Sound-on-Film, $796.60; Superior Projectors, late model with Rear Shutters, $475.00. Many other bargains in new equipment. S.O.S. CORP., Dept. EH, 1600 Broadway, New York City. Cable Address, "SOSOUND," New York.

Chairs For Sale

1,250 HIGH GRADE SPRING CONSTRUCTED CHAIRS: Full upholstered backs, covered in green Velour; Spring Seats covered in imitation Spanish leather. 600 Heywood-Wakefield panel back chairs, spring seats newly upholstered and covered in green imitation Spanish leather. Reasonable prices. Write to ILLINOIS THEATRE EQUIPMENT COMPANY, 1150 South Michigan Avenue. Chicago, Illinois.

700 USED HARDWOOD PORTABLE CHAIRS in sections of two. 1,400 Upholstered Chairs, backs fully covered in red Velour; seats covered in imitation Spanish leather—$2.00 each. 700 Leather Upholstered Chairs, heavy panel backs covered in red imitation leather—$2.25 each. Five-ply veneer chairs, 90c each, in any quantity. 400 Heywood-Wakefield upholstered panel back, squab seat covered in brown imitation leather—$2.25 each.
ILLINOIS THEATRE EQUIPMENT COMPANY, 1150 South Michigan Avenue. Chicago, Illinois.

BIG BARGAIN in used Opera Chairs, 600 upholstered, 800 veneer. Address Movie Supply Co., 844 Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Illinois.

Theatres Wanted

CAN SELL YOUR THEATRE QUICKLY. Send particulars. ALBERT GOLDMAN, 5 South Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

Theatre Training Schools

THEATRE EMPLOYEES—Learn modern theatre management and theatre advertising. Approved and specialized home-study training for theatre employees. The Institute's training leads to better positions. Free particulars. Address THEATRE MANAGERS INSTITUTE, 325 Washington Street, Elmira, New York.

Theatres For Sale

PAYING THEATRES FOR SALE in Illinois, Iowa, Missouri, Oklahoma, Wisconsin. Inquire ALBERT GOLDMAN, 1402 Mallers Bldg., Chicago, Ill.

Sound Equipment Bargains

THE LAST WORD IN SOUND ON FILM AT A REMARKABLY LOW PRICE—FOR $495.00 YOU GET — two S.O.S. Sound Heads complete with genuine Jenkins Telephoto Cells; Licensed True Tone Optical Systems; G. E. Exciter Lamps; All Drive Attachments; 4 Stage Combination AC Power Supply including Head Amplifier; A and B Battery Eliminator, Sound-on-Film Fader, all in one unit; Jewelled Indicators; Exciter Lamp and Photocell Meters; Changeover and Master AC Switches; Non-Sync Input Jack; Wright-DeCoster Stage Speaker; Dynamic Booth Monitor, or choice of two special G. E. Constant Motors instead. TRADE-INS CONSIDERED. Sound Heads less Amplification and Speakers, $247.50 pair complete. Address S.O.S. CORP., Dept. E-H, 1600 Broadway, New York City. Cable Address, "SOSOUND" New York.

Equipment Wanted

WILL PAY best prices for Simplex and Powers projectors and mechanisms, Reflector Arc Lamps, Motor Generators, Rectifiers, Lenses, Spotlights, Ticket Registers, Electric Fans, Talkie Equipment. Address P. O. Box 2042, DeSoto Station, Memphis, Tenn.

HIGHEST PRICES paid for Simplex Projectors or Mechanisms only. Address Box No. 24, Motion Picture Herald, 1790 Broadway, New York City.

HIGHEST PRICES paid for used opera chairs, projection machines, etc. Address Movie Supply Co., 844 Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Illinois.

CASH PAID FOR OLD SIMPLEX PROJECTORS OR MECHANISMS. PEERLESS or Strong Reflector Arc Lamps. Will buy equipment in any condition. Pay highest prices. Address Amusement Supply Co., Inc., 630 Ninth Ave., New York, N. Y.

Position Wanted

Experienced Western Electric sound engineer wants position operating projectors. Nine years electrical expert, understand show business. Address R. C. Holden, Bondsville, Massachusetts.

LIVE WIRE THEATRE MANAGER desires position. Can put over any house regardless of local conditions. Publicity expert, community builder and organizer. Salary, commission or both. Will go anywhere. Best references. Age 39, married. Address THEATRE MANAGER, Chamber of Commerce, Bellefontaine, Ohio.

Projector Repairing

BEST SHOP for repairing projection machines. Prompt service, reasonable prices. Address Movie Supply Co., 844 Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Illinois.

SKILLED MECHANICS, specialized tools, and a shop equipped for but one purpose can offer you nothing but the best in repair work. That is what I have, and I can offer you the best in the overhauling of your motion picture machinery equipment. One of the oldest repair men in the territory, and serving some of the largest houses. Relief equipment furnished free. For results bring your work to Joseph Spratler, 12-14 E. Ninth Street, Chicago, Illinois.

Equipment For Sale

WORLD'S LARGEST CLEARING HOUSE OF USED EQUIPMENT—VALUES GALORE:—Rebuilt Ticket Machines, Four Unit, $79.50; Five Unit, $94.75; Choice of 5,000 Upholstered Chairs, 75¢ up; Super Mellaphone Turntables, each $39.75; AC Film Speed Indicators, $7.50; Simplex Mazda Lamphouses, $39.75; Guaranteed Rebuilt Simplex Mechanisms, $197.50; Rebuilt Powers 6B Mechanisms, $59.50; Lenses, all sizes, $9.75; Sound Mixer, $3.95; Samson, Webster, Silver-Marshall Amplifiers, other makes, $12.50 up; Double Turntable Non-Sync Outfits, $35.00; Automatic Reflector Arcs, $69.75. We buy or trade anything—WHAT HAVE YOU? Write for list. S.O.S. CORP., Dept. U, 1600 Broadway, New York City. Cable Address, "SOSOUND" New York.

Mellaphone Sound on Film Equipment, newly installed June 15th, 1931. Changed to Western Electric. Will sell for half of cost price. Address Fred Houseman, 67 O'Neill St., Kingston, N. Y.

Attention Theatre Managers: New Penny and Nickel Counter and Stackers—eliminates counting and makes wrapping easy, $1.00 each prepaid. Used by all theatres. Accurate, rapid, inexpensive. Address Heineman Co., 954 West Forest Ave., Detroit, Michigan.

TWO Guaranteed Rebuilt Simplex Projectors at Big Bargain. Address P. O. Box 2042, Desoto Station, Memphis, Tenn.

SAMSON No. 19 Amplifier with Tubes, $45.00. Wright DeCoster Speaker, $15.00. Condition perfect. Address P. O. Box 2042, DeSoto Station, Memphis, Tenn.

THEATRE EQUIPMENT, new and used. Opera chairs, projectors, screens, generators, rectifiers, reflecting arc lamps, etc. Write for bargain list and catalog. Address Movie Supply Co., 844 Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Illinois.

FOR SALE — ATTENTION INDEPENDENT DEALERS: Simplex large and small magazine rollers, and Asbestos Heat Shields, made of the best grade heat resisting material. Write for prices. Address Joe Spratler, 12-14 East Ninth Street, Chicago, Illinois.

BIG BARGAINS — Rebuilt Simplex Motor Driven Machines with type "S" Lamp Houses, with late type Flat Belt friction drive Speed Controls, $300.00 each. Rebuilt Powers 6B Motor Driven Machine, $235.00 each. DeLuxe Motiograph Machine, $250.00 each. Big Stock of Exhaust and Oscillating Fans for DC and AC current. Generators, all makes, ticket selling machines, film containers, etc., all at bargain prices for immediate shipment. Write:
ILLINOIS THEATRE EQUIPMENT COMPANY, 1150 South Michigan Avenue. Chicago, Illinois.

Help Wanted

PROJECTIONISTS, ELECTRICIANS, SOUND ENGINEERS: We want one good, live representative in each locality selling our line to small Theatres and Non-theatrical Institutions. Big money in it for you. No investment required. Sales ability is your best reference. Write for details. Box 81, Motion Picture Herald, 1790 Broadway, New York, N. Y.

EVERYBODY BENEFITS . . .

. . . by the introduction of Eastman Super-sensitive Panchromatic Negative. Actor, director, camera man, laboratory worker, exhibitor, audience . . . right down the line, definite and substantial advantages are derived from this major improvement of 1931. And the producers and exhibitors in whose pictures it is used benefit most of all . . . in better photography and better pictures in general. Eastman Kodak Company, Rochester, New York. (J. E. Brulatour, Inc., Distributors, New York, Chicago, Hollywood.)

EASTMAN SUPER-SENSITIVE
Panchromatic Negative, Type 2

Speaking of stars...

Gary Cooper

Claudette Colbert

TWO money magnets in a drama with "Box Office" written all over it. And, wait until they see chubby Richard Spiro. The screen's newest sensation! He gurgles his way into the heart of every fan. Directed by Edward Sloman. From a novel by Dale Collins.

"HIS WOMAN"

Box Office Wallops

PARAMOUNT

MOTION PICTURE

HERALD

Better Theatres

WITH WHICH IS COMBINED "THE SHOWMAN"

THE FALL BUYERS NUMBER

THE NEW SMALL THEATRE: The interesting development of the year in motion picture exhibition . . . authoritatively dealt with in a variety of discussions, sketches and plans.

MODERN SEATING—A NEW SERIES: Beginning a group of six articles describing the factors met with in chair selection, considerations in installation, and the proper methods of maintenance.

THE EQUIPMENT INDEX . . . THEATRE SUPPLY DEALERS . . . WHO'S WHO

THE THEATRE EQUIPMENT DIRECTORY: FALL 1931 EDITION

4 times around the earth every week

110,000 miles travelled by ERPI Engineers so that the show can go on . . . . .

This amazing weekly mileage is just one indication of ERPI's constant efforts to maintain every Western Electric Sound System at peak performance. . . . Down have come the number of emergency calls every month. In one year they have been reduced 28 per cent because regular service calls have eliminated the emergencies — a preventive service. . . . When emergencies do arise, records show that ERPI Engineers are reducing the time to clear trouble. In August, 1930, average time to clear trouble was 131 minutes. In August, 1931, time to clear trouble had been reduced to 35 minutes. . . ."Peak Performance for the life of your contract"—the ERPI Service Engineer's guarantee.

Western Electric
SOUND SYSTEM
THE VOICE OF ACTION

Northern Electric in Canada
Distributed by
Electrical Research Products Inc.
250 West 57th Street, New York

SAVE MONEY on Air Conditioning —Buy Now at New Low Prices and Special Terms

Good on All Orders up to December 31, 1931

NEVER before has high grade air conditioning equipment been available at such a low cost as now offered by Kooler-Aire. This proved system has demonstrated its efficiency in all types of theatres throughout the country.

Fresh, wholesome air—without chilly drafts—will boost your winter business just as coolness does in summer. A complete Kooler-Aire System gives you perfect air conditions the year 'round—summer cooling and clean, pure air at all times.

If you now have a plain air ventilation system you can add cooling equipment that keeps the temperature reduced to a refreshing, comfortable degree throughout the warm weather.

You can also get the Arctic Nu-Air System at special terms and prices now. It is the finest plain air system now used in more than 5000 theatres. Temperature reducing equipment can be added at any time.

Buy at These Prices Before December 31

A Small Cash Payment and the balance on special terms, so moderate that no theatre can now afford to be without the benefits of proper air conditioning. Write today for complete details.

Mail this coupon!

Buy Now!

Winter Ventilation is just as important as summer cooling—Don't let bad air kill your big winter business—Get the facts—NOW!

KOOLER-AIRE ENGINEERING CORPORATION
2110 Kennedy St., N. E. Minneapolis, Minn.

Please send me complete information about your new low-prices and special terms on

- ☐ Kooler-Aire, the complete air conditioning system.
- ☐ Temperature reducing equipment for adding to ventilating systems.
- ☐ Arctic Nu-Air System

Name of Theatre..... .....No. of Seats.....

My Name .. ..

Address .....

City ..... State .....

NOV 20 1931

Better Theatres

November 21, 1931

Vol. 105, No. 8

A section of Motion Picture Herald devoted to the designing, construction, equipping and operation of the motion picture theatre

GEORGE SCHUTZ, Editor

C. B. O'NEILL, Advertising Manager

GENERAL FEATURES

Operating the Small "Automatic" Theatre: By Harold B. Franklin 12
A Design for a Theatre Adaptable to Store Space: By Alfonso Iannelli 13
Illumination for the Intimate Cinema: By Francis M. Falge and C. M. Cutler 16
Planning Today's Simplified Cinema: By Ben Schlanger 18
Two New Circuit Theatres in England: By W. H. Mooring 22
The Features of an Automatic Cinema: By S. Charles Lee 25
The Vending Machine in the Theatre: By O. C. Lightner 26
Recent Creations in Theatre Design: Pictorial 27
Rights of Labor: Recent Court Decisions: By Leo T. Parker 35
Modern Seating and Chair Maintenance: By Reuben A. Nyhagen 36

DEPARTMENTS

Modern Projection (37)
Sound Control in Air Conditioning Installations: By Vern O. Knudsen 37
Projection Mart: Equipment News and Comment 42
F. H. Richardson's Comment 51
What the Manager Should Know About Sound: By Aaron Nadell 54
Planning the Theatre (124)
New Theatre Projects (127)

THEATRE EQUIPMENT DIRECTORIES

The Equipment Index 59
Who's Who 104
Theatre Supply Dealers 120

MISCELLANEOUS

Notes on Writers and Subjects in This Issue 8
Editorial 11
Booklets: New Brochures and Bulletins 128
New Inventions 130
Equipment Affairs: Equipment News and Comment 132
Cross Index 133
Index to Advertisers 135
Where to Buy It 136

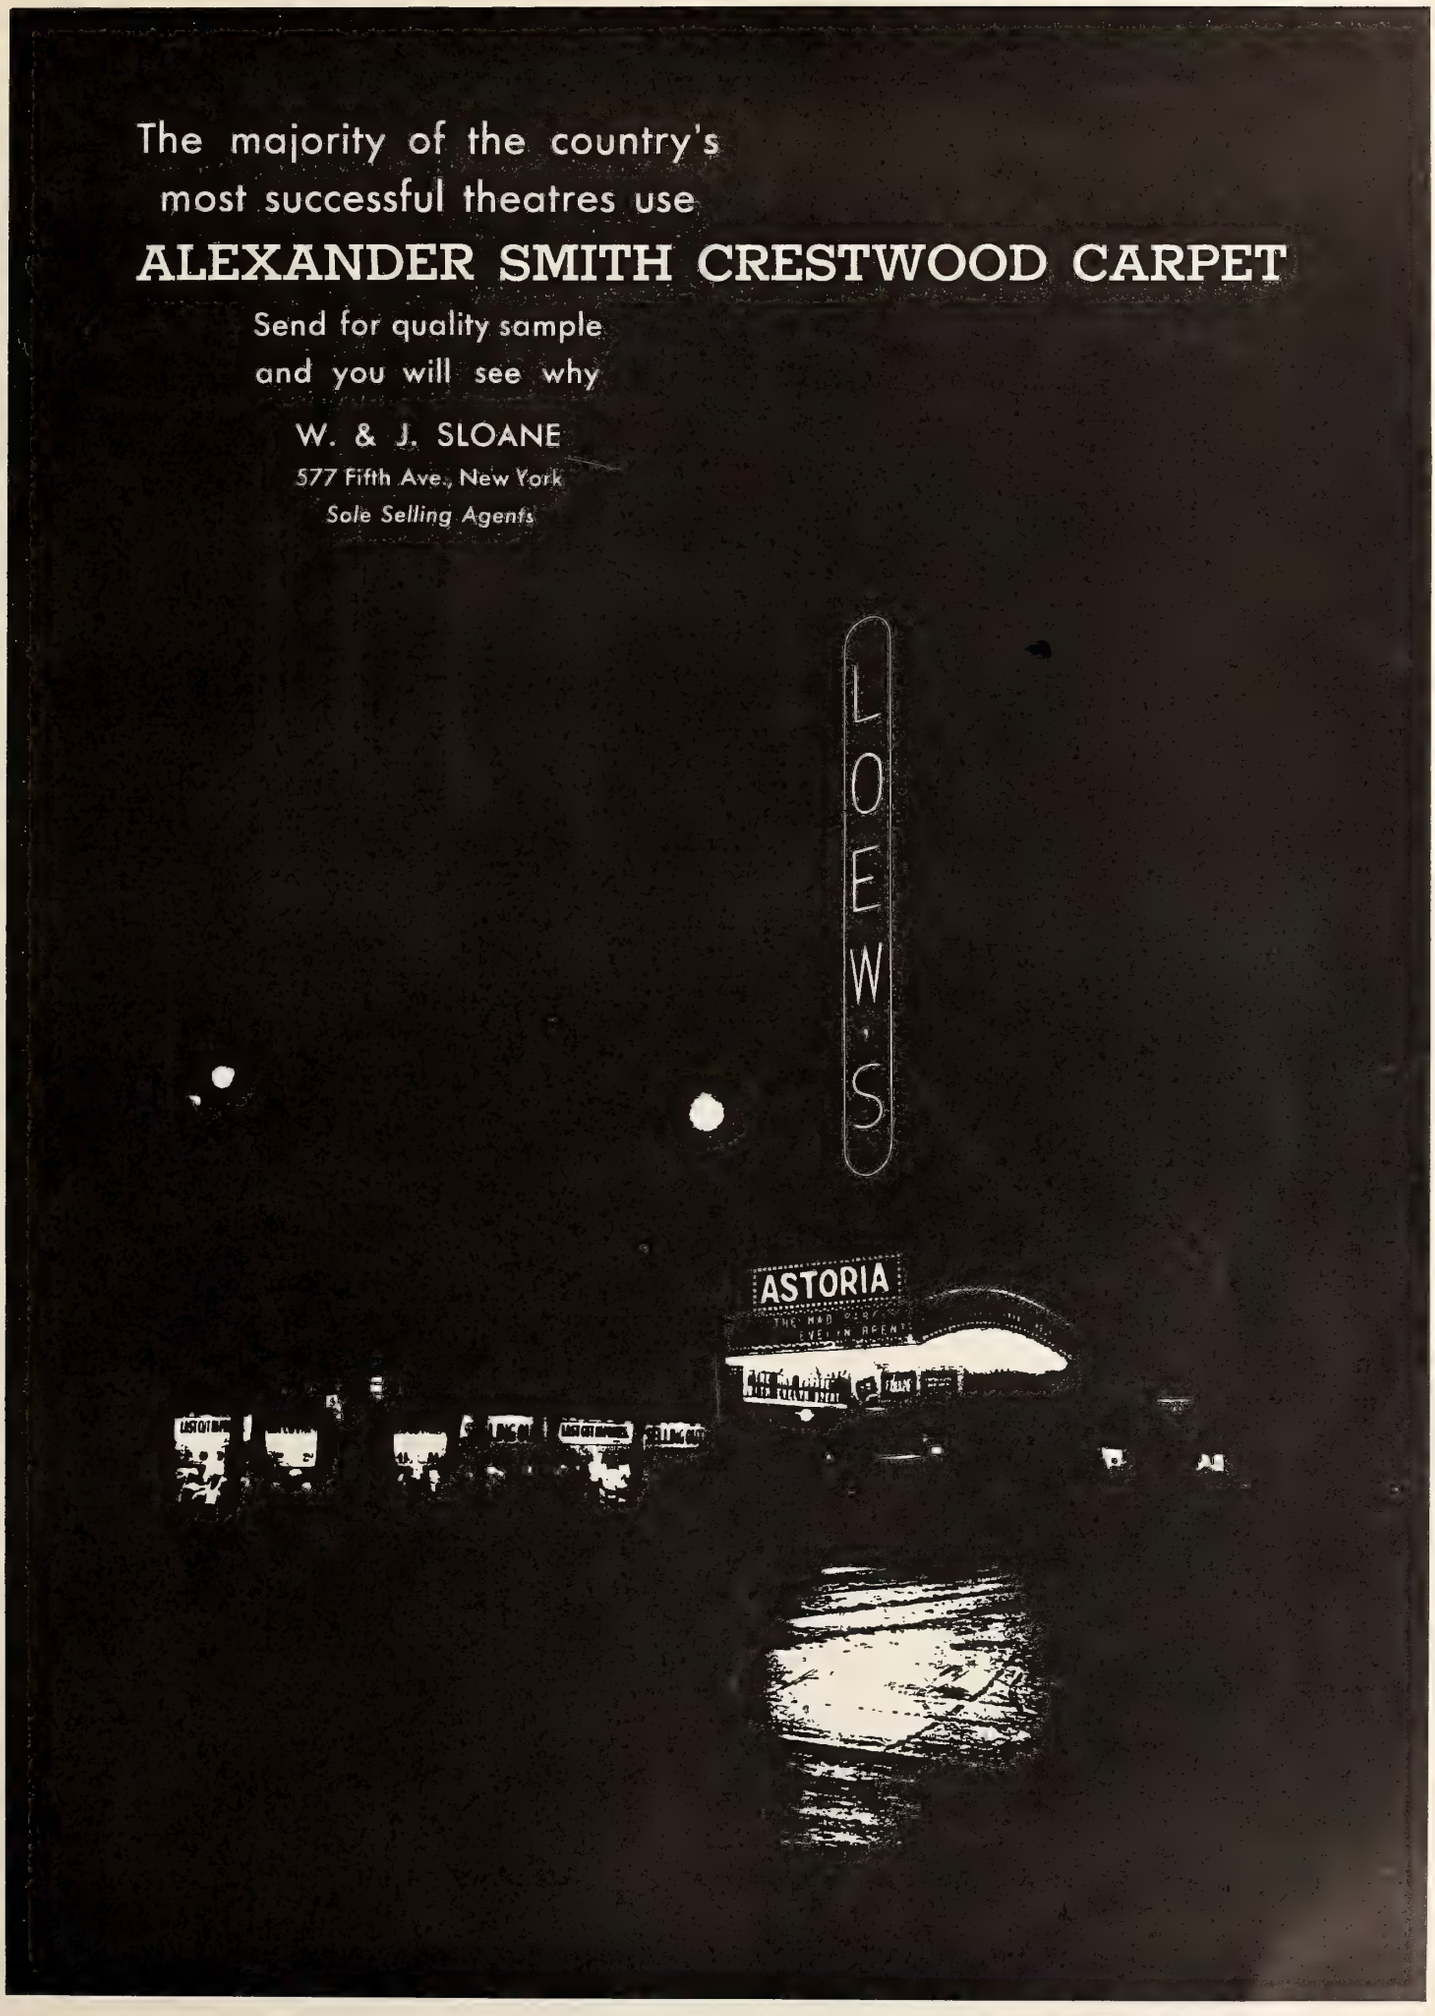
QUIGLEY PUBLISHING COMPANY, 1790 BROADWAY, NEW YORK

MARTIN QUIGLEY, Publisher and Editor-in-Chief

COLVIN W. BROWN, Vice President and General Manager

CHICAGO: 207 South Dearborn Street

HOLLYWOOD: Pacific States Life Bldg.



LONDON: The Bioscope, Faraday House, 8-10 Charing Cross Rd., W. C. 2

CABLE ADDRESS: Quigpubco

NEW YORK TEL.: Circle 7-3100

Better Theatres (with which is incorporated The Showman) is published every fourth week as Section Two of Motion Picture Herald: Terry Ramsaye, editor. Member of Audit Bureau of Circulations. All editorial and general business correspondence should be addressed to the New York office. All contents copyrighted 1931 by Quigley Publishing Company and except for properly accredited quotations, nothing appearing herein may be reproduced without written permission. Every precaution is taken to ensure the safety of unsolicited manuscripts and photographs submitted, but the publishers herewith deny all responsibility for them in case of mutilation or loss. Branch office managers: E. S. Clifford, Chicago; Leo Meehan, Hollywood. London representative: W. H. Mooring. Other Quigley Publications: Motion Picture Daily, Hollywood Herald, The Motion Picture Almanac (published annually) and The Chicagoan.

The majority of the country's most successful theatres use
ALEXANDER SMITH CRESTWOOD CARPET
Send for quality sample and you will see why
W. & J. SLOANE
577 Fifth Ave., New York
Sole Selling Agents

Deluxe Seating... Acoustically Correct

THE chair shown above typifies the class, comfort, and box-office appeal of the new Heywood-Wakefield Theatre Seating. From every angle the new H-W Chairs have that class, comfort, and style which lend prestige and build profits for any theatre, regardless of size.

Most of the new H-W Chairs have been designed for use in sound houses. Several of them were developed in cooperation with Publix engineers who have made exhaustive studies of acoustical requirements in theatre equipment. The chair shown above is particularly adapted to sound use. Its soft, luxurious, sound absorbing upholstery; its custom type of tailoring on the seat and back; and its refreshingly modern aisle standard make this seat one of the most beautiful and practical designs ever built.

Publix has installed more than a quarter million H-W Theatre Seats. Many other leading chains and independents have also specified H-W Seats because of their fine workmanship, smart design, unusual comfort, and long wear. If you are planning to seat a new house or reseat an old one, it will pay you to get all the facts on H-W Theatre Seating. A note to the nearest H-W Sales Office will bring complete information.

SALES OFFICES

Baltimore, Md.
Boston, Mass.
Buffalo, N. Y.
Chicago, Ill.
Los Angeles, Calif.
New York, N. Y.
Oklahoma City, Okla.
Philadelphia, Pa.
Pittsburgh, Pa.
Portland, Ore.
San Francisco, Calif.
Seattle, Wash.

HEYWOOD-WAKEFIELD

CAR CRASH can shatter your PROFITS

A crash like this can ruin your show . . . make you hand out refunds. This particular smash-up cut off service for 30 minutes in a large area near Atlanta, Ga. It so happened house lights in a hospital were cut off . . . that operations were being performed but were not interrupted, because an Exide Emergency Lighting Battery System kept lights in the operating room burning until current was restored.

FIVE miles from your theatre a trolley jumps the track. Crash!! Down go power wires. Out go lights. Your show is stopped. Patrons demand their money back. Accidents like this may be interesting news on a News Reel but they're bad news for you, if your theatre is not protected against sudden current failure.

Current failure may seldom occur, but once may be too often. You never know when it will come swooping down on your theatre. The power company can't be blamed. It does everything possible to give you dependable service. It can't predict accidents any more than you. Guard against such risks. Protect patrons and profits with an Exide Emergency Lighting Battery System.

Then, the instant electric current fails, Exides take over the entire emergency load automatically . . . without a hand touching a switch. Silent projector can be operated. Your show goes on.

This protection is not expensive to maintain. Write for information on Exide Emergency Lighting Battery Systems. Better yet, have one of our technical men call and talk this matter over with you. No obligation either way.

Exide

EMERGENCY LIGHTING BATTERY SYSTEMS

THE ELECTRIC STORAGE BATTERY COMPANY, Philadelphia

THE WORLD'S LARGEST MANUFACTURERS OF STORAGE BATTERIES FOR EVERY PURPOSE

Exide Batteries of Canada, Limited, Toronto

NOTES on WRITERS and SUBJECTS in this ISSUE

¶ The immediate difficulty encountered in expressing one's self concerning the type of theatre so eminently discussed in this issue, lies in determining just what to call it. It is small. But so are a lot of theatres. It may employ the turnstile method of admitting patrons. Or it may not. It so far has leaned to great simplifications in architectural or decorative treatment, embracing the so-called modernistic attitude. Yet obviously it need not. It is simplified in many ways. Still, it has all the essential facilities of the fullest equipped theatre. If we must recognize it as a distinct type, then we must have a name for it, in order to distinguish it readily from large deluxe theatres and also from the ordinary small house. And we cannot depend upon its adaptation to store space in an existing building, for of course it could be constructed from the ground up, sole occupant of its own housing. The few examples that we now have, which do happen to have been adapted to former store space, are the three Translux theatres in New York, the Studio in Hollywood, and one being built on upper Broadway in New York.

¶ Because of the many conjectures, many arising at the time the first Trans-Lux theatre was opened in New York last winter, it is interesting to note that Harold B. Franklin (Operating the "Automatic" Theatre) does not consider the success of the Hughes-Franklin Studio theatre dependent upon its novelty. Patrons find this unique little house novel, of course, what with its soda fountain in the lobby, vending machines in foyer and lounge, sidewalk with a window revealing the air conditioning compressor. But, says Mr. Franklin, they come again and again.

¶ It is interesting to note in the general physical makeup of the type, how it is timed with another development. In design, the need for economy in such small theatres takes full advantage of the modern or "modernistic" principles of frank simplicity and functional decoration. Alfonso Iannelli has followed this course closely in his creation (A Design for a Theatre Adaptable to Store Space). Mr. Iannelli is an internationally known sculptor and designer who has contributed to many monumental buildings.

¶ One of the theatres for which plans are offered by Ben Schlanger (Planning Today's Simplified Theatre), is an actual project in New York, and will be the first theatre in this country to have the main floor sloping toward the rear of the auditorium instead of toward the stage. This is according to the scheme devised by Mr. Schlanger, New York architect, which provoked so much interest when introduced to the industry at the spring meeting of the Society of Motion Picture Engineers. This house therefore affords a practical demonstration of the idea, and the plans themselves well show how it has been in this case worked out. Another feature shown is the use of a modified stadium type of seating arrangement, affording greater intimacy, more seats per unit of space, and room for further facilities. The other set of plans in Mr. Schlanger's group are entirely hypothetical, original creations conceived to suggest possible treatment according to the best principles of seating, projection and patron accommodation.

¶ The discussion of architectural aspects contributed by S. Charles Lee (The Features of an Automatic Cinema) are based directly upon his experience in planning the Studio theatre, which was an adaptation to a structure offering a number of difficulties that a more suitable building would not have presented. Mr. Lee is the well known Los Angeles architect who has specialized in theatres for many years.

¶ It was thought that a review of what has been achieved, and what possibilities lie ahead, in the use of vending equipment in theatres, would be particularly interesting if offered in association with material on the "automatic" or "simplified" type of theatre—this because, as is so eminently the case with regard to the Studio, such auxiliary money-makers seem to be so uniquely adapted to the whole scheme of operation involved. O. C. Lightner, who discusses this distant cousin to modern exhibition (The Vending Machine in the Theatre), is the editor of the publication devoted to that field, Automatic Age. He is a Chicagoan.

¶ In the December 19th issue the series, Modern Seating and Chair Maintenance, will get thoroughly under way in its attempt to offer instruction to the architect, theatre owner and manager in all phases of seating of practical importance to the purchaser. The six articles will appear in consecutive issues of BETTER THEATRES. Reuben A. Nyhagen is a seating engineer who has had years of experience in the manufacturing, installation and maintenance problems of public seating, particularly that of the motion picture theatre.

¶ C. M. Falge and C. M. Cutler (Illumination for the Intimate Cinema) are both electrical engineers specializing in lighting problems. They are associated with the General Electric Company at Nela Park, Cleveland.

¶ Vern O. Knudsen hardly needs identification to those who have been more intimately concerned with the acoustics of studio and theatre. He has done a great deal of work for the producers, and has also been a contributor to our present body of knowledge concerning theatre acoustics since the advent of sound. He is associate professor of Physics in the University of California at Los Angeles. In connection with his work in the university, he is a physicist and consultant on acoustics, and has designed the acoustical features of the sound stages at the studios of both Paramount and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. He is eminently suited to discuss acoustics in relation to air conditioning equipment, having been retained by the Carrier Engineering Corporation to help solve just such problems as dealt with in Sound Control in Air Conditioning Installations. The article is offered through arrangement with the publication, Heating-Piping & Air Conditioning.

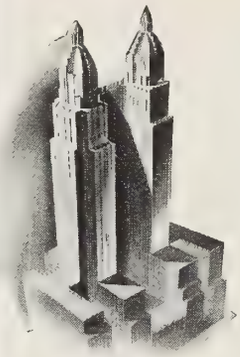
¶ Aaron Nadell must be well known to our readers by this time, even though he was introduced by name only in the last issue. Mr. Nadell is a projection and sound engineer who has been identified with Electrical Research Products and the Paramount Publix projection-sound organization. He lives in Brooklyn.

¶ W. H. Mooring (Two New Circuit Theatres in England) is the editor of the British film trade journal, The Bioscope. He is also the London representative of MOTION PICTURE HERALD.

¶ Leo T. Parker (Rights of Labor: Recent Court Decisions) a regular contributor of legal articles, is a Cincinnati attorney.

The Fabric That's a "SOUND" Investment

ACOUSTICALLY perfect . . . Chase VELMO . . . the luxurious mohair pile upholstery fabrics which, better than any others, reduce reverberation to a minimum. Re-covering your present equipment with VELMO, or using these smart materials on new seats, will ensure wonderful possibilities from your investment. Specify VELMO fabrics . . . as have many theatre operators as a matter-of-course . . . because they really do solve acoustic problems, and retain their original beauty.



For physical and audition comfort for patrons . . . as well as for long-term economy for the operator . . . VELMO fabrics are the essential accessory to every modern seat installation.

1. Earl Carroll Theatre Seat; Upholstery of Velmo
   (American Seating Company)
2. New Chicago Theatre Seat; Figured Velmo Upholstery
   (Heywood-Wakefield Co.)
3. Heinz Memorial Theatre Seat in Plain Velmo
   (A. H. Andrews Co.)

MADE BY SANFORD MILLS
L. C. Chase & Co., Selling Agents
Boston - New York - Chicago
Detroit - San Francisco

CHASE
Velmo

"... like Engineers..."

"Now that the job of building a new Waldorf-Astoria is finished, I want to commend you for the excellent service rendered by your Contract Department. They approached the problem like engineers and as such were extremely helpful in planning, designing and servicing the installation of your carpet in the upper sections of our new home."

Louis Boomer

Of course – Bigelow-Sanford Carpets

. . . . for The Waldorf-Astoria

★ For the corridors
...14 of the floors where there is heavy traffic

★ For transient rooms
...all bedrooms and boudoirs on the smart Park Avenue side, throughout 15 floors

★ For the tower section
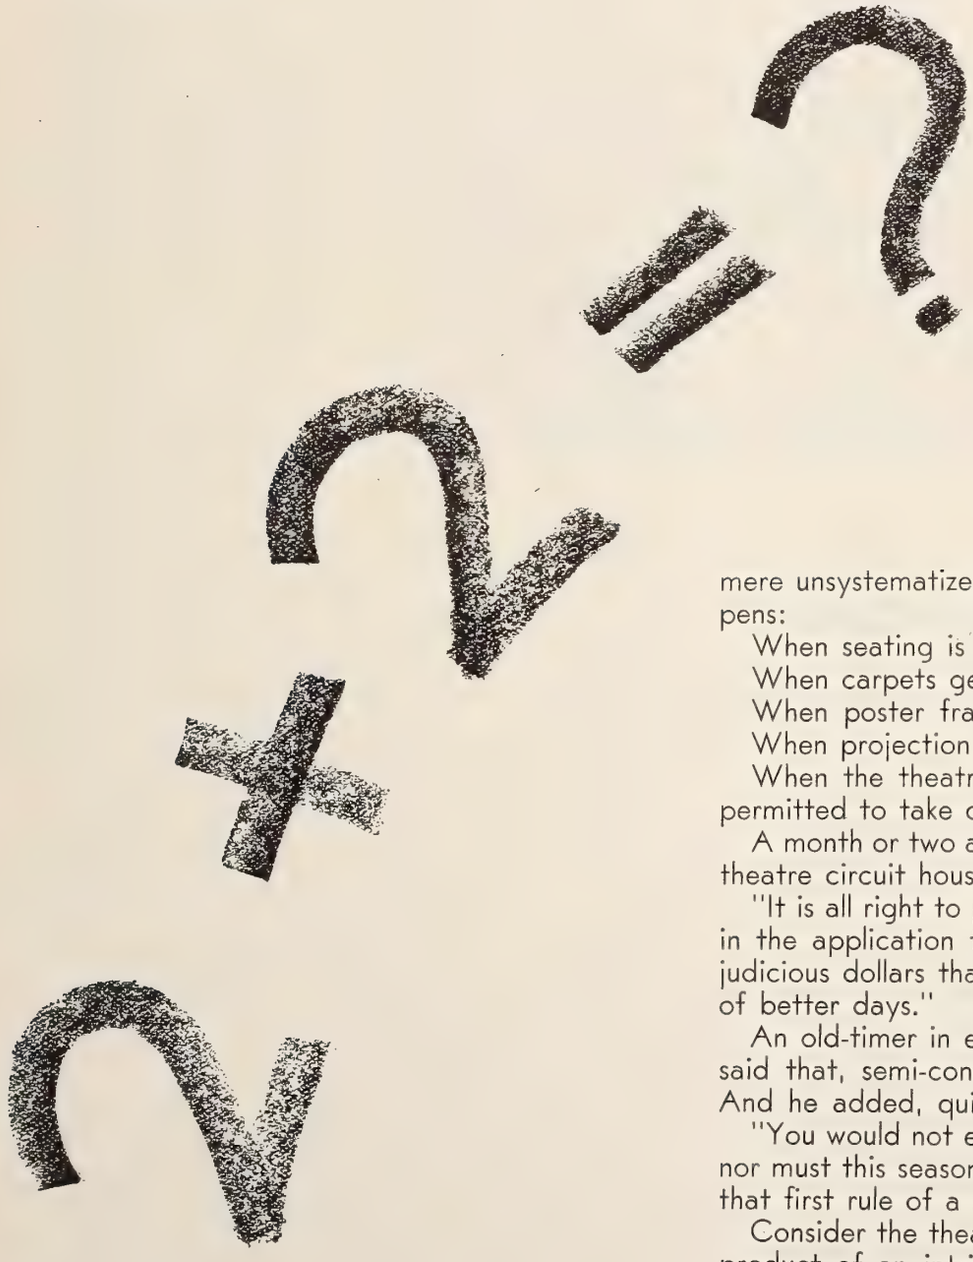
...all bedrooms and boudoirs throughout 14 floors of richly furnished deluxe suites

Wherever both beauty and service were most needed, Bigelow-Sanford's contract department was called in. Just as it has been called in for 90% of all the better hotels in the country.

With an understanding eye for decorative scheme, economy, and servicing, this department has rendered equally valuable cooperation to the management of the Hotel Robidioux in St. Joseph, Mo., the Earl Carroll Theatre, the Statler Hotels, and those of the Bowman-Biltmore group.

Whether you are recarpeting a corridor, or planning a new building, feel free to use the services of our Contract Department, knowing that their specifications will be right and save you money. And our designing department stands ready to create special designs for any period of furnishing which your decorative scheme may call for.



Reach us at 385 Madison Avenue, New York City.

BIGELOW-SANFORD

BIGELOW-SANFORD CARPET CO. Inc. Mills at Thompsonville, Conn. · · Amsterdam, New York · · Clinton, Mass.
Main Sales Office: 385 Madison Avenue, New York Sales Offices: Boston · · Philadelphia · · Pittsburgh · · Atlanta · · Dallas
St. Louis · · Chicago · · Detroit · · Minneapolis · · Denver · · Los Angeles · · San Francisco · · Seattle

AN INQUIRY ABOUT AN ELUSIVE ANSWER

an editorial

THE other day one of our more prominent theatre operators—the head of a circuit, though not of a great producer-owned chain—remarked with some impatience, according to published reports, that the depression was evidently scaring many exhibitors into letting their houses get "run-down at the heel."

It is natural enough, of course, when local or general economic adversity appears, that a policy of retrenchment be adopted. Cloth must be cut according to the size.

There is, however, a distinction between necessary planned economy and mere unsystematized penny-pinching. For example, what happens:

When seating is allowed to become loose and ragged?

When carpets get shabby?

When poster frames acquire scratches or tarnish?

When projection apparatus struggles with worn-out parts?

When the theatre, at these and scores of other points, is permitted to take on the drooping air of a sick enterprise?

A month or two ago we clipped this out of Warner Brothers' theatre circuit house organ for Warner managers:

"It is all right to practice economy, but wisdom is necessary in the application thereof. It is far better to expend a few judicious dollars than to have a theatre front look like a relic of better days."

An old-timer in exhibition big and small—Dan Michalove—said that, semi-confidentially addressing his house managers. And he added, quite reasonably:

"You would not exhibit a Rembrandt in a Woolworth frame, nor must this season's product suffer from lack of attention to that first rule of a showman to 'keep my house inviting'."

Consider the theatre costing many thousands of dollars, the product of an intricate process and time and effort, at last a respected medium for the most popular of the arts—being allowed to deteriorate! Two questions are in order:

What is the effect on that theatre's box office today?

And what will be the cost when, all of a sudden, the accumulation of worn-out furnishings and equipment will simply have to be replaced?

OPERATING THE SMALL "AUTOMATIC" THEATRE

Harold B. Franklin—a drawing by Morris Hobbs of the managing chief of the new Hughes-Franklin circuit, operators of the Studio theatre, Hollywood.

What was attempted in the Studio theatre, and how much of that aim has been realized—as told by the man who runs that unique cinema

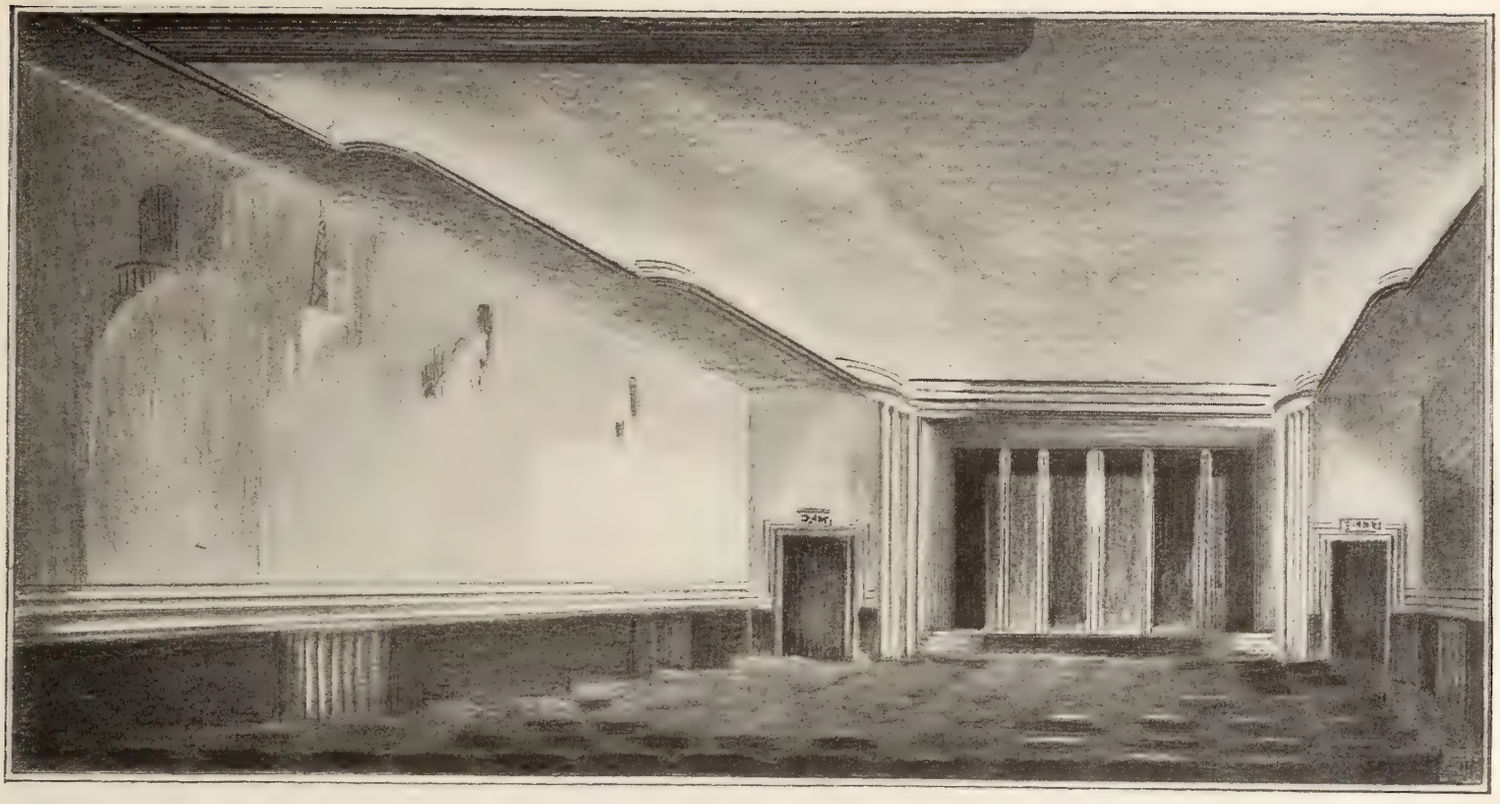
By HAROLD B. FRANKLIN

IT MAY BE SAID at the outset that theatres of the Trans-Lux type in New York, and like the Studio in Hollywood, can be successful only in the very busiest of locations. It is also my belief that such theatres cannot operate profitably with a short subject program if they are outside the Broadway section of New York City.

With these points established as what seems to me to be basic principles, let us look at our experience with the Studio theatre, to see what we may glean from it of significance to this unique kind of showmanship in general.

The Studio theatre is giving a performance that runs one hour and three-quarters, and the program consists of a feature, a newsreel and either a cartoon or a comedy, depending upon the length of the feature. The admission is uniformly 25 cents and naturally shows the pictures in accordance with the clearance which defines a 25-cent showing.

Though the Studio theatre is operating profitably, were we to do it over again, we would prefer to have 100 or 200 more seats, as we could handle additional patronage on the peak nights very readily without any material expense if this were the case.



The Studio theatre is particularly successful because we have succeeded in maintaining an atmosphere that ordinarily was in practice in only the highest type of theatres. The personnel of the theatre is selected with great care, and only persons of pleasing personalities are considered for the staff. The hostess who takes the place of the usher is gowned simply and does not force attention on the patrons. The cashier is similarly gowned and holds her position because she is soft-voiced and considerate. The patron does not come into contact with any of the employes. Advertising is limited to the lobby display, which again emphasizes the necessity of a so-called 100% location.

There is a combination of several things that attract people to the Studio theatre. First, of course, is novelty, something new, something different. And yet these people come back again and again to see the programs, long after any so-called "novelty" would be old and uninteresting. This is chiefly due to the definite atmosphere of intimacy which is so prevalent in a house of this type. The auditorium is small, seats are all centrally located, there being no center aisle. Patrons choose their own seats, passing down either of the two side aisles which they happen to particularly like. There are only 12 seats in each row, consequently the annoyance of patrons already seated is reduced to the absolute minimum. Advanced projection methods enable patrons to sit in close proximity to the screen without the resultant eye-strain formerly encountered. Modified, normal sound, which is ample for the size of the auditorium, aids greatly in creating an intimacy never before deemed possible in a talking picture theatre.

An extremely modern and decorative front immediately arrests the attention of passers-by. The colors are black and silver. Black vitrolite secured by chromium metal bands constitutes the color scheme. The rather severe, somewhat cold atmosphere is relieved by the unique lighting, which is at once indirect, yet brilliant, this effect being obtained by lights in the ceiling and also around the bottom molding concealed behind opaque white glass. Another feature which detracts from any severe feeling is the cashier who occupies a ticket booth, which is open on all sides (except in cold or rainy weather, when concealed glass panels are withdrawn and create a very pleasant, cozy little box office). This cashier is chosen for her personality and well groomed appearance.

Even the sidewalk in front of the lobby is of different composition than the adjoining strips. Sunken into the cement is very modernistic lettering, and parallel with the curbing is a metal inscription which reads, "Parking just aint allowed." Other inscriptions appropriately placed show the outline of a Chinese man with the word "East" below it, and opposite this a cowboy with the word "West." As expected, the constant shuffling of pedestrians' feet across this metal keeps it shining brilliantly at all times.

A novel idea is the location of the air conditioning plant just beneath the sidewalk. A considerable opening was cut into the sidewalk and covered with heavy plate glass, enabling pedestrians to gaze with awe at the intricate machinery. There is also a novel automatic drinking fountain operated by a photoelectric cell, and vending machines of various kinds add to an intimate playtime atmosphere.

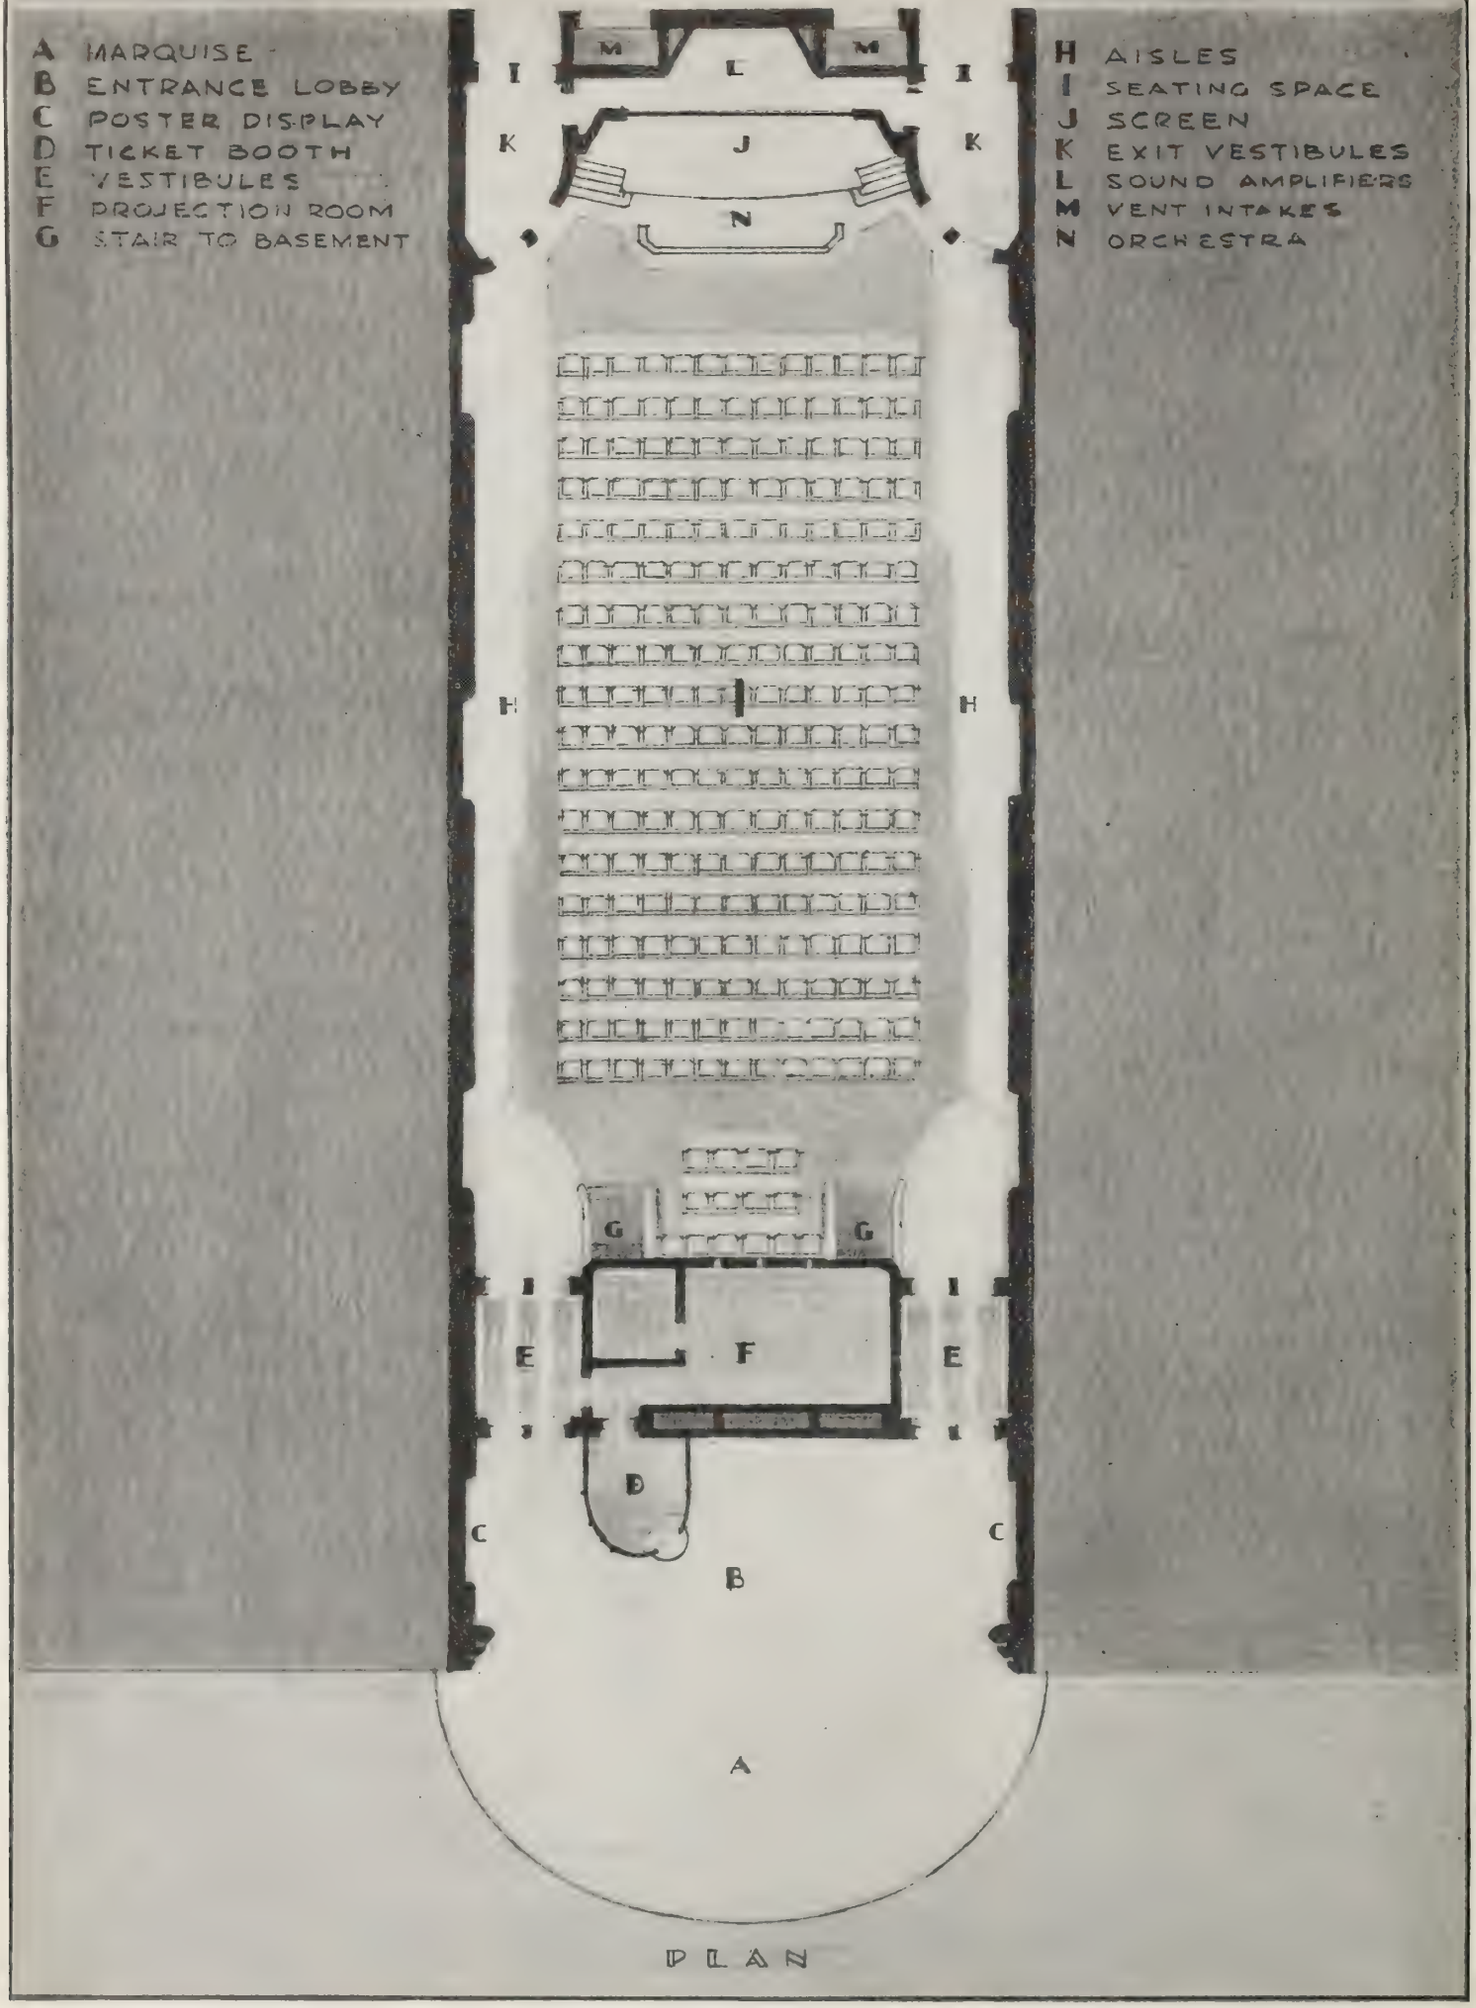
THE AUDITORIUM • A CINEMA DESIGN BY ALFONSO IANNELLI

A DESIGN FOR A THEATRE ADAPTABLE TO STORE SPACE

A general treatment demonstrated in three drawings—on this and the following two pages—with an explanation in which its creator offers a basis for the calculation of typical costs of remodeling a building to accommodate such a cinema

By ALFONSO IANNELLI

A REALLY NEW type of cinema has made its appearance, giving what seems now to be greater value to space and to the essential function of the motion picture theatre. There is no holding it down to a set style, of course, nor should one think of it always in association with restrictions that have thus far characterized it in actual use. In offering a plan and design for such a theatre, I have, however, considered the problem in the light of those few houses of the type that have come to my notice, and therefore I have visualized the problem as one including adaptation to an existing store building, with the theatre space of typical restrictions as to size and general suitability to modern cinema purposes.



This theatre is planned for a store space measuring 35x100 feet. The physical remodeling consists principally in providing partitions for a stage, exits and projection room, lounges and toilets below, and space for ventilating and lighting equipment, etc. The whole design has been thought of as being controlled by the installation of the necessary ducts, light coves and fixtures, radiators, etc., all arranged as the decorative motives.

The exposed portions of the ventilating ducts are faced with aluminum as a reflecting surface for the lighting cove formed by the extended soffit of the duct on each side of the house. Further decorative lighting is found in the proscenium arch. All lighting of the interior is by means of gas tubing in three colors, controlled by a new type of dimmer developed for this use, making it possible to produce a variety of effects and gradations, as well as gradual changes of intensity and color, changing the mood of the theatre from soft moonlight to the most exotic sunset effects.

Luminous paint decorations in color at intervals on the wall are activated by a new type of invisible violet ray tube recently developed, which permits them to be seen especially when the lights are dimmed to their lowst point, giving a variety of effects as the lighting increases to provide a continuous change of interest for the audience.

The color is largely achieved by the lighting effects, but the basic color scheme of the interior is a dark wainscot with silver radiators and silver ventilating troughs and lighting units. Plaster walls and ceiling is a graduation of tones from white to gray, with the exception of the special murals, which would be applied in luminous paints of greens, violets, blues

(Continued on page 131)

SCHEMATIC PLAN • A CINEMA DESIGN BY ALFONSO IANNELLI

FRONT ELEVATION • A CINEMA DESIGN BY ALFONSO IANNELLI

Luminous architectural elements built into a facade.

ILLUMINATION FOR THE INTIMATE CINEMA

How both aesthetic and technical factors exert special and important influences upon the arrangement of an illumination system for the small, simplified modern motion picture theatre

By
FRANCIS M. FALGE
and
C. M. CUTLER

THEATRICAL circles have been buzzing in recent months with prophesies and ponderings regarding our latest addition to the theatre family—the little theatre of the movies. It is all the more startling because of the extreme contrast between our well-known ornate deluxe houses of four or five thousand seats, and this infant of a mere 150 or so. Three Trans-Lux houses in New York, and the Hughes-Franklin circuit's unique Studio theatre on the opposite coast, started the furor.

Light is much in evidence in these small theatres. Because of space limitations, light is called upon to provide the decorative elements and aesthetic environment, as well as to serve purely utilitarian purposes. More than ever it is necessary that the front simply and effectively achieve its purpose. The very nature of these small theatres places them in the transient class where first appearance means so much, with the best medium of advertising—an attractive and convincing front. It should be easy to find these theatres, and easy to get into them. The necessarily low operating expense decrees that properly placed signs in the interior do the directing, efficiently and without delay. The theatre itself is the intermediary between the picture and the patron, and it must be warm and friendly, and at the same time enhancing the picture. Because the type of program appeals also to juveniles, there must be sufficient light to suppress at once any question of impropriety.

The use of a space previously planned for stores or other similar purposes, imposes limitations of a height of one floor, and a width of from 20 to 30 feet, with a maximum seating capacity of from 150 to 300 seats. Because of these space limitations built-in lighting may effectively accomplish the purposes of utility and decoration and still give greatest comfort in viewing the picture. Thus lighting has additional value and functions for the best interests of the patron and the picture.

Cost is a first consideration. The architect and theatre owner should therefore welcome light because it affords the opportunity of decorating efficiently and pleasingly at a low cost. Light in itself affords unlimited ways of providing novelty, beauty and decoration with which the average person is usually unfamiliar.

It is then obvious that our theatre requires a decidedly modern treatment. Light holds the key to the situation. Simplicity and efficiency go hand in hand with beauty and attractiveness. The recent little theatres as well as their forerunners have proved the desirability of simple but effective treatment. Let us look at our theatre in detail:

The Exterior

THE ENTIRE FRONT should be built with a view to selling admissions. The modern trend in architectural design is particularly suited to express this idea. Scientific facts concerning the best direction for the signs, as well as the size and brightness of the display are first considerations.

Motion, color and novelty are other essentials to be included in an attractive front. In modern design, blacks, whites, grays and silvers form an effective background. Luminous panels and niches enhance the architecture and add life, yet do not detract from the attraction-board letters, which tell the passers-by about the presentation. The duties of the advertising displays are:

(1) To reach all points of heavy traffic within viewing distance of the theatre with a message which will be evident to the prospective patrons and create within them the desire to see more.

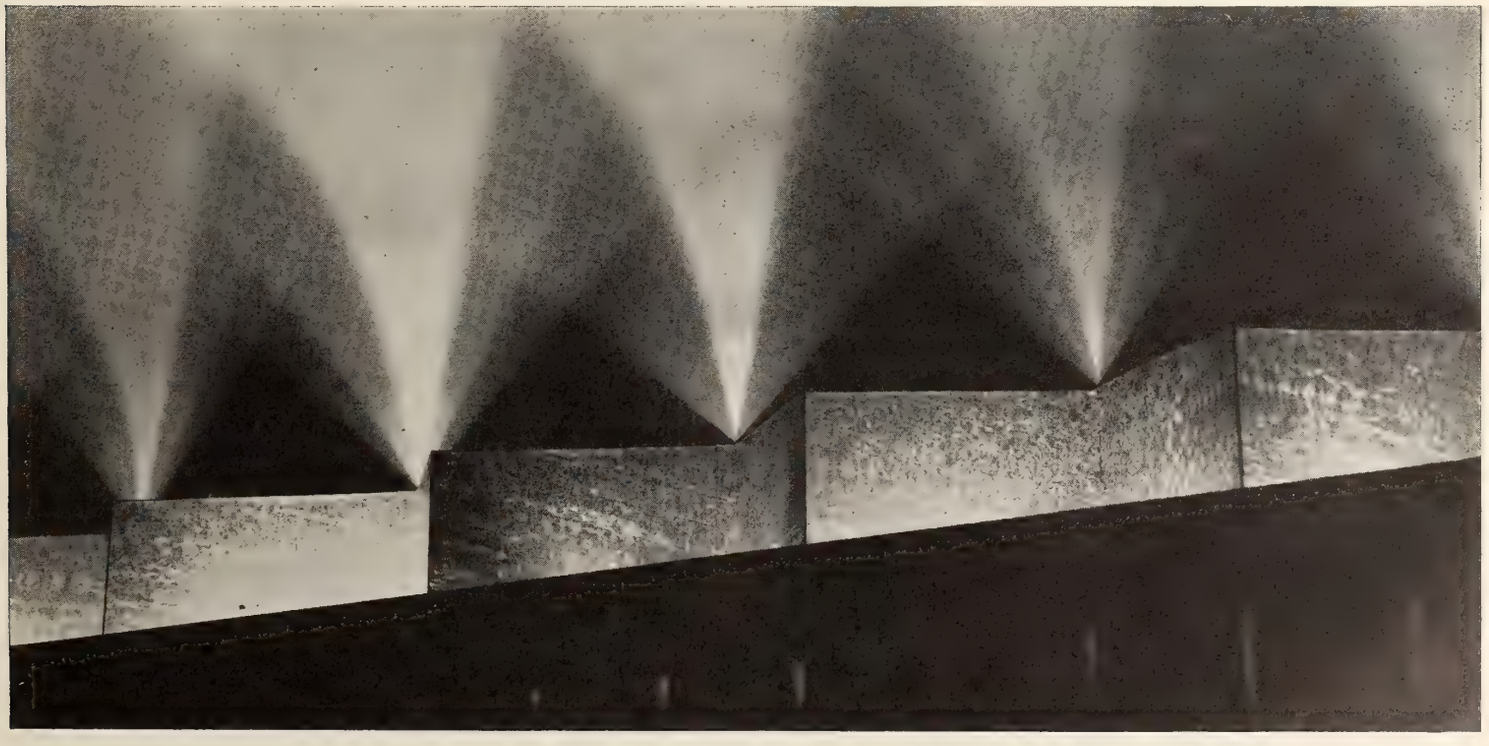
(2) To tell the passers-by the highlights of the program by smaller illuminated signs.

(3) To stop the passers-by as they walk beneath the marquee and interest them in the poster or animated displays, so that the desirability of attending the performance becomes great enough to cause them to act.

(4) To create an invitation and inspire confidence by an unobstructed area affording an attractive view of the interior.

The underside of the marquee should provide the effect of life and gayety to be expected in theatres. In the past, relatively low wattage exposed lamps at regular intervals have been the rule. Modern designers are providing variety by using luminous architectural elements. Small inexpensive floodlights equipped with concentrated filament lamps have recently come into vogue and provide additional interest and liveliness. Changing, harmoniously blended colors, in many cases, add considerably to the new mode.

For the maximum daytime value, some means of increasing the brightness of the display in the angle where it is most effective, should be incorporated. Reflectors and lenses directing the light toward the pedestrian and automobile traffic are particularly suited to this purpose. The brightness and efficiency of lighted panels and other luminous elements is considerably increased in this manner. A separate circuit may be used to lower the brightness at night.



The ticket booth should be in keeping with the general scheme, and it should be the focal point for all other displays. It

(Continued on page 132)

Above: A design in glass set off by illumination. Designs in glass offer an opportunity to combine modern materials with modern illumination in effecting new decorative values in an economical manner.

Below: An example of dynamic illumination in an intimate auditorium. In this effect, Colorama is used, a system permitting ever-changing effects and well adapted to the small intimate cinema.

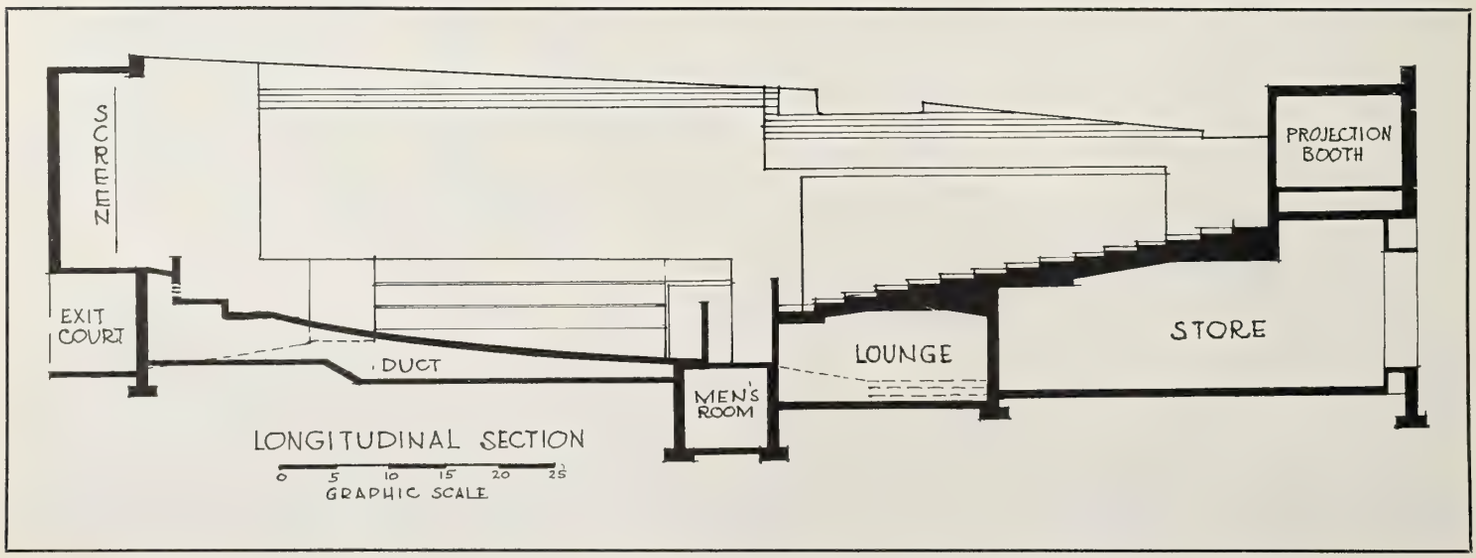
PLANNING TODAY'S SIMPLIFIED CINEMA

a practical consideration of a new theatre type

By BEN SCHLANGER

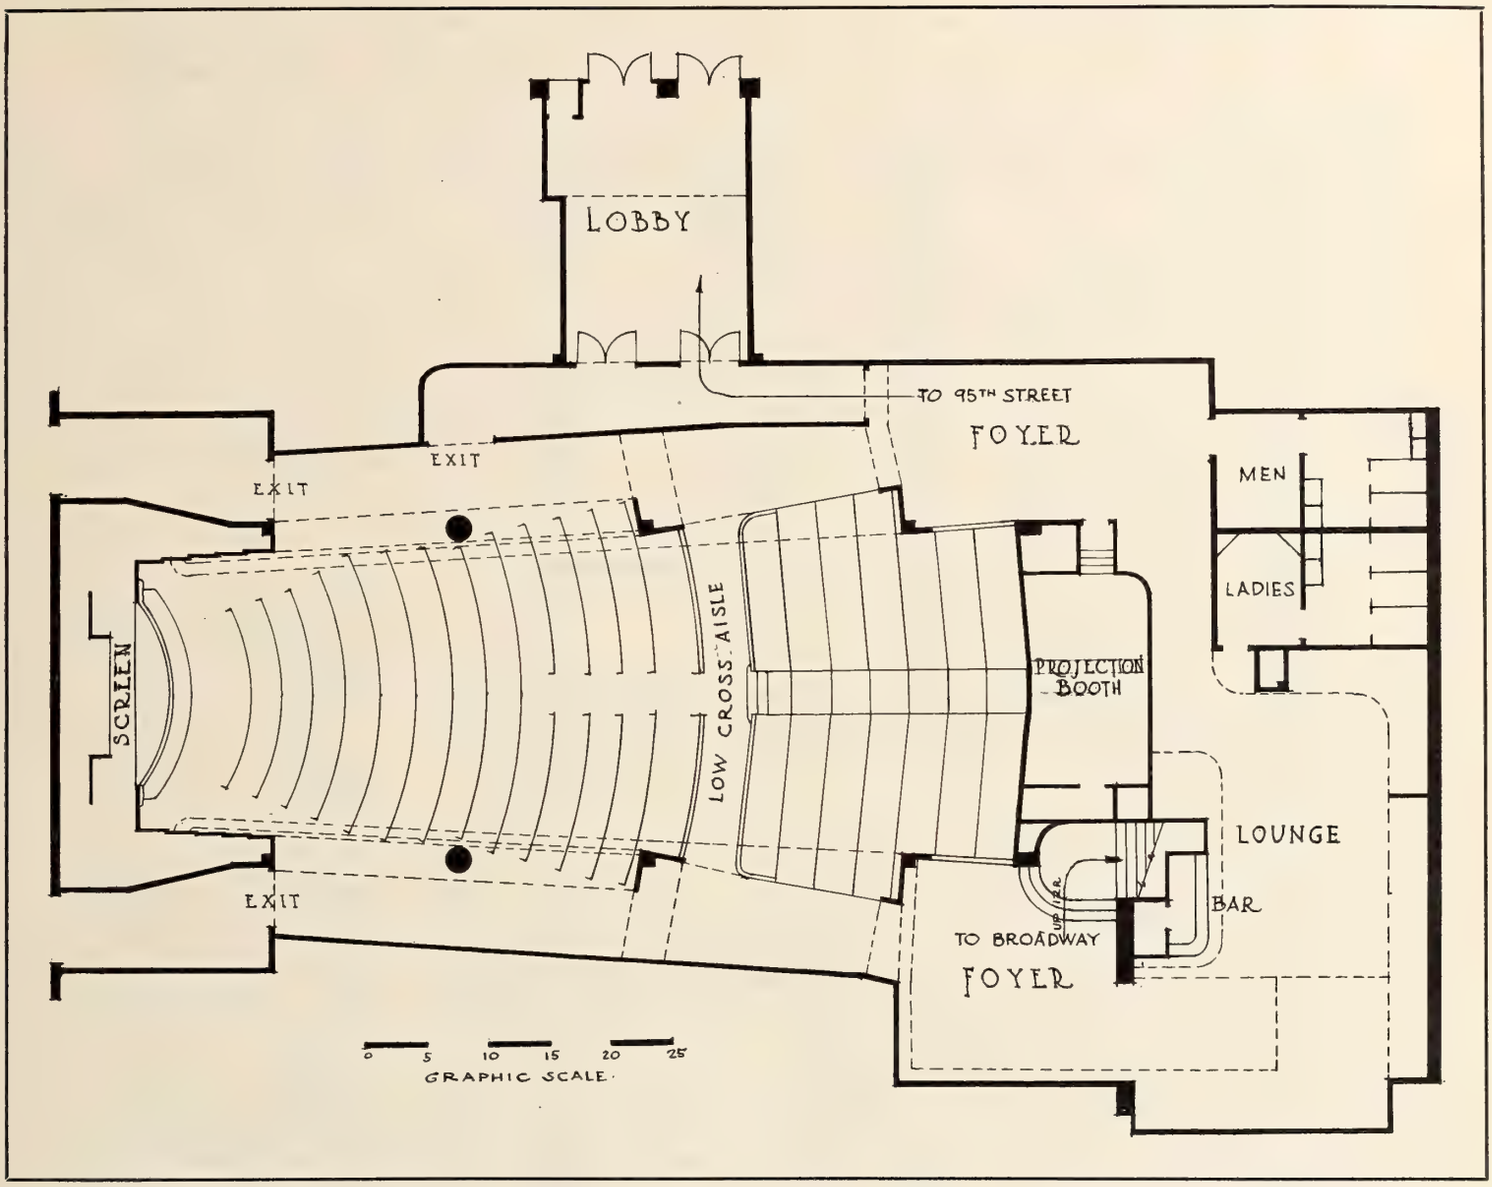
THE SIZE and seating capacity, and the suitable location, for motion picture theatres, presents a most important problem. In its proper solution lies the possibility of making more effective the available theatre-going public, especially if more reasonable admission prices can be established as a result of a scientific study made to arrive at the most economical, yet proficient unit with which motion pictures can be effectively exhibited.

More theatres carefully placed, yet restricted in size and economically planned to answer the needs of a particular community or location, seem necessary. The possibility of having a theatre occupy a portion of a structure that is used for other purposes presents itself as a means of reducing the rental fee for the theatre. Placing theatres into existing buildings within story heights that are limited to as little as 13 feet, is also an interesting consideration. This idea is very practicable, since it involves very little, if any structural work; it is just a matter of moving the machinery of exhibition into an existing enclosed space.



Two such theatre plans are here discussed. One is for a 300-seat theatre now under construction, and the other is for a hypothetical theatre having a capacity of 600. These present only two of the very many possibilities that may more adequately answer the needs of certain classes of motion picture exhibition in the near future.

The 600-seat theatre plan is of special interest for many important reasons. That it could be used most effectively to exhibit motion pictures is not very difficult to illustrate. But to make it an economical unit for popular usage calls for some research work. There are two distinct factors that control this aspect. One is the rental fee of the structure and ground area, the other the costs of the exhibited product, and managerial maintenance cost.



The first cost factor, which is fixed and practically unchangeable is by far the greater one. The problem lies chiefly in reducing this cost. The second cost factor is a problem for the showman. Assuming that the rental cost could be substantially reduced, it seems that the 600-seat theatre could be popularized in both centralized and neighborhood locations. Two such units might serve a community that is at the present time being served by one larger unit.

It is a fallacy to assume that a 1,500-seat theatre would better answer the need of a community. The amount of seats crowded into larger theatres has sometimes created a condition known as overseating, which might be often more aptly called inefficient seating. The unfrequent change of program, and the occasional poor pulling power of some pictures, might easily prove that the larger unit was not a very profitable one. While the managerial and maintenance costs might be a little more for two small units than for a single larger one, the smaller units together might prove more profitable in the end.

Now to bring the small theatre into a practical and profitable existence, it must be planned so as to be economically constructed in a minimum area, yet to provide for the latest technical and engineering developments needed for exhibiting motion pictures under the best conditions. Since its seating capacity is so limited, extreme care must be taken that every seat is a desirable one. Acoustics, ventilation, lighting, projection and sight lines must be given as much attention in the small theatre as in the large house. There is no reason why all of these aspects can not be adequately taken care of even though an extremely economical unit must be designed. As a matter of fact, the economies that must be effected should prove to be the very inspiration for the design. Early consideration of the technical and engineering requirements in planning makes it possible to incorporate in the design the most recent advancements made along these lines, yet adhering strictly to economical principles.

SECTION, PROJECTED THEATRE. R. IRRERA & BEN SCHLANGER, ARCHITECTS

FLOOR PLAN, PROJECTED THEATRE. R. IRRERA & BEN SCHLANGER, ARCHITECTS

The yearly rental fee for a theatre is based on the original construction cost and the value of the land used. The land value is a constant factor, while the construction cost is usually supposed to be amortized in the first ten years.

The accompanying plans, illustrating a type of theatre that could be standardized, have been made while keeping in mind the need of reducing the big expenditure for rent. Let us discuss the hypothetical 600-seat theatre first.

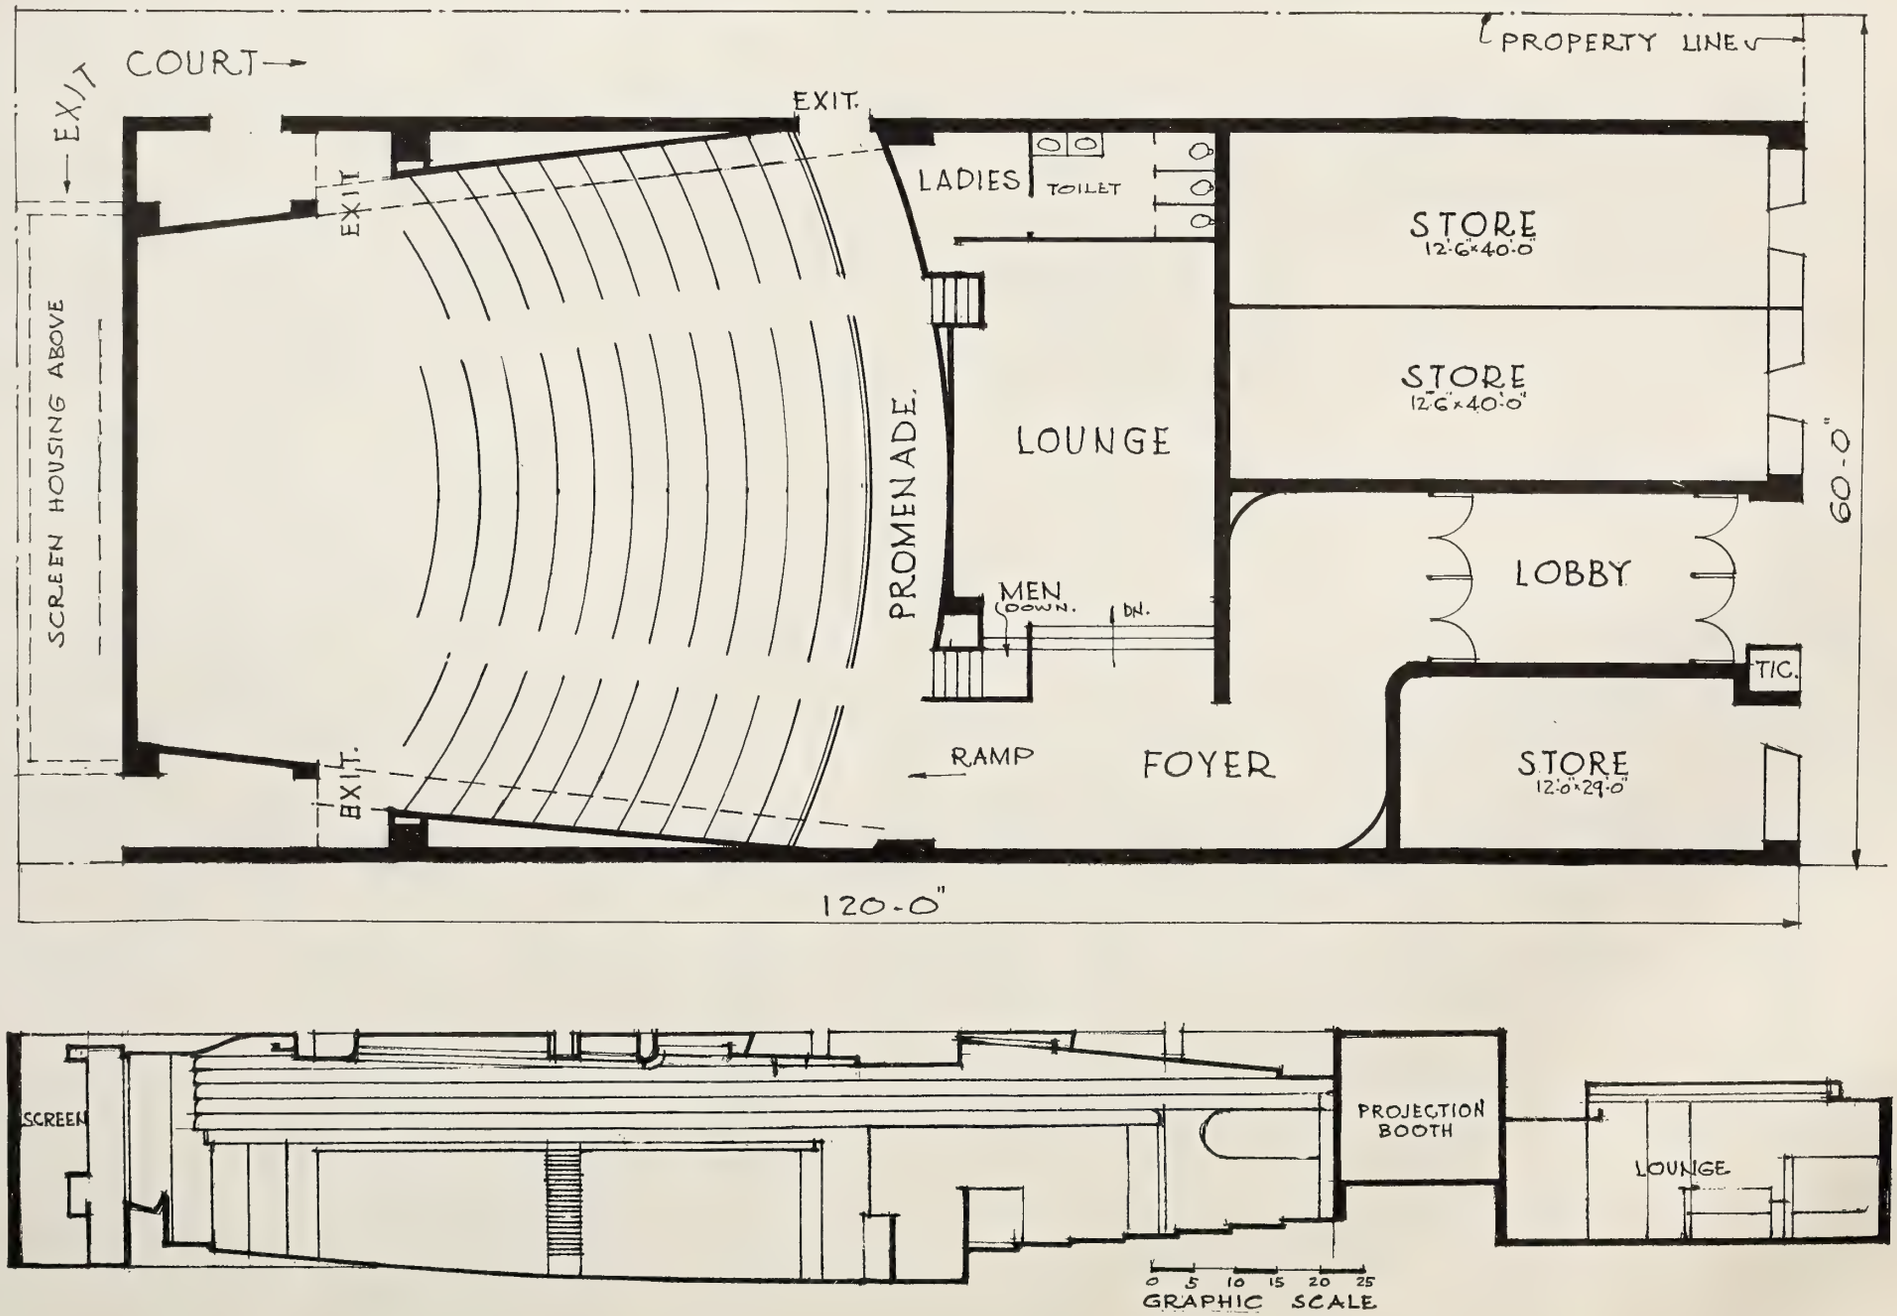
I

Hypothetical Theatre: Capacity 600

Location of the Theatre

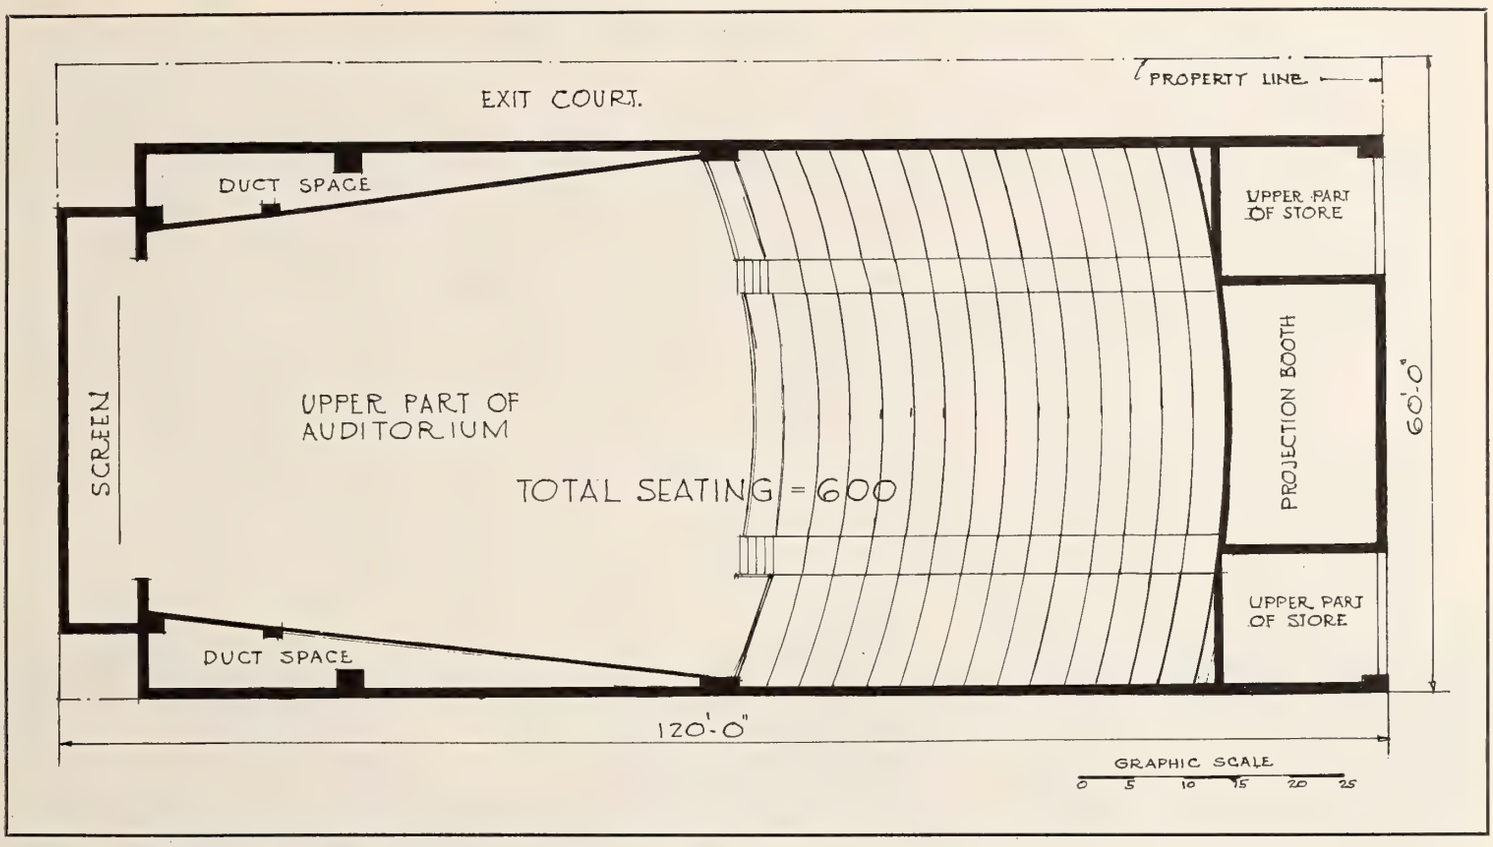
A PIECE of property measuring 60 feet on the street building line, and having a depth of 120 feet is made the subject of experimentation for this small theatre. The plot selected is an interior one (in preference to corner plot, which would be more costly). A plot of such size and location is commonly found in almost any locality. Although 7½ feet of the street frontage is devoted to an outlet for the exterior exit court (in the illustrated plan), a right of way, or open passage, in the rear of some adjoining property, can sometimes be obtained at a very reasonable cost and thereby make it necessary to have just so much less street frontage—or the frontage could be used for one or more stores or similar non-theatrical enterprises.

Plot Coverage by Theatres and Stores



The actual size of the building on this plot would be 52½x112½ feet. An overhanging screen housing is constructed on a set of simple cantilever beams allowing exit passage beneath it and, incidentally, saving the cost of added foundation walls and excavation. Twenty percent of the area of the plot is devoted to stores on the street front. The upper portion of the theatre is built directly over stores, theatre entrance, a lounge and toilet rooms, thus using the front half of the property to a greater advantage. The stores could produce an income which would substantially reduce the rental to be paid for the theatre portion.

Height of Structure



By employing a reversed floor slope in the front portion of the theatre, a minimum height of structure is possible. An average height of 24 feet above the ground, which includes the stores, lounge room, etc., is an economical height, especially when provision is made for a screen as high as 15 feet. It is important to keep all masonry walls and piers as low as possible to reduce their thickness.

Excavation and Foundation Walls

Construction work below the grade level is costly, and so every effort is made in this plan to eliminate as much of it as is possible. With the exception of a boiler and fan room and cellar space that might be needed for the stores, this plan keeps most of the work above grade. The small amount of excavated earth could be used for filling in at the front part of the theatre. The cost of excavating, and of

MAIN FLOOR PLAN and LONGITUDINAL SECTION. A SMALL CINEMA BY BEN SCHLANGER, ARCHITECT

UPPER AUDITORIUM PLAN. A SMALL CINEMA BY BEN SCHLANGER, ARCHITECT

foundation walls and carting away earth, is thereby kept down to an absolute minimum.

Masonry Walls and Structural Supports

Since all the walls are quite low, there is no need for any steel column supports. There are numerous places where small brick piers could be concealed to support the main roof supports. The brick walls, which separate the theatre from the stores, serve a double purpose. Most building codes call for these walls. These walls are used to break up the span of the supporting beams of the upper level of seating, thus making possible the use of lighter steel supports, which allow for better headroom in the room below.

The width of this structure makes it possible to use standard rolled sections of steel beams for the roof supports. Throughout the entire structure there is no need for specially fabricated steel or truss work. This simple structural setup makes it feasible to use steel insead of wood supports without much difference in cost.

Seating and Sight Lines

A small theatre cannot afford to have a single poor seat in it. A seating capacity is only as large as the amount of usable seats available. The following considerations were given special care in this plan for seating:

(1) No seat is too close to the screen.

(2) No seat is at a level too much above the level of the screen.

(3) Head lifting in the front ten rows is entirely eliminated.

(4) Sitting in the upper level does not require bending forward in the seat.

(5) There is no center aisle walking to disturb seated patrons.

(6) The promenade is located centrally to distribute traffic equally.

(7) The promenade is at a low enough level to keep the traffic on it from disturbing those seated in the upper level.

(8) The two separate groups of seating are equally desirable and tend to make for a more intimate quality.

(9) All seats are accessible without stair climbing.

(10) The seats are at least two feet, 10 inches back to back.

(11) No seat is less than 21 inches wide.

(12) The last row of seats is not too far from the screen.

(13) There are no seats too far to one side of the screen.

(14) Drafts and outside street noises are kept away from all seats by a turn that has been arranged in the shape of the entrance lobby.

Lounging and Rest Rooms

A well placed and easily accessible lounge room of a good size is a worthwhile added attraction in the small theatre. It increases the capacity of the theatre because it will hold waiting patrons far more effectively than the outside lobby or the promenade behind the seats. The lounge room in this plan is provided for without eating up any otherwise usable space. The women's room is properly placed. The men's room is just half-a-floor below the lounge level. Without much additional cost, these added features can be made part of the small theatre to great advantage.

Projection and Screen

The reverse floor slope, the high position of the screen, and the low position of the projection room allows for ideal projection, which has practically a straight horizontal throw. A picture as large as 15x25 feet is provided in the housing.

Acoustics

The main form of this theatre is usually a good form for acoustics. Its size is also in its favor in this respect. However, there is no auditorium that does not need some acoustical treatment. Acoustic material along certain surfaces is necessary, while certain other effects on furred walls, with air space behind, have been found highly desirable. There is no great cost in providing for good acoustics and therefore they should not be neglected.

Air Conditioning

A reversible air conditioning system for summer and winter is a great asset. Systems economical enough for the small theatre are available. Direct heating or makeshift fan blowers are past history. Money spent on good air conditioning is well spent and is sure to bring a return. It is just as important in the small theatre as it is in the large one.

Interior Finish and Decoration

The great mistake of spending too much money on unnecessary decorations and

(Continued on page 138)

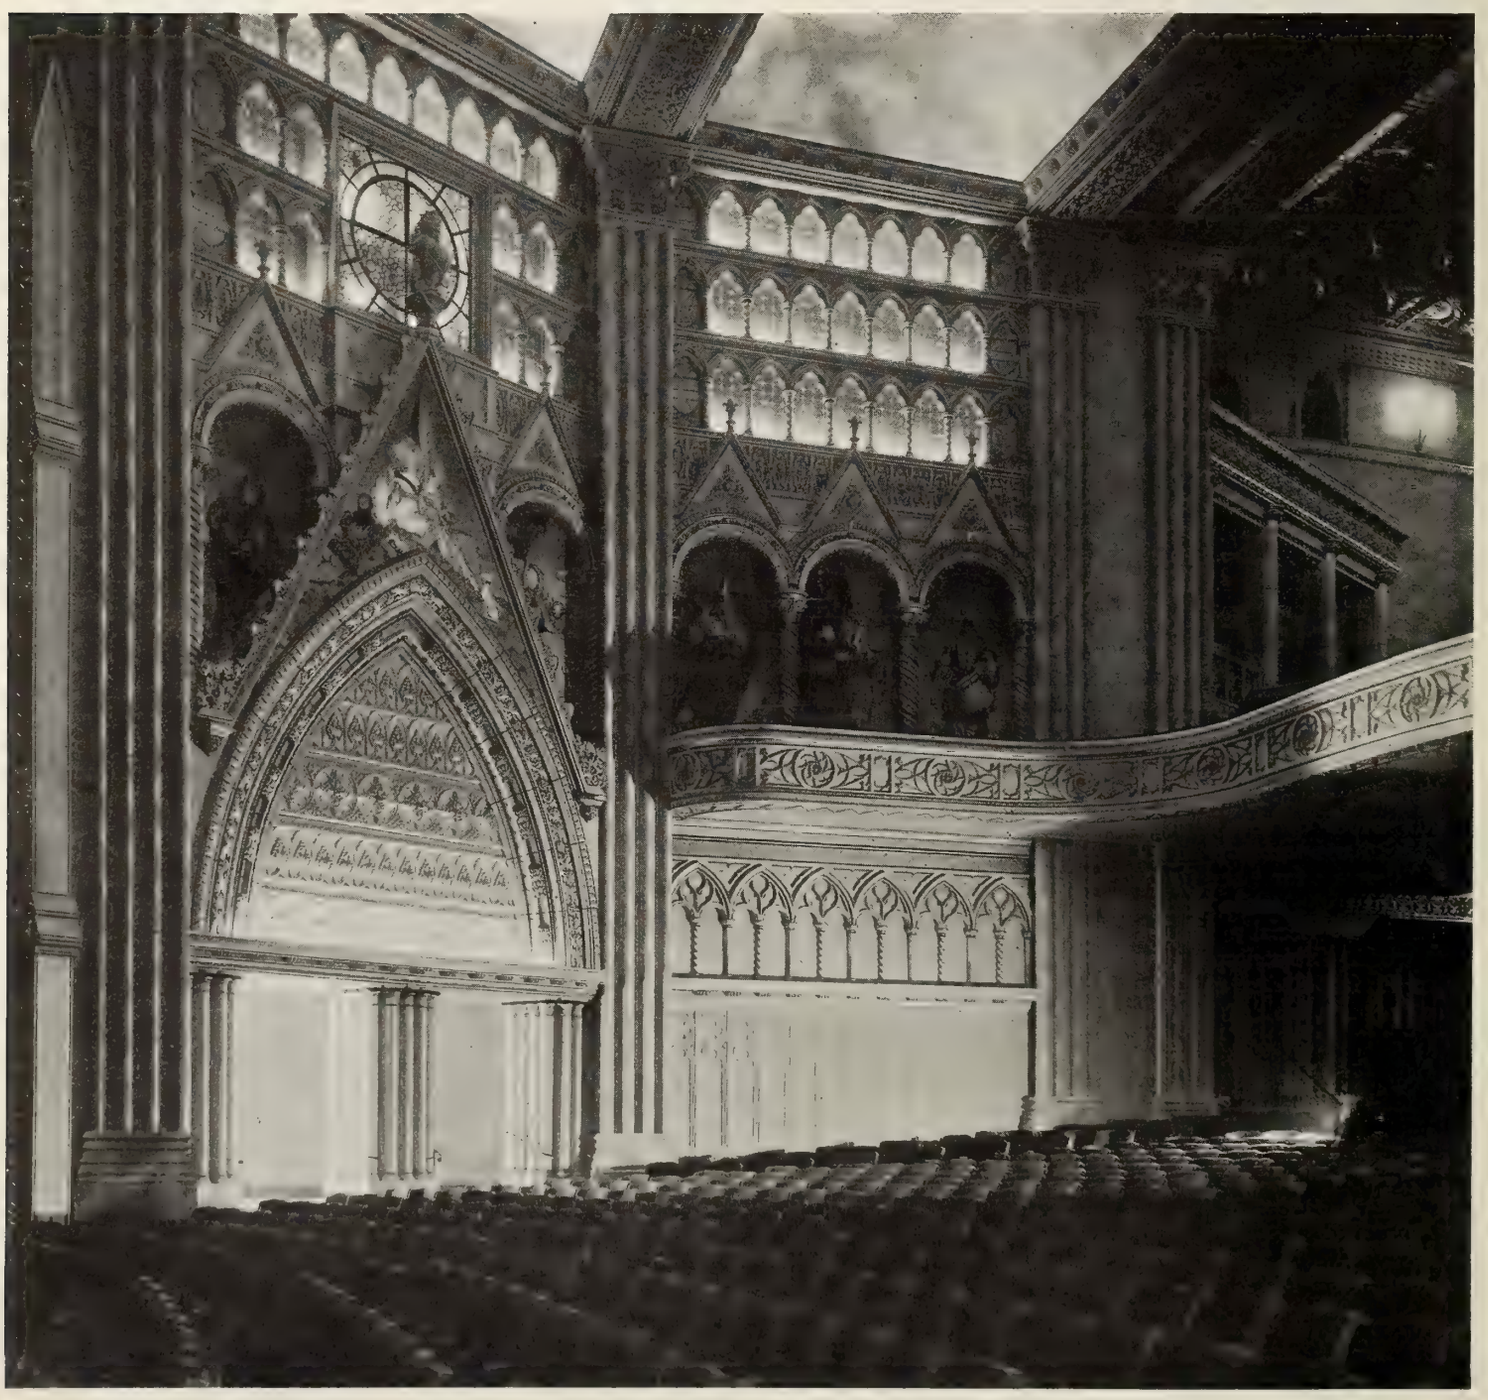
TWO NEW CIRCUIT THEATRES IN ENGLAND

One of them a provincial addition to Paramount's group in that country . . . the other Bernstein's Granada in suburban London, seating 4,000.

By W. H. MOORING



The Paramount

TO the Paramount British chain has been added another "million dollar" theatre, which, without issuing any challenge on artistic grounds to the conventional-minded, certainly sounds a warning, on commercial grounds, to the owners of more antiquated theatres already established in Newcastle, the Northern industrial town which Paramount has chosen for its location.

Seating 2,600—a large capacity for provincial centers even in these days—it resembles in exterior form, the Paramount theatre opened in Manchester last year. There are, however, certain refinements inside which represent an advance on the degree of comfort and luxury which Paramount attained in that earlier undertaking.

Rich ornamentation of the Baroque style has been selected for the Newcastle theatre, modern interpretations being applied with a freedom that would not be permissible in a theatre of smaller dimensions.

View of the Granada auditorium toward right forward wall.

View of the Paramount auditorium toward the left and rear.

Colors utilized in the decorative scheme are principally blues, buffs and deep rose tints, with occasional splashes of gold and silver. Exquisite effects have been obtained by free paintings on the walls contributed by skilled artists.

Around the main auditorium are no fewer than sixteen deep terra-cotta silk panels relieved with paintings of figures and foliage in the tradition of the period. These panels were executed in London and transported to the site ready for fixing to the auditorium walls. There they tone beautifully with the richly ornate proscenium arch and with the mouldings that embellish the ceiling.

The construction of the main theatre is on the same lines as that of the Plaza, London, and other of the Paramount theatres. That is to say, there are three floor levels, with stall, royal and grand circle, and a balcony. Throughout all, in addition to the painted panel treatment, there has been a fairly unrestrained use of Dutch metalling.

The building is chiefly of steel and concrete, and special fire provisions are met by the unique construction of the projection room, which has walls nearly two feet thick, with portholes of fire-resisting glass.

Lighting approximating 1,000,000 candle power is called for throughout the house, wall chandeliers augmenting at frequent intervals the overhead chandeliers in the auditorium, while other mass lighting is used on the front of the house.

A novel feature—in that part of the country—is a women's cosmetic room, a richly decorated place in which modernistic designs, both in carpeting and wall treatment, provide a contrast from the more conventional execution of the adjoining theatre and vestibules. Fittings in the foyers and vestibules are in gold-plated metal to resist the tarnishing effects peculiar to the atmosphere in this district.

The walls of the lobby are transformed into a veritable art gallery. Over £3,000 is the value placed upon original works hanging there.

The outside of the theatre is notable for its boldness, the facade being carried out in stone, with a central light sign 50 feet in height cutting a way vertically from the roof line to the top of the main entrance canopy. This sign carries constantly changing colored letters spelling Paramount.

In effect, the theatre repeats that appeal to public tastes which the Paramount theatres in London and Manchester have already made, and which has established them as recognized centers, eminent in their own territories. Unlike the Paramount Astorias in London, which were acquired and not built by the company, the new Newcastle theatre makes for richness and comfort, without striving for the sensational.

The Granada

SIDNEY BERNSTEIN, whose company, Bernstein Theatres, Ltd., has just opened the Granada at Tooting in suburban London, is reputed to be among the most "highbrow" of the "highbrows" in the British cinema world. His reputation will not suffer if, as has been suggested, highbrowism is principally a question of inventing new extremes. The Granada, another 4,000-seater added to the growing chain of supers which surround the more central regions of the metropolis, is a terrific example in extremes.

The women's lounge of the Paramount theatre.

It is a cathedral with the garishness of the circus. It is, it would seem to some a wild experiment in modernistic decoration applied to medieval architecture. To those whose senses respond to a subordination of the dignified to the onrushing influences of the revolutionist, the Granada will come as a joy.

To the great public which this theatre will serve, it will be none of these things, but just an amazing temple of light, lavishness and color. Cecil Masey, the architect, designed a palace—austere, impressive, far from pure Gothic tradition, but sufficiently like a cathedral to be sedate.

But Theodore Komisarjevsky, a Russian designer, splashed on the colors of the dawn, the sunset and the trees, of the flowers, the hills and of the seas, and awakened this mass of austerity into a vivid, aye, hectic, and even a hair-raising thing. Like a thoroughbred descended from all other thoroughbreds, the Granada has characteristics of many other theatres, yet looks like none of them. Yet I like this place, as many others will. I like it for its daring renunciation of all those things from which it has borrowed. It is a beautiful mongrel—sort of a Bolshevist's dream of architectural and decorative commensalism.

At the exterior, the Granada lacks distinction, except that which is normally attained by overwhelming size. A wide sweeping flight of steps leads to three sets of swinging doors, which give access to a very large square foyer. Straight ahead are the main doors leading to the lower part of the auditorium, cloakrooms being located on either side of these doors.

Once inside the stalls area, one's attention is held principally by the massive weight of the ceiling, which forms the underneath of the circle above. Pictures convey very adequately this sense of heaviness, but they do not convey any idea of the effect which has been achieved by the enthusiastic application of color to this ornate surface treatment. Gilt is generously used everywhere as a basic coloring, with many of the bold cross lines of the ceiling picked out in vari-colored decorative mouldings—jazz tracings on the somberness of a church!

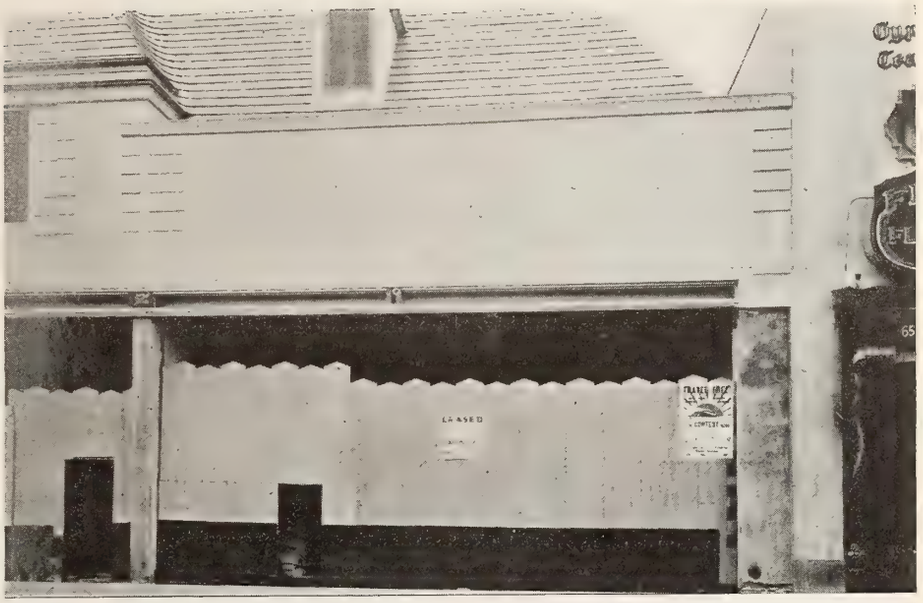
If we turn back and make, by way of the stairway—either side of the foyer will do—to the circle, we shall come at the top upon reflections of ourselves cast in a one-piece mirrored wall. Here we twist sharply to the left and pass into the "cloisters." Not the kind of cloisters that suggest a medieval monastery, but cloisters carpeted in pink, with mirrors reflecting our images again, this time from niches flooded with light shed by electric lamps set in wrought iron units!

And then we turn again, this time right, into the vast auditorium. Over the balcony is a still heavier coffered ceiling, which seems a mass of swirling, writhing metal shining in every hue of copper silver and gold.

To the front of the balcony this ceiling gives way to a sea-green sky complete with clouds of dove gray. Even this is slashed across the center by a boldly ornate cross beam, which rests on a continuous column down the wall on either side of the building.

At the top of the auditorium, on either side, are three rows of small stained "windows." They are without glass, but they shed a bright light. Beneath them are walls of great richness, with Gothic arches and pillars recalling the Pantheon of Rome. At either side, nearer to the proscenium arch, are tall, pointed windows with tiny, colored panes, and from above them is another cross beam to cut the open sky.

The 58-foot stage opening is notable for the beauty of its carved pendant screen—a truly church-like embellishment, which somehow seems to have escaped the vigorous brush of the colorist. The stage has a depth of over 30 feet. The curtain is of delicate beige silk, with a restrained decorative motif running across the base.



A Wurlitzer organ—one of the largest yet constructed—has a specially designed console that harmonizes with the surroundings, and this rises on an elevator at the center of the orchestra pen. The latter is enclosed by a screen reminiscent of choir stalls, carrying still further the general architectural scheme.

THE FEATURES OF AN AUTOMATIC CINEMA

as found in the Studio theatre

By S. CHARLES LEE

THEATRE ARCHITECTURE as it stands today is far different from that of even a few years ago. Theatre design and construction has followed the trend of the times, having become a highly specialized art requiring a thorough technical and aesthetic knowledge in order to house the component parts and present the ultimate medium of expression in the theatre arts. This knowledge must be flexible and appreciative so as to take advantage of the constant technical and artistic developments and incorporate them into the unusual problems and conditions which are continuously presented to the architect. The Studio theatre in Los Angeles is a timely example. When the Hughes-Franklin circuit commissioned me to convert a 30x100-foot unoccupied store into this small, quite unique motion picture theatre, embodying many extraordinary features, versatility and considerable ingenuity were paramount.

The building that was to house the Studio.

The showmanship psychology of this project was to build a small theatre that could be operated with a minimum of help and expense, but still not give the impression of a "shooting gallery," or the old store front theatre of nickelodeon days. Extreme care had to be exercised to design a front which would attract. It had to be clean-cut. The size had to be made to appear larger than the actual footage, and it had to be designed to look like a theatre, having proper bulletin frame capacity without a billboard appearance.

This particular house seats 303, although the scheme is very flexible. The size of the house in this instance serves to minimize the operating personnel, requiring only a cashier, projectionist and a manager, who also acts as usher or host, the result being that not only the initial cost but the continued operating cost represents but a negligible investment.

The same building with its new occupant.

THE TRANSFORMATION from a store to a theatre involved considerable forethought and knowledge of the engineering phase of construction. In this project, in the space now occupied by the auditorium, the floor was lowered for proper gradient and sight lines, necessitating the underpinning of footings at the adjoining stores. Rear exit passages were provided below the horn space at the stage and through a store at the rear, to the street. The auditorium walls were treated with acoustic material for proper sound reception, and as in other parts of the theatre, illumination was provided at the walls and ceiling by means of continuous recessed lighting strips in lieu of the usual hanging fixtures, to further the modernistic design.

As this original store building had no basement, and as some such provision for housing an up-to-date air conditioning system was necessary, a basement below the street front sidewalk was provided. To exploit this feature, clear glass panels—of 1-inch plate glass—were provided in the

(Continued on page 138)

THE VENDING MACHINE IN THE THEATRE

creating a source of added income

By O. C. LIGHTNER

A CONSIDERABLE yearly revenue has been found to accrue from dignified automatic devices installed in the lobby and lounges of theatres. The most prolific revenue has been from the 5c. and 10c. candy machines, which are now seen in almost every theatre. Thousands of patrons daily pass by these machines with such a resulting patronage that they have been known to make several hundred dollars per month, a fair portion of which goes to the theatre owner. Most of these machines are installed by vending machine operators. This is the best system, because the theatre owner need not worry about servicing and maintaining the machines.

The vending machine operator is a man who owns from 50 to 1000 machines placed in various locations. For this privilege, he buys, installs and services the machines, giving from 10% to 50% of the intake, or receipts, to the theatre owner.

Candy bar machine operators pay from 10% to 25%, according to the nature of the goods vended.

Gum machine operators will give from 20% to 30%.

Scale operators will give 40% to 50%.

There are a number of other machines which can be placed profitably in theatre lobbies. Most of them are along the line of small amusement machines that take in pennies, but vend no merchandise, leaving the operator free to give as much as 50% to the theatre owner. In the rest rooms, free service is not expected in many places.

Right now you may vend paper towels for one cent, or use an electric hand-dryer operated by a coin. Then there are perfume machines, sanitary napkin machines and numerous other kinds.

Theatre owners make a mistake in buying their own machines, for the reason that they will find them more or less of a nuisance to service and keep in order. The operation of vending machines has proved from many years of experience to be an operators' proposition. Operators learn their machines, they keep them in order, they look after the servicing of them, and take this trouble away from the owner.

WE CAN visualize in the larger motion picture houses of the future at least 25 vending machines serving various purposes. Some of the New York theatres have even found a 25c. coin-operated photographing machine a profitable accessory placed just off the lobby. To a degree it is entertainment. Then there is the wonderful machine that Al H. Woods brought out. The patron simply drops a coin in the slot, acts before the camera any way he wants, and in a minute or two out comes a motion picture film of him.

It is interesting to note that some of the big film magnates of today were at one time operators of coin-machines before the days of motion pictures. Marcus Loew got his start that way. They were operators of the old penny-in-the-slot machines in New York before they became movie producers. These modernized machines still find lucrative use, and placed in the rest rooms and foyers of a theatre, offer opportunities for several hundred dollars a month income in a business way, something like the sideshow auxiliary of the circus.

The lobby and foyer space of the new Studio theatre in Los Angeles is a striking example of such application of automatic sales equipment, and in this house we probably have exemplified how vending and other similar machines can be interestingly, logically and profitably identified with the whole unique makeup of these intimate theatres like the Studio.

The very largest of theatres, however, have found automatic sales and novelty equipment just as adaptable and really popular with the public. Hundreds of Paramount Publix houses, for example, are so equipped, and the experience of that vast circuit is therefore especially significant.

Publix theatres have had vendors installed for nearly two years now. It was with great hesitation that they were tried. Finally a manufacturer of such equipment "sold" them the idea of giving candy dispensing machines a trial—machines that would be designed to harmonize decoratively with the surroundings—and as a result of this test, about a thousand candy vending machines are today operating profitably in more than 600 Publix theatres, including the finest of them.

That circuit's experience with a penny scale was along similar lines. This type of automatic auxiliary sales equipment was first tried out at the Paramount theatre in Times Square, New York. Two machines were installed, rather cautiously, for they were not placed in prominent places, but rather in the toilet rooms. The tickets released carried also fortunes and pictures of motion picture stars. Despite the out-of-the-way location for the scales, they averaged about $3 a day. Now this same theatre has ten such scales in daily operation, and there are 1,200 of them installed over the circuit.

Actually advertised as a novelty attraction, was the photographing machine that Paramount brought over from France. This was the Melograph, and Paramount had tried it out in its Paris house before installation at the Paramount theatre in New York. The machine was placed on the mezzanine floor, and by means of screen trailers, patrons were told of it and urged to examine the interesting device.

The equipment available today will probably be greatly augmented as time goes on. During only the last few years, a great many new types of vendors have been created.

IN A SENSE, the automatic "salesman" is expressive of this age. Things are done by machinery today. This is the Machine Age. Once vending machines were looked upon with some disdain, called "slot machines" and thought to be cheapening to a dignified establishment. Just so the railroad was once thought a blight upon the countryside, and the stage coach defended as more "genteel." Today the Machine is looked upon as a symbol of our particular genius, and it is accepted as our better way of doing things.

Already under way are experiments likely to make the vending machine absolutely slug-proof. The petty dishonesty of some people, and especially the mischievousness of small boys, has been somewhat of a nuisance in the operation of vendors. But there is enough difference between the composition of coins and slugs to make the machine itself detect the slug, whereupon it will refuse to work. And perhaps some day we can evolve a machine that will not only refuse to work for a slug, but will reach a long grasping bar out, and seize the culprit and call the police!

But the bothersome slug is not active enough to be a menace to highly profitable machine operation, and as new types are developed—for the motion picture theatre, probably to a great extent in the realm of novelties—we may expect the automatic "salesman" to realize more and larger opportunities to turn in those extra pennies and nickels to the theatre owner—without drawing a salary!

Grand Staircase in Lobby
PHOENIX THEATRE
Phoenix, Ariz.
S. Charles Lee, Architect

DESIGN of motion picture theatres during the last half-year has shown two distinct tendencies, and in both, it has been associated more closely than ever with the smaller and medium-sized house. One trend is new only in the greater degree to which it has been pursued—that toward an attempt to reconcile the basic severity of modern ("modernistic") motifs to physical luxury and a spirit of fantasy. The other presents a type extremely small, taking full advantage of "modernistic" prerogatives permitting reduction of decoration to the minimum, and deliberately adapted to space in an already built, non-theatrical building. Many other examples than those shown could well have been chosen had space permitted. These, however, probably indicate the trend.

RECENT CREATIONS in THEATRE DESIGN

Above:
PHOENIX THEATRE
Phoenix, Ariz.
S. Charles Lee, Architect

Left:
STUDIO THEATRE
Los Angeles, Cal.
S. Charles Lee, Architect

facades

Above:
WARNER THEATRE
Beverly Hills, Cal.
B. Marcus Priteca, Architect

Right:
WESTERN THEATRE
Los Angeles, Cal.
G. Alfred Lansburgh, Architect

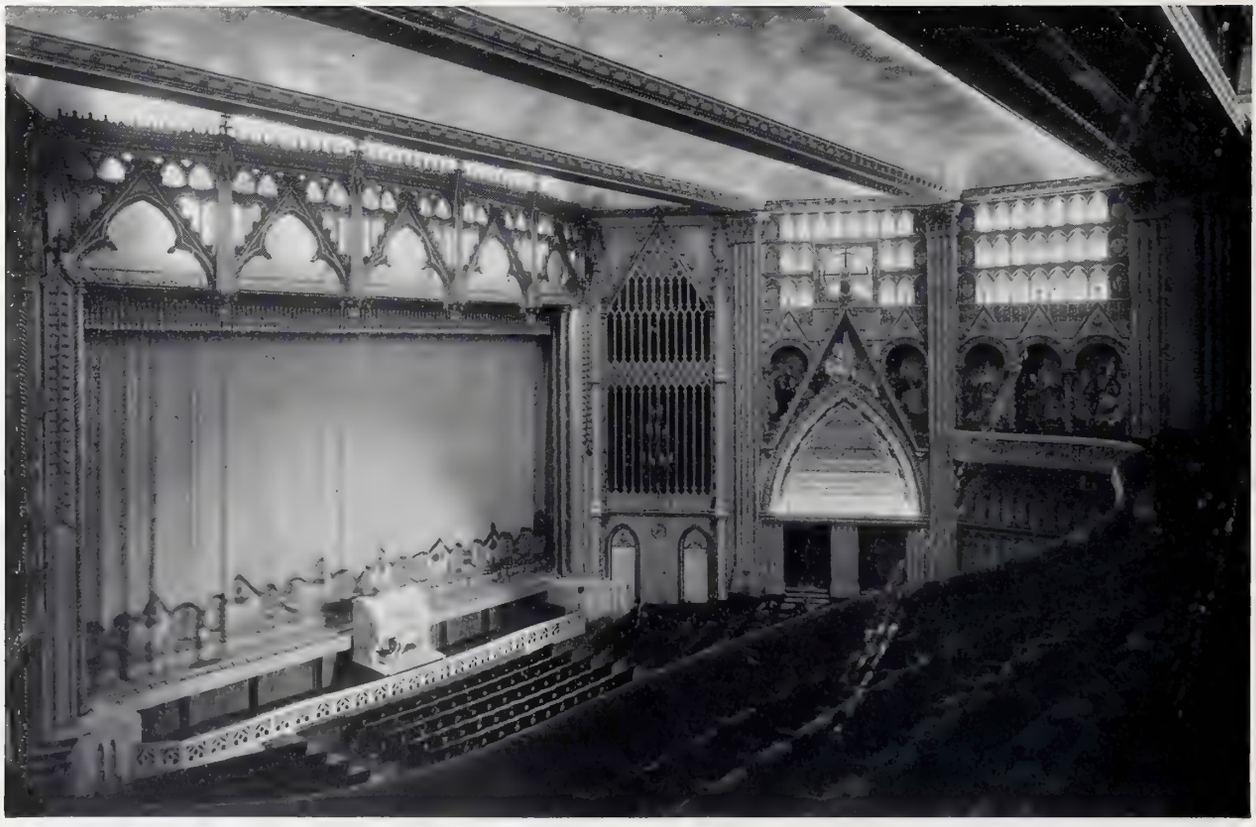
lounges

NORTOWN THEATRE, Chicago, Ill. J. E. O. Pridmore, Architect

WESTWOOD THEATRE, Westwood Village, Cal. P. P. Lewis, Architect

foyers

WARNER THEATRE, San Pedro, Cal. B. Marcus Priteca, Architect



ARLINGTON THEATRE, Santa Barbara, Cal. Edwards & Plunkett, Architects

foyers

TRANS-LUX THEATRE, New York, N. Y. L. E. Denslow, Architect. Thomas W. Lamb, associate

GRANADA THEATRE, London, England. Cecil Masey Architect

auditoriums

ARLINGTON THEATRE, Santa Barbara, Cal. Edwards & Plunkett, Architects

FOX THEATRE, Bakersfield, Cal. S. Charles Lee, Architect

auditoriums

Upper view:
WARNER THEATRE
Morgantown, W. Va.
John Eberson, Architect

auditoriums

Lower view:
GUILD HALL
East Hampton, N. Y.
Aymar Embury, Architect

RIGHTS OF LABOR: RECENT COURT DECISIONS

late cases analyzed for theatre operators

By LEO T. PARKER

VARIOUS COURTS have held that theatre employes may engage in a boycott to induce others interested in or sympathetic with their cause to withdraw their social intercourse and business patronage from the employer. Such employes may go even further than this, and request of another that he withdraw his patronage from the employer, and may use the moral intimidation and coercion of threatening a like boycott against him if he refuses so to do.

On the other hand, it is important to know that an ordinance is valid and enforceable which prohibits picketing. For instance, in People V Armentrout, (1 P. [2d] 556), it was shown that the city of Los Angeles enacted an ordinance, as follows:

"It shall be unlawful for any person, in or upon any public street, alley or public place in the City of Los Angeles, to speak in a loud or unusual tone for the purposes of inducing or influencing, or attempting to induce or influence, any person to refrain from entering any works or factory or any place of business or employment . . . . . ."

The motion picture projectionists' union was engaged in a controversy with the proprietor of the Rialto theatre, who had locked out the members of the union whom he had previously employed. A labor newspaper company published an edition having on its front page in large type headlines: "Trade Unionists and their families and friends will need no further information to have them decide that they do not patronize the Rialto theatre because it is on the unfair list of Organized Labor."

The newspaper boys were stationed near the theatre and yelled "Rialto unfair to labor." The person who employed the newsboys was arrested and convicted of violating the above ordinance and fined $325. An appeal was made to the higher court on the grounds that the conviction was illegal because they were merely selling newspapers and that the newsboys had a right to yell headlines of the papers being sold. However, it is interesting to observe that the higher court sustained the lower court's conviction, and said:

"We conclude that neither the sale of the newspaper, nor its display, would constitute a violation of the ordinance. Nor would it be a violation of the ordinance to cry out the headlines, as a part of an appeal to buy the newspapers . . . . . Howeveh, there is evidence in the record which shows clearly that the newsboys in calling out did not always use the phrase 'Rialto Theatre unfair to labor' in conjunction with an appeal to read or buy 'The Los Angeles Citizen.' There is evidence in the record that the reference to the newspaper was omitted altogether. The words 'Rialto theatre unfair to labor,' thus became words intended to achieve the result denounced in the ordinance, and charged in the complaint. And the mere fact that, at the same time, the newspaper may have been exhibited, does not change the character of the words . . . . . In interpreting the ordinance, it is well to bear in mind that courts have recognized the right of workmen engaged in industrial disputes to appeal to others in sympathy with their cause by spreading the news of this dispute. Whatever be the loss the employer may suffer from the social pressure resulting from this appeal, he cannot complain. . . . . It must be evident that, by the enactment of the ordinance against picketing, the council of the City of Los Angeles intended to punish not the mere doing of certain acts, but the doing thereof, with the specific purpose (i. e., intent) there denounced, namely, to induce or influence persons to refrain from entering a place of business, or from trading therein, or workmen from working or offering to work therein."

Certain Union Practices Valid

AS PREVIOUSLY STATED, it seems well settled that employes may legally unionize for their mutual protection, and that they may for themselves conclude what acts and things are for their economic welfare. Moreover, they may enforce their demands by strikes if they violate no contracts of employment, and they may peaceably and without threats or intimidation induce others to do so, if no contractual rights are violated, and no law prohibits such acts. The fact that an employer may be affected unfavorably by the regulations of the union does not render it unlawful. So held the higher Court in the recent case of Bayer V Brotherhood of America, (154 Atl. 759).

The facts of this case are that a union placed an employer on the unfair list and attempted to collect fines levied upon the employer's employes and performed other acts customary with unions under similar circumstances. However, no threats or other violent means were used by the union to compel the employer to meet the demands. The employer filed suit against the union and asked for an injunction to prevent the union from continuing its practice. In refusing to grant the injunction, the court said:

"Ordinarily, when such a combination of persons does not use violence, actual or threatened, to accomplish their purpose, it is difficult to point out with clearness the illegal means or end which makes the combination an unlawful conspiracy; for it is generally lawful for the combiners to withdraw their intercourse and its benefits from any person, and to announce their intention of doing so, and it is equally lawful for the others, of their own motion, to do that which the combiners seek to compel them to do. In the instant case, there is no charge that defendants have resorted to violence or threatened violence."

Legal Status of Amusements

IT IS GENERALLY conceded that the erection by a municipality of museums, art gallaries, zoological and botanical gardens, conservatories, auditoriums, veterans' memorial halls, tennis courts, swimming pools, and the like, has not been regarded and generally recognized as ancillary to the complete enjoyment by the public of the property set apart for their benefit.

For example, in Schmoldt V City of Oklahoma City, (291 Pac. 119), it was shown that certain citizens filed suit against a municipality to prevent use of money by the officials who intended to construct a place of amusement and public benefit. It was contended that since the bonds were issued under the provisions of a state constitution, which authorized sale of bonds for public parks, such money may not be extended for special purposes.

In holding the city within its legal rights to expend the money, this court said:

"The only question for us to determine is whether or not the City of Oklahoma City has a right to use any portion of the funds, derived from the sale of the bonds voted to purchase or maintain a park. . . . . As said before, if a city may use a portion of such funds for building sidewalks around, walks and driveways through its park for the amusement of the public, we see no good reason for holding the city cannot expend a part of its funds for the pleasure and amusement of the public."

(Continued on page 119)

MODERN SEATING AND CHAIR MAINTENANCE

I.—Introduction: Major Problems

By REUBEN A. NYHAGEN

This is the first of a series of six articles dealing with all the major factors influencing proper seating today of the motion picture theatre—in selection, installation, maintenance and refurnishing. The articles will be presented in consecutive issues of Better Theatres. Regarding the author, the reader is referred to "Notes on Writers and Subjects in This Issue."

A TIMID, comfort-loving patron of one of our prominent theatres who, like many others, was averse to making complaint, was stopped upon his departure from the theatre by the manager, and inquiry was made of him as to the evening's entertainment. "The show was splendid," he remarked. Then it came to him to add, "But if you've got a couple of good crutches, I'll manage to transport this tired and sore carcass of mine to a comfortable chair at my own fireside." But—like many others—he only went on his way, not wishing to be thought a crabby eccentric. In this period of transition in architecture, comforts and convenience, the true significance of such statements (which have actually been made by more assertive patrons), should be signals for active realization that theatre seating is the "physical relax" demanded of our comfort loving public, and that it is equal in importance to the "mental relax" afforded them through showmanship.

Whether it be the seating of a new theatre, reseating, or the maintenance and alterations in seating in use, thoughts of capacity for commercial advantage at a sacrifice to proper chair widths, spacing between rows, and chair comfort, must be relegated to the past.

"General Public," in his acquisition of comforts and conveniences in his home, has transposed his affection for these same modern accommodations to his places of recreation, clubs and public buildings. He virtually demands, and is willing to pay for, the luxuries and comforts that he seeks outside the realm of those which he has conceived and which he has created in his own home.

BECAUSE OF this urge for better and more comfortable seating in theatres, our architects and manufacturers have concentrated their efforts and specialized intelligence to develop theatre chairs and theatre seating to the practical, technical and comfortable requirement of the present day theatre. Smart in appearance and design, creations have been developed in modern seating that are capable of being adjusted to correct posture and comfort. Technical improvements to insure acoustical correctness and practical development in seating arrangements, have also resulted from these efforts.

What constitutes the proper design and construction of this modern theatre chair will be dwelt upon in future articles, but while on the subject of new seating, the exhibitors should be told to bear in mind a tendency on the part of some salesmen to encourage very technical discussions for the ostensible purpose of diverting attention from inferior features of the theatre chairs they are offering. In most cases, the salesman's knowledge is very limited, and in many cases is erroneous, but he may use it either honestly or otherwise in an effort to convince the exhibitor that his product is possessed of qualities that later are non-existent.

The purchase and installation of this new type of modern, deluxe seating does not conclude the efforts of the exhibitor to satisfy the general public in regard to this important factor. The continued maintenance of this equipment after installation is equally as important, not only for preservation of the investment, but to forestall injury and accidents to the patrons, and to insure the proper mechanical operation of the seats of all chairs.

This same application of thought can be administered to chairs that are now being used in a theatre where reseating is not contemplated. A theatre chair receives less consideration and more abuse than any equipment in a theatre, and yet it serves a function that is paramount to the actual enjoyment of the entertainment.

To the average individual and exhibitor, a theatre chair is simply another individual seat, but in reality it is mechanical in operation and in its development. An exhibitor will employ one or more skilled operators to oil and adjust his projection equipment daily, yet practically no attention is given to the chairs. His investment in chairs frequently exceeds that of his entire projection equipment yet through lack of proper information or wilful neglect, the chairs are permitted to deteriorate under the constant abuse to which they are subjected.

It is not overlooked that theatre chairs in certain localities are subjected to more abuse than others. The "melting pot" of the great American Public produces the indecent and malicious, together with the intelligent and refined. Excepting wherein damage is inflicted by malicious individuals, theatres that serve either of these elements obtain very similar consequences in the use of theatre chairs.

Theatre chairs and theatre seating, while obviously related, are distinctive in what they imply. Theatre chairs relate to the actual production and manufacture of a special chair that is adapted to use in the theatre, whereas theatre seating has reference to applying this chair in suitable arrangement within the theatre, to have the correct line of vision, spacing between rows, widths of aisles and proper floor condition.

In addition to subjects treated briefly in this, the introductory article to a series of articles on theatre chairs and theatre seating, we will discuss major factors that govern correct seating and maintenance. Subsequent articles will go into detail on every phase of this important equipment of the theatre and will contain information of considerable value to the prospective purchaser of this equipment as well as to the correction or improvements to seating now installed.

Seating Arrangements

EQUALLY important to comfort in theatre chairs is the relation between the occupant of each chair to that of the screen or actor upon the stage. The major function of correct seating arrangements is to produce direct transmission of the visual, phonetic and spacial reality of the screen (or stage action) to the occupant of each chair in the theatre, and this should be equally apprehensible from all parts of the auditorium and balconies. The sight lines that determine the layout of chairs are sight lines from the spectator to the screen or stage opening. Distortions and partial visibility often result through failure to give this important factor proper consideration in the development of seating arrangements. The manufacturer of

(Continued on page 131)

MODERN PROJECTION

PROJECTION • SOUND REPRODUCTION • ACOUSTICS

SOUND CONTROL IN AIR CONDITIONING INSTALLATIONS

the technics of noise suppression

By VERN O. KNUDSEN

FUTURE developments in air conditioning and acoustics are most intimately related. Office buildings, industrial buildings, hospitals, hotels, apartment houses, and, particularly, talking picture theatres, require not only properly conditioned air, but also the adequate suppression of noise. The elimination of noise in buildings may require heavy doors and windows (perhaps double glazed or double sashed windows), or it may be necessary to dispense with the window openings altogether. The elimination of external noise in buildings, therefore, require the installation of never-failing equipment for the supply of properly conditioned air. The transmission of noise through window openings, and from room to room by way of the windows, is at present the limiting factor in the reduction of noise in buildings, and the adequate suppression of noise in buildings can not be successfully attained if it is necessary to have open windows for the purpose of ventilation.

It is obvious that the reduction of external noises in buildings will tend to focus attention upon noises which originate in air conditioning equipment, since the suppression of other disturbances will make the equipment noises much more conspicuous. Thus, the noise from a ventilating system may not be noticed in an ordinary theatre owing to the presence of other noises which mask the noise from the ventilating equipment, whereas in a sound stage, such as is used in the making of talking pictures, all other external noises have been insulated so that the noise from the ventilating equipment may seem excessively loud. It is apparent that the elimination of noises in buildings will require proper control of the noises attributable to air conditioning equipment.

Even at the present time there are installations of ventilating equipment in auditoriums the noise of which constitutes the greatest acoustical defect in the auditorium.

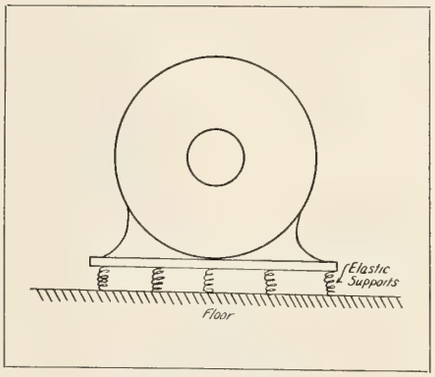

Fig. 1.—Machine insulated by means of elastic pad or supports. The natural tendency of Mass m on its elastic supports should be low in comparison with the vibrational frequencies generated by the machine. Otherwise, the supports may be worthless.

The writer was recently consulted with regard to the acoustical defects in a certain high school auditorium and found that the chief defect was caused by the noise from the ventilating fan and motor. Speech tests conducted in the empty auditorium with the fan and motor in operation showed an average speech articulation of 66%.

[Speech articulation tests are used by telephone engineers to test the speech transmission properties of telephone equipment. One person calls out meaningless monosyllabic speech sounds into a transmitter, and an observer listening with a telephone receiver writes down what he hears. By comparing his recorded list with the called one the number and nature of the errors in the recognition of speech can be determined. Similar tests can be conducted in auditoriums to determine the effects of noise or reverberation upon the hearing of speech. By conducting speech tests first in the quiet and then in the presence of a noise, such as may be produced by a ventilating fan, it is possible to determine the damage which noise does to the recognition of speech. (See V. O. Knudsen, The Hearing of Speech in Auditoriums, Journal of the Acoustical Society of America, October, 1929.]

This means that out of every 100 meaningless speech sounds that were called out by a speaker in the auditorium, only 66 were heard correctly.

When the same tests were repeated with the fan and motor shut down the percentage articulation increased to 80%. If the tests had been conducted with an audience present the percentage articulation would have been slightly higher in both tests, owing to the absorption supplied by the audience, but the interfering effect of the noise would have been fully as inimical to the hearing of speech with an audience present as it was with no audience present. Since an articulation of at least 75% is required for satisfactory hearing, it is obvious that the noise from the ventilating equipment in this auditorium was responsible for a very troublesome acoustical defect.

In the present article the writer proposes to consider the problems which arise in connection with the control of sound in relation to the air conditioning of rooms. The proper design and installation of this equipment will facilitate noiseless operation without sacrificing the efficiency of the equipment. Specifically, such problems as the insulation of solid-borne noise, the insulation of noise originating in the equipment room, the prevention of noise transmission through the ducts, the control of air currents in auditoriums, and the relation of humidity to room acoustics, will be considered in some detail, and practical methods of solving the problems which arise in typical installations will be described.

SINCE MECHANICAL vibrations are readily transmitted through the solid structure of a building, it is extremely important that all mechanical equipment used in air conditioning, in which vibrations are generated, be thoroughly insulated from the solid structure of the building. An almost universal notion prevails that the

GOLDE THREE-ALARM

Says: 1 "Get Ready!"
2 "Start Motor!"
3 "Change Over!"

You can't help but give a smooth, unbroken show with this marvelous timing device. Gives three distinct signals. You can't miss them. You can't mistake them. Good shows help the box office. Plenty of warning relieves you of worry. You don't have to watch the screen at all; a wink or sneeze can't make you miss a cue. Your machine is at full speed when wanted—no chance for slow pickup to spoil the show.

Installed in five minutes. Adjusted in five more. Never needs further attention. Never fails. Nothing to get out of order. Made of steel, bronze and duralumin finished in black crackle lacquer; outlasts the projection machine. Pays for itself in convenience in one performance. Pays for itself at the box office in a month. Write for illustrated folder with full description and moderate price.

GOLDE MFG. CO.

2013 LE MOYNE ST., CHICAGO, ILL.

RADIO-MAT
PATENTED
Mr. EXHIBITOR:
Your PUBLIC is bored with the exaggerated trailers.
A truthful message on RADIO-MAT SLIDES
will gain favor with your audience.
For sale by all leading Dealers.
RADIO-MAT SLIDE CO. MAKERS
NEW YORK
IS THE STATIONERY OF THE SCREEN

vibrations generated by machinery can be insulated from a building simply by placing a slab of cork or a layer of hair felt between the machinery and the floor of the room. If the machinery is sufficiently heavy, and the cork or felt sufficiently resilient, this expedient may suffice. On the other hand, if the machinery is not sufficiently heavy to "load" the cork or felt support to the extent that the natural frequency of the machinery on the cork or felt is low in comparison with the frequency generated by the equipment, the cork or felt may be of little avail. The insulation of vibration can be accomplished by means of suitable elastic supports or suspensions, but the design of these elastic supports should be based upon calculation rather than guesswork.

The theory of the insulation of vibration was first worked out by Soderberg. Suppose a machine of mass m be supported by an elastic pad, as shown in Fig. 1. The amount of vibratory force communicated by the machine to the floor or foundation upon which it rests will be determined by the elastic and viscous properties of the pad. The ratio of the vibratory force communicated to the floor or foundation with the machine resting upon the pad and with the machine resting directly upon the floor is given by where τ is the so called "transmissibility" of the support, c is the compliance (that is the reciprocal of the force constant), r is the mechanical resistance owing to the viscous forces within the support, and n is the frequency of vibration generated by the machine which is to be insulated—such as the commutation frequency of a motor or the blade frequency of a fan. A plot of τ as a function or frequency is shown in Fig. 2. If the pad is to be of any value in the prevention of solid-borne vibrations, the value of τ must be considerably smaller than unity. If the fundamental frequency of vibration generated by the machine happens to coincide with the natural frequency of the mass of the machine resting on the elastic pad, a condition of resonance will be established and the machine will exert a greater force upon the foundation than it would if the pad were completely removed. This is shown clearly in Fig. 2 where the resonance peak corresponds to the natural frequency of the machine mounted on the elastic support. It is necessary therefore that the elastic support be sufficiently compliant, and the mass of machine sufficiently heavy, that the natural frequency of the mass m upon its elastic support will be low in comparison with the frequencies which are generated by the machine. Thus, if the principal vibrations in the machine be of the order of 100 vibrations per second, the natural frequency of the machine mounted on its elastic support should not exceed about 20 vibrations per second.

$$\tau = \sqrt{\frac{r^2 + \dfrac{1}{4\pi^2 n^2 c}}{r^2 + \left(2\pi nm - \dfrac{1}{2\pi nc}\right)^2}}$$

If a slab of insulating material be placed under the entire foundation of a machine, as is often done in practice, it may happen that the natural frequency of the machine on its elastic support will be nearly the same as the frequencies which are to be insulated, in which case the elastic support will be worse than nothing. In general, as Equation 1 shows, both m and c should be as large as possible if the vibrations of the machine are to be effectively insulated from the solid structure of the building. Further, the machine should rest upon a very rigid floor so that the elastic yielding of the floor is prevented from communicating the machinery vibrations to the solid structure of the building.

The elastic support under the machine acts as a low-pass filter which passes all frequencies below about two times the natural Ventilating fan and motor mounted on resilient steel chairs.

PRESTIGE!

THE SIGN ABOVE THE BOX OFFICE THAT BRINGS PATRONS TO THE THEATRE!

